ASSOCIATED MENNONITE BIBLICAL SEMINARY
3 9304 01035501 5

GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA
M
Historical Library
Class No. 051 Date Received Jan. 1948
Book No. M52 Donor M.H.A.
V. 62 1947
Accession No. 39[illegible] Fund Hist.
This book should be returned at the end of 2 weeks; otherwise a fine of 2 cents a day is charged for each additional day.

TheMennonite

3145 Benham Avenue
Suite 4
Elkhart, IN 46517
Phone: 800-790-2498

AnnaG@TheMennonite.org www.TheMennonite.org

Nov. 12, 2014

Colleen McFarland,
Director of Archives and Records Management
Mennonite Church USA
1700 S Main St
Goshen, IN 46526

Dear Colleen,
We are pleased to know that Mennonite Church USA has received a grant to digitize the print files of Gospel Herald and The Mennonite.

You have our full permission to digitize all issues of The Mennonite and make them available for free, with full-text access.

Best wishes in this important endeavor.

Sincerely,

Anna Groff

Interim Editor
The Mennonite

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial 4.0 International License.
The Anabaptist Mennonite Digital Collaborative, coordinated by staff at Mennonite Church USA, Goshen College, and Anabaptist Mennonite Biblical Seminary, is working with Internet Archive to provide digital copies of this title. Please seek permission from the copyright owner if your use of this item is not permitted under the license.

Digitized by the Internet Archive
in 2015

https://archive.org/details/mennonite194762wein

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — January 7, 1947 — Number 1

Drawing through courtesy of Mary Lou Rich

Water into Wine

The way in which Jesus proved himself master of a difficult situation at the wedding in Cana is suggestive of how He can be master of conditions in the home today. Things were going wrong in that home in Cana. It looked very much as though the high expectations of those present could not be met. It looked as though there would be disappointment instead of enjoyment. Only ordinary water was available when wine was wanted. Invited to do something about the situation, Christ did not bring in wine. No, he took what was already present in the home, that is, ordinary water and transformed it into "something." He changed the ordinary to something with taste, the taste of rich, "good" wine. He transfigured the ordinary into the extraordinary.

That same thing Christ can do today with home conditions that seem to offer only disappointment instead of the much desired joy. He can take the water of ordinary home life and transform it into something with a delightful taste, enjoyed by all concerned.

He can take ordinary home life in which each member looks out mainly for himself and change it into one in which husband and wife are more concerned with each other's sense of security than with his or her own, thus making the soul of each overflow with a reassurance that can only come from making others happy.

He can take home life in which disappointments and resentments are expressed in criticism and change it into one which these are taken up quietly with God to the end that there is redemption for all.

He can take home life in which one member ignores the potentialities of the other and change it into one in which each recognizes the resources of the other and seeks to bring them to their highest development.

He can take home life soaked in self-pity and transform it into one in which the members realize that only an attitude of genuine goodwill can ever bring about the happy relationship that all desire.

He can take a home in which each member does as seems good in his own sight and change it into one in which no one thinks of solving a problem that concerns all without drawing into the solution of it the insights and interests of all concerned.

He can take home life in which the prayers are mostly self-centered and so change those who pray until they plead:

"Help me, O Lord, from day to day
To live in such a self-investing way
That even when I kneel to pray
My prayer shall be for others."

He can take a home in which there is illness that comes from a wrong spirit and change it into one in which there is health because there is inner health.

He can take a home in which the members feel compelled to look upon water as though it were wine

(Continued on page 8)

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

HOME LIFE among Mennonites can undoubtedly be strengthened even though divorce among Mennonites has been and is comparatively rare. The Mennonite heritage has made for strong family life. Since Mennonites are mostly rural, the Mennonite family has been the farm family joining together in a common purpose and work. Usually in the past Mennonite couples have had the same background. Often they have lived in the same community before and after marriage. Theirs has been a strong heritage against divorce, making for a permanency of the marriage tie. Outstanding attendance at Sunday School and Church and C. E. has been a supporting factor of happy marriages. Life out on the farm, away from the tension of the city, has undoubtedly favored an intense emotional attachment in the marriage relationship. Mennonite family life of the past was sheltered. It is less so today. Furthermore, it has been pointed out that although there is practically no divorce among Mennonites there are homes where frustration is so severe that there is no essential unity. The minister who gets close to the hearts of his people may find in his pastoral calling that family life problems are more prominent than any other kind. This would seem to suggest that the pastors of Mennonite churches should have the "know-how" of family life and should make it available through counselling and other means to those who are disappointed and blocked in family living. Here is an area where a minister can make a very real contribution to abundant living. As he heeds this opportunity so near at hand, his ministry will achieve a new mark of vitality. As he ministers expertly in this area, he will be called blessed by many.

THE JOTTINGS are a very vital part of this paper, for rather frequently one hears a reader say, "I turn to the jottings first." The motto for our church correspondents this past year was, "At least one news report every month from every church in the General Conference." Of the 126 churches which reported news thirteen reported twelve or more times during the year. These thirteen were: First Church, Nappanee, Indiana; Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon; Gospel Mennonite, Mountain Lake, Minnesota; First Church, Beatrice, Nebraska; First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho; Deep Run Church, Deep Run, Pa.; Bethel College Church; Bethel Church, Fortuna, Missouri; Fairfield Church, Fairfield, Pa.; First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas; and First Church of Christian Mennonite, Moundridge, Kansas; Menno Church, Lind, Washington; and Johannestal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas. Of the 163 churches on our list 126 reported a total of 750 jottings. Thus the jottings section carried about sixty-two church news reports a month or about thirteen a week. Months with the largest number of jottings ranged as follows: February 77, April 71, June 69, Nov. 64. The lowest were March and July. We hope that in 1947 over half of the General Conference churches will send in one news report at least every month. As churches appoint news reporters or correspondents and give these the proper encouragement we ought to be able to develop a jottings section that will be of even greater interest than heretofore.

THAT PACIFISM is realism of the right kind is substantiated by such factors as the failure of the Morgenthau plan. This failure is discussed in the following editorial taken from "Between the Lines":

"When the Morgenthau Plan for reducing Germany to a pastoral nation by dismantling and removing all German industrial wealth and equipment was first inaugurated, many of the spiritual leaders of America protested. These Christian voices were severely criticized and condemned. The hot and breathy hate specialists, who were then so vociferous in our national affairs, called them numbskulls, told them they didn't know anything about the situation and to stick to their Sunday school lessons.

"Now the whole Morgenthau plan has been abandoned as a despicable misconception of justice and as impractical and unworkable as well. This shows that our Christian leaders do not need to stick to their Sunday school lessons as much as some of our political leaders need to start going to Sunday school."

Love is a difficult way, but it is less costly than the way of hate. In the short run it seems so foolish to many as to be a stumbling block, but in the long run love seems more sensible than hate.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

M 1947
051 vol 62
M52

Ten Ways To Keep a Wife

(1) Respect: Let the life of your loved one be ever and always sacred to you. Her sacredness kept vividly before you will prompt the exercise of respect, appreciation, and co-operation—the vitamins of married life. One wife who sat in the interview room seemed just a girl. She had been married only a year and a half. There was a real reason for her dejection. The husband, who only a few months earlier seemed bursting with pride in her vowing undying love, now spent his night in the bright spots, and made no bones about the fact that there were other women. There was so much of personal humiliation about the whole affair. She no longer had his respect and that hurt her pride. He had lost the sense of the sacredness of marriage and of his wife.

(2) Keep sensitive to her spiritual moods and needs. Feel with her the experiences of disappointment or of exceptional burden which come her way. Do not fail her by adding either a harsh word or a listless spirit to the condition of depleted nerves after a bad day. If a word of criticism is necessary in order to clear the way for understanding, choose an appropriate time for the expression of it. Know her temperament and her moods and help her to be her best self. Provide the cushioning of considerateness so essential in times of nervous and emotional exhaustion, forgetting for the moment, at least your prerogatives.

(3) Share your financial resources generously and completely. Don't "dole out" your money as if your wife were a welfare recipient or treat her as inferior because she is not earning money as you are. Her work equals yours in importance in the life of the home. Her work there cannot be measured in gold or silver.

(4) Furthermore, share in her work, in the consideration of it. You would like her to be interested in your work. Be actually interested in her new way of baking a cake, the problem of the curtains or the scarcity of bacon. In fact, do a bit of the housework occasionally. It will give you a new sense of sympathy of your wife's role in the matter of marriage teamwork.

(5) Visualize the loveliness of your wife, those inner graces and strengths that made her so attractive to you. It will affect your attitude toward her. It will help you to avoid that mistake of seeing her faults against that tricky and unfair background of perfectionism. See her faults as realistically as you care to, but be sure, at the same time, to be aware of her graces and her loveliness. The latter makes an excellent medium through which to screen censoriousness.

(6) Integrate the spiritual with the physical in your relation together. Let the physical be tempered with romance and hallowed with what your wife means to you spiritually. Most sexual incompatibility is a matter of masculine selfishness and inconsideration.

(7) Let your wife feel free. Give her the joy of knowing that she is not being jailed in the home. Let her have the exhilaration of realizing that all she does in the home is a matter of her choosing to have it so. There ought not to be any sense of having been imprisoned by children, housework, the preparing of meals. The husband should not make the wife think of these labors of love as interminable responsibilities to which she is chained.

8. Express with enthusiasm your appreciation of little things as well as the conspicuous labors of her hands. Notice the extra things that are not done because of necessity but done for your happiness and comfort—ties freshly pressed, information secured regarding your coming trip, the rearrangement of the furniture (to please you).

(9) Do not let the sun set on your disagreements. "No one ought to stay in the doghouse overnight except the dog," someone has said. Don't give ill feeling a chance to settle down and be at home in your attitude. Get rid of that "charge account" habit of putting off "squaring away" the little wrongs that have crept in.

(10) Do not be a rubber stamp. No vital, normal attractive woman wants a daily "yes. yes" for an answer. She does not want to be able to anticipate what you are going to say before you get to it. Your personal independent development of mind and spirit will enrich your relation.

(Reprinted from THE NEW LIFE MAGAZINE, copyrighted 1946 by the General Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church.)

Ten Ways To Keep a Husband

(1) Expect your marriage to succeed. Keep that expectation with its quickening power close to your husband's life and love. Experience it yourself in terms of demands upon you—demands of grace, patience, devotion, and constancy.

(2) Never forget that the more spiritual your relationship (I did not say religious), the stronger it will be. Prayer together daily is the greatest factor in growing a strong fabric of marital solidarity.

(3) Do not live with your in-laws if it can be avoided, particularly if you are just beginning your marriage life. Few fathers and mothers-in-law can be impartial and wholesomely keep out the affairs of their sons or daughters.

(4) Know when a quarrel is over. Make sure that some good comes out of it. A quarrel can be like a thunder shower clearing the air. Make certain that, as a consequence, the problem is clarified, a condition redefined, understanding improved.

(5) Get interested in your husband's interest. I know a woman whose husband is an inveterate fisherman. She hates fishing but her husband does not know it.

(6) Do not "pick at him about his faults. "Nibbling" at him about these weaknesses of his only irritates and does not lead to correction. Work out some way of creatively helping him to overcome his faults. If conditions arrive at a spot where he needs a definite reprimand give it to him in one blast, but stop "picking." It never wins.

(7) Let your husband feel that he is responsible for his success. Without your aid and counsel he never would have made the grade but do not tell him that.

(8) Be animated about things that please him. They may seem boyish to you. If you love him so much, share his elation when his dreams come true. Some wives get animated only when they get mad or when they are getting a new fur coat.

(9) Be thoughtful about little things. His mail is at the table for him when he comes in. A little box of his favorite peppermints at his place at dinner gives him a rich feeling about you. If he has had an exceptionally hard day don't ask him to go out for the evening or to stop on the way for that package.

(10) Keep him close to God in your heart. Affirm in your soul all he means. Interfuse your love for him with your love for your heavenly Father who made all of this happiness possible.

(Reprinted from THE NEW LIFE MAGAZINE, copyrighted 1946 by the General Board of Evangelism of The Methodist Church.)

Ten Commandments for Modern Parents

1. Give your children the support of love and confidence, with appreciation of the individuality of each. This will provide for them a firm foundation of faith in you, in themselves and in life.

2. Plan for good times with your children and try always to realize how things seem to a child. This will create a pleasant home atmosphere and a pattern for happy family life.

3. Give your children a share in the tasks, plans and creative activities of the home. Through taking responsibilities in accordance with their strength they will grow in character and increase in resourcefulness.

4. Look for good which you can praise more than for faults which you must condemn. Children generously encouraged try to improve still more, but those too much condemned lose heart and expect little good of themselves.

5. Value curiosity in your children and stimulate in them the love of all things true and beautiful. By rewarding their inquiries and developing their appreciations you inspire them to a larger growth.

6. Teach your children to convert obstacles into opportunities. Strength develops by firm purpose and by creative conquest of difficulty.

7. Develop in yourself such qualities as you want your children to have. Honesty, considerateness, courage—such virtues come mainly by example and contagion. You want vital growth not mere conformity.

8. Make your home a center of friendship and good neighborliness. Its ties of comradeship will prepare members for good citizenship in the community, the nation and the world.

9. Share with your children in the fellowship of the church. This will give them the sustaining strength of a community of faith and love which extends across the ages and embraces all peoples.

10. Lead your children into faith in God through discipleship to Jesus Christ that they may be workers with God in overcoming evil and promoting the good. This will be aided by thought-sharing, religious interpretation and worship in the home, and by living in the great purposes of the kingdom of God.—The Commission on Marriage and the Home.

Propose Tractor Operators Unit for Poland

A unit of tractor operators for Poland is being considered by the Mennonite Central Committee Relief Section. The needs of war sufferers are many and varied, and it is our desire to meet as many of these needs as is materially and spiritually possible.

The needs as outlined to our MCC representatives by UNRRA and Polish officials are for twenty-five experienced tractor operators to teach the inexperienced Polish tractor drivers the operation, servicing, and maintenance of the tractors and implements supplied by UNRRA.

Additional instruction on the servicing of the several different makes (McCormick-Deering, John Deere, Case, and Ford-Ferguson) would be given the unit before being distributed among the 250 tractor stations. The Polish government agrees to give each unit an interpreter, a transportation unit, and maintenance.

Polish and UNRRA officials believe that the job of instruction can be done during the spring plowing and early summer work. Applicants would need to consider that most of the six-month term would be spent separate from other unit members, but the opportunity to witness and serve would obviously be unlimited in such an arrangement. Truly, much remains to be done "In the name of Christ."

Elisabeth D. Goertz Writes from Honan, China

(The following letter is the first report that we have had from Missionary Elisabeth Goertz for a long time. Miss Goertz was in China when the war broke out and was then interned by the Japanese. She is now assisting in the China work of the M. C. C. The following letter addressed to Rev. Howard Nyce, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, was written from 1 Hospital Street, So. Suburb, K'ai Feng, Honan, China, November 19, 1946.)

I am happy to receive the message from the Board "to come home for a rest." As I said in my letter, I have had the fulfillment of my heart's desire in that I have shared in the reconstruction work after the war. I have had a taste of what the work is like and I am ready to come to meet the Board and the churches at home.

I said in my letter that I shall wait to see what will be decided (1) by the Board and (2) by the circumstances. I have received the decision of the Board. And the circumstances at present are as follows:

Our field is opening up—already I have been to Tung Ming and Ch'ang Yuan. In these two places the church members are coming back in for service and the work is very encouraging.

In Tung Ming they have morning and evening prayers daily and a goodly number of people attend. Many of the women came to see me and told me of their troubles along medical lines, and they are looking forward to the time when our mission hospital will open again. The church was planning to have Thanksgiving services several Sundays ago. I should have liked to attend these services, but I was there only for a short time with Rev. Clayton Beyler of the MCC for the purpose of investigation preparatory to doing relief work. Rev. Wang Wan Chu (one of the six ordained men in our Mission) is in charge of both Tung Ming and Ch'ang Yuan stations, and he is a real shepherd of the flock with a deep concern for the spiritual welfare and growth of the church members and also has much opportunity to meet with people outside of the church. The local Government (Nationalist) keeps in close touch with the church. Arrangement has been made to have the church bell rung every hour day and night to announce the time for the city and nearby country-side. Two men of our church divide the time between them. They receive maintenance from the local government.

While in Tung Ming we also met our P'u Yang (K'ai Chow) city magistrate, Mr. Ts'ui Hsien Chang. We asked him how soon he was planning to enter P'u Yang and he said in about a month's time. We hear now that he is nearing the city, only about twenty miles away and by New Year the whole district up to Taming is to be taken over. We heard just the other day that it is very important to have someone take over mission places as soon as the Communists leave in order to protect the property, buildings and furnishings. Here in China everything disappears from vacant yards or buildings.

In Ch'ang Yuan the Mission premises are being occupied by Nationalist soldiers. They are special troops coming from West China (Cziech'uan) to take over. They have a good man at the head, and the soldiers are under good control and well-mannered. The church building (chapel was used for sleeping quarters for the soldiers) and when told that the place was needed for church services, they vacated and cleaned up the place. Three of our MCC unit members slept in the former guest and clinic rooms for a few nights and noticed the soldiers were well behaved. The Ch'ang Yuan church has suffered because they could not use the church up to now. But now the soldiers have vacated some rooms permanently. Rev. Wang Wan Chu was planning to start catechism classes in the near future.

The church members in the nearby villages used to come into the city for Sunday services. But now they are all required to get passes (good citizen certificates) which cost considerable money, so they meet in small groups in their homes. In the villages farther from the city the groups of Christians are larger and they have regular meeting places, being led by local Christian leaders. Everywhere they asked, "When is Rev. August Ewert coming back or any one else? Just so we have someone who helps us through these outside difficulties and who encourages us in our growth."

In Ch'ang Yuan district the MCC (Mennonite Central Committee) gave out loans to farmers for seed wheat and loans to women for cotton weaving and cloth-making. One medical worker gave treatment for malaria and scabies (itch) a skin disease.

Everywhere the missionaries will be very welcome. My contact with the Christians was a time of blessing, as we rehearsed how the Lord had protected and helped them and us through these very difficult years. I also found a great opening among the student class, and also the men in government positions came freely to talk and we talked about following Christ as the only way to real freedom.

Another great call comes to the church and missionary workers through the fact that the government troops are tearing down many temples in order to use the bricks for building towers and walls for their positions of defense. This leaves many people with no place to worship and there is a big void in their lives. Our church people said again and again what a most important time this is to get the people to come to church. It is a great challenge for the Chinese Christians and for us as mission workers. The call is as clear as ever and there "remaineth much land to be possessed."

Now as to plans for my coming home,—I feel I am so near to our main station (K'ai Chow)—only about a hundred miles and the time is almost here when we may go up there, therefore I am waiting another few weeks in the hope of seeing our main station and our workers there and also the compound and buildings in order to be able to report more in detail when I come home. Already our office of the MCC in Shanghai is inquiring about my passage and as soon as the way is safe we plan to go to our mission field and then I shall be ready to leave China for a little while. I say "a little while," I hope I may be allowed to return after a very short furlough of about six months—return in the fall of next year (1947) in order to help with the opening of our school of nursing in our mission hospital. Recently I attended a Nurses' of China Conference in Nanking and there we were told that mission hospitals are needed and lots of them and as soon as possible our schools should start class-work. Nurses are too few everywhere in this big land of China.

I must bring this letter to a close. I wish to send to the Board and all our churches my loving and prayerful wishes for a blessed Christmas season and a New Year filled from the fullness which we have in Christ Jesus, our Lord. Please publish these greetings in the church papers. I am very well and happy in the Lord's service and I shall be counting it a privilege to meet as many of our fellow workers in our churches as possible when I return after these years. The joy of the Lord has been my strength during this time, I praise His name and give Him the glory. Sincerely, Elisabeth D. Goertz

DR. CHRISTIAN NEFF PASSES AWAY

In the death of Dr. Christian Neff, Weierhof, (Germany) December 31, 1946, one of the richest and most influential lives among contemporary Mennonites came to a close. Funeral services for Christian Neff will be held on January 7. (Passed on a wire by the M.C.C. and reported by H. A Fast.)—C. Krahn.

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

By Cornelius Krahn

A Letter From a Dutch Mennonite Minister

Dear Brethren:

I would like to make a small contribution toward strengthening the ties between the Mennonites of the old and new world by telling you something about the Mennonites in Holland.

But where shall I start? There are so many things to write. I will begin like we do in daily conversation by talking about the weather. An early cold wave has reached us causing us to scurry to the cedar chests for our warmer clothing. In many churches the stoves were not ready for use. Besides that coal is still a very scarce item. Nevertheless the stoves are once more red with heat and the excuse that one cannot go to church because of the cold does not hold. During the war we worshipped in cold churches as well attended services because we felt a special need for God in our tribulation and an urge to confess Christ as our Lord. This was the case of both rural and urban areas. But with the end of the war a change came about. Suddenly there were so many things clamoring for attention and so much had to be done that had been neglected, so that the desire to thank God was modified. We are like children who, having had to sit still in school for long periods of time, are now free to scamper about and refuse to heed the call of their parents until they have exhausted their surplus energy and can settle down to normal activity.

We have arrived at this stage. We are again attemping to do the natural things. Of course we still have many difficulities. Not only the circumstances but also we as individuals have changed. We encounter many difficulities of a material and, above all, a religious nature. There is a need for leadership, light, and warmth. And thus the churches are being filled again. People realize that the warmth necessary for life comes from Christ. People come to church because of a desire for a steadfast conviction, faith, and peace which they find in surrendering their lives in service to God. Naturally there is a difference between urban and rural communities, but not as much as there formerly was. Under the influence of their former indifference some members come to church only once a year, but in general, their is a great religious longing.

As the Mennonite Brotherhood we recognize our task to let the fire of the gospel spread within and without. We have not always been so kneely aware of this mission, but now there is a breath of warmth going through our congregations which binds us together in word and deed. About this the next time.

Fraternally yours,
J. E. Tuininga

Doopsgezinde Kerk
Paleisstraat
The Hage
Holland

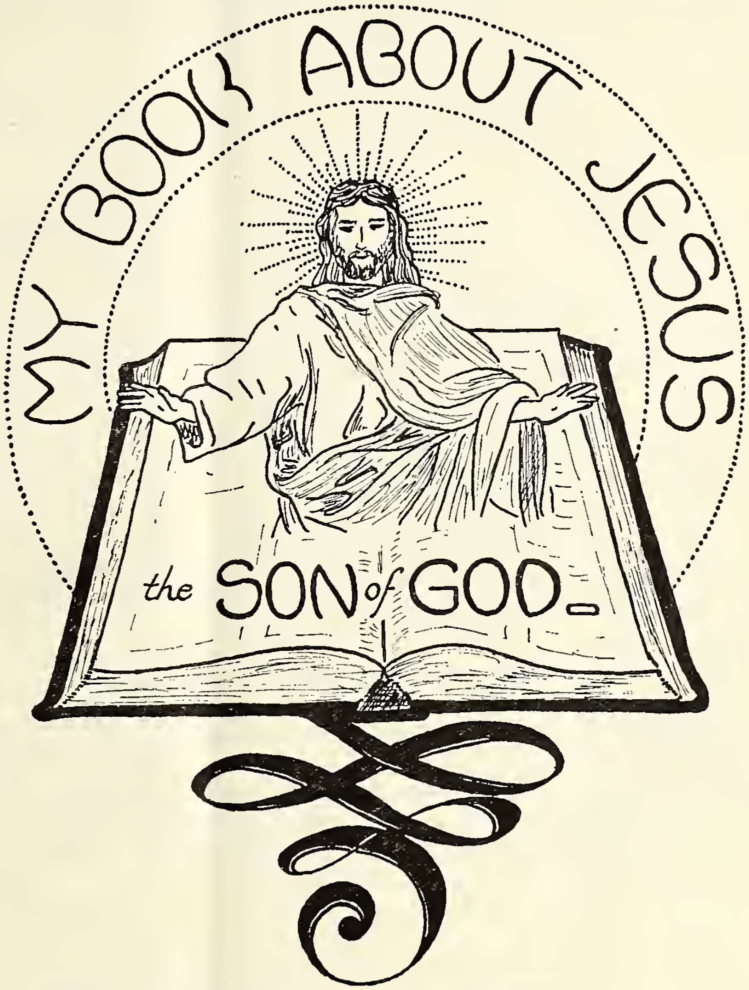
THE NEW JUNIOR QUARTERLY ....

Have You Seen it?

The Board of Education and the Board of Publication, jointly, are sending to EVERY church in our Conference—whether they ordered it or not—a sample shipment of the new JUNIOR QUARTERLY and the JUNIOR TEACHERS HANDBOOK, written by the same author, Mrs. Ed. Miller, to accompany the pupil's quarterly.

The two go hand in hand!

If you are sometimes puzzled about whether your religious education program, on the junior level, is 'measuring up" as it should, then we suggest that you sit down—superintendent and teachers—to examine this new, two-way combination QUARTERLY and HANDBOOK. This is what we believe you will find:



1. An approach to Bible Study and Bible Teaching which makes the subject interesting—both pupil and teacher ENJOY DOING IT.

2. A study program which is SPECIFIC. Both the teacher and the pupil know what is what—the assignment is clear and definite. For the teacher there is a clear AIM, for the pupil a definite assignment.

3. The HEART, the HAND, and the HEAD all work together. The age-old, precious Scripture passages are not memorized to be forgetten when no longer called for on Sunday morning—they live in visualized context, in creative drawings and illustrations, and they "stick" in the memory of the child (and the teacher!") like the lingering strains of heart-warming music.

By special economies in printing we have been enabled to SAVE ON THE COST, even though this is the most profusely illustrated piece of printing which the Board of Publication has ever attempted. The TEACHERS MANUAL will hereafter be included in the cost of the pupil quarterly, and, therefore, no church need hesitate to use the TEACHERS MANUAL freely.

And so! for a New Year's RESOLUTION: "Resolved, that our Sunday School switch to the New JUNIOR QUARTERLY for 1947," is IN LINE. Who'll make the motion?

—THE PUBLICATION OFFICE

Aberdeen Church Holds Missionary Conference

by Mrs. M. D. Linscheid

The First Mennonite Church at Aberdeen, Idaho, held a missionary conference November 24 to December 1. It was indeed a week rich with many blessings; interest and zeal in our mission work was aroused as the work and needs of missions were presented and hearts were drawn closer to God as inspiring messages were brought, challenging us to dedicate our lives to the Master's service wherever He may call.

The conference theme was "That Others Might Know" and our conference verse John 4:42 (b) ". . . for we have heard him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Savior of the world." The conference hymn which was very appropriate and proved a great blessing was "The Work is Thine, O Christ our Lord, the cause for which we stand."

The Missionaries Mrs. W. C. Voth, representing China and also the Women's Missionary Societies of the General Conference as Secretary; Mrs. J. R. Duerksen, home on furlough from India; and Rev. H. G. Nyce, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, were the speakers. Throughtout the Conference they gave a well rounded picture of the mission work carried on in the various fields by the General Conference churches. God has blessed abundantly but the call is ever "Go, give, pray."

Meetings were held every afternoon at which time Mrs. Voth and Mrs. Duerksen spoke to the women of the church about the women's work in China and India. What a difference Christ in the hearts of these Chinese and Indian women has made in their lives and in their standards of living. Now they are true and faithful workers and witnesses for Christ. The afternoon meetings ended with a Bible study conducted by Rev. H. G. Nyce. He took us through parts of the Book of Acts with "Paul, the Missionary" on his three missionary journeys, ever challenging us to learn from this great man and be on fire for the Lord as he was.

In the evning slides of our different mission fields in Arizona, India, China, and South America were shown accompanied by explanations, thus acquainting us with the work as a whole. Mrs. Duerksen in Indian costume, very interestingly presented the work in India—stations, workers, schools, how the work is carried on, the need etc. Mrs. Voth in Chinese costume gave us a general picture of China—the work that has been done in the past and what lies ahead. The children were not left out; each evening they had a service of their own in the basement of the church when one of the missionaries would speak to them. Rev. Nyce gave the closing message each evening, always an inspiring and challenging message, giving the call especially to the young people to yield their lives completely to God, obedient to wherever He my lead.

Offerings for Foreign Missions were taken on the first Sunday and on the closing Sunday of the Conference which amounted to $1,406.13.

Most of us will never have the privilege of visiting our mission fields and actually seeing with our own eyes the work carried on. But during this missionary conference we were given a glimpse and an insight into the mission work such as we had never had before. It will long live on in the hearts and minds of the people in the Aberdeen church.

WATER INTO WINE

(Continued from page 1)

and change it into one in which there is courage to face conditions honestly to the end that the water can be changed to wine.

He can take a home that is mostly a legal institution and change it into one that is primarily a dynamic, spiritual relationship.

He can take a home that is built upon making money and change it into one in which the members find the greatest satisfaction in life to be "loving."

He can take a home in which the potentialities of marriage have never been tapped and used for fusing man and woman into unity and change it into one in which both sense deeply what Jesus meant when he said that they shall become as on flesh.

He can take a home which by its example of discord and strife is undermining the homes that its sons and daughters will establish and change it into one where the strong love of the parents for each other is the best guarantee that the children too will have happy homes.

He can take a home so full of contention and disruption that those who go out from it tend to spread that spirit elsewhere into one so full of love and peace that those who go out from it radiate goodwill and help to bring peace among men.

Christ still changes water into wine. How he does it is often difficult to comprehend. It was not intended that the above thoughts clarify that point. Before there can be a modern miracle it is essential that there be faith that water can be changed into wine.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

What Is the Unpardonable Sin?

What is the unpardonable sin? That question is as old as man, and as modern as the current newspaper. So soon as man becomes conscious of sin, he becomes aware of the desirablity of forgiveness, and happy is the sinner who has discovered that there is forgiveness to be gained from the loving kindness of God. But it is difficult for men to believe that his rebellion and disobedience can be forgiven. In spite of all the evidence, man insists upon believing that some sin, at least, is beyond the possibility of God's forgiving grace.

Old Testament Conceptions. The Old Testament had a very severe judgment upon sin, and placed many sins beyond the possibility of forgiveness. In the book of Leviticus (chapter 4-7) we have described the two sacrifices which were particularly meant to provide the means of forgiveness for sin, —the sin and the trespass offerings. Again and again it is prescribed therein that such sacrifices are provided only for those who have sinned "Unwittingly," i.e. ignorantly, without knowledge of the rule they had broken. But for the one who sinned "with a high hand." i.e. knowingly and presumptuously, there was no forgiveness, Such an one was to be "cut off from his people," i.e. put to death. (Numbers 15: 30).

If this sacrifical manual of the ancient priests had been held too strictly, there would have been little pardon offered for sinners in the sense that we usually think of sinners as those who disobey known laws of God. The fact is that the Psalms and the prophets again and again reveal that a more generous attitude toward the sinner was attained by many Old Testament saints.

New Testament Conceptions. When we come to the record of the teaching of Jesus, as given in the Gospels, we at once discover a much kindlier attitude toward the sinner. Recall Jesus' friendliness with publicans and sinners! He was much more concerned with redeeming the sinner than in shutting him out from forgiveness. Yet it is in the very words of Jesus that we find the seemingly hard and painful teaching about the unpardonable sin. His statement is recorded by each of the first three Gospels, in somewhat varying form.

"Every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men; but the blasphemy against the Spirit shall not be forgiven." Matthew 12:31, 32.

This statement must ultimately become our standard of judgment if we accept the mind of Jesus as final. It might help in the coming to our final understanding if we go on to recognize that the followers of Jesus evidently did not clearly grasp the signifiance of his words. We read in Hebrews 10:26, "If we sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." (See also Heb. 6:4-6). To the writer of the letter to the Hebrews, apostasy was unpardonable sin. Likewise John in his letter (I John 5:16) admits that there is a "sin unto death," for which it is useless to pray for forgiveness.

The Early Church Conception. Following the New Testament writers, the members of the Church in the early Christian centuries tended to varying degrees of strictness or of tolerance in determining the forgiveness of sin. There was a general tendency to fix certain sins as "venial," i. e. forgiveable, and as "unto death," i.e. as unpardonable. By the second century, Terullian, a great Puritan soul of North Africa, made a list of seven deadly sins, "idolatry, blasphemy, murder, adultery, fornication, false witness, fraud." We can only say that is a much severer set of judgments then Jesus had made. It must be admitted that the later Church did not maintain such severe standards.

Modern Protestant Interpretations. The Roman church, by its practice of indulgence, was prone to ignore the fact of any sin being unpardonable. In practice, whether or not in theory, it became rather profitable to the church to find as many ways to forgive sin as possible. The Protestant Reformation brought a change in this. The evangelistic movement, pioneered by the Wesleys, increased the emphasis upon individual sin and responsibility for the same. With this change in emphasis upon individual responsibility for sin, there again came to the fore the old question of unpardonable sin.

The modern interpretation, especially, in the preaching of many of our Evangelical preachers, has been to return to the simple words of Jesus. This tendency has identified the "unpardonable sin" with the "sin against the Holy Spirit." This is as it should be, except that there has sometimes been a rather narrow and arbitrary definition of what the sin against the Holy Spirit might be. If there has been any error in the treatment of this very important subject, it has been to stress the "unforgiveability" of such sin and to give the impression that many people are liable to commit it. Perhaps we might do well to go back to the Gospel account and see what Jesus may have had in mind.

Professor E. F. George is Professor of Old Testament Literature, Evangelical Theological Seminary, Naperville, Illinois. He presents here a discussion of a question which has doubtless made many wonder, wonder just what the unpardonable sin is.

The statement of Jesus about the sin which cannot be forgiven is presented against the background of the bitter opposition of the priests and Pharisees. They had just evaded the evidence of Jesus' deity by saying that He performed His miracles through Beelzebub, the prince of demons. It is scarcely probable that Jesus was so thin-skinned as to be unable to take the hateful criticisms of his enemies. Certainly, He was not passing a bitter personal reaction. He was speaking in sorrow and in regret that men should be so prejudiced and so hateful that they could not see the Divine Truth even when it lived in flesh and blood before them. Which leads to the observation that Jesus was probably speaking more about an attitude than about a single act. The sin against the Holy Spirit is that attitude to which one may come in which he cannot be pardoned because he does not ask to be pardoned, because he does not wish to be pardoned.

When we look at sin from God's point of view, we can say that no sin is unpardonable. Jesus described God as the Father who forgave even the prodigal and welcomed him back home after he had broken all the laws of God and man. Yes, God loved to the extent that "He gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should . . . . have everlasting life. The very cross of Christ is proof that,

"The love of God is broader, than the measure of man's mind,

And the heart of the Eternal is most wonderfully kind."

But there is a manward side to the problem. Just as man is a sinner by the act of his God-given free will, so it is true that his sin cannot be forgiven without some act on his part. By an act of the will he must turn back, in penitence, to the Father's house. If his affections are still fixed upon his sin, if his will still fails to stir him in the direction of God, even the yearning love of God cannot save him. He is committing the unpardonable sin, because he is not able to recognize his need of pardon, or else he is too stubborn to admit his need.

Perhaps that was why Jesus spoke about the sin "against the Holy Spirit." For the Holy Spirit is God working, as Spirit, in our spiritual natures, convicting us of sin, and calling us to him. When we refuse that call of the Spirit we have committed the unpardonable sin.

That need not mean that we may never be forgiven, for we may, later, change our attitude and turn back to God. Then our sin is pardonable and we have the right to believe that God will forgive. At any rate, it can be definitely stated that no one who is fearful that he has committed the unpardonable sin has done so, for the very sense of regret and of fear is the evidence that one still has a conscience of sin, and that is one of the first steps toward the repentance that finds pardon.

—Courtesy The Evangelical Crusader

Let's Have a Work Party

It is often difficult to find ideas so that a party is fun refreshing and different. How about inviting the young people's fellowship to a Work Party? As the group gathers, they choose one of a number of things to be done during the evening. Each group has an officer in charge who has the material ready for the work to be done.

One group composes the Poster Work Shop. Here the group works at developing posters for all young people's meetings for the next month or two. The leader provides beforehand the necessary cardboard, pictures clipped from magazines (or magazines from which to clip pictures), colored paper and glue.

The Music Work Shop has the job of developing a song sheet of choruses, serious and for fellowship. The sheets they make up will then be mimeographed, stapled and made available for the group when they want to sing songs not found ordinarly in the hymn books or other music pamphlets at hand.

The Worship Work Shop prepares a short program for the conclusion of the party as well as a worship program for a future meeting. They will endeavor to make these worship services as stimulating, inspiring and beautiful as possible.

In the Fun Work Shop the members will be busy planning games to be used later on in the evening when the other work shops are done with their projects.

The Food Work Shop is important. It plans, makes and serves the refreshments for the evening.

After an hour and a half of work in the different work shops, the posters are exhibited, the songs are sung, the games played, the food is eaten and the party is closed with a period of worship.

How To Put Out a Fire

A wise man who was good at observing things around him once said, "Where no wood is, there the fire goeth out: so where there is no whisperer the strife ceaseth" (Prov. 26:20).

This is an unusually good observation to bear in mind now. Not only will the discontinuance of "whispering" help to resolve the difficulties between neighbors and fellow church members but it will cause suspicions to be allayed between races and nations as well. I have been told of a lot of things which the Jews, the Negroes, the Catholics or the Russians want to do to my group and to me. I have refused to believe any of them and I discover that toward all of these people I have a feeling of sincere friendliness. I would like for them to feel that way about me.

Solomon was right. "Where no wood is, the fire goeth out."

D.W.B.—Gospel Messenger

Canadian Baptists Have Active Youth Program

By L. Keith Daniel
Director of Christian Education The Baptist Union of Western Canada

(Continuing the series of discussions of young people's organizations, we present the story of the Canadian Baptist Young People's Union. Ed.)

Until two years ago, the Baptists of Canada failed to achieve any national organization. Until then they were organized as the United Baptist Convention of the Maritimes, the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec and the Baptist Union of Western Canada. Now, however, there has come into being the the Federation of Baptist Churches of Canada, and young people are finding it a good means for expression.

Although the Baptist Young People's Union is organized for young people bteween the ages of eighteen and twenty-five, in many of our small churches the Union accepts those of fourteen or fifteen years and reaches up much beyond the twenty-five year age. The program, however, is geared to the eighteen to twenty-five year group; for the boys it is the "Tuxis" movement, and for the girls the "Canadian Girls in Training." The program is planned and released by the Religious Education Council of Canada with whom we are affiliated. To some extent there are mixed groups under various names. As yet there is no common program for these groups.

The local B.Y.P.U.'s are autono-mous, the only official tie up with the larger group is through an adult counsellor, often the minister or some member of the Deacon's Board. Many of these local groups organize themselves in associations. (An association corresponds to a regional or synodical federation. Editor.) Through these associations the young people find outlets for inspirational, social, cultural and recreational activities, such as rallies, music festivals, contests, drama festivals, debating, public speaking, hikes, etc.

Sometimes young people's conventions are held separately from the national church conventions, but more often our youth conventions are held in connection with the church convention. It is felt that meeting together in these conventions young people are better able to make the transition from the B.Y.P.U. to the work of the church at large.

Some of the youth groups have adopted the commission plan of organization with its fourfold emphasis—devotion, fellowship, service and stewardship. Each commission, then, becomes a "standing committee" responsible for promoting the special activity for the good of the entire group.

The projects promoted by the commissions range from promoting daily Bible reading through organizing vacation Bible schools to raising funds for the support of some missionary undertaking. All of the projects are carried on outside of the regular meeting time. During the meetings the center of interest is the prescribed topic which help to strengthen the four relationships.

At the present time the efforts of the B.Y.P.U. is coordinated with the "Crusade for Christ" movement, a venture planned to deepen the spiritual life of all people in our churches and the raising of funds for needy churches in Europe, furthering of missionary work in India and Bolivia and the extension of work in Canada.

One of the most significant activities promoted by the young people is the summer camps. These camps are scattered throughout the provinces of Maritime, Ontario and Quebec.

It is difficult to say what the trends of thought are among the young people of the church. On the whole I think that while there are significant developments in interdenominational feeling and loyalty appear to be on the increase. Our churches on the whole are strongly evangelistic and so cooperate with the "Youth for Christ" movement. In several of the centers, however, they have gradually withdrawn their support.

From the questions most frequently raised by our young people at camp and in other meetings, I would say that they are serious about theological issues and their relation to the Christian life. One of the subjects they eagerly study is "Beliefs." On problems affecting everyday living, young people seem to question the standards of their "fathers' day." What their fathers considered "questionable amusements" are to them natural, normal affairs.

Politically they reflect all shades of opinion. They are not generally inclined to pacifism, nor communism, but they do have a strong socialistic leaning. So far as I have noticed, young people of our church are not greatly interested in worldwide problems. Perhaps the dominant individualistic emphasis of our Baptist tradition is in part responsible for this.

Items of Interest

A trip was made this fall by Ralph N. Lewis, president of the Young People's Union of the Eastern District, to Kitchener, Ontario, to visit the young people at the Stirling Avenue Mennonite Church. The Stirling Avenue Church joined the Eastern District last summer. The trip was made to establish a tie of fellowship with the young people.

* * * *

Mrs. Emma Clarissa Clement was chosen as "The American Mother of 1946," by the Golden Rule Foundation. This custom of choosing some mother as the "mother of the year" was started in 1935. Mrs. Clement, the mother of seven children, is a negro and a granddaughter of a slave. Her husband, who died in 1923, was bishop of the A. M. E. Zion Church, and Mrs. Clement has been an active worker in the Church through the years. Her seven children reflect the good home from which they came, being prominent in their chosen fields of work.

* * * *

During the six years of war, the American Bible Society reports that they distributed fourteen million Bibles in spite of the great difficulties of the period.

* * * *

Wets forced elections in ten Alabama counties in the past months and won only three of the counties. Precinct elections on Chicago's south side resulted in the closing of over thirty saloons when the vote went dry.

* * * *

Bishop Szeruda of Poland reported recently in Sweden that of the one million Lutherans in the ill-fated land before the war, there are now 200,000 remaining.

* * * *

Many Japanese-Americans have been returning to the West Coast since the war. It was reported earlier that they would not be able to return, but reports from Oregon state that they have been received with no incidents arising. An attempt to boycott their produce failed.

* * * *

It is reported provincial ministries of the Indian National Congress in India intend to introduce legislation to control the liquor and drug traffics. Prohibition is a basic aim of the Congress.

* * * *

In a discussion of Sunday afternoon recreation, the Beatrice, Nebraska Young People inquired of Mr. R. W. Tully, director of physical education and recreation at Bethel College for suggestions. He submitted the following points: 1) Whatever is done, it should be Christian. The day of the week is not important, for activity on any day should be Christian, but this should be a point in the criteria. 2)A second test is, does the act recreate now? So an analysis of recreation needs should be made such as the following: a) Has it been a hard week of physical activity? Should I sleep? b) Have I read enough good literature? c) Was it a lonesome week? Do I need the gang? d) Does my body need physical recreation? e) Have I been with the beautiful this week? Should I take in a sunset worship or similar experience with the beauty of nature? Sunday afternoon can round out what has been missed during the week. Taken from Fellowship Echos.

* * * *

When Rev. Samuel A. Livingstone joined the seagoing cowboys, he sailed on the S. S. Alcee Fortier which had no ship library. As a result his Bible was greatly in demand among the sixty-five crew members. Many of the readers were not religious men, but they were interested. By arranging a schedule for the use of the Bible, the well-worn book became more frayed by practically continuous use. At the last Sunday service on the ship, twenty-two dollars was received and the money was turned over to the ship's Union to be used to buy Bibles. Now the S. S. Alcee Fortier has a library.

* * * *

A California church has dedicated a memorial window to the late Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. The window depicts the General on a white charger lancing a dragon with a swastika skin. The Third Army and West Point insignia are shown and the patches of the Third Army's twelve divisions and in one corner a vignette of a man in a tank and nowhere is there a sign of anyone turning the other cheek. This is in a church!

* * * *

The national convention of the American Legion held in San Francisco in October resolved that they hated war and must arm to the teeth against Russia, no foreign students were to be admitted to American colleges, the Attorney-General should prosecute conscientious objectors to the full extent of the law, conscientious objectors should be barred from all civil service jobs.

* * * *

A report states there are 437,000 saloons in the U. S. which by proportion is eleven saloons to five churches, there is one bar room to every seventy-one homes, the U. S. is spending $15.33 per pupil for education annually and $46.15 per capita on liquor. About one hundred thousand persons are rejected annually by life insurance companies because of alcohol indulgence.—Biblical Recorder.

Tho crux of the peace problem is not the power to frighten miserable men into submission but the power to heal their misery. That is the way of the good Samaritan, the way of Jesus.

Frank Laubach

'I have believed the best of every man,
And find that to believe it is enough
To make a bad man show him at his best,
Or even a good man swing his lantern higher."

What Is Starvation?

by Lester Glick

(In the following article Lester Glick further describes some of the effects experienced by some C. P. S. men who underwent a starvation experiment at the University of Minnesota. The experiment is very suggestive of how starving people in Europe must feel. Yet it must be remembered that these men knew that it was only an experiment for a limited period and that they were under good care otherwise. The starving in Europe have no such assurances of security. It seems evident that the present starvation in Europe must so warp the feelings of most concerned that only a very few of the survivors will come forth with a comparatively wholesome emotional outlook. We can hardly depend upon hunger to breed peace-loving people. The following article is a continuation from last week and is to be continued in a future issue.—Editor)

Of particular interest in the experiment was the manner in which the men tried to appease their hunger. Many drank great quantities of water—often as much as eight or nine quarts a day. Others drank much coffee, sometimes in excess of twenty cups a day. The laboratory discovered this lack of self-control and limited the coffee consumption to nine cups daily. Gum in unlimited quantities was allowed in the early phase of the experiment but, upon discovering that some of the subjects were consuming over twenty packages a day, the "intake" was limited to three packages daily. Some tried to supplant their hunger by eating very slowly and by eating unconventional mixtures.

One man writes in his diary, "Some try to find release in fixing fancy sandwich spreads from combinations of macaroni, oatmeal, cornbread, spagetti, and coffee and they call them wonderful." The same man further stated, "Food and loss of weight are talked about more than all other topics put together. One would think that we guinea pigs were all majoring in Home Economics to listen in on our discussions."

We read from various sources the effort that the hungry employ in attempting to satisfy their raging appetites. An article on conditions in China states that people there mix a certain kind of clay with their rice to make more volume. One who came back from Poland tells of how he saw a Polish woman mix some dark substance with her flour which she explained was ground roots to make more volume and more weight in her bread. A hungry person will always try to use one way or another to appease his abnormal desire for food. These efforts, although wide in variety, are futile. The only consummation for hunger if food and substitutes are only clearing points if they are that.

The subjects all showed retrogression in recognized good behavior. The ordinary good manners that one would expect from a group of adults "became too much trouble." For instance, any society would frown upon one who would be so careful to get all his food off the plate that he would carefully lick it. We likewise would be surprised if some one in our midst would get under the table to retrieve a pea that had fallen off his fork.

One who is hungry looks upon any waste with extreme disapproval. One subject was sipping a cup of coffee in a restaurant and simultaneously eyeing a lady eating a pork chop dinner. When the lady's pie was served she merely tasted it and left the table. The subject immediately followed her to the outside and reproved her for her wastefulness. Another time two subjects were walking along the river on a routine hike when the one found a slice of bread along the street in the grass. He carefully picked it up and upon examining it asked, "Who would have thrown a perfectly good slice of bread away?" Not wishing to destroy it, they carried it with them for a couple of miles before they finally found a dog that would eat it.

We who have full stomachs cannot appreciate waste. Secretary of Agriculture Anderson estimates that if we Americans would not waste any food placed on our tables, there would be enough extra food available to feed fifty million people on 1,700 calories per day.

The religious implications of poverty and starvation has long been a problem to welfare and relief workers. The picture at Minneapolis served to substantiate that one's physical well-being has a definite bearing on one's ethics and religious experience. The men became selfish, materialistic, thinking of their plight and feeling that they, and they alone, knew what it was to be hungry. A few became so self-centered that they even indulged in "picking up" things that did not belong to them, though they were not tempted in such things previously. Although a faith in a God does give security and is a "help in time of trouble," the men complained that it was difficult to go to church and get much out of the service. One of the subjects stated that after the first week of rehabilitation he felt that a Sunday morning service gave him the thrill of an awakened Ichabod after a long spiritual sleep.

(To be continued)

MISSIONARY P. J. BOEHRS LEAVE FOR CHINA

Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Boehr and their youngest daughter, Mary Ellen, were scheduled to sail from Gulfport, Mississippi on January 3. It is hoped that Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Brown will also sail before mid-January. We request the prayers of our churches as these prepare to reestablish our active mission work in Hopei Province, China.—D. J. Unruh

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

A few weeks ago Dr. Harry M. Gage visited the college at the invitation of the college Board of administration. Dr. Gage has had wide experience with church colleges, having been president of Coe College for twenty-two years and later president of Lindenwood College. He has been on many evaluation committees visiting colleges for the North Central Association. He was brought to Bluffton to give the opinion of an outsider, visiting the campus for the first time, of the strong and weak points of the institution, with a view to its improvement. The following is quoted from his report, "Bluffton is honest. It is honestly trying to be what its published statements say the institution is. It is honestly trying to do what its announced program sets forth. Bluffton has no false front. It is as far removed as possible from 'academic underworld.'—In my judgment Bluffton ranks high in purpose. Institutional purpose is adequate in clarity, scope, acceptance by faculty and clientele, and in relation to activity. It is commendable that institutional purpose is set forth clearly and in detail in the catalog. This is an important aspect of the simple honesty of Bluffton. Within the range of my experience are very few colleges whose purposes are as fully accepted and understood by teachers."

BETHEL COLLEGE

Comparatively few students have remained on the campus during these two weeks of Christmas vacation, although dining hall service was resumed during the second week for the students returning to their college jobs.Farie Stucky, Gilbert Goering and Leo Beck (Holland) are representing Bethel's SCA in the Student Assembly of the National Intercollegiate Christian Council, held at the University of Illinois from December 27 to January 3 to discuss national SCA problems and the preparation for larger Christian leadership in the present world problems. Miss Becker is spending the vacation in New York City, the guest of her former students now at Biblical Seminary. The Gingerich family motored to Gulfport, Mississippi, where Dr. Gingerich is delivering a series of lectures to the CPS unit as well as doing research on its history. Other staff members have also been absent at various times for MCC meetings or similar work for the church and school.

MENNONITE SEMINARY NEWS

In the Quarterly Lecture Series, Dr. W. A. Irwin of the Chicago Divinity School spoke on "Changing Moods in Old Testament Study." Dr. Irwin is well qualified to speak on the Old Testament being a member of the committee at work bringing out a revision of the Old Testament such as was released last February of the New Testament.

Dr. Irwin traced the development or critical study of the Bible from its modern beginnings in the last century to the present day. The early period of critical study until the end of the First World War tended to be destructive resulting in a spirit of doubt and scepticism. In the last ten years, Dr. Irwin stated a new, positive, more conservative attitude has developed in which the Bible is more profoundly appreciated. Recent discoveries have proven to be right things which at an earlier time looked wrong and out of place.

The new mood resulting toward the Old Testament is one of much deeper respect and appreciation. He closed stating four things stand out about the Bible: 1. The uniqueness of the Bible — while Israel was being ground down by brutal conquerors, Israel was writing and talking about a righteous God, 2. The uniqueness of Israel — a nation so different from others of her time. 3. The massiveness and majesty of Bibilical thought. There was nothing like it when it was written and there remains nothing comparable. 4. It is a religious literature which still speaks with transforming power.

WORK AT MADRID, NEBRASKA, PROGRESSES

It is now about two years since we first began thinking about Madrid as God's field for us. A little later God intrusted it to us. In membership the Church has made little progress since we have lost a few and also received new members. In material things there have been losses and also gains, but in Spiritual things we are strongly convinced that also our dear people and we have gained and not lost.

This summer and fall have been busy days, but real blessed and successful: first our D. V. B. S. had an enrollment of fifty children and four teachers, the teachers all from our little flock. In August we ventured by faith to have our own young people's retreat. We rented the State Recreation Grounds about fifty miles from here. A nice group of our young people, and also from the M. B. Church near here, attended. Rev. Victor Graber from Delft, Minnesota, was our guest speaker for this occasion. Some of our young people accepted Christ as Savior, and others gave their lives for His service.

Vacation Bible School

Our laboring for God is, so that this work might be to the praise of the Glory of His Name.—Sincerely in Christ, John G., Gladys, and Geraldine Unruh

MISSION NEWS FROM FIRST CHURCH, CHICAGO

The activities of a city mission require much patience and kindness on the part of the workers. In our scope of city mission work there is no limit. At this season of the year we find needy families to help with food and clothing. There are the broken families where the children need to be cared for. There are the sick in the hospitals who are waiting for a kindly message. There is the man who lost his way in sin and needs to have the gospel message presented tenderly. This only gives you a little sphere in which the city missionary works.

The Chicago Mission is reaching out along all these lines. We are grateful to God for His added blessing in our endeavor of maintaining the simple story of the gospel. The work here at the First Church looks very encouraging from the standpoint of opportunities as well as meeting the opportunities by consecrated workers.

Our Young People are doing a splendid piece of work. They are endeavoring through an appointed committee to call on all the ex-service men who are without homes to invite them to church services.

The Women's Missionary Society is seeking new lines of activity for the coming year. We are all seeking the unerring leadership of the Holy Spirit in our endeavors. We ask the prayers of the Brotherhood on our behalf that the "lines may be strengthened and those who hold them will not falter."—A. H. Leaman, Pastor; 4216 Greenview Avenue, Chicago, 13, Illinois.

ADDRESSES OF ARIZONA WORKERS

Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Wiebe
Moencopi Mission
Tuba City, Arizona
Freight and express address:
Flagstaff, Arizona
Post Office, Tuba City, Arizona

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Schirmer
Post Office, Hotevilla, Arizona
Freight and express: Winslow, Arizona

Rev. and Mrs. John P. Suderman and Miss Anna Baerg
Post Office address: Oraibi, Arizona
Freight and express: Winslow, Arizona

Jottings

—A recent caller at General Conference Headquarters was Mr. Herman Wiebe, who is Professor of German and history at Glendale College, Glendale, California. Professor Wiebe, who has been at Glendale College since 1920, was on his way to Beatrice, Nebraska, to visit friends and relatives in his old home community.

—Dr. John R. Schmidt, known to many readers as the man who served the Mennonites of Paraguay as doctor, has begun general medical practice in the Freeman, South Dakota, community. Dr. Schmidt and family spent Christmas with relatives of Newton, Kansas.

—Bergtal Church, Pawnee Rock, Kansas: Rev. J. M. Regier was in our midst November 9-17. He brought enriching messages on "The Steps in a Christian Life." Rev. Pete Loewen filled the pulpit on December 1. We are grateful to all who have served our church in the past year.—Mrs. John Dirks, Corr.

—Butterfield Church, Butterfield, Minnesota: On December 15 the Mountain Lake Bible School gave the program for our C. E. All those that are away in different schools were home for the holidays. They were: Mildred, Vera, Generva, Doris, Arlene, Bud, and Willis, all Linscheids. As customary every fifth Sunday in the month we observed the Lord's Supper on December 29.—Mrs. Gust Miller, Corr.

A THANK-you and a thank-YOU!

For all the fine messages, good wishes, and subscription remittances which you good people have been sending in a veritable flood of goodwill, we do thank you. For your encouraging remarks, for your enthusiastic comments, and particularly for the many, many gift subscriptions which you have sent in for your friends, we also do thank you.

To YOU who so faithfully support the publication work of your conference, we extend our sincere thanks and appreciation, and our best wishes for

THE YEAR 1947.
THE STAFF AT THE PUBLICATION OFFICE

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: It has been some time since our church has had any jottings in The Mennonite. Since it has fallen my lot to act as correspondent, I shall try to start the New Year right with some news. The first Sunday in December we had our annual Sunday School election. Younger men, who had been in service, were elected. Teachers and officers assume duties January 5. Our Christmas program began with "Silent Night, Holy Night" shown in colors and played softly on the organ by our pastor's wife, Mrs. Waldo Kauffman. The audience joined on the first verse. After wonderful fall weather it turned very cold December 27, and with the temperature around eleven above zero there weren't many in church Sunday. Clara Entz, R. N. of the hospital at Halstead, Kansas, is home visiting her parents. Lena Jantzen, who is attending G. B. I. is spending her vacation with relatives and friends. Mr. and

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

The officers of General Conference have appointed Rev. Robert W. Hartzler, now serving as pastor of the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Indiana, as a member of the General Conference Peace Committee —Walter H. Dyck, Executive Secretary.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

ABOUT YOUR YEARBOOK AND BUNDESBOTE KALENDER

Perhaps you're wondering, like many others are, when your copy of the YEARBOOK or your copy of the BUNDESBOTE KALENDER is going to reach you.

We hope to have it printed early in 1947 so that all possible information for 1946 can be included. It will be mailed FREE to all whose subscriptions are paid up to January, 1948, or beyond, on either the Mennonite or Bundesbote mailing list. Those who get their church papers on the 100-per-cent plan through their churches may get either the YEARBOOK or the KALENDER by sending in 25 cents for their copy.

Mrs. Elmer Krehbiel are visiting their parents. Elmer is attending Bethel College.—Wilfred Ewy, Corr.

—First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: A special relief offering taken in our church at the morning service of December 8 amounted to $5,313.98. The choir presented "The Christmas Messiah" under the able direction of Henry D. Becker with Alden Toevs and Mrs. Ruth Moser as accompanists at the organ and piano respectively. The annual business meeting was held December 26.—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—First Church, Beatrice, Nebraska: The Sunday School gave its Christmas program on December 22. Due to nice weather most everyone was present.—Corr.

—Topeka Church, Topeka, Indiana: On December 11 the Women's Missionary Society met with Mrs. Dean Carlson. Mrs. George Lapp of Goshen, returned missionary from India, spoke on "Christmas in India." William Turner has been appointed by the church board for the annual canvass of members for our share of the work of the Congo Inland Mission. At the morning service, December 22, the children of the Sunday School presented the Christmas program, "The Story of Christmas Carols." In the evening "The Adoration Pageant" and White Gift Service was held. Fourteen white gifts were presented. Following the evening service the young people of the church went Christmas caroling.—Miss Opal King, Corr.

—Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, writes, "We praise the Lord that permission for the visa for the Lubin Jantzen family has been received. Miss Gladys Klassen and the Jantzen family will leave for India as soon as sailing arrangements can be made. Miss Klassen's visa had been granted several months ago but the Board decided to send her with the Jantzens since she could not accompany the Misses Martha Burkhalter and Anne Penner. We covet your prayers in the interest of the Jantzen family and Miss Klassen.

—Rev. and Mrs. Ernst Harder, who have spent some time recently in the Hillsboro, Kansas, community visiting and getting ready, plan to leave for Akron, Pa., on January 10. They will remain there until they get passage to Paraguay. They had hoped for this by mid-January, but it may take until the middle of February. They have already shipped all their goods to Akron. The Harders plan to live in Asuncion, Paraguay, Rev. Harder is to be pastor of the Mennonite congregation which assembles there. Usually there are from sixty to eighty Mennonites in Asuncion. Some live there, others are sick people who come in from the settlements, and others are those who have come to the city on business. Rev. Harder is also to help some of the refugees who may soon come from Europe and may want to settle around Asuncion. Mr. and Mrs. Harder are both graduates of Bethel College and have also attended the Mennonite Seminary. Mr. Harder came to this country in November, 1939, to complete his education. Mrs. Harder is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Ewert of Hillsboro, Kansas.

—Rev. and Mrs. Alvin van der Smissen, who served at the C.P.S. camp at Camino, California, until it was closed recently have gone to the C.P.S. camp at Powellsville, Maryland, where Rev. van der Smissen will serve as camp pastor and Mrs. van der Smissen as dietitian.

—Rev. Orlando Goering, who is completing his work at Garrett Biblical Seminary this coming spring, recently brought some messages at the Deer Creek, Oklahoma, Church while away from school on vacation. Mrs. Goering accompanied him to Oklahoma.

—Rev. Walter Dyck brought the morning message at the Alexanderwohl Church on second Christmas Day.

—Another issue of Mennonite Life has come off the press and may be had for fifty cents a copy from the Mennonite Publication Office, 722 Main, Newton, Kansas. The issue has the same high quality of previous issues and is delightful reading. It has an amazing coverage of Mennonite life over the world. Its many pictures make its appearance very attractive.

—Rev. and Mrs. Jacob H. Janzen have submitted the following little poem for publication:

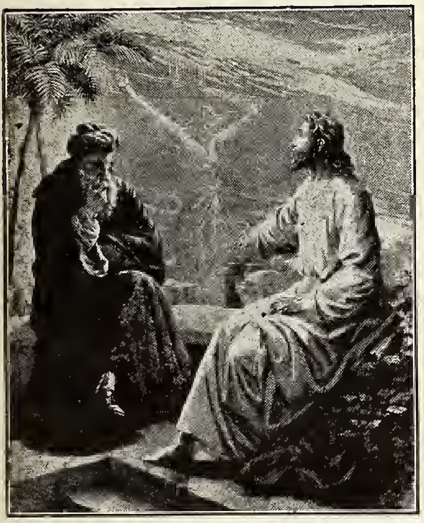
Try as we may it cannot be done,
To write a reply to everyone
Who wrote us a Christmas card this season,
Or sent us a gift . . . It stands to reason
That there is more love in this world of ours
Than can be repaid by hours and hours
Of bowing, and smiling, and wishing, and writing.

We have for you only love abiding.
For all your kindness we love you sincerely.
May Christmas cheer stay with you all, not merely
One day, or two, but the whole year 'round!
And may God's blessing with you abound!

Many thanks and good wishes to all who remembered us this Christmas season with a card, or a gift, or both, from, Eliese and Jacob H. Janzen.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 ——— January 14, 1947 ——— Number 2



Blessed Are the Unhappy

Unhappiness is a blessed condition, for when severe enough it may make one receptive to The Way that works. Nicodemus was an unhappy man otherwise he would not have come to Jesus. Some of his fellow Pharisees lacked the courage to admit their spiritual bankruptcy and did not come. Paul was blessed when he found himself severely pained by the pricks against which he was kicking. Peter was blessed when in tears he saw the futility of his bootstrap methods. The Prodigal Son was blessed when his diet of husks left him awfully empty. The man who becomes desperate and gives up, thereby becomes receptive to the help that is awaiting him.

The boy had come to camp and had gotten into one scrap after another. After several days of this, the camp leader went for a walk with him. The boy admitted that he was unhappy. The leader suggested that perhaps he was unhappy because he had tried to live by the wrong "philosophy" and then went on to explaining what he meant by "philosophy". The leader suggested doing unto others as you would that they should do unto you and putting God first, the other fellow second, and oneself third. When Sunday came the boy came to the leader with a radiant face and exclaimed, "It works." He wanted the director to meet his parents who had come to camp. Later one of his teachers wrote to the leader and said that so-and-so was a different boy. The parents later remarked about it and further stated that he had changed their home life so much that they had given up their contemplated divorce. Was that boy blessed when he admitted unhappiness?

A minister skilled in counselling points out that some individuals cannot admit their need for help because such an "admission would destroy the false security they are trying to preserve." Another minister-counsellor reports that after some consultations, he says to himself, "He or she has not suffered enough." This counsellor insists that "suffering is indispensable." A man who heads the psychology department in one of our largest universities declares that counselling can only be effective when the pain of the conflict within the individual is great enough to outweigh the pain of admitting his need and of trying to find a solution.

Jesus, the Saviour, said, "Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisified."

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

EVANGELISM, which may be spoken of as the impartation of the good news of Jesus Christ, ought to bring good news to those hungering for abundant living. In nearly every community there are people who are troubled and unhappy. Some stagger under a feeling of emptiness and dullness of life, others are choked by a feeling of inferiority, others are taut and nervous, some can't sleep, others feel bitter and resentful, and others are physically ill because they are inwardly ill. In regard to the latter point, a doctor who practices in a large Mennonite community says, "People that are properly balanced emotionally seldom, if ever, have these disturbing physical 'outlets'! . . . By being a truly Christian group it should be possible for a community to be rid of about a third of its ills, all those that are due to the mind." If it is true that such conditions exist in communities in which there are churches, the question naturally arises as to whether the Church ought not to do something about them? How can the Church bring good news to people who are sore afraid and troubled? Perhaps, that is a question that ought to be considered by churches which have evangelistic or extended services. Some way ought to be found of bringing good news to those who are weary and heavy laden.

EVANGELISM can be attractive to those who need help. The fact of sin must be recognized in evangelistic work, but so also must be man's potential capacity to live a life of love. In Christlike evangelism the approach is one of understanding. The one in need of help is not told that he is "all right." There is a frank and honest recognition of the fact that "the mark has been missed." However, the very approach suggests that the personality or soul of the sinner is very valuable and that he has the potential capacity to live abundantly and eternally. There is a clear recognition of the fact that man's potentialities for sin and for the good are both very strong, but the approach places its hope on the capacity for good and not upon man's capacity for evil. It is a postive, encouraging approach. It is in a way exemplified by the work that Dr. Fritz Redl does in Detroit. This man works with boys from one of the toughest sections of that large city. He has done wonders with these boys. He knew their delinquencies, but he placed a high faith in each one of them. There are many things that he does not like about them, and he makes this plain to them. One day a boy stole a tire. Dr. Redl in speaking to this boy made it clear that he did not like what the boy had done, but at the same time Dr. Redl told the boy, " . . . but we like you." Dr. Redl knew that the boy had done wrong because of a wrong inner condition and that that inner condition should be changed through the right kind of faith and fellowship. He knew the boy, and he believed in him. Jesus knew what was in man and then called to discipleship, and He still seeks to do so through his witnesses of today. Properly presented, the good news will evoke good feelings, however, it does take genuine understanding and unlimited patience. As evangelism is molded to this end there will be those who will hear gladly.

PURE RELIGION AND UNDEFILED! Does this not seem like the proper term for the spirit indicated in the following news report recently received from one of the churches? The report read: "Our congregation has donated money to buy 120 C.A.R.E packages . . . Quite a few want to adopt their "C. A. R. E." families without telling them so in advance and send them a package every month and correspond with them regularly."

THE HEALTH SERVICES being considered in England and in Sweden should at least make Americans study with care their traditional system of medical care and also the various plans which have been suggested for its improvement. "Between the Lines", in speaking of the English government, states, "A National Health Service project is being formulated and will provide medical care for everyone, regardless of income. Salaried physicians will attend patients in government-owned hospitals." Speaking of the national health bill that has been introduced into the Swedish Riksdag, it reports, "This bill provides free medical attention, free hospital service and free travel to and from a doctor for everybody regardless of income. Patients may choose their own doctor. Medicines will be half-price, some of

(Continued on page 8)

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST. in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

The Kind of Evangelism I Have Found Most Effective:

. . . a symposium

JOHN NEUFELD of the Mennonite Bible Mission, Chicago, who does home mission work in America's second largest city:

The request for an article on "The Kind of Evangelism which I Have Found Most Effective" is rather humbling because we have found ourselves lacking very much in this respect, and this just brings this home to us.

I shall give an outline of the total program as we have endeavored to carry out the mission of our Lord Jesus Christ. "Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you."

1. Ways and means of getting people to come to hear the Gospel.
   A. Invitations by pastor and church members.
   B. The witness of the true Christian in his daily life.
   C. Seeking out the sick and needy of the community and ministering to them.
   D. Neighborhood canvass occasionally with printed invitations and Christian literature. Sometimes going from door to door and giving personal invitations.
   E. Invitations and announcements in local papers.
   We can hardly say that anyone method has been outstanding.

2. Winning people to Christ.
   A. A thorough preaching of the Gospel of Jesus Christ and what it means to be a Christian.
   B. An exaltation of the Church of Jesus Christ and the Kingdom of God. Acts 8:12 and 28: 31.
   C. Patiently ministering to people when in need.
   D. A friendly congregation that shows the joy in their hearts.
   E. Praying always in private and in group. A regular weekly prayer meeting.
   D. An open house at all times for people who call in need.

The following words from a lengthy testimony of a faithful member will illustrate:

"The people were more friendly at this mission and the people that went there seemed to be more sincere and they were willing to do things for other people and they prayed for other people—and really they speak to our Heavenly Father and to Jesus Christ direct, and they seem to be so happy and they always have a smile for someone, and it makes anyone that goes there feel at home. — I love to hear them pray there (He has since learned to pray himself) — I love to hear the Gospel explained also." And then after speaking of his baptism he continued: "I want to tell you, my friend, that was the happiest day of my life. The weight I carried around with me all these years, that depressed feeling I always had is gone and what a blessing it is to know that the Holy Spirit is with you to guide and direct you."

S. T. MOYER, Missionary to India since 1920, and now home on furlough:

One can define evangelism in such broad general terms that there is little meaning left, or if meaning remains that a book would be required to cover the ground. For the purpose of this article, I wish to define evangelism as that which results in making disciples of Jesus as Lord and Saviour through a commitment to Him which is sealed by water baptism.

I've got to go a step farther, and voicing another, declare that we've got to bestir ourselves to do more than merely go through the motions without results. Business men are not content with such fruitless activity on the part of their agents. Were they to be satisfied thus, their business would be bankrupt, competitors would displace them. So the church too MUST have that type of evangelism which brings in disciples fully committed to Jesus as Lord and Saviour.

What methods have I found to accomplish this? I report in one sentence — by using a TEAM of workers, dominated by the HOLY SPIRIT, using BIBLE MESSAGES, applied to LIFE SITUATIONS. I have seen it work scores of times, in the U.S.A. and India.

A team of us were called to Nappanee. It consisted of one young married couple, a young unmarried man, a young unmarried woman. We had one fixed general meeting per day, in the evening. In these there was preaching for a verdict. Every morning the team met for prayer counsel and planning. In these meetings the Holy Spirit was director, one of the team merely His assistant. A few group meetings of various kinds were set up. The afternoons were given over to personal visitations, on a friendly basis, to the shut-ins and absentees, not necessarily to confront victims with challenges. It took three days for the Holy Spirit to begin His work in the meetings. From then on until the eighth day He was visibly at work. Testimonies of what Christ had done for the team members had a place. We had gone to this church by special invitation. When finally, on the seventh and eighth days calls were given to accept the Saviour, a dozen young folk responded and were baptized.

Kindly note these factors. First, the four designated above: a TEAM, dominated by the HOLY SPIRIT, using BIBLE MESSAGES, applied to LIFE SITUATIONS. Note further, these factors: TIME (at least four days were required); PERSONAL CONTACTS (not to force candidates to accept, but to acquaint the team with the field, so that the Holy Spirit, through the total contact, may be the constraining Person, not essentially His agents;) PREACHING FOR A VERDICT and providing a time and method for REGISTERING THE VERDICT; TESTIMONY; PRAYER bolstering up all efforts; a FIELD opened by INVITATION.

THEODORE ROTH, Pastor of the Swiss Church, Whitewater, Kansas:

This theme automatically binds me to my own very limited experience, either as evangelist or my association with other evangelists.

As I understand the theme, it is not so much the message, as the methods, that are to be considered, However, I would hesitate to write an article on a theme so important and not express, as clearly as possible, my own convictions as to the content of the message.

Evangelism means the spreading of the gospel. The gospel is the "good news" or "glad tidings" of Christ. The source of the "good news" is the Bible. The author of the Bible is the Holy Spirit of God, through means of human instrumentality. The value of the Bible, as of any other writing, depends largely upon the reliability of its author, his understanding, his purpose, his hopes, his aims and his ability to perform or bring to pass the plans he had in mind as well as the promises made, John 1:1, In the beginning was the word, or the plan. Rom. 4:20-22, We, as Abraham should give glory to God through our faith, not staggering at His promises because of unbelief, but be fully persuaded that what He has promised He is able to perform.

Our need of Christ to save us from our sins, is an experience in each of our lives and needs not to be borne out by citing scripture. I Cor. 1:21, we read that "It pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe." Read I Cor. 1:17-29. As we ponder these truths do we not share the apostles' emotion when he cried out, "O the depth of the riches both in wisdom and knowledge of God!" Evangelism then makes us aware of several truths.

Saviour.

First, Man's fallen condition and his need of a Saviour.

Second, God's wisdom in His planning of the Saviour.

Third, God's love in His sending the Saviour.

Fourth, God's knowledge in the truimph of the Saviour.

To be effective in the spreading of evangelism, I found that first I had to become fully convinced that I had a message of "Good News." Until I could tell others, out of my own experience, what Christ had done for me, I was not able to convince them that He could or would transform their lives. II Cor. 5:17, Romans 12:1-2, make Christ, not human philosophy, the central theme of every message.

Second, I have found it very effective to dwell on the thought of the "Wisdom of God," in His plan of salvation, rather than on only the power of God. He was all wise, as well as all powerful. Job's friends were unable to convince him that his punishment was a direct result of his own faithlessness or sin, but when God questioned him concerning the wisdom of the creation of the earth, the laws of nature, the winds, the rain, hail, thunder, lightning, the wisdom given to the birds and beasts, the beauty of the flowers, and so forth, then Job said, "I had heard of thee by the hearing of the ear: but now mine eye seeth thee." Job 42:1-5.

Third, it is effective to dwell on the manifested love of God, in the sending of His Son, as well as His wrath toward sin. It is better to present the "free gift" that God has for mankind than to stress only the claim on men's lives. Christ bought us with His own blood, that is true, but God sent Him to earth for that purpose. God is love. Love is the identifying substance of God, the crowning grace of Christ, the redeeming trait of man. God had no pleasure in the death of the sinner. He did not shrink because of redemption's price.

Fourth, the last effectiveness that I will mention is not the least, namely, God's knowledge and foreknowledge. He knew His plan would work, His Saviour would save, His King would reign. Although the first Adam was a victim, the second was a victor. As in Adam all die, so in Jesus Christ many shall be made alive; as by the disobedience of one, many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous. Christ was born to die. His death gives us life. He has robbed the grave of its power and death of its sting. He brings good out of evil, light out of darkness, order out of chaos, beauty out of ashes. He gives joy for tears, laughter for sorrow, peace in place of fear. "Thou wilt show me the path of life, in thy presence is the fulness of joy, at thy right hand are pleasures for evermore." Ps. 16:11, "If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things thou shalt be a good minister of Jesus Christ, nourished up in words of faith and of good doctrine." "Meditate upon these things; give thyself wholly to them; that thy profiting may appear to all." "Take heed unto thyself and unto the doctrine; continue in them; for in doing this, thou shalt save both thyself and them that hear thee." I Tim. 4:6, 15, 16.

J. H. EPP, one of our older ministers and one-time teacher in the Hillsboro, Kansas, Bible Academy:

Evangelism is an art of winning souls for Christ and His glorious Kingdom. Now there may be more appropriate defintions, but for my purpose here the above expression is sufficient.

Evangelism, as an art of soul-winning, suggests a necessary method as a mode of procedure. In this the chief prerequisite is a personal experimental knowledge of Jesus Christ as Savior. The person that is to be used by God must be cleansed from sin in life and heart, by the precious blood of Jesus Christ. Only lives that are cleansed and sanctified can be consecrated to God's service. Toleration of sins in act and thought rob one of power with God, in spite of natural talent and acquired knowledge. For Paul to live was Christ.

Foremost in method of procedure, we have Jesus' examples as recorded in the gospels. Now, if we turn to the records of His life's work we will discover some marvelous, yet very simple suggestions for our work in His Kingdom. One of these is the fact that He always began with the individual. Many concrete examples could be sighted. For instance, seven of His twelve disciples, He won for His Kingdom by a personal appeal to them as individuals.

In this one fact alone, I found my greatest opportunities as teacher in Bible in school and church, where I was to prepare young people for baptism and church-membership. The happiest hours of my life were spent with young people in school and in a class in catechism. Speaking about heaven on earth. I believe in it, and had it in this noble work for my blessed Savior. I certainly do not begrudge ministers of the gospel who think lightly of this method of instructing young people and sit idly by until some revival preacher comes along and wins the young people for him. What blessed opportunities for setting up standards and ideals of high and holy living in the minds of youth, and talking to them in a heart-to-heart way about the blessed Redeemer, who came to seek and to save that which is lost. I found this the very method of evangelization. The deepest truths come to us when our hearts are warmed by the spirit of God and our eyes are tear-stained by joy. It is then that we are copying our Master's examples. A real shepherd is concerned not only with his sheep and lambs, but also with their pasture. Here they are resting by the side of the still water and in green pasture of inspirational and educational opportunities. Then coaxing and bullying them into a decision will give way to the invitation of a loving Savior with outstretched hands, promising eternal life for all that accept His love. Christ draws, not drives. He in a most tactful way could command the good in man, rather than criticizing the evil. Here we need only to think of the woman at Jesus' feet in the house of Simon. To the man at the pool at Bethesda he spoke of his physical needs. To the heart-broken sisters He spoke of the resurrection in which they believed. Open your Bible, if you please, and you will discover an ocean of divine love in Jesus' methods and teachings. He spoke to His hearers about life abundant, not about creed. He has a positive message, Come unto Me, and I will give you rest. Here is heaven's golden chain that will draw the greatest sinners to God and His Christ. To me, in my work, as an ambassador of Christ, the best method was Jesus, Himself. Copy Him and you will be a happy fisher of man.

Rodolphe Petter, Absent from the Body, Present with the Lord

A telegram received on Monday morning by Rev. H. G. Nyce, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, and a similar telegram received by Rev. Walter H. Dyck, at the Mennonite Headquarters in Newton, contained the news of the death of Missionary Rodolphe Petter on Monday morning, January 6, at 7:00 a.m. the result of a heart attack. Funeral services will be held at Lame Deer, Montana, on Saturday, January 11. The services in the forenoon will be in the Cheyenne language. The afternoon services will be in the English language. Rev. A. P. Waltner, who had been requested to represent the Foreign Mission Board at the funeral, could not go due to illness. In the absence of a board member, Missionary S. T. Moyer, of India, now at Freeman College, Freeman, South Dakota, has consented to be present at the funeral.

Missionary Petter came from Switzerland, the home of his birth, to serve as a missionary to the Cheyenne Tribe of the American Indians under the Foreign Mission Board of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church. From 1891 to 1916, he was stationed at Cantonment, Oklahoma, and from 1916 until the time of his death, he was stationed at Lame Deer, Montana.

Missionary Petter was a devoted Christian, a student of the word of God, a great missionary, a scholar, an outstanding linguist, and an ethnologist. His work as a missionary and his publications in the Cheyenne language are monumental. He reduced the Cheyenne language to writing, discovered and systematized its grammar, edited a Cheyenne dictionary, and translated the entire New Testament and many Old Testament books. Besides this, he edited Cheyenne hymnbooks, and translated other Christian writings.

Though he is dead, the influence of his work will live on, for, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." Rev. 14:13.—D. J. Unruh, Vice-President, Foreign Mission Board

Mennonites The World Over

Christian Neff (1863-1946)

Christian Neff, Weierhof, Germany, for many decades the leading pastor and scholar of the Mennonites of Germany passed away December 31, 1946.

Rev. Neff was the honored, and beloved patriarch of the Mennonites the world over. This was best expressed in the fact that he was the sponsor and moderator of the three Mennonite World Conferences—Switzerland, 1925; Danzig, 1930; Holland, 1936. The friendly parsonage located some fifty miles west of Worms at the foot of the Donnersberg has become almost a place of Mennonite pilgrimage. Who can possibly replace the friendliness and hospitality of "Onkel" and "Tante" Neff. Everyone who came to their door received time and attention no matter how busy Rev. Neff was. Mrs. Neff preceded him in death several years ago.

Christian Neff

A Friend of the Young. Dr. Neff was a friend of young people. He understood their problems and won their confidence. How many youth meetings did he attend! And how often was he called upon to speak at such occasions! How masterfully could he inspire the young to follow the faith of the fathers! For decades he gave religious instruction at the Mennonite Realanstalt at the Weierhof. Many of his pupils are today pastors, teachers, Mennonite scholars and followers of many other occupations deeply grounded in the Christian faith.

Not all of his pupils remained faithful. It was not easy for him to see some of them go astray, but the great challenge with which he met even them was always loving kindness. Let us illustrate this with one incident. A young man who had found his second home in the parsonage at the Weierhof left it to study for years, got married, and lost interest in Christianity. One year when he and his wife were spending the Christmas holidays at the Weierhof everyone made preparations to attend the Christmas worship services except the wife of the young man. She claimed it would be hypocricy to attend church on Christmas if one did not do so the rest of the year. Dr. Neff said nothing. Yet there was something in his presence that made them join the rest in worship.

Another incident was quite amusing. A young man who had found the choice of his heart wrote her a love letter and at the same time wrote a congratulatory letter to "Onkel" Neff for his seventieth birthday. Somehow the love letter went to "Onkel" Neff and the congratulations for the seventieth birthday to his sweetheart. We can imagine how the latter was surprised when she opened her letter and how the former smiled when he read the over-flowing love letter on his seventieth birthday. It was pleasant and simple for "Onkel" Neff to straighten out this affair, evidenced by the fact that the couple soon got married.

A Minister of the Gospel. When Christian Neff, more than two generations ago, became a minister of the gospel it was quite unusual among Mennonites of South Germany to get training for this purpose from a "worldly university. Nevertheless he received a thorough theological training. If there ever was a Mennonite scholar who received only benefit, and no harm, from such training it was Neff. He remained a most sincere Christian with a deep-rooted faith in Christ, the Bible, and an exemplary loyalty to our Mennonite heritage. At the same time he was an outstanding scholar receiving an honorary degree of Doctor of Theology from The University of Zurich, one of the leading European institutions of learning. In our day it is surprising how many of our educated, or shall we say pseudo-educated, Mennonites have little but criticism for the traditional Mennonite way of life, finding the pastures on the other side of the fence very inviting. This attitude—a sign of lack of integration and balance—was completely foreign to Neff. In his life, in his theology, and in his scholarship he loved and lived the faith of our fathers. He did not "fight" for the principle of non-resistance, but he lived it. He was a man of principles, but his principles never became an end in themselves. His interest in the need of the individual and the saving grace of God in Christ overshadowed the rest.

When Rev. Neff started in the ministry of the gospel, training and salaries for ministers, and what goes with it, were comparatively new in his conference. Misunderstanding and friction could easily have caused schisms. It was to a large degree through the genuine loving kindness and understanding of Christian Neff that this was avoided and unity prevails to the present time. Now that he has passed away the South German Mennonites will be reading Hebrews 13:7 with greater meaning than heretofore.

A Mennonite Scholar. At the middle of the past century the Mennonites of South Germany still lived in comparative rural isolation. Little was done to use modern means and methods to keep the fold intact. This became necessary in the urban regions of North Germany where the van der Smissens, Mannhardts, Weydemanns, and others, under the influence of the Mennonites of Holland, felt the need to use modern methods to maintain and perpetuate Christian doctrines and practices as held by the Mennonites. Conferences were organized, periodicals published and Mennonite research begun. Neff saw the advantages of the same for South Germany. He made full use of the research work done by non-Mennonites in the field of Mennonite history. Neff found a very fine co-worker in Christian Hege who preceeded him in death a few year ago.

At the beginning of this century these two men began a work that will remain the best monument that could possibly be erected to them. We have reference to the Mennonitisches Lexikon which treats every subject pertaining to the Mennonites in three volumes. Untiringly both men worked to their end to complete the task. Two world wars interferred. Plans were underway to complete the publication, for which nearly all articles are at hand, when Neff was called away.

Today most of the Mennonite churches of Germany have theologically trained ministers. They have genuine interest in the past and future of the Mennonite church and many of them are fully qualified to complete the task begun by Neff and Hege. Their handicap is the handicap of Europe in general.

Our Share. We cannot go into detail to point out to what degree we Mennonites in America have benefitted and are benefitting by the work done by men like Neff and Hege. Current books on Mennonite history in this country are almost unthinkable without the work they and others have done. This can be best illustrated by the example of the Mennonite Enclyclopedia that is being planned by the American Mennonites. It will be largely based on the Mennonitisches Lexikon and follow the pattern of that monumental publication.

It is gratifying to read the letters of Christian Neff written up to the time that he passed away in which he thanks God for the coffee, honey, and other material aids that lightened his suffering during the last month of his life. But now that he has passed to his reward the best monument that Mennonites of America can erect to men like Neff and Hege is to give their whole-hearted support to the work to which they untiringly devoted their lives and that we strive to integrate the faith of our fathers, as revealed in the Bible, in our daily living. "Remember your leaders, those who spoke to you the word of God; consider the outcome of their life, and imitate their faith." Heb. 13:7—Cornelius Krahn

The Value of a Bible School

by John G. Rempel

Our Bible School here at Rosthern Saskatchewan, has again opened its doors to studious young people. More than forty students assemble daily in the school. The fifteen-minute morning devotion prior to the opening of the classes leaves a deep impression and is an inspiration for the day. When looking at the time table, a varied picture presents itself. To an outsider it, with its numerous and various subjects and other abbreviations, must appear like a labyrinth. Many might wonder how students and teachers find their way through this labyrinth. A proverb says: "All roads lead to Rome. "Eventually, all these subjects lead to the Creator and Savior of all mankind.

When looking over the student body, we are especially impressed by the various ages. Young girls, still in their teen age, evangelists ranging from thirty to thirty-five years, yes up to a minister forty-four years of age, unite together with the teachers, to search the scriptures.

The above picture coincides with the purpose and aim of the Bible School as defined in our catalog, namely, (a) To gain a deeper knowledge of the Word of God, (b) Furthering the knowledge in Church History in general, and Mennonite History in particular. (c) Increasing the general education, particularly in the German and English language. (d) Instructions in music, as well as cultivating a deeper appreciation for our church hymns. (e) Preparation for future service in our churches, such as Sunday School, Christian Endeavor and in the ministry.

The private morning and evening devotions, the prayer meetings on Saturday night in the school which have become indispensable to the school life, the systematic visitations to the sick and aged in the town by various groups of students organized for this purpose, the Sunday School in the school building, the service in the church together with other church worshippers, the visiting of near-by district schools for Sunday School, the assisting in Christian Endeavors and singspirations conducted by the youth in the church, mission work in the town hall, — these many activities, interchanged with quiet times of worship, speak an eloquent language.

During the summer months, many of our students go out to teach summer vacation Bible school. Last summer forty-two schools were visited by forty-six teachers, reaching over one thousand children.

Blessings are flowing from our Bible School, as well as from others. Let us continue to support and further the work of the Bible schools.

Indirectly our Bible School has yearly received assistance from the Home Mission Board of the General Conference. The principal, as a worker for the Home Mission Board, received financial assistance from them. Now, however, the school is paying the salary of all teachers and is self-supporting. Herewith I wish to express my deepest gratitude to the Home Mission Board for the support they have given me a number of years.—John G. Rempel, Rosthern, Saskatchewan

Letter from Miss Eva Pauls

(The following letter addressed to the Board of Foreigns Missions was written by Eva A. Pauls from Champa, C. P., India, on November 9, 1946.)

Greetings in Jesus Name:

"In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent His only Begotten Son into the world, that we might live through Him."

"I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly."

May this true and abundant life be manifested in all of us anew in these days. May God's great Love be received in many a heart that they too may rejoice in this eternal life, and live an abundant and victorious life.

The third quarter has been a very busy one. One in which we have experienced again the Lord's nearness, His sustaining grace strength in a wonderful way. 'As thy days so shall thy strength be" was literally fulfilled in those days. It was my priviledge during the months of September and August to help take care of Rev. Penner and Rev. Isaac who were sick during these months. Many prayers went up to the Throne of grace in their behalf. The Lord restored the one but saw fit to call the one to Himself. "O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God; how unsearchable are His judgments, and His ways past finding out." Rom. 11:33.

September 29, we had a special service for the seven new leper nurses who had passed the probation period and now received their caps and uniforms. The pastor of the church gave a short message on Matthew. 10:42. Then followed a talk by the nurse in charge. The new nurses then repeated the Florence Nightingale pledge in Hindi, after which all the nurses joined in a special number in song. Rev. P. W. Penner gave a message on the spirit of service. After another special song Rev. Waltner gave a word of appreciation and a small gift to two women who have faithfully given their service in helping the sick. One has served as a nurse for about ten years and the other one has helped with the dressing of wounds for over twenty years. Because of old age and crippled hands they are now both retiring from this active service. It was an impressive service and my prayer is that as these nurses have dedicated themselves for the work of serving the sick, may they truly have dedicated their lives to the Lord Jesus Christ and serve because they love Him.

The head nurse of the hospital was able to be dismissed as sympton free. She left the home and is now taking care of the pre-school age children in the untained boarding. I miss her at the hospital but am thankful that the Lord has healed her again.

One evening last week one of our leper girls suddenly took sick with cholera. Treatment and medicines were given, but by three in the morning she passed away. Cholera injections were given at once and so far no more cases have occured.—In His Service, Eva A. Pauls

---

Mennonites Contribute Nearly Two Million Dollars Worth of Food and Clothing

Wayne Henard, Director of Material Aid, for the M.C.C. reports that during the past fiscal year 6,450 tons of food valuel at $1,108,599.11 were shipped from the United States and Canada and 363 tons of clothing valued at $781,052.14. A Comparison of clothing receipts of 1946 with that of 1945 reveals that 37 per cent of the receipts in 1946 were new clothing as against 32 per cent in 1945. The combined new and used clothing contributions in 1946 have increased by 80 per cent and have remained fairly steady throughout the year. There is no indication as yet of a decrease in contributions.

(Continued from page 2)

them free. Cash sickness benefits will range from $5 to $15 a week." The article just quoted further states that "Swedish authorities found that 34 per cent of all persons seeking public assistance did so because of ill health," and that "A government survey indicated that 50 per cent of the Swedish population belonged to voluntary health insurance organizations. The health bill will make health insurance compulsory for everyone, with each person contributing about $3.50 a year." If the foregoing bills become law in somewhat near the form they now have, then it should be exceedingly worthwhile to watch how they work out. Afterall, Jesus was not unconcerned about caring for the sick.

"Jesus was able to keep in tune with others. He knew that to get out of tune with others meant he would be out of tune with God. Not that others agreed with him, but that he never disliked them, nor did them an injury. He was always in tune. He did it by keeping the door to the heart of God open."

—Roy A. Burkhart

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Southern Presbyterian Youth Stress Missions

By Mary-Starke Higginbotham
President, Young People's Council of the General Assembly

To many young people we are familiarly known as the young people of the Southern Presbyterian Church. Officially we are known as the young people of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. Presbyterian young people are scattered over fifteen southern states, from Virginia to Missouri, and from Texas to Florida. These groups are sub-divided into districts called "presbyteries." An operating youth council in each presbytery and in each synod has contact with the young people from the Assembly level to the local church level.

Twenty young people form the Young People's Council of the General Assembly, comprising the presidents of each synodical fellowship, three executive officers and two adult advisers. The Council is an interracial group and meets annually at Montreat, North Carolina, to map out the program of the organization.

This past year—beginning in April—the Council adpoted the theme, "Live Christ," using Sallman's "Head of Christ" as its inspiration and Watt's hymn, "I Bind My Heart This Tide," as its hymn of dedication. The over-all program is adopted by the synods with modifications to fit the area needs. One of the objectives was the raising of $10,000 for the support of eight young foreign missionaries. Speaking engagements for missionaries on furlough are arranged in the local churches. This provides for an educational program of missions.

A Synod's Council is primarily an administrative body and makes the policy for the youth organization beyond those selected by the Assembly's Council. For example, the young people participate in the United Christian Youth Movement, elect representatives to this Movement, and send delegates to interdenominational and interracial conferences. Where there are projects of the United Christian Youth Movement, the Synod's Council actively shares in them.

Our Presbytery Council is really the functional unit of the organization, and the president of the Presbytery is the person responsible for the work of the Synod. This council takes the program and changes it into a living reality for the local church. Semi-annual rallies are held for the purpose of creating fellowship, receiving information and being motivated to share in the work. Each summer pioneer camps or young people's conferences are held, the programs for which are largely planned by the young people themselves.

For the past seventeen years there has been a sevenfold division of work, paralleling the seven large divisions of the Presbyterian Church. With the small, undeveloped church primarily in mind, the organization this year is being streamlined and a fellowship plan of five commissions is being followed. During the year special projects—war relief, literature, scholarship contests, etc.—are being undertaken. In December of this year a World Mission Convention was held at Nashville Tennessee. About 1500 young people attended. National and International leaders presented the cause of home and foreign missions.

Presbyterian young people are genuinely distressed about the needs of the people of the world, and they are assuming their share of the burden to meet these needs. They are greatly concerned about the inability of UN to reach decisions that will bring about universal peace. They also have a real interest and a growing understanding and appreciation of the race problem and the plight of the laboring man. In one of the Synod meetings 500 young people were more anxious to discuss the interracial and interdenominational work of the state than they were to eat their lunch. The constant demand for classes on world peace at summer conferences indicate that Presbyterian youth is aware of the confusion of our day, and eager to learn what Christians may do about it.

I Am Yesterday

I am yesterday. I am gone from you forever.

I am the last of a long procession of days, streaming behind you, away from you, pouring into mist and obscurity, and at last into the ocean of oblivion. Each of us has his burden of triumphs, of defeats, of laughter, of bitterness; we bear our load from you into forgetfulness; yet as we go we each leave something in your subconsciousness. We do not love you. We do not hate you. We judge you.

We have no compassion; only Today has that. We have no encouragement for you; only Tomorrow has that.

We stand at the door of the past welcoming the single file of rays that pass through, watching Tomorrows becoming todays and then entering among us. Little by little we suck out your life, as vampires; as you grow older we aborb your thoughts. You turn to us more and more, less and less toward Tomorrow.

Our snows cumber your back and whiten your head. Our icy waters put out your passions. Our exhalations dim your hopes. Our dead loves, burnt-out enthusiasms, shattered dreamhouses, dissolved illusions move to you, surround you.

Tomorrows come unnoticed. Todays slip by unheeded. More and more you become a creature of Yesterday.

We reach up long, sinewy, gray arms of custom and tradition, to choke Today and impede Tomorrow.

We are the world's Yesterdays. If you know enough to put your feet upon us, you can rise rapidly. But when you let us ride on your backs we strangle and smother you.

I am Yesterday. Learn to look me in the face, to use me, and not be afraid of me. I am not your friend. I am your judge and your fear.

Tomorrow is your friend.

Items of Interest

Although the 'draft holiday' is to be continued, army spokesmen announce the intention of asking for an extension of the draft law which is to expire in March. Publicity and organization of forces urging the enactment of such legislation have been in action preparatory for the hoped for legistlation since October. The newspapers have been carrying material since December. It is expected this legislation will be up early in the new Congress's docket. The army's plan for conscription is sugar-coated with every effort made to make the bitter pill palatable to the common man who pays for preparation for war. Every effort is made to make boot training and the fact that army training has one and only one objective acceptable by stressing other than basic training. Yet, the proposed legislation represents the thing which caused millions of Americans to leave their European homeland.

* * * *

The U. S. wheat and corn crops were the largest in the country's history, it is reported by the Department of Agriculture. Yet, 250 million bushels of wheat are earmarked for export as over against 425 million bushels shipped during the last crop year.

Plans for aid to India and China have not been worked out on a comprehensive basis, it is reported. The general outlook, thus, is not bright.

* * * *

With the end of the year, the UNRRA relief program came to an end. From now on any relief work financed by governments will be conducted individually by the separate governments concerned and not on an international scale. Reports state that the plight in Europe is as severe as ever and that the later winter months are the death dealing ones. Many observers feel that this stoppage of relief will have far reaching and disastrous effects in a year that America's production was record breaking.

* * * *

The California churches through the Sunday School and Christian Endeavors have undertaken a project of raising $500.00 to buy chairs for the Shirmer churches at Hotevilla, Arizona. These are Indian Churches.

* * * *

The Junior Christian Endeavor of California had as their project the giving of Christmas packages to the Hopi Indians of Arizona.

* * * *

Volunteer workers will spend two years in New Guinea to rebuild the Lutheran mission stations destroyed there during the war. The workers volunteering for this service will receive only transportation expenses and maintenance, according to Dr. Theodore P. Fricke.

* * * *

The National Stewardship Institute has compiled a statistical survey of the financial support rendered the churches of America during the last quarter of a century. It states that church giving had fallen off more than a billion dollars in contrast to the increased population, greater increase in church membership, almost doubled national income, and multiplied expenditures for both taxes and luxuries.

* * * *

Christianity is in the midst of one of the greatest periods of its history, asserts Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette, professor of missions at Yale Divinity School. Despite losses in Europe and Great Britain, the church during the past thirty years has doubled its membership in many places such as Africa, India, China, Japan, the Netherlands, Mexico, and Brazil. The influence of the Church is constantly growing in non-white sections of the world in particular and is constantly exerting more influence on making even though Christianity is a "minority movement."

* * * *

During the past year the Methodist Church gained over 800,000 new members and 632 new churches were founded or reopened.

* * * *

The army of occupation in Germany, it is reported in an October 5 article in the New York Times, "are exposed to bribery, moral corrosion, and to infection by venereal disease (264 out of every 1,000 men were found to be infected in June); and I would hold that their previous training in and out of the army had not prepared them to resist temptations or avoid these dangers of an occupation army," the article concludes.

YOUR HELP NEEDED NOW

Word has just been received that C. F. Klassen, the MCC representative in Holland, has chartered a ship with the Dutch Government. The ship is to sail from European ports for Buenos Aires on January 31 with 2150 Mennonite refugee passengers. This is good news to all who have been prayfully awaiting an end to misery, suffering, homelessness and hunger. The Lord has opened the way too for us who have been asking Him to show us what we could do to relieve our brethren's plight. The General Conference share of the cost of this first transportation and rehabilitation venture following World War II is $62,500. Of this $50,000 is to be raised in direct relief and $12,500 in ten year loans. Churches and individuals who wish to aid in this urgent refugee migration should act NOW. Half of the cost of the ship must be paid by January 14.. Send funds for gifts and loans to the the Mennonite General Conference Headquarters 722 North Main Street Newton, Kansas. Indicate clearly funds that are for relief and which funds are given as a loan. The loans are ten year loans that can be non-bearing or bearing interest at 2¼ percent. Certificates of indebtedness will be issued for all loans made.

RELIEF

Annual M. C. C. Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Mennonite Central Committee was held on January 2 and 3 at the Mennonite Mission, 1907 South Union Avenue, Chicago, Illinois. The evening of January 2, was given to reports and testimonies of 1946 relief commissioners, returned relief directors, and introduction of guests. The several executive committee members gave a summary of their activities and the various sections of the headquarters offices also reported.

In speaking of Mennonite Aid and Resettlement, Bro. P. C. Hiebert said, "A section of the MCC's undertaking which in the years before us will continue to be of very considerable importance is the matter of releasing the refugees abroad and transporting them to a new home that must be provided for . . . . All this will require very considerable amounts of labor as well as costs in money together with our best thought and the guidance of the divine Lord whose we are and whom we serve."

Denmark

"Changes have been taking place in Denmark. About a week ago Brother Gering left Denmark to attend the director's conference in Amsterdam and then go to his new work in Switzerland. Susie Peters and Peter Bartel came from Holland to assist with the work here. We are still busy doing what we can to help the German refugees. Tomorrow we hope to begin a two week's tour northwestern Denmark to visit a few of the camps we have never visited before and to distribute the shoes which were purchased here. By New Year we hope the new shipment of clothing will be ready for distribution."

The Unit personnel at the Denmark relief center now consists of three: Elma Esau, Peter Bartel and Susie Peters, with Elma acting as director. Walter Gering has been transferred from Denmark to Basel, Switzerland. —News release of December 20.

Leaders of Mennonite Congregations In France Meet

About twenty-five representatives of French and Alsace Mennonite congregations met with five of our relief workers in Chalon on December 10, 1946, to learn more about the American Mennonites and the relief program in Europe. Our relief workers first contacted the French Mennonites in 1945 when Henri Volkamar Sr. of Colmar learned about our relief work.

The devotional period of the meeting was led by Bro. Walter Gering who spoke in the German language using as Text Matt. 4:18. Henry Buller explained the background and work of the Mennonite Central Committee, the C. P. S. program, and the work of the Peace Section. A historical sketch and review of the relief work in France was also given. The French-Alsace delegates formed a liaison committee to represent relief and such concerns as would be mutually beneficial.—News release of December 27.

Displaced Mennonites in China

A letter and cable from J. Lawrence Burkhalter at Shanghai, China, states that 27 Mennonite and 25 Baptist Russian refugees are in Sinkiang province and request funds for existence and travel. The cablegram states that most Mennonites are widows and children. Life is very difficult in Sinkiang, particularly during the winter months and all of the Mennonites wish to come farther East into China.

A reply to the above request was made as follows: . . . . .ASSIST MENNONITE BAPTIST REFUGEES TO POINT MOST SUITABLE STANDPOINT SAFETY ECONOMIC LIVING MEANS PROVIDING LIVELIHOOD ETC DURING PROBABLE LENGTHY WAITING PERIOD THROUGH MIGRATION PROCESSING . . . .—News release of December 27.

Clothing Arrives in China

Our workers in Kaifeng report that 200 bales of clothing arrived there on November 4. J. Lawrence Burkholder stationed at Shanghai comments, "The bales were packed in excellent condition. One person remarked that the shipment represents a vast measure of loving care. The bedding in particular is needed by institutions. This is the only shipment of bedding which we have received this season. You can be assured that the clothing will be meeting a real need." Clayton Beyler says, "The Chinese who receive it will not be able to write thank you notes, but you can be assured that it will meet a big need and that the wealth of such a shipment can be reckoned in hundreds of millions of dollars."—Release of December 27

IN MEMORIAM

BERNHARD PETER KREHBIEL, son of the Reverend Christian and Susan Ruth Krehbiel, was born March 17, 1873, at Summerfield, Illinois. In 1879 the family moved to Halstead, Kansas, where Bernhard grew up on a farm adjoining the town. Here he attended the public schools, a few summers the church parochial school, and later also for a short time the Mennonite Preparatory School, a forerunner of Bethel College. Baptized by his father in 1890 he joined the First Mennonite Church of Halstead and was active in various offices, such as Sunday School superintendent and deacon. On his father's farm, which for ten years housed an Indian Industrial Mission School and later a Mennonite orphanage, he was an active assistant to his parents. In 1903 he was united in marriage to Katie Goerz, oldest daughter of Reverend David Goerz, and they resided on a farm near Halstead until 1932 when they moved to Newton, where they joined the Bethel College Church. In Newton Bernhard worked in the American Flours, Inc. mill of which he was a shareholder. Death came suddenly after a heart attack on December 18. Besides his wife and two adopted children. Arthur and Mrs. Helen Lemon, he is mourned by two sisters, Mrs. Rudolf A. Goerz, Newton, and Mrs. Katherine A. Ewert, Madison, Connecticut; and four brothers, C. E. of Newton, Edward B. of New York City, and Paul G. and Lucas P. of Halstead.

MRS. MARY BLEAM nee MOHR, daughter of David E. and Maris Moyer Mohr, was born January 26, 1865, near Center Valley, Pa. She was received into the Friedens Reformed Church, Friedensville, Pa., by confirmation, August 15, 1880. Her marriage to Allen E. Bleam took place August 29, 1885. On April 4, 1891, she was received into the membership of the West Swamp Mennonite Church of which she has been a devout member since. A year and a half ago she went to the Home for the Aged at Frederick. She was called home after a brief sickness November 16, 1946. She is survived by a brother, Frank Mohr, and a sister Mrs. John R. Fenstermacher.

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

During the Christmas vacation period fluorescent lights were installed in the classrooms in College Hall. The floor in Ramseyer Chapel was thoroughly cleaned and refinished. Rev. Harry Yoder attended the MCC meeting in Chicago January 2,3. To date about $43,000 has been raised for the Auditorium—Physical Education building fund. More than three-fourths of this amount is in cash gifts. Present plans call for an intensive campaign in the local area early in the year. President Ramseyer plans to attend the meetings of the Association of American Colleges, the National Commission on Christian Higher Education, the Council of Church Boards of Education, and the Council of Mennonites and Affiliated Colleges in Boston during the week of January 13. The Men's Gospel Team held meetings in some of the Pennsylvania churches during the Christmas vacation period. Prof. John Klassen was elected as a deacon in the local church at the New Year's business meeting.

BETHEL COLLEGE

The January social night for the faculty and staff was held on Monday evening, the sixth, in the Student Union Room. During the formal part of the program, Dr. Hobson, Curriculum Director of the Plainview schools at Wichita, described to the group the Plainview system, which is integrated throughout around the principle of World Peace. The committee planning this year's Faculty and Staff Welfare Program consists of: A. J. Regier, chairman, Robert Tully, David Suderman, R. C. Kauffman, and Eva Harshbarger. A large proportion of the student wives, now numbering over fifty, have also been meeting in the first week of each month in various faculty homes to get better acquainted. The general chairman, Mrs. Arnold Claassen has appointed Mrs. Abe Peters; Mrs. Loris Habegger, and Mrs. Otto Sommer as a program committee, while volunteer hostesses serve from month to month.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Vacation time meant spending the holidays with friends or relatives for most of the students and faculty. Those whose homes are in nearby communities all went home. Miss Ewert spent her vacation at home in Hillsboro, Kansas. Jacob Friesen of Paraguay and Rein Mestag from Holland spent first part of their vacation at the home of Harris Waltner after which they motored to Newton, Kansas, with Professor Lichti to visit friends there. Miss Franz spent her vacation at her home near Lind, Washington while Miss Ratzlaff visited her family in Nebraska. Marian Regier was at home near Madrid, Nebraska, Verna Epp visited her home in Kansas, and Melita Fast was with her family at Warroad, Minnesota. Rev. Moyer visited his mother in Pennsylvania.

MENNONITE SEMINARY NEWS

Christmas vacation saw students going to visit friends, relatives or their families or out serving in churches during this joyous celebration of Christ's birth. Some remained in the city and were able to observe the Christmas season in the city's traditions. Outstanding was the annual rendition of the "Messiah" by the Swedish Choral Society accompanied by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. The ageless message of inspiration and hope was given to an audience of 2,800.

Plans are underway to hold monthly vesper services at the Seminary. At these vesper services, outstanding speakers from the various Mennonite Branches and leaders and speakers from the institutions and seminaries in the city will be obtained. The service will consist of singing together and special music, prayer and devotional exercises. Time will be provided for fellowship together in an informal atmosphere.

The first vesper service to be held will be on February 2, Sunday afternoon at 3:00. Monthly services then will be planned for the benefit of interested people in and near Chicago.

A list of Mennonites in Chicago and vicinity is being compiled at the Seminary. The list will be used for the purpose of mailing information regarding the service. Anyone interested in being placed on this list for future information regarding the services may write to the Seminary, 4614 Woodlawn, Chicago 15, Illinois, and request to be placed on the list.

Jottings

—Bethel Church, Perkasie, Pa., Ralph N. Lewis, President of the Young People's Union of the Eastern District Conference, made a fraternal trip to Kitchener, Ontario, to visit the Young People's Society of the Stirling Avenue Mennonite Church, of which Rev. Andrew Shelly, formerly of Pennsburg, is pastor. Mr. Lewis, who was accompanied by his wife and six-year-old son Eric, enjoyed the fellowship with the Canadian brethren in their Monday evening meeting and the warm hospitality of their homes. The Lewises made the trip by auto from Sunday noon to Wednesday noon, making an overnight stop at Watkin's Glen, New York.—Fannie E. Landis, Corr.

—Emmanuel Church, Galva, Kansas: "We Would See Jesus" was the theme of the evangelistic services held December 1-6 inclusive by Brother Walter Dyck. These meetings were a mountain-top experience for our congregation. On December 15 the Eden C. E. Group gave us a very fine return program. The first part of our Christmas program was given by the children. For the second part the choir sang "The Choir of Bethlehem." We "lingered at the manger at Bethlehem" by observing second Christmas Day with services.— Marie Wedel, Corr.

—The Fairfield Mennonite Church, Fairfield, Pa., at its annual meeting, decided to add a full time minister of music to its staff as soon as a qualified person can be secured.—Henry Burkhard, Corr.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio: On Advent Sunday Rev. Smucker gave a sermon on the true meaning of Christmas. With the true spirit in mind, we have enjoyed the holiday season. Our church, as usual, has been beautifully decorated. The children gave a very nice program Christmas night. At this service the White Gifts were presented. "The Messiah" was sung December 15. This rendidtion was recorded and repeated from Findlay on Christmas Day. This service was especially appreciated by those who could not attend the regular rendition. A building program was presented at the annual business meeting January 1. —L. I. Smith, Corr.

—Herald Church, Bessie, Oklahoma: On Thanksgiving Day Miss Lehman spoke to us in the interest of the "Go Ye Missions" in the Ozarks of eastern Oklahoma. An offering was held for the same purpose. In November Ernest Bachman of Newton, Kansas, showed slides in our church. The pictures were taken while he was in Europe a year ago when he went there with a shipload of horses. He came here in interest of European relief. A letter recently received by our pastor from Ernest Bachman states that he has been able to send several thousand dollars worth of "Care Food" packages across in recent weeks. December 15 Rev. and Mrs. Aron Jantzen spoke in our church in the morning. In the evening they showed pictures in the Sichar Church. Rev. Jantzen gave us much information about India, which gave us a better idea of their work. An offering held for foreign mission work. The offering for foreign relief at the Sunday School program amounted to $192.56. On December 26 Rev. Dahlenburg, our pastor, showed slides of "In the City of David" to a full house. The offering went for home relief. Rev. J. J. Esau will be with us on January 7 with a message in the interest of Grace Bible Institute.—Mrs. Jacob Penner.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: The Oregon Churches Convention, the first such convention ever held, was held in the Grace Church. It was enjoyed very much even though there was very bad weather, lots of rain and high water. The messages were very good. We really felt the spirit. Had our Christmas program December 24 and a watchnight service on December 31.—Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas: On November 9 a total of $1,900 was received from the annual mission sale, sponsored by the three mission societies. The offering for mission and relief purposes on November 24 and on Thanksgiving Day amounted to $2,044. Child consecration services were held on Dec. 1. On Dec. 8 Linda Eidger and Sam Guhr were united in marriage. And the wedding of Wilma Neufeld and Harold Goertz took place on December 15. On the evening of December 22 the choir and other musical organizations of the church gave a Christmas program. We had our annual church program on Christmas Eve, with songs and exercises by the Kindergarten and Primary departments. But instead of the usual Christmas pageant, presented by the Juniors and Intermediates, slides were secured from the Bethel College slide collection, and we had the "Christmas Story" in picture, with a background scripture reading and special music by the choir and men's trio. Also marimba music by Verna Voth. On December 29 a fellowship supper was served at six o'clock in honor of Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Dyck. (Rev. Dyck recently resigned as Elder of our Church). Then followed the evening service with Rev. P. P. Wedel as guest speaker. Rev. Dyck related some of his experiences during the past years of service. A bedroom suite and a divan were presented to them as a gift from the church for serving as Elder so faithfully and efficiently for the past twenty-one years.—Mrs. J. V. Regier, Corr.

—Deep Run (Pa.) Church: A number of our young people who are attending college and other schools are enjoying the Christmas vacation with their families at home. A group of young folk went Christmas caroling. The Men's Gospel Team from Bluffton College rendered a very nice program for us Sunday evening. The Always Faithful Class remembered the widows, widowers, and the sick with gifts at Christmas.—Mae Gross, Corr.

—First Church, Monroe, Washington: The church was filled to capacity Christmas Eve. The program consisted of numbers by the children and a pageant and a play by the adults. The offering was $100.12. The Christmas morning service was well attended. The text was taken from II Cor. 9:15, "God's Unspeakable Gift." The pastor and his family are now occupying the new parsonage which was purchased recently. The Sunday School has drawn up and adopted a new constitution which will be included in the 1946 year book.—Mrs. G. Kopper, Corr.

—Wayland Mennonite Church, Wayland, Iowa: On Sunday evening, December 15, our church choir assisted in giving a Christmas cantata in the high school auditorium. The united choirs of the community sang. On December 22 all the classes of our Sunday School participated in a White Gift service which reached a total of $343.08. On this same Sunday eight children were consecrated in a special service by the pastor. There were also seven accessions to the church, one by baptism and six by letter. James Rinner, who has been doing relief work through the C.P.S. Unit in Puerto Rico, returned recently to spend the holidays with his parents.—Anna Mullett, Corr.

—Woodland Mennonite Church, Warroad, Minnesota: We had our Christmas program in the church on the evening of the twenty-fourth, and many came out. During Thanksgiving Week Rev. Abram Derkson of Steinbach, Manitoba, held meetings in our church. His inspiring messages strengthened us in our faith. Rev. Mouttet of the "Go-Ye" Mission was also with us on Thanksgiving Day. He gave us a message in the forenoon and showed pictures of the "Go-Ye" Mission and of Grace Bible School in the evening. It was thirty-two below here this morning, so we have postponed our regular C. E. program until next Sunday evening.—Mrs. D. S. Heppner, Corr.

—Rev. Arnold Regier, who is planning to graduate from the Mennonite Biblical Seminary this spring, brought an anniversary message at the special services arranged by the Zion Church, Elbing, Kansas, in honor of its pastor, Rev. H. J. Dyck, who has served the church for a period of twenty-five years. Rev. and Mrs. Regier visited with relatives and friends at Elbing and Newton during the holiday season.

—The choir of the Apostolic Mennonite Church of Trenton, Ohio, under the direction of Mrs. Artie Howe, and Mrs. Margaret Stretcher at the organ, rendered a beautiful cantata, entitled "The Story of Christmas" according to the scriptures, on Monday evening, December 23, 1946. The children of the Sunday School gave a beautiful program December 22 during the regular Sunday School period.—Lydia A. Augsburger, Corr.

—Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas: Rev. J. W. Nickel of Langham, Saskatechewan, who at present is continuing his studies at Bethel College, gave us an inspiring New Year's message. Rev. Walter Gering, our pastor, is now visiting various groups of Mennonites scattered throughout western Europe. Dr. C. E. Krehbiel reports improvements in his health, but as yet has not been able to be with us. The C. E. began the work of the new year with a fine banquet. M. S. Harder, Assistant Professor of Education, Social Sciences and English at Bethel College, delivered the address of the evening. His challenge was that each endeavorer live each day of 1947 with a peculiar sensitivity to the eternal worth of each and every personality we contact.—Reuben Krehbiel, Corr.

First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: About fifty young people of our church met in the church basement on December 31 for a New Year's Night watch services. The evening was spent in playing games and in viewing moving pictures taken by Milton Bartel and Henry E. Wiebe on a cattle-boat trip to Europe this past summer. At 11:45 we met in our C. E. room for a program consisting of talks and special music on challenges of the New Year.—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—Inman Church, Inman, Kansas: Viola Duerksen left on December 30 for Akron, Pa. Sometime within the next few weeks she, together with a group of other workers, will leave the States and go by boat to South America. Here she will serve as teacher in the Friesland Colony schools. A large group of displaced Mennonites is expected to arrive in the colony within the next month or so, and it is among this group where her work will very likely be centered. Her several years experience as public school teacher, her active participation in church work, her last two summer's occupation as dietitian in one of our camps, and her work as an assistant in a mental hospital well qualify her for the appointment.—Corr.

—Johannestal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: Sunday December 29, Brother Ernst Harder served us with the morning message. On the evening of December 31 we had a combined program of New Year's Eve and farewell for Ernst and Ruth Harder, who are leaving for Paraguay after a few weeks. After the program we went to the church basement where we enjoyed a short social hour. On New Year's morning we had our usual services.—Mrs. Arnold A. Plenert, Corr.

—Menno Church, Lind, Washington: The elementary Sunday School of the Menno Church gave its Christmas program on Christmas Eve. The children brought gifts of new clothing for relief instead of gifts for each other. An offering was taken which was added to the milk fund the children had contributed as birthday money. The church had a special Christmas service with Rev. Househaur of Odessa delivering the sermon. Special musical numbers were rendered by local members.—Mrs. Henry J. Franz, Corr.

—Zoar Church, Goltry, Oklahoma: On New Year's we had an all-day meeting: New Year's service in the

HOW TO WIN A STUDENT TO CHRIST

1. When you meet him, be genuine and natural. Approach him on his own ground. Pray that your conversation may be wise and tactful.

2. Show him that you want to be his friend. Be interested in what he does without prying into his affair. Share a tennis match or other sport with him.

3. Build up his confidence in you. Let him see that you understand him and that you do not betray his personal confidences. The wise procedure is to let him introduce spiritual matters into the conversation, if he will.

4. When you have an opening to tell him about Christ, tell him simply and sincerely what Christ has meant to you. Present evidence from God's Word and let him think it through. Be patient and pray for his decision.

—From The Baptist Student as quoted in Campus and Church morning, fellowship dinner at noon, and in the afternoon while the men had their annual business meeting the ladies cut material for relief in the basement. On January 4, in the evening, our young people will participate in a youth rally in a neighboring Congregational Church. The pastor there is a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute.—Mrs. J. W. Bergen —Rev. Edmund Miller, Field Representative of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary and Bible School, is visiting a number of the Kansas churches during January. The past week he visited the Alexanderwohl and Goessel churches. In the remaining weeks of this month he plans to visit the Tabor, Hillsboro, Johannestal, Brudertal, Lehigh, and Friedenstal churches.

—Alexanderwohl Church, Goessel, Kansas: A large choir of over one hundred voices, directed by Herbert Franz, gave a musical, Christmas program Sunday night, December 22 to a large, appreciative audience. Rev. Walter Dyck was our guest speaker at the Christmas worship service the morning of December 26. The annual church meeting took place in a morning and afternoon session on Friday, December 27. On the evening of December 31 the combined Junior, Young People's and Senior C. E.'s gave a New Year's Eve program.—Corr.

—Bethel College Church: The School of Missions began Sunday evening, January 12 and will continue five weeks, meeting every Sunday evening from 5:30 to 8:30 P. M. The Theme is India. Pictures and special lectures have been arranged for the closing hour of each session. Provision is made for all ages from the children to college students and adults.—Eldon N. Graber, Corr.

—Calvary Church, Barlow, Oregon: We of the Barlow church have just gone through a very pleasant holiday season having enjoyed special programs and services. On December 22 the children of the Sunday School gave their Christmas program, assisted by several members of the adult chorus. The evening of December 28 a mixed chorus from one of the nearby communities gave a cantata to a very appreciative audience. We have been blest with beautiful weather though a bit chilly. Our pastor, Rev. Roth, and wife are welcoming their daughter and her husband home after an absence of over three years in California.—Mrs. L. E. Conrad, Corr.

—First Church of Christian Mennonite, Moundridge, Kansas: The Christmas cantata "The Christ Is Come" by Willtrie, directed by Mrs. Elmer Goering and sung by the choir, was well given on December 22. Christmas Eve the Sunday School gave its Christmas program of music and recitations. Communion services were observed on Christmas morning. Twenty-three Good Will Christmas Bundles were sent to the M.C.C. from our Church. Members of our church contributed 443 bushels wheat and $750 toward the Elyria-Hesston-Moundridge "Flour for Relief" campaign.—Mrs. Myron G. Stucky, Corr.

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: The marriage of Doris Krehbiel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Krehbiel to Eldon Ray Stucky, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Stucky took place January 5. Our "family night", which consists of a Bible study class for each member of the family, will begin January 15 and will be held on Wednesday of each week.—Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

—First Church, Summerfield, Ill.: On Christmas Day we had regular church services. The church was well filled for the Sunday School Christmas program that evening, and a generous offering was collected. On the last Sunday in the old year we observed Holy Communion. Five new members have united with the church, four by baptism and one by letter. We had services New Year's Day. The weather was exceptionally good this winter until New Year's Day. Since then the countryside has been covered with a heavy covering of ice.—Miss Kathryn Ruth, Corr.

—On December 25 Rev. Gerhard Friesen returned to his home in Newton, Kansas, after having taken his second "cowboy" boat trip to Europe. Rev. Friesen, who visited the Danzig area for the second time reports that the harbor has been cleared of its debris and that great storehouses have been built along the wharf. He reports that the stores have bread and also fresh meat, but that the price of meat is very high. Clothing is still very scarce. The black market in cigarettes is still very active.

—Rudolf P. Wiens, who served in the International Y.M.C.A. in Egypt and in India for over two years during the war, is now returning to Cairo, Egypt, where he will be Senior Secretary for Egypt for the International Committee of the Y.M.C.A. Mrs. Wiens and two daughters will accompany Mr. Wiens to Cairo, where they already have an apartment and where the girls will attend an American school, which has about five teachers and sixty children. The Wiens family plans to leave Newton on January 26 and go by car to New York, where Mr. Wiens will take care of business matters for the Y.M.C.A. until February 5 when the the family (with car) will take a ship for Egypt. Their address in Egypt will be c/o Y.M.C.A. 60 Ibrahim Pasha, Cairo, Egypt. Mr. Wiens will be mainly engaged in administrative duties. He is now digging into a study of Arabic. He reports that the eastern countries are very cordial to the members of the International Y.M.C.A. staff. The Y policy is to put trained native leaders into the responsible positions where the work has been established. At Cairo Mr. Wiens and several other Americans will work with the Egyptian Y.M.C.A. men. According to Mr. Wiens Egpyt may curtail the missionary program very sharply

---

P. J. BOEHR'S TELEGRAM SENT TO THE BOARD'S SECRETARY. REV. HOWARD G. NYCE

1947 JAN 3 PM 7

GULFPORT MISS
REV. HOWARD G. NYCE
1528 CHEW ST.

BAGGAGE TRUCK ALSO OUR CAR CAME THROUGH UNDER GOD'S PROTECTION OVER ELEVEN HUNDRED MILES PARTLY ICY ROADS GULFPORT MISSISSIPPI EARLY TODAY TICKETS AND FUNDS HAVE COME. STEAMSHIP WATERMAN SAILS SUNDAY HEARTY THANKS AND SECOND CORINTHIANS NINE EIGHT AS GREETINGS TO MISSION BOARD AND ALL OUR CHURCHES IN THE BONDS OF CHRIST:

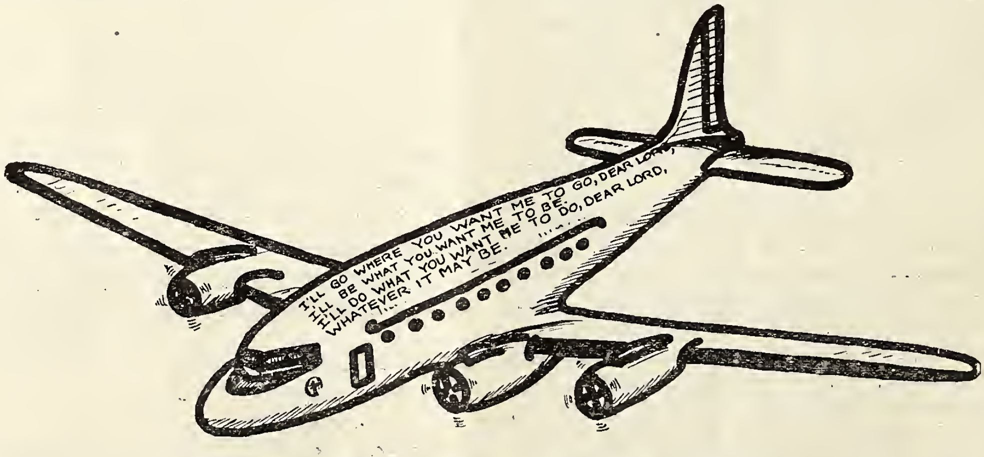
P. J. FRIEDA AND MARY ELLEN BOEHR

should independence be given to Egypt. He thinks, however, that due to the friendly relationship with the Y.M.C.A. it will affect the latter very little. There is now a strong Y.M.C.A. in Cairo. Students at the nearby university, who intend to go into social service work, all must take practical work in the Y.M.C.A. Since his return to the States last August Mr. Wiens has been traveling in Canada and in the U.S. in behalf of the Y.M.C.A. The son of missionary parents, Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Wiens of India, Mr. Wiens enjoys his work with a missionary zeal.

—Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa. We had a joyous holiday season with activities centering around the church program. Eight of our Church School classes had Christmas meetings or presented Christmas programs. At an impressive White Gift Service on Sunday evening, December 22, $3,044.21 were contributed by all our classes. On Christmas Eve we commemorated the birth of the Christ Child through a candle lighting service. Sunday, December 29, was Student Recognition Day. Our college students taught classes in the morning and presented the evening program. Our Annual Family Night Program and Watch Night Service on New Year's Eve were a fitting close to the holiday festivities. Many families gathered at the church. Beginning at 9 o'clock we enjoyed a period of wholesome fellowship centering about family life. At 11:30 we joined in a worship service and in quiet meditation began the new year together in prayer.

—Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio: On Christmas Eve our church, filled almost to capacity, enjoyed a most impressive Christmas program. It was presented by the smaller children of our Sunday School in a candle light service. The message conveyed throughout the evening being, "The True Meaning of Christmas." About eighty of our children took part. This program was followed by the White Christmas Offering for missions. This was reported to have been one of the largest in some years. Many of the Bible classes enjoyed the fellowship gatherings during the Christmas season. One of them being the monthly meeting of, Mrs. Hirman Neuenschwander's Bible class, which met at the home of Mrs. Albert Garmatter. The pastor, who has recently taken up the work here, was invited to give the Bible lesson for the day. At the close of the meeting a surprise Christmas shower was given to the pastor and his wife. Much joy was brought to our aged and shut-in members on the eve of the New Year as the Ladies Chorus went from home to home singing the traditional Swiss Carols of the New Year. During the later evening the caroling was continued by the young people, visiting the homes of many members of the congregation. Our Annual Business meeting was held on the afternoon of January 1. Reports showed an increasing interest being manifested in both home and foreign missions. Another most interesting report was of the encouraging progress of the drive for our new pipe organ. We are trusting that in the near future this may be a reality. On January 5 a special feature was enjoyed in our evening service. Rev. Victor Wierwille, of Van Wert, Ohio, presented the "Chimes Hour," with the Young People's Radio Cast. This group is often heard over our local radio stations.—Mr. Howard Landes, Corr.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas



I'LL GO WHERE YOU WANT ME TO GO, DEAR LORD, I'LL BE WHAT YOU WANT ME TO BE,
I'LL DO WHAT YOU WANT ME TO DO, DEAR LORD, WHATEVER IT MAY BE.

WHY TEACHING FAILS . . Some teaching fails for no other reason than that it lacks the sparks which fires the imagination of the child. It is illustrations like the above in the JUNIOR QUARTERLY which make the little ones "think long, long thoughts." Teaching is more than telling. Imagination is caught, not taught. "Where there is no vision, the people perish." The new JUNIOR QUARTERLY and the JUNIOR TEACHERS HANDBOOK that goes with it will make for good teaching in your Sunday school.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — January 21, 1947 — Number 3

Dwelling place and barn of David Toews

Mennonite Life

J. Ungers drive to church in the "chareta"

In Brazil

Students at Witmarsum level off athletic field

(Cuts courtesy "Mennonite Life")

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

NON-RESISTANCE can be made attractive to a great many people in our land if it is handled in a vital way. For example, one of the six best selling books in the United States in the early 1930's was a novel embodying the theme of non-resistance. However, it was not non-resistance in the terms of not participating in war that was treated in this book; it was non-resistance as applied in personal relationships. The author who takes the hero through a maze of difficult personal relationships has him come to the conclusion that non-resistance is "a dynamic of high potentiality." He makes the hero wonder why "the hymns and liturgies and homilies of Christianity" have had so little to say about non-resistance. Have Mennonites perhaps failed to make their contribution in this very area? Most Mennonites have had non-resistance handed to them at birth. To many of them it has been "a teaching to be obeyed" as far as war is concerned rather than "a dynamic of high potentiality" to be used effectively in personal relationships. Is it any wonder that some have weakened in the faith and that our testimony on the whole has sometimes lacked in appeal? Such a book as the one mentioned makes one hope that some day a Mennonite will produce a similar one.

That non-resistance as related to international relationships can be made vital to highly intelligent people is suggested by the appearance in the January 15 issue of the Christian Century of an article entitled "Renew the Trade Agreements." This article, written by Carl Kreider, Dean of Goshen College since 1940, does not mention the word non-resistance, but it certainly is an application of it in the area of trade between nations. Appearing in a journal that is widely read by clergymen of America, it is bound to make a real contribution towards thinking that is conducive to "peace-making." Have Mennonites kept state and church so widely separated that they have had the pleasure of talking for peace in general terms but have failed to make a distinct contribution in the hot tussle of immediate, practical matters, towards which some human beings must take a stand, a stand that will influence the welfare of all of us? This presentation on non-resistance in the terms of trade agreements will undoubtedly make sense to many and is another example of how Mennonites may witness effectively of non-resistance in our day.

GOODWILL on America's part is urgent. Only on a basis of goodwill can there be peace. A person or nation can rule by force, but as long as the goodwill of the ruled is lacking there is ever danger that somehow, sometime the ruler will be attacked. If America should become the one world power, it would undoubtedly face this very fact. Goodwill is the only basis for genuine, creative, happy relationships. Dr. Frank Laubach, that great man of compassion and prayer, in a speech in Denver sometime ago, declared that "There never was such a chance in all history as America has today to wage a world war of amazing kindness." Dr. Laubach sought to make clear that if we use our great power in the right way we will become loved as no people has ever been loved before and that if we misuse our power we can become hated to the same degree. Today Russia is regarded as the adversary of America. Jesus once said, "Agree with thine adversary quickly, while thou art in the way with him; lest at any time the adversary deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and thou be cast into prison. Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence, till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing." Today we are on the way with Russia. According to Between the Lines, some "reports say that the Russian scientists have worked out advanced techniques for using cosmic rays, which batter the earth from interstellar space, as the basis for atomic energy and fission reaction. These rays are known actually to produce the disintegration of carbon, nitrogen and oxygen atoms. This means that processes can be found for disrupting the atom nucleus of lighter and much more abundant materials than the scarce and costly unranium." Even if Russian scientists have not achieved what is hinted at in the lines just quoted, it is a fact that Russia has skilled scientists who are on the way with their research into atomic power. Does it not seem probable that if America does not come to an agreement with its adversary while there still is time that the day may come when America will have to pay the "uttermost farthing" in the way of a population largely destroyed by atomic bombs or other means of destruction as devastating or more so? Today is the day for that goodwill among all men that makes for agreement.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

The Position of the Christian Soldier

by Don E. Smucker

(The two articles presented here arrived too late to be included in the series printed in the issue of November 5. We are glad to present Rev. Smucker's contribution in this issue. Rev. Don Smucker, at present attending Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, New Jersey, is a member of the Peace Committee of the Middle District and is chairman of the Committee on Doctrine and Conduct of the General Conference. Rev. Smucker also serves as pastor of the Mennonite Church at Lancaster, Pa.)

War is a very complex thing. Any attempt to explain it in terms of human motives is extremely difficult. It raises the very question, indeed, the riddle of human behavior.

Let me say at the very outset that the overwhelming majority of military men sincerely hate war. Often conscientious objectors are reluctant to concede this point. But concede it they must because it can be proven. By war I mean the actual conditions of combat in which only ten percent of the average army will participate. I am quite willing to admit that there are men removed from the ghastly realism of war who profit from it financially, revel in its lusty emotions, glory in its dressy, theatrical display. But, the men who have been on the firing lines hate war. For example, consider the case of the late Ernie Pyle. G. I.'s everywhere considered him the symbol of their own hopes and fears; a man with a real down-to-earth viewpoint who knew and loved the buck private. After twenty-nine months overseas, after writing 700,000 words about real warfare, Ernie Pyle went back to New Mexico for a rest. This is what he wrote at that time: "I do hate terribly to leave right now but I have given out. I've been immersed in it too long. My spirit is wobbly and my mind confused. The hurt has finally become too great. All of a sudden it seemed to me that if I heard one more shot or saw one more dead man I would go off my nut. And if I had to write one more column I'd collapse."

On the other hand, there are men like Ernest Hemingway whose rotten books are widely read in our time. He delights in filth and sin and blasphemy. How did he get that way? Here is the answer as given by one of his friends: "We took this young man with all his sensitive genious for experience . . . and shoved him into our pit of slaughter and told him to be courageous about killing. And thought he would come out weeping and jittering. Well, he came out roaring for blood, shouting to the skies the joy of killing, the 'religious ecstasy of killing'—and most pathetic, most pitiable, killing as a protest against death." That, I say, is the exception: the overwhelming majority of military men maintain a different position, essentially paradoxical: We hate war as a dirty, ugly, evil thing. At times it is a necessary evil. Why?

1. The power of the wicked. Psalm 37:35 says, "I have seen the wicked in great power and spreading himself like a green bay tree." Furthermore the Psalmist says, that ". . . the wicked plotteth against the just, and gnasheth upon him with his teeth. . . . the wicked have drawn out the sword and have bent their bow, to cast down the poor and needy and slay such as be of upright conversation." The only answer to real power is more real power. Let no one sneer at the force of this argument on the human level. Fascism and Communnism are terrifyingly powerful. The dilemma they propound is often (but not always) kill or be killed!

2. The Divine approval of war. This is based on the Old Testament wars and on Romans 13:1 and other passages giving God's approval to government. Here the argument affirms the belief that the individual is not responsible since he is called by the God-ordained government into war. What of the law of love? It is to apply to individual relationship or postponed until the millennial kingdom. In any case, love is secondary to justice when war comes. For essentially war is the quest for justice by force.

These two reasons, then, form the basis of participating in war while hating its brutality and ugliness. But, it may be said that all Christians may unite on the basis of James 4:1-3, that wars come because of man's sinfulness: "From whence come wars and fightings among you? Come they not hence, even of your lusts which war in your members." That is to say, that war comes from evil desire within the human heart. The issue is not whether war is evil: all parties concede this in the church. The issue is very simple: Is war God's will now for the justified, regenerated, sanctified Christian who lives in the hope of Easter, has the Holy Spirit, and is taught by the New Testament?

Why I Am a Non-resistant Christian

by Don E. Smucker

Let me preface my statement by saying that in deeply spiritual issues like this every follower of Christ must feel a sense of calling. Fundamentally it is not a matter of argument. It is in the spirit of Martin Luther when he broke from the Roman church: "God helping me, I can do no other." Precisely this sense of Divine would worship this one God. Because they wanted to know more of God, God revealed Himself to them and God told them that some day a man would come who would be the Son of God. This man would save the people. Some thought that would mean freedom from the Romans for the people in the little country. But some understood that it meant freedom for all people from the bondage of sin.

Then I told them of the simplicity of the life of Jesus, and how He was unrecognized except by a few; how He lived on earth only for about thirty-three years, and of those thirty-three years we know hardly anything except of the last three years; how He was killed and his handful of followers scattered; how everything seemed lost and yet what tremendous results have come from the life of this one man. I tell them of the church in many lands, the Bible, the best seller translated into more languages than any other, the many masterpieces in art and literature which have been inspired by His life; yes, that we even count our years by Him, whether we believe in Him or not. Then I tell them that we want to study His life and see what caused these tremendous results and what is His relation to us personally.

While it is not possible to have much discussion; while we have to progress very slowly, yet I think if they learn some of those wonderful verses from memory, some seed will have fallen into their hearts which may at some time bear fruit. They have memorized the words concerning John, "Prepare the way of the Lord and make His paths straight." They remember what God said to Jesus, "Thou art my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased," and the people "marvelled because He taught them as one having authority." Jesus Himself said, "Those who are whole have no need of a physician, but they that are sick. . . . . New wine must be put into new bottles. . . . . . the Sabbath was made for man, not man for the Sabbath. . . etc."

And so we hope and pray that the seed may fall on good ground, and that the students will still catch something of the Chrisitian atmosphere which will eventually bring them to the place where they will be abe to say, "My Lord and my God."

Mennonites To Train Polish Tractor Operators

Medieval farming practices are very much in evidence throughout Poland. Very little of the pre-war equipment remains which is suitable for these practices, but the Polish farmer insists on sticking to his methods even in the use of new equipment supplied through UNRRA. Thus the high speed moldboard plow does not plow because the hitch is not adjusted properly and the tractor burns up because improper oil is put into the crankcase. They do not see how the Ferguson plow can possibly be set up since the wheels have not arrived, so they have to see a demonstration of how the plow is attached to understand that not all plows have wheels. Difficulties arising from improper adjustment are usually blamed upon the machine—poor quality—poor mechanism.

Hundreds of thousands of acres have not been plowed for several seasons. Lack of equipment and lack of instruction in the use of new machinery supplied by UNRRA leaves much fertile land unturned. More of this land could and should be producing food for the hungry Polish people. UNRRA representatives estimate that only 40 per cent of the efficiency is being utilized in the use of the machinery sent to Poland. These men feel that twenty-five of our men, trained in the operation and adjustment of machinery, could do much toward increasing the actual value of the equipment to Poland. The Polish people are reported to be anxious for instruction.

The tractors in Poland are concentrated in a belt from Danzig south, in a wide area bordering the western boundary of Poland, then east in a large area bordering the Carpathian Mountains and in sections south and southeast of Warsaw. The country has fifteen major tractor stations located in various large cities. Connected with these are 200 small sub-stations. Our men will be working out of these major stations, possibly in groups of two or three, giving demonstrations and explaining the operation of machinery. The work will begin early in March in southern Poland and will continue on north as the weather permits. Plowing is done continually when weather permits. There is so much plowing to be done that the small equipment cannot possibly get the job done. Only 20 per cent of the horses used for draft power before the occupation remain and these are mostly old and of very little value. According to a Polish official, UNRRA-supplied draft power replaces only 9 per cent of pre-war resources.

The Polish government will furnish food, housing, interpreters, and transportation in Poland. The men are to be housed in the cities where the major tractor centers are located.

The age limit of twenty-seven should be a minimum for applicants although many younger men will be interested. It is felt that age commands a bit more respect in this program of instruction. The living conditions, where men will be living in groups of two or three and perhaps alone at times, require stability and maturity.

The four tractor companies which have sent large numbers of tractors to Poland have all been contacted and they have agreed to give instruction to our men before leaving this country. The first course has been planned with J. I. Case at a plant in Columbus, Ohio. The course is to begin on February 3.

We are taking applications at this time for this project. It is to be borne in mind that this is an aspect of the MCC relief program and members must qualify spiritually and morally for relief worker standards. Poland is a land of destruction and needs spiritual and material aid. This project is not designed to be an adventure, but it is a postive rehabilitation program. Application can be made to the Relief Section of the MCC. Any questions or requests for further information are welcome.

BOOK REVIEW

THE SUPREMACY OF CHRISTIANITY

By J. E. Hartzler, Ph. D.

399 pp. Berne, Indiana, Berne Witness Co. 1946. $2.00

Books by Mennonite authors dealing with fundamental religious subjects in a broad way, are rare, and we should therefore welcome the appearance of this new volume by Dr. Hartzler. The central truth emphasized in the book is that Christianity offers the supreme way of life. "We have in the Christian way", says the author, " a cross to which nothing need be added, an open tomb which can never again be closed, and a goal . . . eternal life . . . which has no equal in any other faith."

There are those who disparage all theological discussion in the belief that it is impractical and unimportant. But the truth is that our moral life is determined on all sides, directly or indirectly, by our religious thinking, and it is well to have our ideas challenged and clarified by a discussion such as this book gives us. The author begins with a chapter on "Rethinking our Religion." He holds that God has new revelations for every generation and that we must rethink, in the light of present-day experiences, what we have inherited from the past. He rightly asserts that "we need not be 'free thinkers', but we must be free to think."

The book, containing seventeen chapters, deals with such basic subjects as the Bible, Science and Religion, Revelation, God, Man, The Atonement, and the Christian Church, each chapter being prefaced with an outline so as to make it easier for the reader to grasp its contents. The chapters are condensations of lectures which the author has delivered in class room, and from pulpit and platform, at home and abroad, and represent the mature thinking of his wide experience.

The real worth of the Bible, he explains is appreciated as we approach it realistically rather than literalistically or liberalistically. For "it is not science, criticism, or literary scholarship that counts when life is in distress or the angel of death spreads its wings over the soul; but the Divine lead, the Divine Spirit, and a Divine current running through the Book, each leading by a Cross on a little hill outside of Jerusalem." (Are we sure it was a hill? The Gospels only say Golgotha, the place of a skull)

The mission of the church he defines under four heads: the enlightenment of the mind, the inspiration of the heart, the motivation of the will, and the employment of the hand. There follows a helpful discussion of the scope of the church, but I closed this chapter with the feeling that the author left some important things unsaid. What about the nature of the church? What is its relation to the world? What does he mean by the statement that the church must be a pure church? And what about the oneness of the church and the ecumenical movement in Christendom today? These are questions which need elucidation, and I am sure Dr. Hartzler could make a contribution towards that end.

We Mennonites have said in the past that we hold to a simple practical faith based squarely on the Bible and have therefore paid little attention to elaborate statements of faith. We left the formulation of theological doctrine to others. The result is that there is a great diversity of doctrine among us—liberal, conservative, here and there an echo of continental neo-orthodoxy, now and then a dash of humanism which has spilled over some university wall. Among us are various efforts toward a psychological approach to faith, and in recent years there has been a decided emphasis, in Mennonite periodicals especially, upon the sociological interpretation of religion. In view of these diversified streams of thinking, some of them "clear as mud," Dr. Hartzler's work, representing a forthright liberal evangelicialism, is wholesome and necessary. It is too brief in spots but it opens vistas for thought and investigation.

The author is known in every Mennonite community in America for his sermons and Bible lectures and addresses on special occasions. He has served as a pastor, president of Goshen College, and Bethel College and Witmarsum Seminary, and has taught in the American University at Beirut. For some years he has been special lecturer in the department of Systematics at Hartford Theological Seminary, at the same time carrying on during a part of each year an extentive speaking schedule in Mennonite and other communities.

Lester Hostetler

IN MEMORIAM

Gustav Hiebert, son of H. P. Hiebert and Maria Janzen Hiebert, was born November 2, 1893, and died in an automobile accident December 3, 1946. He was baptized and received into the Tabor Church in 1913. In 1946 he and his wife tranferred their membership to the Zion Mennonite Church, Elbing, Kansas, of which he remained a faithful member to the end. He was married to Anna Nickel on May 9, 1924. She, together with their infant daughter, preceded him in death June 19,1925. Again he was happily married to Maria Buller on February 12, 1928. This union was blessed with three children, Lorena, Eldon, and LeRoy. He farmed in the Sand Creek District until he bought a farm near Burns. Besides his wife and children he is mourned by two brothers and three sisters: Peter, Cornelius, Mrs. H. B. Schmidt, Mrs. D. I. Schroeder, and Mrs. Benj. Becker.

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

By Cornelius Krahn

An Important Event

A letter has been received from Atlee Beechy in which he reports about the funeral of Christian Neff, who according to this report died on December 30 and was buried on January 2. The following is the letter:

Dear Brethren:

Today, Walter Eicher, Delbert and Thelma Gratz and I attended the funeral of Christian Neff. Some three hundred people gathered together at the small church in Weierhof to pay their tribute to this great Mennonite church worker and historian.

He maintained reasonably good health until quite recently. On December 10, he met with a number of people including three MCC workers (Walter Eicher, Delbert and Thelma Gratz) in connection with the general planning of the place and relationship of these Mennonites to the MCC relief program . . . . He began ailing shortly thereafter and his condition grew worse until Monday evening, December 30th, when he quietly passed away. As we attended the solemn event of his burial service today, January 2nd, 1947, we could deeply sense that an important and significant event in Mennonite history was taking place. Such events often do take place quietly and without fanfare with the rest of the world paying little attention to them.

Pfarrer E. Haendiges had charge of the major portion of the service. He spoke concerning the wide range of Christian work and activity which Brother Neff had been engaged in and of the contribution he had made to Mennonite life. Pfarrer Braun and Paul Schowalter also spoke briefly . . . . His heart was warm towards a great many things but at the core was his passion for Jesus Christ. This was the dominant motivating force of his life. Walter Eicher spoke briefly and read in German a letter which he had prepared.

His body was laid to rest in a small cemetery near the church. Although departed from us in the flesh, his spirit and influence will continue to be felt for many decades to come.

Sincerely yours,

MENNONITE CENTRAL COMMITTEE
Atlee Beechy
(Written in Germany, January 2, 1947)

About 2,150 Mennonite Refugees to go to Paraguay

C. F. Klassen reports from Europe that negotiations have been made to charter the ship " Volendam" for the transporation of Mennonite refugees to South America. This ship is scheduled to leave Rotterdam, Holland on January 28 and Bremerhaven, Germany, on January 31, with approximately 2,150 passengers aboard. The destination of this ship is Buenos Aires, Argentina. Other means of transportation will be used to take the refugees from Buenos Aires inland to the colony in Paraguay.

This group of refugees includes Mennonites now located in Holland as well as some from the U. S. Zone of Germany. Mennonites from the British Zone of Germany or from Denmark may not be included at this time.

Arrangements are being made to provide for the physical welfare of these refugees. MCC relief clothing is being supplied to them in Europe before they sail, and supplies will also be ready for their use when they arrive in South America. C. A. DeFehr, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, is going to Paraguay to represent the Mennonite Central Committee and Mennonite Resettlement Finance, Inc., and will work with Gerhard Warkentin in arranging for the receiving of these refugees.

Bishop Oxnam on Conscientious Objectors

From the experience of the war in dealing with conscientious objectors Bishop Oxnam has proposed a ten-point program for their "present and future handling," which he presents in the SURVEY GRAPHIC for September. In briefest summary his recommendations are as follows:

"1. Democracies must respect the conscience of the individual citizen . . . .

"2. Conscientious objection to war should not be based upon religious training and belief alone . . . .

"3. Full responsibility for the classification and assignment of all men claiming to be CO's should be vested in civilian boards . . . .

"4. Noncombatant service should be made more attractive to the CO . . . .

"5. For those who cannot undertake noncombatant service, work of national importance should be provided . . . .

"6. CO's would seem to be entitled to support similar to the soldier's, with family allowances . . . .

"7. Conscience must be no protection for cowards . . . .

"8. CO's who strike to effect reforms should face the same discipline a soldier would face if he struck.

"9. CO's should try to avoid the holier-than-thou attitude. . . .

"10. There is only one final answer to the question of conscientious objection to war. That is the creation of a warless world in which law and order have supplanted international anarchy, in which power has been brought under democratic control, and justice established by democratic process."—"Information Service"

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Protestant Christian Youth in Argentina

By Lena Cecel Knapp

(Continuing the series of articles on the activity of other Christian youth groups, we take a look at Protestant Christian youth in Argentina. Although Protestantism is a tiny minority in South America, there is developing in that country, Brazil in particular, a virile, active, and growing Protestant church. We share in this article with those in Argentina some of the problems they face.)

YOUTH! What an enchanting word! What visions of grace, gaiety, energy and spontaneity the word calls forth! And it is the same with the Spanish word, La Juventud!

Argentine youth are very much like other youth, with their loves and hates, their enthusiasms and disgusts, successes and failures, aspirations and despairs, and all the rest of life's emotional elements. A bit more specifically, one might say: Argentine young people are deeply devoted to their families, while esteeming the joys of outside friendships; proud and loyal to their own country, but with a profound sense of the oneness of the world; wanting the comfortable life, but ready to dedicate themselves, cost what it may, to a cause.

In this article, I will try to show that Protestant Christianity has become, for many, a cause in which it is worthwhile to invest time, money and energy, or even one's life; further, I want to emphasize how Christian principles affect daily living, and to point out what some of the activities of young people are.

In daily life, Protestant youth in Argentina find constant need for taking a firm stand in reference to many of their convictions. It must be remembered that they form an exceedingly small minority in any public group, and that they stand firmly against off-color language, smoking, drinking and the like. For example, a girl who went from her home in the country to attend high school in a city where she lives in the minister's family, writes:

"The school itself is very fine, although when dealing with persons whose ideals of conduct are different from one's own, one feels a bit uncomfortable. But how glorious it is to be living in a cultured Christian family! All of this making its imprint on my personality, and as time passes, I shall be able to conquer my timidity and, I hope, become an efficient worker in the vineyard of the Lord." (She expects to go into fulltime Christian service.)

Or, here is another who wrote on one occasion:

"For three years after primary school my desire to study remained deep and urgent. I knew full well that without preparation, one cannot get ahead and lift oneself up, socially and spiritually. But what could I do without any means? I finally entered the Telephone Cadet School and later was employed there. However, surrounded by worldly people, I was running the risk that little by little their customs and habits would become infiltrated in mine and the results would be devastating. But. I thank God I have the kind of parents I have, who knew how to advise me and keep me strong spiritually in the midst of an evil environment . . . . At last I was able to come to this Adventist school where they offer opportunities to work your way through school. I work hard, seven hours a day, to earn my living, outside of my classes and preparation for them. But, I am in a Christian environment, and that is the basic thing."

Here is a Theological Seminary student who comes from a comfortable home, but who does not have the support, either moral or financial, of his family in his desire to enter the ministry. Vacation found him faced with the necessity of shifting for himself during the four summer months. He had an opportunity to be in the office of a famous seaside hotel, at a big salary. He chose, however, to go up-country, where there was nothing to temper the tropical heat, where there were no modern conveniences. (It was not easy for a fellow six-foot three, 220 pounds, to learn to take a bath in a pail!) but where he would help a pastor on an eight-point circuit, living with different families as he travelled about, and earning his expenses by selling Bibles, tracts and mottoes. What is more, he made a similar choice the following summer.

The matter of boy and girl relationships, when speaking of this matter of daily living, must not be overlooked. In a country where Roman Catholicsm is the State religion, and where the influence of Europe, especially Spain and Italy is profound, one expects to find segregation of the sexes in school and other situations.

Protestantism has catered somewhat to this, or did in the beginning, but has really pioneered in coeducation and in church life. Thus, both in the home and in life outside, it has been steadily opening the way for woman to take a more dignified and rightful place. And so in Protestant circles a boy may accompany a girl to her home, may even accept an invitation to enter the home and become a general friend of the family without it being taken for granted immediately that his intentions must be serious.

As for youth organizations in the churches, little need be said, because these in both program and activity follow very closely the general lines set down in the U. S. A. In South America youth groups meet on Saturday nights, from five to eleven not being uncommon. Leisureliness attends the opening moments and getting under way; there must be lots of time for games and fun. They can "take" the longest read papers, or talks; and ah me, how they discuss! How they love to discuss!

Worship always has its place, but it must be kept very simple, candles and a cross in worship being taboo practically everywhere. This is understandable in that everybody is fairly close to the Catholic tradition in this respect which looks at the use of symbols through eyes different from ours.

Youth groups have their local projects for service to others. Visiting prisons, hospitals, homes of all kinds; renting a little room in needy areas to carry on what they call obra de barrio (settlement work). This will be a Sunday School at first for whatever children they can gather in; it will also serve for recreation and health programs, establishing a night school, and so on. From such work come many thrilling stories. It is probable that the social action department, which includes social service, calls forth more money and time on the part of these youthful workers than any other department.

Evangelism receives a good deal of emphasis, not only in campaigns and street-corner preaching, but also in the winning of one's friends and acquaintance and the members of one's own family to Christ.

Camps and institutes have as important a place in the Christian life of youth in Argentina as they do in the States. Just to glean a tiny part of one case.

A university student who had his first contact with Protestant Christianity at an interdenominational youth camp wrote to a non-Christian friend: "Among the various experiences gathered at this camp, there are two that are clothed with supreme importance for me: one, of purely intellectual nature; the other, moral and ethical." And after going into some detail to explain these problems, he goes on: "You are going to be fully aware as the days go on of the effects of this camp on my way of thinking and feeling. The atmosphere of freedom and tolerance, completely without pressure; the clean and delightful gaiety of the moments of festivity, and the courage and objectivity with which sexual problems were faced, struck me from the moment of my arrival." (Ran out to meet me with open arms, says the Spanish for this last phrase!) "You can imagine that I tried immediately to find the bubbling source of these spiritual treasures, and I kept my eyes open and asked many questions. Perhaps what impressed me most in the answers was the truly thrilling certainty in regard to essential convictions. I believe I can best describe this picture as a community of those who are in love with Christ."

Youth groups in Latin America are federated in one way or another into denominational and interdenominational, national and international groups with their well-known round of conventions. And Argentine youth have a prominent place in them. However, these generally take the form of a congress, with only the official delegates voting. In August, 1946, the Second Pan-American Congress of Protestant Youth was held at La Habana, Cuba (see Youth, September 22, 1946) to which delegates were elected from all Spanish-speaking countries, with fraternal delegates from the other countries of the Americas. Bulletins of all kinds circulate to cement the bonds of fellowship stimulated at these meetings and to promote the projects decided upon. Each country has its own youth magazine, denominational, sometimes interdenominational. Argentina's is called Cultura and carries very fine articles.

As is true in all the younger churches (churches of mission lands) Argentine youth are increasingly responding to the call to Christian service, within and beyond their national boundaries. From Argentina during the past three years three Methodist young women have gone to Bolivia to teach in a mission school and at least one Baptist has gone to Paraguay. In 1945 two students from the Union Theological Seminary in Buenos Aires went to Bolivia for the year of practical work required of them before they enter upon the last years of their studies; and one girl asking admission to the seminary stated that her purpose was to become a foreign missionary, preferably India. The following quotation from a letter from a student illustrates this matter of broadening horizons, and some other things as well! (The English is his.)

"Recently we had the interested visits of two missionaries whose job is in the Congo Belga. I had a large conversations with he (the man) about the work in Africa, the situation in Argentine politics, and our seminary and our churches. We had a splendid friendship . . . . He told me he thought I could be a missionary in Africa. What an idea!! What a strange one when we see in my country uncivilized men, more uncivilized than the Negro of Africa. We have a great work to do here and I don't like to renounce the imperative calling of my own country. This however is not to set aside permanently any other call from Africa, Europe, The United States, or other fields who need our help in future times. As I told you previously, I am ready to take up the work our Father wants to do, whatever it is."

The youth of Argentina will be happy to know that his series of articles on Christian youth of other countries is being prepared, because they truly feel there is a bond of Christian fellowship that will some time make itself felt in bringing nearer to reailty throughout the world the ideal of the kingdom of God.

—Youth

So Our Youth May Serve

The program of the Mennonite Central Committee in the field of Voluntary Services

(This is the first of a series of releases on Voluntary Services in general, and summer service and one year service opportunities in particular.)

During the war years a cooperative Mennonite and Brethren in Christ summer service program began rather spontaneously. It was a voluntary service the young women of our constituency wished to render in mental hospitals as a parallel to what the young men of the church were drafted to do. This past year, the third summer, it became a program for both men and women and developed beyond the field of mental hospital service. Further conviction developed that service such as that of the CPS Unit at Gulfport, Mississippi, was worthy of voluntary service and that supplemental workers with one year periods of time might well be utilized to extend the Gulfport service beyond limitations of CPS.

At the December, 1945, annual Mennonite Central Committee meeting Orie Miller presented on behalf of the executive committee the following question: "To what extent shall M. C. C. use its officers further in exporing and developing the opportunities and challenges of short-term organized voluntary services in under-privileged and distress areas as a demonstration of our Christian concern and witness?" The same meeting, "Moved and passed that the executive committee study this question." Subsequent MCC Executive Committee Meetings of March 2, 1946, and September 14, 1946, approved conditionally the addition of a limited number of such supplemental voluntary service workers to the Gulfport unit. The approval was conditional upon the possibility of favorable action of the MCC constituency on the general policy of MCC operated fulltime service units.

At a special meeting of the Mennonite Central Committee, October 31, 1946, various individual groups expressed their interest in undertaking such a cooperative program. Several of the groups also explained briefly the plans for their own conference youth service program with suggestions as to how MCC program could supplement what individual groups would sponsor. A study report on "Standards and Plans for a Possible Voluntary Service Program during 1947" was then presented (complete report available from MCC upon request). The MCC voted to accept the report, approve the recommendations, and have the Annual MCC meeting further implement this recommendation.

Further information regarding the plans, meaning and standards of such a Voluntary Service Program will be forthcoming in succeeding news release. Those individuals who feel that they might wish to give a year of their life in service to the underprivileged on this continent should write for further information to Voluntary Service Section, Mennonite Central Committees, Akron, Pennsylvania. The program is developing and needs the prayerful support of ministers and parents so that the talents of young people may be utilized either in individual conferences or cooperatively.

via Mennonite Central Committee Headquarters
December 20, 1946

Material for Young People's Recreation

If a group of young people desires to have a period of recreation and fellowship together, they need equipment. They need something to use for their program of fellowship. Why not make your own supply of such equipment? Making such equipment would be a valuable experience for a group of young people. Using it afterward would be all the more fun.

Games and puzzles for church young people's groups are available from the Cooperative Recreation Service, Delaware, Ohio. They are described in the booklet, HANDY II, edited by Lynn Rohrbough. Specific kits dealing with games and puzzles are:

Kit N — Traditional Games. 25c. These consist of ancient games from Africa, Europe, and Asia.

Kit U — Puzzle Craft. 25c. This has plans for making and solving puzzles in wire, wood and string.

Kit S — Games of Skill. 25c. Rolling, Throwing, and Sliding Games; Equipment Games. Here such games as Tether Ball, Box Hockey, Shuffleboard, Deck Tennis, Table Polo, and Badminton are discussed.

Also available from Cooperative Recreation Service are Patterns and Directions and Tools for Good Times both of which deal with such matters as making traditional games, puzzles, games boards, etc.

From the Y. M. C. A., Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for $1.00 are one hundred sheets which picture and describe traditional game boards and puzzles.

Homemade Games and Puzzles, No. RSE — 80 This is available from the Extension Service in Agriculture and Home Economics, Department of Agricultural Economics, College of Agriculture, Urbana, Illinois. By writing the State College in which you reside, much information may be obtained regarding the subject of games and puzzles. These are usually free to the state resident.

Soon to appear is a Mennonite Community Sourcebook which contains lists of sources in many areas including the field of recreation. This should be helpful to anyone interested in building up supplies for home and church recreation materials which are wholesome and creative and thus of special value in this era of canned recreation.

DRAMA OF ABRAHAM'S STEADFAST FAITH IN GOD IN NEW SEQUENCE ON 'LIGHT OF THE WORLD'

NEW YORK, January 8—The story of Abraham, the dramatic record of man's unwavering faith in God, is now being heard on NBC's "Light of the World," daytime serial based on the Bible (Mondays through Fridays, 2:45 p.m., EST).

The program, first broadcast in 1940, was the first attempt to translate the Scripture into terms of a modern daytime serial. To make traditional passages more comprehensible to the layman, Biblical speech is adapted to the language of the 20th century.

"Light of the World" bridges the gulf of centuries—its Biblical heroes are portrayed with the reality of people in today's newspaper headlines. Wide acclaim from leading clergymen, religious organizations and listeners has testified to its achievement.

Items of Interest

The General Conference Voluntary Service Committee met in Chicago on January 2 to discuss the plans for the coming summer's program of voluntary service units. Members of this Committee are Rev. Albert Gaeddert, Carl Lehman, and Elmer Ediger.

* * * *

A year ago released-time religious instruction of public school students was put on trial when Mrs. Vashti McCollum made an effort to stop such instruction by court action. This occurred in Champaign, Illinois, where this, by request of the local Council of Religious Education, the program is to be extended to include third-grade pupils.

* * * *

Christian young people met together in Geneva, Switzerland, last year, in preparation for a World Conference of Christian Youth in Oslo, Norway. The reports from the different countries indicates the variety of problems faced by young people, each country having its own rather unique ones. The India Nationalist movement creates unique problems and decisions for Christians. In West Africa the young people feel a strain between themselves and their missionaries over their education where they feel their freedom is inhibited. In France, the small Protestant element sees the problem of evangelization of thousands of pagan youth. In Holland the need is to break the youth away from their neutrality on the Church. In England there is drabness, exhaustion from the war and no meaning in life and the Church, to the youth, offeres no alternative to this meaninglessness. In China there is more interest in scientific and technical training than anything else. These are some of the problems brought out at this meeting. Of course these are very sketchy, but give an idea of the world picture of Christianity.

It is reported something like one million copies of the Revised Standard Version of the New Testament will have been sold during the first year that it has been published.

* * * *

Mr. A. W. Climenhaga, of the Area College Center of Harrisburg, Pa., reports that rural youth need more recreation centers. The need now is becoming all the more real, he states, because taprooms and night clubs are moving out to the country. Rural youth, in the past more isolated from such temptations than city youth, now will more and more have them next door.

* * * *

The population of the United States is reported to have passed the 140,000,000 mark which is an increase of 6.6 per cent since 1940.

* * * *

Sunday School attendance in North America has decreased according to a recent statistics. At the same time total church membership has increased.

* * * *

Evangeline Booth, the retired commander of the Salvation Army, is the 1946 recipient of the annual one-thousand-dollar "Humanitarian Award" of the Variety Clubs of America.

* * * *

The word "truth" is said to occur 117 times in the Old Testament and 117 times in the New.

* * * *

According to statistics made up by the Publisher's Weekly, more books dealing with religion were published in the United States during a recent month than books of any other type, except fiction.

* * * *

Although some folk opposed the visit of Martin Niemoller to North America, the synod of the Belgian Missionary Church at Liege, Beligium invited him to preach and he was "welcomed and listened to like a brother."

* * * *

The Protestant church in Mexico is undergoing a period of persecution due to the action of some of the Catholic leadership who incite the masses into frenzied and unconsidered extremes. However, when a convention was to be held in a certain town and the mayor was asked to refuse the Protestants admittance. the mayor, a Catholic, would not heed, stating the Protestants were welcome as would be any other people to come to his city.

* * * *

The "Indian Summers" are past for the present season, but the story of how they got their name remains interesting. It seems in Pilgrim days the Indians ceased their raids when cool weather would come, so when it would freeze, they would anticipate a little peace from persistent Indian raids. However, if it would warm up again, the Indians would resume their raids on the harrassed paleface. Because of this these late fall warm spells have been named "Indian Summers."

RELIEF

Kao-t'un Village Clinic (China)

The Clinic work of this month has seen a number of changes. The farmers were very busy in their fields harvesting the fall crops so it is hard for them to come to the Clinic. Only those who needed special treatments and those who lived very near to the Clinic could come. After the middle of November, the number of registrations suddenly increased. The highest number of patients seen one day was eighty-five.

Paraguay

Saturday morning, December 21, the home was enlivened by the arrival of six workers from the field who came to spend the holiday season at the center (Asuncion) and at the same time take care of some business matters. Dennis Lehman and Ed Schmidt came in from Friesland, and from the Chaco came Menno Klassen, Orval Myers, and Waldo and Rachel Hiebert with their son Teddy.

Puerto Rico

Over the Christmas season the Unit members, assisted by the Puerto Rican workers, went caroling in the community. The group was divided into two parts and in that way it was possible to cover the area quite well. The people seemed to appreciate this very much.

News Briefs

J. N. Byler, Director of MCC Relief, will leave by air on January 10 for a two-week commissioner visit to Puerto Rica, in the interests of the relief work carried on at that place.

John and Bonita Driver will also leave on January 10 for Puerto Rico. Brother Driver served in medical-social work at that place under CPS for some time, and is now returning under a relief assignment for another term of eighteen months. Sister Driver, who is a Registered Nurse, will accompany him in this work.

Delbert and Thelma Gratz, who have been located temporarily at Chalon, France, have now been able to enter the French Zone of Germany, after having received the necessary permit from the French government.

C. P. S.

Camp Pastor at Powellsville

Bro. T. A. van der Smissen has gone to CPS Camp No. 52, Powellsville, Maryland, to work in the capacity of camp pastor. Mrs. van der Smissen will serve at the same place as dietitian.

Even though this provision is made for a full-time camp pastor, it is assumed that the various Mennonite groups will wish to continue sending ministers to visit the camp as they have in the past, for the purpose of counselling with men and ministering to their spiritual welfare.

CPS Statistics

A glance at the records for the past year indicates that the number of men in Mennonite camps has decreased from 3,684 men on January 1, 1946, to 146 on January 1, 1947. This averages about 300 releases each month during the year.

At the beginning of last year the 3,684 men were distributed in fifteen types of service, fifty-one different units. Today we have men serving largely in three areas—Powellsville, Maryland, a soil conservation project has 100 men; Relief Material Aid and general CPS administration 30; Gulfport, Public Health 11; Puerto Rico 5.

MATERIAL AID

Special Announcement

Some time ago we released information to the effect that we had names of approximately 60 Jewish families in Hungary and 4,300 of Mennonite families in Germany to which people could send eleven-pound parcel post packages. At this date, all of these names have been sent out and the people either have received packages or have packages en route to them.

We believe that this project has been a way whereby our people were able to do a more personalized relief work, above their usual relief contributions. We are also grateful for the response that has been shown since the first announcement. However, since all the families whose names we had have received a gift from someone in the United States or Canada, we feel that this project should be terminated at this time. This means that we will no longer be able to supply names upon requests as we have been doing for the past two months.

One-Minute Dialogue. "Teacher says it's silly to talk about rich people becoming richer in a war. Is that right, Daddy?"

"That's right, Sonny. Nobody makes money out of war any more."

"Who built the big steel plant at Geneva, Utah, Daddy?"

"The government did, Sonny."

"How much did it cost, Daddy?"

'Two hundred million dollars, they tell me, Sonny."

"Who paid for it Daddy?"

"The people did, Sonny, through their taxes. But of course then it belonged to the people, through the government."

"Who does it belong to now, Daddy?"

"United States Steel, Sonny."

"How much did United States Steel pay for it, Daddy?"

"Forty-seven and a half million dollars, Sonny."

"Nobody makes money out of war any more, do they, Daddy?"

"No, Sonny. Nobody." —From F.O.R.

College and Seminary News

BETHEL COLLEGE

A special private prayer room for student use has been been provided in Memorial Hall by the SCA and Student Volunteers. The College and local church cooperated in observing the Universal Week of Prayer with prayer meetings in campus homes and in Newton on Wednesday and Thursday and a service in the chapel Friday evening. Harry Martens and Erwin Goering left January 14 for an extensive tour of western churches. Intramural basketball teams are being organized under Coach Tully and Miss Beecher as a part of the recreational program. The thirteen teams for men are made up according to residence halls or areas — for the girls according to physical education classes. The girls' volley ball tournament was held before Christmas, while the team of married men from the Homettes took the men's championship on January 9. The intercollegiate basketball team is in the midst of a good season of clean, close games.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Henry Detweiler, ex'34, of Souderton, Pennsylvania, was the vesper speaker on Sunday afternoon, January 12. He spoke of his experience in relief work in northern Egypt, Italy, and Northwest Europe. Erna Fast spoke in Chapel on Thursday morning, January 9. President Ramseyer gave a book report on the book, The New Leviathan, before the faculty monthly discussion group meeting. Sam Dean, missionary to China, was on the campus January 13, 14. He is on a tour sponsored by the Student Volunteer movement. One of his purposes is to challenge young men to give their lives for Christian service in foreign lands in such occupations as engineering. Quite a number of new students are expected to enter college at the beginning of the second semester, January 27. The local community is being organized for a financial solicitation drive for the new Auditorium-Physical Education Building Fund. The drive is scheduled for early February in the Bluffton-Pandora area.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Several new students enrolled after the vacation ended. Pres. Unruh addressed the student body during the Wednesday chapel period. Members of the faculty visited the Salem-Zion Church recently and conducted a panel discussion on school-community relationship and problems. Willard Waltner was on the campus two days taking group pictures of the various organizations for the school annual which will be published soon. Helen Tieszen is the editor of the publication, Joanne Waltner the business manager, and Miss Bertha Ewert the faculty advisor. Friday the academy and college basketball teams meet the two teams from Wessington Springs Junior College. Coach Neufeld has eight more games scheduled for the college and eight more for the academy teams. A short film, showing the broadcast of the Telephone Hour, was shown during music day chapel this week.

BIBLES IN GERMAN

The American Bible Society (450 Park Avenue, New York 22) reports an encouraging development in the production of German Bibles. Up to date, Bibles have been printed and bound in the United States for us in Germany and among German prisoners and deporters. Now, however, the Society is to assemble and ship to Germany the materials for the printing of a million German Bibles; but the actual printing and binding will be done in Germany, "thereby giving employment in the American and British zones to many German printing and binding establishments and their workers." This is truly constructive Christian statesmanship, which should go far to heal many wounds.—The Presbyterian

In Bedford, Pa., the Protestant ministers are cleaning up the town of gambling dens by organizing a concerted campaign of letter writing. The mayor refused to rid the town of the "racket," because he said the people wanted it, but the church people, led by their pastors, are flooding the city hall, the sheriff's office and the local paper with protesting letters. The ministers declare they will continue their barrage of letters until the mayor takes action.—The Presbyterian

Jottings

—Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Boehr's address, until further notice, will be: c/o M.C.C. Headquarters, Canadian Church, South Suburb, Kaifeng, Honan Province, China. On January 5 the Boehr's left Gulfport, Mississippi, on the S. S. Waterman to return to China where they formerly served as missionaries.

—Bethany Church, Quakertown, Pa., December 29, Rev. Arthur Rosenberger of Dalton, Ohio, former pastor of our charge, preached the communion sermon. It was on the subject of "The Redemptive Power of Christ." Rev. and Mrs. Rosenberger came at this time to help his parents, Rev. and Mrs. Seward Rosenberger celebrate their golden wedding anniversary. January 5 we enjoyed a fine New Year's sermon. Our pastor used Joshua 1:1-11, "Crossing the Jordan in 1947." Many of our young people were home over the holidays.—Mrs. Ed. K. Stoneback, Corr.

—Deep Run (Pa.) Church: Pastor J. Herbert Fretz yesterday began a series of nine sermons on the Sermon on The Mount, Matt. 5-7. Sunday evening joint hymn-sing and Bible-study meetings have been planned for January and February when C. E. does not meet.—Mae Gross, Corr.

—First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: Henry D. Decker brought the morning message at our church, Sunday, January 5. Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Becker are leaving for Goshen, Indiana, January 8, where they enter Goshen College in preparation for missionary work in India next fall.—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—First Church, Colfax, Washington: Sunday, January 5, was cold and stormy. Because of sickness and bad weather our number was only ninety-four. Our pastor, Rev. P. D. Unruh brought to us a most inspiring message. The Missionary Society is to have an all-day meeting in February. We are also enjoying prayer meetings held on Wednesday evening of each week. The book of Revelation is the very interesting topic of study and discourse.—Mrs. Horace D. Rogers, Corr.

—First Church, Nappanee, Indiana: We held our annual business meeting in the basement of the church with a carry-in dinner at 6:30. Last Sunday we began the New Year with a communion service. John Weldy, Betty Hostetter, and Patsy Reed were highest on a Mennonite church history test over three months work in the pastor's class. The churches of Nappanee began the Week of Prayer services with a union youth rally, which was under the auspices of the Christian Youth Fellowship. The speaker was Carl J. Kreider, Dean of Goshen College. Thirty-two men attended the local Men's Brotherhood chili supper the other week. They gave five hundred dollars for the M.C.C. Refugee Rehabilitation project, including our White Christmas offering, which went for the same project. Rev. Allan Yoder was the speaker at this meeting. For Christmas Sunday evening service we had a candlelight carol service and a radio play, "A Child Is Born." The play was recorded the day before and the recording was used for the program. The music was furnished by the two choirs of fifty voices. We observed New Year's Eve with a watch-night service at the church from 9 to 12.—Mrs. Loyal Corwin, Corr.

—First Church, Paso Robles, California: Rev. and Mrs. Orlo Kaufman of the First Mennonite Church have volunteered a year of service to the Voluntary Service Program. They will be leaving the church following the last Sunday in May.—Corr.

—Bethel Church, Lustre, Montana: Rev. J. J. Esau spoke November 17-18. He also did visitation work in behalf of the Grace Bible Institute. We observed the Lord's Supper on the morning of January 26. Archie Kliewer, a student at the Grace Bible Institute, spent Christmas vacation at home. Recently letters were received and read at the Sunday morning service from Miss Anna Baerg, Missionary among the Hopis at Oraibi, Arizona, and Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Dick in Africa. Our mission society is making quilts for relief and is also gathering articles for Indian mission stations.—Corr.

—First Church of Garden Township, Moundridge, Kansas: Rev. Milton Vogt, India missionary on furlough, preached an inspirational sermon on "The Power and Authority of Jesus" at the morning service January 12. Rev. Vogt is at present a professor at Hesston College. Albert Nachtigal, recently returned from C.P.S. was married to Miss Melba Stucky of the First Church of Christian on the evening of January 12. Mr. and Mrs. Al Zalout, evangelists, formerly with the "Young People's Church of the Air," presented a program of testimony and violin selections to a full house on the evening of January 12. Virgil Dirks, student at G. B. I., and Ruby Myers, student of a secretarial school at Kansas City, have returned to their studies after a vacation with home folks—Corr.

$2.00 for $1.00

We have some $1.00 box assortments of Christmas Greetings left over from the season just past, and while these last, we will sell these to our customers at the amazing price of 2 boxes for $1.00 postage prepaid. (Note: These cards do not have scripture texts.) Send check or money order with your order to:

Mennonite Book Concern
Berne Indiana

—First Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: The work on our new, eight-room parsonage is moving right along. The basement floors and walls are finished. Most of the labor is donated. Our candidate for Indian Missions, Gladys A. Klassen, expects to be sailing soon with the Lubin Janzens. It is not yet certain whether they will leave from the east or the west coast. Rev. Verney Unruh was our guest speaker December 28 and January 5. He is visiting his brother Willard here, prior to the opening of New York Biblical Seminary, where he will attend the second semester. On the last Sunday of the year we had a snow storm, and the attendance in Sunday school was 78, while the full enrollment is 300. Our relief committee had a very busy month of December. One heifer, 5 beeves, and 12 hogs were processed for relief in Europe. This means that now 2,600 cans are packed, labeled, and ready for trucking to Akron, Pa. Besides the meat, there are 11 gallons of tallow, 128 gallons of lard, 276 quarts of crackles, and 161 pounds of soap. The relief offerings of the church and Sunday school for the year amounted to almost $3,300. The women of the mission society have spent many hours in the church basement, tying comforters for those in need. The music in the church has improved definitely since most of the young men have returned from the service. The students of the local Bible school gave a program on the subject of "Prayer" January 5. Next Friday the teachers of the Sunday school will meet to plan the work of the year.—Mary Bargen, Corr.

—Grace Church, Dallas Oregon: Edward Toews returned to Bible school at Omaha, Nebraska. Also the Waltner girls were home for Christmas, and they have gone back to Bible school. We had installation of officers of the young folks with candle light services by the pastor. The Pratum choir brought us their Christmas cantata last Sunday night. This was very good.—Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.: The annual business meeting of our congregation was held on New Year's Eve. Perhaps the chief item of interest was a discussion regarding our project for a new church building. The Building Committee was authorized to engage a qualified architect to prepare plans for such a building. The time when a new building can be started is still rather indefinite, but we hope the way may be opened for this within the next few years.—Ruth E. Fretz, Corr.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

—Newport Church, Newport, Washington: The mission society had a mission sale on Thanksgiving Day. Also had a program and church dinner. On December 19 was the funeral of Mrs. Wm. Hiebert. She was very active in Sunday School and church and will be greatly missed by all. Our church being without a pastor, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Solam of Spokane have been coming out every other Sunday to bring us a message from God's Word in song and sermon.—Mrs. Henry Hiebert, Corr.

—Second Church, Paso Robles, California: On the last Sunday of 1946 we had the privilege of having missionaries Aron E. and Lubin W. Jantzen and their families with us. Mrs. Lubin Jantzen spoke to the Sunday School. Aron read the scripture and led in prayer in the worship service, and Lubin gave us the message, based on Romans 1:14-16. Following the Christmas musical program in the afternoon, there was a short, impromptu farewell for the Lubin Jantzens, who hope to sail to India soon, the Lord willing. Representative members and leaders of the congregation quoted favorite scripture verses and wished them God-speed, each in his own way. Lubin reponded on behalf of the family. The Aron Jantzens are getting ready to return to India soon. —Mrs. W. N. Claassen, Corr.

—Upper Milford Church, Zionsville, Pa. On Sunday, December 29, at 2:30 P.M. the Bluffton College Gospel Team gave an inspiring service in message and songs. Consisting of selections by the quartet and the message by Kenneth Bauman, son of the Missionary Baumans of India, basing his message on "Consecration." A few of our college students spent the holidays at home with their families.—Corr.

—Dr. J. E. Hartzler, who conducted special meetings at the Carlock, Illinois, Mennonite Church from December 29 to January 5, spoke on: "What's Wrong with the World?", "Building Men for God," "An Adequate Faith," "I Believe in Man," "Spiritual Pioneering,' "I Believe in Jesus Christ," "The Supremacy of Christianity." In special meetings at the First Mennonite Church of Normal, Illinois, Dr. Hartzler spoke on: "Three-fold Consecration," "Why Christianity Lives," "I Need the Church," "Spiritual Preparedness," "The Mystery of the Cross," Why Be a Christian," and "When Are We Christians?"

—Dr. Marden C. Habegger (son of Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Habegger of Montana) has begun the general practice of medicine and surgery at the Medical Building, 1160 West Avenue, Reedley, California.

—The 100 Per Cent Church Paper Plan has been recently adpoted by the following churches: First Mennonite Church, Butterfield, Minnesota; Pulaski Mennonite Church, Pulaski, Iowa; Bethel Mennonite Church, Lustre, Montana; and Vineland United Mennonite Church, Vineland, Ontario, Canada. The Vineland church is the first Canadian church to go upon the 100 Per Cent Plan.

—What is the General Conference? is an interesting and informative little booklet prepared and distributed by the General Conference Mennonite Church of Lancaster, Pa., of which Rev. Don E. Smucker is pastor. Though the booklet is especially for those who "desire more information and background for the work" that the Lancaster church is doing, it nevertheless is of a wider interest.

—First Church, Beatrice, Nebraska: On New Year's Day, Rev. Henry W. Goossen, Burns, Kansas, brought the morning message. On January 11, the Sisters at the Mennonite Hospital held a reception in honor of Miss Heiser, Fisher, Illinois, who is taking over new responsibilities here.—Margaret Albrecht, Corr.

—Rev. Carl H. A. van der Smissen writes, "For my Birthday, the fourth of December, I received twenty-five loving letters and cards, and at Christmas I received fifty loving letters and Christmas cards. I would like to thank all personally hearitly, but being now ninety-five years old, my hand is very shaky, so that even with the typewriter I can not write to all."

CAR OF RAISINS SENT FOR MENNONITE CHILD FEEDING PROGRAM IN GERMANY

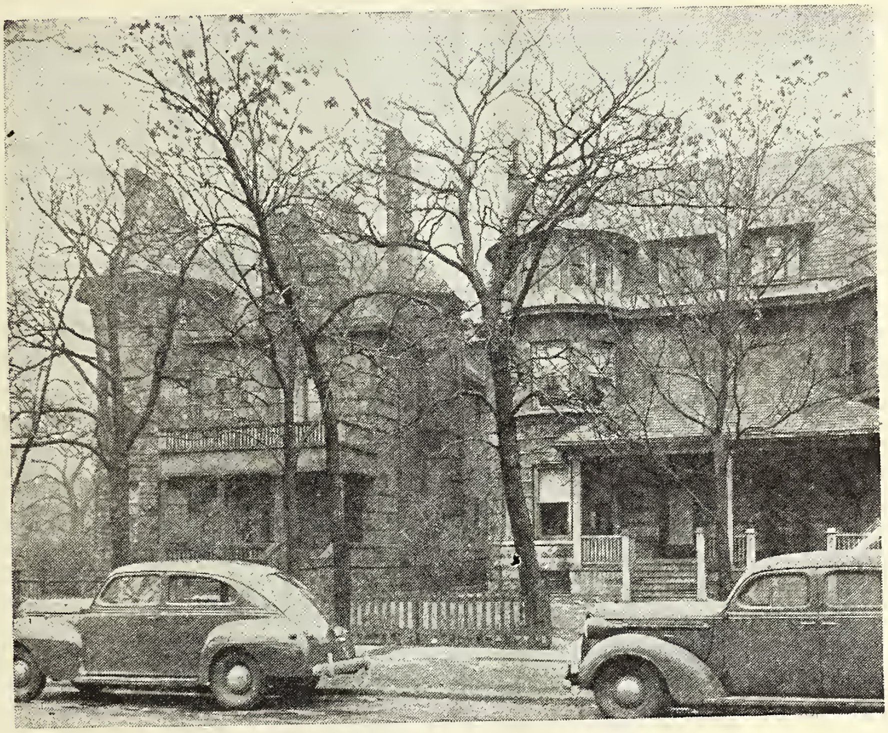
Reedley, California: A car of raisins left Reedley on January 4. It was billed through to New York for export on the S. S. American Banker. The shipment will go to Germany where it will be distributed through the Evangelisches Hilfswerk, a relief organization of German evangelical churches through which the Mennonite Central Committe does some of its work. The carload of raisins could not be shipped any sooner because of a shortage of steamer space.

The car contained 2,276 cases of raisins of 30 pounds each. This made a total of 68,280 pounds. Of this 34,392 pounds were donated by the First Mennonite Church of Reedley. The Alexanderwohl, Goessel, and Tabor churches of Kansas sent enough money to purchase 5,284 pounds. The Mennonite Brethren Church of Dinuba, California, contributed 28,604 pounds. Besides the above there was included in this car 736 cases of dried fruit that had been sent in to the Reedley Relief Center. Of these 650 were dried peaches, and the remainder were apricots, apples, and prunes, etc.

The local relief committee reports, "It was an inspiring and gratifying sight to see these 3,000 cases of dried fruit standing on the platform and being loaded into the car destined for the destitute and hungry of Europe. One could only visualize what joy and gratitude this will bring to those whom it will finally reach."

The Mennonite

Volume 62 —— January 28, 1947 —— Number 4



This picture shows the first Seminary building (left) and the recently acquired new addition (right). The house to the right is a duplex. The Board has bought only the left half of it.

The Mennonite Seminary and Bible School have been established to provide the young people of the church training and preparation for Christian work as ministers, teachers, and missionaries. The property is located four blocks from Lake Michigan on the South Side of Chicago. The structure is thoroughly and well built to stand for many years. With the passage of time, it can become the center of rich experiences and deep inspiration giving the religious leaders of the future the vision to go forth and be servants of Christ and the people in the work of the Kingdom.

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

GENERAL GEORGE C. MARSHALL, as Secretary of State, will undoubtedly carry out the duties of that office strongly influenced by the military point of view, to which he has given his time and energy up to now. If the way of military might is not the surest way to peace, then his appointment ought to be accepted with much foreboding.

In this day of ill-will and fear, General Marshall is a man who places tremendous trust in military might. At the end of the Second World War, in his report as Chief of Staff of the United States Army to the Secretary of War, he wrote,

". . . I feel that I have a duty, a responsibility, to present publicly at this time my conception, from a military point of view, of what is required to prevent another international catastrophe."

"We finish each bloody war with a feeling of acute revulsion against this savage form of human behaviour, and yet on each occasion we confuse military preparedness with the causes of war and then drift almost deliberately into another catastrophe . . . . We have continued impractical. We have ignored the hard realities of world affairs. We have been purely idealistic.

"We must start, I think, with a correction of the tragic misunderstanding that a security policy is a war policy . . . ."

That General Marshall has some real points can not be denied. For example, from the point-of-view of one whose duty it is to make the nation impregnable against military might, it must seem very foolish to drift into disarmament while not realistically tackling "the causes of war." As long as we as a nation insist upon following a way of national life that can only lead to a clash with the interests of other nations, it would seem to be the logical policy that we prepare for the war that must come sooner or later. Undoubtedly, there has been much wishful thinking in regard to war. People have wanted peace while at the same time wanting the things that make for war. Marshall suggests that we be realistic.

But he is wrong in suggesting that "We have been purely idealistic." For the fact is that we have not been idealistic enough. Failure to arm to the teeth is a negative policy. While we were pursuing that policy to some extent before World War II we were not engaged in any postive all-out program to remove the causes of war. It was natural that war should again come, not due to our lack of military preparedness, but due to our failure to deal with the causes of war.

The great need today is to get at the causes of war and deal realistically with them. It is because of this fact that the appointment of Marshall is so tragic. His business so far has been to prepare for war and not to remove the causes of war. It is not so surprising that Marshall should write, "The timing of our decision on the question of Universal Military Training is urgent. The officials of the State Department have been strongly of the opinion that a decision in this matter prior to the final peace negotiations would greatly strengthen the hand of the United States in securing acceptance of a genuine organization to handle international differences." Seeing so little progress in the elimination of the causes of war, it is not so surprising that Marshall should put great trust in military might as a help to getting other nations to agree with us.

But making other nations agree through fear is not removing causes; it riding over them roughshod, and such a policy simply pricks the discontented party into doing everything possible to overcome the thing that blocks its interests. To build up armaments is an invitation to others to do the same. The process cannot go on indefinitely without bad consequences. The way to slow it down would be to deal with the causes of war, but while there is preoccupation with military might and the short-time advantages it gives, there is little inclination to self-examination and a thorough attempt at understanding the other, leave alone that second-mile through which the other individual or nation can get rid of the poison in its blood.

The need of the hour is for peacemakers. This is especially the business of the Christian Church. Though the Church has done well in many ways, it did not do well enough to prevent a second World War. It will have to do better in the future if such men as General Marshall shall have less reason for depending upon armed might. The appointment of General Marshall seems regrettable. Even more so are the conditions of which this appointment is but a dramatic expression.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22 1919.

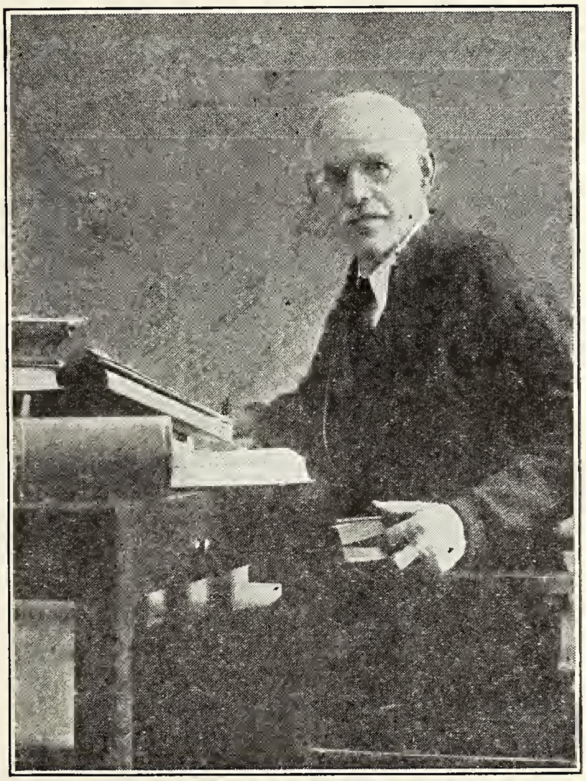
Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Message for the Funeral Service of THE REV. RODOLPHE PETTER, D.D.

(The message given by Rev. S. T. Moyer at the funeral service of Dr. Rodolphe Petter, Lame Deer, Montana, January 6, 1947, is here given as written out by Rev. Moyer after the funeral.)



Dr. Rodolphe Petter

For the occasion for which we are assembled together today, two verses come to us from God's Word: "The King said unto his servants, There is a Prince and a Great Man fallen this day in Israel." II Sam. 3:38. "Ye have dwelt long enough in this mountain. Turn you, and take your journey." Deut.1: 6b, 7a.

The first may be applied reverently: The Lord Jesus, the King upon His throne, is saying to Christian believers, who bear testimony to His name, "Know ye, there is a Prince and a Great Man has fallen this day in Israel. The second refers, not to us assembled, but to our brother, Dr. Rodolphe Petter. "Ye have dwelt long enough in this mountain. Turn you, and take your journey."

Out of the second text come these truths which merit our attention.

First, Dr. Petter's life was a life called and guided by God.

How can we, who are assembled here today, explain his life journey—born in the beautiful town of Vevey, on the shores of the famous Lake Geneva, Switzerland, taking seven years of higher training at Basel, thence coming to the United States, then going to Oberlin College to perfect his English, thence to Oklahoma, and finally to Lame Deer, Montana?

How can we explain one, who was endowed with the mind of a scholar, with linguistic abilities of very superior order, so that he could read, write, speak, and preach fluently in four languages (French, German, English, Cheyenne), so that he could read and understand three more (Latin, Greek, Hebrew), and had familiarity with two, perhaps three others (Chaldean, Assyrian, Aramaic); endued with a great love for God's Word; endued with a great love for man, especially the Cheyenne; clothed with gentleness and meekness; by choice pouring out that life and by choice ending life's journey here in the foothills of the Rockies, in the land of rodeo, ranch, range, and reservation?

How explain a life like that?

Here is a verse that explains such a life: "The eyes of th Lord run to and fro through-out the whole earth to show Himself strong in behalf of him whose heart is perfect toward Him". (II Chron. 16:9)

Four thousand years ago those Eyes were running through-out the whole earth, and down in Ur of Chaldees they found Abram, a prince with man, picked him up, called him forth, sent him to Canaan, there on that bridge between three continents, to open up the heart of the true God to the whole earth.

Three thousand years ago those Eyes ran to and fro and in the pastures of Bethlehem. They found a shepherd boy, David, and called him forth, and set him upon the throne at Jerusalem, that he might give the strength and comfort of his matchless Psalms, and God's idea of a Kingdom to suceeding milleniums of weary peoples.

Two hundred years ago those Eyes ran to and fro, and at a cobbler's bench in Englnad they discovered a young man, Wm. Carey. They picked him up, called him forth, and sent him to India, that he might dig into the Sanskrit, Greek, Latin, and Hebrew, and produce the Bible in some twenty-four different main languages of India. Thus he opened up the Bible to the multitudes of India.

One hundred years ago those Eyes of the Lord ran to and fro, and in a hamlet in Scotland they discovered a Scotch lad, Davy Livingstone. God called him forth to go to Africa, there to open up the dark continent to the message of a Saviour Jesus Christ.

Some eighty years ago those Eyes of the Lord ran to and fro. Down on the shores of Lake Geneva they found God's man, Rodolphe Petter. God called him, prepared him, sent him to America to the land of the Cheyennes, that by his talents and time, through the translated Word, he might build a bridge for time and eternity by which the Cheyenne might move out of darkness upon the highway of heavenly light which is in Christ Jesus, Lord and Saviour.

All these: Abram, David, Carey, Livingstone, Petter were princes before God. Great men in Israel. We are here today to do reverence and honor to Dr. Rodolphe Petter, to understand the part God plays in the affairs of man. But oh! that we also might catch a vision of these same searching Eyes of God, a God who is anxious to do a mighty work through us.

Second, A second great question claims our attention from Deut 1: 6b, 7a.

Since Dr. Petter responded to this Call, and climbed the mountain, what was the roadway he took? What was the recipe for his success?

Again there is a verse from Scripture which aptly describes what took place. Joshua was ready to set out on his journey into a new land. God spoke to Joshua in this language. "This Book of Law shall not depart out of thy mouth, Thou shalt meditate thereon day and night, that thou mayest do according to all that is written therein: For then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, then shalt thou have good success." Josh. 1:8

Here is God's formula for success: Take My Word; let it be on your lips, meditate on it day and night; do it; this will bring prosperity and success.

John D. Rockefeller may have his gold. By his four millions he can clear out a site for the United Nations in the heart of New York City, Gold and silver are essential commodities, a necessary equipment for all. But there is something more valuable than gold, yea, more than much fine gold. That is the Word of God.

That Word of God is more valuable than gold, because where the Word of God is dishonored, or unknown, whether it be Sodom and Gomorrah, or whether it be Berlin or Berchtesgaden, there real estate has little value, and the power of gold is useless and silver become dross. Dr. Petter has given this great gift, greater than Rockefeller's gold, to the Cheyennes, the Word of God.

Third, What about the mountain top?

A few years ago in India, on a hot spring day in the tropics, I had taken my bicycle to go across country to Champa. I had crossed some four or five miles of scorching plain country, had gone across a temporary bridge over the Hasdeo River, en route to get abroad the Mail Train stopping at Champa Railway Station, enroute to some conference or retreat. Having climbed out of the river valley, I met a very distinguished looking Indian gentlemen, the Rev. Balasunderam. He was the representative of the British and Foreign Bible Society, a patron of which is the King Emperor. He was traveling overland to Janjgir using an ex-propelled vehicle. He had just finished his visit to Champa Mission Station, including the Bethesda Leper Home and Church. At that time for a few years the superintendent of this Leper Home was the Rev. P. W. Penner. Exchanging greetings he turned to me, and with great conviction said, "I am amazed: here in your Leper Home and in in these mission stations there is a greatness of soul and endeavor, in such out of the way places, unknown and unparalled over all India; while in some of the better known places I find such littleness of soul, and smallness of personality."

That was the mountain top on which Dr. Petter dwelt, . . . this greatness of soul, and endeavor, in an out of the way place, too little known in the large world outside. What was the secret of this mountaintop personality? "The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord." (Prov. 20:27) The soul of Dr. Petter has been enkindled by the Holy Spirit of a great God.

So following the call of his Lord, he dwelt on this mountain of dedicated meekness and gentleness, of humble service to God and man. The truly great are those who learn of the lowly One of Galilee. This grand silent life has passed out of mortal sight. On Monday morning, January 6, the angel of the Lord came and said, "You have dwelt long enough in this mountain; turn you, and take your journey." A gate stood ajar. Another angel beckoned. He followed, disappeared beyond the portals, into the presence of His Lord and Master.

What of those who remain? Of those who are called to carry on? Of those who are near and dear to our brother, Dr. Petter? In Acts we read of Paul,"The night following the Lord stood by him, and said, "Be of good cheer; as thou hast testified of me at Jerusalem, so must thou be my witness also at Rome." (Acts 23:11).

What had preceded this night in Paul's experience? Paul was in deep trouble. He was in danger of being torn to pieces. The Lord stood by saying, "Be of good cheer. There is something ahead for you which I want you to do." This is the message to those who are near and dear. "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and God of all comfort; who comforteth us in all our affliction, that we may be able to comfort them that are in affliction through the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God," (II Cor. 1:3, 4). May this comfort be yours.—S. T. Moyer

A Message from Mrs. Rodolphe Petter

Lame Deer, Montana
January 14, 1947

Dear friends in the churches:

It is hard to think coherently. Events tumbled all over each other in these trying days. My husband attended the Christmas exercises and enjoyed them. The following Sunday was a cold day. He came to the church. We all huddled around the heater to keep warm. He did not remain for the Cheyenne service. Flung the handsome double-breasted army coat we had given him as a Christmas present over his arm instead of putting it on for the few steps back to the house.

His pen was busy as usual during the following days, as some of you who heard from him can testify. He did not attend services on the first Sunday of the new year, but that did not alarm me, for many times I had advised that he do not go.

The native helper felt he had not had sufficient preparation, so the morning Cheyenne service was left to me. Our very devout and capable Bible woman also gave a fitting message. As usual on the first Sunday of the New year, we read Psalm 90 and 91. I like the Cheyenne translation so much better than the English, and commented especially on verse 3, "Thou turnest man unto dust" and verse 9, second part, "When our years have reached their allotted time, we come to an end with a last groan, sigh, breath."

He relished the pork chop on his plate at noon. In the afternoon we both rested, for my day had begun with the janitor work at the church and house at 6 a.m. Then the chores, taught a Cheyenne Sunday School class, played the piano, led the singing and conducted the Cheyenne service.

I was glad a capable driver took our car in the afternoon so the Bible woman could visit some sick in the camps and minister to them. Their report was so fine, and inwardly I commented on the worth whileness of such services.

In the evening our Cheyenne Okinawa veteran, who confidently claims that due to the prayers of his devout mother, he never needed to carry a gun in all of his four years of service in the army, called for the Cheyenne dictionary he had asked my husband to autograph for him. He wanted to take it with him as he is leaving for a college in the east to claim his G. I. privileges to get a higher education.

My husband was resting. However he arose, gave the big volume to James, spoke a very few fitting words which this young man will treasure in his heart throughout the rest of his life, and bade him good by and Godspeed. "I wanted his blessing and I got it," was James satisfied comment as he left.

Monday morning when I came down, my husband had already arranged his bed coverings and was making the coffee, a self-imposed task he ever enjoyed. He turned and at first I scarce sensed that he had said, "You fix that egg for yourself. I shall not want it this morning," and slipped upstairs. For once I failed in my customary vigilance. I should have restrained him.

A thud! In a moment I was at his side. He lay on the floor. In a matter of seconds he was gone. "God took him and he was not." Quickly straightening his body, crossing his hands over his chest, seeing that his eyes were properly closed and chin supported, I rushed downstairs to the phone. Got a quick response.

The Habeggers immediately picked up the most necessary things for a longer stay. To me it seemed an interminable time until their car drove in. I could not leave the house even to call sleeping Indains on the premises.

In the whirl of the immediately following days, there was no time to give way to grief. Telegrams flew back and forth. Local and long distance calls! A cablegram to Zuerich, Switzerland, on Monday brought an answer on Wednesday.

The counsel of my very fine co-workers helped direct our course. God sent the man of His choice to deliver a fitting message. In spirit filled words he led us to the very portals of heaven. We exclaimed "Great is Jehovah. He doeth mighty things. Blessed be His name."

Then too the entire community of government employees, trades people, school, children, teachers, Protestants, Catholics, heathen, Christians rose as a body to my support.

The floral tributes were magnificient. Though my husband had always specified, "No flowers," somehow I dared not interfere in this voluntary expression of esteem, sympathy, helpfulness and kindness. This very definitely carried its own message to our Indians.

While the Tribal Council had wished that their gorgeous floral piece cover the casket, the family ruled that their spray alone occupy that choice place. The government employees placed an immense and most beautiful wreath, and others from near and far made their contribution. It was a gorgeous sight.

Above on the wall was the very fine portrait of him that our former superintendent of the reservation with real talent had painted; Indian Christians surrounded it with a wreath of native evergreen. They also suggested that his favorite motto, " I know that my Redeemer liveth" have a prominent place. In large letters this filled the entire space from wall to wall in front.

Six pall bearers, two of whom were devout Catholics and two were Indians, carried the simple but beautiful casket. Six white men from the immediate community and the entire Busines Council of the tribe, consisting of sixteen members were honorary pall bearers. The man at the head of tribal affairs on the reservation was the very efficient usher. Our fine undertaker from Forsyth directed the funeral.

The Indians, both heathen and especially Christians, were grand in their expressions of real grief and desire to be helpful. Our Bible woman said to a white lady in government circles who was overcome with grief. "Oh, don't grieve. He has lived a beautiful life. He died with no malice toward anyone. Don't grieve, but go home and pray until happiness comes into your heart, for he has been taken to his Home on high."—Mrs Rodolphe Petter

FUNERAL SERVICE OF MISSIONARY RODOLPHE C. PETTER

January 11, 1947

Cheyenne Service 10:30 A. M.

Prelude: Mrs. Malcolm Wenger 5 min.
Cheyenne Song: I'm a Pilgrim 4 min.
Scripture Reading and Prayer: A. Habegger 6 min.
Sermon: A. Habegger 15 min.
Cheyenne Song: Jesus Lebt mit Ihm auch Ich 4 min.
Obituary: Milton Whiteman with comments 6 min.
Talk: Mrs. Emma King 6 min.
Cheyenne Song: When the Roll Is Called 4 min.
Closing Prayer: Wm. Fightingbear 3 min.
Postlude: Mrs. Wenger Total: 53 min.

English Service 2 P. M.

Prelude: Mrs. Wenger: Before 2 P. M.
Song, Quartet: Bet Still My Soul 5 min.
Scripture Reading and Prayer: Rev. M. Wenger 10 min.
Solo: I Am a Stranger Here, by Milton Whiteman 5 min.
Sermon: Rev. Samuel T. Moyer, India, Prayer 30 min.
Solo: The Lord Is My Shepherd: Rev. A. Habegger 4.5 min.
Obituary: Rev A. Habegger 5 min.
Closing Prayer:
Postludes: Mrs. M. Wenger

(Rev. Chester Bentley, Baptist missionary at the Crow Agency, a warm friend of our mission and an admirer of my husband officiated at the grave. God "sandwiched" in one full week of lovely mild winter weather. Thermometer again dropped to 24 below.—Mrs. Petter)

Rev. A. E. Kreider Writes from India

(The following interesting letter by Rev. A. E. Kreider, President of the Board of Foreign Missions, was sent to the Secretary, Rev. Howard G. Nyce. Please note the underscored words "Help is needed.")

Jagdeeshpur, C. P.
December 9, 1946

Dear Brother Nyce:

Just returned after a tour of villages in the western part of the Jagdeesphur area. There are Christians now in 137 villages. I met with these Indian brethren and worshipped with them in their meeting houses of mud walls. I ate with them in their homes. I looked into the faces of many who have passed out of darkness into the marvelous light of Christ. What a joy! Words fail to describe the experience. Christ's power to redeem and regenerate is abundantly demonstrated.

The Jagdeesphur area is divided into six districts. Each district is organized as a church with a pastor. One district consists of thirty-seven villages,—villages in which there are Christians. These villages are widely distributed over the district. The pastor is assisted by evangelists. It is only in this way that constant contact is maintained with the widely scattered membership. Brother Ratzlaff works with the pastors, spending his time with them on the field. He is alone now. It is impossible to shepherd and care adequately for this group of about three thousand souls. Help is needed. I was present at one baptismal service. Others are asking for baptism. The Lord is working mightily in this area. But the work is not without its difficulties.

The people are asking for schools for their children. Teachers must be trained. More pastors are needed. They cannot be entrusted with such responsibilities without preparation. There are always many sick in these villages. Yesterday in one village, we visited five homes of Christians in which we found the sick. Dispensaries must be opened throughout this area.

Mrs. Isaac is a courageous soul. She has not decided as yet just when she will return to the homeland. It will depend upon her health. In recent weeks her health is improved. But in conversation I took the liberty to assure her that the Board will approve of her return to the States at whatever time she may decide to go. I am reporting this that it may be passed on to the other members of the Board. She is free to plan for the future. When I assured her that she may decide to return at such time as she sees fit, it seemed to give her a feeling of relief. She is needed here and will stay on for some time if her strength permits.

The Conference of the Indian Church will be held at Mauhadih January 3-8. By that time, I will have had opportunity to visit all the stations. Our workers face two big tasks here on the field. One is evangelistic and the other is the building of the Christians into a strong self-supporting church. Our workers are earnestly and prayerfully working toward both objectives—Faithfully yours, A. E. Kreider

Peace Committee Outlines Plans for Future

The good news has come that our Alternative Service Program—which we know as CPS—is now down to less then 150 people in MCC camps and units. It is also reported that a sizeable financial balance is on hand at the MCC Headquarters, which will be enough to carry the program to its conclusion without any further contributions.

We thank you heartily for your efforts toward this program. Without our combined efforts it could not have been possible. There are numbers of ex-CPS men who feel very grateful for what the churches have so graciously contributed. We were not always able to meet our entire quota as a conference; yet on the basis of the number of men from our conference in camp, we carried our share of the burden.

While no more money will be needed for CPS, there will be money needed to continue the work of the General Conference Peace Committee, and we encourage your continued support. There is a great deal of work that needs to be done, and we are planning to work in the following areas:

Peace Education. This task has just begun; we need to do more extensive as well as more intensive work along this line in our churches, if our peace principle is to live.

Voluntary Service Projects. During the war we had to serve in the Alternative Service Program; now we have opportunity to serve voluntarily. There are numerous areas where we can serve effectively, and there are also consecrated people who want to serve.

Foreign Students in Mennonite Colleges. Your Peace Committee bears its share in this worthy project. The time may also come where our own students may study in Mennonites institutions abroad, and thus a closer bond of fellowship of our young people can be established.

Spiritual Service to Mennonites abroad. Many of our brethren abroad would welcome much closer bonds of fellowship to be established between them and us, and it is our hope that we will not fail them in the hour of need. (This is not to reach into the Relief Board and Mutual Aid Board resettlement service; ours is to render what help we can to European Mennonites spiritually, and to bind our fellowship closer together.)

We feel that you will want to continue your support of the Peace Committee, and we ask for your continued prayerful remembrance of this committee. We estimate a budget of $5,000 for 1947, and we solicit your continued prayerful support.—Respectfully, The Peace Committee, H. T. Unruh, Chairman; Albert Gaeddert, Secretary.

Latest Developments in South America

According to a letter from Brother Gerald Stucky, dated November 12, he investigated the possibility of opening a work in La Mesa but discovered that this territory was under the supervision of the World Evangelistic Crusade. Then he made a trip into a section of Cundinamarca north of La Mesa; this is still more or less the same region that the Colombia workers had originally planned to work since there are no mission workers there, nor is there any mission work being carried on there. Brother Stucky especially visited Anolaima and Chachipay. Ocaso was also visited. This region turns out to be as well or even better suited to our purposes as would have La Mesa. The workers feel that while the doors to La Mesa were closed, the Lord was leading into a different place.

In his letter of December 13, Brother Stucky writes, "I am glad to report this afternoon that yesterday we succeeded, by God's grace, to rent a spacious building about twenty-five minutes walk from Cachipay, Cund. This town is about two and one half hours from Bogota, and about an equal distance from Agua de Dios, the leper colony. It is located in a mild climate (the year around), and I think it will serve our purpose well. It was built by some Germans as a kind of a hotel—which apparently was a hot house for the German colony here before the war. Since that time the house had been abandoned by government order and the Germans I believe were put into concentration camp. Now however, a German is again in charge, and he is renting it to us. It is a big building in which I think there will be room for us all as missionaries and perhaps some thirty to forty children a well. We are expecting to be in possesion of the house in Cachipay by the first of February. In the meantime, we will be buying furniture and supplies, and getting ready. We should be prepared to take in children by February too. Already we have about six children ready to come. There will no doubt be plenty of others. It is, I am sure going to be a very worthwhile work, a blessed task, and fulfill a genuine need here in Colombia. OUR ADDRESS AFTER FEBRUARY 1, WILL BE CACHIPAY, CUND., COLOMBIA."—Sincerely, Howard G. Nyce, Secretary.

Five Year Plan!

Donnellson, Iowa
January 14, 1947

Mennonite Publication Office
Newton, Kansas

Dear Sirs:

Enclosed please find check of $8.75 as subscription fee for the MENNONITE for five years, making it paid up till January, 1952.

We feel we cannot afford to be without THE MENNONITE, and appreciate all the information we glean from it, as well as all the educational issues, and contacts with the missionary world. Also the different avenues of service carried on by the M.C.C. and any other relief projects that are explained, are truly to be commended. I think this last item is what makes the paper so interesting for our young folks.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Arnold Lowenberg

MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE
722 North Main
Newton, Kansas

January 18, 1947

Mrs. Arnold Lowenberg
Donnellson, Iowa

Dear Mrs. Lowenberg:

Your letter was an inspiration to us—to all who work on THE MENNONITE.

Your letter shows not only appreciation—it shows an infectious FAITH in the work of Mennonites in general and in our publication work in particular.

Your subscription is being entered—may the years measure up to your high expectations as THE MENNONITE comes to your home, week by week, THROUGH THE YEARS!

Thank you.
THE PUBLICATION OFFICE

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Reasons for Summer Voluntary Service

The second article issued by the M.C.C. discussing the voluntary service program.

One aspect of the M.C.C. Voluntary Services is Summer Service units. Some Mennonite and Brethren in Christ young people have been asking questions about the type of projects that will be available this coming summer. It is too early as yet to announce definite details but it is not too early for young people, parents and ministers to consider the idea and possibilities for the coming summer. The broad outline of the program is already becoming clearer and will be announced next week. Other announcements will likely be made by those groups sponsoring some of their own projects.

In general the purpose of all the individual conference and joint conference projects is to extend our service and witness as Christians and to provide a helpful Christian experience. Until about sixty years ago our churches did not "send forth" missionaries beyond our own group. In the last sixty years we have used largely people who give their lifetime to the work. During these war years our groups have discovered in a new measure how to enlarge their total witness and service by utilizing two and three year periods of individuals in an organized program. Voluntary Services is a channel set up to utilize even shorter periods and for service particularly on this continent which could include the younger members of our churches. Summer Service projects provide a "handle" both for youth and the church.

For the church it provides an opportunity to start harnessing and nuturing talent of youth and others. It combines doing and learning—such as, organizing a Bible class in a new community, a play and story hour for children in an underprivileged community, or being helpful to the handicapped behind closed doors. Going away from home for short periods of time should give young people more of a vision of need in this world, more appreciation for their Christian heritage and their communities.

Summer Services is a "handle" from the viewpoint of consecrated young Christians themselves. Often they hesitate to do things as individuals but catch the spirit when it is a group endeavor. Naturally many of them are adventurous and eager to try their talent at new tasks such as caring for mentally ill, the blind, or working with colored folks of the South. A variety of service opportunities, being in a Christian group with mature Christian leadership, and actually beginning to "do" have helped some young people find God's will for their lives. In Summer Service young folks and older ones, too, go out to heal the bruised, teach the Bible, fight the hookworm, stand by the underprivileged and those in distress—all as a Christian group with the motive of love.

via M. C. C. Headquarters

The Methodist Youth Program

by Hoover Rupert

Continuing the series of articles discussing the youth program of different denominations

Youth work in Methodism has undergone some magnificent changes in the last decade. In 1939 three branches of Methodism, the Methodist Episcopal, the Methodist Episcopal, South, and the Methodist Protestant Churches, united to form the Methodist Church. Prior to unification, each of the denominations had been making a parallel approach to the youth of its constituency. Thus there were separately organized Sunday-school classes for youth, the Epworth League, missionary groups sponsored by the women's organizations such as Standard Bearers, Queen Esther, King's Heralds, etc., and other youth interest groups.

With the unification of the churches came the unifying of the church's program for youth, and the Methodist Youth Fellowship was born. This was the organization of youth into one church group. In a local church, all the separate youth groups now came under the general pattern of the Methodist Youth Fellowship. The Sunday church-school session of the youth group was an integral part of the MYF as was the evening meeting and the missionary interest groups. In most cases, one group of officers served the organization for the entire youth group, and each of the activities of the MYF were interrelated.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship is composed of every youth between the ages of twelve and twenty-three who is a member of the Methodist Church or enrolled in the Methodist church school. It numbers approximately 2,000,00 youth in its membership. Youth aged twelve to fourteen are classified as intermediates, those fifteen to seventeen as seniors, and those eighteen to twenty-three as young people.

Organizational Pattern

In the Organizational pattern there are four commissions within the MYF. The Commission on Worship and Evangelism is charged with the responsibility for planning and conducting the worship services, and for acting as a membership committee in securing new members. The Commission on Missions and World Friendship has responsibility for missionary education and mission study within the MYF. Under its guidance, missionary contributions are given to the Methodist Youth Fund which supports mission projects at home and abroad. The Community Service Commission leads in social service work and social action projects. The fellowship and recreation program comes under the supervision of the Commission on Recreation and Leisure. Each of these commissions is headed by a youth chairman and under the guidance of an adult counselor. In addition to these four chairmen, each local chapter of the Methodist Youth Fellowship has a president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and publicity chairman.

Beyond the local church is a rather intricate framework of organization. The subdistrict organization is composed of ten to fifteen churches within geographical proximity of each other. Each of these groups which is organized has the same type of cabinet or council group as the local church organization. The District Methodist Youth Fellowship is organized on the basis of the districts of Methodism. There are 556 districts in the Methodist Church. Each of them includes from six to twelve counties. Again the council set-up is much the same. Districts are grouped into annual conferences. Each of the 105 annual conferences of Methodism has a Conference Methodist Youth Fellowship organization with a full corps of officers and program of activity.

The National Conference of the Methodist Youth Fellowship is composed of the presidents of the Annual Conference MYF organizations and includes the forty presidents of the Methodist State Student Movements. Projects of national importance are planned and carried on by the democratic youth organization on the national level. Power, a quarterly booklet of daily devotional helps, is published by the National Conference, as is Concern, the bi-weekly youth newspaper. A biennial convocation is held by the National Conference. The 1946 session is being held this month.

All the boards of the Methodist Church cooperate in the youth program on the national level. However, the central office of the Methodist Youth Fellowship is in the youth department of the General Board of Education. Here the promotion and planning of the work of Christian education of youth in the Methodist Church begins in its channeling down to the local church. A staff of twenty-five workers render field service, do editorial work, and serve as resource persons for the 40,000 local Methodist churches. Contact is maintained regularly with conference, district, and subdistrict youth councils and adult counselors, and through them into the local groups of the MYF.

Significant Activities

One of the outstanding developments in the youth program of Methodism has been the program of Methodist Youth Caravans, Inaugurated seven years ago, this program trains and sends out teams of youth, each with an adult counselor, who give seven weeks of volunteer service in working with the youth of seven local churches. This week of youth emphasis in each local church visited emphasizes all the phases of the youth program including worship, study, recreation, and work projects. In addition, caravaners are trained to help in local organizational problems. The caravaners are college students who serve without pay, receiving only their board and room. In the seven years of Methodist Youth Caravans, there have been 450 teams with a total of 1,527 youth and 505 adult counselors who have rendered service in over 8,000 churches in all parts of the nation.

Other opportunites for service in the Volunteer Service program of the Methodist Youth Fellowship include work camps sponsored by the National Conference, the Church School Extension Service which calls for giving a year of service on a subsistence basis, in doing mission and church-school extension work in rural and neglected areas. The response to these challenges to service has been most gratifying. Always there have been more volunteers than could be used.

The Methodist Youth Fellowship maintains an active summer agency program. This summer nearly 700 camps, institutes, and assemblies will attract 100,000 youth who will spend the week of their camp experience in worship, study, and recreation. As in every denomination, these times of inspiration give great impetus to the Christian vitality of Methodist youth even as the training they offer gives practical guidance to building an effective MYF program in the local church.

Our Failures

by Louis E. Thayer

Back of the failure and defeat,
Back of the fight we lose,
Back of the test we did not meet—
Lies strength we did not use.

Back of every unfinshed course
Of golden chances gone,
We'll always find some vital force
We did not draw upon.

Why, as we try to reach success.
Do we so often fall?
How can we hope to win unless
We give each task our all?

Trends in Methodist Youth

Methodist youth are becoming more missions-minded. They have caught the feeling of what it means to live in one world and are proving themselves equal to the challenge of our day. In addition to the quarter of a million dollars which they contribute through the Methodist Youth Fund, hundreds of youth are volunteering for full-time service in the mission field. Following the prescribed program of training and education, they will go to the various mission fields across the world.

Methodist youth have a social conscience. They have always been leaders in the field of social action. Their organized opposition to compulsory peacetime military conscription is well known both in the church and in Washington. Their pioneer efforts in racial relations have been a shock to some groups within Methodism, but have often been the light which has guided others to greater tolerance and understanding. Their ready response to the call to service in caravans and work camps has indicated their willingness to pay more than mere lip-service to their social ideals.

Methodist youth are demonstrating that democracy can work. The Methodist Church has recognized that youth are active and important members of the church. They have been given representation on local official boards, and on the conference and general boards of the church. They sit in consultation with adult members and have an equal voice and vote with their fellow-Methodists. Within the youth organization procedures, plans and organization are built and operated by democratic methods which recognize the right of every one to have a voice in plans, and the obligation of every one to share in making the plans effective.

Methodist youth are active. They are busily engaged now in the Crusade for Christ program which their denomination is projecting from 1944-48. This year they are emphasizing evangelism and are seeking to contact and win for Christ the unchurched youth of the land. They are active in interdenominational activity. They are working members of the United Christian Youth Movement, with some of their number serving on the corps of officers of the UCYM. in any local United Christian Youth Council, the Methodists will be found as active cooperators in interdenominational projects.

Methodist youth seek to be effectively Christian. Their motto is "Christ Above All," and they seek to be true to the implications of their motto's challenge.—Youth.

Items of Interest

Several of the young people corresponding with Mennonite youth in Holland have written to report about their new found friends. Miss Marie Peters of Henderson, Nebraska, reports that she is corresponding with Miss Nettie de Boer, seventeen-year-old girl living in Aalsmeer, Holland, a town of twelve thousand. Miss de Boer is attending Commerical Night School. Howard Shelly, student at Bluffton, College, corresponds with Kees Jan De Jong, also of Aalsmeer which, incidentally, is Dutch for "All Lake." Kees is attending an engineering school.

* * * *

The children of the Nappanee Church have supported a Books for India project which grew out of a request from Missionary Thiessen in India for English books for Children. The project undertaken by the Nappanee children's groups, has resulted in the raising of a fund of $92.71. One-third of this is to be sent as cash to be used for books in Hindi, the remainder will buy books, which then will be sent to India.

* * * *

In the November, 1936, issue of the Bible Society Record, Pastor Wilhelm Wiswedel writes from Bayreuth, "We have many people from Russia, Baltic countries, Poland, Romania, Hungary, and Czechoslovakia. They are members of the Baptist and Mennonite churches. They have lost all their belongings and most of them are without any Bible or New Testament. The joy was great when I got from Chaplain Russ a great number of Bibles and distributed them among them. They all thank heartily the American Bible Society in New York for this God's gift, and we all are praying that the Lord's blessing would rest on the giver and the readers of God's Word."

* * * *

The story of a new translation of the New Testament comes from the American Bible Society. The new translation is in Commerical Kikongo, a trade language developed by government officials and traders and understood by many tribes in Southwestern Belgian Congo. About 500,000 people use the language. The new translation is the result of the work of two missions in the region including the Mennonite Mission. Mrs. Martha Janzen brought the manuscript to New York in August of last year for the study of the Versions Committee of the Bible Society.

* * * *

In November and December, seven Sea-going cowboy crews, composed of Mennonite crews under the M.C.C., sailed for Europe.

* * * *

The Civilian Public Service units now have 145 men in camp. This is the lowest since June, 1941. Recent reports concerning the new Congress state that there seems to be a general attitude of coolness toward extending the conscription act beyond its March expiration. At the same time, the War Department has announced new proposed plans for peacetime conscription which the military forces are expected to press strongly for passage by Congress.

* * * *

The Home Missions Council, at its annual meeting held this year in Pennsylvania, announced new and far-reaching resolutions regarding future church policy regarding racial discrimination. Their resolutions called for a policy which would not permit any discrimination regarding races. Since God is the Creator and Father of all men regardless of color of skin, the Church of Christ should also view men in like manner.

Miss Doris Garmatter, who was Secretary-Treasurer of the Middle District Young People's organization, has resigned in order to enter relief work. Miss Ferol Althaus of the Ebenezer Church has been appointed to take her place.

* * * *

Orval Etter, a religious pacifist lawyer, was not permitted admittance to the bar by a subcommittee of California bar examiners. This decision has been reversed, a report states. Mr. Etter has been admitted to the California bar. A similar case in Illinois resulted in the refusal of admittance of the lawyer to the bar. This case has been carried to higher courts.

* * * *

Crime in the U.S. is up 8.1 per cent for 1946, according to a report by Edgar J. Hoover. The eighteen to twenty-four age group represented the biggest increase — 17 per cent of the five hundred thousand fingerprint arrest records reviewed. Arrests of women for the first nine months of 1946 decreased 22.2 per cent, compared with the same period in 1945.

* * * *

On Thanksgiving Day in a Tokyo stadium, fifteen thousand Japanese participated in a service thanking the Allies for alleviating the food crisis the past year. Representatives of the leading political parties spoke.

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Arrangements have been made to establish Bluffton College as a center for pre-medical examinations which are now being given under the Graduate Record Office. Previously these tests had been offered by the American Medical Association directly. The first examination under the new arrangement was given January 11, 1947. E. M. Hertzler, who is pastor of the Brethren Church, Marion, Ohio, was our guest speaker in Chapel. He is serving as field secretary for the National Reform Association representing the interests of teaching religion in the public schools.

BETHEL COLLEGE

The annual dual relief drive for the World Student Service Fund and the MCC opened January 20, with a goal set at eight hundred dollars. Two Bethel foreign students and Miss Chang Shem, representing the WSSF, described in chapel talks the conditions among students in their respective countries. The Student Volunteers served the fellowship supper for the second evening (January 19) of the School of Missions, in which the students are showing a fine cooperation with the local church. The Music Appreciation Hour, in charge of David Suderman, was resumed on January 19. These Sunday afternoon concerts of recorded music on the new Stomberg-Carlson phonograph have had a good response since their beginning in the fall. The chimes and vibraharp mechanism has been repaired by N. Paul Stucky and attached to the clock system so that once again the community enjoys music twice daily from the Tower.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Among recent gifts for the College farm were a flock of chickens from J. T. Gross and John C. Mueller, two pigs from A. T. Kaufman, and a Holstein heifer from Christ. Kaufman. The Dining Hall received a Mix Master from Mrs. Isaac Tieszen and steam kettles, coffee urns and drying racks from the War Assets Administration. The library has received valuable gifts from Nick Goosen, Edwin C. Graber, John Gering, and Dr. Harold Gross. The Christian Youth Volunteers showed the religious picture, "The Rapture," as part of their weekly program on Monday. January 27-31 is the date for the annual Bible week. This year Rev. P. C. Hiebert will be the speaker.

MENNONITE SEMINARY NOTES

Leo Laurense, Seminary student from Amsterdam, Holland, attended services one Sunday at a Christian Reformed church, a denomination of about 140,000 members in this country and of Dutch extraction. He was warmly received as a fellow Hollander and as a result was engaged to give a program to the young people of the church.

A large group of young people attended the program at which enthusiastic singing by the group and talks composed the evening program. Talks were given on who the Mennonites are and Leo told a bit about Holland.

The Christian Reformed church, it was interesting to learn, is a conservative branch of the Dutch Reformed church with a rather rigid polity. They have strong threads of Calvinism in the church doctrine. This church operates its own grade, high school, colleges and seminary. In the heart of Chicago, this group has a high school with an enrollment of over eight hundred. In the face of the diverse attractions of a city, this is quite unusual. This church feels it must do this to train adequately its members in the Christian faith.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ediger from Hillsboro, Kansas, became the proud parents of Warren Gail on January 12.

RELIEF

Distribution of Shoes in Denmark

"We took part in the distribution of about 1,000 of the wooden soled, leather topped shoes which were bought in Denmark for the refugees. (These wooden shoes are very suitable for the wet camps and with care they will give service for a year.) Because there is a well organized system of clothing distribution which covers all the refugee camps in Denmark, it is rather difficult to set up an independent distribution system. It was, therefore, decided to have the shoes sent out to the camps and that we would be present in a number of the camps to take part in the distribution."

Relief Activities in Holland

On the night of December 23 two thousand quarts of meat were distributed to as many needy families from Amsterdam gathered in a large community meeting. This distribution was received with much acclaim and it provided an excellent opportunity to carry out some special relief effort at Christmas time.

The project of distributing clothing to 15,000 children was brought to completion during the month of December, with distributions in the provinces of Friesland, Groningen, and Drenthe. Two distributions of children's clothing were conducted in the province of Limburg in towns near the German border. As the clothing program is to come to an end in January, much was done during December to organize the remaining clothing stocks and prepare for the final distribution.

Clothing distribution in behalf of the Russian Mennonite Refugees in Holland continues at Roverstein. On December 23 Siegfried Janzen and Irvin Horst were successful in procuring military permits and a license to transport approximately four tons of food to the Russian Mennonites in Gronau, just across the border. The food was intended as a Christian gesture, but it was more than a gift—it met a real need.

Northwest European Headquarters now Located in Basel

The above headquarters and center is now located at Arnold Boecklinstrasse 11, Basel, Switzerland. This is centrally located with respect to the railway station, Mennonite churches, and other places of interest to Mennonite workers. The personnel now located at this center consists of: Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Beechy and daughter Karen, Walter Gering, J. G. Toews, Mrs. Elmer Gingerich, and Arlene Sitler.

Briefs:

Clayton Beyler, who has been the acting director of relief in China, left Kaifeng on December 27 and Shanghai on January 3, to return to this country. He is expected to arrive at San Francisco within the near future.

On December 20 Fred Peters and Peter Epp transferred from the Holland Unit to the Unit beginning to organize in Kiel, Germany. They took with them a supply of food and clothing from the stocks of the Holland Unit.

MATERIAL AID

Goodwill Christmas Bundles are Distributed in Puerto Rico

"All in all it would have been a real treat to you to be able to see the joy these gifts brought when they were distibuted. Little boys blew their whistles, tossed balls and beanbags, little girls hugged their dolls—the first they had ever had, and adults just beamed with pleasure. Children are now wearing their bedroom slippers to play outside, their nightgowns as dresses, their pajamas to come to the milk station for food and their stockings without shoes. There were not enough gifts for everybody, so ever since we are besieged with children who also wish to receive a gift from the Americanos. We are sorry to disappoint them. . !!

Needs for Clothing Contributions

Our clothing centers have recently stated that contributions during the holidays and the first half of January have shown a marked decline. Although the response has been generous throughout 1946, we call this to your attention in case you have clothing that could still be given this winter. We are shipping practically all of our available stocks in the next few weeks, and any thing that is given now will be processed at once and sent to those who are again faced with the rigors of a hard winter with little clothing or fuel to heat their homes.

A good portion of our shipments now are going to our Mennonite brethren who are refugees in Europe. Some of these people are now being transported to Paraguay and are in need of many of the things that we take for granted so easily here. Even more of these people are unable to get permission to leave Europe and have no means of making a livelihood. It continues to be our privilege and responsibility to help them as best we can.

Parcel Service to all German Zones

Beginning January 15, parcel post relief packages may be sent to the Russian Zone of Germany as well as to the American, British and French Zones. It is reported, however, that such parcel service to the city of Berlin is still restricted. Contents of relief packages may include non-perishable foods, clothing, soap, shoes, and pharmaceutical products. Weight is limited to 11 pounds, and only one package can be sent from one person to the same addressee in one week.

Overseas School Bags — A Project for Children

In addition to the food and clothing needs of war sufferers, our relief worker sent back reports describing acute needs for certain other forms of material aid. One such need is for school materials for children. The war has caused an almost universal paper shortage, effecting certain European countries especially. Such other items as pencils, crayons, erasers, scissors, and color books are also practically impossible to obtain. Although food and clothing are usually considered most vital in relief work, it seems imperative also to help all we can in providing for the happiness and normal intellectual development of these small children.

Overseas School Bags is planned especially as a a project in which children participate. These school bags or satchels containing tablets, pencils, colors, erasers, color books and other items will be gifts from the children in North America to the needy children in foreign lands. Although parents, teachers and Sunday School workers will doubtless need to help the children in planning and in securing the necessary information, it is urged that the children themselves participate in the work to as large an extent as possible.

A descriptive folder is available free upon request, which gives detailed instructions for packing and mailing, and also contains a packing lable to be placed inside the school bag. Thus one descriptive folder should be ordered for each school bag to be packed. When the bags are received at the Mennonite Central Committee, they will be re-packed for overseas shipment, and a small Bible Story booklet will be added, written in the language of the country to which the bag is to be sent. All the Overseas School Bags must be sent in to the Mennonite Central Committee by March 10, 1947.

All interested persons who live in the United States should address their orders for descriptive folders to Overseas School Bags, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania. Those living in Canada should address their orders to Overseas Bags, Mennonite Central Committee, 223 King Street East, Kitchener, Ontario.

Jottings

—Rev. Ronald von Riesen, Executive Secertary of the Board of Education returned to his office at Mennonite Headquarters on January 22. On his recent trip east he visited the Mennonite Biblical Seminary on January 12. January 13-17 he attended the sessions of the Association of American Colleges and the Council of Church Boards of Education which met in Boston, Massachusetts. On his return trip he preached at the Salem Mennonite Church, Dalton, Ohio, on January 19. At Bluffton, Ohio, he met with the Ministers' Retreat Committee on January 20 to make arrangements for the 1947 Ministers' Retreat. Members of the Retreat Committee are: Olin Krehbiel, J. D. Unruh, A. S. Rosenberger, J. N. Smucker, and Ronald von Riesen.

—The Third Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District will be held on Monday, January 27. Ten to twelve minute papers on "Worship" will include: "Developing the Spirit of Worship in the Church Service," J. Herbert Fretz; "Hindrances to the Worship Service, "J. J. Plenert; and "The Offering—A Part of the Worship Service," Freeman Swartz. It is announced that the speaker at annual conference this year will be Dr. Gilbert Little of Wichita, Kansas.

—The Mennonite Relief Clothing Center, Newton, Kansas, will move from 220 Main to 225 Main during the last week of January. The center sent a truckload of shoes to Akron on January 21. It is expected that these shoes will immediately be sent overseas.

—Zion Church, Souderton, Pa. Mr. John Park Lee, son of a Presbyterian minister, a former journalist, and now Financial Secretary of the St. Luke Hospital, Philadelphia, spoke to us Sunday evening, January 19. Mr. Lee has been a member of Alcoholics Anonymous for seven years and is very active in that organization as well as in church work. He made more understandable to us the problem of alcoholism. He referred to the twelve-point program of the A.A. and especially stressed the necessity for full surrender to a higher power.—Corr.

—Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas: Dr. P. C. Hiebert, Chairman of the M.C.C., was with us for morning and evening services Sunday, January 19. At the evening he presented a vivid picture of the great relief program as carried on by the M.C.C.—Reuben Krehbiel, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: On January 12 Rev. J. J. Esau of Bluffton, Ohio, was in our midst in the interest of G.B.I. He brought a very inspiring message on "Why Do I Pray?" James 5:16. Also had installation services to install our deacon, Val. C. Krehbiel. On Sunday night, Rev. Gerhard Neufeld, the Girls' Trio, and the mixed quartet from the Oklahoma Bible Academy gave a program.—Wilfred Ewy, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Winton, California: On New Year's Eve "Watch Night" was held. Following a service at the church, a few gathered at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Glanzer. The evening was spent in singing and prayer. Also wieners were roasted in the fireplace. The Women's Sewing Circle has decided to devote most of its time during the coming year to relief work.—Lorraine Heppner, Corr.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., The Sunday School White Gift Offering amounted to $175, 50 per cent going to the Mennonite Biblical Seminary, Chicago, and the remainder toward mission work in Kentucky. Some items reported at our annual congregational meeting were: Relief contributions in 1946 equaled $322.41. In her capacity as church worker, Miss Catherine Niswander made 1,142 calls in the interest of the Sunday School and church. Gifts for mission and benevolent projects increased during 1946. With the Sunday School pledging half the amount, we have assumed full responsibility for the support of Wilhelmina Kuyf, a fellow-member and missionary to China, now engaged in relief work there.—Mrs. H. S. Weiss, Corr.

—Freidensberg Church, Avon, South Dakota: The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben A. Unruh, beloved and esteemed members of the Friedensberg church, was the scene of a joyous celebration on December 29, marking the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Open house was held in the afternoon for their many friends and relatives. In the evening a delightful program was given by the children, grandchildren, and friends of the honored couple. Speakers at the occasion were: Rev. John Dirks of Tyndall, South Dakota, brother of Mrs. Unruh and Rev. Edward Duerksen, pastor of the church. Inspiring were the personal comments of both Mr. and Mrs. Unruh on their fifty years together. Mr. Unruh pioneered on the farm which is still their home seventy-one years ago. Approximately 150 guests and relatives were in attendance. Children of the honored couple are Mrs. Esther Becker and Mrs. Elsie Becker of Marion, South Dakota; Mrs. Dorothy Graham of Daytona Beach, Florida; and John Unruh of Avon. The family circle was complete in attendance with the exception of one granddaughter who could not be here for the joyous occasion.—Anna Unruh, Corr.

—Salem Mennonite Church, Munich, North Dakota. During 1946 eighty-one messages were delivered from our pulpit, thirty-seven by our own pastor and forty-four by visiting ministers and missionaries. We lost two of our members by death and one by church letter. Twelve members were added by baptism and three by church letter. Our congregation now numbers one hundred forty-seven members. Five children were born, six marriages were performed and four funerals conducted during the year. At the December meeting the Be Ye Doers Mission Society had a canned food shower for Miss Kathryn Dick, missionary to Africa. One hundred fifty-three cans of food were donated. Their first project for the New Year is to sew for the orphans at an African Mission station. While the male members had their annual business meeting, December 27 the members of the Senior Sewing Society tied seven large comforters and one crib comforter for relief. A lunch was served at noon to all present. New and used clothing is again being collected for relief. Several boxes of cut garments have been ordered by the Sewing Society and the ladies are now busy sewing. On December 29, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pankrantz burned. With the help of neighbors they were able to save a large portion of their belongings The Bethany Bible School gave a Christmas program on December 22 at the Swiss Mennonite Church, Alsen, North Dakota.—Sara Fast, Corr.

—The Saucon congregation, north of Coopersburg, Pa., decided at its annual business meeting to contribute one dollar per member per year for the Ministers' Pension Fund. This is a worthy cause, and Saucon is one of the first congregations to take this step.—Kathryn Mumbauer, Corr.

—West Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pa., The total of the White Gift collection taken in Sunday School was $1,504.97. This money was used to buy milk and cereal for relief.—Mrs. Earl Schmeck, Corr.

—Arlington Church, Arlington, Kansas: On December 29 and January 5 we were unable to have church services because of the extremely cold weather. Many of the farmers in the community were "snowbound." Paul Albrecht, a senior at Bethel College, brought us the message on Sunday morning, January 12. On January 19, Loris Habegger, also of Bethel, gave the morning sermon. Jasper Dunn, a member of our congregation, left for the east coast on January 2 to go to Greece as an attendant on a cattle boat.—Mrs. Lester Ewy, Corr.

—Bethel College Church: The Board of Deacons, with the pastor and treasurer, arranged the following schedule of Sunday morning offerings: Foreign Missions, 8; Relief, 8; Home Missions, 2; Church Maintenance, 12;Church Building Fund, 12; Publication, 2; Board of Education, 2; Mennonite Seminary, 1; Western District Conference Treasury, 1; Ministerial Aid Fund, 1; Mutual Aid Board, 1; Western District Treasury, 1. —Eldon Graber, Corr.

—Buhler Church, Buhler, Kansas: Our New Year's morning services were opened by our pastor, Rev. Henry Fransen by reading I Cor. 13. Rev. George Moore of Gallup, New Mexico, gave the morning message. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schroeder and Nancy took a holiday trip to California. The Arnold B. Baergens are the parents of a baby girl. Mrs. Arnold Siemens is recovering from an operation. The sewing circles had their first meeting in January. They did relief sewing and quilting. —Corr.

$2.00 for $1.00

We have some $1.00 box assortments of Christmas Greetings left over from the season just past, and while these last, we will sell these to our customers at the amazing price of 2 boxes for $1.00 postage prepaid. (Note: These cards do not have scripture texts.) Send check or money order with your order to:

Mennonite Book Concern
Berne Indiana

—Butterfield, Minnesota, Church: On account of bad weather our Christmas cantata had to be postponed until New Year's morning. The ladies have been busy sewing for relief. We have sent forty quilts and also some clothing for relief. We have sent a box of new infant clothing to the Arizona missions. We also sent money for C.A.R.E. packages.—Mrs. Gust. Miller, Corr.

—Johannesthal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: We observed the "Week of Prayer" at the appointed time. Mr. Albert Plenert and Mr. Erwin Penner led the discussions the first night on the first two topics. Mr. Dan G. Jost and Rev. Ernst Harder led the discussions the second night, and Mr. J. A. Ewert led in the last discussion on the third night. Rev. Regier had the two Sunday's topics on the respective Sundays. January 19 two members of the Gideon Bible Association were with us to acquaint us more with their work.—Mrs. Arnold A. Plenert, Corr.

—West Zion Church, Moundridge, Kansas: A fellowship dinner was served after the morning service on December 29. Our young men who had returned from service were the guests of honor. After the meal the business meeting was held. The Universal Week of Prayer was observed the first full week of the New Year. The members of the church choir and the Intermediate C. E. Society had a Watch-Night party on New Year's Eve. Mr. and Mrs. Fred D. Meyer celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on Christmas Day. The children of the Meyer family invited friends and relatives for a program at the church. Refreshments were served following the program.—Mrs. Ernest D. Miller.

—Zion Church, Elbing, Kansas: January 5 our church observed the twenty-fifth anniversary of Rev. H. J. Dyck's pastorate of our church with a fellowship dinner and a program in the afternoon. Rev. W. F. Unruh, Pastor of West Zion Church, Moundridge, Kansas, and Rev. Arnold J. Regier, Assistant Pastor of the Mennonite Bible Mission, Chicago, Illinois, were the guest speakers. Rev. Dyck has been responsible for approximately 1,300 services besides serving at special occasions such as weddings, funerals, and others. Soon after his coming a new church was build because the former

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

was too small. Now again our church is filled on ordinary Sundays. During his pastorate he has also served on the Home Mission Committee of the Western District Conference, the Board of Directors of the Bethel Deaconess Hospital, and the Board of Directors of the Herald Publishing Company.—Mrs. Louis A. Janzen, Corr.

—Springfield (Pa.) Church: On December 10, 1946 a son was born to Rev. and Mrs. Ward W. Shelly. They have named him Thomas Ward. On January 12, Mrs. Ely Fretz was leader of our C. E. meeting and told us of her visit to the mission stations at Busby, Montana, and Oraibi, Arizona.—Mrs. Le Roy Meyers, Corr.

—The annual fellowship supper of the church councils and officers of the Sunday Schools of the five Mennonite churches in the Bluffton, Ohio, area met at the Grace Church in Pandora, Wednesday, January 15, 1947. These churches include: First Church, Bluffton; Grace, Pandora; St. Johns, Pandora; and Lima Mission, Lima, Ohio.—Mrs. Laurence Burkhalter, Corr.

—Rev. H. Albert Claassen writes from 1508 Elk Street, Beatrice, Nebraska, that their address will be 35 Hastings Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, when they take up the home mission work there. By the time this appears in print the Claassens will very likely be in Toronto. Brother Claassen states, "We would commend ourselves and our Toronto Conference work to the prayerful interest of our churches."

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon: Our Christmas program was well attended. The tiny tots had various pieces and musical numbers for the first part; then the adults presented a pageant assisted by the choir. Our choir has decided to practice on Wednesday evenings after prayer meeting instead of Sunday evenings after the service as it has been doing. On January 19, our pastor, Rev. Clyde Dirks, preached at the Barlow Church while Rev. Paul Roth from Barlow gave the message here. All the ministers in the Oregon churches exchange pulpits once each quarter. It gives everyone a chance to become better acquainted with our fellow-workers. The evening service was in charge of Miss Lillian Butler of New York City. She is a missionary to the Jewish people. Her message was informative and was well received. Her home church is the Emmanuel Church at Pratum, Oregon.— Mrs. Homer Welty, Corr.

—Bethany Church, Kingman, Kansas: On December 3, the ladies of the church met for an all day meeting in the church basement to sew for relief and prepare comforters for the needy. Fourteen large comforters and five small ones were finished that day. Mrs. W. C. Voth met with the ladies on December 12 in the interest of the Visitation Program of the General Conference Societies. Her visit was much appreciated. Since September the mission society has prepared and shipped 330 pounds of new and used clothing, nineteen large comforters, thirteen small comforters, sixteen blankets, and in addition took part in various projects as requested by our papers at different times. A shipment of food was collected and taken to Newton in December.

—Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas: A "Christian Workers Conference" sponsored by our Sunday School and the Hebron Sunday School was held eight evenings, beginning, January 5-9 and opening again January 13-16. Rev. D. C. Wedel and Dr. R. C. Kauffman of Bethel College each had charge of two study periods each evening. Erwin Goering also of Bethel College brought messages several evenings as the Week of Prayer was observed in connection with the Conference. These happenings were counted rich experiences as was also brought out by those in charge of the devotional program for the evenings. Rev. Albert Gaeddert, our pastor, is giving catechetical instruction on Sunday mornings to the young people of the church. —Mrs. Elmer Voth, Corr.

—Miss Elisabeth Goertz is on her way home from China. The boat General Meigs was scheduled to sail from Shanghai on January 3 and was expected to land in San Francisco on the sixteenth.—Howard G. Nyce, Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions.

—Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Executive Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, attended the Foreign Missions Conference at Buck Falls, Pa., during the week of January 13.

REV. AND MRS, S. M. ROSENBERGER CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On December 29, 1946, Rev. and Mrs. Seward M. Rosenberger observed their Golden Wedding Anniversary at their home, Quakertown, Pa. R. D. 1. Their children arrived home on Saturday, and a family dinner was served that noon.

On Sunday afternoon a number of close relatives and the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Neuenschwander, called. Many cards and gifts were received from friends and relatives.

The late Rev. Andrew B. Shelly when pastor of the Swamp Charge, performed the ceremony fifty years ago, in the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. William B. Sell.

Rev. Rosenberger began his career as a school teacher in Milford Township and kept on in this noble work until 1925, when he held the responsible position of supervising principal of several schools. From 1925-1929 he served as pastor of the Swamp Mennonite Charge.

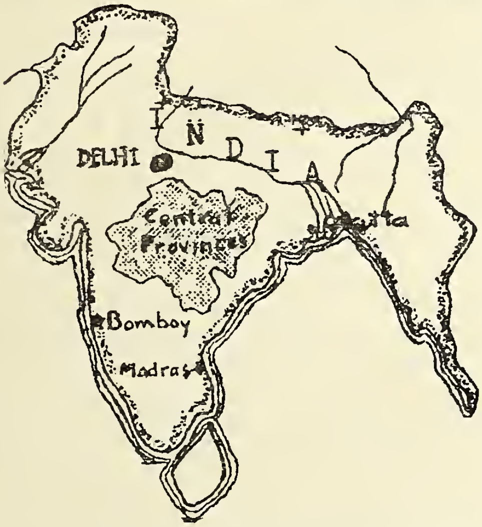
In the General Conference he served on the Board of Education for one term, and planned a text book on catechism. Ill health prevented the completion of the book, which was finished in 1936 by his son Rev. A. S. Rosenberger. Mr. Rosenberger was one of the organizers of the Eastern District Brotherhood, more than twenty-five years ago.

The Rosenbergers have four children: Arthur of Dalton, Ohio; Willard, New York City; Warren of Closter New Jersey; and Edgar at home. In addition t the sons, Mrs. Arthur Rosenberger and Mrs. Warren Rosenberger and daughter Kathie were also presen for the happy occasion.—Mrs. Ed K. Stoneback, Co

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — February 4, 1947 — Number 5

Statistics of India



(The above map of India shows the Central Provinces in which the General Conference mission field is located. The mission field lies on the eastern edge of the provinces.)

The following statistics are given for reference and information, They are largely given in round numbers, but are sufficiently accurate for practical purposes.

POPULATION	400,000,000
Urban	13%
Rural	87%
Christian	8,000,000
Hindu	210,000,000
Mohammedan	95,000,000
Untouchables	55,000,000
AREA India	1,623,000 Sq. Miles
United States	3,624,000 Sq. Miles
DENSITY of Population average in India, per Square Mile	264
Average in the U. S. A. per Square Mile	41
Average in England per Square Mile	684

MISCELLANEOUS

There are 55 million acres under irrigation sponsored by Great Britain.

India has about one-third of the world's cattle.

It is estimated that the farmers of India pay more to the money lenders by way of interest than to the government as taxes.

(The above three statements are taken from "Verdict on India" by Beverly Nichols).

There are 150 million acres of land which can be cultivated, but which is today lying waste. (From "Our India," by Mino Manasi.)

There are 584 Indian States with an area of 712,508 square miles. The largest is Hyderabad, with a population of 14 million. The smallest is Bilari with a population of 27 people.

India is reported to have over 200 languages. There are fifteen major languages. "Hindustani" is probably spoken more widely than any other language of India. "The English language is the only language other than their own which is spoken by educated Indians in all parts of the Indian Empire." (William Paton in "Christianity and the Crisis")

Twelve per cent of the people are literate, 2 percent of the women. Among Christians, 30 to 40 per cent of the women are literate. Female literacy increased 150 per cent in the decade 1931 to 1941.

India excels in the production of sugar cane, tea, jute, and lak or shelac. It has the highest mountains. Probably the highest rainfall in the world is at Cheripungi. There the rainfall is 500 to 600 inches in a year, and practically all of that falls in June, July, August, and September.

The average rainfall in our mission area is about 50 to 55 inches a year.

It is stated that India has the largest deposits of iron in the world. The Tata Steel Works are the largest in the British Empire.

The British have been in India since the year 1600.

There is a large temple in Madura which covers 30 acres.

The Nizam of Hyderabad is reported to be the richest man in the world.

It is estimated that there are 5,000,000 sadhus and fakirs in India. Some put the estimate very much higher.

MEDICALLY SPEAKING

Life expectancy is 30 years or less, in U. S. A., 62.

It is estimated that there are one million lepers in India. This estimate is probably much too low.

Infant mortality is next to the highest of any nation.

(Continued on page 8)

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

SPECIFICITY is often to be desired in communications between people. Too often we fail to understand clearly or thoroughly because something is couched in too general terms. When specific facts are mentioned we know what's what. An example of helpful specificity is to be found in the following letter to us. A reader writes,

"I would like to say here that I have enjoyed and found very helpful the variety of articles that have been appearing in The Mennonite. Among these articles which were of special interest were: "What is the Unpardonable Sin?" the symposiums on various subjects of interest, and we enjoyed especially the recent "husband and wife" articles. We too like the jottings, but when a person wants real food for thought, he turns to the articles and not the jottings, so I would like to put in my vote for some more good articles."

This reader gives us encouragement in certain, specific fields. This makes us feel like doing more along those lines. Maybe this reader does not care much for certain items in the paper. By not mentioning these and by mentioning the ones she prefers, this reader encourages us to publish the kind of paper she likes. This is one example of how specificity can be very helpfully used in the matter of encouragement.

We all need to give encouragement. Such encouragement makes many more miles on the gallon when it shows that the one who gives it has thought enough about it to be able to tell "just what it is" that he likes.

FIGHTING for something we want is a very common and strong temptation. We feel that we must take things with force if they are not forthcoming in a less troublesome way. It does seem so true that he who fights for his life shall get what he wants. But the trouble is that those fought are subject to the same temptation, and the more they are fought the more they feel that they must fight if they are not be run over altogether. And so individuals, groups, and nations brace themselves against each other, ever feeling more and more that there isn't enough to go around for everybody, else why all the demand. How different the attitude which, instead of creating fears by fighting, allays them by such generous self-giving that the sinner begins to feel so secure that he too is enabled to join the process of self-giving. Some one has written about gambling one's life on self-losing No wonder that we shy away from it so readily. It takes great faith to believe that what we want will somehow come to us through giving rather than through getting.

A YOUTH PAPER, which is attractive and full of vital material, is something that the young people of our conference need as much as they do the food, clothing, and shelter that their parent's help to provide. Young people will read something in these days, and generally they read a lot. Unless good reading material is made readily available they will be tempted to read some that is not of the highest possible quality. Should not parents be willing to spend from three to five dollars a year to furnish soul-food for their children? They would consider themselves negligent parents if they did not provide the proper food for the bodies of their children. Are the minds and emotions of their children of less importance than their bodies? In the youth supplement of this issue mention is made of a youth paper. So far the youth material has been carried in The Mennonite, and we feel that the present editor of the youth section is making commendable use of the alotted space. However, this amount of space is inadequate. Either enlargement of this space in The Mennonite or a separate youth paper would solve the problem. Although there are some advantages to having the youth material in this paper, it is possible that a separate paper would have a greater appeal to young people. Perhaps, the day for such a youth paper is here. Although parents have a responsibility in this matter, we believe that youth will eagerly promote reading material which meets its needs. The two working together ought to be able to do something about the matter.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Just Folks Like We Are

by Mrs. Orlando Goering

If I were a Jew you would probably picture me as a dark, hook-nosed person about whom you had heard, and probably given ear to, such rumors as these: the Jews have large ownership and influence in our banks and industries; they have a secret world plot; they caused the communist revolution in Russia; they killed Jesus. And so we join those who look with suspicion upon the Jew, forgetting that even in civil law a person is considered innocent until proved guilty.

We need to remember that JEWS ARE PEOPLE WHO ACKNOWLEDGE THE JEWISH RELIGION. They are of ALL races, Caucasian, Mongolian, Negroid. It is no more possible to identify a Jew by his appearance than it is to identify a Lutheran, Catholic or Unitarian. What we are apt to consider a "Jewish type" is a Mediterranean type. Jews, like the Mennonites, have clung together because of persecutions and their strong adherence to their faith. This separation from other people, where it has existed, has caused the development of "Jewish" traits, even as in certain Mennonite communities people have common traits [redacted] to promote and condone pogroms against Jews so poor and impotent that they could scarcely earn a livelihood. But even today, in the face of the cold-blooded and deliberate murder of nearly half of Europe's Jewish population, some of us are so gullible as to believe that they control world affairs when they are not even able to save their women and little ones.

Communism has no more in common with Judaism than with Christianity. Even though a handful participated in the revolution, it was not of Jewish origin. The Jews suffered as all others; they received no special privileges or benefits.

Then there are religious accusations—lurid lies about "ritual blood;" illustrated mis-quotations from the Talmund! the belief that the Jews were solely responsible for the death of Jesus and cursed for it. Neither we nor Pilate can free ourselves of our responsibility by the washing of hands. And if we believe their sufferings due to a curse that is upon them, than it would also be well for us to bear in mind that much of their suffering has come from the hands of Christians, and that he who inflicts suffering is more cursed than he who suffers.

Why then, if the Jew has done so little to invoke it, is anti-Semitism so prevalent?

Anti-Semitism flourishes in moral and spiritual degeneration. It makes little headways in areas of Christian good-will. Ours is a decadent, secular culture serving the god of expediency. Perhaps here the Church bears guilt with Hitler for the affliction of the children of Abraham.

Anti-Semitism is closely bound up with our national and social welfare. It makes its greatest headway in times of unemployment and insecurity, when faith in established institutions and hope of economic recovery are waning. At such times existing institutions and reactionary forces need to blind people to the real causes of their troubles. They need a scapegoat who can be blamed for all the world's ills. But the scapegoat must not be too powerful. It must be a minority. So at one time the cry was, "To the lions with the Christians." In our day the Jew was taken to Buchenwald.

In the days preceding the downfall of Czarist Russia and in the days of Bismarck's and Hitler's Germany, every effort was made to cast all the people's hate and discontent on the Jews. If anything was wrong, the Jews were to blame. Many of our Mennonite forefathers came from Germany and from Russia when anti-Semitism was strong. Let us examine ourselves and see whether or not the propaganda

---

Mrs. Orlando J. Goering grew up at Hurley, South Dakota, attended Freeman Junior College, and graduated from Bethel College in 1943. Mrs. Goering's maiden name was Violet Miller. Her husband, Orlando Goering, is graduating from Garrett Biblical Institute this spring and hopes to take up some form of Christian ministry shortly.

intended for the peasants of those countries has reached beyond them into our life.

Anti-Semitism is a tool used NOT AGAINST THE JEWS ONLY, BUT OFTEN THE WHOLE POPULACE. It is a scheme for obtaining a following for selfish purposes. For their sake, and for ours, we must not become suckers to anti-Semitic propaganda!

Concerning the elimination of anti-Semitism, James Parkes has said:

> "Human nature is conservative; men have been accustomed to blame the Jews, and it will be easier to change the world into a pleasant place to live in than to leave it as it is and expect them to find another scapegoat."*

We cannot hope to cure the world of all its ills, but we can make ourselves a part of its healing rather than a portion of its problem. We must do all we can to give EVERY man in each of our communities a job and a feeling of "belonging" socially. We must help to create little areas of good-will where hate and discrimination of any kind will find no nourishment.

We have an obligation to be intelligent. Not only should we be acquainted with the aims and methods of anti-Semitism, but it would be well for us to find out what the Jews are today, religiously. We might visit a Jewish synagogue or read books such as This is Judaism, by Rabbi Isserman. "The Eternal Light" is one of the best series of religious dramas the radio features and gives a great insight into the lives of a much mis-understood people.

Anti-Semitic groups will make their literature available to our church members. Church libraries should contain books and pamphlets that will help our people understand the Jews and their problems.*

We must bear in mind contributions Jewish people have made—Einstein, Mendelssohn, Spinoza, Sarah Barnhardt, Harold Laski, Samuel Gompers, Fritz Keisler, Sholom Asch, Louis Untermeyer, Morris Fishbein, and all those spiritual giants who gave us our faith and our Bible. Even Christ himself was born, reared, lived and died—a Jew. As Pope Pius XI said, "It is not possible for Christians to take part in Anti-Semitism. We are Semites spiritually."

Russia has made racial discrimination and persecution illegal. It has refused to treat persons with cultural differences as inferiors. If an irreligious, if not anti-religious, nation does this, how much more should we who call ourselves Christians exercise the spirit of Christ towards those who are "just folks" like we are.

The question asked by a Negro who was accosted by a white man to stay in his place may put the question better. The Negro replied: "Where is my place, sir? When I go to the theater, they put me up top, When I ride a ship, they put me down below. When I ride the train, they put up front. When I ride the bus, they put be behind. I cover all dimensions, sir! Where is my place?"—The Christian Advocate.

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

By Cornelius Krahn

A New Mennonite Church Organized. Goettingen in Central Germany never had sufficient Mennonites to organize a church. At present it is a gateway from the Russian to the American Zone of Occupation. Many Mennonites from Prussia and Russia have passed through it on their way west and a great number have remained in and around Goettingen. Dr. Crous, formerly librarian of the Preussische Stadtsbibliothek, of Berlin, where he lost his two sons, his home, and all of his possessions, found an abode in Goettingen, where he became a friend and advisor of the refugees. Recently he was ordained into the ministry to take care of the spiritual welfare of the newly organized refugee congregation. Dr. and Mrs. Crous have both undergone operations and express great appreciation for the personal packages they have received from America. They are cooperating with the American relief workers in the great enterprise of feeding the hungry.

A Dutch Study Group Organized. The Mennonite Conference of Holland and the Elspeet Movement have created a study group which is to investigate the basis of the Christian faith and to give direction to the religious thinking of the Mennonite brotherhood in Holland. The professors of the Mennonite Theological Seminary of Amsterdam and some other leading Mennonite pastors comprise this group.

The first step in this enterprise is to investigate, in a scholarly and objective manner, the principles, beliefs and practices of the American Mennonites. They hope that this will help them in finding the mission of the Dutch brotherhood today. For this purpose they are requesting books that deal with this subject matter.

---

* James Parkes, An Enemy of the People: ANTI-SEMITISM, New York, Penguin Books, Inc., 1946. p. 132.

A Church Still in Ruins. The Mennonite Church of Rotterdam which was destroyed in May, 1940, when the German army invaded Holland has not yet been rebuilt. Even though plans are underway, the shortage of material—a very likely lack of funds—make building impossible for the time being. The congregation with its new pastor. Rev. N. van der Zijpp, who is at the same time professor of Mennonite history at the Mennonite Theological Seminary of Amsterdam, meet in an auditorium or in a neighboring church.

What Is Starvation?

by Lester Glick

(The following is the conclusion of the series of articles on "What Is Starvation?" In this article Mr. Glick continues to tell of the effects that starvation had upon the C.O.'s who tried the starvation experiment at the University of Minnesota and then in conclusion suggests what implications some of the facts have in regard to the starving people of Europe.)

The thirty-six subjects in the early phase of the experiment enjoyed a fairly compatible existence together. They had adjusted well to living with one another and mutually enjoyed dormitory life. As the deficiency phase of the experiment progressed they became more individualistic and critical and finally became "chain gripers." The laboratory staff even became the subject of derision. Certain of the subjects became so irritated with their fellow partakers in the diet that they wouldn't think of eating at the same table with them. One man stated his dislike of eating with a fellow subject by saying that he would rather eat on the floor than at the same trough—meaning table.

All the men tended toward depression and an inferiority complex. As a result their behaviour became compensatory so that in certain cases the men became overly polite and in other cases they became openly belligerent.

What would be the effect of starvation on a family in an actually deprived area? The whole family, even though Christian, would experience scenes of strife and unhappiness. Each would tend to become more in considerate, selfish, and unkind, with the resultant effect that a home would lose the sacredness that one would expect in a Christian home.

As we look at the conditions at Minneapolis and compare them with those found in semi-starvation areas, we can see a number of quite contrasted circumstances.

First, at Minneapolis the victims were adults. Actually, in deprived countries, starvation is no respector of persons. The large families are often the first victims. Consequently the children cease to develop normally. The whole outlook on life becomes distorted. Their joints become swollen, their bones grow out of proportion, and their physiological development is often permanently affected. The attitudes of distrust and selfishness become inherent, and their phsychological out-look on life will be molded in a manner that will make them a liability to society long after their hunger is satisfied.

The subjects at Minneapolis had the best medical attention. Six or eight doctors were always available for the careful diagnosis of any impending illness. Despite this careful attention various ailments made their inroads. There was one bladder ailment, one tuberculin lesion, and one mental casualty, and although either could have proven critical they all responded to treatment after food was restored.

In the footsteps of semi-starvation linger disease and an increased death rate. Mortality rate in operations, such as appendectomies, has increased from 2 per cent to 20 per cent in Germany. In a study made of school children in France and Holland, 50 per cent of the children showed symptoms of tuberculosis. The infant mortality rate in Vienna has risen from 13 per cent to nearly 40 per cent. The problem of health is enhanced because many areas are without adequate medical care. Certain provinces in China, for instance, have only one physician available for as many as ten thousand people. Many of these physicians are handicapped too because of insufficient drugs.

In the clinical picture at Minneapolis the subjects knew that the diet was only for six months. One subject said that on his calendar July 26, the last day of starvation, was underlined twice and had three circles around it. Life, they thought, would begin anew the day when they would receive a normal diet. Actually in starvation areas there is no July 26 to anticipate. They live on hope, but it is usally an intangible hope, mixed with an emotion of fear.

Good warm clothes and proper shelter were at the disposal of the men in the experiment. If these were not provided, the subjects would have suffered from exposure because of retarded bodily function.

In Europe today there are thousands who by force have to turn their backs to the homes which they owned and had paid for and enter a strange land with only those supplies that they could carry on their backs. In a survey made in eleven countries in Europe, authorities have estimated that 2,142,000 people have been evacuated from their homes. Of this group there are approximately ten thousand Mennonites, mostly from Russia, who are now located in the various countries of Europe as stateless people. Many were evacuated several years ago, and in the ensuing months their clothes have become rags and their rations have become more meager. They do not clamor for new cars, new refrigerators, an ultra-modern house, or a month's vacation. They want a chance to eat, to work, to live without fear, and to worship as they please. Many are middle-aged and never have been baptized because they knew that it might cost their lives to take part publicly in such a rite. When one group was asked if they would have a message or request to send their American co-religionists they asked, "Pray for us lest our faith leave us."

This year America has had a harvest unprecendented in size since pre-war years. We who had bountiful gardens, vast food resources, and the necessary currency to purchase needed food materials cannot begin to understand the millions who plaintively are holding out their hands for bread. It is hard for us to appreciate the German woman who said in a recent letter, "If we might only have some ordinary unbleached flour with which we might bake bread, we would be so grateful." On the other hand, we can hardly feel the warmth of the gratitude which a Belgium lady tried to convey when she said in a letter, "We give our grateful thanks for such good-tasting pork and beans. Thank God for them."

Although the immediate harvest in Europe gives an illusion of plenty, the present crop stretched over the nine months will mean definite hunger for thousands. There is an estimated ten million metric ton shortage of grains for countries that must import the "golden kernels" in order to have bread this coming winter. The results will be not only hunger, but the grim ghost or disease will reap a bountiful harvest in pneumonia, tuberculosis, flu, and other infectious diseases.

Will we sit back in a religious complacency and nonchallantly say, "Be ye clothed and fed," or will we awake to the challenge, trim our candles, and carry to the destitute a portion of our full baskets. If we give in the true spirit "in the name of Christ," many of those less fortunate than we will give the testimony, "You have given us a new hope in humanity, in brotherhood, and in God." Let us be true stewards with our possessions. Let us take seriously the golden rule. "Do unto others as ye would that they should do unto you." Let us be alert to the imperatives of the New Testament and carry high the torch of love for our fellow man.

Chief Concerns of Refugees

by Marie Brunk

As day by day letters flow into the office from those who have lost their homes and their family, I constantly marvel at the deep faith in God these people have retained throughout their severe trials. They are not bitter, but rather thank God daily for the little that is left to them—which in many cases is only life itself and the hope that a day might come when they can begin again anew.

The foremost concern of the writers of the letters is to find those that they love. I know of a mother, who having found the location of her child, gave up a warm house, clothing, and food to share with her child a starvation existence. The second concern of our people is the hope of the future. Their minds constantly dwell on the thought of at last settling in a place they can call home. The third subject which constantly comes up in letters in an almost apologetic manner is the immediate need for material assistance. Winter is drawing near and there is no warm clothing for the children and not enough food to withstand the rigors of a cold winter.

From their letters I gather that the little things of life mean so much to them, things that we take for granted—an answer to a letter, a package, a chance to attend church services, a Bible, or an expression of gratitude. Perhaps you can feel the spirit of their letters in the following extracts from some of them.

"I have received your precious letter with many thanks. We are so happy that there are still people who think of us and work for us to help our difficult situation. You would hardly believe it possible if you could cast a glance into our camp and see how people living in such conditions can still hope to cross the waters and join parents, brothers and sisters. This hope keeps us going in our difficult situation. I have given my name for Paraguay for all of my family is there and I long fervently to be finally released after so many years of fear and need and denial, but I daily say to myself that the Lord has helped and He will continue to help, and praise and thank Him for it. Might we soon be delivered. May the Lord further bless you in your work and reward you . . . and now God be with you."

"For six years now we have been homeless, wandering without shelter, without the wherewithal to live, without the barest necessities of life—and in Germany there is no room for us. I am living with my 78-year-old mother under a roof, but without any possibilities for cooking. My 10-year-old son, whose father has been in exile since 1937, is suffering from undernourishment and one of his lungs is not well. He was once a blooming, healthy child, but six years of privation with the irregular life of wandering have destroyed the strongest constitutions. Today I find in Germany not even a hearth where I can preserve the health of my mother and child. Please help me as soon as possible so that we always homeless ones may finally find a home, peace and quiet. God's richest blessings I pray for you."

" . . . I must say that the Lord helped and the Lord is helping. I have felt the helping hand of our Father often in life and especially in the last years, and the few of us today feel that He is always there to help when necessary. Sometimes I am sorry that we are so alone here and we hear so little of what is going on among our people. We owe so many thanks to the Lord for bringing us out of the East. May His mercy also be extended to our dear ones from whom we have been separated for so many years. We want to trust the Lord for He will direct everything rightly."

"A harsh fate has scattered us Mennonites from Russia in a foreign land where we were all separated. Today we are assembled in a camp. We have all lost our homes and possessions; our families have been separated from us; and we are in great need. Sickness is becoming more widespread for we do not have enough food."

"We plead for help for we are in great need and would be thankful if you could extend your generous hand to us. Our deepest desire is to find a new home."

"Because we have received your address. I am going to dare to come to you with a big request. Could you assist us with some food. My daughter, my daughter-in-law and I were sent out of Russia in 1943 and now after fleeing three times we are here. The husband of my daughter was taken away back in Russia. My daughter-in-law has one child and my daughter has three. It is often very difficult to find one's way through because of the scarcity of food and clothing. Now I want to ask you if it is possible for you to help us. That the Almighty God may bless your work and reward you for what you are doing in this dark time to relieve needy mankind is my most heartfelt prayer."

A feeling of awe and humbleness touches my heart as I read these cries for help and I am ever grateful for the opportunity of serving our co-religionists.

College and Seminary News

MENNONITE SEMINARY NOTES

During the week of January 19-26, Dr. A. Warkentin served as a speaker for the Course for Preachers conducted at the Winkler, Manitoba Bible School. The Winkler school is a Mennonite Brethren school with Brother John G. Wiens serving as principal. An invitation to ministers in the surrounding churches was issued to participate in the special week of fellowship and study.

The Mennonite Student Fellowship held its monthly meeting on January 19 at the home of Dr. Paul Voth, member of the University of Chicago faculty. About thirty young people gathered from over the city. The formal part of the meeting consisted of a discussion of Dutch Mennonites given by Leo Laurense, student from Amsterdam. A luncheon was served and there was time for much informal discussion and visiting.

Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman spent the week of January 12-18 in Boston attending the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges. At this meeting, Mennonite college presidents also meet for their annual meeting as an Association.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

President Unruh spent this week in the Henderson, Nebraska, community in the interest of Freeman Junior College. Dean Gross attended a meeting of the National Association of Biblical Instructors held at Seabury-Western Theological Seminary, Evanston, Illinois. The girls of the Foods I class sponsored a tea as a class project. The Agriculture classes actively participated in the Grain and Handcraft Show sponsored by the farmers and business men of the community. Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Howell Jr. presented the art of Bohemian glass blowing in an interesting demonstration on Thursday afternoon. This program was one in a series of educational entertainments presented to the students during this year. Among recent campus visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Unruh. Mrs. Unruh is the former Belva Waltner, a Freeman graduate. Rev. Jacob I. Walter was a guest speaker in chapel this week.

BETHEL COLLEGE

The Junior Class play, adapted from Eggleston's "The Hoosier Schoolmaster", is to be presented February 14 in Memorial Hall, with Orville Voth and Helen Wiebe heading a cast of twenty-four characters. R. C. Kauffman and D. C. Wedel are holding classes at the Beatrice, Nebraska, Mennonite churches in connection with the Adult Education program of the Extension Department. During the two weeks after the holidays they served the Hoffnungsau and Hebron churches. The following week D. C. Wedel spoke during Bible Week at the Meno Bible Academy, while R. C. Kauffman and W. H. Hohmann conducted a three-day school at the Tabor church. Leona Krehbiel, librarian, and Eva Harshbarger, Dean of Women, addressed the Women's Association at their January meeting, discussing modern trends in library and dormitory construction respectively, in anticipation of the new buildings planned for the campus.

Mrs. R. A. Goerz, for many years editor of the "Missionary News and Notes" and widely known, throughout the conference, passed away suddenly, due to heart failure, at the Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas, on January 29, at the age of seventy years. The funeral was held in the First Mennonite Church on February 1. Rev. Lester Hostetler of the Bethel College Church, of which Mrs. Goerz was an active member, was in charge. Death came suddenly, for on Monday night Mrs. Goerz had still attended a women's meeting at the college.

Statistics of India

(Continued from page 1)

Twenty percent of all deaths are thought to be due to malaria.

Tuberculosis is a worse scourge than leprosy. It is five times as prevalent among women as it is among men.

Most of the tuberculosis sanatoriums are conducted by Christian missions.

Before the war mission hospitals trained about 80 per cent of the nurses in India.

The number of blind people in India is given as 600,000.

India has one doctor to 10,000 population, one nurse to 56,000, one qualified dentist to 350,000, one qualified pharmacist to 4,000,000. (These figures are from the "Indian Medical Gazette" 1944).

There are usually about six hundred lepers in the Leper Home at Champa. From its beginning to the time of Dr. P. A. Penner's retirement to the United States in April, 1941, 3,300 lepers passed through this institution.

Dr. Wanless of Miraj performed 10,000 cataract operations. Dr. MacPhail told me he did as many as 115 cataract operations in one day. It is reported that one doctor did thirty cataract operations in thirty minutes several years ago, in Calcutta.

GENERAL CONFERENCE MENNONITE MISSION STATISTICS JANUARY, 1946

Area, 8,0000 square miles
Villages, 3,000
Population, 1¼ million
Baptized Christians 3,300
Christian Community (including children), 5,300 —Taken from a pamphlet prepared by Dr. Herbert H. Dester and published by the Literature Committee of the Women's Missionary Association.

Jottings

—Apostolic Mennonite Church, Trenton, Ohio, held its annual, congregational meeting, January 12. Rev. J. E. Amstutz gave an inspiring message, after which a covered dish dinner was served, and promptly at 1:30 the business meeting opened. Rev. Amstutz gave a resume of his work during the year and also held a short memorial service for those members who had departed during the year.—Lydia A. Augspurger, Corr.

—Bergtal Church, Pawnee Rock, Kansas: The Mission Workers held their annual election of officers recently. They are installed in June and begin their year's work in July. The group is busy making comforters for relief. An inspiring farewell service for Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Deckert was well attended. Those participating on the program were: Mr. and Mrs. Deckert, Rev. Balzer from Inman, and Rev. J. B. Schmidt. A purse of $156 was added to the previous gifts for them from the various organizations of the church. We have enjoyed their fellowship in our midst on and off during their furlough.—Mrs. John Dirks, Corr.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio: A series of pre-Easter lectures will be given in the First Mennonite Church, March 9-16, by Rev. W. F. Unruh of Moundridge, Kansas. Rev. Unruh spent a number of years on the mission field in India.—Mrs. N. Laurence Burkhalter, Corr.

IN MEMORIAM

CARL WOODREY of Trenton, Ohio, after a lingering illness died on January 3, 1947. Born in Germany in 1865, he came to America in 1882. On June 26, 1890, he united in marriage with Juliana Evans, and to this union were born three sons and one daughter. Surviving are the widow, two sons, six grand children, and six great grand children. Mr. Woodrey was a member of the Apostolic Mennonite Church of Trenton, Ohio. Rev. Amstutz chose for his text Luke 2.29-32.

CORNELIUS F. UNRUH, son of Cornelius and Anna Funk Unruh, was born July 10, 1886, near Goessel, Kansas. Here he attended the elementary school and grew to manhood. He was baptized upon confession of faith on May 30, 1909, and became a member of the Alexanderwohl Church, whose faithful member he remained until the time of his death. On April 14, 1912, he was united in marriage to Sarah Schroeder. In 1919 they bought a farm north of Goessel, which has been home ever since. Active in the church in various capacities, he was a member of the building committee at the time the church was rebuilt. He departed this life on December 28, 1946. He leaves to mourn his departure his sorrowing wife and three daughters: Elma, Martha and Mildred all of the home; two brothers, Dan and Henry of Newton; five sisters, Mrs. I. B. Fast, Mrs. P. J. Schmidt, Mrs. Henry Harms, and Mrs. W. L. Patrick of Newton, and Mary of Topeka. Funeral Services were held in the Alexanderwohl Church on New Year's Day.

JACOB R. F. SCHMIDT, son of Jacob and Elizabeth Reimer Schmidt, was born March 4, 1870, in Kleefeld, Russia. When six years old he migrated with his parents to a home near Goessel, Kansas. He was baptized in 1889 and received as a member of the Alexanderwohl Church of which he remained a faithful member until the end. In 1894 he and Elizabeth Franz were united in marriage. Its sorrows and joys they shared for over fifty-two years. With the exception of ten years in western Kansas and the last six in Newton, he lived near Goessel, Kansas. He passed to his reward December 5, 1946. His sudden departure is mourned by his deeply sorrowing wife, and his children: Dan F., Mrs. H. L. Schmidt, and Mrs. D. R. Janzen, Walton, Kansas; Mrs. J. L. Pankratz, Canton; Mrs. Arthur Buller, Orange Cove, California; Menno F., Shafter, California; Jacob F., Wasco, California; Samuel F., Hillsboro, Kansas; and Louise of the home.

HELENA PETERS HIEBERT, daughter of John A. and Gertrude Rempel Peters, was born on Aug. 28, 1909, at Quincy, Washington, and passed away December 15, 1946, at her home near Newport, Washington. She was baptized on August 26, 1928, by Rev. J. J. Kliewer and accepted as a member of the Newport Mennonite Church of which she remained a faithful member to the end. She was very active in church work and served as Sunday School teacher. She was united in marriage to William Hiebert on Sepetmber 5, 1929 by Rev. J. J. Kliewer. She leaves to mourn her passing her bereaved husband; one daughter Lucille; one son, Donald; her parents; two brothers, Dick of Spokane and John of Custer; and five sisters, Mrs. Anna Oastling of Kittitas, Mrs. Gertrude Loewen, Custer; Mrs. Kathryn Hiebert, Newport; and Marie and Eva of Spokane.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Your Youth Council Meets

by Elmer Ediger

The United States, Canada, and Mexico are big areas. Imagine 237 dots as churches scattered over the map. This would mean about sixteen in the Pacific district, thirty-one in the Northern district, twenty-two in the Central Conference district, nineteen in the Middle district, twenty-seven in the East, sixty-one in the Western district, including Mexico, ten in British Columbia, nine, Alberta, twenty-one, Saskatchewan, fourteen, Manitoba, seven, Ontario. We assume there would be more than ten thousand youth between fifteen and thirty. What a potential for Christ! What strength if we were more consecrated and more united! What a thrill it could be to join hands, unashamedly in the name, character, and spirit of Christ and be enthusiastic about being Christian and working for the Kingdom of God! Do we have the vision? Do we have the patience and fortitude to work toward such a great goal?

One important link in such a movement is the YPU Council. From these districts will come one or more representatives to First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas, February 8, 9, and 10. Together we will sense, as we did last year, the great responsibility entrusted to us. We sincerely pray and ask for your prayers that we may follow God's leading, for certainly he has a plan for us! Your district should be represented and you should expect to have a report from him or her so that it may be a cooperative effort. Our trouble tends to be that we don't dovetail our efforts. In the final analysis what you have of the larger program in the local church determines how effective the districts, the YPU Council have been. Real production is on in local level!

Here are some of the questions, problems, possibilities that will be discussed:

1. What has been done in each district during the past year? What have some outstanding local youth groups done in your district?
2. What is most needed by local youth groups?

The 1946 Y.P.U. Council Representatives

A Word from a Pastor

It is a real joy to know that you young people are so deeply interested in an active Christian program. If you will dedicate your vision, your enthusiasm and your full loyalty to the cause of Christ, we know the future of the Church is assured. In this materialistic age, it is very important to show how the spiritual forces alone are sufficient to meet the present practical problems. By a practical consecrated Christian program, you can present the world with a living pattern of what it could be and should be under Christ. God bless you in these efforts.

J. N. Smucker

Special Y.P.U. Edition

3. What type of program materials should be prepared?

4. Voluntary service for six, eight ten weeks or one year? What type of projects should we recommend to the V. S. committee?

5. Prepare for YPU "general assembly" August 1947, at Berne! Can we get at least one youth delegate from every local congregation? Could high school age representatives have a special part of the session? What should we try to accomplish? What constitutional changes do we recommend?

6. Shall we have the second all General Confernce Mennonite Youth Retreat after General Conference this year?

7. Shall we continue our Missionary Educational project? What projects do we recommend to districts.

8. One district has proposed combining their district paper with "Mennonite Youth" section. Shall we enlarge the youth section? Shall we publish a separate paper or supplement to be distributed in church to all young people?

9. How can our college youth Christian organizations and YPU dovetail some of their efforts?

Your Youth Council meets for its annual meeting. Through these discussions, then presentations to some of the Boards, district conferences we make some effort to realize our purpose as a united Mennonite Youth in Christ. We look forward to it and are appreciative of this opportunity to participate in our total conference program. We pledge ourselves to the total program of our church, the cause of Jesus Christ.

What's Been Done in 1946?

by Elmer Ediger

Our youth work has actually just begun. We are not ashamed of it but we probably should be if in the next ten years we don't become much more effective.

DISTRICTS

In most of our districts and provinces our youth are undertaking some very worthwhile cooperative activities. Outstanding have been the retreats. This area is a real demonstration of what church cooperation in a state, province, or district can do. Increasingly there is also thought of purchasing district retreat grounds.

As a joint service, "district projects" have become a real handle for youth in a district. In the Pacific District (California particularly) they cooperate in financing a missionary couple among the migrant labor camps. Pacific District also voted to give financial boost to promotion of Voluntary Service in General Conference. Western District has ambitions of making their own retreat grounds. Middle district has a thousand dollar goal for financing a missionary couple in a General Conference Home Mission field. The Eastern District youth threw their efforts toward a building fund for the Lancaster Church. The Northern District for the first budget focused primarily on YPU projects and, incidentally, this was a part almost all other district projects also. In Canada—Ontario youth support their high school, in Saskatchewan the northern part sponsors Elim Gospel Beach, the northern, the Mennonite Youth Farm at Rosthern and also a large DVBS teaching program; Alberta, the Didsbury Bible School; and other provinces also.

What Is the Young People's Union?

The Young People's Union, commonly known as the Y.P.U., is an organization of the young people's societies of the 237 churches of the General Conference. It is dedicated to achieve "A United Mennonite Youth in Christ." It strives to provide conference-wide projects such as Voluntary Summer Service, raising money to provide an education for young people in a Missionary Education Fund, sponsoring the four-page Mennonite Youth section of The Mennonite. It endeavors to support and encourage district organization and projects. It wishes to encourage and provide conventions, conferences and retreats for young people and foster creative, wholesome young people's work in the local church. It's offiers are elected on Young People's Day at General Conference every three years. All its efforts are devoted to furthering the cause of Jesus Christ and His Church. It is devoted to a program for and by young people.

YPU projects

Union of all districts and local churches is for a purpose! We must grow spiritually as young Mennonite Christians. We must begin to serve now. We must strive toward Christian unity, fellowship, wholesome social relations and recreation. In local organizations this boils down to three aspects—program, projects, fellowship. Here are some of our cooperative undertaking through the YPU:

1. Mennonite Youth, this paper which you are now reading, a regular part of The Mennonite. During this past year it has reached a new high, we would say, as far as contents for older youth and leaders. We hope that we will have funds and help to develop it so that high school age and older youth will reach for The Mennonite and read Mennonite Youth. YPU Council and executive Committee appreciate greatly the work of Esko Loewen, now its editor for more than a year. This is your paper too—write your ideas, news to the editor and give Mennonite Youth a boost financially too by a local youth meeting offering. The budget is $500.00 a year. (Yes, we're almost in the red!)

2. Missionary Education is a part of the total foreign student project. We support four Christians who will be returning to their own country to help in Christian work as they feel called. Of these the Paraguay student is now attending Freeman Junior College, two Puerto Rico students at Bethel and one at Bluffton. The budget is $2,000.00. (Send your local youth or C. E. meeting contribution on to your district treasurer. Our friends have come this distance at our invitation to prepare for greater church usefulness!)

3. Field Work, Institutes—not nearly all of the ten thousand youth nor two hundred churches were contacted but every district and province was covered to some extent by the work of Ernst Harder, Ruth Ewert Harder, Verney Unruh and Elmer Ediger. It was a real thrill for those of us doing the work to meet many of you personally, live in your homes, discuss many questions. We hope it encouraged local leadership, made all of us more conscious of our possibilities.

4. Around the world Mennonite youth correspondence—Any of our youth who wishes to correspond with Dutch or German Mennonite youth (possibly also from Switzerland, France, Paraguay, India) can do so by writing a letter. Give details of yourself. Send a letter to Esko Loewen, MENNONITE YOUTH Editor. About one hundred youth are already interested in such a project.

5. General Conference Voluntary Services—Representatives appointed by the Peace Committee and YPU make up the G.C.-V.S. committee. 1946 was the first such project in G. C. history, the unit of nine at our Home Mission Church in Chicago. With availability of Bertha Fast as full time director of G. C.-V.S. a larger and more varied program is being planned for 1947. Youth serve now—not only when you are older.

6. Retreat Study — To encourage continued growth in this field of demonstrated value, the YPU has prepared a summary of 1946 General Conference retreats for young people. Copies will be available from General Conference Headquarters.

Young People's Day at General Conference, Aug., 1947

by Arnold Nickel

The Executive Committee of the Young People's Union is again making plans for the Young People's Day which will be held in connection with the General Conference in August, 1947. In making their plans the Committee's first plan is to have at least one representative from each church attend the All-Conference Youth Day. The Young People's Day in the past has not been too well represented by young people from all the districts and churches of the Conference. This has greatly curtailed the effectiveness of the program, and it has also limited the possibilities for a larger program that might be accomplished through cooperative planning and united effort. The old familiar maxim is applicable to our problem. "United we stand, divided we fall."

The Conference Young People's Day is set apart for all young people to obtain factual information about the YPU and its program, to receive new ideas and helps related to the district problems and the local church needs, to get acquainted with broader opportunities of Christian service, to review the YPU activities of the past two years, to draw up new plans for the future program—which needs to be greatly enlarged, to fellowship with the young people of other districts and churches, and also to renew spiritual enthusiasm in each Christian young person who is interested in the work of Jesus Christ.

Now is the most appropriate time for your Christian Endeavor or Young People's Society to plan on sending a delegate to the General Conference YPU Day. By doing it as soon as possible each organization will be more interested in what the YPU is trying to do to unite Christian young people for more intensive and extensive service.

Be sure to read the Youth Section of The Mennonite for later details concerning the plans of the YPU Day.

A Young People's Paper?

The motto of the Young People's Union has always been "A United Mennonite Youth in Christ." This motto recognizes the need for a constant sharing and fellowship with one another. Sharing in the fellowship of worship and the common faith in Christ, in projects designed to make life more rich through wholesome social and recreational life, in ideas for programs which challenge the thinking of the members, and in projects to express in deed the concern and love for fellow men that faith in Christ inspires.

There are various ways of accomplishing this sharing. Letters are always of vital importance. Visits paid by the young people and their leaders with one another is another way. Very important is the printed page, especially considering the far flung distances which separate the youth of the church.

The printed page, a Youth Paper, should have several objectives in mind as its purpose. 1. There should be articles of inspiration which deepen and fortify the spiritual life of the individual. 2. There should be articles dealing with specific problems the individuals or the youth of the church face such as peacetime conscription, the hunger and suffering of and our part in it, modern labor-industry strife, etc. 3. The paper should present various projects of the church—work among migrants, voluntary hospital service units, Bible school teaching, the mission in the southern mountains, etc. 4. The paper should share experience

The first General Conference Retreat was held August 12-17, 1935, at Camp La Verne high in the Sierras immediately after the General Conference held at Upland and Los Angeles, California. Rev. Aron E. Jantzen was Retreat Director. Some of the staff members were Rev. A. E. Kreider, Miss Martha Burkhalter, and Miss Emma Ruth. The theme for the retreat was " . . . and who knoweth whether thou are not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?" Esther 4:14. Those who attended found the experience a deep spiritual inspiration of study, worship and recreation together back far away from the bustle of life.

A General Conferene Young People's Retreat is again being considered this summer. It would be held in Indiana in conjunction with General Conference which is scheduled to be held at Berne, Indiana.

of local groups, what local young people's group are doing. 5. Leaders in social, religious, recreational life should be able to submit plans for programs, parties, crafts and hobbies through the pages of the paper. 6. There should be room for personal items about individuals in the churches.

The whole paper should serve as a voice sharing all the varied experiences and thoughts that the best church youth programs would contain.

There has been planning and discussion about the need of a youth paper for Mennonite Youth, one that is separately issued and specifically planned and made up for and by Mennonite Youth. Are we now at the point when this should be seriously considered? In the 1938 minutes of the Y.P.U. meeting, this matter was discussed. It has been discussed and planned on ever since. Are we at the point where we can do more than discuss it?

Young People's Voluntary Service

by Carl Lehman

There are great many people, both young and old, who have strong convictions on what the church should be doing and what they as members of the church are willing to support financially. Among these there are two kinds, (1) those who are always ready to suggest what others should be doing and who have but a vague notion of what it is all about, and (2) those who are really sincere and mean business when it comes to helping those in material or spiritual need, and who are ready to do something about it themselves when the opportunity presents itself. It is for this latter group that our Voluntary Service Program has been organized.

Not everyone can give a lifetime on the mission field, but many could give a year, or at least a month or two during the summer or winter. And for those who are planning for a life-time of service, nothing could be better preparation than several months in actual work on a mission field or in a special project sponsored by the church. Further preparation after such an experience would be much more meaningful and useful. What a difference it would make in strengthening all our churches and in the support of all our church work if hundreds of young people could have actual experience away from home in projects of the kind! With these thoughts in mind we have made the dream actually come true. The Voluntary Service Committee has arranged projects for those who mean business in working for Christ and His church.

We began in a small way last year. Enthusiasm was so great that we hope to expand considerably this year. We are planning projects of a varied nature for young people of different abilities and skills. They are to range from Summer Bible School teaching to actual construction work on one of our mission fields in this country, probably in one of our missions to the Indians. Begin talking about this to your pastor now. Discuss it in your young people's meetings. Decide now to have a rich experience this coming summer, or perhaps next winter.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

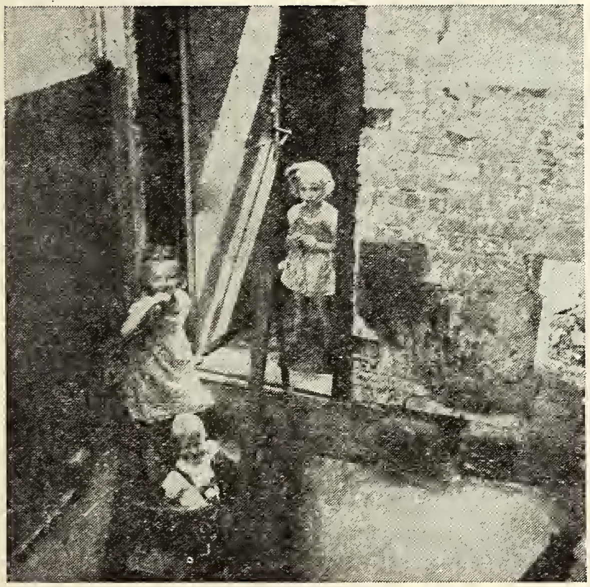
Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Undernourishment and a Children's Home near Bremen

by Dr. Fraesdorff, Home Physician

The "Adolfinenheim," a Protestant children's health resort being situated at the seaside, on the isle of Borkum, German Sea near Bremen, Germany, was founded in 1921. This foundation developed from the desire of creating on our beautiful and healthy island a health resort for weak and sick children of larger cities needing recovery, thanks to a number of generous donations from America.

Protected by the dunes the home is lying in the immediate neigbhorhood of the southern beach. Since the home opened, many thousands of children have found here health and strength. Unfortunately, the war caused a six and a half years' discontinuance of the cures, but now we are happy that through the energy and kind assistance of the appropriate private and public agencies of Bremen we have been enabled to resume our work in the spring of this year. The home accommodates about 250 children during each cure lasting six weeks and is being operated throughout the whole year. Our little patients are taken care of by qualified deaconesses and nurses; the home physicain holds regular medical examinations, attends the sick and prepares an individual schedule of medical treatment of each child.



This is the way Bremen children have to live! In such dwellings children cannot remain healthy and cannot become good citizens.

Due to its maritime location the isle of Borkum is a seaplace with a pronounced high-sea climate. All climatic advantages recommending a seaplace such as moderate differences in temperature, settled climatic conditions, moist air being free from dust and rich in salt and iodine, and first and foremost the permanent motion of the air are found to be even intensified on this island. The photo-chemical effects of the sunlight present an equally important healing factor, for the sunshine here is far richer in ultra-violet rays than in the inland, the atmosphere being nearly completely free from dust and other polluting particles, so that its effects on the skin are not inferior to those of a hill-climate.

These effects of the light combined with the effects of the permanently circulating and saline air involve what we may call a stimulating climate. Both the application of cold and warm salt water baths, the inhalation and drinking of sea water as well as the influence of the purely climatic healing factors are calling forth a strong reaction of the whole body, in particular of the weak infantile organism. But the desired result of such a seaside treatment can only be attained if the entire climatic healing factors are applied and utilized by an individually scheduled cure. Such a cure intensifies the operation and blood-circulation of all organs, involving an acceleration of the whole metabolism. Morbid matters and useless remainders are secreted by the body, requiring, of course, an increased intake of food. From this follows that if the cure shall entail a permanent success a good and sufficient nutrition of the children is absolutely necessary. The distressed war and post-war conditions have involved that nearly all children from the larger cities, and it is they we are primarily attending here, are suffering from serious underweight, anemia and neurasthenia, and the normal food rations would never suffice to ensure a successful result of the cures for the physical and mental best of our children.

Therefore, we are so extremely happy and grateful that the abundant supplies from abroad have allowed us to provide our children with additional food and invigorating remedies. The kind American benefactors may be convinced that their gifts are always gratefully and joyously welcomed by our children, who are never at a loss to apply them in the right way. The donors ought to have heard the shouts of joy, when the first time after a long number of years a lovely smelling chocolate soup appeared on the table. It is a really overwhelming experience for the children that they are allowed to eat to their heart's content. The daily dispensation of codliver oil, meaning an additional caloric intake, shall not remain unmentioned. And what an enormous mental relaxation it is that once in a while the children are living in a place unshattered by war, in surroundings barred to material needs, distress, financial troubles and mental sorrows.

But it must be said again that our cures would never have reached the good results we are already stating now, without the relief supplies from abroad. In view of our aggressive climate here we would certainly often have found a decrease of weight instead of the present increase of weight. Therefore, we would be thankful if for the benefit of our children further assistance through generous relief supplies could be made available to us.

via Mennonite Central Committee
Akron, Pennsylvania

The Youth Fellowship of the Evangelical and Reformed Church

BY DORIS EILEEN PAAR

(This article tells of the work of the Evangelical and Reformed young people. These articles are printed by permission of "Youth," the paper published by that denomination.)

A YOUTH FELLOWSHIP by definitions is an association of young people. This is certainly true, but what a richer meaning this name has for those of us who are a part of The Youth Fellowship of the Evangelical and Reformed Church! It means the group of young people who work in our local church; it includes all the young people of our denomination working together with a common purpose; and it is thrilling to realize that it means that we are part of a great, united, Christian youth movement.

The adaption of the name, "The Youth Fellowship" after the merger of the Evangelical and Reformed Churches, is history to us now. The youth groups in the former Evangelical Church were called Young People's Leagues and were united in a denominational program. The Reformed Church carried on on distinctive denominational program; some of their groups were Christian Endeavor Societies while others were called Young People's Societies and Girl's Missionary Guilds. In 1934 when the Evangelical and Reformed churches united there was an immediate interest in the kind of program the newly merged church should have. Young People and youth leaders from both of the old denominations were appointed as a Joint Committee on Youth Work. After investigation and discussion the members of the joint committee felt that they wanted to follow neither of the old patterns but, using the good features of both, to develop something better. Their recommendations were approved by the General Synod in 1936 and the Board of Christian Education and Publication was given the task of launching the new program.

Since that time every young member of the Evangelical and Reformed Church has been a part of The Youth Fellowship. It includes those of us who attend church school, those of us who sing in the choir, those of us who belong to the Girl's Guild, those of us who join in the work, study, worship and play of the local group called the youth fellowship. Regional and synodical federations as well as the National Youth Assembly and the Youth Cabinet give a sense of unity to The Youth Fellowship.

At the first Youth Assembly in 1937 a Youth Cabinet was elected to help The Youth Fellowship to develop. Before it could go very far in planning a program it had to know where it was going. Local church groups, classes in our summer schools and camps, and leaders in our denomination were asked to think about a purpose for our Youth Fellowship and to send in suggestions. The cabinet used the suggestions and formed a statement of purpose which it later simplified. We all know—or should know—the sevenfold puropse which unites all the young people of our denomination. For readers who may not be familiar with our purpose, it is given here:

1. To know God better, worship him sincerely, study his Word, and do his will.
2. To know Jesus and his way, and follow him.
3. To love the church, know its work in all the world, and take part in it.
4. To join with young people of other churches, and all people of goodwill, in fellowship and work for a better world.
5. To use our time, at work or at play, for the good of others and ourselves.
6. To face the hard problems of our day in the spirit of Jesus.

7. To serve needy people and good causes in the spirit of Jesus.

After its organization the Cabinet got busy helping to organize synodical youth cabinets and it continues work with them now. It plans the National Youth Assembly which is held at Lakeside, Ohio, every four years.

Every year the Cabinet plans study units for youth fellowship meetings which are printed in YOUTH, our official denominational young people's magazine. In 1947 the leaders' materials will be published quarterly in a packet called How, with supplementary material on the same topics to be printed in YOUTH. The cabinet also helps practical suggestions for the building of good youth programs.

Every young person is a contributing member to his own local church. Over and above this, local youth fellowships adopt certain projects which they support as a group. This year seven projects chosen by the Youth Cabinet are: the heifer project, the fund for rebuilding our colleges in Japan, the U.C.Y.M., the Karl Meyer memorial fund for work camp scholarship, mission support, C.P.S. Scholarships for Education, and the Holland Project. For the first time the Cabinet has set a goal of $10,000, and is asking each youth fellowship group to select a project and pledge a certain amount in support of it.

The Youth Cabinet consists of seventeen young people, who are elected for a term of four years, five advisers, who are appointed by the Board of Christian Education and Publication, and the dirctor of youth work, who gives full-time service in carrying out the plans of the Cabinet and building The Youth Fellowship program.

The Youth Fellowship is organized into officers and commission chairmen. The commissions include: Greater Fellowship Commission, Work and Study Commission, Student Fellowship Commission, Community Service Commission, World Service vice Commission, Intermediate Fellowship Commission, Editorial Commission, Stewardship Commission. The chairmen appoint their respective commissions which work during the year preparing a report for the cabinet meeting and helping to carry out the recommendations which have been approved by the Cabinet.

Youth Cabinet members are represented on the various boards and commissions of the church. For example, the chairman of the Stewardship Commission is represented on the denominational commission, the chairman of the Community Service is represented on the Commission on Christian Social Action, and the chairman of the World Service Commission is represented on the Board of International Missions, et cetera. More youth groups are also being asked to have a representative on the committee in our local churches.

Most synods have annual rallies or conferences at which the young people find greater fellowship and inspiration with groups from other churches. Synodical youth cabinets carry on the synodical program through the year, planning the conferences, publishing a newspaper, helping local Youth Fellowships to organize and develop a more effective program, promoting the projects, and working to get all youth groups affiliated with the National Youth Fellowship.

There are more than two thousand youth fellowship groups but less than half of them have affiliated. Affiliation expresses the willingness of the local group to share in the national Youth Fellowship. The local group is asked to make an annual report to the Youth Department of its activities of the past year and its plans for the coming year, to contribute annually to the denominational youth work and to accept the statement of purpose as its own. When a group affiliates, it is granted a Certificate of Affiliation and is furnished free with "The Youth Worker's Kit." a miniature library of youth literature.

With the revival of interest in The Youth Fellowship, now that the war is over, many local groups are asking for more specific help with their programs. The Youth Cabinet has recommended an organizational plan which includes, besides the regular offices, five commissions which are working groups. Every member of the fellowship is one of the commissions. The commissions recommended are: Worship and Study, World Service, Community Service, Home Church Service, and Recreation.

Many groups have a retreat, once or twice a year, when they make their plans. The commission idea is being adopted increasingly by youth groups.

Aside from the Youth Assembly, synodical and regional conferences over five thousand young people each year gather at our summer camps and leadership training schools, where they find keener awareness of God, new friendships with like young people from other churches and areas, new ideas to take back and use in their Youth Fellowships at home. Our church has cooperated with the work camp program of the American Friends and many of our young people attend work camps each summer, thus helping in a community which is in great need. Along with young people of other denominations, they are willing to work with their hands to serve God and their fellow men.

We also meet with young people of other denominations in interdenominantional and interracial conferences. In view of the pending merger of the Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church, there has been very close cooperation, in many sections, among the young people of the two denominations. At their respective summer camps and leadership training schools there has frequently been an interchange of fraternal delegates. The fellowship has been mutually helpful and very delightful.

The Evangelical and Reformed Church is one of the forty-two denominations and agencies cooperating in the United Christian Youth Movement. In communities where Christian Youth Councils are sure to be part of the local council. We know that if our fellowship is to be a worthwhile Christian fellowship we must have experiences and work with other Christian youth people.

Items of Interest

The Uniform Sunday School lessons have passed their seventy-fifth year of use. It was in 1871 that twenty-nine publishers met together to discuss a uniform plan to be followed in Sunday School work. Out of this meeting a committee of ten was elected to establish a uniform lesson plan, and in 1872 the first uniform lessons were introduced. It was in 1841 that the Sunday School Union of England first originated and the Sunday School movement spread from there until it became world wide.

* * * *

Youth Week and Christian Endeavor Week was observed from January 26 to February 2 this year. This special week was first inaugurated by the Christian Endeavor which now has its headquarters in Columbus, Ohio. Recently, the United Christian Youth Movement, which first began in about 1934, has joined with the C. E. in observing this as a special week for youth. Many churches throughout the land are observing this as a special week whose theme is, "Youth Share the Christian Faith, the Christian Fellowship." February 2 will be the six-sixth birthday of the C. E.

* * * *

Books for Children which are the proper age level to make possible the child's growth. A wholesome book list which considers all aspects of the child's development. Such is the list which Miss Elva May Schrock made up for the Middle District Conference. This list was mimeograped and distributed. It has been mentioned in these pages before. Miss Schrock states that quite a number of calls from other conference districts for the list have come in. There remain eight copies of her list. Any person interested in it should write to Miss Elva May Schrock, R.F.D. No. 2, Nappanee, Indiana.

* * * *

Word comes from Japan describing the conditions in Tokyo. Miss Elizabeth Vining, a tutor of the Crown Prince of Japan and formerly connected with the Quaker relief organization, states that, "Little shacks built out of wood, or of old iron and tin are going up everywhere. There will be no way to keep people warm this winter, for fuel is scarce and there is no charcoal ration. Some people are living in their old air raid shelters, which are no more than a hole in the ground."

* * * *

The North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church in the last annual session of the conference barred persons, who drink, advertise, manufacture, sell or advocate the sale of liquor or in any way seek to promote liquor traffic, from church positions.

* * * *

At the Home Missions Council meeting held in Pennsylvania, the question of establishing a Christian university in Japan was discussed and considered as a project for the churches.

The average monthly income of the Japanese workers is $38.53. During the first ten months of 1946, the U.S. spent $520,000,000 wholesale for candy or about $3.70 per person. In Japan all children between four and fourteen are to get a candy ration which will mean about a mouthful of candy. That is all.

Mennonite Youth in Germany Write

Recently thirty-two letters from Mennonite young people in the Pfalz region of Germany arrived in the United States. These letters came as the result of a request to establish a letter fellowship between the young people of the same faith in Germany and this country. They are now being distributed to young people in the United States and Canada who then will correspond with their new found "pen pals."

This is a part of a World Mennonite Letter Fellowship that has been undertaken by the Young People's Union. It strives to serve as the agency to make contacts between interested young people in America and young people of other lands.

When the war ended, there was a general and deep desire to mend the broken ties caused by the conflict which had raged. The universality of the Christian Gospel which knows no race, clan or nation, prompted the Young People's Union to re-establish the ties of fellowship which had been broken. This inspiration prompted by the very nature of the Christian confession resulted in an effort to reach fellow Christians in other lands through a letter fellowship.

The thirty-two letters from Germany contain much of interest. They, too, yearn to realize again the bond that common faith in Christ and membership in the Church creates. There are notes of sorrow and pain in the letters at the thought of the war which broke the tie with other lands. There are tales of all the suffering of war; some are refugees from Poland and have gone through severe privation and suffering. Others have been bombed out, lost loved ones, been forced to move from one place to the other. There are many familiar names such as Haury, Ewy, Lichti, Zerger and also many unfamiliar names.

Many of the letters tell of the deep joy they experienced when some of the relief workers from America met with them at a special meeting and conveyed to them Christian greetings from fellow brethren in America. Some say that it will be impossible for them to stay in Germany because they are "Heimatlose" or homeless or among the great number of displaced persons often called D.P.'s". Paraguay or America are looked to with great longing.

The Letter Fellowship will be continued with the object of making possible contacts with Christian young people in other lands. If there are any persons interested in such a correspondence, they should write Esko Loewen, 6201 S. Carpenter, Chicago 21, Illinois, for further information.

MATERIAL AID

Evangelical Hilfswerk

It might be noted that all shipments to Germany are, because of regulations, channeled through CRALOG and Evangelical Hilfswerk. Any goods which are shipped to the Mennonite Central Committee to its own administered Child Feeding Units at Kiel, in the British Zone, and Neustadt, in the French Zone, or Christenphlicht, in the American Zone, are channeled through CRALOG and Evangelical Hilfswerk but are distributed by our own Mennonite teams. Evangelical Hilfswerk distributes only those Mennonite goods which are destined for general CRALOG distribution.

Recent Shipments

During the six-week period beginning with December 1, the following material aid has been shipped to the various relief areas:

To the Mennonite Child Feeding Unit, British Zone of Germany; 40 tons navy beans, 60 tons Ralston relief cereal, 22 tons baby foods, 35 tons raisins, 32 tons assorted foods from Smoketown, Pa., 34 tons assorted foods from the food warehouse at Newton, Kans.; and 30 tons of flour. To Christenpflicht, in the American Zone of Germany: 30 tons of assorted foods from the food warehouse at Silver Springs. Pa. To Mennonite Child Feeding Unit, in the French Zone of Germany: 30 tons assorted foods from the food warehouse at Silver Springs, Pa.

To Evangelical Hilfswerk for CRALOG distribution, in the American, French and British Zones of Germany: 107 tons of flour and 30 tons of assorted foods from the United States, and 80 tons of flour from Canada. To Holland: 30 tons of flour and 31 tons of assorted foods, destined for the Mennnite refugees now in Berlin, Germany. To Italy: 30 tons of Ralston relief cereal. To the China Unit: 5 tons of clothing, bedding, soap, and other hospital supplies. To the French Units: nearly 8 tons of shoes and soap.

Goodwill Christmas Bundles

Following are the totals of the Christmas Bundles which have been shipped. These bundles are being distributed by the MCC relief workers on the field.

Country	No. from U.S.	No. from Canada	Totals
Germany	2,101	3,322	5,423
Holland	2,047	1,025	3,072
France	736	596	1,332
Belgium	662	325	987
Denmark	637	251	888
China	416	243	659
Philippine Island	384	163	547
Paraguay	355	146	501
Italy	354	145	499
India	312	83	395
Puerto Rico	290	61	351
Ethiopia	211	25	236
	8,505	6,385	14,890

Narrow Escape

A carload of raisins from Reedley, California, a carload of clothing from Winnipeg, Canada, and the 6,385 Christmas parcels from Canada, with a total value of $75,000 recently escaped the huge pier fire of the New York Central Railroad lighterage docks. Fortunately these goods had passed through these docks a few hours before the fire broke out and are now on their way overseas.

MENNONITE REFUGEE MOVEMENT

Arrangements are continuing to be worked out for the transportation of over two thousand Mennonite refugees from Europe to Paraguay, via the ship Volendam. C. F. Klassen is making the necessary arrangements in Europe, while C. A. DeFehr is leaving on February 1 to be in charge of receiving the people at Buenos Aires, and reshipping them from there to Paraguay.

Since the ship from Buenos Aires will carry smaller groups, the remainder of the refugees will probably stay at a large immigration hotel in Argentina until they can also be reshipped. Recent word has come that the Argentine government is willing to waive transit visa fees and the deposits ordinarily required, though this must still be officially confirmed with that government.

Intergovernmental assistance is being sought to help defray the cost of transporting these refugees, but this is not as yet certain.

Homes for the Mentally Ill

The Mental Rest Homes' Advisory and Planning Committee, appointed at the annual MCC Meeting, met on January 25 at Chicago to proceed with further study of ways and means to establish small homes for the mentally ill. The committee consists of: H. R. Martens, Reedley, Cal.; J. W. Vogt, Hillsboro, Kans.; H. A. Fast, North Newton, Kan.; E. C. Bender, Elkhart, Ind.; Titus Books, Cleona, Pa.; Paul Nase, M.D., Souderton, Pa.; and Orie O. Miller, Akron, Pa.

Personnel at MCC Headquarters

There continues to be a need for qualified secretaries and office workers at Akron MCC headquarters. Anyone who feels a call for this type of work and wishes to serve in this way, is encouraged to write to Richard Ebersole, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pannsylvania.

Released via MCC Headquarters
January 24, 1947

Jottings

—First Church, Nappanee, Indiana: On Sunday evening January 12, the Intermediates, who have just finished a three-months study in the Old Testament, presented a Bible Quiz, a chart, and a discussion. The Christian Youth Fellowship met at the E.U.B. Church at their usual time with Dan West, "Father of the Heifers for Relief Program" as speaker| In making out our reports for 1946, we see that the total giving of our church and its organizations was $12,177. That is an average of $76 per member or $162 per earning member. Our giving for outside causes jumped from 44 per cent for 1945 to a total of 66 per cent for 1946.—Mrs. Loyal Corwin, Corr. (Thank you for digging out these per-member and percentage figures. That is accurate, informative reporting. —Editor)

—First Church, Lima, Ohio: Weekly we have a Children's Bible Hour. A nice group of children attend these meetings. Now we are cooperating with the city churches in a union evangelistic campaign with Dr. John R. Rice. Tonight, January 19, many souls accepted Christ as their Saviour.

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: Rev. Albert Gaeddert responded to our request by speaking to our C. E. Sunday evening, January 19. The topic of his very interesting talk was "Peace Principles." Leo Beck, native of Holland and a Bethel College student, who spent the week end with Benny Schrag, was a Sunday morning visitor in our church.—Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: January 16 the Ladies Aid was held in the P. J. Quiring home. Thirty-eight were present. We are having the John S. Friesens and Miss Marie Toevs of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, as visitors. Miss Toews gave us a very interesting talk. The Friesens are visiting their children Henry Schirllings. January 19 we had pulpit exchange in the Oregon churches. Rev. W. A. Regier was in our pulpit.—Mrs. Dave Balzer.

—Immanuel Church, Los Angeles: The church had a farewell for Rev. and Mrs. Lubin Jantzen and family on January 12. The dinner, enjoyed at the noon hour, was also in behalf of the returned service men. Mr. Goering and Mr. Martens, representatives of the M.C.C., presented slides and gave us a challenging insight of the work in Puerto Rico on Sunday evening, January 19. We were blessed recently by the inspiring, dramatic singing of Wm. Bartel, Christian business man of Portland, Oregon.—Mrs. Harold Burkholder, Corr.

—Mr. Harry Martens and Mr. Erwin Goering are visiting the General Conference communities of the Pacific District in the interest of Bethel College. Mr. Martens is also showing slides and giving talks as a representative of the General Conference Relief Board. He was formerly director of the M.C.C. relief and rehabilitation unit in Puerto Rico. Mr. Goering formerly served under the M.C.C., first as director of a C.P.S. camp, later as regional director, and last as director of all Mennonite C.P.S. camps.

—Lehigh (Kansas) Mennonite Church: We have been very fortunate in having been supplied with ministers while Rev. Janzen, a part-time, traveling worker for the Western District Conference, was gone. Rev. H. A. Fast served the congregation on January 12 and Missionary J. R. Duerksen on January 19. Rev. Duerksen spoke on a few highlights of his mission work in India. On Christmas Eve our Sunday School presented a program, consisting of the Christmas story, a few numbers by the younger children, and a pageant, "The Meaning of Christmas," presented by the intermediates and juniors, assisted by the church choir. A collection of $112 was taken for relief. We are looking forward to having Rev. Edmund Miller with us both Sunday morning and evening, January 26, and also on January 27 and 28.—Mrs. F. G. Unruh, Corr.

ADDRESSES OF MISSIONARIES

The address of Rev and Mrs. Gerald Stucky and Misses Soldner and Becker in South America is:

Cachipay,
Cundinamarca
Colombia
South America.

Missionary P. J. Boehr's address for the time being is:

c/o M. C. C. Headquarters
Canadian Church Mission
South Suburb
Kaifeng, Honan
China.

—North Star Church, Drake, Saskatchewan: On December 11 we were privileged to have in our midst Rev. S. Mouttet of the "Go Ye" Mission and the Grace Bible Institute of Omaha, Nebraska. In a challenging manner he presented the need of the Mission and how God so marvelously provided for the ever-increasing need of the Institute. Our pre-Christmas messages centered around the theme of Advent. On Christmas Eve our Sunday School presented the ever new story of Christmas in songs, recitations, and dialogue to a large and appreciative audience. The offering was for C.A.R.E. packages. Twenty were sent. Prayer Week was observed by our church under the leadership of the pastor. Rev. H. T. Klaassen of Laird, Saskatchewan, is to give us a series of lectures on I Corinthians the week of February 10-13.—P. Schroeder. Corr.

—Swiss Church, Alsen, North Dakota: The weather has been fair and the roads open so far. The young people are studying "Mountain Peaks of Prophecy" at their regular meetings Tuesday evenings. In our prayer meetings we are studying the book of Ephesians. In our Sunday morning services our pastor is bringing us expository messages from the Gospel of John. Our choir gave the Christmas cantata, "The World's Redeemer," on December 26, under the direction of Rev. Flickinger. On December 28 Melvin Klein and Ruth Klein were married at the parsonage. We enjoyed a nice program December 22 by the Bethany Bible School of Munich, North Dakota.—Corr.

—Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Friesen, serving as missionaries to the Indians on the Oklahoma mission field, are the happy parents of Richard Allen Friesen born January 12. The report states. "The little boy is a very good boy."

—Rev. Gerhard Friesen of Newton, Kansas, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Congregational Church at Udall, Kansas, According to present plans the Friesens will continue to live in Newton for at least the next three months.

—Beatrice Church, Beatrice, Nebraska: The Fellowship Group of the two churches here sponsored services January 26-30 with Rev. D. C. Wedel and Dr. R. C. Kauffman as speakers. The last evening a young people's banquet was held in our church. February 5-7 Miss Bertha Fast will be with us to tell of her relief experiences and to present the challenge of the summer voluntary service projects.—Mrs. Elbert Koontz, Corr.

—Bethel College Church: E. M. Conover, Director of the Interdenominational Bureau of Church Architecture, New York City, will be with us for an all-day meeting Sunday, February 23. He will speak at the regular morning service (Mr. Conover is an ordained Methodist minister), and in the afternoon and evening he will show pictures on church architecture, conduct an open forum, and meet, by appointment, our various committees connected with the building project. Mr. Conover has had a wide experience in church building, serving in his present capacity, more than twenty denominations. He has published several books on church architecture and is an interesting speaker on the subject.—Eldon W. Graber, Corr.

—First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: We are again offering a teacher training class in our church this winter. We are taking up "A Guide for Child Study," Unit IV, prepared by the Evangelical Teacher Training Association of Chicago. Fifteen members are availing themselves of this opportunity to prepare themselves for better Sunday School service.—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—First Church, Halstead, Kansas: Our congregation has sent about sixty C.A.R.E. packages. On January 26 Dr. H. A. Fast reported on his extensive trips made for the M.C.C. This was very interesting. The Dorcas Mission Society has sent for relief sewing and will make one hundred garments in the next two months. Rev. D. C. Wedel will preach here February 2.—Corr.

—First Church, Nappanee, Indiana: Last Sunday at 5:30 the Christian Youth Fellowship met for their regular meeting at the E.U.B. Church. Everyone was urged to bring a wearable pair of used shoes for relief. They brought seventy-eight pairs. For our evening service we had a series of movie shorts of "Our Church in Action." The pictures were of the different Sunday School classes, pictures taken at the Middle District Conference, dedication of the heifer the children bought for relief, and others taken and shown by Dr. L. M. Slabaugh. Tuesday evening the January Workers Conference met at the parsonage. The topic was "What Every Teacher Should Know about Church History." For our next Sunday evening service we will have Adolpho Comba, an Italian, Waldensian student of Goshen College, who will speak to us.—Mrs. Loyal Corwin. Corr.

—Schoenwieser Church, Winnipeg, Canada: With the presentation of Lessing's "Minna von Barnhelm," a five-act drama, the Young People's Dramatic Society was able to raise $375 for the Mennonite Central Committee. Rev. J. H. Klassen, who for the past several years has lived in Vancouver, arrived back in Winnipeg for the Christmas season for a prolonged stay. In spite of the sub-zero weather, he remarked, "Ich bin lieber da wo das Wetter kalt aber die Herzen warm sind." This quotation clearly shows that in spite of his seventy-eight years he has lost none of his former ruggedness. Our young people's organization has begun a fund for a new church and recreational center. To date we have raised almost two thousand dollars, one thousand of which we have loaned, free of interest, to the Home for the Aged and Infirm, Bethania.—E. J. Enns Corr.

—Rev. B. B. Friesen, who formerly served the Mennonite church at Sardis, British Columbia, now lives at 427 East 46th Avenue, Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. Rev. W. Martens is now Elder of the church at Sardis.

—First Church, McPherson, Kansas: We had watchnight services on New Year's Eve. These were quite well attended. Brother Edwin Stucky brought us the message. On January 5 we had Holy Communion. On

EXCERPTS FROM LETTER BY ELISABETH D. GOERTZ TO SECRETARY OF FOREIGN MISSION BOARD

1321 Vine Avenue,
Martinez, California
January 20, 1947

Dear Brother Nyce:

Greetings to you from this side of the Pacific. I arrived safely on January 17, 1947, in San Francisco. . . . We had a safe journey, very mild weather for this time of the year, with very little storm and it took only fourteen day on the SS General Meigs from Hanghai to San Francisco. There were two classes of passengers—cabin and emergency. I had a cabin class ticket. Rev. Clayton Beyler, former acting director of the MCC Unit in China, was also travelling home. . . . I am slowly planning, and for the next weeks I hope to visit here in California until Sunday, January 26, when I hope to go to Seattle and then east from there by way of Beatrice, Nebraska, to see my sister and her family. I am looking forward to the meeting of the Mission Board and hope to be in Newton by that time, to give my report. . . . It is always a feeling of confusion when we arrive in our homeland until we get adjusted to things in the States. I pray for the Lord's strength to attend me and for His guidance in every step of the way. I hope to be able to meet the obligations due everyone at home, for the loving support through all these years of change and stress. . . . I am enjoying good health . . . . I come with greetings from all our members our Chinese churches and also from the members of our MCC Unit in China.—Yours, happy in the Lord, Signed, Elisabeth D. Goertz

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

The officers of General Conference herewith announce the appointment of Brother S. F. Pannabecker, missionary to China, and now serving as Dean of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary, 4614 Woodlawn, Chicago, Illinois, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Brother P. H. Richert, Route 2, Newton, Kansas, as member of the Foreign Mission Board.—Walter H. Dyck, Executive Secretary.

January 19 brother Orlando Goering was our guest speaker.—Mrs. Freeman Jantz, Corr.

—Salem-Zion Church, Marion, South Dakota: We were grateful for generally fair weather and open roads in January, permitting a record attendance at each Sunday morning worship service for the entire month. While Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Brown are awaiting transportation back to China, our congregation is being richly blessed by their presence in our midst. Both are active in the work of the church, teaching Sunday School classes and preaching upon request. Our Women's Mission Society meets regularly on the first Thursday of each month, with a program and short business meeting. The Society completed the project of sewing aprons and children's dresses for the Arizona Indian Mission. Relief clothing is being collected again. Our Prayer Group meets every Thursday evening at 7:30. They have made a study of the various religious cults in America pointing out their doctrines and belief—Mrs. J. J. Saner, Corr.

—The Oklahoma Bible Academy is enjoying its yearly Bible Course with the beginning of the second semester. The first week has proved very rich spiritually and very practical. In addition to the Bible studies of Psalm 23 by Rev. D. C. Wedel and Philippians by Rev. Waldo Kaufman, one hour a day was spent in music appreciation by Rev. Kaufman and one hour a day was spent in a survey and study of the educational task of the church by Rev. Wedel. Rev Wedel's messages on Sunday and the evening messages in the neighboring churches, together with Rev. Kaufman's song service, were also very inspirational. We are looking forward to another week of blessings with Rev. Walter Dyck as he leads in a study of Colossians each day and discusses with us the subject of "THE POWER OF LOVE." Rev. Ben Rahn is also to be with us for a study of the life of Christ.

—Arlington Mennonite Church, Arlington, Kansas: Our speaker on January 26 was Dr. R. C. Kauffman of Bethel College. He gave us some very interesting thoughts taken from his recent experiences with relief work in India.—Mrs. Lester Ewy, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: Rev. Waldo Kaufman was a speaker at the special Bible course at the Oklahoma Bible Academy January 20-25. He taught a course in Philippians and in music appreciation and also spoke in the neighboring churches in the evening. Our pastor and his wife are living in the parsonage recently purchased by the church.—Wilfred Ewy, Corr.

—Fairfield Mennonite Church, Fairfield, Pa., An inspiring sermon was given on January 26 by Rev. Reginald Diety, who, while attending Gettysburg Theological Seminary several years ago, served this church as supply pastor. Rev. Diety, accompanied by his wife and two sons, visited with Rev. A. W. Geigley and family near the week end. He is at present connected with the Lutheran publishing interests in Philadelphia.—Henry Burkhard, Corr.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio: Dr. Ed G. Kaufman, who spent eight weeks in Europe the past summer studying post war conditions, presented a vivid and enlightening picture of the European Mennonites on Sunday evening, January 26. Dr. Kaufman showed the need for a closer cooperation and a better understanding of our Mennonite brothers and expressed the hope that the student exchange program would do just that. —Mrs. N. Laurence Burkhalter, Corr.

—Meadow Mennonite Church, Colby, Kansas: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Willems celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on January 26. Refreshments were served to friends and neighbors in the basement of the church. Missionary W. C. Voth and family were present for the occasion. Rev. Voth is giving catechetical instruction. Church attendance was good during the last year.—F. D. Goossen, Corr.

—Correspondents note: Keep as one whole sheet the "Correspondent's Report Form" which has been sent to you for use. It should not be cut on the dotted line.

—Zion Church, Souderton, Pa., A new Sound Victor 16mm motion picture projector was presented to the church by one of our Men's Classes on Sunday, January 26. At the morning service the pastor preached on the misuse of the motion picture, and at the evening service he spoke on "The Answer to the Movie Problem." At the latter service the projector was dedicated and used for the first time when the film, "Go Forth," a missionary film was shown.

TWENTY-SIX HANDS IN THE SOUP!

"Too many cooks in the broth spoil the soup," so the saying goes. That must be it!

And you may have wondered why it is sometimes that mistakes occur in names or addresses on your MENNONITE. So we counted the number of hands which handle your subscription before it finally "gets settled" in the mailing list. Here's what we found:

Your local postmaster	2 hands
Mail clerk on train	2 hands
Newton post office	2 hands
Newton mail carrier	2 hands
Manager, Publication Office	2 hands
Assistant, Publication	2 hands
Assistant to the Assistant	2 hands
Mailing Bureau, Manager	2 hands
File sorting clerk	2 hands
Embossing clerk	2 hands
Proofreader	2 hands
File Clerk files the plate	2 hands
Then, to file your letter	2 hands

"One hand while your're learning" may be good advice, but to get it RIGHT takes many hands—and many minds, and many hearts, any one of which MIGHT make a mistake! Perhaps the writer of the Psalms knew what he was talking about when he pleaded, "Lord, bless Thou the work of our hands."

The Mennonite

Volume 62 —— February 11, 1947 —— Number 6

Thy Word Is a Lamp

There are many kinds of lamps for many different uses and in many different places to give light. God's Word is the spiritual lamp to give us light for every circumstance of life.

As a Beacon Lamp

The Word guides to safety, warns of dangers and temptations and gives a continuous light through storm or calm.

As a Hurricane Lamp

It is never blown out nor goes out though beset by the storms of opposition, skepticisms, doubt and persecution.

As a Signal Lamp

The Word gives the go sign (green light) of encouragement to walk the Christian way of life—the go sign to travel with Christ, "go ye into all the world and preach the gospel . . . . and lo I am with you." The warning sign of caution, danger ahead. And sometimes the red sign of stop, halt, wait upon th Lord.

As an Invalid's Lamp

That lightens the wee hours of the night so God's Word gives cheer to the weary—a mellow light that eases and gives grace for the pain.

As a Study Lamp

God's Word is wisdom and truth to lighten the way of life and to prepare for the problems and opportunities of life.

As a Pilgrim's Lamp

How needful it is for the rough and rocky road and as a guide for life's unknown course.

As a Sparkling Chandelier

It reveals hundreds of sparkling rays of beauty, gleaming like radiant gems, God's Word reveals the beauty of holiness, the brightness of rejoicing, the purity of love, the sparkle of praise and the glow of prayer.

As a Miner's Lamp

The Word goes down deep into the darkness of sin and reclaims the sinner that he might be put on fire for God.

As an X-ray Lamp

It exposes the sore spots of sin and sham in the Church and in the lives of the Believers, and reveals the secret hidden things.

As a Health Lamp

The Word brings healing to the sin-sick soul—warmth to the discouraged—and destroys the germs of doubt and fear.

As a Flood Lamp

It reveals the course of man from the beginning to the end in the Arena of the Ages.

—Mrs. Olin Krehbiel

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

GOD AND MAMMON can not both be served. Perhaps, this point by Jesus can be applied to the relationship which the Church should have to the economic situation of today. It is noteworthy to observe with what feeling church members will talk about economic matters and also to observe how little they relate the Church to economic affairs about which they are making up their minds and feeling continously. Doesn't Jesus suggest that a follower of His can not expect to divide the economic from the "spiritual" and that God must be the acknowleged ruler over all? Therefore, it is very encouraging that a National Conference on the Church and Economic Life will convene in Pittsburg, Pa., February 18-20. This will be "the first national church study conference on economic issues ever to be held in this country." It will be made up predominantly of representatives from agriculture, labor, management and the general public. The Call to the conference contains these significant statements: "The individual Christian today is inextricably involved in the clash over proposed solutions and the conflict of seemingly divergent interests. As citizen, producer and consumer he has to make decisions that are essentially moral and religious. As a member of a Christian church he has the responsibility to make these decisions in accordance with Christian principles . . . . What are the most significant issues within economic life about which the Church should be concerned? What is the contribution which Protestant churches can best make toward resolving these issues on Christian principles? What program should the churches undertake to assure such a contribution?" What happens to the economic life of our nation shows up in that of the other nations. As a result it helps to determine the amount of suffering, confusion, and hatred that the world will see in the years to come. To scold about wheat prices or strikes and then to insist that the Church must not have anything to do with economics is to forget that one cannot serve both God and Mammon. God must rule if man is to have life abundant physically and spiritually.

LOVE your children! This insight pronounced by some wide-awake school teachers may seem unnecessary, but it isn't. For there is often much less parental love for children than supposed. There is a possessive attitude towards them. Children are not respected as though they were people. Their fellowship during leisure time is not particularly coveted or for very long periods. They are frequently corrected so incessantly that they hardly have any consciousness of being liked for what they are. And so one could continue. No wonder that a teacher, who made a survey of sixth grade boys in a city of about eleven thousand, found that what the boys most wanted in the evening was some time with their fathers, time which was not begrudged them but used by the fathers as a precious opportunity to be with their sons. Children, as all people, are hungry for affection and security. Now the whole problem would be simple if parents could just snap their fingers of will power and love right off. But human emotions don't work like that. To tell parents to love their children is not enough. They must be enabled to love them. Frequently parents are short on love towards their children because their parents in turn were short on love towards them, and so on back to the various generations. A parent who is in such emotional turmoil that he or she is irritable with the children and thoughtless needs not to be condemned but understood. Such a parent is often emotionally sick. While young he probably was exposed to so much emotional sickness that he caught the disease, and the bacteria of egocentricity are still in him. Such a parent has simply been handicapped. Undoubtedly, no more shame should attach to his case of the parent who has been physically handicapped by some disease in childhood. Parents more wholesome emotionally should know that but for the grace of God they might find themselves in a similar condition. The problem is one of helping parents to love. This means a deep-going emotional change. Right here the Church has

(Continued on page 8)

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST. in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22. 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance. $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Christian Responsibility

by Erwin C. Goering

Out of the Reformation struggles, conflict and persecution came the Anabaptist movement. The adherents to the movement believed strongly in (1) baptism upon confession of faith, (2) non-swearing of the oath, (3) the Bible as an open book to all and the only guide of faith and practice, particularly the New Testament, (4) separation of church and state, (5) church discipline, (6) the church as an independent voluntary group of believers banded together for the purpose of worship, and (7) non-participation in war. The Christian cannot take up the sword, as love must be the ruling force in all relations. To take the life of another is always wrong. This has come to be known as the doctrine of non-resistance. The Mennonites have traditionally adhered to this doctrine.

The aim of this early group was a "pure" church, not necessarily composed of sinless men and women, but rather sin-conscious adult men and women, men and women who knew right from wrong, and who of their own volition as a result of a deep seated religious conviction had formed themselves into a voluntary band of worshippers. They sought to become a regenerate church of members who courageously lived what they believed, who believed that the Jesus way of life as revealed in the New Testament was THE WAY. They believed that at any cost the individual must follow the Biblical injunctions without regard to counter commands from outside forces—political, social, or otherwise. This positive loyalty and strict adherence to scriptural teachings brought these Christians into frequent conflicts with the political authorities and their decrees. Their insistance upon "We must obey God rather than man" brought various degrees of persecution upon them, much of which were extremely violent.

Not only the political government, but also much of the church at large of that day entered into active persecution of this so-called "heresy." But as persecution grew in severity the doctrines of THE WAY spread from one locality to the other, from village to hamlet, and from country to country.

To these Anabaptist Christians the Sermon on the Mount was their religious and social program. They accepted baptism upon confession of faith and from the time of conversion sought to live, as best they knew, a life consecrated to the highest cause they knew—Christ Jesus, Jesus taught meekness, compassion, purity; He taught His followers to let their light shine; He encouraged His disciples to become the salt of the earth. Jesus is The Light and to His disciples said and says to-day, "You are the light of the world." (Weymouth) "Just so let your light shine before all men . . . ." Jesus said "love your enemies, pray for your persecutors; that you may become sons of your Father in heaven."

In this generation the Christ again calls for consecrated men and women to heed His call. The qualifications are nothing less than complete obedience to Him and a willingness to follow wherever He leads and bids us to go. Mennonite youth has a unique opportunity to bring spiritual as well as material sustenance to a bleeding world. The cry is for loving help, given in the name and spirit of Him who was given as a sacrifice for us all. But how can one minister in His name if within the heart remains one compartment in which is reserved the right to hate, to retain any prejudice. When Jesus said "Ye must be born again," He undoubtedly meant a total spiritual rebirth. It is hardly conceivable that in such a rebirth there is room for a double standard. The love of Christ must constrain us to serve Him by not only telling the gospel but also by living it, suffering for it, and if necessary dying for it. Jesus said "For whoever would save his life will lose it; and whoever loses his life for my sake and the Gospel's will save it." (Revised Standard Version) The true non-resistant Christian is willing to give his life in full dedication to his Lord and Master in whatever service He sees fit. He need not seek to justify war. The purpose and spirit of war are not compatible with Christ's Gospel. The Christian's life must be so effective a sermon to all about him that when he speaks by word of mouth such speaking simply reiterates what already has been lived. The love of Christ constrains the true believer to live a life of love in his every walk. The mission fields are ripe for harvest. The relief needs continue to be great. The Christian ministry needs qualified, dedicated consecrated workers. Mankind hungers for love.

Christ's Gospel of love will bring peace to the hearts of men who accept Him. We must be bearers of that Gospel and witness.

Erwin C. Goering, who is Assistant in Public Relations for Bethel College, formerly served under the M.C.C., first as director of a C. P. S. camp. later as regional director, and last as director of all Mennonite C.P.S camps.

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

By Cornelius Krahn

Will More Mennonites Go to Mexico? A special commission of the Mennonite Central Committee has investigated possibilities of settling European Mennonite refugees in Mexico. P. C. Hiebert and William T. Snyder found the conditions favorable and were granted assurance by President Miguel Aleman that Mennonite settlers would be welcome.

It is generally known that a large Mennonite settlement has been located in Mexico since 1922, predominantly Old Colony Mennonites from Canada. Smaller groups consist of recent immigrants from Russia, Pennsylvania, and Kansas (Church of God in Christ, Holdeman). The total number of Mennonites in Mexico now exceeds twelve thousand.

A Mennonite from Berlin writes that living on 1350-1650 calories a day is impossible without a considerable loss of weight. A working person gets a half a pound of bread a day while those at home get only a little over a half that amount. In addition to this each person receives less than one-half pound of potatoes a day. Meat butter, fats, milk and sugar are received in such small quantities that they hardly deserve consideration.

Butter and fat are being sold on the black market for 350-400 RM. per pound. (Before the war 1 R.M. equaled 25 cents.) A pound of coffee sells for 600-700 RM., and a man's suit for 3000-5000 RM. No wonder that people lose weight.

Mennonite Church Architecture? Recently a Dutch Mennonite paper carried an article in which the need for unified action in matters pertaining to church architecture was emphasized. Would such a suggestion also be in place among Mennonites of America?

For centuries the Mennonites were happy when they were permitted to meet unmolested, without a thought of erecting elaborate edifices. They met in private homes or in obscure buildings which resembled dwelling places in appearance. Therefore they did not worship in large buildings on public squares to which everyone was summoned by the sight of the tower or the sound of the bell. For these and some reasons of principle they developed a very plain structural design which can be traced in a great number of older Mennonite churches in Holland, Prussia and America even today. The Pennsylvania Mennonite church pattern has been most consistently preserved among the more conservative Mennonite groups in the eastern states. The most outstanding characteristic of the more progressive Mennonite churches throughout the United States is that they follow no specific unified pattern. Furthermore in many cases a very little reflection and observation reveal that some characteristics are in definite contradiction to some Mennonite traditions and principles. Why, for example, should the tower of a Mennonite church be the replica of a fortress. And why should windows be smeared with a little paint? Why should we need a crucifix if we worship God in "spirit and in truth"? Why should we move the pulpit to the side as if we were inviting the Catholic magic of the altar and the bloodless repetition of the sacrific of the Lord in the Mass? Perhaps it would be in place to consider these and some other questions in an attempt to develop an architectural design for new churches that will be more fully in harmony with our beliefs and practices. We need not remain as "plain" as our forefathers nor should we accept other extremes that are in contradiction to our beliefs.

Dutch Mennonites Appoint a Committee of Foreign Relations. A statement has been received by various representatives of the Mennonites of America to the effect that the Alegmeene Doopsgezinde Societeit (General Conference of the Mennonites of Holland) has appointed a committee that is to deal with the Mennonite Central Committee and the various conferences of America and Canada. The president of this committee is Dr. H. Craandijk, Singel 452, Amsterdam C, to whom all correspondence should be directed.

Children's Projects

The proposal for a quarterly news-sheet to disseminate information and promote interest among boys and girls in supporting relief was approved by the Executive Committee of M.C.C. on November 1, 1946. The name of the new mimeographed quarterly is A Letter to Boys and Girls The paper is available to church and Sunday school groups.

The purpose of "Children's Projects" is to provide information and consistent channels for children, individuals or groups, to contribute to the foreign relief and service program.

To have faith that something constructive can be done about a problem is a very substantial basis for the hope that adds joy and courage to life. The Christian attitude is not one of negativism or hopelessness. Significantly we speak of The Way. For the Christian there is a way of dealing constructively with every problem, for in Christ he has The Way that overcomes all the problems in this world. With His Spirit in our hearts and minds we are more than conquerors. The Christian has the high faith that this universe is orderly and therefore makes sense to the mind of man if he gets to know it sufficiently well enough. As parents teach children to face problems and to think about them in order to find the solution that is there, they are giving them a very hopeful attitude towards life.

Impatience seems to beset us so easily when we neglect to feel with others. As long as we are sensitive to the feelings of others, as long as we "feel with them," as long as we try hard to make life come out right for them, we are not much tempted to impatience. But when we become wrapped up in ourselves, in our own interests and disappointments and difficulties, then it is that we fail to feel with others and fail to give them that intelligent understanding that helps to clear away the haze of emotional and mental frustration. Patience is a product of love, a love based upon a rather thorough resolution of one's own problems.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. MARTHA MARY KREHBIEL GOERZ

Martha Mary Krehbiel Goerz, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Christian Krehbiel, was born April 18, 1876, at Summerfield, Illinois. She grew up on a farm adjoing Halstead, Kansas, where the parents had moved and established the family homestead in 1879. Her education was received in the public school and the Mennonite Preparatory School at Halstead and at the State Teachers' College at Emporia.

She was baptized June 22, 1890, by her father, and became a member of the First Mennonite Church at Halstead.

During her early years she assisted with the Indian School that was conducted on the parental farm and later was of special assistance to her mother in the work of the Orphans' Home which developed after the Indian School was discontinued.

Her marriage to Rudolph A. Goerz occurred December 30, 1900, the couple establishing their home in Newton where they lived the rest of their lives. They became active and faithful members of the Bethel College Church. After many years in business, her husband preceded her in death July 10, 1945. During his long illness, she gave herself with unselfish devotion to the care of her husband and the needs of the home.

Her passing away Wednesday afternoon, January 29, after a severe heart attack in the early morning, was sudden and unexpected for up to that time she had been active and enjoyed reasonable health. She leaves to mourn her departure: a son, Harold Goerz, and his wife Maybelle and their daughter Guinevere, of Moundridge; a daughter, Frances, and her husband Elmer Garrison, and their daughter, Martha Lou, of Wichita; one sister, Mrs. Katherine A. Ewert of Madison, Connecticut; four brothers, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel of Newton, Edward B. Krehbiel of New York City, Paul and Lucas Krehbiel of Halstead; and a host of friends in the church and community. Five older brothers and one sister preceded her in death, her brother Bernard having passed away only a little over a month ago. That she was fully prepared and reconciled to leaving this world is revealed in a few brief phrases she penned on a scrap of paper in the early morning before going to the hospital, as follows:

I turn to the Spirit within Restored in Faith
Established in Peace

Her life was characterized by a deep devotion to Christ and the Church. Always interested in the missionary work of the church, she kept records of individual missionaries and their families on the various fields, abroad and at home. For a number of years she edited the "Missionary News and Notes," the publication of the Women's Missionary Society which she helped establish. Her numerous activities included work for relief, for the Bethel Deaconess Hospital and Home for the Aged, and for Bethel College and the Bethel College Church.

She did what she could and bore her trials and troubles with Christian patience and fortitude, strong in the assurance that "When He leads through some valley of trouble,

His omnipotent hand we trace,
For the trials and sorrows He sends us,
Are part of our lessons in grace."

NOTES FROM HOME MISSION FIELDS

by A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary, Quakertown, Pa.

Albert Claassens To Serve in Toronto

On January 29 word came that Rev. and Mrs. H. Albert Claassen had arrived in Toronto, Ontario. They will take up the leadership of the United Mennonite Church of Toronto, located at 140 Victor Avenue, Toronto 6, Ontario. Needless to say that the members of the Mission Church are praising God for the new shepherd who will direct the work under the guidance of the Great Shepherd, the Lord Jesus Christ. We solicit the prayers of those interested in the work and workers in Toronto. Rev. and Mrs. Arnold A. Fast left the field at the end of May. Rev. Fast is now attending college.

To Entertain Seminary Students

Rev. A. H. Leaman has announced that on Thursday evening, February 6, the First Mennonite Church, 73rd and Laflin Streets, Chicago, will entertain with a dinner the students of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary. This is indeed a very fine gesture of goodwill, and it will also form a bond of closer fellowship between the church members and the Seminary and students. In the past months some of the seminary students helped occasionally in the First Church and also in the Happy Hour Mission School.

Your Prayers Desired

Rev. V. E. Nickel, Wymark, Saskatchewan, reports that Mrs. Nickel has been in the hospital, but is at home at present. She is to have a major operation as soon as she is strong enough. The fact that Rev. Nickel teaches in the Swift Current Bible School this winter makes it necessary for his wife to be at home alone much of the time. Your prayers will be greatly appreciated.

Annual Board Meeting

The Lord willing, the Board of Home Missions is planning on having a meeting at the time all the other General Conference Boards have their meeting in Newton, Kansas, February 11-13. The many problems that are before the Board cause every member to seek help and guidance from the Lord so that they might be solved in accordance with His will. Your intercession will be greatly appreciated.

"Those interested in character education of young people are now well agreed that one should be positive rather than negative in approach. In other words, it is a far better policy to have sufficient wholesome entertainment for young people, than to constantly be telling them what they should not do in the way of recreation."—The Bluffton College Bulletin

My Last Letter from Missionary Petter

You will be interested to read the last letter which missionary Petter wrote to me. I take the liberty to publish it, because it contains some very encouraging news from Montana. It also contains such comforting words that I was very glad to receive it. Especially is this true of the scripture passage which he refers to. Since he did not forget me in 1946 before the throne of God, I am wondering if he can remember me now. I believe he can, and that is a comfort to me. We know from the Book of Revelation that the departed souls can still pray. It is often asked whether the departed souls know anything about our condition here on earth. I think they do. The Bible gives us reasons to think that. But the best comfort is Hebrew 7:25, which says concerning Christ, "He ever liveth to make intercession for them."

I take this opportunity to thank my many friends for the many fine Christmas greetings which they sent me. I wish them also a blessed new year.

P. H. Richert

Rev. P. H. Richert
Goessel, Kansas

Dear Brother Richert:

This year of 1946 shall not end before I write to you, assuring you that in the flight of time and delaying circumstances I have not forgotten you before the Throne of God.

It has pleased Him to call you aside of your great activity for the sake of His Kingdom to undergo a severe test of passivity and physical suffering, yet you know that He cares for you and can alone comfort and support you. May His presence be at your bedside day after day in this new year, helping you to bear your cross and realize what II Cor. 4:16-18 says.

He leads me too aside into passive service, now being soon eighty-two years old with a physical heart that no longer functions right and forces me to put on the "brake" to all undue motions and exertions. There is hardly hope for betterment, but my condition is easier to bear than yours, and I thank God for the advantages I can still enjoy.

The mission work here received an uplift in 1946 by the baptism of thirteen younger Indians and better attendance to church services. Mrs. Petter has shouldered the work here with the help of Indian Christians. Of recent date, the Busby mission workers have had religious meetings one day weekly for the school children in Lame Deer and Birney. When we need help for a Sunday service, Brother Habegger comes readily. They can do so now that the Wengers are in Busby and there are four mission workers there. No doubt there will be a change made, whether Wengers are stationed in Busby or somewheres else, when Habeggers shall succeed me in Lame Deer. Plans for Ashland are not definite, likely not until the next Board session.

Milton Whiteman is encouraged in his Birney work. As for Frank Littlewolf, he is not in good health and has been staying in Miles City, because of his young daughter who works in a laundry there. They came for the Christmas season, and he helped in the services here.

As for the building plans here, they cannot be carried out until government restrictions are lifted, and that may take another year or more.

The mail is soon to leave, so I close my letter with Hearty greetings and prayer that God's sustaining grace guide and keep you.

Rodolphe Petter

ON STEWARDSHIP

"But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judaea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth," Acts 1:8.

A parting farewell from the ones he loves best,
And now all dear Christians let's give it a test;
Witness both in Jerusalem at home as you see,
Judaea, Samaria and over the sea.
That's why we need money to do his last will
The quiet inner voice, Oh it is not still.
If we have received this power from on high
We will truly proclaim his great love till we die
But how can we prove this great love in our heart
If we do not willingly do our small part
And send in our offering to the M. C. C.
To help relieve the suffering across the blue sea?

—O. L. S.

"Fifteen years ago I heard Bro. Bonsack say that the book of greatest importance next to the Bible is the pocketbook. Perhaps one of the best ways to get insight into our scale of values would be to review a record of the use we made of our money during the past twelve months. We use money for the things we think most valuable.

"We have just closed the financial enlistment campaign in our church. It was my privilege to work close to this program and to serve on one of the teams that called on the membership.

"It occurs to me to share several observations: (1) Many people are senstive about their giving. Usually those who give less than they feel they should are the most senstive. (2) People give because of generous hearts rather than because of generous bank accounts. (3) The people with the deepest religious experience tend to give larger proportions of their incomes. (4) When viewed in the light of needs and the amount of money spent on material goods, few people give as generously as the Christian spirit demands. Some people spend more annually for Christmas presents, movies, tobacco, etc., than they contribute to benevolences. (5) The church must devise new ways to reach the layman in terms of his Christian Stewardship."

—Raymond A. Peters in "The Gospel Messenger"

College and Seminary News

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

The Academy Seniors are working on several projects in their Mennonite History course. Some are making a special study of proposed conscription acts, others are working out a history of their own congregations, while still others are making a study of different types of church architecture and are collecting pictures of Mennonite churches. Dr. P. C. Hiebert, Chairman of the Mennonite Central Committee, was the special speaker for our annual Bible Week services this past week. As has been customary for speakers in previous years, Dr. Hiebert spoke to the student body each morning during the regular chapel period, and also each afternoon. His morning services dealt largely with the work of the M.C.C. in connection with relief projects and with C.P.S., while the afternoon meetings were more of a devotional nature. Shortly after leaving here, Dr. Hiebert plans to fly to South America in the interest of M.C.C. Refugee Resettlement Work. President Unruh spent the last week visiting churches in the nearby communities in the interest of Freeman Junior College. As a special treat at their last monthly meeting the faculty enjoyed a roast turkey dinner in the Foods Room. The turkey was a gift of Delmer Miller, a member of the Foods Class, who donated it for this purpose and try out the new Westinghouse roaster recently added to the Foods Room equipment.

BETHEL COLLEGE

About sixty members of the History of Civilization classes spent February 1 in the Nelson Gallery of Art and Atkins Museum in Kansas City, with thirty others scheduled to go on February 15. The class in social case work recently spent a day in Topeka, studying social porgrams of various Kansas institutions. Dr. A. J. Regier was chairman, for the fourth consecutive year, at the highly successful meeting of the Kansas Directors of Teacher Placement, held in Wichita last weekend in connection with the Kansas Council of Administration. Lois Jean Riesen, (Hillsboro), flutist, gave the first Senior recital of the year on February 3. Included in her program was a very fine rendition of Mozart's "Concert in D. Major," accompanied by the College Orchestra. The names of eleven Bethel students have been chosen to appear in the 1946-47 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

The second semester opened January 27 with an enrollment of 267 students of college rank. Twenty-two of these were new this semester. Five faculty members attended the Pastors Convention in Columbus January 29. One of the high lights of the day's program was an address by Pastor Martin Niemoeller. On Monday evening, February 3, faculty members were hosts to the students in a reception held in the Musselman Library. An intensive drive for funds for the proposed Auditorium-Physical Education building will be launched in the Pandora-Bluffton area February 11. The local campaign will continue for two weeks, during which time every home in the area is to be called upon so that everyone will be presented with the opportunity to give. Team of solicitors have been organized for this purpose. The fund now exceeds $45,000, of which more than $37,000 is in cash. The Wilberforce Singers will give a sacred concert on the afternoon of February 16 as a Vesper Program. Wilberforce is a negro university. The third number on the College Concert Series will be a concert by the Oberlin Conservatory Woodwind Ensemble Friday evening, February 21.

MENNONITE SEMINARY

Vesper services were held at the Mennonite Seminary, Sunday afternoon, February 2 at 3:00 o'clock. Participating in the service were the seminary choir and quartet. Dr. S. F. Pannebecker led in the service and Dr. A. Warkentin spoke. Rev. Marvin Dirks directed the music and offered special music by singing a solo. Dr. Warkentin preached on "Christ of the Church in the Apocalyptic Vision of John."

This is the first of a Vesper Service series planned to be held bi-monthly. The services are held from three to four o'clock in the afternoon. They are planned as an opportunity for fellowship and worship together for Mennonites in the city.

The next meeting is scheduled to be held on February 23. At each service well-known leaders in the different branches of the church will participate. Any who are in or near the city are welcome to participate in the services. They can be placed on the mailing list by writing to the Seminary, 4614 Woodlawn Avenue, Chicago 15, Ill.

STRENGTHENING HOME LIFE

Good family-relationships are fundamental to a strong nation. For this reason, no one should attempt to raise a family without giving serious study to the subject. Books on homemaking and child development can be obtained from any good library. Husbands and wives, parents and children have a personal and also a far-reaching responsibility one to the other. The bases on which these responsibilities rest and the best ways of carrying them out require reading, careful thought, and day-by-day watchfulness. Family life will be strengthened according to the proportion that the members take an intelligent interest in understanding and benefiting one another.—National Kindergarten Association.

YOU'LL NEVER MISS IT!

What?

That penny which you give the postmaster just before you move, to get a "Change of Address Card," Form 22-B, to notify us of your change of address BEFORE you move to another location.

BUT YOU WILL MISS one or more issues of the MENNONITE if you don't—and that's SOMETHING. Get Form 22-B, so your MENNONITE will get to your door regularly; that way

YOU'LL NEVER MISS IT!

SUFFERING

When man sinned, he made himself subject to suffering and death, and all subsequent history has been one of sin, suffering and death.

Many have suffered as a direct result of their own sins and the words of Jesus ring out "Sin no more, lest a worse thing befall thee."

Another group suffers because of the sins of other people. God warned Israel that he would "visit the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me."

A third group suffers of whom Jesus says, "Neither did this man sin, nor his parents; but that the works of God should be made manifest in him."

All suffering is a challenge to the individual that the works of God might be manifested thereby. When the words of the Lord, "My grace is sufficient for thee," help the suffering child of God to surrender to His will, then joy, peace and rest will radiate from the face. When the Spirit of the Lord succeeds in making a serving child out of a suffering child, out of a handicapped child, then the world marvels. Sympathy, kindness and love will radiate from the face. Suffering has become the background for a beautiful life as the clouds form the background for the beautiful rainbow.

Submission

My Jesus, as thou wilt:
Oh may thy will be mine;
Into thy hand of love
I would my all resign:
Thru sorrow or thru joy,
Conduct me as thine own,
And help me still to say—
My Lord, thy will be done.

My Jesus, as thou wilt
All shall be well for me;
Each changing future scene
I gladly trust with thee;
Straight to my home above
I travel calmly on,
And sing in life or death,—
My Lord, thy will be done.

A Prayer for a Sick Person

O Thou one true God, creator and giver of life; by this sickness Thou doest remind me of my mortal state. My days are in they hands.

In the Name of Jesus Christ I come to Thee asking for forgiveness for all my sins. "For all men have sinned and come short of the Glory of God." Blot out my sins in the name of Christ and by His blood and give me the peace of God in my soul. Then I may rest in the confidence that He knoweth and doeth all things well.

Bless the work of the doctors and friends who minister to me and give Thou the healing power; for in Thee alone is this power.

Thy way, not mine, O Lord,
However dark it be;
Lead me by thine own hand;
Choose out the path for me.
I dare not choose my lot;
I would not if I might;
Choose thou for me my God,
So shall I walk aright.

Amen.

NOTE: The above material constitutes the contents of a little tract on "Suffering," which has been prepared by the Evangelism Committee of our Conference and is now ready for distribution. Orders may be sent to Rev. Jacob J. Enz, Nappanee, Indiana. Rev. Enz is in charge of tract distribution. The tract just referred to may be had with any one of five beautiful religious masterpieces on it. These masterpieces are in color and are excellently done. Perhaps, some people will want to use them in place of "illness" or "get well" cards.

From the Editor's Point-of-view

(Conainued from page 2)

a tremendous responsibilty. There are Christians who have insight into the dynamics of this emotional problem, and they through their counsel can do much. Others, handicapped by their own advantages or lack of training along this particular line, may make very worthwhile contributions in other fields rather than in the one we are considering. The point is that in the Church of today there is urgent need for those who have insight into the dynamics of an emotional situation such as the one we are discussing. Undoubtedly, the tie between a good many parents and children is about what could be wished for. However, even with these and more so with those not quite as wholesome, there is room for improvement. Then there are those so torn in the turmoil of life that they need thoroughgoing help if they are to love their children in such a way as not to be a stumblingblock to them. Here is an area that the Church can well afford to explore systematically and patiently. It is so easy to argue that there is no problem here. If that is true, then the school teachers are wrong. General frankness would undoubtedly prove them right.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21. Ill.

Summer Voluntary Service Prospects for 1947

In previous issues have been articles on the beginning of the Voluntary Services Program under the Mennonite Central Committee and an explanation of summer service as special "handles" for the church and the young people in particular. Although it is too early to give details, below is the general outline of possibilities of joint Mennonite and Brethren in Christ projects for this coming summer. Announcements of some individual conferences sponsoring such will likely be forthcoming from the sponsoring groups.

1. The largest portion of last summer's workers served in mental hospitals. This has proved to be a worthy channel because of the need behind closed doors. There is suffering—mental physical and spiritual. To these, young Christians can minister. At the same time it enables them to better understand all people. It is hoped that there will be at least one mental hospital unit east of the Mississippi and another west.

2. Mentally deficient institutions will likely be a new field for summer service units in 1947. These "children" (who may actually be older than the attendants) respond to love, little tokens of understanding and kindness. General practices in some of these institutions are a real challenge to these who hold that "love never faileth", who believe in helping patients rather than merely having "order."

3. Gulfport, Mississippi, which still has a few CPS men as well as an increasing number of Voluntary Service workers will again have a summer group of five to ten. They will live and work with the unit dovetailing their efforts closely with the religious, recreational and public health work of the year around group. The unit then will have the advantage of working with year around workers of the various fields.

4. Mississippi may also have a Christian Caravan—a team of about four young people and a leader who would have headquarters at Gulfport, but would travel giving programs, help with Bible schools and possibly undertake some repair work with youth in the local non-Mennonite communities. The latter would be a new type of service, would require youth with lots of initiative and ability to overcome difficulties to chart their own path.

5. Although plans have not been completed as to specific places, there will likely be teams taking part in various parts of relief and material aid program—clothing, canning and office work at Akron, Pennsylvanai. With the decrease of CPS men available young people can render a vital service in this "link" of our total relief effort in the name of Christ.

Other explorations are being made also—such as working in a summer camp for the blind. The above outline of five different types of projects is our goal, but changes may be necessary. We welcome reactions, suggestions for further consideration and your prayers that we may see the leading of the Holy Spirit in this phase of our total Mennonite and Brethren in Christ program.

Groups interested in program materials covering last summer's experiences should write to Voluntary Services, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pensylania.

Via M. C. C. Headquarters

Suggestions for Visiting the Sick

Visiting the sick is an art which one cultivates. Not all visiting the sick is a happy experience for those who are sick. Special consideration and care is needed because the experience of being sick tends to upset the disposition of a normally calm person. Because of the need for special care, some gentle reminders have been suggested which are worthy of consideration:

1. Go to see the sick with only kindness and sympathy in your heart not because of curiosity or morbid curiosity.

2. Be brief. Frequent but brief visits are far better than long drawn out visits ending with the visitor dilly-dallying at the door.

3. Check up on your mood before you go. Be cheerful and if your mood is not one of cheer, don't go.

4. Dress attractively. By wearing cheery colors, a cheery mood can be conveyed. Men should dress in good taste.

5. Sending of gifts and bringing gifts does a great deal for the sick person. A little present is a tangible expression of your thoughtfulness and your spirit.

6. Be guarded with your conversation. There are subjects to avoid. Such as: (a) illness similar to the sickness of the person visited, (b) deaths, accidents, or diseases of any kind, (c) the feeling of the sick person, the traditional "How are you?" is not in good taste, (d) religious subjects should be discussed with care. If the sick person brings them up, one should be free to discuss. By living his religion in love, and concern, and understanding, the visitor is performing a most valuable service. Be sensitive to the needs and desires of the patient.

Effective and beneficial visiting of the sick is most commendable. Individuals and groups making such visits can make their visits of greater service and help by being senstive to the feelings and needs of the sick person. (Suggestions from Better Homes and Gardens)

From the Children of America to Our Friends Overseas

by Mary S. Lehman

Little drops of water,
Little grains of sand,
Make the mighty ocean
And the pleasant land.

Little deeds of kindness,
Little words of love,
Make this earth an Eden
Like the Heaven above.

Perhaps you have sung this song many times and didn't realize all that it meant. Each little drop of waters helps to make the big ocean, and each little act of kindness and word of love helps to make someone happy.

Children overseas need so many things that we in America take for granted. Above all they need our friendship. The most important thing you and I can do in this world today is to be friendly. To be friendly we have to show friendliness, and to show friendliness to children overseas is to share what we have with these children all over the world.

When we know that other children are happy we also are very happy. You will be glad to hear that some food and other supplies reached children very much like you in France, Germany, Holland, and other countries. These children are so thankful that they wrote to the MCC to say thank you to the Mennonites in United States and Canada.

A booklet was received from a group of children in a school called "Kinderhort" in Germany. These children wrote their letters, poems, and stories in the German language. One 11-year-old child wrote a poem which translated into our language tells us about the things they do:

"We want to write and tell you
Of all the things we do each day.

We begin the day by standing up,
Opening our books and singing a happy song.
Then we pray that no harm will Come to us during the day.
If the room is not heated
We go to play some other place.
We are happy and contented while we play,
Until it is time for our meal.

We thank you for all the things you sent us
From which we make many good things to eat.
Soon we have eaten everything and everyone is satisfied.
Every day we are wondering what the next day will bring.

One day we all enjoyed pancakes—
This was something very special for us.
One day without suspecting it we were served waffles,
That was a day we still talk about.

Another day we were given stew which was thick and tasty,
It was just like being in Paradise.
Delicious white pretzels were also served to complete the meal.
Everyone had his share of food and was satisfied.
We will never forget all this.
The "Kinderhort"greets you heartily."

A letter was also received from a little French boy who was able to write in English. He wrote:

"Receive of a young French boy not only the gratitude of his stomach but also and specially the gratitude of his heart.

Sincerely yours,
Lucien Leschiera"

Many boys and girls in America think that there is nothing for them to do to help the children who were made hungry, cold, poor, and friendless by the war. Fathers and mothers plant corn, can food, sew clothing, make flour, and give money to help these needy people. There is something for boys and girls to do, too.

Perhaps you would like to know more about the Mennonite Central Committee and what it is doing for children. The MCC has just released the first of a series of letters to be published quarterly. This letter is called "A Letter to Boys and Girls," and it tells boys and girls about the MCC, about ways to help children overseas, and of letters which come from children in other countries

Here in America we have lovely schools where we can learn how to read, write, and spell. We can get from our stores all the pencils, tablets, books, crayons, and other things which we need.

In countries across the ocean the bombs of the war have torn down or burned many of the school buildings. The children still want to go to school and learn, so they have their school out of doors on stumps and rocks until it gets too cold. In these schools the children have nothing to use. They can not get pencils, paper, books, crayons, etc. People in these war-torn areas use every scrap of material they can find anywhere to help their children to learn.

Letters have been received from our relief workers in the various countries asking children in the United States and Canada to help children overseas go to school with school supplies.

From the Philippine Islands:

"We find serious needs in the school of the smaller towns. Many of these small towns have been looted and entirely burned during the invasion."

From France:

"Paper is very hard to get and very expensive so all the paper that comes would be greatly appreciated."

From Italy:

"The Waldensian people in Italy will appreciate our doing something of this sort very, very much."

From Paraguay:

"A distribution of school articles here would be greatly appreciated, especially in the Mennonite Colonies."

From Austria:

"Please don't forget the Vienna unit in your school supplies program."

From Germany:

"We are entirely responsible for the educational program of about 250 refugee children. The items beginning with pencils and ending with clay could all be used to good advantage here. We have no source here of obtaining the needed supplies."

From Holland:

"A considerable number of bags could be distributed to good use in the The Netherlands."

From Puerto Rico:

"Most of the supplies are available, but because individual poverty the people cannot meet some of their needs."

From China:

"We will be interested in what you can get for China and for the many children here who do not have the opportunities which all of us in America take for granted."

The Mennonite Central Committee is giving you an opportunity to share the many things you have and also to know more about other children around the world. Plans have been made for you to pack school bags with pencils, crayons, tablets, and other things children use in school. You will want to have complete directions about the school bag and those things to put in it. If you have not already received a folder telling all about the Overseas School Bag, write School Bag Project, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania. Boys and girls who live in Canada should write to School Bag Project, Mennonite Central Commitee, 223 King St. East, Kitchener, Ontario. Each person who sends a bag will need a descriptive folder for this folder contains also the PACKING LABEL which must be included in every bag.

In the Name of CHRIST

A sketch of the "Overseas School Bags."

We want to give these needy children also the best Gift of all—we want them to love and serve Jesus. So here at the MCC will be added to your school bag a Bible story book with large pictures of Bible children to color. These books are made so that they can be read by Chinese children, Italian children, French children, Dutch children, German children, children in Austria, Puerto Rico, the Philippine Islands, Ethiopia, and Paraguay. Before the bags are packed to be sent overseas, each one will be labeled as being given with love and kindness "In the Name of Christ."

All these School Bags must be sent in BEFORE MARCH 10, 1947; so do not wait too long to get yours ready.

Let us pretend that these school bags are the drops of water that make up the ocean. Many, many children should be able to go to school with the oceans of school bags which we can give to them.

—Mennonite Central Committee
Akron, Pa.

The Church Universal

Today there are in existence seven hundred international organizations. The United Nations is one which everyone hears and knows a lot about. But, there are many, many others which have been in existence for years. There are such service clubs as Rotary International, the Lions Club. There are lawyers, hairdressers, astronomers and beekeepers organizations all of which go beyond national boundries. Nationalistic boundries are being transcended simply because human desires, interests, and ideals are far greater than the confines of the state.

The one oldest inter-racial, international organization is the Christian Church. It has from the first gone beyond the confines of the local group simply because its message is universal. It is for all men whether he be Roman, Greek, Jew or German, Japanese, or American.

The profoundly disturbing factor is that all too often it has been unfaithful to its universal nature by the way it has in reality worked out. The outer structure cannot exist without an inner spiritual vibrancy that is so consumed by the love for God and man that the Church of Christ can in all honesty embrace in one brotherhood Lutheran, Methodist, Japanese, Indian conservative, liberal, German, Negro and even all the Mennonites!

By such a path of inner all-embracing God-given love, and by it only can the ranting differences which shake and tear, not exclusively the political world, but the Church and, more specifically, our own Church, be transcended. The outer structure stands when there is pulsating life inside — otherwise it collapses.

Items of Interest

A "Fellowship Institute" was held the last week of January at the Beatrice, Nebraska, Churches with Dr. R. C. Kauffman and Rev. D. C. Wedel as leaders. The week was spent discussing subjects of interest to the church group. Possible subjects were "Courtship and Marriage," "Missions and Relief," "Psychology and Religion," "The Psychology of Teaching," "How to Create a Desire to Read Good Literature," "Methods of Storytelling," "The Use of Visual Aids in Teaching." Inspirational messages were given and a banquet, also. This is a part of a community service program being rendered by Bethel College.

* * * *

Not only were heifers given for relief, but goats as well. The Rev. Vincent W. Bucher, Ozark missionary of the Evangelical and Reformed church, developed the program believing that in many areas goats are depended upon as a milk supply source. Recently 160 milk goats were shipped to southern Europe.

* * * *

The average life expectancy in India is twenty-seven years as over against sixty years in the U. S. Two-thirds of the Indian population is under thirty years of age. This fact alone is influential in the type of mission program that can be carried on.

* * * *

It is estimated that the gambling game in this country has netted more than $10,000,000,000 annually. This includes 'legal betting' at race tracks, the illegal 'bookie' business and the 'numbers' racket as well as the lesser gambling enterprises such as dog-track, football, basket-ball, baseball and hockey game betting. This figure is astounding when it is realized that the atomic bomb experiment cost two billions and when compared with other expenditures.

* * * *

"Over 200,000,000 people in India — more than one-and-a-half times the entire population of the United States — are either poorly or very badly nourished," says Dr. John H. Reiser, executive secretary of Agricultural Missions, Inc. Dr. Reisner left recently for India to study India's agricultural needs.

* * * *

School children of Darmstadt, Germany, made nearly five thousand toys which have been handed over to the American Military Government with the request that they be given to American children. This was an expression of gratitude on the part of these children who have received an extra warm meal daily from the American Quakers.

* * * *

Senator Arthur Capper, senior Senator from Kansas, plans to introduce a bill into the 80th Congress to ban alcoholic advertising from newspapers and magazines and over the radio. The bill is to deny the use of the mails to publications which contain alcoholic advertising. There are already over four thousand publications which refuse alcoholic advertising. Among these are the Saturday Evening Post, the Ladies Home Journal, the Country Gentleman, Look and many daily and weekly newspapers.

* * * *

A letter from an American soldier in Germany, Captain Dill, addressed to the M.C.C. Captain Dill, who worked with several hundred children, expressed his gratefulness to the M. C. C. for the gifts received for the children. He said further, "You are truly servants of God and you materially demonstrate my intention that when our blessed Lord said "Suffer little children to come unto me," He did not specify nationalities." All of the children were orphans through the ravages of war and innocent victims of circumstances.

* * * *

Contributions made by the American public to religion in 1945 passed the $1,000,000,000 mark for the first time, according to Religious News Service. This is one-third the nation's bill for tobacco and one-eighth the outlay for alcoholic beverage or .9 per cent of the money spent for consumer goods.

* * * *

Sixty thousand school children in Virginia are now enrolled in weekly religious education classes offered through the public schools, it was reported.

Senator Johnson on Conscription

Senator Johnson of Colorado, a member of the senate military affairs committee, in a letter to Dr. Karl Compton, chairman of the newly created civilian advisory commission on military training, termed peacetime military training a proposal to delegate the spiritual and moral training of American youths to the 'brass hats.' " He continued: "Such an un-American invocation would substitute sex training and guzzling for spiritual training, and moral stagnation for the development of a healthy, wholesome, self-reliant morale."

Expressing himself on Mr. Truman's statements that the military phase was incidental to what he had in mind and that the word "military" was to be left out, Mr. Johnson wrote: "Out of one side of our mouths we talk of world disarmament and out of the other we start a world armament race! Russia is not going to be deceived by our juvenile strategy in dropping the term 'military' from ' universal training.' Latin America will notice that we have substituted shotgun diplomacy for our vaunted good neighbor policy." —Gospel Messenger

RELIEF

Tractor Operators Training Unit

The following have been accepted for the first group of the Tractor Operators' Training Unit in Poland: Fred Swartzendruber, Hopedale, Illinois; Menno Fast, Newton, Kansas; Daniel Yutzy, Manson, Iowa; Gustav Boldt, Newton, Kansas; Arthur Franz, Fresno, Calif., Milo Albrecht, Morton, Illinois; Hiram Heatwold, Bridgewater, Virginia; Milton Thiessen, Dinuba, California; Dan H. Miller, Kalona, Iowa; Thomas Brown, Colborne, Ontario; David Swartzendruber, Tavistock, Ontario, and Abram H. Baer, Maugansville, Maryland. Prior to going to Poland, this group will take a week of training at Columbus, Ohio, under the direction of the J. I. Case and the John Deere Plow Company.

Relief Commissioner Returns

J. N. Byler, and Sister Byler returned on January 24 from the two-week commissioner trip to Puerto Rico. Brother Byler, who is Director of MCC Relief, reports that the Unit at La Plata is carrying on a very significant service to the people of the Island. The members of the Unit are deeply interested in their work. Several of them plan to return for a second term when their present one expires. This continuing nucleus of personnel gives stability and vitality to the program.

Relief Worker Departures, Arrivals and Changes

Viola Duerksen and Sarah Wiens arrived "well and happy" at Asuncion, Paraguay on January 27.

C. A. DeFehr and Sister DeFehr are leaving by airplane on February 1 from New York and are scheduled to arrive in Paraguay on February 3. Brother DeFehr will be engaged in the work of receiving the Mennonite refugees as they arrive in South America after their vogage from Europe.

A. E. Kreider is in Batavia, Java, to investigate the status of the former Mennonite mission in that area and to survey the needs existing among the people there in order to determine whether some type of relief program under the MCC might be feasible.

Few Releases from CPS

Since December 10 of last year, there have been only three men discharged from CPS, these being for reasons of dependency and educational provision. The term required before men can be released for length of service continues to be eighteen months. Since all men with twelve months of service were released in a special group on December 10, it follows that none of these now in camp will reach the eighteen month mark until June.

Strangely enough, three new men have entered MCC camps since December 10. In two of these cases. the introduction procedure was begun before the draft recess was declared. The other man was transferred from a government camp to the MCC Camp. This brings the number of men in MCC camps to the total of 146.

One-day Volunteer Unit

A group of fifteen volunteer workers from the Mt. Joy and Elizabethtown Mennonite churches and from the MCC Office met at the Silver Springs Food Warehouse on January 25, to pack food for overseas shipment. One carload of such food was also stenciled for shipment to Hungary. When the day of work was completed, a set of slides was shown by Paul Holdeman describing the MCC headquarters, and a talk was also given by William Snyder on the problems relating to the Mennonite refugees of Europe. This was the second time within the past few months that such a group has done this type of volunteer work at the Silver Springs Food Warehouse.

Peace Education Conference

Representatives of the Friends, Brethren, and Mennonites met at Akron, Pennsylvania, on January 28 and 29 for a conference on "Peace Education in the Local Churches." The home, the Sunday school and the church were considered to be the three areas most vital in promoting the peace doctrine among our own people. It was pointed out that as members of the Three Historic Peace Churches, we have a unique responsibility for giving a true and consistent testimony. The exchange of concerns and ideas was very challenging and stimulating.

Released via Mennonite Central Committee
January 31, 1947

Jottings

—First Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebraska: "The Young People's Fellowship" sponsored a series of educational and inspirational meetings from January 26-30. Rev. D. C. Wedel, and Dr. R. C. Kauffman were the speakers at these meetings. "A Fellowship Banquet" was held January 30, at 6:30 P. M. Dr. R. C. Kauffman was the speaker of the evening, and had chosen for his subject "How to Get and Stay Married."—Mrs. John J. Wiebe, Corr.

—Edwin Schrag writes from China, where he is doing relief work, that coal costs about $150 per ton in American money. The relief workers had a Christmas box. The price limit was five thousand dollars. The gifts actually cost about $1.50 in American money.

—Church correspondents: If your church has members doing relief work, you may be able to glean interesting items from their letters home and send them in as part of the jottings from your church.

—Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: On Wednesday evenings five different groups meet at the same time in different parts of the church for Bible study. Following this hour the Junior and Senior choirs rehearse. From January 19 to 23 Dr. J. C. Wenger, professor at Goshen Biblical Seminary, gave Bible lectures on the theme, "Christianity and Life." These lectures were sponsored by the Mountain Lake Bible School. January 26 Dr. P. C. Hiebert, President of the M.C.C., spoke of his work in Europe and of the transportation of the Mennonite refugees to Paraguay. Rev. Waltner left for Philadelphia on January 27. Rev. Jesse Toews of the American Sunday School

Union will bring the message on next Sunday morning.—Helen Penner, Corr.

—Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebraska: The Grace Children's Home of Henderson gave our C. E. a very interesting program Sunday January 26. Paul Barkman was in charge. Marie Fast is to be in our midst and speak to our congregation next Sunday, February 1. Dr. J. D. Unruh of Freeman, South Dakota, visited our community the past week in the interest of Freeman Junior College. Our Junior and Senior sewing societies will again meet for an all-day meeting to sew comforters for relief.—Mrs. Reuben H. Friesen, Corr.

—Deep Run (Pa.) Church: Henry Ediger, a CPS man and teacher of handicrafts, is instructing a group of young people in leathercraft. We had the pleasure of having Rev. and Mrs. Ernst Harder worship with us on Sunday. Rev. Harder told us of his work in Paraguay, South America. They expect to sail for Paraguay in the near future.—Mae Gross, Corr.

—First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: A special offering for the Mennonite refugees leaving Europe for South America was received in our church on January 26. This amounted to one thousand dollars.—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—Gospel Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: Since our church is without a minister, the different pastors of Mountain Lake have helped out with messages. Rev. H. H. Dick and Laverne Loewen, the latter a teacher in the Bible school, have brought messages, and Brother Loewen has also conducted midweek Bible class and prayer meetings—Helen Lohrenz, Corr.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Owen, missionaries for Ethiopia, brought us a program last night. Mrs. Owen played the vibra-harp. They will soon leave for Ethiopia. Harry Martens, formerly director of the M.C.C. relief and rehabilitation project in Puerto Rico, will show slides of the work on Friday evening, January 31, in the chapel of the Deaconess Hospital, Salem. The Dallas and Pratum churches are to join in this service. Harry Martens returned recently from Puerto Rico.—Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—Tabor Church, Newton, Kansas: At the annual church meeting it was voted to have Rev. H. B. Schmidt serve as pastor and elder for the next five years. Rev. P. H. Richert resigned since he is unable to work. He was made Elder Emeritus. Don E. Smuker was guest speaker December 29. January 12-14 Rev. Edmund Miller of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary, Chicago, visited most of our members to receive gifts for the Seminary. Arthur Voth, who has been working for the M.C.C. at Akron, Pa., was home for a visit recently. He is to sail for Europe as relief worker in the near future. Hartzel Schmidt, who went to Poland with a shipload of horses, returned safely. The young people had a social on January 19. They are to edit the Church News Letter this year. Prayer Week was observed on three evenings. Prof. Walter H. Hohmann and Prof. R. C. Kauffman were the speakers. The former spoke on "Hymnology" and the latter on relief work in India, "Education for Character," and "How To Keep Fit Mentally." Every Wednesday evening the young people meet for Bible class and choir practice. The Sunday School teachers meet for a discussion of the lesson. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Schmidt have had public sale and are leaving for Oregon. Mr. Schmidt is one of the deacons of our church.—Dan S. Thiesen, Corr.

—Waterloo-Kitchener United Mennonite Church: At the annual congregational meeting Rev. J. H. Janzen showed in his report that he had had a very busy year, having served locally and elsewhere over 180 times The treasurer's report showed receipts of over eight thousand dollars, a new record for the church. Of this amount over two thousand dollars was designated for European relief. The church's membership remained the same at 290. The Sunday School enrollment is seventy. This figure may seem low to our American friends, but it is explained by the fact that no adult Sunday School classes are held. The Bible class in which adults participate includes the ages of fifteen and over. During January the Sunday School sent six parcels of foodstuffs, valued at sixty dollars, to children in need in Europe. The young people's society had an active year and concluded with a balance of ninety dollars. It was decided by the society to start a building fund to raise money for the erection of a hall suitable for young people's activities.—H. P. Enns, Corr.

—Upper Milford, Zionsville: Our Sunday School President, Norman A. Geissinger, recently returned from a trip with a relief ship to Cavalla, Greece. The shipload contained 767 mules for relief.—Mrs. James Miller, Jr. Corr.

—Zion Church, Souderton, Pa., There were 112 "fathers" and "sons" in attendance at our Father and Son Banquet, January 29. During World War II this annual occasion was discontinued, but with the return of most of our service men the Ushers' League is again sponsoring this fine activity. The ladies served a delicious dinner, and the varied program consisted of a poem, musical selections, and group singing. Our speaker was Mr. Charles U. Shellenberger, General Secretary for the Philadelphia Y. M. C. A., who gave a challenging message on the importance of well-balanced life. Corr.

—Ebenezer Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio: Sunday, January 26, was another day of rich spiritual blessing for Ebenezer. At the morning service we had with us, Rev. and Mrs. Chas. Warren and little Beth Ann, Rev. Warren, bringing the message of the morning. Rev. Warren was supply pastor here during the past summer. At present they are perparing for their sailing in the spring to their new field of service on the Tibetan frontier. They will be joining Mrs. Warren's parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Steiner, also of Ebenezer. They have been faithfully serving the Lord in this needy field for the past twenty years. Dr. Bradford Steiner, their son, and his family will also sail with the Warren's to take up medical work in the same field. Ebenezer has a deep interest in the work of these servants of the Lord and has had a part in supporting the work for many years. The evening service was another one of missionary nature. The members of St. Johns Church of Pandora joined with us in a farewell service for Miss Viola Welty. She has been home on furlough since March and is now ready to return to her field in Africa. She is also one of our members and has been a source of rich blessing to all of us during these past months. A very inspiring musical program was given by the Ladies' Chorus and the Men's Chorus of our church and also the quartet from St. Johns church. Rev. Harder, pastor of St. Johns, gave a most challenging message to both young and old on, Isa. 6:8, "Here Am I Lord Send Me". Miss Welty, Rev. Warren and the pastor of Ebenezer also gave short messages during the service. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and potted plants which were later taken to our members who are ill in hospitals and home. We are looking forward to the evening of February 2, when, the Mixed Chorus, of the church will present, "The Holy City',, by Gaul. It will be directed by Mrs. Milo Lora and accompanied by Miss Mabel Amstutz.—Anana Landes, Corr.

2,311 REFUGEES TO PARAGUAY

Two thousand three hundred eleven Mennonite refugees sailed from Bremen, Germany, on January 31, according to a statement by Dr. H. A. Fast, Vice-Chairman of the Mennonite Central Committee. The refugees will go to Buenos Aires and from there to Paraguay, their new homeland. The Peter Dycks, who have been doing relief work in Europe for a long time, are accompanying the Mennonite refugees on their long journey.

—First Mennonite Church, Burns, Kansas: On January 19 we had our first wedding in our church basement. Joyce DeMae Gehring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. C. Gehring, and Kenneth Paul Kyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kyle. Six of our eight young men who have returned from the service gave the program January 26 at 7:30. Each gave a topic of their experiences while in service.—Mrs. A. M. Hiebert, Corr.

—Hebron Church, Buhler, Kansas: Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz has returned from Buck Falls, Pa., where she served as a delegate to the Home Missions Council for Migrant work. She also spent a short time at Powellsville, Maryland, with her son Walter and Rev. and Mrs. van der Smissen, who are in C.P.S work there. The first week of February Mrs. Lohrentz will go with Mrs. W. C. Voth and Rev. Howard G. Nyce to Oraibi, Arizona,where they will try to establish a mission school. A number of people from here took the opportunity to hear Dr. Charles E. Wells who lectured in Newton from January 19-24—Mrs. Arthur Neufeldt, Corr.

—Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church, Wichita, Kansas: The Ladies Friendship Circle served an interracial pot-luck supper at the church Monday evening, January 27 to which they invited their husbands. Six races were represented: Indian, Negro, Mexican, Hawaiian, Japanese, and Jamaican. Mrs. Guy Gebhardt of the Y.W.C.A. spoke on: "Is This for Me?", pointing out the many racial discriminations still prevalent, but also the indications of increasing friendly attitudes. Fifity persons attended.—Mrs. P. E. Frantz, Corr.

—Mennonite Bible Mission, Chicago, Illinois: Six boxes of clothing were packed and sent to relief. Of these, three larger boxes of new and used clothing, shoes, and soap were sent to the M.C.C. at Akron, Pa., for the needy in Europe. three smaller boxes of children's clothing were sent to Rev. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson in Africa for sixteen orphans and the missionary children.—Evelyn Triebe, Corr.

—Salem Church, Freeman, South Dakota: Since the CPS program is being discontinued, it has been voted to designate the offering every third Sunday of each month, which was formerly given to CPS, to some specific worthy cause. The January offering, which amounted to approximately $223, is being given to the Seminary, to further the cause of Christian education. —Elma Waltner, Corr.

—Rev. G. G. Epp, Pastor of the Eigenheim Church at Rosthern, Saskatchewan, and a member of the Home Mission Board of the General Conference, came to Newton, Kansas, a little before the meeting of the Home Mission Board and the joint board meetings and visited with friends and relatives in the Tabor community and Newton.

—The Geary, Oklahoma, Church and the West New Hopedale Church at Ringwood have both adopted the 100 Per Cent Church Paper Plan according to Mr. B. Bargen, Manager of the Mennonite Publication Office.

—Bethel College Church: Total cash gifts for the church building fund during January, including last Sunday's collection, amount to $3,116.97. Unreported gifts from December 26 to January 1, were $1,018. The treasurer notes that many gifts from new donors are coming in. Our Educational Committee is making plans for a daily vacation Bible School to be held on the campus after the close of school.—Eldon W. Graber, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Fortuna, Missouri: It is now one year since Rev. and Mrs. Erwin Albrecht began serving our church, and we are glad that they will continue here. The mission society met at the parsonage all day Februray 5. The society is making comforters and sewing

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

The Second Annual Session of the Council of Boards and Standing Committees of the General Conference is being held in Newton, Kansas, February 11-13, 1947. The officers accepted the invitation of the First Mennonite Church to use its facilities. Boards and committees will be meeting separately during the daytime in various committee rooms at the church, the Bethel Hospital, other places in the city, and on the Bethel College campus. The evening meetings, joint sessions of about fifteen boards and committees, are being held at the First Mennonite Church. The ladies of the church are providing noon and evening meals. Lodging and breakfast are being provided for out of town guests in the homes of the church and community. It is anticipated that between sixty and seventy persons will be in attendance.—Walter H. Dyck, Executive Secretary

PLAN VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL WORKSHOP

There have been many requests for a Vacation Bible School Workshop. The Education Committee of the Western District Conference is planning to hold one Saturday, March 22, Please, watch for the program and further announcements.

for relief. Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Metzker are visiting Mrs. Metzker's parents. Rev. Metzker is planning to enroll in the Mennonite Biblical Seminary. Miss Ruth Hofstetter has gone to Omaha to attend Grace Bible Institute. Three of our boys are still in the armed services; another boy has been hospitalized for more than two years. The mid-week prayer meetings are held in the homes of members. On February 2 we had a fellowship dinner in our church basement in honor of our Senior Sunday School superintendent, Elmer Garber. The afternoon was spent in a song service.—Mrs. Joe A. Lehman, Corr.

—Note to correspondents: Thank you for the many good reports you are sending in. Will you help us with the following? 1. Will you write out all words and refrain from abbreviating. For example, write "Kansas" instead of "Ks.", "February" instead of "Feb.", "Mr. and Mrs.' instead of "Mr. & Mrs. etc. 2. Will you capitalize only proper nouns. Such common nouns as "son," "daughter," "funeral," etc., should not be capitalized. 3. Sign your name on the same line that the jotting ends. Thank you.

—Saron Church, Orienta, Oklahoma: The "Week of Prayer" and Bible study led by Rev. Rudolph Schmidt, Carnegie, Oklahoma, that was to usher in a new year of worship, was interrupted by the snowstorm January 2. On January 19 Rev. J. J. Esau visited us in the interest of G.B.I. Rev. D. C. Wedel and Rev. Walter Dyck, guest speakers at the Oklahoma Bible Academy, during the past two weeks each brought us a message. Rev. Gerhard Neufeld, a girl's trio and a boys' quartet also were here. In the absence of our pastor, who serves the Mennonite Brethren Church, Corn, Oklahoma, this week Rev J. C. Grunau of the south Mennonite Brethren church had charge of the Sunday evening services.—Mrs. Wm. Frantz, Corr.

—Perkasie, Pa. Miss Fannie E. Landis, correspondent for the Bethel Church, has been ill for some time but is now beginning to improve.

—Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman, President of Bethel College, who is teaching in the Mennonite Biblical Seminary of Chicago this quarter, spoke on the "Historical Background of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America" at the quarterly meeting of the "Old" Mennonite Historical Society, held in Goshen, Indiana, on Friday, January 24. It is now one hundred years since the Oberholtzer schism which culminated in the establishment of the General Conference.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas
C-6

—First Church, Nappane, Indiana: Last Sunday evening, Adolpho Comba, a native of Italy and a student at Goshen College, spoke to us on the "Life and Influence of the Waldenses in Italy." The Christian Youth Fellowship, an interdenominational youth group to which our young people belong, gave over eighty pairs of shoes for relief a week ago Sunday.—Mrs. Loyal Corwin, Corr.

—A radio report states that Europe has been having the coldest weather in fifty years. Temperatures ranged from five to fifteen above zero.

—Ebenezer Mennonite Church, Gotebo, Oklahoma: Our secretary reports forty-eight services were held in 1946 with an average attendance of forty. Our church has voted a special project of using the Sunday School offerings of the first four months of 1947 to buy Bibles for the Russian people in the Ukraine area.—Mrs. Oscar Schmidt, Corr.

—Butterfield Church: Miss Elizabeth K. Schultz of Mt. Lake, who is a candidate for the mission field for Africa had charge of the mission program February 2. She gave a review of the book "Ann and Ava". It is a biography of Mrs. A. Judson, who with her husband were the first missionaries to go to Burma. This was very well rendered. The ladies mission Society has sent $140. for C.A.R.E. packages.—Mrs. Gust Miller, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: Rev. Sam J. Goering brought us an interesting talk on his experiences in Europe at services Wednesday evening. Our pastor, Rev. P. P. Tschetter, is attending meetings at the Berean Academy, Elbing, Kansas February 2-8. The second wedding of this year will be the marriage of Dorothy Stucky to Homer Graber. Bertha Fast, European relief worker, will be here February 17 and 18 to tell of her experiences in relief work.—Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

BOARD OF EDUCATION ANNOUNCEMENT

The annual meeting of the Board of Education of the General Conference is to meet at North Newton, Kansas, from February 11 to 15, 1947. There are a number of very important phases of the Board's work to be discussed and decisions of far-reaching significance to be formulated. Our concern is with the Sunday Schools, young people's work, young Christian Workers' Institute, academies and Bible schools, our colleges, foreign student exchange, college aid for C.P.S men, minister' retreat, etc. The Board of Education is deeply concerned about the various phases of our Conference work assigned to it and is asking our people to remember them in special prayers during the days of the Board meeting.—Prayerfully submitted, BOARD OF EDUCATION, Ed. G. Kaufman, Chairman; A. S. Rosenberger, Secertary

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — February 18, 1947 — Number 7

As Others See Us

(The following news story on "Plain People" is reprinted by permission from Time magazine, issue of February 10. There may be some inaccuracies in the story. For example, in speaking of ten thousand displaced Mennonites, it suggests that they will be carried to Paraguay in groups of two thousand. As much as we know it is not certain that all ten thousand refugees will be settled in Paraguay. In referring to the foreign relief workers it has them looking after Mennonite conscientious objectors in all parts of the world. We are not conscious of any such effort relative to C. O.'s in other countries. A few other matters might be objected to. On the whole it is an interesting example of what a vigorous news writer can do with present-day Mennonites and their history. As such we present it to the end that we may see ourselves as others see us—Editor)

PLAIN PEOPLE

True, believing Christians are as sheep in the midst of wolves . . . . .

So, in 1524, wrote Conrad Grebel, leader of the earnest little band of Swiss Bible students who later became known as Mennonites. Today their descendants—the plain-dressing, plain-speaking, plain-thinking Mennonites of the U.S. and Canada—are still conscious of Leader Grebel's warning. Last week they were doing their best to get some of their brother sheep to safer pastures.

To 10,000 displaced Mennonites in the U. S. and British zones of Germany, they are sending a chartered ship. The D. P.s, mostly of Dutch extraction, will be carried (2,000 at a time) to Paraguay. There they will find two flourishing colonies settled in the late '20s by Mennonite refugees from Russia and Canada. They will be supplied by the Mennonite Central Committee with farmland, tools and seed with which to take up again their simple religious lives.

SHEEP'S CLOTHING. Being Displaced Persons is nothing new to the Mennonites. In their 422-year-old history, they have also become accustomed to martyrdom.

White-bearded Menno Simons, who gave the group its name, was a Catholic priest of 44 when he left his church in 1536 to join Grebel's movement. Then the group were called Anabaptists because of their belief in the necessity of adult baptism. Like the Quakers 150-odd years later, they eschewed a paid priesthood and the use of force, did their best to follow literally the precepts of Jesus, patterned their lives on these of the early Christians. In those days, even more than now, such behavior was not only unconventional but dangerous.

During the Mennonites' first ten years, more than 5,000 of them were killed off. Hounded from country to country and plagued by internal divisions, they persisted in Europe, doing their stubborn best to obey God and get along with man. They annoyed, baffled and roused the suspicions of their fellow Christians. Wrote Catholic Author Christoph Andreas Fischer in 1603:

"Among all the heresies and sects . . . to the destruction of the Catholic church, not a one has a better appearance and greater external holiness than the Anabaptists . . . They call each other brothers and sisters; they use no profanity nor unkind language; they use no weapons of defense. They are temperate in eating and drinking, they use no vain display of clothes . . . . They do not go to law before judical courts, but bear everything patiently, as they say, in the Holy Spirit. Who would suppose that under this sheep's clothing only ravening wolves are hidden?"

WOLVES' WORLD. In 1683 a group of Dutch-decended Mennonites came to Quaker William Penn's new colony in America and settled at Germantown. For a time, they found tolerance and peace. By 1776 the Pennsylvania Mennonites numbered nearly 7,500; today there are approximately 200,000 on the North American continent. They too, "plain people" as they call themselves, have not escaped the disease of sectarianism and schism. U.S. Mennonites are currently divided into 16 groups, including the black-clothed, buttonless, bearded Amish of southeastern Pennsyl-

(Continued on page 7)

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

THE COUNCIL OF BOARDS MEETINGS which were held in Newton, Kansas, February 10—14 by the various boards, committees, and auxiliaries of the General Conference, were an event of importance. In former years the various boards and committees usually met at different places, at different times. As a result they were not able to consult with each other and to meet together in one large group. This year they had the opportunity of counselling together, and the scriptures remind us that in the multitude of counsellors there is safety. One of the primary problems of anyone is to get understanding, to think things through to the point where he has a rather clear picture of relationships. The more an individual can verbalize his own chaos of thought and feeling, the more he can understand himself and others, to the end that he can establish right relationships. Individuals meeting in a group and groups meeting together benefit in a similar way as they become conscious of facts and the relationship of these facts. Such understanding makes for unification, cooperation, fellowship, and effective work in the Kingdom. This is what Christ prayed for. This is what we are made for, but our need for being autonomous individuals too frequently tempts us to overdo the individual at the expense of the whole, and we and others suffer as a result. The Mennonite Church has undoubtedly found much strength in its characteristic of individualism, but its very advantage has also been a disadvantage in that it hindered unity. Today as the diversification is brought into a unity, we are coming towards a wholesome balance of the two. And so such a matter of cooperation as the Council of Boards Meetings is a concrete example of the blessings of working together more closely in a world where no man can live unto himself.

THE TRIED AND TRUE is ever so much more effective than the trite and true. Truth which has been tried makes for the kind of authorization that was evident in the words of Jesus. The man who knows what he is talking about is listened to, for his words are valuable in that they increase insight. There is something about truths tried in the hot fires of life that makes them suggest the substance of reality. What cannot be accomplished by a hundred words trite and true can be accomplished by ten words tried and true. No wonder that Jesus had something to say about idle words. Christians have the privilege of a holy adventure in speaking precisely and honestly. Whenever a Christian in speech or writing succeeds in accurately describing the truth as he has experienced it, then there is a contribution to constructive thinking. Lack of experience does not have to be such a discouraging factor as it may at first seem to be, for most people feel that an ounce of experience is worth a hundred talked about but not known. Christians easily drift into using words with "limitless and revolutionary meanings." When such words are carelessly handled and bandied about because they are generally accepted, there is a real danger that for many they will become comparatively meaningless. "Saved," "grace," "the love of God," "sin," etc., are terms which clang like cymbals when used in a manner trite and true. When used as tried and true they help to make plain The Way of Jesus Christ, our Lord and Saviour. As Christians witness of truth that has first been tried in their own lives, they express something that is vital and gripping.

THE JEWS are a peculiar people who need to be understood just as the Mennonites, also a peculiar people, need to be understood by others. Perphaps, not all readers agreed with the article about Jews run two weeks ago. One friend suggested that he thought the Jewish people were different from most people, but that the Christian had no right to have hard feelings about such differences. In our time there is an attempt to show that the Jews are people like us, and certainly to a large extent they are. Who can disagree with Shylock the Jew when he pleads, "Do we not have hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions? Are we not all fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means warmed and cooled by the same winter and summer?" Undoubtedly, there are some differences because of their cultural experiences throughout the centuries, but the line of distinction cannot be drawn as sharply as sometimes supposed. After all, that line is not as important as the understanding that we as Christians owe everybody.

THE MENNONITE.

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor __________ Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

George Neufelds Write from Africa

Tshikapa, Kasai District
Congo Belge, Africa
January 8, 1947

Dear Friends:

At the end of the year one cannot help but survey the accomplishments with a view of profiting by them for the work of the new year.

We, who have only recently come to this country and are not too well acquainted with African life, often take things for granted. When someone is given a task to preform, we simply tell him to do so. But when he sets out to accomplish his work, there are five chances to one, that he will do it wrong. One must take time to explain and illustrate in detail if the work is to be finished in an acceptable way.

During the year the outstation teachers came to the station twice for institute. Our course of study was presented; we taught in a clear and concise manner. Books were handed out with instructions as to how they were to be used.

In September and October we went out on our first trip of visitation to all the outstations. At many of these places we found results about as we expected. At the others we marveled at what the teacher had accomplished or had not accomplished. Those who had failed in following instructions just had not grasped what it was all about. Now we wondered just what we could do to get them to understand instructions. Finally we decided to dramatize each instruction. With the aid of a few of the more intelligent, we demonstrated the systems of teaching we had seen in the villages. Then discussing the fallacy or good of each, we gave further instructions. At the close of the fall semester, when we presented these lessons, the teachers seemed to grasp clearly what was to be done. We are anxiously waiting to see results when we again go intinerating. On our trip we had baptismal services at three places. Later on we also had a baptismal service at our station. A total of 108 persons received baptism.

Many of you will already know that our station, Kalamba, is to be moved. The Lord willing, we expect to begin building at the new site about February 1. Will you be much in prayer for this large undertaking? —Yours, in His Service, George B. and Justina Neufeld

Lord of the Harvest, Bless We Pray

Late November. The rice harvest in full swing. More people are already threshing than cutting the grain. A perfect day—it seems most natural that such an abundant harvest makes every farmer, and his wife, and his children, look up in friendly greeting as we pass slowly by in the oxcart. The soft white plumes of the sugar cane fields sway ever so gently in the faint breeze. They tower above the housetops of the numerous villages and are softly outlined against a clear blue sky and the dim, misty grey lavender hills in the distance. Flocks of water birds, some black and dignified, others white and ordinary, stand in the damp shorn rice fields and catch small fishes. The water pools are edged with crimson or white water lilies. A picture of peace and contentment. Our hearts sing in thanksgiving to the Lord of the Harvest.

The oxen come to a stand still under a spreading tamarind tree near the village threshing floor. After a moment or two of startled surprise the men, women, and at least thirty school children, come to greet us with eager curiosity. Here in Aukuri village the Christian group is very new; two months ago Chaitan, his three sons and their households were baptized by the pastor of the Emmanuel church. Even though we understand no Oriya and they very little Hindi, the bhajan (hymn) tunes serve well to bring quick mutual understanding. We spend a joyful hour with them, worshipping together our Loving Saviour. Then we sit down to a delicious rice meal. The grand vegetables and chicken curry seem spiced and blended to an aromatic feast, pleasing as the day itself.

Before we can bring the prolonged leave taking to a final exit, one farmer has persuaded us to follow him to his nearby field. Here in one corner he points to a stone slab and the remnants of an offering burnt to honour a false god. Now, he explains he has resolved forever to forsake idolatry because he knows it is a curse. "Do pray to the true God to take full possession of my field and to bless," he begs. After the teacher has stamped on the stone with his heavy military boots, we all reverently bow in prayer. We implore the Lord of the Harvest of precious souls to uproot idolatry from this village and to bless this field. At the sound of the Amen the teacher stoops and with all his strength hurls the stone out of the field. May God grant that from this field, fruits useful and righteous may spring forth bountifully to bless—and never to course. —Helen E. Nickel, November 25, 1946.

Left to right: Mrs. P. J. Boehr, Rev. P. J. Boehr, Anna Louise, Ernest, and Mary Ellen

Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Boehr and their daughter Mary Ellen left Gulfport, Mississippi, for China January 6. The boat stopped at San Pedro, California on the nineteenth. The boat was anchored in the bay for fuel oil, fresh water, etc., and therefore it was impossible to get off. In his letter from California Brother Boehr wrote "Only after we left Gulfport did we hear that our ship was to stop here and at Yokohoma, Japan."—Howard G. Nyce, Executive Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board

Word of Farewell by H. J. Browns

Since the dear Lord is calling us back once more to China, we are closing up our nice home here in Freeman to depart for another term of service on the mission field. It may be only for a few years or it may be for a regular term. We realize that we are not nearly as strong in our physical bodies as we used to be. We further realize that the reopening of the work will make great and strenuous demands on us, but we continuously hear that still small voice from above calling us back to the work; the Foreign Mission Board is asking us to go; and the younger missionaries are pushing us into the front, at the same time assuring us that they mean to follow. We can't say that actually we shall be able to accomplish very much, but if we can be a means of bringing the mission field once more together with the General Conference, of helping the younger and stronger missionaries to go back into their calling, and of helping new workers to consecrate themselves for the service of the King, then we shall be well rewarded for the undertaking.

Our three years of stay here at home after our release from the Japanese captivity have been pleasant. We have very much enjoyed the work assigned to us. Our fellowship with a number of churches and many fellow-Christian leaders has been most cordial. We thank all very much for every kindness shown. We now commit you into the care of the Lord; and we shall also covet your prayers for us, as we sail once more for China!

Yours in Christ's service,
H. J. and Maria Brown

P. S. We leave Freeman, South Dakota on the morning of February 10 by train for New York (City), and on the twenty-fifth we sail on the steamer Flying Arrow for Shanghai, China. Our address in China will again be: Kai Chow, Hopei, China.

SEEKS RELATIVES

We have been asked to aid in locating relatives of Mennonite refugees now in Denmark.

Mrs. Cornelius Jansson, nee Johanna Froese, is trying to locate her cousins Peter, Otto and Heinrich Schroeder, sons of Heinrich and Katharine Schroeder nee Penner, formerly of Marienau, Kreis Marienburg, West Prussia.

Her present address is: Kobenhavn-Klovermarken, Bezirk 9, Baracke 818, Denmark.—Signed John E. Wiebe, Route 3, Newton, Kansas.

CONFERENCE BOARDS AND COMMITTEES MET

February 10-14, 1947

The Council of Boards Meetings were held in Newton, Kansas, February 10-14 with ninety to one hundred people participating. The following boards, committee, and auxiliaries of the Conference met or were represented: Business Committee, Curriculum Committee (This committee which works under the Board of Education, is not a standing committee), Board of Education, Emergency Relief Board, Board of Foreign Missions, Board of Home Missions, Minister's Aid Committee, Mutual Aid Board, Placement Committee, Publication Board, and the Women's Missionary Association. Each conference distrist was also represented. Individual meetings were held during the day by each board or standing committee, and in the evenings all met together in the First Mennonite Church. The Church Unity and the Peace Committees did not meet individually but had representatives present at the evening meetings. The Executive Committee had an all-day meeting on Monday, February 10, and the Young Peoples Union Executive Committee met February 8-10.

On Tuesday evening one hour was spent in a devotional prayer service led by the Conference officers. During the remainder of the evening questions were spontaneously raised and discussed. Wednesday evening brief reports were given by each cooperating board or committee. These reports included their plans and concerns and their proposed budget for 1947.

Meetings were held in the First Mennonite Church, on the Bethel College Campus, the Directors Rooms of the Kansas State and Midland National Banks, the Herald Publishing Company, the Conference Headquarters, and the Bethel Hospital Library.

The women of the First Mennonite Church served the noon and evening meal. Between fifty and sixty were served at each meal. Lodging was provided by the various homes of the First Mennonite Church and the Bethel College Campus.

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

By Cornelius Krahn

Hunger and Cold Take Their Toll

The writer of the following letter was born in Russia. His brothers Heinrich Braun, a publisher, and Peter Braun, an educator, were well known. Abram Braun studied in Germany and has been a pastor of the Mennonite church at Ibersheim, near Worms, for many years. In addition he serves in many other capacities in the conference. The following letter (in translation) throws some light on present conditions among the Mennonites in Germany:

Dear Brother:

For a long time I have been wanting to write you but there is seemingly no time for personal matters. I wish you could see conditions here. Until now you had our senior Brother Neff writing you regularly. He was so faithful in keeping in touch with you. He has left us . . . .

Tomorrow I expect to meet Brother Eicher in Ludwigshafen. How thankful we are for the help from America. It is true, so far we Mennonites have received very little since everything is channeled through the Hilfswerk of the Evangelical church in Germany. However, we have an agreement now that our Mennonite refugees can be helped. This has been the case in the American zone for sometime. But in the British and the French zones no aid was received. Now it is beginning to come. Brother Eicher just told me by telephone that the Christmas packages would soon arrive. Through the mediation of the Mennonite Central Committee there are some CARE packages to arrive for our refugees in the French Zone. Conditions are very bad, especially of late. A cold wave has reached us and there is no fuel. Lack of nourishment and cold homes are very hard to endure. While sitting here at the typewriter my hands are blue with cold. How we long for the summer.

During the last four weeks many deaths have occurred among our people. . . . It is not surprising. Undernourishment has weakened resistance, and now this cold wave. Old people die in masses. This winter will take a greater toll of human lives than anyone imagined. Statistics will be horror-revealing. But enough of that.

We would be ungrateful if we mentioned the dark sides only. In all our need and distress we experience the grace and friendliness of God. It is because of his mercy that we are still here. We have all committed manifold sins. In the sight of God it makes little difference whether we have failed much or little. We are all guilty. But it makes a difference whether we find our way back to Him like the prodigal son. If humanity would only recognize this. We still miss a general cry to God in our nation. Repentance would mean coming home to the Father. That our nation does not find this road in the face of distress and disaster is often depressing. But we hope that that hour will come soon. At present we should do everything possible to help in a material way so that not too many will despair.

In our Mennonite church the ranks are decreasing. In addition to Rev. Neff, Mrs. B. H. Unruh passed away recently. Dr. Unruh will miss her greatly. My dear wife died in January, 1942. It is quite lonesome for me. Our son Jacob was killed in Russia in 1944 and Christian is still a prisoner of war there. Whether or when he will return God alone knows. I would like to retire from other activities and devote all my time to the congregation, but I am now spending more time than ever in relief activities. I am seldom at home and traveling is extra-ordinarily difficult. It would be easier if I had a car. I often leave at 4 o'clock in the morning. I am getting too old for these tasks, but when one sees all the misery one cannot do otherwise than to devote all one's strength to relieve the suffering.

I had the joy to meet many American brethren—P. C. Hiebert, Ray Schlichting, Sam Goering, Ed. G. Kaufman, E. E. Miller, Robert Kreider, P. J. Dyck, Howard Yoder, etc. Now I will come to a close. God bless you and your loved ones. I enjoyed the copy of Mennonite Life which I received through Brother Kreider. It was very interesting even though I do not read English fluently. Very sincerely yours,

(signed) A. Braun

Ibersheim, January 7, 1947

Aid for C. O.'s at Yale

(The following is a letter to the editor of the Christian Century which appeared in the February 12 issue of that paper.)

SIR: At the Yale Divinity School this year there are approximately 100 ex-servicemen. These men studying in the religious field are beneficiaries of the G. I. bill of rights and are receiving monthly stipends from the United States government. At the same time there are ten conscientious objectors in the divinity school who, of course, receive nothing from the federal government while they are studying, and did not even receive any conpensation while they were in the Civilian Public Service camps. Recently the former servicemen organized to contribute part of their stipend to the conscientious objectors. The average donation is $5 a month per person. In view of the large number of ex-servicemen in contrast to the few conscientious objectors, this means a substantial fund for the conscientious objectors.

If every theological seminary in the United States would follow the lead of the Yale Divinity School, we should have come part way in paying the debt we own the conscientious objectors of America. It is generally considered today that it took more courage and consecration to be a conscientious objector than to enter the armed forces. Would that we might do more to provide opportunity for study for the small band of men who in very real measure were the "conscience of America" in the late war.

Connecticut State Jail Commission, Jerome Davis
West Haven, Con.

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

The date for the concert by the Oberlin Conservatory Woodwind Ensemble has been changed to February 28. One hundred thirty-four solicitors started work in the Pandora-Bluffton area February 12 in a house to house solicitation of the community for the Auditorium-Physical Education Building Fund. The drive was opened by a dinner for solicitors the previous evening. Carl Lehman, Dr. J. S. Schultz, Dr. L. L. Ramseyer, Dr. I. W. Bauman, and Dr. C. H. Smith attended General Conference Board and Committee meeting in Kansas the week of the ninth. Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Quakertown, Pennsylvania, spoke before a joint Gospel Team meeting February 6. Sixty students attended the meeting. He also spoke in chapel the following morning. Christian Life Week will be observed on the campus during the first week in March.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

President Unruh and Dean Gross are going to North Newton, Kansas, to attend the meeting of the General Conference Board of Education. Twelve students have reported for debate work in the College Department. Of these three have had previous experience. Of the nine Academy debaters only one has had previous experience. Quite a few new books have been added to the library this year for the different departments. The most recent addition is a group of fiction and biography books. The Home Economics classes took their semester tests this past week. The second half of the year those taking Foods classes change to Clothing classes while the Clothing classes change to Foods work. This alternation makes it possible to accomodate much larger classes than would otherwise be possible with the present equipment. Chapel speakers this week were Principal E. P. Graber and Miss Bertha Ewert. For music day chapel Ruth Tieszen sang a solo and Mr. Lichti played a trombone solo. A letter recently received from Kaifeng, Honan, China, from Robert Waltner gives an interesting account of the relief projects carried on there by M.C.C. He tells of attending Chinese Christian church services on Christmas day and says that although he did not understand the language very well he enjoyed the music, which included the "Hallelujah Chorus" from the "Messiah" sung by a large group of teen-age boys. Robert graduated from the Academy in 1939.

BETHEL COLLEGE

Thirty-four hundred friends from near and far filled the seats and stood in the outer aisles of the Bethel College Memorial Hall on Monday night, February 10, for a two-hour concert by the Westminster Choir under the direction of Dr. John Finley Williamson. This was the third number of the 1946-47 Bethel College Memorial Hall Series. This year marks the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of this distinguished concert group of forty voices, whose more than ten thousand performances in the United States and Europe have established its unparalleled reputation.

Groups from more distant places, including Kansas City, Ottawa, Sterling, Salina, Arkansas City, Oklahoma, and Nebraska purchased single admission tickets in advance. The sales to local friends continued until a capacity audience was announced at five o'clock Monday afternoon. Standing room tickets were sold after those who had purchased tickets were seated.

The excellent quality of every voice in the choir, the gracious personality and the skill of the director, and the many hours of practice and disciplined training of the singers were all evident as the program proceeded from Bach chorals to Indian and American folk songs and from spirituals to the beauty of traditional church music.

MENNONITE SEMINARY NEWS

Classes at the Seminary are held four days a week from Tuesday to Friday. The reason for this is that those who serve churches away from the city will have time to travel to and from the churches and give their time to their church work. For those that do not serve churches, Saturday and Monday are times for study or work. Most of the students are able to work, thus paying their living expenses. During the four days of classes from Tuesday to Friday, the students have a schedule something like the following: Arise to the clang of an alarm clock between 5:30 and 6:30 o'clock. Breakfast and travel to school for first hour class at 7:00. Second hour class is at 7:55. Chapel at 8:50 where the student body gathers for group worship, hearty singing, a variety of service. From 9:30 to 12:15, three more classes are held. The afternoons are free for study. A four or five hour stretch is easily spent for preparation for the next day. Some of the students work in the afternoons and study in the evenings. Others study in the afternoons and spend the evenings in church work in the city, having meetings with children, seminary meeting, etc Ten o'clock comes all too quickly, and to be rested for the next day, an effort to get to bed by than is generally made. Too often, the hour is eleven by the time the lights go out!

Mordecai Wyatt Johnson To Speak in Memorial Hall February 25

On February 25 Mennonites living in the Newton, Kansas, community and in the settlements around Newton will have the opportunity of hearing Dr. Mordecai Wyatt Johnson. In this day of pressure for universal military training, Dr. Johnson is one of the men, who speaks most convincingly against it.

When two years ago General George C. Marshall made an eloquent and convincing plea for universal military training before American educators at the meeting of the Association of American Colleges, it was Mordecai Wyatt Johnson and an educator from India who answered Marshall in a brief but effective manner. When this year the government sent military men to espouse the cause of universal military training before the same body, Mordecai Wyatt Johnson again provided the necessary bulwark against the influence of the military mind by giving a brilliant speech that won the extended applause of the college presidents and other educators present.

Dr. Johnson is President of Howard University, Washington, D. C. Its professors rank among the best in the nation. Since he assumed the presidency in 1926 he has built up the University to an estimated worth today of more than $14,000,000. Its greatest assets are its 12,400 alumni who have won respect throughout the nation. Before he came to Howard as its first Negro president, Dr. Johnson served as pastor of the First Baptist Church, Charleston, West Virginia.

His subject at Memorial Hall, February 25 will be "One World and the Conquest of Prejudice."

Program Western District Ministers' Conference March 18, 19

THEME: The Minister and His Church Facing the Present Crisis.

Scripture: Eph. 3:17b. "Being rooted and grounded in love (faith)".

TUESDAY 9:15 A. M.

Opening	Phil Wedel
Devotions	Abe Peters
Special Music	Bethel College
Topic: "Lessons from History Regarding the Church in Crisis Periods"	Dr. Mallott
Discussion	Dr. Mallott
Special Music	First Mennonite Church, Newton
Topic: "The Minister's Impact upon the Home"	R. C. Kauffman
Discussion	Loris Habegger

WEDNESDAY 9:15 A. M.

Opening	Phil Wedel
Devotions	Paul Dahlenberg
Special Music	Bethel College
Topic: "The Place of the Radio in Social and Family Life"	Dr. Frederick K. Stamm
Discussion	Dr. Stamm
Special Music	Tabor Church
Topic: "How can the Minister and Church Deepen the Consciousness of the Responsibility of the Home to the Church?"	H. T. Unruh
Discussion	J. J. Voth

—Elbert Koontz, Secretary of the Program Committee.

The Ministers' Conference will be held in Memorial Hall at Bethel College. The sessions will be closed at 11:45 so that vistor's to the conference can be served promptly in the dining hall. The conference is being held during the annual Bethel College Bible week. All ministers and their wives, deacons and their wives, and deaconesses are invited to attend these morning sessions.—Phil A. Wedel, Chairman; Elbert Koontz, Secretary.

Plain People

(Continued from page 1.)

vania. Some of them still practice such ancient customs as the "holy kiss". All of them, however, remain plain and pacifist.

For most U.S. Mennonites, the center of the U. S. is the tiny (pop. 877) town of Akron, Pa. The home town of greying, spectacled Orie O. Miller, secretary-treasurer of the Mennonite Central Committee, Akron is automatically headquarters of the Committee itself, which traditionally follows its secretary. There, in five white houses, the 50-odd men and women of the Committee staff administer a foreign corps of 260 workers in 16 countries. The foreign corps carries on relief projects and looks after Mennonite conscientious objectors in all parts of the world. Some of the male staff members wear the black or snuff-colored dress of "lay preachers"; some of the women still affect traditional white "prayer caps"; all work for mere subsistence wages.

Last year the Central Committee spent $3,000,000 —an average Mennonite Contribution of $15. This year's resettlement of D.P.s will cost an estimated $2,500,000. Most Mennonites have come to regard such assessments as one inescapable price of sheeplike living in a wolves' world.

*Mennonites constituted 40% of the conscientious objectors in Civilian Public Service camps during World War II.

MENNONITE REFUGEES STRANDED IN CHINA

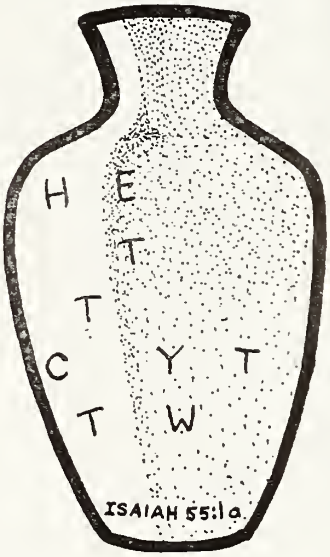
A small group of refugees, including twenty-seven Mennonites formerly from Russia, now located in Sinkiang, China, are reportedly in dire need. They apparently have migrated from northern Russia and are on their way to a place where they hope to be able to settle. At present the winter, together with the unsettled political conditions in that area of China, have made their lot an extremely difficult one.

These people are being supplied with necessary food and clothing, and when their desires for emigration and settlement are determined, efforts will be made to help them to a place of safety and permanent settlement.—M.C.C.

Who WOULDN'T Want to Study?

SOMETHING TO DO DURING THE CLASS PERIOD OR AFTER

In Jesus' eyes there are no "foreigners, no "high-brows" or "low-brows." He died to save ALL of us. Unscramble the words below and you will see how different were Nicodemus and the Samaritan woman. Decode the last phrase and you will see why they were much alike in the eyes of Christ.



Each letter is the beginning of a word in Isaiah 55:1a. Fill in the words. Below the water-pot write Isaiah 55:6.

THE PROPHET ISAIAH KNEW ABOUT THE LIVING WATER OF WHICH JESUS WAS TALKING. HIS WORDS IN BOTH OF THESE VERSES ARE FOR US, TOO.

NICODEMUS	THE WOMAN AT THE WELL
He was a ________ (LURER) of the ________ (SWEJ).	She was a despised ________ (A STAR MAN).
He was wealthy and ________ (CUT A DEED).	She was poor and ________ (TIN ORGAN).
HE was a ________ (THE ACRE) of the Scriptures.	She knew ________ (TELL IT) about God.

BUT

WHEN THEY MET THE LORD JESUS FACE TO FACE, THEY WERE ALIKE. THEY BOTH NEEDED ______ ______ ________
20-15 2-5 2-15-18-14

____
1-7-1-9-14.

"Curiosity once killed a cat" is a proverb which certainly does NOT apply to children. Curiosity is the BASIS for all learning, and unless a child (of ANY age!) is first of all curious about the Sunday school lesson unless the lesson is presented in such a way that it is INTERESTING, the Sunday school hour has been in vain. No learning will take place. The above is a sample-page from the new JUNIOR QUARTERLY, published jointly by your Board of Education and the Board of Publication. We think it should be "MUST" on your next quarter's order.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Omot's Mission

The Story of a Boy in the South Sudan, Africa

By Rev. Don McClure

Omot was so excited he couldn't wait to eat his supper. For days he had heard the men of the village talk about going out to the forest where a special kind of tree grew to make a canoe for the village. The last canoe had been smashed by a huge bull hippo as the men tried to spear him in the river and it was a great inconvenience not to have a canoe at the river landing, to say nothing of the danger, for the men had to wade or swim the river when they wanted to cross. And Omot could well remember the screams of one man, which had reached him even out herding the sheep, as he vainly fought to free himself from a crocodile.

Yes they just had to have a new boat for the village and Omot's father had just said he could go with the men to help cook the food and guard the camp while the men worked in the forest. Omot was thrilled. for it meant getting out of watching dumb sheep day after day, and it meant sleeping out in the open with fires all around to keep the leopards and lions away. Yes, and he would be able to go with the men when they went out to kill some animals for food. And he could fish in the river all day long as the men worked in the forest cutting out the canoe. Of course there would be a little work such as gathering firewood and cooking the food for the men but what was that to a ten year old boy who could throw a spear fifteen lengths of its handle.

Omot was thrilled and he wanted to dash off at once and tell his playmate in a nearby village about his good luck. Just as he dashed across the village, scattering the sheep right and left as he went, his mother called and warned him that no food would be kept for him if he was absent when it was eaten. That gave him reason to pause and think. He could see the food all ready, standing in the gourd, just as his mother had prepared it more than an hour ago. He could see it there under the eaves of the grass roof. Already it was cold and covered black with flies, and he knew if they waited much longer they would have to dig the flies' newly laid eggs out of the porridge before they ate it. But that did not matter; no one, not even his older brother, could touch the food until his father had first eaten all he wanted. That was an unwritten law of the tribe and no one would dare break it. He knew if he took even a little bite before he ran to tell his friend of the good news he would be punished and probably could not go with his father on the expedition.

Omot went around to see what was keeping his father, and to try to hurry him to eat the cold supper. And besides Omot hadn't eaten anything since the evening before and he was hungry. Omot wished school was running again and then he could have two meals a day instead of only one. But then if school were open at the Mission he couldn't go boat making with his father; so for a moment he was glad it was vacation time. But his father was still talking over for the hundredth time some of the details about the trip and each man in the group had to tell of the grand trees they used to have when he was a boy for making canoes.

Omot waited and waited until the sun had set and the air was filled with mosquitoes. Each went home to eat his cold mush or porridge and then to share what was left with the other members of the family. The oldest ate first and if sufficient had been prepared then the younger folks could have their share —tho' not often as much as they wanted. But this is a man's world and men have to work and the children have only to play and eat. Omot scraped the gourd clean and let the dog lick his fingers.

The next morning before daylight they all started, twelve men and Omot. He would have liked to have one of his playmates with him but they were needed back home to herd the sheep and cattle. They had to wade the river first and as they splashed through the cold, dark water Omot's stomach did some funny things as he thought of the crocodiles which might be waiting for them with each step. But all got through the river and started on the long walk to the forest.

It was a glorious day and before they had gone a mile they saw some reed buck and the men started to quietly surround them in the tall grass. They told Omot to hold the dogs, for they had taken three dogs along to help catch animals and keep the hyenas away from the camp. When he saw a spear handle lifted above the grass he was to lift up one of the dogs above the grass so it could see the animals and then all the dogs would give chase. It worked fine and after a chase of a few minutes one of the men threw his spear right through a fine buck. They would have meat for a few days anyway.

At noon of the second day they reached the place where the fine trees grew and soon the men found a tree they all agreed would do. It was not nearly as fine as those trees they used to have in their youth. But to Omot it looked like the finest tree he had ever seen, tall and straight, and of the right kind of wood which did not rot in the water. He had never seen such a tree in his life.

The men did not start to work that day for they had to rest from their long walk. But there was no rest for Omot. He found that he had to run for all the men; get them water to drink, branches for their beds, coals of fire for their pipes and cook the meal for them all. It was not easy and when night came Omot was so tired that he did not even notice the thousands of mosquitoes which easily found him even though he tried to keep himself covered with branches and leaves and grass.

The next day the men went out to the tree to start to cut it down. Omot could not go with them for he had to guard the camp—though what there was to guard he could not see, except the strips of meat drying in the top of the tree. So all day long he amused himself by throwing mud at the birds which came to eat the meat and trying a little fishing with his spear. But he caught nothing.

The following day was the same and already Omot was wishing he had some one to play with or talk to. The third day and fourth were all alike and Omot was very lonesome and the men were tired and not pleasant to him and he began to wish he had not come. But on the evening of the fifth day when he was cooking the mush he discovered that it was nearly gone and only half enough to feed the men for supper. Omot again tried fishing but he didn't spear a single fish; all the meat was gone too, so he knew there would be trouble. Soon the men came in and without waiting to wash they sat down to eat. But the two huge gourds which were usually full had barely half the amount in them. Immediately the men started to shout and blame Omot for not cooking enough and when he dared to tell them all the meal was gone, they blamed him for eating it during the day, and anyway why didn't he know it was gone and let them know so they could have sent him back to the village for more. "Send him?" Yes, who else was there to go? Everyone else was working and he alone was doing nothing but sitting around and eating their food. Even his father joined in and scolded him and when he tried to defend himself they beat him and slapped him until he ran away. But soon he crept back for he was afraid to go far away from the fires because of the wild animals which they had been hearing at night.

As he came back his father called roughly to him and said he was to start for the village long before daylight to bring them some food. "Would he have to go alone the whole way?" Yes, and he would have to run most of the way so they would soon have their meal. The men were going to hunt the next day for meat, though it was not in good hunting country; but he would have to hurry.

All night long Omot worried about that trip for he was scared to death to go alone and it seemed as if he had only fallen asleep when his father awakened him and ordered him off. "But it was still dark." Of course, and he had to make the whole trip to the village and back in two days, though it was a three day trip.

Omot started along the forest trail running at the top of his speed and trembling with fear. Every shadow and sound made him run the faster until he thought his lungs would burst and his legs break and he found himself sobbing and crying so that he couldn't see the faint outline of the path. Finally he fell and lay sobbing for a long time, afraid to move. Then he thought of those men back there who would be hungry tomorrow and the next day without food and he realized that he should have told them how little food there was and it was his fault that they had run out so soon for he had given them a great big shares each day and had not tried to save it. He soon sat up and realized that he had a big job and it had to be done for there was no one else to do it.

He got to his feet and started to run quietly and swiftly, trying not to think of his burning lungs and tired legs. All day long he kept it up, running and walking, and his mind was so intent on what he had to do that he forgot all about the wild animals and snakes, and even the thorns in his feet. Just as the sun was setting he reached the river and without thinking he started through the water. But as he stepped in there was a great rush and splash of water and he saw a huge crocodile coming for him from the muddy depths. He tried to jump to one side but his feet were deep in mud and he could hardly move and in an instant the crocodile had him by the ankle and started to pull him into the water. Never in his life had he known such pain and fear as when those cruel teeth closed on his leg. He screamed at the top of his voice for help and fought desperately to cling to the muddy bottom but there was no help for he was far below his village and the next village was around the bend of the river. Slowly his hands slipped through the mud as he frantically searched for something to hang on to and save himself. But the crocodile slowly backed into the deep water and soon Omot's head was under and he was fighting to hold his breath. He felt his end was near and he could do nothing. Then there flashed into his mind those men back in the forest, and his father there too, expecting him to bring the grain back to them the next day and he woudn't be there and they would have to go hungry. Perhaps they would have to walk back to the village for food; perhaps they would have to give up making the canoe, for the time was short before the rains came and the men couldn't work or sleep away from home. All these things flashed through his mind as he was being pulled under by the crocodile and he felt that he would soon be in the crocodile's stomach. He even wondered how it would feel to be there and wondered if he would be dead before the crocodile swallowed him.

Then he realized that he couldn't die; those men were depending on him; they were waiting for him to bring food. He suddenly thought of what an old man had once told him about crocodiles. He had said, "If you ever are caught by a crocodile get your fingers in its eyes and try to tear them out and it will let you go." He had but a second to try and the pain was terrific as he turned his body and felt along the crocodile's head—it was horrible feeling its head, with his hands and he even felt his own foot sticking out of the crocodile's mouth, and it didn't feel like his foot, somehow. Then he found its eyes, first one and then the other, and he dug his frantic fingers in between the eyelids and tried to get them around the eye balls just as everything began to go black.

He didn't know what happened but suddenly he found himself on top of the water and swimming for the shore and his own bank of the river too. His leg nearly killed him as he kicked it in the water but visions of that crocodile again catching him gave him strength and he made the water fly. Soon he reached the bank and with a sob of pain threw himself out of the river and fell into the grass. He was writhing in the pain when he heard someone call. Soon two men from his own village were bending over him and helping him up the bank. He sobbed out his story and one of the men ran for help. As they carried him into the village he had the joy of seeing some of the women already preparing grain to send out to his father and the other men, and some men gathering together their spears and clubs ready for the journey. And he knew his mission had been accomplished. He had got through and best of all he had conquered his fears. He felt himself a man.

It is only an anti-climax to know that he came into the Mission to have his leg dressed and tell his story. And two days later he had the supreme joy, which only an Anuak can experience of eating the very crocodile which had once tried to eat him. For the missionary had seen to it that that beast had tasted his last human flesh.

Universal Military Training

Events which have occurred regarding Selective Service during the fall and winter months have tended to dull the awareness of the renewed effort being made to enact peacetime conscription. The draft holiday which has been declared since September is still operative. Leading Congressmen have declared themselves opposed to the present Selective Service act. The United Nations Organization has developed and issued plans for world disarmament. The new Congress is reported to be cool to the idea of conscription.

All this makes it seem a foregone fact that with the end of March, conscription will no longer be a law. However, this only presents one side of the picture. At the same time, there are many forces operative which favor conscription. The fear of Russia which has blackened newspaper headlines for more than a year. The appointment by President Truman of a Universal Training Commission most of whose members have in the past been outspokenly in favor of universal military training. Incidentally, those from the fields of religion and education, Dr. Karl T. Compton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology,, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald, and Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton University do not represent the overwhelming opinion in those two fields opposing any type of conscription. The work of the War Department during this period has been that of developing plans and preparing itself to carry through a Universal Training Act. The appointment of General Marshall to the Secretary of the State post would indicate that the military is both influential and active in realizing its program .

The significance of peacetime conscription in America for those who have no religious principle opposed the military way hardly needs emphasis. For one thing militarism and tolerance have not been very good room-mates, traditionally. A rising militarism has almost always meant a rising opposition to those who do not fall in line. In the past it has been America's tradition to frown upon militarism. The rise of militarism would likely see opposition to wars frowned upon. Where a certain amount of lee-way would be offered for those who cannot follow the military, a rising militarism would by necessity have to stamp out dissension. Germany, France, Russia, Italy, Japan are illustrations of the point.

One need hardly mention the far-reaching effects a well-armed nation would have upon other nations starting the age-old cycle of arming—once it was clubs, then bows and arrows, then guns, and now atomic bombs!

In these circumstances, the awareness of developments, the urging of Congressman to make decisions which place emphasis on a spirit of peace and the prayers and concern of the people of the church is deeply needed. Can our action be the fruit of the deepest Christian concerns and thus be fruitful, staunch, sure? These are days of decision.

The Jew, a Neglected Person

by Richard M. Blackburn

It was tea-time at UNRRA Accommodation Center in Tricase, Italy. Together, I sat with our Senior Medical Officer—a Polish—Jewish refugee doctor. We conversed about various subjects of interest—world conditions, Poland's economic status, Paris Peace Conference, and ended on the outcome of this sinful war.

He told me in his convincing English how he lost his home, medical equipment, money; then he paused . . . . "My precious, beautiful, lovely companion was killed. Now I'm alone and have no country." He added, "The best of the Jewish people were killed; the worst remain. The Jewish people are hated in Europe."

I told him how I would like to help . . . . how the Richard Blackburn is a relief worker under the M.C.C. He served over four years in C.P.S. and volunteered to do relief work upon being released.

Mennonite people of the U. S. A. and Canada have entrusted to us relief, aid, welfare . . . the bringing of joy, peace, and happiness to others. I further explained the policies and principles of the MCC and other Protestant denominations. Then he said, "The Mennonites have the right religion." With sorrow, I noticed him blink his eyes to hold back the tears.

With a heavy heart I left for my work in the welfare office . . . . looked across the beautiful Adriatic Sea . . . . rejoiced once more that, many miles to the west, I have a country called U. S. A.; and . . . . waiting there—neighbors, friends and loved ones.

One small, yet ever large injunction—PRAY!

Items of Interest

When Harry Martens of North Newton, Kansas, left the work at La Plata, Puerto, Rico, he received a letter from Governor Jesus T. Pinero of Puerto Rico expressing great pleasure with the work being done in Puerto Rico and the hope that the work would continue. Governor Pinero stated that while he was "talking to a family in the community (of La Plata), they told me that it seemed to them that the members of your group . . . . "must have come from heaven." Every encouragement was given that the Puerto Rico work be continued.

* * * *

Eighteen representatives attended the annual meeting of the Young Peoples Union Council which was held at Newton Kansas, February 8-10. This is the second annual meeting of these representatives which were invited to come from all districts in the U.S. and provinces of Canada in which the General Conference is represented. The Council discussed plans for the future of the Young Peoples Union program.

* * * *

The National Christian Council of China had its first meeting since the close of the war. At this meeting it approved plans for a three-year nation-wide movement for evangelism which is to be launched in 1947.

* * * *

The October issue of India Calling states that in the southern part of the mission field in India, the Phuljhar area, there have been six hundred baptisms in nine months, and the growth is so phenomenal that these figures are already out of date.

* * * *

The National Association of Biblical Instructors held their annual meeting recently at which they reached the conclusion that scholarly research in the field of religion lags far behind studies in the physical and social sciences. This lack of research was evident not only in Biblical studies but also in psychology and sociology or religion. The reason for this failure, it was felt, is due to the lack of freedom granted the religious scholar. His work is unduly prescribed and outlined in such a way that existent opinions and information cannot be questioned.

* * * *

The conscription issue is again making its appearance. News from Washington indicates that there is a general agreement that the draft act should not be continued. This position is taken by those who had ardently supported the draft last summer. In place of the present draft act, however, the proposal is made that provision be made for universal service which is, merely, a nice way of saying that conscription should be continued. Apparently it is felt that there is a better chance of obtaining conscription by using this new term.

* * * *

In a recent poll, it was revealed that nearly one-half of the population of Italy wants to migrate to some other country and establish their permanent residence there. About 40 per cent of the those who want to leave desire to come to the U. S.

* * * *

In the last twelve years, the financial outlay for public education has risen 12 per cent. In the same period, national income has risen 400 per cent. The National Education Association also pointed out that in the same period the carefully selected, fully qualified teacher is being replaced by poorly trained, makeshift teaching personnel; 138,000 persons holding emergency certificates are now in the classrooms.

* * * *

The second native of India to become a Bishop in the Methodist Church, Shot K. Mondel, is in the U.S. touring the country speaking to large congregations.

* * * *

The British Colonial Office will spend one million pounds during the next ten years for the training of native Africans for administrative posts at the highests levels. In the past, although equality was granted native Africans in theory, they had no chance for such offices in competition with better-educated whites. (WP)

* * * *

The mechanization of farming in America is continuing apace. Where there were eighty-five thousand tractors in 1918, there are now two million on American farms. The production per farm worker is twice what it was in 1910. It is expected that where 18 per cent of the population is farming now, in the future this will be reduced to 10 per cent. Only 75 years ago, America was predominantly an agricultural nation and now it is ever becoming more completely industrial! This has had widespread effects including the migrant laborers, the large movement of negroes from the South to northern cities, the vast population increase in California from six to ten millions in five years has this as a large source of population. At present, the movement to California is going on at a rate of fifty thousand a month.

RELIEF

Material Aid Shipments

Shipments leaving port during the last half of January for overseas, included 689 bales of clothing, shoes and soap which was destined for the Berlin Displaced Mennonites. To the Mennonite Unit in Poland were shipped 9 tons of clothing, bedding and shoes, and 42 tons of assorted foods. All of these goods originated at either Glick's Cannery, Smoketown, Pa., the Mennonite Clothing Center at Ephrata, Pa., or the Silver Springs Warehouse at Silver Springs, Pa.

Thirty-four tons of assorted foods were shipped from the Mennonite Food Warehouse at Kalona, Iowa, to the Mennonite Child Feeding Unit located at Kiel, in the British Zone of Germany. Twenty-eight tons of assorted foods were shipped to the Kiel Project from the Food Warehouse located at Kitchener, Ontario. Kiel also was the destination of sixty tons of Ralston cereal.

Twenty-one tons of clothing, bedding and shoes were shipped to the British Zone of Germany for CRALOG distribution.

Releif Worker Departures and Arrivals

Elizabeth Boehr, of Bluffton, Ohio, and Ralph Gunden of Goshen, Indiana, left on February 6 for relief work in Austria.

Ellen Peachy arrived at Antwerp, Belgium, on February 4. Brother and Sister C. A. DeFehr reached Asuncion, Paraguay on February 2.

CARE Packages

During recent weeks between three and four hundred CARE packages orders have been processed weekly through the Akron and Kitchener offices. CARE continues to be an effective, reliable channel through which food can be sent from a particular individual or group in North America to some PARTICULAR INDIVIDUAL who may be in need in any one of a number of countries abroad. CARE, however, is not a relief organization. It is not, nor claims to be, an organization for efficient distribution of food to needy folks in general. Any cash for general relief purposes can therefore be much more efficiently used in meeting relief needs when sent through regular MCC channels.

Additional Workers Needed at MCC Headquarters

Stenographer, bookkeeper, accountant, research assistant, several for general office and clerical service, two particularly qualified in both German and English.

Anyone interested, probably available, CALLED to serve the church at MCC headquarters for a year or more, write to Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania, for allowance, terms, etc. Recommendations or advice of anyone probably available also appreciated.

At a time when the whole world is torn by hatred, strife, and dissension, it is tragic that we, as Friends, cannot give a clear demonstration of Christian fellowship. How can we hope to heal the world's divisions when we are seriously afflicted with the same disease? —The American Friend

"What we need is a religious education that will make Christianity Christian. The Christianity we have is not Christian enough to change our world from a human slaughter house to a human brotherhood.

"Christianity has not failed. It has never been tried. This has been said before. But it was never so evident as it is today. Not even has friendship been tried in international relations except for selfish ends."—J. L. Kesler in College News and Views

Bethel College Bible Week Speakers

DR. FREDERICK K. STAMM

Dr. Frederick K. Stamm is widely recognized as one of the outstanding preachers in America today. He is known to millions of Americans through his "Highlights of the Bible" program, broadcast on Sunday morning from 9:00 to 9:30, during the summer months over a coast-to-coast hookup of the National Broadcasting Company. These programs have been broadcast for the past sixteen years.

For a number of years Dr. Stamm served as pastor of the historic Clinton Avenue Congregational Church in Brooklyn. In 1925 he served as exchange pastor for England and Scotland. Since 1843 he has served the First Congregational Church of Chicago, one of that city's oldest and largest churches.

Dr. Stamm is widely known as a writer, being a frequent contributor to such magazines as the Readers Digest, The American, Good Housekeeping, Christian Century, Forum, and many others. He is the author of a number of books, among them the Conversations of Jesus, In the Shadow of the Cross, Seeing the Multitudes.

Bethel College feels itself exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure Dr. Stamm as one of its Bible lecturers.

DR. FLOYD E. MALLOTT

Dr. Floyd E. Mallott, Professor of Old Testament and History at Bethany Biblical Seminary, has a rich background of experience prior to his present position in the seminary. He served several terms as a missionary in Africa. When health conditions compelled discontinuance of his work he served as pastor of a Brethren Church in Michigan.

He has done extensive research in Church of Brethren history. In fact, he is recognized by that church body as its outstanding historian of the present day.

Bethel College considers it a high privilege to have Dr. Mallott serve on its Annual Bible Week bringing messages from the pages of church history.

Jottings

—First Church of Christian Mennonite, Moundridge, Kansas: The C. E. sponsored the Bethel A Cappella Choir at the high school auditorium in a sacred concert to which the Moundridge community was invited on Sunday evening, January 19. A social hour was enjoyed by the choir and the C. E. members. Hamburgers, hot chocolate, coffee, potato chips, and cookies were served.—Mrs. Myron G. Stucky, Corr.

—Zion Church, Kingman, Kansas: Rev. J. H. Epp, pastor, was honored on the afternoon of February 2 with a celebration of his seventieth brithday. Church members came together, and with friends and relatives of Rev. Epps from a distance, celebrated the occasion. Rev. A. J. Dyck of Inman, Kansas, was the guest speaker. The event was climaxed with a reception served in the church basement.—Corr.

—First Church, Paso Robles, California: On January 22 we had the pleasure of having Mr. Erwin C. Goering and Mr. Harry Martens in our midst. The colored slides on Puerto Rico, as well as the talk by Mr. Martens, were enjoyed by all present. From January 28 to February 2 we had the privilege of having Dr. H. Framer Smith, Bible teacher, author and conference, speaker, with us. The first four nights we had Bible studies on I John. Sunday morning and eveing he brought to us inspiring messages. The evening service was based on John 3:16.—Gus Toevs, Corr.

—Zion Church, Elbing, Kansas: The organization of our youth, under the supervision of a recreational director, has proved a great blessing during the past year and a half. Besides meeting for monthly social gatherings, they have organized a Bible study class. Each month the director appoints a new committee to provide entertainment and to arrange for refreshments.—Mrs. Louis A. Jantzen

—Bethel College Church: Our guest speaker on Sunday morning, February 9, was the Rev. Floyd Nunley, minister of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, Newton. His sermon for Race Relations Sunday, mentioned some of the problems the negroes meet constantly in our community.—Eldon W. Graber

—Saucon (Pa.) Mennonite Church, February 2: Miss Blank from Quakertown was our guest soloist. She sang several selections during our worship services. During January the interior of the church was repainted. The picture that was received on our 211th anniversary of the Frank Kamer adds to the beauty of the church—Kathryn Mumbauer, Corr.

—Bergtal Church, Pawnee Rock, Kansas: The local relief committee reports $2,730 for European relief in a recent drive. Arnold Jansen, Canadian ministerial student at Bethel College, filled our pulpit both morning and night on February 2. The young people have planned an interesting series of C. E. programs. The Sunday School has a new superintendent each Sunday while our regular superintendent is on an extended vacation trip.—Mrs. John Dirks, Corr.

—First Church, Berne, Indiana: On Sunday evening February 2 the Women's Missionary Society of the church celebrated its sixtieth anniversary. Mrs. J. R. Duerksen of Newton, Kansas, missionary to India, was the speaker. This society was started by the late Rev. S. F. Sprunger, former pastor of the church, with thirty-three members. At the present time the membership has reached nearly six hundred. The records show that during the fifty-eight years that statistics were kept, 1,125 quilts and 665 comforters were made, which were sent to missionaries, hospitals, etc., and $41,580 was given in cash.—Martha Gilliom, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Fredonia, Kansas: At our annual meeting, January 12, 1947, we decided to support regularly, some institution, such as "Grace Bible Institute" or "Go Ye Missions," by special offerings. After the meeting a small string instrumental group, consisting of ten members, was organized.—Mrs. Alvin Schmidt, Corr.

—First Church, Monroe, Washington: February 4 Irwin Goering, repersenting Bethel College and Harry Martens, representing the Relief Board, showed slides and told something of the fruits and generous giving and prayers of our churches in behalf of the cause of relief in Puerto Rico.—Mrs. George Kopper, Corr.

REFUGEES MOVEMENT TO PARAGUAY

Prayers were wondrously answered as the ship "Volendam" finally left Europe on February 1, bound for Buenos Aires with 2,311 Mennonite refugees aboard. This movement represents the fruits of many months of concern and work in making all of the necessary arrangements.

This group of 2,311 refugees who are now on the high seas, consists of 320 persons who had been in Holland, about 1,065 from the Munich area (in the American Zone) of Germany, and 926 from Berlin, Germany. So far it has not been possible to secure exit permits for any of the refugees located in the British Zone of Germany.

The "Volendam" is scheduled to arrive at Buenos Aires about February 21 or 22. From that port the group will be taken northward to Paraguay via railroad or river boat. Brother C. A. DeFehr has arrived in Paraguay and will be in charge of receiving these refugees at Buenos Aires, arranging for transportation to Paraguay, and helping them to become settled in their new homeland.

In addition to this group of 2,311 who are on the way to Paraguay, an estimated eight thousand or more Mennonite refugees remain in Europe. Effort is being made to find places where these may also migrate and settle permanently. —M.C.C.

—First Church, Nappanee, Indiana: Last Sunday evening Willard Smith of Goshen College showed pictures and gave us a message on his two years work in Paraguay for the M.C.C. The Missionary Society sent in 610 quilt patches, 35 spools of thread, 10 packages of needles, 4 girls dresses and 1,614 religious pictures to be sent to India. Our pastor attended the Indiana Pastor's Conference last week at Indianapolis. He attended a mass meeting of eleven thousand to hear Pastor Niemoller of Germany. Next Sunday evening Adele Haddad, a Syrian girl of Goshen College, will speak to us.—Mrs. Loyal Corwin.—Corr.

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: We were happy to have with us Sunday February 9 Rev. Waldo Flickinger of Alsen North Dakota, (formerly of this church), to bring us inspiring messages at morning and evening services. Rev. Flickinger was returning home from a conference in Oklahoma and stopped to visit his home church and relatives.—Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Reedley, California: Irwin Goering and Harry Martens from Bethel were with us this weekend in the interest of the college and the Puerto Rican project. On Sunday evening pictures were shown. A Bethel College Fellowship Dinner was served to ninty people on Monday evening. Dr. Marden Habegger was toastmaster. Besides the Bethel representatives, the men's chorus of the church and a girls trio composed of Carol Eymann, Imogene Kroeker and Marjorie Reimer had a part on the program. The Refugee Resettlement Plan was presented to the church on Sunday morning. Committee members are busy estimating and soliciting for our share of the project. The Sunday School collection of fifty-six dollars is to go for equipment for Dr. Dester's hospital work in India. Next Monday evening the Reedley Hospital Association is having a dinner in our church social hall. Members of our Worthwhile Circle serve these dinners.—V. E. Corr.

—Immanuel Church, Delft, Minnesota: We had prayer services January 5-7. The topics given by our pastor, Rev. Graber, were: "The True Worshiper." "The Secret of Believing Prayer." "The Holy Spirit and Prayer," and "A Life of Prayer." January 19 Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Klaassen observed their Silver Wedding Anniversary. The speakers were Rev. Lando Hiebert and Rev. Victor Graber. January 20 our church had a special business meeting at which time the congregation decided to support Miss Adeline Fast, who is a missionary candidate to Africa. Another of our members, Miss Juanita Smith, is looking forward to going to Ecuador as a missionary .—Linda Wall, Corr.

—Inman Church, Inman, Kansas: Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Kaufman have accepted a call by the M.C.C. to go to Brazil, South America. Their field of service will be among a group of Mennonites who have settled around Soa Paulo. They will dispose of their property in Inman at an auction sale Saturday afternoon February 15. The parents of Viola Duerksen, who left for Paraguay, January 24, received word that she arrived in Asuncion the following Monday. She made the trip by plane.

—Newport Church, Newport, Washington: The Junior Aid girls gave a play and program on February 2. A collection was held for the orphans in India they are supporting. The men of the church have been busy cutting logs to saw into lumber for a parsonage.—Mrs. Henry Hiebert, Corr.

—Arlington Church, Arlington, Kansas: Dr. H. A. Fast of North Newton was with us Sunday morning, February 2. He gave us a vivid picture of the relief work being done by the Mennonites in many parts of the world. We were happy to have Rev Ronald von Riesen here again to bring us the morning message on February 9.—Mrs. Lester Ewy, Corr.

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

Recently our office received the following letter:

Mennonite General Conference Headquarters,
Newton, Kansas

In 1922 father ——— loaned $——— to the Canadian Colonization Board. Father has died, and we children had forgotten. This has now been paid back in the sum of $———.

We as a family feel that it would be in keeping with father's spirit to donate this sum to relief of Mennonite Refugees to Buenos Aires, as from the——— estate.

Sincerely yours,

———

We believe this letter shows a fine spirit and may be an encouragement for others to devote larger shares of their earthly goods to this relief undertaking.—Walter H. Dyck, Office Manager

Renew your "Mennonite"
It renews YOU!

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: The young people gave a program at the Pratum church on February 2. Our pastor attended the Council of Boards Meetings at Newton, Kansas. He also brought the Sunday morning message at the First Mennonite Church of Newton. Rev. J. M. Franz brought the morning message on February 9 in the absence of our pastor. Rev. F. F. Wall, pastor of the M.B. Church in Winton, California, was in our services Sunday night,—Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—First Church, Hutchinson, Kansas: Our church choir is rehearsing an Easter cantata anticipating the rendition of "The Easter Sunrise Song." The men's chorus gave a program in the Berean Baptist Church of this city Sunday evening February 9. The Sunshine Bible Class is being conducted on Tuesdays from 4 to 5:15 P. M. instead of Wednesday nights. Attendance at the Sunday morning worship services is very encouraging. We recently tried to visit all of those people who worship with us from time to time but do not come regularly.—Mrs. J. S. Friesen, Corr.

—First Church, Geary, Oklahoma: Reports at the annual meeting showed that the church had given over $1300 for missions and relief. The Ladies Aid Society is meeting regularly every first Tuesday of the month. Rev. Abe H. Peters was able to visit most of the members of the church during his short stay during the Christmas vacation.

—Brudertal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: The marriage of Randolf Penner, member of this church to Luella Tieszen of the Bethesda Church near Marion, South Dakota, took place on December 29. Rev. E. J. Miller, Field Secretary of our Seminary in Chicago, conducted a week of meetings January 19-24 in our church on the theme of "Prayer." His subjects were: "Prayer, a Lost Word," "Why Believe in Prayer," "God's Will for Us," "A Man of Prayer," "United through Prayer," and "Prayer and Your Troubles." An offering was taken for the Seminary. Rev. Robert Tully, Director of Physical Education at Bethel College, was the speaker of a series of union Sunday evening services, which were held in our church on Sunday, January 19. Johann Hilverda, Dutch student at Bethel College, preached the sermon for our Sunday morning worship hour on January 26. The Young People's C. E. of our church invited the European students now attending Bethel College, to give a program in our church on Sunday evening January 26. They also invited the young people of the Hillsboro and Johannestal churches. For lack of room in our church this program was given in the Hillsboro high school auditorium. An offering was held on January 26 for relief, the money to be used to help bring the first shipload of refugees to Paraguay.—Miss Katherine E. Nickel, Corr.

—Sister Aganetha Fast writes that beginning with February 17 her new address will be 3435 West Van Buren, Chicago 24, Illinois.

—First Church, Allentown, Pa. Sunday afternoon February 2, 20 per cent of our Sunday School membership participated in a service for the guests of our Old Folk's Home at Frederick. The climax to a spirited song service was the hearty singing of the chorus, "Leaning on the Everlasting Arms," by the guests themselves. They sang with deep conviction. After the service, one group sang and prayed with those who were confined to their rooms, while another group went on an inspection tour of the heating system, the new freezer locker, and a new loud speaker system. We were impressed with the friendliness and pleasant rivalry which prevails among the guests and those in charge and the efficiency with which the home is run.—Mrs. LeRoy Weidner, Corr.

—First Church, Sugarcreek, Ohio: The men of our Sunday School purchased an electric ironer which will be sent to the Seminary in Chicago. Mr. Carl Lehman of Bluffton reported that the value of our canning for the college last fall amounted to forty dollars. Six of our number are attending a teachers' leadership training school at Dover. The school meets six Monday evenings throughout January and February, making a total credit time of twelve hours. Our church has the following events scheduled for the coming spring season: March 11, Church Family Night; March 16-23, Pre-Easter services with Rev. Ed Miller of the Mennonite Seminary as our guest speaker: March 30, Palm Sunday—baptism and reception of new members: April 3, Holy Communion; April 6, Easter, play by the young people on Sunday evening; April 13, two European students from Bluffton College will be with us for morning and evening services; April 19-20, Tri-Church Youth Conference at the Wadsworth Church.—Wiley McDowell, Corr.

—Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary of the Home Mission Board, writes that the address of Rev. and Mrs. H. Albert Claassen is 35 Hastings Avenue, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

—The Annual Sunday School Convention of the Western District Conference will meet at the First Church, Newton, Kansas, April 20.—Elfriede Regier, Secretary.

—First Mennonite Church Philadelphia, Pa. At pressent a small, but faithful, group of ladies meets at the church on Wednesdays to sew for relief. Their accomplishments for 1946 were as follows: 1,100 pounds of clothing sent to the M.C.C. at Akron and directly to Holland, including 328 new garments, 5 blankets, 3 afgans, 13 comforters and reconditioned garments. Also sixteen dollars was sent for shoe repairs. Our Intermediate C. E. recently sponsored the showing of the colored sound motion picture, "The Missing Christians." The auditorium was filled and at the close of the service some signified for prayer in their behalf. The Sunday School mission offerings for the first quarter of the fiscal year totalled $158.69.—Mrs. H. S. Weiss, Corr.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 February 25, 1947 Number 8

The Sailing of the "S. S. Volendam" as reported by Magdalen Friesen and Marie Brunk, M. C. C. relief workers

In the bitter cold of the last days of January the hopes and prayers of some 2,300 Russian Mennonite refugees came to realization when they embarked on the S. S. VOLENDAM for Paraguay — the land of promise.

For months previous to this move negotiations had been carried on almost daily with military officials, consulates, and shipping companies. The three processing centers — Berlin, Munich and Holland — were beehives of activity with the preparation of the refugees for migration. Our people in Germany had to be screened politically, receive papers of identification and undergo a medical examination. Complete data concerning each person had to be typed regarding his family group, birthplace, birthdate and occupation. The typing of these lists took endless amounts of time.

The week previous to the sailing of the VOLENDAM, MCC trucks collected baggage from the various communities all over Holland in which our people were living. Three days before departure trucks, busses, trains and cars brought the refugees to Rotterdam. The weather was frigid and we were much concerned as to how our people would fare in the back of the trucks; but thanks to the blankets which had been sent along, the people arrived in only a semi-frozen state—at least they were still able to smile when they jumped off the trucks. A number of our MCC people had gone to Rotterdam to help with the embarkation procedures so the people could board ship without unnecessary delay.

The first two passengers to enter the ship demonstrated most effectively the wide range of persons seeking a new home in a new land. Great care had been taken to have an old grandmother of eighty-four years arrive at the ship in good physical health. Despite every precaution, she suffered what seemed to be a slight stroke enroute from Amsterdam to Rotterdam and had to be carried to her room in a semi-conscious state. The second passenger was a tiny baby who had just been removed from a hospital and was transported to the ship in a basket. A glance through the cellophane window of the basket indicated that the baby was most satisfied with the course of events.

All 329 Holland passengers had arrived and after a few hours of anxious waiting for the last baggage, the ship set sail at 5:00 P. M. on January 28. Strains of "So Nimm Denn Meine Haende" floated out across the water to the Dutch and American friends on shore who were waving a last farewell. The response came back "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

The first night out at sea we made an inspection of the quarters of our passengers from Holland. We found the elderly people comfortably accommodated in small fifteen-passenger cabins. Women with small children also received the same accommodation. Going below we found mothers tucking away their children in the stationary beds of a huge dormitory room housing over one hundred persons. Proceeding to the rear end of the ship we found another large room in which the younger women and girls were rocked to sleep in hammocks. The men and boys had similar quarters. With the exception of persons staying in smaller staterooms, everyone—troop-like fashion—ate in the same rooms in which they slept. The food on ship was excellent and was particularly appreciated later by those passengers from Germany who had been existing on slim rations.

Weighing heavily on our minds during this trip to Bremerhaven was the news that we had heard that there was little or no hope for the Berlin group to join the trek to Paraguay. Because of the improbability of Peter and Freda Dyck's accompanying the VOLENDAM to Paraguay, hasty last minute preparations were made for Siegfried and Margaret Janzen to accompany Evangeline Matthies and ourselves to Bremerhaven. It might be added that special meetings were held in the MCC units in Holland when the gravity of the Berlin situation was known.

Our journey to Bremerhaven was so swift that upon arising from the dinner table the following evening, we were greatly surprised to find the ship docked in the harbor. As we rushed out on deck, our eyes fell on the train from Munich, and its human contents spilling out all over the shore and calling in joyous recognition to friends aboard the ship. Peter Dyck was also there and came on board immediately. His grim face dashed away the last hopes we might have had concerning the release of the Berlin group.

After consultations between ship officials and group leaders, it was decided to take the Russian Mennonites from Munich aboard ship that same night. The journey had been long for many of these people. Numbers of them had left their place of residence on Sunday in order to meet the military train in Munich which was to take them to Bremerhaven. Camp officials were highly pleased with the orderly manner in which our people entrained. They stated that the boarding of our 1,071 Mennonites was conducted much more smoothly than that of another group of twenty refugees. Our people followed instructions to put all their luggage in the baggage car so literally that the camp leader was alarmed when she made her rounds and found that they had no baggage on which to sit. Our refugees assured her that the discomforts of the box-car trip from Munich to Bremerhaven were inconsequential in the light of other events. Namely, the threat of return to Russia had again become vivid for them when the Russian officials were present at their political screenings with the United States officers.

The Munich group left on Monday night, January 27 and arrived at Bremerhaven at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, January 29. They were taken on board ship the same evening. The long, tedious period of waiting to be assigned sleeping quarters was alleviated by steaming cups of coffee which were handed to every passenger upon entering the ship. It was below zero weather and the fingers of many of the people were so cold that they could hardly hold the cups of coffee handed to them. But frozen as their exteriors might be, their eyes were bright with warmth and hope. Crossing the threshold of the ship were the first steps that led them to the beginning of a new life. On entering the ship, one child turned to his mother and said, "Mama, this is just like coming into church." The line of incoming passengers went by so rapidly that we were surprised that it was 4 o'clock when we finally were able to retire.

The captain urged that the ship sail at two o'clock the next day if there was no hope of the Berlin group coming through. Before consenting to the sailing time, Brother Klassen weighed in his mind the actions that had taken place during the past few days wherein the U. S. military had decided not to take the risk of transporting our people through the Russian zone and Peter Dyck had gone to see General Lucius Clay. In the light of this very faint ray of hope, Brother Klassen, after prayerful consideration, stated at noontime that the ship would wait another day before sailing.

That afternoon all of the passengers gathered on one of the decks for a farewell service. Brief messages were given by both Brother Klassen and Peter Dyck. The opening words of Peter's speech, "Now, soon you will no longer be refugees," stirred his hearers to the depths. References to the Berlin group and the apparent hopelessness of their lot caused the entire audience to dissolve in tears. Everyone realized that nothing short of a miracle from God could bring deliverance to these severely tried people. When, in conclusion, the entire group sang "Befiehl Du Deine Wege," one felt a new upsurge of faith in the Power that underlies our life and the whole universe, and a hope that even now that Power might manifest itself in some way. And, dramatically enough, before the song was finished, a call came through from Berlin asking for Brother Klassen and Peter Dyck. The gist of the message was that Russia had granted permission for the Berlin people to pass through their zone. When this message was announced over the loudspeaker, some greeted it with loud cries of joy and others with the silent benediction of tears.

Magdalen Friesen, who is working in the refugee migration program with headquarters in Amsterdam, is from Butterfield, Minnesota, and is a member of the Bethel Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota. Marie Brunk is a member of the Cottage City Mission at Cottage City, Maryland. Both of these workers were present when the Volendam left Rotterdam and when it left Bremerhaven.

Peter Dyck made immediate preparations to leave for Berlin. Siefried Janzen went along to remain in Berlin and tie up the loose ends of the D.P. work there.

In the meanwhile Freda Dyck in Berlin was given a two-hour notice that the refugees should be ready to be moved at eight o'clock. Fortunately the people were all having supper when she received this announcement, so she could notify them of this climactic change in their futures immediately. Because there were no lights, the packing was done in darkness, but they were all finished and waiting at the door by eight o'clock. Only the noise made by the army trucks and their drivers broke the stillness of the night as our people silently made their exodus.

At the Berlin railway station there were high officials ranking from generals on down to see the departure of the mysterious refugees. Oh yes, they were publized. The night before a voice on the radio had announced, "A Dutch ship, carrying Mennonites, had arrived at Bremerhaven, to take on additional Mennonites. Where they come from nobody knows. Where they are going nobody knows. It is a great mystery." A train of forty-one box-cars was waiting at the Berlin station to transport our Mennonites to Bremerhaven. Straw, stoves and blankets had been provided for their comfort. However, most of the stoves refused to burn properly and succeeded chiefly in giving off great quantities of smoke during the long, cold journey. Peter Dyck arrived in Berlin just shortly before the train left and was able to accompany the people to Bremerhaven. It was a long and tedious trip through the Russian zone, due to the fact that there is only one track between the Allied zones and Berlin. Many long hours were spent waiting on side tracks. It seemed to be an interminable journey and finally ended when the train pulled in next to the VOLENDAM at 2:30 Saturday morning. The rest of the freezing night was spent in the cars, the people getting colder and colder. One baby contracted double pneumonia on the way and was brought into the ship during the night, but despite all efforts she died at seven in the morning. Another person died because of a heart attack during the trip.

Saturady morning dawned, as bitterly cold as previous mornings had been. Aged grandmothers and travel-worn children were helped aboard ship by MCC workers. Many of the helpless were taken on stretchers. As on the previous occasion, the passengers were given a hot cup of coffee on entering the ship. Ragged bedroom slippers and thin shawls and coats gave evidence of the long period of deprivation suffered by these people. They were a perfect example of the type of refugee you see on posters. But in spite of their shabby exterior, they were unspeakably happy to be on board the ship and on the way to a place they might again call home.

This departure was not without its moments of drama. We were told by one woman from the Munich group that she had not seen her husband, who was of the Berlin group, for sixteen years. Also this departure had its times of intense pathos. A young man from the Munich group, whose wife and child were with the Berlin group, left the ship to return to Munich shortly before we received the joyous news that their release had been granted. He could not be reached in time to return, so his wife and child went on without him. Also there was the case of a German Mennonite woman who had been engaged to be married to a man in Paraguay and now finally, after all these years, had the opportunity of joining him. There were several cases of mothers who had children in the British zone of Germany, who could not be processed in time for the migration. Their short meeting before the departure of the ship only accentuated their tearful farewells.

Last minute details were so demanding that the MCC workers barely made their exit from the ship in time for the departure which was set for 3:00 P. M. February 1. Our hearts were overwhelmed with awe, as from the shore we gazed upon this shipload of eager, thankful faces which were turned for the last time upon the shores of a land where they had suffered untold fear and deprivation. We could not help but think of the analogy of this group with the departure of the children of Israel from Egypt. Once again God had heard the prayers of His children and made possible their deliverance. The last sounds coming to us from the slowly departing ship were again the deep abiding faith expressed in "So Nimm denn Meine Haende" (Take Thou My Hand O Father).

A Reprint from "The New York Times" of February 15

MENNONITE ISSUE IN GERMANY ENDS

Soviet Permission to Depart Obtained by Gen. McNarney After Threat of Shootings

By Dana Adams Schmidt

Frankfort on the Main, Germany, Feb. 14—With 2,100 Mennonites from the Soviet Union near Paraguay, United States officials disclosed today a dispute that had preceded their departure from Germany.

According to the United States officials, Marshall Vassily D. Sokolovky had insisted that the Mennonites were Soviet citizens who should have been repatriated under the Yalta Agreement. They added that Russian authorities had said they would resist to a point of shooting any attempt to move 800 Mennonites from the United States sector of Berlin through the Soviet sector of Bremerhaven.

Only a last-minute personal intervention by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney before the sailing Jan. 31 persuaded Marshall Sokolovsky to withdraw the threat, United States officials said.

General McNarney thus won an argument that had started nearly a year ago when a Soviet liaison officer succeeded in turning back a trainload of 300 Mennonites bound from Munich to Rotterdam.

U. S. Officials Back Mennonites

United States officials had supported the claim of about 10,000 Mennonites who had fled from Russia to Germany that they were as much entitled to protection as the Jews who had fled from Poland.

Of wider significance, however, was the fact that General McNarney had scored a major point in a long-standing struggle over the rights of displaced persons. He followed up this action with a statement that the United States would not forcibly repatriate any nationals, including Russian, even if they had accepted employment in Germany during the war.

General McNarney made it clear for the first time that a Soviet citizen could admit his citizenship and still legally remain in the United States zone of Germany.

Henceforth there will be no reason, at least officially, why the many Soviet citizens known to be hiding in displaced persons camps by posing as Poles, Ukrainians or other nationals should not openly declare they were unrepatriable Soviet citzens.

The emigrating Mennonites are descendants of those whom Empress Catherine of Russia invited from Prussia and the Netherlands to develop the Ukraine in 1788. She granted to them many special rights, including perpetual exemption from military service and the right to leave the country at any time.

Claim Russian Oppression

According to Mennonite accounts, their worst difficulties began in 1930 when they were expropriated, arrested and deported to Siberia in large numbers because their prosperous farms branded them as Kulaks, they resisted communism and refused to renounce their desire to leave Russia.

The Mennonites estimate that 30,000 out of a community of 100,000 perished. When the Germans invaded the Soviet Union, Mennonites, still refusing to bear arms, were rounded up and deported to Siberia, along with the Volga Germans. The Germans gave many of them an opportunity to leave, which they seized.

Some later made their way through the Balkans and Czechoslovakia to the United States zone of Germany. A few have slipped away from Siberia to China.

College and Seminary News

BETHEL COLLEGE

The final session of the annual "School of Missions" sponsored cooperatively by the Bethel College Mennonite Church and the Student Christian Association was held February 16. This year "India" was chosen for study during six consecutive Sunday evenings. Members of the local church and students gathered together at five-thirty for a light lunch. Then the group divided into classes for Juniors, Intermediates, High School Students, College Students, and Adults. At seven-thirty these classes adjourned and reassembled together in the Student Union room for illustrated lectures and discussions. This plan has become an effective means of intensifying and extending the mission interests of our college community. We have been fortunate in having quite a number of friends who have been in India participate in the leadership of this "School of Missions."

MENNONITE SEMINARY NOTES

Last week, this column told about the study schedule followed by the students on the four days of classes held by the Seminary from Tuesday to Friday. Another part of the student's life is the problem everyone faces of "making ends meet." How is this done?

Recognizing the problems involved in trying to study and earn enough to get along, the Seminary grants scholarships to those students applying for aid. Some of the students serve churches over the three-day week-ends. Some are employed by the Seminary. Several serve in the city missions preaching, teaching, working with the city children, and doing maintenance work. Where possible the wives help out by getting employment.

By practicing frugality (always a wise policy), these various means serve to make it possible to get along. Is it worthwhile to do this? The glow that comes from a more thorough understanding of the meaning of Jesus Christ and the significance of His Church in the world of today, is ample pay for the efforts put forth and budgeting!

RELIEF

Child Feeding Projects

The MCC Unit in the French Zone of Germany is making plans for a child feeding program in the sixteen schools of the devastated city of Ludwigshaven. This will provide five supplementary meals per week to about six to eight thousand of the most needy and undernourished children. The program is to begin about the middle of February.

A similar project of child feeding is already in progress since January 17 at Kiel, in the British Zone of Germany. Here about 5,000 children ranging from 3 to 6 years old are given 300 calorie supplementary meals.

Relief Worker Departures and Arrivals

Fred Swartzendruber of Hopedale, Illinois, and Menno Fast, of Newton, Kansas left for Poland on February 14. These brethren will act as Director and Assistant Director, respectively, for the Tractor Operators' Training Unit which is to be located in Poland.

Ernst Harder, who came from Paraguay to this country seven years ago to study in Mennonite colleges, leaves on February 16, with his wife, Ruth Ewert Harder, to return to Paraguay. He will serve at the Asuncion center under the MCC in an administrative as well as pastoral capacity. Sister Harder will do clerical work in connection with the Mennonite refugee movement.

Error

In the news notes released on January 24, the name of Harold Sherk instead of J. W. Vogt should have appeared in connection with the Mental Rest Homes Advisory and Planning Committee.

European Agricultural Rehabilitation

Ben Bushong, who has been helping to arrange for donations of money and livestock through the Brethren Service Committee, for the purpose of rehabilitating European agriculture, has gone to Europe to ascertain the effectiveness of the livestock program in helping to meet the relief needs. Released via Mennonite Central Committee

MEMBERS OF IMPORTANT COMMITTEE

Members of the House Armed Forces Subcommittee, which is studying Universal Military Training, are: Harry L. Towe, Chairman; Dewey Short, Leslie C. Arends, J. Parnell Thomas, Walter Norblad, James E. Van Zandt, R. Ewing Thomason, Lansdale G. Sasscer, Robert L. F. Sikes, Arthur Winstead. Those who wish to write to these men may address them as Honorable Mr. So and So. House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Board of Publication Presents Budget

Your Board of Publications seeks to serve your Conference through the adequate service of the printed word to facilitate the work of all the various boards. It does this through a series of three weekly papers and three quarterly magazines, and a number of related services, in an attempt to bring unity and effectiveness to the work of every agency.

This range of services is financed, in part, through direct payment of subscriptions, and the balance through contributions. For a period of some years just past by far the larger portion of these costs have been covered by subscriptions. During the last two years new factors have entered which affect the budget of this board in working out its full range of services.

1. Extended services.—The personnel and the facilities of the main office have been enlarged. Through these services we hope to render more effective service in the field of mailing, direct publicity, advertising, etc., for the various boards as they seek to avail themselves of these services. In line with this policy the following recommendation was passed at the meeting of the Board of Publication during its current session:

RESOLVED, That the manager of the publication office, in consultation with the Chairman of the Board, be authorized to assist other boards as requested in editing, ordering, and processing pamphlets, books, and similar materials when such assistance is desired, the financial arrangements in each case to be considered as the case demands. Also,

RESOLVED, That the use of the mailing lists be made available without cost to any General Conference Board or Conference Committee except for so-called "direct costs."

2. Re-allocated costs.— At a decision of a joint meeting of the Board of Education with the Board of Publication the costs of editing the Sunday School quarterlies, which formerly were borne, for the most part, by the Board of Education, will, in the future, be paid through the accounts of the Board of Publication, in order more perfectly to portray actual costs. This increases materially the amount the Board of Publication will require in its budget.

3. Increased printing costs.—Increases in printing costs for the year 1947 are all the way from 14 per cent to 42 per cent, with an average of 30 per cent increase. Not all of this can be borne by the Sunday schools as direct increases in prices of Sunday School materials, or increases in subscription rates, especially not the 100-per-cent-plan, subscriptions.

In the light of the above factors the Board of Publications feels justified in presenting the following budget of estimated income and expense:

Budget of
BOARD OF PUBLICATION
For the Year 1947

Income

Contributions from our churches	$12,000.00
Subscriptions:
Weekly publications	13,000.00
Quarterly publications	8,700.00
Books (Hymnaries, Gesangbuch, etc)	1,200.00
Merchandise	10,500.00
Total estimated income, all sources	$45,400.00

Expenses

Publication Expense
Weekly publications	$17,200.00
Quarterly publications	8,000.00
Books	1,200.00
New ventures	1,000.00
Merchandise	10,000.00
Total estimated expense, all purposes		$37,400.00
Gross profit on operations		$ 8,000.00
Operating expenses, such as administrative expense, office personnel, office expense, building services, etc.		7,500.00
Net estimated margin of safety		$ 500.00

Special Gift Coupon

( ) I like the idea of an itemized budget.

( ) I want to back up the TOTAL work of our Conference, through effective publications.

( ) Send me more information concerning the work of our Publication Board.

MY SPECIAL OFFERING: $.................. enclosed

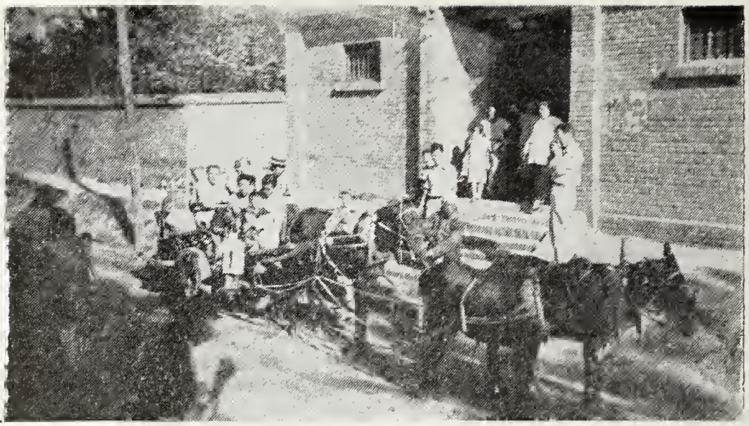
Name ....

Street or Route ....

City (zone), State ....

....

This picture was taken in front of the M.C.C. Unit headquarters in Kai Feng, Honan, China. On the cart are hospital supplies for the first medical center opened fifteen miles from the city. The people on the cart are: Doctor Paul Hu, our General Conference mission doctor, Miss Verna Zimmermann, M.C.C. worker, Miss Elisabeth D. Goertz, and several Chinese helpers. On the steps are Rev. Clayton Beyler (with camera), James and Hazel Liu, and Wilhelmina Kuyf.



by Elisabeth Goertz

I Have Been to P'u Yang (K'ai Chow)!

One verse in the Psalms reads: "Delight thyself in the Lord, and He shall give thee the desires of thine heart. Ps. 37:4. I had always hoped and prayed that I might be allowed to see my old home before going back to the U.S.A. Things kept shaping up more definitely all the time. Then last Wednesday (December 4) one of our M.C.C. workers came back from Ch'ang-yuan, where they were distributing clothing to the poor, and said: "Elisabeth, how would you like to go up to P'u Yang?" (They call everybody by their first name here.)

"Oh," I breathed—"is it possible to go now?"

And he said, "Yes, James is at Ch'ang-yuan, and he has inquired about the situation. The National troops have entered P'u Yang on Saturday, November 30."

Thursday, December 5, there was a meeting with the UNRRA and CNRRA nurses.

Then on Friday, December 6, Hazel Liu (Mrs. James Liu) and I left early in the morning on a bus for Ch'ang-yuan, forty miles north of K'ai Feng (half way to P'u Yang). There we met the members of the MCC Unit who were giving out clothing to the needy people.

On Saturday, December 7, Hazel, Mrs. Gascho of MCC and I left in a military truck for P'u Yang. (In 1943 Miss Regier and I were taken by the Japanese army in a convoy of twenty-three trucks out of our station, and now I came back with the Chinese army in a convoy of fifteen trucks back to our field!) They brought us as far as Wu Hsing, six miles from our station. We walked that distance. It was a fine day and in three hours we arrived (4 P.M.)

As we turned the corner of our old hospital inn, we were stopped by guards (National army). One of our group (Chinese nurse) explained who we were and went to the gates to see the guards there. We looked around, while we were waiting. You should have seen the sight! Our homes, as well as the hospital, looked like a patient who has been ill for many days,—eyes dark or sunken (windows and doors receded into mere open or sunken spaces). Everywhere piles of broken bricks—well, just devasted yards—that's the sight! Then, everywhere pill-boxes (guard houses)! At the big gate in front of the church many guards and soldiers! We needed to have someone from the local church speak for us before we could proceed towards the gate. Imagine in our own station, ask for permission to enter our own place from the "powers that be"!

Then the greeting. You should have been there really to get the right impression—surprised, happy, still conservative, because their freedom is only a week old and not too steady! We ate our three meals in three different places each day. Slept in part of the women's ward in the hospital on straw and mats. I said we were like birds who settle down to scratch and thus get a bite to eat. Because the eighth route are only some 10-12 li away in the villages and might have spies everywhere it was found to make as little "fuss" as possible in public about our coming. The folks said they were breathing naturally now for only a week, the new money CNC was strange to handle, the load was lifted, they were as if they had come out of a dark ditch onto open road, hardly trusting the world just ahead.

Our former Ting Ssu Ling is back in the city and this is what he says on placards on the city walls (I mean street walls—there are no city walls any more around K'ai Chow, Tsing Feng, Nanlo, Taming), can you imagine this? Ting's slogan: "We are people of one home. All of you may come home to live. I will do all in my power to preserve safe living in this district." Ting Shu Pen. I had wished we might go to see Ting Ssu Ling. We had to get special permission to go through the city gates. As we went into the court where he has his quarters I noticed it was the same place where Miss Regier and I were "held" by the Japanese that first night (December 8, 1941,)! Now we walked to see the Big Man of the place with happy expectation and you should have been there too to get that big handshake! We did a bit of reminiscing, exchanged compliments, and expressed hopes for co-operating for the future. We saw the General in the forenoon. Then went to West Street and again—oh, the warmth of the greeting! ! Had a meal together with the leaders of the church. The General came again to see us to repay the visit (real Chinese style). He said he would have gone to the East Suburb, but inquired and found that we were still in the city so came to see us here. It was really heart-moving to see such evident joy which we felt was real. He said he was coming to see us off the next morning. We protested but just the same, next day early he sent his man out to ask when we were leaving. He was planning to come out. One of our Chinese nurses knew what to do. He sent in our cards and thanked him courteously. We took leave of our people and station at about 9:30 A. M.

We chartered a truck and made the trip back to K'ai Feng in one day. There is talk about a small railroad to be built from Sinhsiang to K. C. in the next few years. They are now making an air field in the city of K. C. and there will be a bus station in the south suburb. Civilization will come in with great speed, and we add solemnly — also the treacherous "side shows" of civilization. Another reason for increasing Christian forces. One of our MCC men quoted the other day: "Our moral brakes do not match our mental horse-power."

The director of the MCC is to leave for home soon and he expects to go up to K'ai Chow before he leaves. The new director will also want to see the place to make estimations for medical work as soon as the local situation promises stability;

I am deeply grateful to our Heavenly Father to have granted me this great joy of seeing the Christians and to learn how they have come through these years of separation and suffering. It is true the Lord has answered prayer on their behalf, and He has also answered the supplications of the Christians and has given them quiet again. There will be somethings that need to be corrected between themselves, and we trust God's spirit and grace to be sufficient for such conditions.

The verses in Psalms have become true: "Though I walk in the midst of trouble, Thou wilt revive me." and "Who redeemeth thy life from destruction and crowneth thee with loving kindness and tender mercies." One can fairly see the crowns which some of them are wearing.

When asked as to the financial circumstances the answer was that the preachers are just at the brink where they cannot go on anymore. They cannot take the load of the church and do enough work on the side to support their families.

Dear Co-Workers:

The above tells you my joy of having had a chance to go to P'u Yang. I think I need not add anything now. I shall have more details to tell when I come home.

Christmas Greetings and New Year Wishes with John 1:16. Yours in joyful expectation, Elisabeth D. Goertz.

TWO NEW MISSIONARIES TO BE ORDAINED

Miss Melva Lehman will be ordained as a missionary to India in Berne, Indiana, Sunday morning, March 16, and Miss Leona Cressman will be ordained as a missionary to India in the Sterling Avenue Mennonite Church, Kitchener, Ontario, Canada, on Sunday March 9. We covet your prayers in the interest of these ordination services and the young people to be ordained. Howard G. Nyce, Executive-Secretary, Foreign Mission Board

To Observe Passion Week as a Week of Witness

At the recent annual Council of Boards Meeting in Newton the Evangelism Committee suggested that our churches be encouraged to observe the Passion Week as a Week of Witness annually. The meeting unanimously voted in favor of the plan.

The question arises, "Why have a Week of Witness?" For one thing, the Master's command, "Ye are my witnesses' still stands and needs to be taken seriously by all believers. Secondly, there are still people in most of our church communities who should be "constrained to come in, that my house may be filled." People need to be invited to accept the Lord and to unite with His Church. Why should people be allowed to go lost for lack of a warm invitation by Christian Neighbors? What a Week of Witness will mean to the church is a third reason for its observance. The prophet says, "How beautiful upon the mountains are the feet of him that bringeth good tidings." Feet become beautiful when they go out in love. The prophet makes the point that the evangel's soul is beautified as he makes his witness. A word spoken for Christ always establishes the believers in his own faith. A Week of Witness will strengthen the church spiritually.

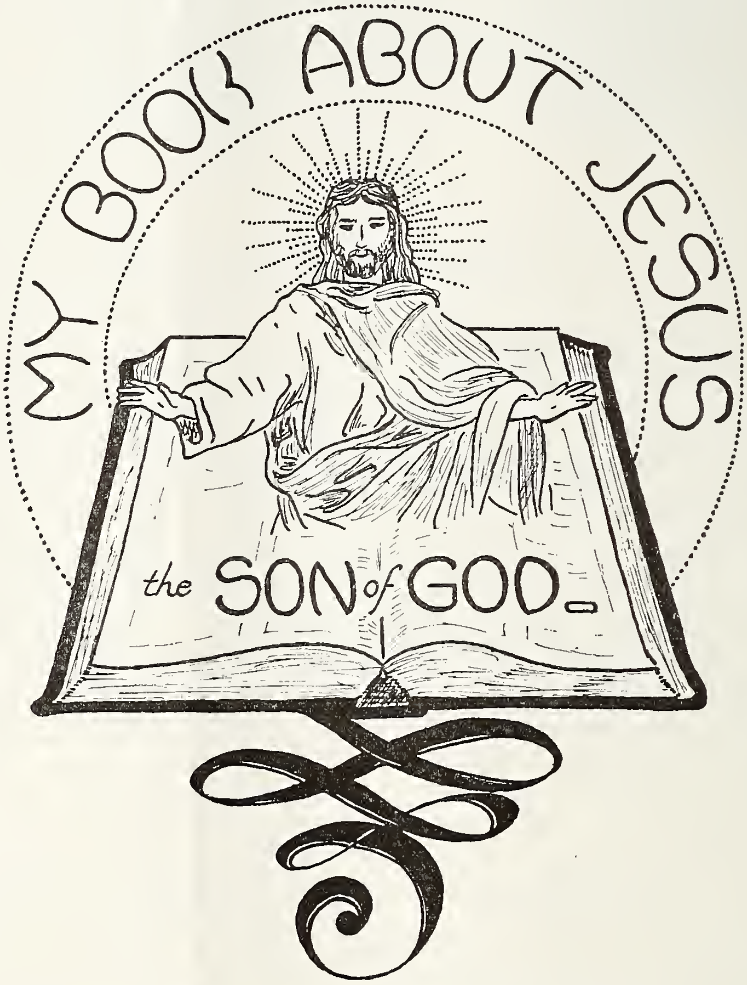
Why observe the Passion Week as Week of Witness? For two reasons the Passion Week is exceptionally fitting for an evangelistic effort. (1) During the week when Christian people commemorate the crucifixion of the Saviour their hearts are warm with love. In that week it is not very difficult to say something about the love of Christ. (2) It is a week when indifferent people can easily be touched, for their hearts also are mellowed by the fact that the week commemorates the death of the Saviour.

How a Week of Witness might be observed will be pointed out in coming articles and in a letter that is to go to pastors in the near future.

THE EVANGELISM COMMITTEE

THE NEW JUNIOR QUARTERLY ....

Have You Seen it?



The Board of Education and the Board of Publication, jointly, have mailed to EVERY church in our Conference—whether they ordered it or not—a sample shipment of the new JUNIOR QUARTERLY and the JUNIOR TEACHERS HANDBOOK, written by the same author, Mrs. Ed. Miller, to accompany the pupil's quarterly.

The two go hand in hand!

If you are sometimes puzzled about whether your religious education program, on the junior level, is "measuring up" as it should, then we suggest that you sit down—superintendent and teachers—to examine this new, two-way combination QUARTERLY and HANDBOOK. This is what we believe you will find:

1. An approach to Bible Study and Bible Teaching which makes the subject interesting—both pupil and teacher ENJOY DOING IT.

2. A study program which is SPECIFIC. Both the teacher and the pupil know what is what—the assignment is clear and definite. For the teacher there is a clear AIM, for the pupil a definite assignment.

3. The HEART, the HAND, and the HEAD all work together. The age-old, precious Scripture passages are not memorized to be forgotten when no longer called for on Sunday morning—they live in visualized context, in creative drawings and illustrations, and they "stick" in the memory of the child (and the teacher!) like the lingering strains of heart-warming music.

By special economies in printing we have been enabled to SAVE ON THE COST, even though this is the most profusely illustrated piece of printing which the Board of Publication has ever attempted. The TEACHERS MANUAL will hereafter be included in the cost of the pupil quarterly, and, therefore, no church need hesitate to use the TEACHERS MANUAL freely.

An order placed NOW, for the SECOND QUARTER, will make sure that you get these materials in the hands of both pupil and teacher in ample time.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Eight Months in Paraguay as a Relief Worker

by Willard Schrag

In many parts of the world there is hunger, shortage of clothing, sickness, sorrow, and chaos. In view of these facts I began to think of doing my part in helping some of those people who would need to be helped if they were not to be left suffering and perishing. One day in November of 1945 I received an offer from the Mennonite Central Committee (an organization of nearly all Mennonites of the U.S.A. and Canada) to go to Paraguay, South America, to work on one of their projects, indicating that it would probably be the construction of a leper colony to which I would be assigned. The following day I wrote to that Committee and accepted their offer. It was the following February that six of us men boarded a ship in Baltimore, Maryland, that was to take us as far as Buenos Aires, Argentina. This ship was carrying a full load of coal, and being a freight ship it had room for only eight passengers. It took twenty-eight days to get from Baltimore to Buenos Aires, with one day spent in Port of Spain, Trinidad, where the ship was refueled. Arriving in Buenos Aires we found that we had to wait four days for a river boat scheduled to sail up the Parana and Paraguay rivers to Asuncion. We arrived in Asuncion, Paraguay, on the twenty-seventh day of March where we made our home for several weeks getting our cedulas (identification papers) and getting registered, and studying the Spanish language.

Work in a Leper Colony

After some time in Asuncion I was privileged to go out to a leper colony to help look after the work there in the absence of Mr. Arnold who had to go to Asuncion because of sickness. However in about two and one-half weeks Mr. Arnold returned to the colony and we were free to return to Asuncion. While in this colony near Sapucai, Paraguay, I came face to face with leprosy for the first time knowing what it was. Here I got a glimpse of what it means to be a leper. Some of these people had welts all over them which looked like a multitude of little boils, others had raw open skin and running sores, and still others were minus fingers and toes consumed by leprosy, but the thing that seemed to annoy these people most was the fact that they were considered social outcasts, not permitted to mingle with the rest of the world. Besides these facts, they had a very meager living. When one sees the condtion of these poor helpless people one soon feels that if there is anything he can do to make their lot an easier one it is not wasted our effort, for we who have been fortunate enough to have a better lot in life, having been spared such misery, should be willing to do something for those less fortunate than ourselves. Because of the many cases of leprosy in this country the Mennonite Central Committee is planning to construct another leper colony in Paraguay. We hope that this work may start soon, but until the present time we haven't been granted the land on which to build.

Feeding Flood Victims

Since we didn't have the desired land to begin on the leper work which we were to undertake, we occupied ourselves with other work which presented itself. One such project was a cocoa feeding project for the homeless due to the flooding of the Paraguay River. The Paraguay River is a large navigable river extending from the Parana up into Brazil. This year this river reached the highest flood stage of the last thirty years. Many people were left homeless right in the winter time (June and July). Part of these homeless people were then placed in the Deposito Inflamable (a large store house or warehouse for inflamables). These people were from the poorest district of Asuncion and consequently they had not enough money to buy the provisions necessary to maintain themselves. Making an investigation tour one day we found that there were around 245 people staying in this one building. About 120 of these were children. These people were getting some rice, beans, and meat, which, diet is not sufficient for children as was pointed out by the doctor who was taking us on this tour. He also estimated that the diet per person averaged around one thousand calories per day which is not enough to sustain a grown person. So the Mennonite Central Commitee in cooperation with the Rotary Club of Asuncion arranged to give each of these children a cup of hot cocoa every morning. This project was carried on until the river receded enough so the people could begin to return and rebuild their little shacks.

A High School for Fernheim Colony

At the close of that project I transferred out to one of the Mennonite Colonies in the Chaco. Here I helped on their experimental farm for some time, where a barn was being built and a fence made. Then I started to work in the wood working shop of their industry section of Filadelfia. But the real purpose of my coming out here to the Fernheim Colony is to help in the construction of a new high school which is to begin soon. In the sixteen years that the Mennonites have been here in the Chaco of Paraguay they have made steady progress, but they have not been able to give their children the desired education because of the lack of schools and text books. Now they hope to get at least one step nearer to accommodating the ones who want the benefit of a high school education.

Paraguay's Future

Paraguay is not a new country. Asuncion claims to be one of the oldest cities in South America, yet until recently they had no smooth hard surfaced streets, only cobble-stone. Now they have began to put down some good streets as a number of cars and trucks are coming on the scene. The little trolley cars that they use as street cars are always loaded to capacity with some people often clinging on the outside. Mules and donkeys are the common fast hauling freight wagons, and for tougher but slower going the oxen are mostly used. Many of the women bring their fruits and vegetables in from outside the city limits on burros. Paraguay can raise sugar cane and make sugar, yet the sugar is rationed because sugar can be exported to other countries which have some of the many things that Paraguay must import. Some rice and beef are also exported, but even such things as milk (in powdered or condenced form) and butter are imported. So one finds that these people have learned to get along with very little. With North American help I believe Paraguay will make much more progress. For example, the Union Oil company of North America is now drilling oil wells here. If they produce oil then industry will undoubtely make great advances. Then there is an Inter-American organization in agriculture and also one in health.

The people of Paraguay appear to be quite happy and are always friendly. Especially do they seem to enjoy their holidays and celebrations, of which they have quite a number. As far as the moral and spiritual condition is concerned, there is always room for improvement here as well as anywhere else, and in this field especially would we like to be of some service. To this end may our deeds express our desires, and our work accomplish its purpose.

Via M. C. C. Headquarters.

Facing Problems in Relief Work

by Ruth Hilty

Monday, we restocked our supply of clothing at the Oosterpark church, and Tuesday morning Welma Graber, Katherine Derksen, Hans Neuman and I tried to carry on the last week of distribution at the Oosterpark church. By the end of the week we had distribution to Amsterdam Doopsgezinde, a total of 2,340 people.

On one morning of this last week we were confronted with a peculiar problem. Hans Neuman (R. M. helper) came to my receiving table and said that in a few minutes I would be signing in a mother and two daughters whom he knows for certain he has seen quite regularly engaged in selling cigarettes, etc., on the notoriously famous black-market streets near their hostal living quarters. He tipped me with a wink when they came in. In such a situation what should I do? What would the M.C.C. spirit be? I knew Hans' statement was reliable, but could I in the M.C.C. spirit tell them, when they came to my table, that we could give them no clothing—even though they had received a "calling-up" card from the Amsterdam Mennonite church. Yes, the blue card was handed to me. There were seven people in their family, but we had been helping only four adult people in each family that came during these weeks, because we were at the end of our adult supply of clothing, and wanted to be sure we had enough for the two thousand promised people. The lady and daughters looked needy with their outward appearance; the mother, in telling me the one specific article that each of the four grown persons would need, looked me over with the eyes of a woman who had met much unfriendliness in the world. But, she kindly replied after I explained to her why we could help only four adult people, and give each only one piece of clothing. I hoped the mother could find a coat, and the two larger daughters each a dress. If they could find no trousers for the man of the family, they could select three pieces of clothing for the thirteen-year-old girl. When they asked for shoes for the thirteen-year-old girl I said that our principle was to give no shoes away unless we could see the one pair of shoes that the person possesses, and the person must be present to fit the shoes.

One of our Doopsgezinde women helpers took the list of clothing requested and began walking with the three throughout the various departments of our clothing distribution room, and I kept an eye upon what they selected. The mother could find no coat so she was very happy to receive one of our large-bed, woolen, gray blankets. The other two picked out for themselves some fine, new plaid dresses. With my knowledge of the size of those dresses I sort of thought they couldn't fit these rolly-polly girls—a size fourteen when they really needed a twenty. The father or brother had to do without trousers for there was no size for him, so the thirteen-year-old received three items of children's clothing. One of our other Doopsgezinde ladies was free and waited at my table for another family to be signed in, and I happened to point out this family to her as they were walking throughout the distribution room. She was much perturbed that they were receiving clothing, and thought that really I wasn't to blame for having taken them, and that the church was to blame for having given them a "calling-up" card. She spoke to another of our helpers and unanimously they would have stopped the family from receiving clothing, for the second helper verified the fact that she had also seen them campaiging black market goods on black-market streets. But, I explained our spirit of giving: "Christian or non-Christian; black, red, or white; sinner or no sinner, as long as there was need. And probably the family seemed driven to black-market trade because they felt the need."

I asked Welma to tip me off when they would come to her checking-out table. I was going to be at the table when the mother signed out the clothing. She had signed her name, and I spoke my little sermon. "We knew that you and your family are engaged in the black market business, before you entered this church room to get clothing. Yet, we in our spirit could not refuse to give you clothing, because you had written to your church minister saying you were in need. (But Hans, please hand me one of those pieces of clothing on the table—yes, the one with the label showing.) see this label, "given in the Name of Christ." I cannot tell you what your family should do to earn a living, but I do want to say this that we gave you this clothing in this spirit. And, in this spirit, I do not think that you will sell our gift on the black market." Our family left, the mother never refusing or denying that black-market accusation, but humbly said, "We need this clothing very much. We will remember."

Prisoners of War in England

by Delmar Wedel

I've just returned from a YMCA conference held at Norton Camp, England. Norton Camp, tucked away in historic Sherwood Forest, is the most unusual prisoner of war camp in the world. It was a fitting place for the conference, for here indeed is being enacted the theme of the conference, "Rebuilding Germany."

First, a word about the camp itself, and then about the conference. The YMCA, together with the cooperative British government, have organized a PW University. The faculty and students (all of whom are prisoners of war) are concerned with laying the groundwork for a new spirit, a democratic Christian spirit, within Germany. They are now preparing themselves for that vocation. At Norton both religious workers and educators are preparing themselves for the future. As you see, this was a most appropriate setting for the conference.

Pastor Niemoeller, tired, but never without that gleam in his eye, was one of the visitors from Germany. One of the educational leaders from the British zone and Pastor Dannemon, chief of the German YMCA, were other representatives from Germany. Pastor Niemoeller was quite pessimistic. I remember one of his remarks during his address entitled "Church and Reconstruction." He asked how anyone could deliver an address out of two negatives. For there is neither a church nor reconstruction in Germany. Pastor Dannemon is a warm and evangelical leader. It is a monument to the vigor and imagination of the German movement, that as much has been accomplished, in spite of almost unimaginable and almost unbelievable odds. During the last summer, the Y has given "two weeks of heaven" (as one youngster expressed it) to more than ten thousand children through its summer camp program. This and other projects warmed our hearts.

Delmar Wedel's home is Aberdeen, Idaho. He is on loan by the M.C.C. to work among Prisoners of War under the direction of the YMCA. He has been working mainly in Belgium.

When You are All Alone

by Mary Hostetler

How often is it said, that by having special servies at Christian Life conferences, mission meetings and revival meetings that our Christian experiences are enriched. Yes, they are, and rightly so. But there are other means of enriching our Christian experiences, more each day am I reminded of the blessings I receive as a relief worker, in the west of France away from Spiritual fellowship with Christian groups.

One may think that without spiritual contacts, you would grow cold. But I have found that when I haven't others to discuss and share questions and problems with, that one has to share them with someone. With the absence of such persons and the language handicap, many are the times you will go to God in prayer, and pour out your heart in faith receiving consolation and help. One's feeling of being alone leaves with the presence of God, and you feel as David must have in Psa. 103:11, "For as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear Him." Your room that was once just the living quarters is now a "shrine" to go to, to get away from cares and disturbances of the outside, where you can come to God. One always has access to Him, even in the hours of the night, when a problem may awaken you. After breathing a prayer, sleep again dissolves the physical fatigue of the day, for the duties of the dawning day.

Mary Hostetler is serving under the M.C.C. as a relief worker in France.

I am sure if none of the recipients of our gifts and work, do not receive any good by our being here, we will have received a blessing.

Our work here in the children's colony affords us much pleasure. The children soon learn we have come to help them because we love them. I have found one of the most effective means of disciplining, is just to bring them to my room away from an audience. I tell them I love them, and have come to help them and not take advantage of them. Tears will come to their eyes when corporal punishment hasn't any effect, because they expect it and are used to it. They soon learn your love is more than just a kiss on either cheek morning and evening. Many are our opportunities to make their sad hearts happy.

On Dealing With One Another

We heard a leader in the C.P.S. program in a moment of weariness once say that he would rather deal with tough army generals than with the ministers of the church. His reason, as we got it was that with the army men, a spade was called a spade. The army men were frank with their opinions and blunt with their decisions. When you finished a discussion with them, you knew exactly where you stood.

With some ministers this was not necessarily the case. Inhibited by certain commitments to a way of love and forgiveness, an unruffled manner, and the second-mile principle, it sometimes was evident that one thing was said while another was meant. Rather than openly making a request, subtle pressure was used. Rather than free above-board honesty, opinions were held in reserve — put "on ice" so to speak!

We hope this leader was not too often faced with this problem. We think that he brings forth a keen insight into a problem of the spirit all needs must face. The bluntness and bull-headedness of army officers is not always to be admired. In the cases cited, we do admire their frankness.

It causes us to wonder, when comparing religious leaders with hard-headed men of the world, have we been shackled by the Spirit, or has our religious experience truly set us free as is suggested in John 8:32 "you shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free"? We know many leading men in business, government, and education who are scrupuously honest and would not try to "cover anything up." We also know many ministers who are equally winsome in their honesty.

Spiritually shackled is the man who is duty-bound to follow the Golden Rule, the second-mile principle, and love his enemies. Free is the man who finds joy and deep pleasure in doing these things and in being so basically honest with his fellow men that he need never use subtle pressure, hold his opinions in reserve, or any other of the 'techniques' too often used. But, instead, he can be so winsome that truly Christ's very Spirit shines forth in his action, outlook, and deeds.

Items of Interest

The prayer of a Filipino Christian: "Lord, make us realize that our Christianity is like a rice field. When it is newly planted, the paddies are prominent, but as the plants take root and grow taller, these dividing paddies gradually vanish and soon there appears only one vast continuous field. So give us roots of love and make us grow in Christian fellowship and service, that thy will be done in our lives, through our Saviour, the son, Jesus Christ, Amen."

* * * *

The Baptists are raising $14,000,000 to be used in a World Mission Crusade. Of this, they have raised $10,000,000 already, a recent report indicates. They hope to raise the full-amount by April 30 of this year. This money is to be used in a program of rehabilitation, reconstruction, relief, evangelism and missionary advance as the main areas of activity. A part of these funds will go to the rebuilding of war devastated churches, hospitals, and schools abroad.

* * * *

A report states that between 1,000 and 1,500 rural churches are being closed each year. One denomination alone is abandoning on the average five country churches a week and has done this for the past twenty years.

* * * *

The Baptist church in Russia received by baptism 60,000 Russian citizens during the Summer of 1946, a statement recently received by Rev. Louie D. Newton reveals. Rev. Newton is the Southern Baptist who visited Russia last year and was both highly praised and severely criticized for his action by various quarters.

Although this is a hopeful picture for the future of Christianity in Russia, there are conflicting reports regarding Russia's religious interest. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman stated that there is religious freedom in Russia, but the church liturgy does not attract the youth and the church is losing the youth. Archbishop Adam Phillopovsky of the Orthodox church, Philadelphia, is very optimistic stating there are ninty dioceses with bishops in charge and a general renewed activity in church life.

* * * *

The Southern Baptists are striving to obtain pledges from one million of their members to give one-tenth of their income to the church activites. This would be one-sixth of the total membership of the church that would pledge to tithe.

* * * *

CRALOG, the agency through the M.C.C. works in Germany, has given 8,500 tons of food and clothing to Germany. There are ten agencies cooperating in CRALOG.

* * * *

In a three-day Evangelical youth convention in Florence, Italy, representatives of Waldensian and Baptist youth gathered. Delegates were present from Florence, Pisa, Leghorn, Lucca, and Pistoia all historic places. At this meeting, a new paper made its appearance, the Gioventu Evangelica (Evangelical Youth).

* * * *

Arrangements are proceeding for the merger of the Presbyterian Church in U.S.A. and the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. (Southern). These two branches of the Presbyterian Church are a result of the Civil War. An effort has been under way since that war to re-unite the Church.

Jottings

—Elizabeth Boehr, who left the United States on February 6, arrived safely in Le Havre, France, on February 17, according to a report received by her brother Rev. J. P. Boehr, North Newton, Kansas. Miss Boehr is to do relief work in Austria under the M.C.C.

—First Church, Colfax, Washington: Sunday evening Mr. Erwin Goering spoke briefly on "Christian Education" and Mr. Harry Martens showed interesting slides taken in Puerto Rico where he has spent about one and one-half years in relief work. Our pastor, Rev. P. D. Unruh, has organized a Bible class, which he teaches at 6:30 on Sunday evenings. The Missionary Society met all day February 20 to complete work for a shipment for overseas relief.—Mrs. Horace D. Rogers, Corr.

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon, Our missionary society is writing letters to the various missionaries this year in an effort to better acquaint the Sunday school with our mission stations. February 9 our first letter was presented from the Habeggers. It was extremely interesting, and we are looking forward to hearing from others. Five of the Indian boys and girls want to correspond with our children. —Mrs. Homer Welty, Corr.

—Eicher Emmanuel Mennonite Church, Noble, Iowa: Our church recently had the privilege of having a representative of the Gideons in our midst J. M. Finney of Washington, Iowa, presented the work of the Gideons to us. We are expecting Rev. Alvin G. Becker from Woodburn, Indiana, to be with us for two services on March 9. He is representing the Northern Bible Society. Our Mission Society has been doing considerable sewing for relief.—Mrs. Walter H. Regier, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Waka, Texas: Due to bad weather, muddy roads and sickness, our Sunday School had a difficult time getting started in the new year. Our attendance recently has been very good for our small group. Have also had a number of visitors. On January 26 Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Neufeld, Enid, Oklahoma, were in our midst for our afternoon service. In the evening we had a joint meeting with the Waka Brethren Church in Waka. Rev. Neufeld brought the message of the evening.—Mrs. Herman Wiebe, Corr.

—Mennonite Church, Pratum, Oregon: On January 26 our church had a missionary dedication service for the missionaries the Lord is sending forth from this church. Those taking part were Miss Lillian Bentler at present working in New York and looking to Europe and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Owen under appointment to Ethiopia. Miss Bentler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bentler, and Mrs. Owen is the former Elda Herr, daughter of Mrs. Elvin Herr, both having spent their entire life in this church. Our church has voted to support these young ladies. On February 2, the pastor, Rev. Regier, and family, had open house so everyone could have an opportunity of seeing the new parsonage the church has erected. The hours for calling were between 2 and 5. About 150 called and inspected the new building.—Corr.

—Bethel Church, Perkasie, Pa., The Rev. J. J. Esau, blind evangelist, formerly of Bluffton, Ohio, and field representative of Grace Bible School in Omaha, Nebraska, will be in our church on Thursday evening, February 27 for a special service. The Rev. A. H. Schultz, pastor at East Swamp, has been engaged to conduct four nights of special services in our church, March 20-23. Rev. Schultz, who has been at East Swamp about two years, came here from a church in the middle west.—Fannie E. Landis, Corr.

—Rev. Albert Schultz, President of the Omaha Bible Institute, Omaha, Nebraska, writes, "I am enjoying my ministry and the Lord has been exceptionally good. I never cease to praise Him for His goodness. I not only thank Him for salvation but for counting me worthy and placing me in the ministry. In my two years at the Institute the enrollment has grown from eleven day students to 93 day students."

—Salem Mennonite Church, Dalton, Ohio: Our church enjoyed having Dr. Ed. Kaufman on January 12 and Rev. Ronald von Riesen on January 19 as inspiring speakers. Our young people's Sunday School class (out of high school, married and unmarried) surprised a returned C. P. S. couple with a housewarming January 22. Our Ladies Missionary Society discussed "Missions in India" at the February 5 meeting. Two quilts were quilted. Our pastor, Rev. A. S. Rosenberger, is attending a General Conference Board of Education meeting at Newton, Kansas, this week—Corr. Mrs. Ivan Badertscher —Bethany Church, Quakertown, Pa.: February 9 Miss Elsie Pfister of Incline, Kentucky spoke to us of the mission work she has been engaged in for eleven years. "These people are hungry for the gospel" She pleads for consecrated workers, esepecially men evangelists. Our Junior deacon, Robert M. Landis, very ably took charge of the service in the absence of Rev. Neuenschwander, who left February 5 for a trip to Kansas. February 6 he met with the Gospel teams at Bluffton College and February 7 with the Seminary students in Chicago. February 9 he addressed a large youth rally at Newton, Kansas February 11-13 he met with the Board of Home Missions of which he is the Secretary.—Mrs. Ed. K. Stoneback, Corr.

—Deep Run Church, Pa., At present there are six members in our catechism class. Henry Ediger of Nebraska finished his instruction in leathercraft. Fourteen young people thoroughly enjoyed this work. We hope to display some of these products in the near future. Word has been received from Marvin Wasser, our relief work in Wissembourg, on the border line of France and Germany. He states this is a city of about four thousand folk. Many dwellings and buildings were demolished by bombs during the war. Some of the eleven fellows in his unit are taking up French. Their work at present is insulating barracks and making these flimsy structures as comfortable as possible for families without homes. Several seem very appreciative of their efforts which makes the work enjoyable and worthwhile.—Mae Gross, Corr.

—East Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pennsylvania:

CANADA BROADENS IMMIGRATION LAWS

According to a news release handed to us by Rev. Jacob Gerbrandt of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, it seems that at least some the Mennonite refugees in Europe may hope for possible addmission into Canada.

On February 5, Resources Minister Glen, the minister responsible for immigration, announced the passage on January 30 of an order-in-council which allows the entry of these new classes:

1. The widowed daughter or sister (with or without married children under eighteen years of age) of a legal resident of Canada who is in a position to receive and care for such relatives.
2. An agriculturest entering Canada to farm when destined to a father, father-in-law, son, son-in-law, brother, brother-in-law, uncle or nephew engaged in agriculture as his principal occupation who is in a position to receive such immigrant and establish him on a farm.
3. A farm laborer entering Canada to engage in assured farm employment.
4. A person experienced in mining, lumbering or logging entering Canada to engage in assured employment in any one of such industries.

Orphaned nephews and nieces under eighteen years of age who are related to Canadians are also permitted admission under the new regulations.

Mr. Glen has predicted that these changes will result in a "considerably larger" number of immigrants coming to Canada. He has pointed out that the new amendments would "permit the admission for farm settlement of agricultural people with very limited capital destined to relatives in Canada who are in a position to establish them on farms and will also allow the entry to Canada of labor for agriculture and the basic industries named when proceeding to assured employment in such industries."

The latest amemdment is the third major change that Canada has made in its immigration policies since the war, and it may be the "forerunner to a broad selective program," according to the news given us. The report states, that "Calls for a broadened immigration policy have been coming increasingly from public and political quarters."

On Sunday evening, February 9, we had a dedication service for a billboard recently rented along route 309. This meeting was in charge of Rev. Schultz and consisted of a dedicatory prayer and a short message by our pastor. The poster on the billboard consists of a colored picture and a Bible verse, which is changed every month. This gives us twelve different messages during the year.—Mrs. Raymond Miller, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: In the absence of our pastor, Rev. H. N. Harder, the Brotherhood had charge of the Sunday morning services February 9. Eldon Harder and Marvin Linscheid brought the messages on "Serving Christ through the Church" and "Serving Christ through the Brotherhood." Ashby Challey brought the evening message. We are expecting Harry Martens and Erwin Goering in our church Tuesday evening February 11 to show us slides of the work in Puerto Rico and also in the interests of Bethel Colloge.—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—First Church, Caldwell, Idaho: Some of the men of our church have begun the digging of the basement for our church. We had Rev. Harder and Brother Marvin Linscheid of Aberdeen here last week. We are truly thankful for the support from the other churches for the work here. We will soon have a church in Caldwell in which to worship. We had some snow again this morning. Rev. Kliewer will supply the pulpit in Aberdeen, February 16.—Mrs. L. Schmidt, Corr.

—First Church, Wadsworth, Ohio: Family Night, a special Sunday evening program recently introduced by our pastor, is meeting with enthusiasm. Youth, middle age and old age assemble in the church social room at 7:30 one Sunday night each month; the program includes special music, group singing, Bible quizzes and a short missionary sketch by the pastor. Afterwards, everyone falls in line for apple pie or doughnuts and coffee. Come and join us. Bluffton College Gospel Team will be with us on the evening of March 9. Beginning February 13 and continuing for six Thursday nights during Lent, the pastor will conduct a Bible study based on the parables of Jesus. These meetings, which are open to everyone, will begin after choir rehearsal and will last for one hour each evening.—Hattie Yoder, Corr.

—Flatland Church, Quakertown, Pa., On February 9 we had as our guest speaker Miss Elsie Pfister of Incline, Kentucky, who gave us a very interesting and enlightening talk of the work she is doing both physically and spiritually in the mission field at that place. Our church has started a fund for the purchase of a new organ to replace the one which is out of service and beyond repair.—Mrs. James S. Kline, Corr.

—Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas: Our pastor, Rev. Henry Fransen, has returned from Vineland, Ontario, Canada, where he attended the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Mary Fransen. Students from Bethel College gave us the Sunday morning messages in the absence of our pastor. Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Schroeder were the invited parents to attend a dinner and program at Bethel Hospital last week, where their daughter Pearl is a student nurse. Sunday February 16, Loyalty Day was observed in our church with a noon luncheon and program. Special invited guests were the boys, young men and wives who were called into service during the war.—Corr.

—Salem Zion Church, Freeman, South Dakota: Missionary H. J. Browns have been notified by telegram, that their ship is to sail from New York on February 25. They have made the necessary arrangements and are planning to leave Freeman February 20, stopping off at Chicago for one day, en route to New York. The Senior Christian Endeavor program and the regular meeting of the Women's Mission Society had to be postponed due to inclement weather and blocked roads.—Mrs. J. J. Sanner, Corr.

—Aganetha Fast writes, "God willing I hope to work part time in the Bethany Hospital and attend a few of the Seminary classes just over the way from the hospital. This for the spring months." Her new address is 3435 West van Buren, Chicago 24, Illinois.

—The Mennonite Home for Aged, the Frederick, Pa., Preliminary reports state that the response to the Brotherhood drive for "Additional Maintenance Funds" is progressing nicely. More than four thousand dollars have already come in. The Board of Managers is considering plans for an addition to the building. The Home has a new "Oil Burner" and also a new "White Horse" freezing cabinet. According to the February Home News there is a pressing need for a cook for the Home. There are now twenty-seven guests in the home. The ministry of the Home is defined as providing a " 'Haven of Rest' for some who have reached the declining year of their pathway and wish to have a place where they may spend those days in quiet relaxation." Rev. Freeman H. Swartz of Norristown is the President of the Board of Directors.

—Note to Correspondents: Keep the Correspondent's Report form as a whole sheet. Do not cut it at the dotted line, for this line merely marks a division. Thanks for the many well-written reports that are coming in.

—Eden Church, Schwenksville, Pa., A note in the Church Messenger reads, "The Rev. H. Th. de Worm, from Paturges, Belgium, sends his heartiest thanks to you for your generosity in sending Christmas parcels to the children of his church." A new feature on the Bulletin is "Missionary Intercession." This calls for united prayer for a missionary couple and family listed and also provides a short biographical sketch of the missionaries. The financial report at the annual meeting showed that receipts for the past year amounted to $9,034.44.

REFUGEE MOVEMENT

Greetings have been received from the group of Mennonite refugees aboard the ship "VOLENDAM" The cable, sent from Las Palmas in the Canary Islands where the ship stopped to refuel, states "THANKFUL REFUGEES GOOD HEALTH SEND GREETINGS MCC ALL MENNONITES STATES CANADA FROM LAS PALMAS." A summary of the age groups aboard the "VOLENDAM" is as follows: Babies under 1 year, 35; 1 to 6 years, 285; 6 to 12 years, 277; boys 12 to 16 years, 145; girls 12 to 16 years, 167; men 16 years and over 444; women 16 years and over, 950; total, 2303.

The "VOLENDAM" is due to arrive at Buenos Aires on Friday, February 21. Brethren Gerhard Warkentin and Amos Swartzendruber have been working for weeks on the plans for receiving the refugees from the "Volendam" on their arrival at Buenos Aires and providing for their transportation into Paraguay. These arrangements have not as yet been completed.

This movement of Mennonite refugees is quite unique in Mennonite history, in terms of the number of people concerned and the total cost involved, and the other conditions under which the movement is taking place. It is encouraging to see the vital interest which the Mennonites in North America have shown in this work.

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: This week has been a source of great joy to us. We had three meetings of unusual interest. On February 10 Brother and Sister Aron Suckau, the "Highway Tract Distributors" were with us. They showed five Christian pictures: "Shining for Jesus," "Fishers of Men," "The Man Who Forgot God," and "The Rapture." On February 14 Dr. R. C. Kauffman of Bethel College gave a very challenging message on his experience as a relief worker in India where he spent two years. On Sunday night the Corn Gospel Team of the M. B. Church gave a very nice program, which was enjoyed by all. —Wilfred Ewy, Corr.

—Hebron Church, Buhler, Kansas: We have made the following contributions in 1946 aside from the support of our local church: Western District Conference support — $407, Foreign Missions — $1860, Home Missions — $764, Relief — $4,477, C.P.S. and Y. P. U. — $1,524, Board of Education, Publication, Mutual Aid, and Seminary — $216, Bethel, — $798, and Gideon Bibles — $91, making a total of $10,137. Our church has purchased the home of Mrs. P. B. Martens in Buhler for a parsonage. We have had two funerals in the Hebron Church recently: Mrs. Henry Regier was buried January 26, and the funeral of P. B. Balzer took place February 17 Elmer Franz and John A. Lohrentz have returned from their trip to Europe with a shipload of mules.—Mrs. Arthur Neufeldt, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: Funeral services were held of Mrs. Nora J. Schwartz Saturday. She departed from the earth to be with her Lord, on February 13, 1947. Her foster parents are Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Waltner. The church has re-received many letters of gratitude from people in Germany who have received canned meat. The Bethel College a capella choir will be with us Sunday evening February 23.—Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

—Scarboro Mennonite Church, Calgary Alberta: It is almost three years ago since this church was started. There are twenty-eight members in the church. We have good attendance on Sunday mornings. Young peoples meetings are held every other Sunday night in the English language. We have only a very few young people, but they are always willing to do their part for the program. The ladies sewing circle is busy sewing for the mission sale and for relief. One parcel of clothing is to be sent off this week. One steer was donated for this cause. C.A.R.E. parcels have been sent to relatives in Europe.—Miss Tina Loewen, Corr.

—Rev. Edmund Miller, Field Representative of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary and Bible School, brought the morning message at the Swiss Mennonite Church, Whitewater, Kansas, on February 16. In the evening he spoke at the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church, Wichita. The following Wednesday evening he served at the West Zion Church, Moundridge, Sunday morning, February 23 he brought the messages at the First Church, Hillsboro, and that evening he spoke at the First Church, Newton. March 2 he will will visit the Emmaus Church in the morning and the Zion Church, Elbing, in the evening.

—Rev. and Mrs. Ernst Harder left the United States by plane at 6:30 A. M., Sunday, February 16 for the city of Rio de Janeiro, from whence they were to fly to Asuncion. They were to get to Rio de Janeiro on Monday afternoon and to Ascuncion by Tuesday afternoon. If they missed the plane in Rio, then they will have had to wait a week for the next plane. Their belongings were not sent ahead and so it may take from two to three months to reach them, according to a statement by Rev. and Mrs. John Ewert of Hillsboro, Kansas, parents of Mrs. Harder. They report that Ruth will very likely do bookkeeping and translation work and assist her husband in his work with the incoming refugees from Europe.

(A later report has it that Rev. and Mrs. John Ewert received a telegram on February 19 which stated that Ruth and Ernst Harder had arrived safely in Rio de Janeiro on February 17 and would leave for Asuncion on February 24. So evidently the Harders missed their plane on Monday, February 17 and have had to wait a week for the next to Asuncion.)

—Bethel College Church: The concluding session of our School of Missions was held Sunday evening, February 16. A film showing both geographic conditions and social customs of India was featured as the closing number. Miss Bertha Fast, returned relief worker, also gave us an illustrated lecture of work in one of the UNRRA camps in Egypt.—Eldon W. Graber.

—Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio: The women and girls enjoyed a missionary program given by the girls of the church on February 11. Included in the program was a pageant entitled "Do Missions Pay"? The Bluffton College men's gospel team provided the evening service on February 16. We are looking forward to our annual pre-Easter services to be held March 16-23. Rev. Marion Tinsler will be the speaker.—Mrs. Vernon Suter, Corr.

—Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas: Miss Bertha Fast, returned European relief worker, was in our midst Sunday evening, February 9. She presented slides and told of her experiences in relief work. The surrounding churches were invited. The same evening an offering was taken to help along the work with the Russian Mennonite refugees, a project for which we have much concern these days. We have family night as we go to church on Wednesday evenings for Bible Study. Several classes have chosen the Gospel of Matthew for study while another adult class is taking up the study of the booklet "The Power of Love." —Mrs. Elmer Voth, Corr.

—The Mordecai Johnson lecture which was scheduled for February 25 in Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas, had to be postponed because of unavoidable circumstances. It is to be given at a later date. Further announcements about it will be made at the next Memorial Hall Series program, The Janet Bush Opera Quartet, on March 11.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

LANCASTER GENERAL CONFERENCE MENNONITE CHURCH ORGANIZED

A congregational meeting of the recently organized Lancaster General Conference Church, Lancaster, Pa., was held on February 9, 1947, for the purposes of choosing a name and the election of officers. The name chosen for the congregation is "Bethel Mennonite Church." Bethel, an Old Testament word, has as its Biblical meaning, "House of God."

The Eastern District Conference of the General Conference cooperated in the establishment of a Fellowship group in Lancaster after several years of interest on the part of a few local residents. Starting as a small, informal meeting in September, 1944, the group has progressed steadily toward organization as a permanent congregation. After meeting Sunday afternoons in the Lancaster School of the Bible, begining in March, 1947, the group voted to start morning services. With Don E. Smucker as pastor, the first morning service was held in the Reformed Theological Seminary Chapel on June 23, 1946. Services have continued there with plans in the future for a permanent location elsewhere where conditions permit.

The Eastern District Conference of the General Conference will receive the new congregation into membership at the district conference to be held in May. Membership in the larger General Conference will be recognized when the General Conference meets in Berne, Indiana, next August.

Three other churches in Lancaster County are affiliated with the Eastern District and General Conferences: Bowmansville, Mechanics' Grove, and Denver.

The charter membership roll of Bethel Mennonite Church will be held open until the congregation's first communion observance which is scheduled for Thursday night of Holy Week. A baptismal service is planned prior to the communion service in order to receive into church fellowship a group of young people now receiving catechetical instruction.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ________ Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — March 4, 1947 — Number 9

Mennonite Refugees to Paraguay

H. A. Fast

In the year 1930 some 2,400 Mennonite refugees from Russia landed in the Chaco in Paraguay. These immigrants had suffered untold hardship and persecution at the hands of the government that came into power in Russia after World War I. They could have adjusted themselves to the revolutionary changes in the economic system, but to adjust themselves to a policy of government that threatened their very existence as a people and above all appeared determined to destroy all vital religion was impossible. They clamored for an opportunity to leave the country. After a great deal of abuse and suffering, some six thousand finally received permission to leave. A large number of these by way of refugee camps in Germany, and smaller numbers by way of Siberia and China, were helped to find a new home in South America, some going to Brazil and the above group settling in the Chaco in Paraguay.

Getting a start in a pioneer wilderness without any financial resources and with very inadequate tools, contending with very unfavorable weather conditions plagued by repeated invasions of vast hordes of grashoppers, and weakened by disease and inadequate medical care, made the struggle for existence in the early years an extremely disheartening and discouraging experience. It is no wonder that trouble and disagreements arose and that a considerable number of them looked for another location where they felt the struggle for existence would be more favorable to them. Thus came into being the colony in Friesland, east of the Paraguay River, in addition to the Fernheim Coloy in the Chaco.

It was indeed fortunate that the MCC stood by these colonies in their struggles and in various ways gave them assistance. Today roads are greatly improved, medical care and hospitalization has been provided, school houses and facilities have been made more adequate, a telephone system is under construction, and agricultural improvements are getting under way, not to mention many other types of assistance in which MCC personnel has played an active part. Today these colonies are stable and strong enough so that they have undertaken, at no cost to the MCC, the care of a thousand Mennonite refugees en route to Paraguay. It should be added here that the people of Menno Colony, composed of Canadian Mennonites (Altkolonier) who settled there in 1927, have offered to take care of an additional three hundred of these refugees.

While these lines are being written one single shipload has brought almost as many refugees to Paraguay as the total number that came from Russia in 1930. These refugees landed in Buenos Aires, and the first contingent of this group of 2,303 will doubtless have made the trip from Buenos Aires by river boat a thousand miles north to Paraguay. It will take about a month to move them all up the river. Of this group of 2,303, 950 are women sixteen years and over, 444 are men sixteen years and over, and the rest are children under sixteen. Thirty-five are less than a year old.

The sufferings through which these people have gone during the war days, and the hungry years following, are almost beyond description. The way in which they were finally able to get onto the boat bound for Paraguay at the last minute is a story that reminds one of the exodus of the Children of Israel. It is just as clear in in this instance as it was then that God's almighty hand was at work and opened the way. These people could still smile and sing praises to God when they finally arrived on the boat because they felt certain they were going to a place where there would be an opportunity to establish again a home and live their own life among friends and to worship God without fear or hindrance.

One story illustrates both the tragedy through which these people have gone as well as the new life which this resettlement opens up to them. When these people were getting on the Vollendam a husband and wife who had not seen each other for sixteen years, because the husband had been taken to Siberia, neither knowing whether the other was alive, again found each other and a broken home was reunited.

These people after all these years of terror, buffeting, and starvation have now arrived in Paraguay, their land of promise. The sympathetic and understanding arms of our earlier Mennonite settlements and of our MCC workers are ready to receive them and help them get started. These new settlers as well as those who are are trying to help them get a new start need our earnest and persistent prayer. They will need our warm hand of friendship and help for some years to come, especially when we keep in mind that so many of them are children and mothers whose husbands are dead or missing (verschleppt).

(Cut courtesy Mennonite Life)

Mennonite Settlements in South America
Quito
ECUADOR
Amazon R.
BRAZIL
PERU
Lima Salvador
BOLIVIA
La Paz
PARAGUAY
GRAN CHACO
Asuncion
Rio de Janeiro
Sao Paulo
Curityba
Blumenau
Florianopolis
CHILE
Porto Alegre
Santiago
ARGENTINA
URUGUAY
Buenos Aires
Montevideo
National Boundaries
Provincial Boundaries Rivers
Railroad
Mennonite Settlements
Fernheim
Menno
Puerto Casado
SAO PAULO
PARAGUAY
GRAN CHACO
Concepcion
Friesland
Asuncion
PARANA
BRAZIL
Sao Paulo
Curityba
SANTA CATHARINA
Witmarsum
Blumenau
Itajahy
Auhagen
Florianopolis
ARGENTINA
RIO GRANDE
Porto Alegre
Mennonites in Paraguay and Brazil
LMR

On Observing the Week of Witness

A tremendous amount of good can be done during one week when the lay people of the church "put their hands to the plow" and go to work. Witnessing means saying or doing something that will help bring people to the Lord. A few things may be mentioned to give us an idea of what could be done and should be done in a Week of Witness. The inclination may be to say, "Why, that is what Christians should be doing all the time; why have a Week of Witness?" The truth is that we should be doing this sort of thing all the year round, but the fact is that we do not do it unless by special effort and special encouragement. The hope is that a Week of Witness will encourage and inspire us actually to do the things we should be doing all the time. We shall mention only two possibilities here.

1. Go and invite people to church services and other special services if there are any. If you have no way of going to the people who need to be invited, write them a card or letter of invitation. In some instances people are won to Christ through personal work and then come to church. In other instances people are brought to church and there are won to Christ. Both methods are legitimate and used of the Lord. "Go out. . . .and constrain them to come in, that my house may be filled," Luke 14:23.

2. Take a book or a pamphlet to some one who may need help. Do not just hand out tracts. Give the book or pamphlet to him because it meant something to you. Tell the recipient that you are passing it on to him because of what it has meant to you. Then giving pamphlets, books and tracts out to people becomes a true witness. It may provide the opportunity to tell him what stirs and warms your own heart. "If he shall not lose his reward who gives a cup of cold water to his thirsty neighbor, what will not be the reward of those, who by putting good books into the hands of neighbors, open to them the fountain of eternal life."—Thomas a Kempis

—THE EVANGELISM COMMITTEE

Elenore Schmidt Reports from India

(The following letter by Miss Elenore Schmidt was received by the Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board)

Miss Nickel and I were on our way home after a day in a village about thirteen miles from here. We did not travel with modern speed, but jogged along on our streamlined ox cart (an old trailer with rubber tires). We had come to the end of a perfect day. We had worshipped with the new Christians in two villages. We had seen how the school children were progressing. I had given them enough to talk about for a week to come by taking their picture. We had eaten a delicious curry meal with the Christian worker and his wife. Now we were homeward bound. The lovely tree-lined road stretched far ahead of us. Here and there we could see the roofs of villages. The field of plumed sugar cane were a lovely white frothy contrast to the green of trees, shrubs and grain fields. The distant low hills were shadowy with purple mist, and as the sun climbed down the sky the shadows in the nearby fields took on a purple cast. Then as the sun was swallowed up by the hills, we began to see the lovely colors of the after glow. First, brilliant orange, then bright red and pink, and when the stars began to peep out from their blue blanket, the glow still continued in burnt orange glory. The reflection on the lily dotted pounds made a picture that kept us silent with adoration for the Creator.

As we bumped along, I suddenly realized that my stay in this beautiful jungle land will soon be over. At Conference I was stationed at Champa, but was sent here to help for several months. Now the time is nearly up, and I feel a little sad at the thought of going. I have learned to love this jungle land and the community here.

Just now our work in the hospital is quite slack, but after the harvest we will not have to look for work. No one has time to be sick now, but after the grain is cut, and the rice threshed, the wards will be filled to over-flowing.

My contact with the patients is a bit discouraging, for most of them speak Oriya. Around Champa most of the people at least understand Hindi, but here one really feels like a foreigner before the village people. Luckily the workers are good interpreters, so it isn't hopeless. The language of a smile goes a long way, and these people respond very readily to that universal language of love.

Each morning we have both staff prayers and a short service for the patients. The men workers take turns in leading the service, and it is conducted in Oriya. But we all—men and women workers—take part in the staff prayers. Now during Advent we have been learning the prophecies concerning the coming of Christ. We are also preparing a program to present before the patients.

I have been enjoying my trips into the district with Miss Nickel. I usually take a kit of medicines along, and always find that it comes into use. One time I examined about thirty school children, and in doing so had a marvelous opportunity to give some suggestions for better health. Of course, the news of our coming soon spread, and soon I had everyone coming to me and telling me of all their past and present ailments. They always think that just a little pill or a bit of ointment will cure the entire run of village illness. In many cases we give out malarial preparations, and itch ointment, but we usually encourage the serious ones to come to the hospital Perhaps one-third of the ones that we ask to come will come. The others we never see.

We are thankful for a good harvest. And as we see the material harvest we also thank god for the wonderful harvest of souls in this area. This Christmas a large number will celebrate His birth for the first time. —Your co-worker for Him, Elenore M. Schmidt, Jagdeeshpur, via Raipur, C. P., India, December 14, 1946.

Brief Life Story of Dr. Rodolphe Charles Petter

by Mrs. Rodolphe Petter

Rodolphe Charles Petter was born at Vevey, on Lake Geneva in Switzerland on February 19, 1865, and died January 6, 1947, one month and thirteen days before he would have been eighthy-two years. old. He was the son of Louis and Elsie Dubuis (de la Praz) Petter. On his mother's side he was of Huguenot and Waldensien descent. His great grandfather on his father's side was named Pierrot or Petit Pierrot, hence the name Petter. The Petters originated likely from Neuveville near Bienne, Switzerland. The name appears with that of Gatchet (in 1587) on the inner ceiling of the St. Martin's cathedral in Vevey, surrounding the escutcheon of the Bernese Canton. A. Petter of Neuveville used to preach in the Bernese Jura region around 1560. The paternal grandmother was the nurse of the great naturalist Agassiz, the latter being born in the village where she lived. Agassiz was given the name of Rodolphe Petter's father and his two brothers, therefore called Jean-Louis-Rodolphe Agassiz. Rodolphe Petter was educaed in the public schools of French Switzerland. Having later felt the call to become a missionary he enrolled at the Basel Mission Training Institute, where he spent seven years in intensive study for his life work. There he mastered German (a language he had not known before), Latin, Hebrew and Greek, besides correlated subjects, and was also given some medical training under eminent doctors and surgeons.

He married Marie Gerber of the Jura mountain region on May 14, 1890, and in the fall they together came to America to become missionaries to the Cheyenne Indians. In order to gain a better footing in the English language, they spent six month at Oberlin College before proceeding to Cantonment, Oklahoma. They arrived at Cantonment on October 1, 1891. Two children were born to this union: Olga Marie, now Mrs. P. F. Schroeder of Zillah, Washington, and Valdo Rodolphe, who died at Ashland, Montana, May 6, 1935. Mrs. Marie Gerber Petter died in 1910 and is buried at Cantonment, Oklahoma. On November 28, 1911, Rodolphe Petter married Bertha Elsie Kinsinger, of Trenton, Ohio, who was also a missionary among the Indians. Rodolphe Petter served the Cheyennes of Oklahoma from 1891 till 1916 and the Northern Cheyenne at Lame Deer Montana from 1916 till his death. He was a life member of the American Bible Society in New York City and of the International Historical Society of Paris, France. He received his doctor of divinity degree from Bethel College in 1932, though he never cared for degrees. Bluffton College offered him a degree but he did not accept. In Switzerland he had taken military training required of all male citizens, but chose "Samaritendienst" in the medical branch of the service. Dr. Rodolphe Petter collected and reduced the Cheyenne language to writing and worked out an accurate and complete grammar still in manuscript form. He published a voluminous English-Cheyenne dictionary of 1125 folio pages which is found in the leading libraries of the world. He translated Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress and many gospel songs. He translated large portions of the Old Testament which is published in one large volume. He translated and published the entire New Testament. He made special research study of the actual history of the Cheyennes from their own stories, there ceremonials and especially their language, the latter revealing much that should be compared with the oldest known languages of mankind.

He was able to read, write, talk and preach in French, German, English and Cheyenne and had a thorough knowledge of Latin Greek and Hebrew. He was a man of deep devotion to the call of God, possessed with a spirit of great humility.

* * * * *

The above article was written at the request of the editor of The Mennonite

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL WORKSHOP, MARCH 22

A vacation Bible School work-shop will be held in the Student Union Room of Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas, on March 22. Registration will begin at 9 A. M. Mrs. Paul Erb will give a practical and also an inspirational talk at the workshop.

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Faculty members who attended the meeting of The Council of Church Boards gave a report of the current work of the General Conference at the monthly faculty discussion meeting February 21. Students also attended. The Girls Gospel Team will give a program in the Salem Mennonite Church. Dalton, Ohio, Sunday, March 2. President Ramseyer will accompany the team and speak at the morning service. The team also plans a trip to Illinois later in March. The Men's Gospel Team plans a trip through the Ontario, Canada, churches March 1-6. Services will be held in eight churches. The Vesper Choir is planning a western tour immediately after the close of school this spring, June 3-18. The trip will likely extend as far west as Kansas and South Dakota. The college Faculty Club entertained the Faculty Club of the public schools of Bluffton Tuesday evening, February 25. Walter L. Collins, Superintendent of School of Kenton, spoke on European educational systems. The first week of March is Christian Life Week on the Bluffton College campus. Rev. Robert W. Hartzler, pastor of the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Indiana, will be the speaker.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Three members of the faculty teach the vocational education classes for boys in Freeman. Benjamin P. Waltner heads the Agriculture Department and teaches the classes in crops and soils and animal husbandry. Louis Linscheid teaches the classes in shop work and carpentry, while Gerhard Toews teaches the classes in mechanics, welding, and blacksmith work. The work and instruction in these courses is adjusted to the needs and abilities of the boys. Most of them plan to farm, and the work is planned with that in mind. During the winter quarter some of the older boys in the community have enrolled to take advantage of these courses. Evening courses in welding and mechanics are also given during the winter. Community response to these evening courses is very enthusiastic. When President Unruh and Dean Gross attended the General Conference Board meetings at North Newton, Kansas, they took along Rein Mestag, Jacob Frieszen, and Harris Waltner. Rein visited the Dutch students at Bethel, while Jacob went to see students from Paraguay at Bethel and Tabor. Harris attended committee meetings and visited his aunt, Miss Lena Waltner on the Bethel campus. Willard Waltner presented a musical program during Music-Day Chapel this week. The film "The Great Commandment" was shown to the students on Tuesday. A new electric Westinghouse range has been added to the Foods Room equipment. Mrs. J. D. Unruh invited the faculty wives and women instructors for an evening of social fellowship at her home on Wednesday evening.

BETHEL COLLEGE

The winter quarter closes Wednesday afternoon, March 5, and the spring quarter begins Monday morning, March 10. On Friday evening, March 7, the annual Bethel College Fellowship Committee dinner meeting will be held in Memorial Hall. Most of the General Conference churches within reasonable driving distance of Newton will have representatives at the important meeting. Dr. R. C. Kauffman visited churches in Oklahoma from February 9 to 19 as a representative of the Emergency Relief Board of the General Conference. Rev. D. C. Wedel left the campus on February 13 to follow a schedule of speaking engagements in Canada. He expects to return the first week in March. In chapel Monday morning, February 24, Robert Ziegler, executive secretary of the Brethren Service Committee gave a report of present relief needs in Europe. Opportunities for sacrifical service in the name of Christ, our Lord and Savior, will call for the best we have for years to come.

MENNONITE SEMINARY NOTES

Students and faculty gathered in an informal meeting at the Seminary home Thursday, February 20 to discuss "Christian Education in the Mennonite Church." Subjects of discussion were Christian Education in Schools and Colleges, Children's Education in the Churches, and Young Peoples Work.

The chairman of the meeting was Maynard Shelly. Speakers were Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman, Mrs. Ed. Miller, and Esko Loewen. The group spent the late afternoon and evening discussing the question. A luncheon was served to the assembled group.

Great emphasis was made on the need for people who will serve, for material which meets the particular needs of our churches, for an appreciation and vision of the significance of the Church of Christ and the ability to give and share that vision with others.

The second Vesper Service was held at the Seminary, Sunday afternoon, February 23. Dr. Kaufman spoke on his experiences in Europe last summer. After service, refreshments were served by the Mennonite Student Fellowship of the city, and a period of informal visiting was enjoyed by the group.

REFUGEES ACCOMMODATED

When the "Volendam" arrived at Buenos Aires on February 21, there were 2,303 refugees on board, but only three hundred of these could be provided with immediate river passage to Paraguay. The remainder need temporary housing and food until they too can make the trip. On the day before the refugees arrived it still seemed as though no housing facilities might be available, but on the same date M.C.C. at Akron received a cable stating that the Argentine military authorities had granted immediate use of grounds, tents and kitchen facilities. This was made possible in part through the help of the Paraguayan Embassy. The M.C.C. report of this news closes with the words, "God has again in this way manifested His power in caring for His people."

Author of article on page 1.

Dr. H. A. Fast, Vice-Chairman of the M.C.C. and Chairman of the Emergency Relief Board, has visited the Mennonite settlements of Paraguay and is at present helping arrange for the movement of refugees from Europe to new homes.

Bethel Mission Church Winnipeg, Manitoba

It is now eight years since the work of the Bethel Mission Church of Winnipeg was begun. Although the work began in a small way we now have our own church building on the corner of Westminster and Furby streets and can say that the Lord has been blessing the work.

The average attendance at our regular services is now between 80 and 110, and on special occasions it exceeds this number. Those that attend are practically all Mennonites or of Mennonites parentage, people who have come to the city from the surrounding Mennonite communities and are here either because they have found employment or are attending the many schools and colleges of the city. Since many of these are only temporarily in the city we are serving a constantly changing congregation. The work will therefore continue to carry on in the future as it has in the past the character of a mission project. There are, however, an increasing number of families that have secured homes and are now more permanently established in the city.

We are glad to say that we have a large number of young people who are attending our church. About 75 per cent of those attending are under thirty years of age. This means that our young people's work is very important and that there also are good prospects for the future of the church. At present the young people have their own meeting every Monday night at which time they carry on a program of worship, study, fellowship and service. The choir is another opportunity for expression, Mr. John Conrad, who has had much experience in choir work, is serving as director. The choir sings at both services on Sunday and meets for practice on Friday nights. Recently the choir took part in a song festival held by Mennonite choirs in the Concert Hall of the Civic Auditorium of the city. The festival was under the direction of Mr. Conrad.

At present we have sixteen young people taking catechism every Thursday evening. A considerable number of other young people sit in as visitors during this instruction.

At our annual church meeting the Ladies' Aid reported that they had had an average attendance of twenty-five during their monthy meetings of the past year. The sum of $390 had been raised; much of this was given to mission and relief work. The secretary of the church, Dr. J. B. Derksen, reported that one thousand dollars had been paid on our church debt during the past year. The church has a debt of fifteen hundred dollars.

During recent months the following ministers have preached in the Bethel Mission Church:

January 5 — Rev. J. J. Thiessen — President of the Conference of the Canadian Mennonites.

January 11 to 16 — Rev. George Dick gave a series of six sermons on Philippians. Rev. Dick is pastor of a Mennonite church in Bloomfield, Montana.

January 26 — Rev. G. G. Epp — Canadian representative on the Home Mission Board of the General Conference of Mennonites.

February 2 — Rev. J. N. Hoeppner and also Mr. G. Braun and Mr. A. Teichroeb, all teachers of the Elim Bible School, Altona, Manitoba.

We are grateful for the inspiration and instruction given us by these visiting ministers,—Isaac I. Friesen, Minister, Bethel Mission Church, 864 Doeoning Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Bethel College Bible Week

March 16-21

The Bethel College Bible Week will have afternoon and evening meetings. On Sunday there will be only an evening meeting. The speakers, as mentioned in the issue of February 18, will be Dr. Frederick K. Stamm and Dr. Floyd E. Mallott. Their subjects and the time of their addresses will be as follows:

SUNDAY EVENING

"The Kingdom-Church" — Mallott

Monday

2:35-3:25, "The Church in the Lives of Men" —Dr. Stamm
3:30-4:20, "Present Trends of Old Testament Study" — Dr. Mallott
7:30-8:10, "The Church and the Kingdom" — Dr. Mallott
8:15-9:00, "The Character of Jesus" — Dr. Stamm

Tuesday

2:35-3:25, "When God Is Alive" — Dr. Stamm
3:30-4:20, "Preaching from the Parables-I" — Dr. Mallott
7:30-8:10, "The Church-Kingdom" — Dr. Mallott
8:15-9:00, "The Doctrine of Non-resistance"

Wednesday

2:35-3:25, "Prayer in Our Day" — Dr. Stamm
3:30-4:20, "Preaching from the Parables-II" — Dr. Mallott
7:30-8:10, "Two Saints and a Heretic-I" Dr. Mallott
8:15-9:00, "The Christian's Credentials" — Dr. Stamm

(Continued on page 7)

Solitude

By L. J. Lantz

We, who have grown so intimate with soil,
And learned the quietness its ways impart;
We, who have known the rest that follows toil,
Should know the patience of the embattled heart.

We can believe in sunlight after rain,
In Winter's gloom that yields to joyous Spring;
Yet dread we storms of searching, clouds of pain—
Why should such trials seem so cruel a thing?

Count we that blessed Providence unkind,
Or else unwise, that equally ordains
For fields and forests, and for all mankind,
Seedtimes and harvests, snows and frosts and rains?

No. Even as men's dwellings must be planned
For strains and stresses, gales and earthquake shock,
So must the House of Faith, if it shall stand,
Be stoutly framed and founded on the Rock.

That oak thrives best which knows no sheltering wall—
Which stands alone, rooted in wind-swept sod;
So grows the life that triumphs over all—
Heavenward, with taproots in the Word of God!

WORSE than in 1937. That is the way some look upon world conditions today. It is pointed out that "the confusion, the hatred and the enmity in the world today are worse than in 1937." It is pointed out that one set of conditions has been exchanged for another. Where there once was a Hitler, there now is a Stalin. Is mankind to entertain the idea that another way must be fought to make all things well, or will mankind see the futility of what has so often failed to bring peace and trust instead in the power of creative goodwill?

M. R. ZIEGLER REPORTS ON EUROPE

M. R. Ziegler, who is to relief work carried on by the Church of the Brethren what Orie Miller is to relief work carried on by the Mennonites, gave a report on his recent three months in Europe when he spoke in the Bethel College Chapel, February 25.

Upon quoting Christ's words, "By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another" Brother Ziegler declared that the Christian Church is on trial today and that if Protestantism is to survive in the next twenty-five years it will have to be on the basis of active expression of love. He pointed out that never had there been so many ill-clad people as today, that never had there been as many Christians, and that never had some had as much money as today.

Referring to the talk of possible atomic destruction, he suggested that such talk tends to make people forget the terrible destruction that has actually been perpetrated and that people are just as dead from older methods as they would be from the atomic bomb.

In America, he suggested, we find it difficult to get white shirts. Think of how much more difficult it must be to get things in Europe where factories have been demolished and where the know-how of making things has been so largely destroyed because in many instances father and son both are dead. Since agriculture is so basic, great numbers of women are being forced into it, so that in a school of agriculture 75 per cent may be women.

In many communities of Europe there are five women to one man. In trying to make clear the terrible heartache that this situation causes, Mr. Ziegler suggested that the students present think of how they would feel if they could have no hope of ever knowing the fellowship and companionship of a home, such as they hope someday to establish. This shortage of men Mr. Ziegler holds as the unique problem of our age.

The people of Europe can not produce because they do not have enough energy-giving food. Flour and water for breakfast and potatoes and water for supper provide some heat, but not much energy. Fundamentally agriculture is the way out, and our relief program should encourage it.

Mr. Ziegler, who had recently visited Mennonite relief centers, declared that our system is working very well. He further suggested that we "set our stakes for five years of hard Christian giving." Said he, "The world needs men and women who do things because they love."

Thursday

2:35-3:25, "How Shall We Think of Jesus?" — Dr. Stamm
3:30-4:20, "A Parable of the Kingdom" — Dr. Mallott
7:30-8:10, "Two Saints and a Heretic-II" — Dr. Mallott
8:15-9:00, "How Can a Man Find God?" — Dr. Stamm

Friday

2:35-3:25, "Re-discovering the Bible" — Dr. Stamm
3:30-4:20, "Aspiration and Achievement" Dr. Mallott
7:30-8:10, "The Shape of Things To Come" — Dr. Mallott
8:15-9:00, "The Lighted Lustre" — Dr. Stamm

MINISTERS' CONFERENCE

The Western District Ministers' Conference will be held during Bethel College Bible Week. It will convene in Memorial Hall, March 18, 19. For the program see The Mennonite of February 18, page 7.

Women's Missionary Societies
Wednesday, March 19, 9:30 a. m.
Student Union Room

Devotions .... Mrs. J. E. Entz
Music .... Emmaus Church
"Relief Work in Denmark" .... Rev. Walter Gering.
"Children's Work in England and France" ....Ellen Harder
Music .... First Mennonite Church, Hillsboro.
Address .... Dr. F. E. Mallott

Lunch is to be served in Student Union Room at 11:45 after which Harry Martens will talk on Puerto Rico and exhibit Puerto Rican handwork.

RELIEF

Material Aid Shipments

Shipments leaving port during the first half of February included:

80 tons of flour from Canada; 30 tons of meats, fats and dried beans from Winkler, Manitoba; 8 tons of clothing, bedding, shoes and soap from Ephrata, Pennsylvania; all destined for the Mennonite Child Feeding Unit in the British Zone of Germany.

30 tons of flour and 40 tons of assorted foods for the Mennonite Child Feeding Unit in the French Zone of Germany.

30 tons of flour for Chistenpflicht in the American Zone of Germany.

45 tons of flour for the French Zone of Germany.

30 tons of flour for the American Zone of Germany for CRALOG distributions.

80 tons of cracked wheat from Lind, Washington for Shanghai, China.

40 tons of assorted foods and 60 tons of flour for Hungary.

Relief Worker Departures, Arrivals and Changes

P. C. Hiebert and J. J. Plenert left New York on February 21 for Brazil, where they are going as commissioners. Their primary mission is to study the possibility of refugee migration to that country.

Frank and Marie Wiens, Isaac Baer, and Arthur Voth sailed on February 18 aboard the "Queen Elizabeth" for Southampton, England. From that place Brother Voth will go to Holland to serve in coordinating refugee migrations; Brother Baer will go to France until his permit to enter Hungary is approved; and Brother and Sister Wiens will go also to France, hoping later to enter the French Zone of Germany.

Ernst and Ruth Harder arrived at Rio de Janeiro on February 17, and from there will leave for Asuncion, Paraguay on February 24.

A. E. Kreider has returned to Manilla after having spent some time in Java investigating relief needs and possibilities there. He reports that relations between Indonesian and Dutch governments are not sufficiently clear to enable the establishment of a relief project there at this time.

Siegfried and Margaret Janzen, who had been located at Roverstein refugee home in Holland, have now gone to Berlin to provide accommodations for any Mennonite refugees who may in the future gather there.

Workers are Appointed

A total of thirty-eight relief workers were appointed at the MCC Executive Committee Meeting held on February 15. Countries to which these workers are appointed include: Puerto Rico, Italy, Belgium, France, Poland and India. Twenty of the persons in this group will go to Poland as members of the tractor operators' training unit.

MCC Headquarters Personnel

Viola Wenger, of Nampa, Idaho, has come to Akron to supervise and coordinate the work relating to the MCC clothing centers at Reedley, California; Newton, Kansas; Ephrata, Pennsylvania; Kitchener, Ontario; and Winnipeg, Manitoba. She will keep in touch with workers on the relief needs and act as a liason in informing the Mennonite constituency, and particularly sewing circles groups, of the needs for clothing, shoes and soaps.

C. P. S. and Voluntary Service

Elmer Ediger, director of MCC-CPS, has recently returned from a five-day visit at Gulfport, Mississippi. Thirteen volunteers and twelve CPS men are working in that community health project in the deep South. The program is developing very well in that area of combating hookworm and other diseases. Aspects of this work include home nursing, assisting in the local city-county hospital, and directing recreation in a nearby school. Religious instruction is also being initiated in connection with schools. The state and community officials, as well as the local Mennonite people, are very eager that the health program continue in the future as a volunteer unit.

Summer Service Units for the summer of 1947 will be located at the following places: Cleveland State Hospital, Cleveland Ohio; Colorado State Hospital, Pueblo, Colorado; Penhurst Training School for Mentally Deficient, Spring City, Pennsylvania; Gulfport Health Project, Gulfport, Mississippi; MCC Headquarters, Akron, Pennsylvania.

Anyone who feels called for such summer volunteer service is urged to write to the MCC office at Akron, Pennsylvania, for further information.

Slides Available

A set of 35 Kodachrome slides on crafts in CPS camps has been prepared and is now available for loan to young people's or other groups interested. The slides, which are accompanied by a descriptive script, describe rug making, leathercrafts, carving, woodworking, plaque-making, etc.

Other slides available include sets on Mennonite Heritage, Puerto Rico, Gulfport, Ypsilanti Hospital Unit, Belton CPS, Tiffin CPS Unit, Ft. Collins CPS Camp (no script), CPS General (no script), and MCC Headquarters.

Also available are two films (16mm) on Civilian Public Service, one being silent and the other sound.

All of these slides and films may be secured for use free of charge from Publicity Office, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania.

Literature for Germany (US Zone)

Recent word has come that small packages (limited in weight to 4 lb. 6 oz.) of printed matter may now be sent to the U. S. Zone of Germany. A list of the enclosed publications must be attached to the outside of the wrapper of each package. The parcel may not contain material maliciously attacking the four occupying powers or writings that encourage militarism, incite disorder or otherwise cause interference with the German occupation.

Released via Mennonite Central Committee
February 21, 1947

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

The Program of the Western District Young People

by Roland Goering

The motto of the Young People's Union of the General Conference since its beginning has been this: "A United Mennonite Youth in Christ." Our district, being a part of this larger union, is also therefore working under this motto. How can we strengthen this unity of Mennonite youth in Christ?

One of the ways, of course, to strengthen this unity is through young people's retreats. Such retreats naturally tend to unify young people and to unify them in Christ. For the past years we have been trying to make these retreats more effective. We believe that to make them more effective means more time for each retreat as well as more retreats for more groups. This can be done only if we own our camp grounds. For this reason the biggest project of the young people for this year is to try and acquire such grounds. This is becoming increasingly necessary as the renting of public camp grounds is becoming increasingly difficult. For details of this great project I refer you to Rev. Ronald von Riesen's article in this issue of the Youth Section.

The second main project that we have is one undertaken not only by our district, but by the Young People's Union of the General Conference. We as a district are giving it our whole-hearted support. This project is that of the Missionary Education Fund. This is a fund of two thousand dollars, which is used to support students from foreign countries who come to our country to study in our Mennonite schools. These students as they return back to their countries will be Christian leaders among their own people, serving them in whatever capacity they are capable. Four students are now receiving aid from this fund. Jacob Friesen, who hails from Paraguay, is at Freeman Junior College. Jacob is interested in medicine, something which is greatly needed by his people. Iris Ruch Melecio is the daughter of a minister in Puerto Rico. She desires to enter full Christian service for her people in Puerto Rico. Francisca Santos, daughter of a Puerto Rican farmer, is interested in hospital dietetics, a field of service sorely needed by Puerto Rico where health and medical care are on a very low level. These two girls are attending Bethel College. Lydia Santos, also from Puerto Rico, is attending Bluffton, She desires to serve her people by teaching home economics. This, again, is a great need for the Puerto Rican people.

I am sure we all see the importance of this project and the blessings that it will bring both the students and also to their people to whom they will return. Let us unite our efforts fore fervently in support of this cause.

Thirdly, the need of missions and relief is perhaps greater today than it has ever been. Our Christian Endeavor Societies have always contributed to these needs. At our last Christian Endeavor Convention it was again resolved that we concentrate this year on the support of these two great causes. Contributions for these causes are not to be sent to the treasurer of our C. E. convention but rather directly to the Mennonite Headquarters at Newton.

This year we are also carrying on a broader program than ever before by way of visitation of the churches in our district. Rev. B. H. Janzen, who has been appointed as the Field Secretary of the Western District Conference, is visiting all the churches in our Conference. In his visitation he promotes our young people's work. We are therefore contributing toward his expenses. The Executive Committee of the W.D.C.E. Convention has also taken it upon itself to visit all of the churches in our district to get them better acquainted with our District C. E. work and especially to get them acquainted with the prospective retreat ground sites. This will give all the people of our churches the privilege of expressing their opinions and perferences in regard to the various possibilities.

As such visitation and all necessary publicity involves a certain amount of expense it was resolved at the last convention that an assessment of twenty-five cents per C. E. member be made for this cause. Has your society sent in its quota?

An additional assessment of twenty-five cents per member is made for similar expenses of the larger

---

Western District Issue

This issue of Mennonite Youth is by the Western District C. E. organization. It is, therefore, of special interest to Western District young people. But, also, it contains information which will be of interest to all young people and it is hoped that it will serve to develop the feeling of fellowship in all districts. In the future, it is planned that similar district issues will appear from each of our church district conferences.—Ed.

Young People's Union of the General Conference. Have you sent in your share for this cause?

The Western District C. E. Convention at the last meeting also resolved to encourage our members to take advantage of the voluntary Service Program sponsored by the Y. P. U.

Considering the above projects, we can conclude that the young people of our district have not been entirely asleep. May we pledge to be even more alert and devote ourselves even more completely to this task? We are striving toward a United Mennonite Youth in Christ.

The Problem of Recreation in the Western District

by Bob Tully

"Can you tell me where I can find some new games for our C.E. party next Tuesday?" is the stock question that comes my way most often at youth rallies and retreats. To youth that have to produce an interesting social at 8:00 p. m on a Tuesday it is a very important question. Who wants to attend a "same old thing" party? But I have heard it so often and from so many different church groups that I am now convinced that it isn't the important problem. It is a sympton of two very important recreational problems in the church.

I. The Church Needs a Christian Recreational Point-of-View

There is a deep need on the part of all church members for the understanding of the place of play, fun and recreation in the life of a Christian and his Christian social group, the Church. The above questioner has been handed a three-hour responsibility of providing recreational activities for an organized church group whose reaction will range between "That was fun" — to — "Just another dull party."

The real problem facing both the leader and the group is "What activities will best recreate us so that we may live more abundant lives? This is the basic problem. Many church sponsored social activities are not recreative, and a great many secular activities that are very questionable in their recreative value are participated in by church members.

Recreation is not an escape, not just getting away from work, or home or the same old thing. It is not just doing something new and different. Recreation is the rebuilding, through a change of captivity, of worn, tired or exhausted parts, organs, of an individual or society.

Therefore the basic problem is a need for an awakening on the part of growing Christians, adults and youth, to the importance of and the place recreation in growth. When that awakening takes place, Christians will organize and build their social and personal recreational activities to make them recreative.

II. Need of Persons To Build and Implement That Point-of-View

Now the second problem faces us. How can the church be awakened to that point of view? Well, the only answer to a "how" question is "persons" A friend of mine keeps quoting this truism: "If you want Bear Stew, first get the Bear." The Western District needs some real-for-sure recreational "Bears," youth that will make their contribution to the church and their community through recreational leadership.

The following are suggestive goals in terms of persons:

(a) Seven "bears" that will give a life-time to the Mennonite Church in the area of recreation. This may become a full-time church or community job. It means one person from a group of ten churches in the district.

(b) One "bear" in each church to give his or her leisure time for life to recreational needs, plans, and programs of the local church. He will serve in close cooperation with his pastor and would help the entire church. Sixty-seven of these "bears" are needed in the Western District.

(c) Three to five young "bears" in each church that will spend part of their youth (ages fifteen to thirty) in the interest of recreation in the local church and community, serving especially their own youth group.

From these shall come the inspiration and services that shall bring about the awakening as to the importance of recreation in a program of abundant living. "I came that ye might have life and have it more abundantly."

About the Contributors:

Roland Goering, McPherson, Kansas, is pastor of the McPherson Church and president of the Western District C. E. Convention.

Edwin Stucky, Moundridge, Kansas, is assistant pastor of the Goessel Mennonite Church and is secretary-treasurer of the Western District C. E. Convention.

Bob Tully, North Newton, Kansas, is coach and director of the physical education program at Bethel College. He is an ordained minister in the Church of the Brethren.

Frieda Claassen, Beatrice, Nebraska, is Y.P.U representative of the Western District C. E. Convention.

Ronald von Riesen, Newton, Kansas, is executive secretary of the Board of Education and vice president of the Western District C. E. Convention.

Forty acre estate near Arlington, Kansas. This was sold recently.

A scenic view of land owned by Dr. H. R. Schimdt of Newton, Kansas Retreat Grounds, Our Project

BY RONALD VON RIESEN

At the 1945 session of the Western District Christian Endeavor Convention, the first move was made to secure our own retreat grounds. At that time, the Executive Committee was given authority to investigate possible sites and to enter into negotiations for the same. The committee was active in contacting county agents and state officials for information and spent considerable time visiting prospective locations.

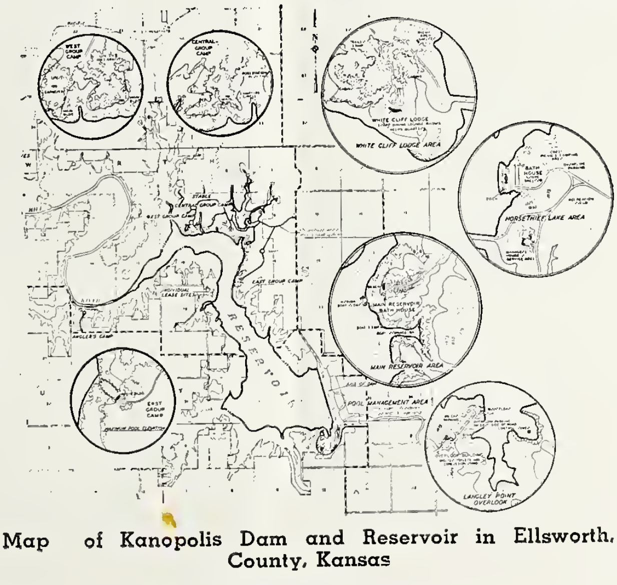
At the 1946 sessions, the convention, upon recommendation of the Executive Committee, voted to enlarge the committee from four to seven members, consisting of one representative from the Western District Conference Board of Trustees, the President of the Western District Conference, and one member at large. The committee at present consists of Roland Goering, Edwin Stucky, J. H. Langenwalter, Adam Mueller, Henry Hege, Jake Lingenfelder, and Ronald von Riesen.

We wish to take this opportunity to present some possible retreat ground sites for your information, and hope that it may stimulate interest on the part of your local Christian Endeavor and encourage your suggestions.

Site No. 1. (see upper right) is a view from one of the bluffs in the flint-hills about fifty miles northeast of Newton and about ten miles south of Camp Wood. One of our Mennonite physicians has purchased five hundred acres of pasture land in this area. Being interested in young people, he has offered to sell any number of acres for our use with permission to lease additional acres at a very reasonable price. Some of advantages of this location are: (1) Well isolated from any source of distraction, and about six miles to the nearest town; (2) A creek cutting dircetly across the land provides for a variety of scenery, and offers possibilities for a lake; (3) An ample supply of flint rock is available for building purposes, which the owner has given us permission to use.

Site No. 2 (see lower cut). A map showing the proposed developement of recreational facilities in connection with the Kanapolis Dam and Reservoir located on the Smoky Hill River, about nineteen miles west and sixteen miles south of Salina, in Ellsworth County, Kansas. During the war all work on the dam was suspended. Work is now being resumed, and the project will be finished by the summer of 1947. The lake will cover an area of approximately three thousand acres. The areas marked group camps (of approximately 160 acres) are available and will be leased to organizations of sufficient size to insure their constant use. They are strategically placed so that isolation and privacy are assured. With the possibility of securing a ninty-nine year lease from the government, this would cut down to a minimun our initial capital outlay, thus enabling our young people to divert all their energies into the development of the camp itself. A large body of water is in itself an asset to any retreat grounds.

Site No. 3 (see upper left). A forty-acre estate near Arlington, Kansas, owned by a Hutchinson grain dealer, was for sale until recently when notice was given that it had been sold. This possibility was considered because of its central lo-



Map of Kanopolis Dam and Reservoir in Ellsworth, County, Kansas cation and its ready facilities which could have been utilized for the coming summer. The scene is suggestive of its possibilities for a retreat grounds. This could easily have been utilized the year around for study groups and institutes of any nature.

Another area investigated was the region near the Lake-of-the-Ozarks in Missouri. Land can be purchased from thirty to forty dollars per acre. It is a very scenic country and might be considered in connection with the development of a mission project.

The committee has compiled a set of colored slides picturing the various possible sites, which are available for use in churches or C. E. programs. Our committee is anxious to receive suggestions from anyone who is interested in this project. We are deeply conscious of the greatness of the task, and realize that such a project should not be entered into lightly but should be considered in a prayerful attitude anxiously awaiting to carry out His Will. To that end we solicit your prayers and suggestions.

Beatrice Young People's Fellowship

by Frieda Claassen

Purpose of Fellowship

"That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ." (I John 1:3) The aim of the Beatrice Young People's Fellowship is to provide for the spiritual and recreational needs of the young people, consequently, the Executive Committee plans and sponsors a variety of programs.

Origin of the Fellowship

The Fellowship was originally organized for the purpose of studying the Mennonite peace principles. Rev. Reynold Weinbrenner, at that time pastor of the Beatrice Mennonite Church, began with a class of five or six young people. The group spent the evening in silent meditation, devotions, and study. Later they went to give programs in neighboring churches and communities. The nature of the activities now varies somewhat from its original purpose in that it is supplemented to meet also some of the recreational phases of life. The attendance, now, numbers about thirty-five to forty members.

In the past, such books as "Mennonite Heritage" by Edward Yoder, and "How the Bible Grew Up" by Roy L. Smith have been used as a basis for the discussion and study periods. These were under the leadership of Rev. Walter H. Dyck, formerly pastor of the First Mennonite Church, and Rev. Elbert Koontz, pastor of the Beatrice Mennonite Church, as well as members of the Fellowship. Due recognition should be given to the ministers for their untiring efforts and for their kind assistance in connection with the growth of this organization.

Programs

Regular meetings are being held in the basement of the Beatrice Mennonite Church on Wednesday evenings. On alternate Wednesdays the entire evening is devoted to "craft work." Programs are composed of a period of group singing, a devotional period led by one of the young people. Then, panel discussions, one of which was entitled "Values Attained from Organizing and Attending Young People's Christian Organizations;" colored slides on such projects as "Gulfport Mississippi," "Smoke Jumpers," experiences related by returned C. P. S. men, or inspirational messages by visiting speakers are usually planned to comprise the remainder of the evening.

Special programs, in keeping with the season of the year, have also proved successful. Someone has said, "There is nothing more inspiring than to see a crowd of Christian young people in a service of worship." Such inspiration was experienced when the group motored to the "iron mountains" (in a nearby community) for a "Nature Worship Service." The evening in October was spent in the observance of God's universe at night. This study, under the direction of Mrs. C. P. Lohrenz was followed by a period of social fellowship and refreshments.

At Christmas time the executive committee sponsored a "Candle Light Service." Musical numbers, topics, and poems centering around the question "Is There Room for Christ Today?" were presented by members of the fellowship.

Fellowship Banquets

One of the highlights of the past several years has been a Young People's Banquet held during the winter months. Such an occasion gives those who attend the regular meetings an opportunity to share "with youth in general the fellowship they enjoy with each other." It also leads those who serve on committees and those who are otherwise connected with the project to experience a sense of responsibility and cooperation.

January 30 was the date of the one for this year. About 125 persons gathered in the basement of the Beatrice Mennonite Church to partake of the three-course dinner served them by the students of the Mennonite Bible Academy. Dr. R. C. Kauffman, Professor at Bethel College, presented "food for thought" on the subject, "How To Get and Stay Married." The event climaxed the "Fellowship Institute" held January 26-30. Rev D. C. Wedel and Dr. Kauffman, both of Bethel College, were leaders of this institute.

Crafts

These young people are indebted to Rev. Elbert Koontz, for their Crafts Program. Upon realizing its possibilities he presented the idea to the group. They accepted it with enthusiasm! Since that time this project has been carried out in connection with the Fellowship. It has resulted in many finished products such as ladies' purses, billfolds, leather belts, coin purses, key cases etc.

Plastic picture frames are the latest! Louis Goossen, member of the First Mennonite Church and an ex-Smoke-Jumper is assisting with this work. Louis is Vice-President of the Fellowship. Other officers are Donald Epp, President; Mrs. Elsie (Jantzen) Barnard, Secretary; and Miss Margaret Goossen, Treasurer.

Garden Projects

During the summer months fellowshippers enjoy informal get-to-gethers in God's great out-of-doors. Last summer they planted and cared for the garden at the Mennonite Deaconess Home and Hospital. One evening after working in the garden and singing songs on the lawn, these young people went to Chautauqua Park to partake of a watermelon feed. In this connection they also took up an offering of over three hundred dollars for relief work.

Heretofore the group participated in CPS garden projects. Vegetables were planted and cared for by the fellowshippers, and later canned by the ladies mission societies of both churches, and then sent to the "boys" in the service.

Fellowship Echoes

Fellowship Echoes, now in its third volume, is a monthly publication. This paper was "begun with the hope of making it a common bond of fellowship between our absent and present members." It has also been "influential in uniting us as Mennonites, whether in the service, C. P. S., or at home."

Its editorial staff is composed of the editor, Miss Martha Thimm, and the Fellowship Executive Committee. It contains numerous items, such as, inspirational articles, poems, personal news, a bit of wit, re-echoes, (letters from those away) announcements about events "past and present," etc. It now has a mailing list of approximately sixty, and helps to keep our absentee members of this community in touch with "events from home."

"The spirit of God abideth not where there is either needless grieving or inactivity; but only where there is joyful performance of duty." Such an organization cannot function at its best unless each member places him or herself wholeheartedly in the matter of making the "best better." The officers must feel their responsibility, perform their duties to the best of their ability, as if unto the Lord. As members each one must be ready to take an active part, give helpful suggestions and if necessary be willing to make personal sacrifice. Activities and programs are not to be planned for "something to do" or "somewhere" to go." The ultimate goal must be one that enables Christians to "grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ," and then to help each member to reach out and recommend to others "the Jesus way of life."

These Make the Program

by Edwin Stucky

The Western District Christian Endeavor Convention was organized in 1892. At the present time it represents sixty-three C. E. societies. These groups are scattered over four states, namely Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and one group is Texas.

The officers of our Convention now in office are as follows: President Rev. Roland Goering, 1009 N. Maple Street, McPherson, Kansas; Vice President, Rev. Ronald von Riesen, 722 N. Main, Newton, Kansas; Secretary-Treasurer, Edwin R. Stucky, Route 2, Moundridge, Kansas. These officers comprise the executive committee of our Western District C. E. Convention. Other officers of our convention are: Frieda Claassen, Beatrice, Nebraska, who is serving as District Y. P. U. Representative (the Y. P. U is the Young Peoples Union of the General Conference); Mrs. Roland Schmidt and William Juhnke, members of the program committee; Mrs. Willis Rich, Rev. Henry Hege, Roland Bartel, and Bernard Bargen, the four elected members of our Retreat Committee; Rev. Roland Goering, Frieda Claassen and Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, who is our young people's counsellor, also members of the Retreat Committee. This committee is now at work making plans for the retreat to be held next summer.

Another committee now at work is our constitution committee. This committee is comprised of William Juhnke, chairman, Rev. Roland Goering and Rev. Ronald von Riesen. They have done a considerable amount of work on the new constitution and will have it ready for consideration and adoption at the next annual business meeting.

The largest task of our convention at the present time is now in the hands of the Retreat Grounds Committee. This Committee is composed of our Western District Executive Committee, plus the Western District Conference President, one member of the Western Dictrict Conference Board of Trustees, one member-at-large, and the young people's counselor. The time has come when it seems necessary for us to have our own retreat grounds and administer our own summer program. This committee is now at work on this great project.

All these officers and all these various committees are a part of our young people's Christian work in the Western District. May we all unite our efforts and our prayers and work more earnestly towards the cause of God in this post-war world.

Jottings

TELEGRAM: "Gladys Klassen sails for Karachi India Monday March third on City of Tokyo"—Howard G. Nyce

—Alexanderwohl Church, Goessel, Kansas: Our choir, under the direction of Mr. Herbert Franz, has started regular rehearsals for an Easter cantata. Our pastor, Rev. Phil. Wedel, has led the inspiring midweek Bible services every Wednesday throughout the winter. Beginning with the first chapter of Genesis, he explained in detail the creation story as well as the great flood. On Sunday, February 16, Rev. Everett Zimmerman of Sterling, Kansas, was a guest speaker in our pulpit. He represented the Northern Bible Society. Beginning March 2 we will have Rev. Walter H. Dyck in our midst. He will serve on Sunday forenoon and conduct a series of evangelistic evening meetings throughout the week. We are looking forward to the program by the Bethel College a capella choir Sunday evening March 2.—Mrs. R. D. Voth, Corr.

—The Mennonite Fellowship of New York City has had regular monthly meetings since November. The following have been guests of the Fellowship: Mr. Schlicting of the M. C. C., who showed pictures and reported on relief work in Europe; Rev. J. J. Plenert of Lansdale, Pa., who brought a devotional New Year's message, and Rev. and Mrs. Ernst Harder who shared their experiences and told of the Mennonites in South America and possible situations which the new immigrants will find as they establish their new home. The Home Mission Board is again taking an active interest in the work and support of the Fellowship. Their aid is making possible a call on each of the Mennonite families and individuals living in the vicinity. It is the purpose of the Fellowship to maintain the interest of Mennonites in the City in the work of the Mennonite Church. The Fellowship's Annual Project consisted of cash contribution to the M. C. C. for support of relief. This gift amounted to $147.93. Though scattered widely over this City and removed from normal Mennonite contacts many have a deep interest in the continued witness of the Mennonite Church.—Jacob T. Friesen, President.

—Arlington Church, Arlington, Kansas: Readers may be interested in knowing that the Young estate near Arlington, which was considered as a possible site for the young peoples retreat grounds, has been sold to a Hutchinson contractor. Funeral services for Mrs. J. H. Linscheid, one of our oldest members, who passed away on February 15, were held Tuesday, February 18 with Rev Ronald von Riesen and Rev. P. P. Wedel in charge. Rev von Riesen filled our pulpit on February 16 and on February 23 Harry Martins of North Newton brought us the message.—Mrs. Lester Ewy, Corr.

—Bethel College Church: The amount of the offering Sunday, February 16, for transportation of war refugees to South America amounted to $441.00. Dr. E. M. Conover, Director of the Interdenominational Bureau of Church Architecture, New York City, brought us the morning message and conducted an Institute of Church Building in the afternoon and evening, Sunday, February 23, Dr. Conover's office is serving more than twenty denominations throughout the United States. He serves as director of the Buerau and is the author of several books on church building.—Eldon W. Graber —Bethany Church, Kingman, Kansas: Sunday evening February 16 the Women's Mission Society showed slides of the General Conference Home Mission work and a set of the Holy Land. A short children's service is held the first Sunday of each month. They take up their own offerings and have purchased a bicycle for India, given to relief, and are now buying overseas school bags. We look forward to having Rev. Edmund Miller with us Sunday evening March

WHAT IS THE GENERAL CONFERENCE?

Indeed! What IS it? You may have wondered!

And so may some others—for example, new members coming into your church. They come to you and say, "What kind of a church is this I am joining? Are you a member of some Conference? What affiliations do you have, as a church?"

Then what do you do?

The Bethel Mennonite Church of Lancaster, Rev. Don Smucker, pastor, faced—AND SOLVED—that problem very nicely. Reverend Smucker wrote a little, pocket-sized pamphlet, with a pretty, attractive, blue cover under the title, "What Is the General Conference?"

The only mistake they made was that they didn't print about 37,781 copies, so that every single member of the General Conference (according to the 1946 YEARBOOK—should be more this year!) could have a copy.

Now don't sit down and write Don Smucker that you want a copy—he'll probably write you, if you do, that the Publication Board of the General Conference is now working at it. That's true—we have put him to work revising it and getting it in shape and we want to print enough copies so that every church can have these nice little pamphlets to hand out.

So this is how we'll do it, maybe: Don will write it. Walter Dyck will check it—being General Secretary of the General Conference, he ought to know; the printer will print (Be glad to!) and our bookstores will ship it; IF YOU will order it! On the coupon below. Thank you.

ADVANCE ORDER COUPON ....

Ship when ready .... copies WHAT IS THE GENERAL CONFERENCE?

Ship to: .... Church or Sunday School

Name of person ordering: ....

Box Number, Route, Street ....

City (and zone), State ....

(Tentative price not to exceed 2 cents each. Send no money now.)

2, and the Hillsboro Gospel Quartet Sunday evening, March 16.—Corr.

—Butterfield, Minnesota, Mennonite Church: On February 20, in the evening, a church wedding took place when Lydia E. Hubin and John R. Ratzlaff were married. Rev. Herbert Rupp, a nephew of the bride, officiated. The bride, a registered nurse, has worked in the Bethel Hospital at Mountain Lake and also at Newton, Kansas, for a number of years and a short while at Dallas, Oregon. They will make their home at Mountain Lake, Minnesota.—Mrs. Gust Miller, Corr.

—Calvary Church, Barlow, Oregon: We of the Calvary Church have enjoyed several special services of late. February 2. Harry Martens gave a very interesting talk on the Puerto Rico work. The evening of February 16 a gospel team from the Grace Church, Albany, Oregon gave a lively and inspiring service to the Y.P.S. Our pastor will be away in evangelistic work. Rev. Fosmark from the Evangelistic Free Church will be filling the pulpit in his absence. May we all be praying for Brother Roth as he labors in other fields. —Mrs. L. E. Conrad, Corr.

—Ebenezer Mennonite, Bluffton, Ohio: Sunday, February 23, Dr. Bradford Steiner, spoke at our morning service, on his future medical work in Tibet. Doris Garmatter, one our girls now with the M.C.C in Itlay, reports being very happy in her work of Public Health Service. She finds many opportunities for witnessing for her Saviour. She reports that many people have not had soap for bathing in several years. The first week in March the Missionary Society will meet for another, all-day quilting at the church. We are busy planning and praying for our spring Bible conference, starting March 16, for one week.—Anona Landes, Corr.

—Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas: We are eagerly awaiting the arrivel of our pastor, Rev. Walter Gering, who has spent the past year doing relief work in Europe. On February 18 he wrote a letter stating that he expects to sail the next day and arrive in the states about March 1 or 2. In the meantime we are being well served by visiting ministers. Sunday February 16 Rev. Sam Goering brought the morning and evening messages; the latter was illustrated with slides. February 23 Rev. Ronald von Riesen brought the morning message.

—First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: In the absence of Rev. Harder, Mrs. H. N. Harder gave a talk at the teacher's training class February 13, entitled "The Teacher With A Shepherd Heart." Mrs. Elma Becker gave a talk entitled "The Problem Child." Rev. Menno Kliewer, Pastor of the Church at Caldwell, Idaho, brought the Sunday morning and evening messages.—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Nappanee, Indiana: A week ago Sunday evening Adele Haddad, a Syrian girl and student of Goshen College, was our guest speaker. Last Sunday evening we were shown a sound film on "Civilian Public Service," showing all the phases of the project. The Sewing Circle met for an eveing meeting this Friday for the benefit of those that work and cannot attend the day meetings. Some of the pastors and layman of Nappanee went to Indianapolis in the interest of the local Option Bill, a bill against liquor in this state.—Mrs. Loyal Corwin—Corr.

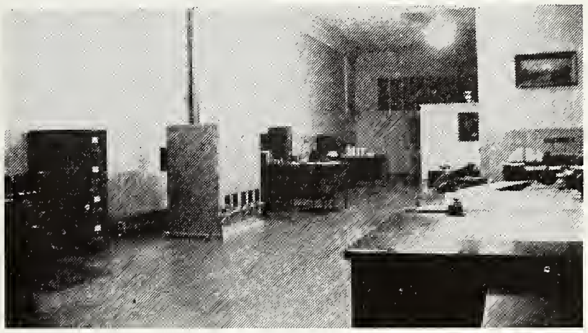
BISHOP DAVID TOEWS PASSES

The following telegram from J. J. Thiessen came to Walter H. Dyck at General Conference Headquarters on February 26: "Bishop David Toews passed away Tuesday Night Funeral Friday"

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: Dr. Fast of Bethel College was in our midst Sunday morning, February 23. He gave us very interesting glimpses into the work of the M.C.C. Rev. Tschetter and Jacob B. Graber left Friday morning for the Arizona Mission Field where the Suderman's are in charge. They went by truck taking a 42-Volt light plant to the Mission. Marybel Gookins, Inman and Harold J. Graber of this church were married Sunday, February 9, in the Calvary Methodist Church at Wichita.—Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

—Grace Mennonite Church, Enid, Oklahoma. Our congregation has been abundantly blessed with outside speakers in the last month. Rev. J. J. Esau was here in behalf of Grace Bible Institute. Dr. R. C. Kauffman reported on his relief work in India. Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Voth of Mountain Lake, Minnesota were with us for a week of evangelistic meetings. Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Sukau of Butterfield, Minnesota who are giving the gospel to transients in tourist cabins, presented their work in pictures. Mrs. Herbert Miller was the guest speaker at the ladies missionary meeting this month. This was very inspirational and spurned us on to do more for our Lord and Savior.

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER



The H. P. Krehbiel Memorial Building, which houses the Headquarters Office pictured above, was a gift to the General Conference by Mrs. Elva K. Leisy, in memory of her parents. The office furniture has recently been rearranged to make it possible for the Women's Missionary Association, an auxiliary organization, to occupy necessary desk and storage space. The desk, which the Women's Association expects to use, represents a gift to the Headquarters Office by Mrs. P. J. Wiens, in memory of her husband with whom she labored for many years in our mission field in India.—Walter H. Dyck, Office Manager

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

Miss Verna Jantz, who is a student at O. B. A., underwent an appendectomy and is doing nicely.—Elda Ewert, Corr.

—Johannestal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: We have one union meeting a month with the First Mennonite Church, Hillsboro, and the Brudertal Church. On February 16, this union service was held in our church, with Professor Hohmann as speaker. He talked on church music and led us in a number of songs out of the Mennonite Hymnary. After he closed Miss Elisabeth Goertz of China spoke. It really was an evening well spent. On Sunday morning, February, 23, Miss Bertha Fast told us most interestingly of her relief work in Egypt and Italy. "Repentance" was the theme for the last adult midweek Bible study and prayer meeting. The next theme is "Forgiveness".—Mrs. Arnold A. Plenert —Mennonite Church, McPherson, Kansas: Rev. Henry W. Goossen from Burns, Kansas, was our guest speaker February 23. A concert of sacred music was rendered by Rev and Mrs. Al Zahlout Sunday evening, February 23. The Church basement is about completed now. March 1 is the sale date for surplus building material.—Mrs. Freeman Jantz—Corr.

—Immanuel Mennonite Church, Los Angeles: We had the privilege of enjoying the rich Bible teaching ministry of Dr. H. Framer Smith of Philadelphia, Pa. February 4-9. The studies were in I John. Sister Eva Doerksen, our missionary to Africa, gave her farewell message on Sunday evening February 16. She plans to return to her field of service in April. The pastor attended the recent board meetings in Newton.—Mrs. Harold Burkholder, Corr.

—Missionary J. R. Duerksen of North Newton, Kansas, left on February 24 for Altona, Manitoba, where he is to speak on missions at a conference being held by the large (membership 3,470) Bergthal Church.

—Rev. John T. Neufeld of Chicago worked out the little pamphlet on "Suffering," which the Evangelism Committee is sponsoring and the printed matter of which we published several weeks ago. Due to an oversight Rev. Neufeld's name did not appear in connection with the material.

—Rev. P. K. Regier of Reedley, California, was a Newton visitor recently when he came to Kansas to visit a brother who was seriously ill.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: The offering for relief amounted to $149.19. Brother Rollin Friesen of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, who, with his wife, is visiting relatives here, gave us a very interesting talk in Sunday School. Missionary Lubin Jantzens were in our services on Sunday evening. Brother Jantzen gave us a very interesting sermon on Rom. 1:14-16. Mrs. Jantzen also made a few remarks. They are waiting for a ship to go to India.—Mrs. David Balzer, Corr.

—Dr. Elmer E. S. Johnson, minister of the Hereford, Pa., Church, Bally, has suffered a heart attack and has been critically ill at his home. The latest report, from his attending physician, is that he is resting well and is somewhat improved. He suffered his attack on Wednesday, February 12.—Mae Latshaw, Corr.

—Menno Schrag, editor of the Mennonite Weekly Review, will leave either at the end of this week or the beginning of the next for a three-months trip to Europe and the Near East. Mr. Schrag, who is undertaking this trip for the Herald Publishing Company, says that its purpose is "to make first-hand acquaintance with the extensive work being carried on in Europe, with conditions and developments among European Mennonites and with the general state of things on the continent and in Bible lands." He will keep the readers of the Mennonite Weekly Review informed about his trip by means of air mail letters to the paper. The trip is to include England, France, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, Italy and Egypt, and if possible Germany and Palestine. During Mr. Schrag's absence the Review will be edited by Richard Blosser and Katherine Banman Mason. (We hope that the editor of the Review will have some reports to share with the readers of The Mennonite.)

—Paul Goering, who is working for the National Service Board for Religious Objectors, Washington, D. C., recently came to Moundridge, Kansas, for a visit with his father who is ill.

BERTHA FAST VISITS CHURCHES

Miss Bertha Fast, who for two years served as relief worker in Egypt and Italy, plans to visit churches in California, Oregon, Washington, and Idaho, during March and April. Miss Fast, who has already visited a number of churches in Nebraska, and Kansas, left for California last week. She was scheduled to visit Upland March 2-4. Her schedule for March 5-18 is as follows: March 5-7, Los Angeles; March 9-11, Paso Robles, March 16-18, Reedley. Watch for a further schedule in next week's issue. Miss Fast, who has an excellent set of slides and a vivid message on relief work, has been accorded a hearty response in the churches she has visited.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — March 11, 1947 — Number 10

Finding the Way into a Humble Life

When men failed to be humble because they no longer sought to fill their true places well, He gave them opportunities to see themselves as they really were.

J. H. Langenwalter

The way to a humble life is a personal problem and calls for a personal solution.

Jesus called Himself the Way and He was humble. That definitely places Him into a position of being the Way for others to become humble.

Taking Jesus as the Way to a humble life makes us face his idea of humility. With him humility was a very positive and a constructive quality.

He found His place and filled it well; that gave Him no time for exaltation nor for pride.

He stood in a very high type of relationship with God whom He called His Father—and He lived as though He really believed what He said about that relationship.

He stood in close communion with His Father. His prayer life was unique.

His attitude toward the Father was one of joy, of thankfulness, and of obedience—being in sympathy with the Father through days of success and through days of apparent defeat.

He was never afraid of His Father; his childlikeness in this regard shows His true greatness.

He sought to prepare people for a wholesome relationship with God and with each other. In order to achieve this end. Jesus used His great ingenuity in many ways. He used words. By means of these He told people the facts and stimulated their thinking. He illustrated wonderfully through stories and parables. He made encouraging suggestions by drawing upon the knowledge which people had already acquired. Then He suggested the greater possibilities beyond the knowledge of those to whom He spoke.

When men failed to be humble because they no longer sought to fill their true places well, He gave them opportunities to see themselves as they really were. He had to do that often in His dealings with the scolding Pharisees and with the scoffing Sadducees Their attitude sometimes made it necessary for Him to speak very definitely to them. However, His address to them always had a touch of longing on His part that they might see the error of their way and do better. That means that He was interested in winning people, even though they considered themselves His enemies, more than He was interested in condemning them for their wrongs.

Much to His sorrow, His own disciples merited disapproval because of the lack of the kind of humility He had hoped to teach them.

Their attitude toward the Samaritans who refused hospitality to Jesus and His followers was properly rebuked. Jesus knew a better way than praying that fire might descend from heaven and kill people who had been wronged by Jews. For the moment these Samaritan people considered Him as belonging to the Jews who had wronged them.

He and His followers could humbly secure another place and thus avoid the conflict for which the disciples had asked. That would leave the irate Samaritans wondering about His greater way.

When some of His disciples rather proudly told of having forbidden an unnamed follower of Jesus from doing his work because he did not do it their way. Jesus showed them a better way. He took the attitude that a man with such a spirit as this stranger had shown could not possibly be an enemy.

When the pride of the twelve prevented them from showing Him the courtesy of washing His feet as the Guest of Honor at their last Passover Feast with Him, He washed their feet over the protest of some of them, especially Peter.

For weeks there had been too many signs of the fact that the inner circle of Jesus was rapidly losing interest in Him as their leader. He had had a long heart to heart talk with them. The response had been negative. Then He used a concrete way rather than more words in order to teach them how to be truly humble.

He was not intent upon establishing a new form

(Continued on page 13)

Our Foreign Students

Should this program of student exchange develop during the years ahead and include college students from the Mennonite communities in Holland, Germany, Russia, France, Switzerland, and Italy, as well as from various Mennonite colleges in America, it would make for better understanding and closer cooperation among Mennonites of the world.

Ed. G. Kaufman

Student exchange is greatly stressed in American colleges and universities in the postwar era. UNESCO, an arm of the United Nations Organization, is emphasizing student exchange as one way to make for better international understanding. There is some evidence in history to back up this assumption. Since 1900 over one thousand Chinese have attended American colleges and universities on the Boxer indemnity fund. The continued friendship between China and America in recent times has resulted largely from this far-sighted program. Since 1902 over one thousand young Americans have studied in England on scholarships established by Cecil Rhodes. They have been largely responsible for the friendly relations between England and America during recent decades.

Mennonite student exchange has made a beginning. Last summer, under the auspices of the Association of Mennonite and Affiliated Colleges and the Mennonite Central Committee, two of our Mennonite college presidents visited Mennonite communities in Europe in the interest of sudent exchange. The following nine schools are participating in this program: Bethel College, Bluffton College, Eastern Mennonite School, Freeman Junior College, Goshen College, Hesston College, Mennonite Biblical Seminary, Messiah Bible College, and Tabor College. As a result of these efforts, some thirty young people from Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, South America, and Puerto Rico are attending the above named schools during the current school year. The large majority of these young people belong to the Mennonite Church. Some are able to pay a part of their expenses while others need to be supported altogether.

For our conference schools the Board of Education is taking the initiative to secure the necessary funds for the nineteen foreign young people attending our conference schools. Various other Boards and groups have underwritten this project and have agreed to help, including the Young People's Union. It is hoped that our people will respond financially to this cause in a large enough measure to carry it. Contributions should be mailed to the General Conference Treasurer, Rev. Walter Dyck, 722 Main Street, Newton, Kansas, and should be labeled for the Board of Education "Student Exchange." The total needs for these foreign students in our four General Conference schools will be about $10,000 for the current school year including school expenses and the trip from and back to Europe.

Next summer a group of our own students from various Mennonite colleges hope to make a study tour of the Mennonite communities in Europe and perhaps attend summer school there. These will be expected to pay their own expenses. Should this program develop during the years ahead and include college students from the Mennonite communities in Holland, Germany, Russia, France, Switzerland, and Italy, as well as from our various Mennonite colleges in America, it would make for better understanding and closer cooperation among Mennonites of the world. This in turn would make the Mennonite Church a more fit instrument in the hand of God to fulfill its mission here on earth. The entire program is commended to your prayerful support.

THEM QUOTABLE QUOTES:

"We find the paper (THE MENNONITE) very interesting and enjoy reading it, especially all about the missionary activities.—Emma Sprunger, Los Angeles, California."

"Enclosed is a remittance for two gift subscriptions to THE MENNONITE. I am finding THE MENNONITE very helpful, valuing especially its help in meeting every situation in a Christian way. These, the 6th and 7th gift subscriptions within a year are sent because I have felt prompted to do so when praying for these friends." (A Canadian friend)

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign. $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Annual Report of the Board of Foreign Missions

Howard G. Nyce

The Annual Meeting of the Board of Foreign Missions was held in the Kansas State Bank, Newton, Kansas, February 11-14 inclusive.

The following Board members were present: Rev. D. J. Unruh, Newton, Kansas; Rev. P. A. Wedel, Goessel, Kansas; Dr. S. F. Pannabecker, Chicago, Illinois, and Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Allentown, Pennsylvania. Dr. Pannabecker was just recently appointed by the Conference Officers to fill the vacancy created through the resignation of Dr. P. H. Richert. Dr. A. E. Kreider, President of the Board, is traveling in Europe and Asia and therefore could not be present. Rev. A. P. Waltner was absent on account of a recent accident at which time he broke an ankle in his foot.

The Tuesday meeting was for Board members only. The Vice Chairman, Rev. D. J. Unruh, was in charge of the meetings. He opened the Tuesday meeting by reading Ephesians 4:7-16 and after a few remarks, the members of the Board offered prayer. Then he extended a welcome to the new member of the Board, Dr. Pannabecker.

The following telegram was sent to Brother A. P. Waltner: "Sorry to hear of your accident. We regret your absence and covet your prayer."

The Board then met with Mr. H. J. Andres, Chairman of the Board of Publication, Mr. Reynold Weinbrenner, editor of The Mennonite and Mr. B. Bargen, Business Manager, to discuss the space needed for mission articles in The Mennonite. It was decided that the Board would wait for the recommendations from the Publication Board. Later they reported to our Board that we would be given two pages weekly for mission material.

LaVerne Rutschmans To Go to South America

The Board had an interview with Mr. LaVerne Rutschman, which resulted in the following resolution, "Moved to accept LaVerne Rutschmans as our Missionaries to South America and send them as soon as possible." At present there is only one man in Colombia and Brother Stucky has been asking for another couple. It is necessary that two men counsel together frequently.

On Wednesday morning the officers of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary Association met with us. Mrs. A. E. Kreider, Chairman of the Literature Committee, also was present through the remainder of the sessions.

Since the entire group was now together, Brother Unruh read Romans 10:1-17 and after a few remarks asked for a season of prayer.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read as well as motions adopted by the Board since that time. The Secretary then asked for a formal motion to adopt the report of the Salary Revision Committee. This resulted in the following motion: "Moved that we accept the report of the Salary Revision Committee as presented October 2, 1946, same to go into effect January 1, 1947." At some later date, we will publish this report.

Miss Cressman To Be Secretary to Dr. Bauman

At this time the Board received the sad news of the death of Miss Leona Cressman's father. Miss Cressman had been invited to the meeting for an interview with the Board. She plans to leave for India shortly as Secretary to Dr. Harvey R. Bauman, who is Secretary-Treasurer of the India Missionary Conference.

Voluntary Service Project at Lame Deer

Wednesday afternoon the Young Peoples Union was represented by Miss Bertha Fast, Mr. Elmer Ediger, and Mr. Albert Gaeddert. They presented the summer plan of the Voluntary Service Committee, namely to send eight or ten young people to Lame Deer for ten weeks to help in daily vacation Bible school work, etc. They requested that the Board pay twenty dollars per month to each person and five dollars per week sustenance for each person. The Board took the following action: "Resolved that we support the Voluntary Service Committee Mission project at Lame Deer, June 14 to August 9."

Young People To Raise $1,000 for Lame Deer Church

The three young people also informed the Board that the Young People Union plans to raise one thousand dollars during the year toward the building of the Lame Deer Church. The Board expressed its appreciation with the following resolution, "Resolved that we express our appreciation to the Young Peoples Union for their offer of raising one thousand dollars for the Lame Deer Church and that we encourage them in their efforts."

The Board decided to build the Lame Deer Church as a Memorial to Dr. Rodolphe Petter who died early this year.

New Church To Be Built at Canton Oklahoma

Rev. Arthur Friesen of Canton, Oklahoma, was present when the Board discussed the Oklahoma field. By motion it was decided to adopt the Field Budget of $8,894.73 as follows: Clinton, Hammon and Thomas; Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Ediger, missionaries: Station Account, $450.00; Deficit of 1946, $44.73 and Native Help Account $1100.00; Total $1,594.73. For Canton, Longdale and Fonda, Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Friesen, missionaries: Station Account $450.00; Native Help Account $350.00 and for the new church to be built at Canton, $7,300.00.

Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Ediger To Retire

Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Ediger will be leaving the field early this summer, having reached the retirement age. Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Wiebe of Upland, California, will be added to the Oklahoma workers in a few months, but we still need another young couple. Who will respond to the call?

Rev. J. P. Suderman attended the meeting when we discussed the Arizona field. The Board accepted the proposed field budget of $4,080.00 For Moen Copi where Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Wiebe are stationed $2,000.00 for repairs to the house and $65.00 for the summer Bible school. Hotevilla where Rev. and Mrs. Daniel Schirmer are stationed, repairs for the missionary house and church $205.00; for summer Bible school $100.00 and $300.00 additional for a Sunday School house. Oraibi, where Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Suderman are stationed, for Bible school, repairs, and miscellaneous $410.00 and $1,000.00 to buy the Interpreters Quarters.

Rev. and Mrs. J. P. Suderman Resign

The Board is anxiously looking to God for the new workers to take the place of Rev. and Mrs. Suderman who have resigned on account of the ill health of Mrs. Suderman. We are also looking for a young woman as a companion to Miss Baerg on the Oraibi station.

Last autumn Mrs. Frieda Regier Entz accompanied our Vice Chairman to the field and stayed for several months. She would not accept any money for her expenses nor her services. The Board therefore passed the following resolution: "Resolved that we express our appreciation to Mrs. Frieda Regier Entz for her willingness to accompany our Vice President, Brother Unruh, to the Arizona field and for her free service to our mission during her several months stay."

Rev. and Mrs. Leonard Wiebe wrote about the Board renting or purchasing a butane gas tank for their home. The Board decided it would be cheaper in the long run to buy and install the tank so that it would be Mission property. The approximate cost to purchase and install is $364.00. (This might be a fine propect for some organization.) The money naturally would be paid into the treasury since we have to pay for it out of the general mission treasury.

The Montana Field Budget only amounted to $500.00, but we must not lose sight of the church building program at Lame Deer. This money was granted at a previous Board meeting.

Rev. R. L. Hartzler, Recording Secretary of the Congo Inland Mission, attended our meeting when we discussed Africa. He took the place of Rev. C. E. Rediger who could not attend on account of ill health. Just as we were discussing the work of the C.I.M., the Secretary received an air-mail letter from Brother Rediger which was greatly appreciated. He presented certain matters which made the work just a little easier since he could not be with us in person.

Brother Hartzler informed our Board that the C.I.M. is thinking of revising their salary schedule. He also stated that since we are supporting eight workers in Africa, he believed we would be entitled to another representative from our Board to meet with their Board regularly.

Assume Full Field Budget Allowance for Africa

The Board decided that as of January, 1947, we would assume full field budget allowance for our workers. Up until the present we have only paid 75 per cent. The Board has also decided to assume the full salary of Rev. and Mrs. Henry Toews. Up to now we have only paid one-half of their salary.

The Field Budget for Africa was placed at $9,000.00. We were glad to have Brother Hartzler with us when we discussed our cooperative work with the C.I.M.

Melva Lehman Another New Worker for India

The Board next considered India. Miss Melva Lehman, a new worker, waiting to be sent to the field shortly, was present, as were also Dr. H. E. Dester and Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Duerksen.

Miss Lehman gave a very interesting testimony as to how she was called into mission service and how wonderfully the Lord has led.

Grant Extra Thousand for Hospital

Dr. H. E. Dester told the Board that his estimate for hospital needs was too low and asked for an extra $1,000.00 grant. The Board made the following motion: "Resolved that we grant Dr. Dester an extra $1,000 for hospital and medical needs."

The Board authorized the following to hold the Power of Attorney in the India Mission: Dr. H. R. Bauman, Dr. H. E. Dester, Rev. John Thiessen and Rev. Orlando Waltner.

The Board approved the resolution of India that we favor cooperation with the Vellore Christian Medical College Board. This school is training native doctors and nurses.

Favor One Year Seminary in India

The Board also approved the suggestion of the India Conference favoring the idea of new missionaries taking one year of seminary in India.

We also gave permission to the India Missionary Conference to affiliate with Woodstock School. In the past the MCC had a teacher employed and it is the hope that the Board may find some one to go to India as teacher.

Memorial in Honor of Dr. and Mrs. P. A. Penner

The India Missionary Conference is planning to erect a Memorial Building in honor of Dr. and Mrs. P. A. Penner and would like to have it completed for the Jubilee in 1950.

The Board adopted the Budget for the India Missionary Conference of $87,000.00.

Desters and Duerksens To Return in Fall

It was decided that we ask Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Dester and Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Duerksen to return to India this fall.

On Thursday evening we discussed the China field. Miss Elisabeth Goertz, who had just recently returned, and Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Brown, scheduled to leave on February 25, were also present. Miss Goertz gave a report of her contact with the field recently. It was Added Suggestions on Observing the Week of Witness — by the Evangelism Committee

We might remind ourselves again that this coming Passion Week would be an excellent time to tell our friends, who we feel need help, what Christ means to us. Witnessing means sharing with others what we have come to know about our Redeemer. Young people need to be informed on how to face life and how to find Him Who will befriend them.

1. Our young children hear and read continually about the dreadful possibilities of an atomic war. If we imagine ourselves in their places, we can easily see that they must be looking into the future with dread and fear. Children should grow up with peace of mind and confidence. They are not responsible for the condition in which the world finds itself, and yet they must face all the dreadful possibilities of atomic destruction. Have we parents and older people something to tell our children that will give them assurance and peace of mind? Would it not be well to pray about this, and if we have light on how to reassure our children to do so and make it a part of our witness during the Week of Witness?

2. Youth in our high schools find themselves confronted with many problems and temptations. They have no easy time of it. Many may not know what God offers to them in Christ Jesus. It might be just what high school students may be looking for if a group of Christian young people would arrange for a symposium at a school assembly meeting in which a half dozen Christian young people would briefly speak on, "What Christ Means to Me." Most school superintendents will be glad to cooperate in arranging such a program. Young people may not know how to find forgiveness of sins and assurance of salvation. If you have found these blessings in Christ, do you not owe it to your young people to inform them on how to find them? "Ye are my witnesses," Jesus says.

---

decided that we allow $10,000.00 to be used as follows: bonuses for faithful workers $2500.00; immediate repair $2500.00; incidental missionary expenses $1,000.00 toward exploring a new field $1,000.00, and for furniture and equipment $3,000.

Workers to China

Concerning the sending of new workers the Board made the following motion: "Moved that we plan on sending the three families, W. C. Voths, Albert Jantzens and Lester Wuthrichs to China during this summer or early fall. If conditions do not favor the sending of mothers and children to our field, we plan to send as a minimum, Rev. W. C. Voth, Rev. Albert Jantzen and Rev. and Mrs. Wuthrich. Other candidates will be considered on receiving information and recommendations from the field. In addtion we recognize the pressing need of a doctor and make efforts to send one at the earliest opportunity."

Missionaries To Have Month's Rest

Concerning returning missionaries, the Board made the following motion: "Moved that arrangements be made for each returned missionary to take at least one month's complete rest as soon as possible after arrival and that without specific approval of the Board Secretary, no speaking engagements be entered into until the completion of this period."

The words "as soon as possible after arrival" may need a further explanation. If a missionary comes home via the west coast and lives in the middle west or east, his rest period does not begin until he arrives at home. He may be on the road for some time after landing before he arrives at the destination.

To Study Puerto Rico Possibility

Concerning the opening of the work in Puerto Rica, the Board has taken the following action: "Resolved that since considerable interest is being voiced by our young people in beginning mission work in Puerto Rico, we favor a cooperative study of this possibility with the Young Peoples Union, with the view of presenting the Berne Conference with the question whether such work shall be initiated."

The following motion was made concerning the Executive Secretary: "Moved that it be regarded as part of the duties of the Executive Secretary to promote missions through attendance at retreats, district-conferences and local missionary rallies, and to assist as possible in organizing missionary conferences."

We are grateful to the churches that are assuming full or partial support of missionaries on the field. We want to mention several of them and motions have been adopted to thank these churches for their support: The Stirling Avenue Mennonite Church of Kitchener, Ontario, Canada, will assume the full support of Miss Leona Cressman; First Church Philadelphia notified the Secretary that they would assume $700 toward the salary of Miss Wilhelmina Kuyf; the Hutterthal Church at Dolton, South Dakota, will assume full support of Rev. and Mrs. Orlando Waltner; the Los Angeles Church will support Lubin Jantzens; the New Hopedale Church of Meno, Oklahoma, will support the Harold Ratzlaffs; the Eden Church, Schwenksville, will assume full support of Rev. and Mrs. John Boehr. Others might be mentioned that are assuming full or partial support like Zion Mennonite in Souderton, etc. The Board is very grateful that churches are assuming these responsibilities, giving the Board opportunity to do still more by sending more workers into the various fields:

Dr. A. J. Regier, long time professor at Bethel College and former president of Freeman Junior College passed away at the Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas on Thursday night, March 6.

South American Work Begun

There is very little to say about South America at this time since our workers have just recently located at Cachipay, Cundinamarca, Colombia. The Board has approved the running budget for 1947 as $10,000.00.

To Write Life Story of Dr. Rodolphe Petter

It was decided that someone be authorized to write a life story of Dr. Rodolphe Petter. Concerning this matter, the following motion was made: "Resolved that the editing of the Life Story of Dr. Rodolphe Petter be made a Seminary project under the supervision of Dr. S. F. Pannabecker."

Report of Money Received During the Last Half of 1946

The following is a report of all money received by the Generad Conference Headquarters Office, 722 Main Street, Newton, Kansas, for the last six months of 1946. These are the gifts received for the various phases of our Conference work and for our Conference boards and committees. Contributions listed under "General Conference" include Minister's Aid, Placement Committee, General Conference Historical Library, and Committee on Doctrine and Conduct.

All checks should be made payable to: GENERAL CONFERENCE HEADQUARTERS

(List of non-church contributions to follow in another issue.)

Note: Since the printer could not include another two columns, we present the contributions to the Mutual Aid Board and to the Young People's Union below:

Contributions for Young People's Union

Bethel , Mountain, Lake, Minnesota, $10.00; Bethel Winton, California, $15,00; First, Aberdeen, Idaho, $5.00; First, Burns, Kansas, $5.00; First, Paso Robles, California, $30.00; First, Pretty Prairie, Kansas, $10.10; First Shafter, California, $14.02; First of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas, $5.00; Hebron, Buhler, Kansas, $31.01; Hoffnungsau, Inman, Kansas, $20.00; Salem, Freeman, South Dakota, $11.00; Walton, Kansas, $10.00; Second, Paso Robles, California, $20.00. TOTAL $186.13.

Contributions for Mutual Aid

Bethany, Kingman, Kansas, $7.46; Bethany, Quakertown, Pennsylvania, $10.00; Hebron, Buhler, Kansas, $20.00; West Swamp, Quakertown, Pennsylvania, $13.80; Zion, Donnellson, Iowa, $23.00. TOTAL $74.26.

CHURCHES	Foreign Mis.	Home Mis.	Relief	Peace	Gen'l Conf.	Education	Publication	Total
Alberta Community, Portland, Ore.		50.17	123.00	25.00				198.71
Alexanderwohl, Goessel, Kansas	7466.38	281.20	3529.30	1527.42	176.78	146.51	156.49	13284.08
Apostolic, Trenton, Ohio	35.77		132.27	7.00				175.04
Arlington, Arlington, Kansas	166.00		27.00					193.00
Beatrice, Beatrice, Nebraska	805.58	277.70	1259.11	200.43	19.18	95.73	19.18	2676.91
Bell (or First) Fredonia, Kansas	94.44		77.21					171.65
Bergtal, Corn, Oklahoma	153.64	81.00	140.00	10.00	8.00	5.00	12.00	409.64
Bergtal, Pawnee Rock, Kansas	556.50	300.76	759.00	341.75				1958.01
Bethany, Freeman, South Dakota	410.16	205.08	97.23	23.54	23.54	23.55	23.55	806.65
Bethany, Kingman, Kansas	265.57	70.01	390.66	217.69	7.45	16.90		968.28
Bethany, Quakertown, Pa.	33.93	19.93	20.00		6.00	12.00	4.00	95.86
Bethel, Dolton, South Dakota	99.00			200.00				299.00
Bethel, Enid, Oklahoma	245.84		359.00	66.30		21.20		692.34
Bethel, Fortuna, Missouri	130.72	92.28	847.64	24.35	22.12	37.40		1154.51
Bethel, Hydro, Oklahoma	116.93							116.93
Bethel, Inman, Kansas	862.92	238.12	486.50	375.00	10.00			1972.54
Bethel, Langdon, N. D.	12.35		273.43					285.78
Bethel, Lustre, Montana	407.68	281.77	100.21	114.91				904.57
Bethel, Mountain Lake, Minn.	2697.16	748.67	4858.09	795.24	110.00	25.00		9234.16
Bethel, Perkasie, Pa.
Bethel, Perryton, Texas	116.80							116.80
Bethel, Winton, California	60.00	60.00	60.00	50.36				230.36
Bethel, Wolf Point, Montana	284.19	69.05		238.77				592.01
Bethel College, North Newton, Kans.	306.62	97.13	1319.73	402.93	170.23	50.94		2347.58
Bethesda, Henderson, Neb.	5286.79	2525.39	7647.29	2639.94				18099.41
Bethesda, Marion, S. D.	2138.21	671.50	1765.63	375.93				4951.27
Bethlehem, Bloomfield, Montana	1072.37	562.55		10.00				1644.92
Brudertal, Hillsboro, Kansas	517.54	81.04	1513.83	228.74	106.76	51.25		2499.16
Buhler, Buhler, Kansas	876.52	261.56	228.96	350.00	69.79	68.26		1855.09
Burrton, Burrton, Kansas	296.07	30.66	70.00	151.45			12.31	560.49
Butterfield, Butterfield, Minn.
Calvary, Barlow, Oregon	216.77							216.77
Calvary, Mechanics Grove, Pa.
Deep Run, Bedminster, Pa.	229.67	184.86						414.53
Deer Creek, Deer Creek, Okla.	339.39	101.01	728.58	203.00			30.00	1401.98
East Swamp, Quakertown, Pa.	149.16	25.00						174.16
Ebenezer, Bluffton, Ohio	1012.00	400.00	170.24					1582.24
Ebenezer, Gotebo, Oklahoma	20.00							20.00

CHURCHES	Foreign Mis.	Home Mis.	Relief	Peace	Gen'l Conf.	Education	Publication	Total
Ebenfeld, Montezuma, Kansas
Eden, Inola, Oklahoma	100.00		414.25					514.25
Eden, Moundridge, Kansas	3100.40		10520.61	1900.00				15521.01
Eden, Schwenksville, Pa.	85.00	150.00						235.00
Eicher Emmanuel, Noble, Iowa	262.24	66.08	76.01	276.75	21.00	10.36		712.44
Einsiedel, Hanston, Kansas	79.63	216.36	173.10	36.21				505.30
Emmanuel, Denver, Pa.
Emmanuel, Doland, S. D.	217.25			4.00				221.25
Emmanuel, Galva, Kansas	37.80		103.12	66.10		29.86		236.88
Emmanuel, Pratum, Oregon	402.57	496.18	400.62	20.00				1319.37
Emmaus, Whitewater, Kansas	2794.47	167.00	1296.23	409.00	182.32	20.85		4869.87
Fairfield, Fairfield, Pa.	500.00	50.00						550.00
Fairfield-Bethel, Huron, S. D.
First, Aberdeen, Idaho	2798.59	419.42	1129.52	520.73	143.11	87.72	85.10	5184.19
First, Allentown, Pa.	350.31	137.74				10.00		498.05
First, Beatrice, Neb.	1875.29	179.47	4521.90	450.70				7027.36
First, Berne, Indiana	17519.42	5203.33	2364.23	482.02	461.56	1057.32	351.03	27438.91
First, Bluffton, Ohio	721.36	341.70	404.74	411.30	60.06		58.15	1997.31
First, Burns, Kansas	16.39		16.43	27.00				59.82
First, Butterfield, Minn.	411.67	105.20	198.09	5.00				719.96
First, Chicago, Illinois	8.33	72.65						80.98
First, Colfax, Washington	674.75	641.00	921.00		230.00			2466.75
First, Geary, Oklahoma	180.30		459.38	30.00	10.00	25.00	10.00	714.68
First, Halstead, Kansas	300.34	212.58	76.61	289.50				879.03
First, Hillsboro, Kansas	287.50	131.01	602.18	399.29				1419.98
First, Hutchinson, Kansas	267.92	170.52	128.73	49.54				616.71
First, Lima, Ohio	89.33		50.01					139.34
First, McPherson, Kansas	42.60		142.41					185.01
First, Madrid, Nebraska	171.40	113.77	280.79					565.96
First, Monroe, Washington	169.24	140.83	297.28			10.00	11.97	629.32
First, Mountain, Lake, Minn.	1364.06	713.05	2689.28	283.89				5050.28
First, Nappanee, Indiana	649.70	67.82		20.25	18.46	30.00	20.00	806.23
First, Newport, Washington	176.14	182.67						358.81
First, Newton, Kansas	2398.28	127.92	2003.27	565.49	19.24	19.23	19.23	5152.66
First, Paso Robles, California	181.84	155.84						337.69
First, Philadelphia, Pa.	102.34	41.44			8.28	4.15	4.15	160.36
First, Pretty Prairie, Kansas	5108.85	700.00	5420.89	860.20	110.46			12200.40
First, Ransom, Kansas	100.21		59.44	106.09				265.74
First, Reedley, Calif.	2806.60	1494.55	2976.94	953.50		189.60	188.59	8609.78
First, Shafter, California	163.96	34.88	31.52	36.70				267.06
First, Sugar Creek, Ohio	112.50	87.50	25.00	70.00				295.00
First Summerfield, Ill.	156.25	25.00	30.00	61.50		56.80		329.55
First Upland, California	246.99	150.28	1311.53	104.70	1.75		36.33	1851.58
First, Wadsworth, Ohio	85.00					27.56		112.56
First of Christian, Moundridge, Kan.	950.00	210.00	405.76	643.89		108.00		2317.65
First of Garden Twp. Halstead, Kan.	591.86	187.25	211.10	160.00	47.00	21.84	22.60	1241.65
Flatland, Quakertown, Pa.	27.29	19.68						46.97
Friedensberg, Avon, S. D.	224.10	112.05	486.53	12.01				834.69
Friedensfeld, Turpin, Oklahoma				25.33	18.92			44.25
Friedenstal, Tampa, Kansas	322.69			307.50	5.00			635.19
Germantown, Germantown, Pa.
Glendale, Lynden, Washington	265.99	185.05	408.57					859.61
Gospel, Mountain Lake, Minn.	629.52	118.00		195.89	76.00			1019.41
Gnadenberg, Whitewater, Kansas	222.06	46.51	174.04	518.09	20.00			980.70
Goessel, Goessel, Kansas	1321.61	73.82	578.69	438.29	19.92			2432.33
Grace, Albany, Oregon	392.04	70.80	229.89					692.73
Grace, Dallas, Oregon	236.17	127.04	156.80					520.01
Grace, Enid, Oklahoma	27.24	27.24	10.00					64.48
Grace, Lansdale, Pa.	278.31	413.84						692.15
Grace, Pandora, Ohio	1494.22	747.13	152.16					2393.51
Greenfield, Carnegie, Oklahoma	114.04		223.04	58.28				395.36
Hebron, Buhler, Kansas	669.52	339.23	1639.50	579.49	20.00	20.00	20.00	3287.74
Hereford, Bally, Pa.	125.00							125.00
Herold, Bessie, Oklahoma	268.66	22.13	248.91	216.48	29.14			785.32
Hoffnungsau, Cuauhtemoc Chih, Mex.			82.00					82.00
Hoffnungsau, Inman, Kansas	1413.95	383.12	1905.67	335.13			30.72	4037.87
Hoffnungfeld, Moundridge, Kansas	97.00	20.90	119.46	15.00				252.36
Hutterdorf, Freeman, S. D.	784.89	523.26						1308.15
Huttertal, Freeman, S. D.	1700.00	1687.74						3387.74
Huttertal, Hitchcock, S. D.	309.00		309.00	129.64				747.64
Immanuel, Delft, Minnesota	515.48	187.59	362.20	58.30				1123.57
Immanuel, Los Angeles, Calif.	320.00	195.00	250.00	180.00				945.00
Inman, Inman, Kansas	311.41	66.65	523.44	262.71				1164.21
Johannestal, Hillsboro, Kansas	303.11	123.15	1917.31	538.41	23.70	55.63	15.80	2977.11

$16,000 Needed for 1947, for C. P. S. Tuition Aid

The Board of Education is deeply grateful for the contributions that have come in for the support of this program. Many churches have responded generously. Others have taken definite steps to receive offerings for this cause.

We trust that every church in the General Conference will wish to do something to help our Ex-C. P. S. men continue their education in our conference schools, many of whom are interested in full-time Christian service.

At present ninty-nine C.P.S. men are continuing their education on a basis of one month's tuition for every month in C. P. S. up to a limit of twenty-seven months. SEE ATTACHED FOLDER FOR EXPLANATION OF THIS PROGRAM.

A total of $18,000 will be needed to meet our obligations for this school year. Of this, approximately $2,0000 have already come in. We trust that churches, Sunday schools, C. E. societies and interested individuals will be encouraged to lend their support to this worthy project.—Ronald von Riesen, Executive-secretary of the Board of Education.

CHURCHES	Foreign Mis.	Home Mis.	Relief	Peace	Gen'l Conf.	Education	Publication	Total
Kidron, Taloga, Oklahoma
Lehigh, Lehigh, Kansas	306.26	47.64	113.00	25.48	11.54	11.90	7.12	522.94
Lorraine, Ave., Wichita, Kansas	45.58		159.50	21.00	50.07			276.15
Meadow, Colby, Kansas	411.09		403.91	157.48				972.48
Medford, Medford, Oklahoma	256.63	26.23	468.65	141.65				893.16
Menno, Lind, Washington	1494.29	686.65	2309.84	220.00		115.00	195.00	5020.78
Menn. Bible Mission, Chicago, Ill.	50.00		116.00					166.00
Menn. Country Church, Monroe, Wash.	19.11	9.57						28.68
Mennoville, El Reno, Oklahoma			119.33					119.33
Mt. Olivet, Huron, South Dakota
Napier, Bedford, Pa.
New Friedensberg, Vona, Colorado
New Huttertal, Bridgewater, S. Dak.			115.81	410.00				525.81
New Home, Westbrook, Minn.	160.00	20.00						180.00
New Hopedale, Meno, Oklahoma	693.59	272.24	232.25	835.68				2033.76
Pine Grove, Bowmansville, Pa.	126.00							126.00
Pleasant Valley, Kismet, Kansas	85.77	70.07	148.08	75.06		7.75		386.73
Pulaski, Pulaski, Iowa	132.53	79.45	177.10	93.23		81.48		563.79
Richfield, Richfield, Pa.	88.75	38.75						127.50
Roaring Springs, Roaring Springs, Pa.
St. John, Pandora, Ohio	1071.10	111.15	70.93					1253.18
Salem, Dalton, Ohio	223.12	111.56	235.41	133.51		111.47		815.07
Salem, Freeman, South Dakota	905.00		1467.77	1025.00	25.00			3422.77
Salem, Munich, North Dakota	544.31		1331.24	178.51				2054.06
Salem, Wisner, Nebraska	148.94	148.94	253.07					550.95
Salem-Zion, Freeman, South Dakota	894.61	332.33	2756.31	825.79	45.53	55.53	88.99	4999.09
Saron, Orienta, Oklahoma	392.80	96.89	711.63	85.00	33.75			1320.07
Saucon, Saucon, Pennsylvania
Second, Paso Robles, California	195.80	91.09	1257.88					1544.77
Second, Philadelphia, Pa.	23.00							23.00
Sichar, Cordell, Oklahoma	13.21	4.00	87.99	98.09				203.29
Smith Corner, East Freedom, Pa.	12.30							12.30
Springfield, Coopersburg, Pa.	95.00							95.00
Swiss, Alsen, North Dakota	211.06	68.48	812.54	25.50				1117.58
Swiss, Whitewater, Kansas	104.55				15.64			120.19
Tabor, Newton, Kansas	444.13	66.56	381.52	441.00	86.00	132.41	15.00	1566.62
Upper Milford, Zionsville, Pa.	275.00	175.00						450.00
Walton, Walton, Kansas	262.36	81.06	122.98	1.00	5.00			472.40
Wayland, Wayland, Iowa	239.13	85.00	210.17	65.28				599.58
West New Hopedale, Ringwood, Okla.	38.54			73.71		50.00		162.25
West Swamp, Quakertown, Pa.	99.02	23.01	119.04		13.80	13.80	13.80	282.47
West Zion, Moundridge, Kansas	1065.92	121.85	220.63	121.37	72.95	193.67		1796.39
Woodland, Warroad, Minn.	59.55	25.00	474.61					559.16
Zion, Arena, North Dakota	129.46	106.96		36.00				272.42
Zion, Bridgewater, South Dakota
Zion, Donnellson, Iowa	338.52	251.70	178.76	9.00	23.00	20.00		820.98
Zion, Elbing, Kansas	880.25	158.71	2377.19	329.75		88.00	31.51	3865.41
Zion, Kingman, Kansas	94.51							94.51
Zion, Soudertown, Pa.	325.00				10.00			335.00
Zoar, Goltry, Oklahoma				88.65				88.65
Central Conference					125.88			125.88
	101,470.44	29709.85	93936.23	27210.39	2773.93	3167.42	1533.87	259,802.13

A. WHY CANNOT OUR SCHOOLS SIMPLY DONATE THE TUITION?

1. Our schools have no fund to provide for this added expense.
2. 100 ex-C.P.S. men added to the present enrollment at Freeman, Bluffton, and Bethel mean greatly added expenses. New faculty members must be added. New buildings erected. Maintenance costs will be higher.

B. WHY SHOULD NOT THE EX-C.P.S. MAN BORROW THIS MONEY?

1. Some cannot. They do pay about two-thirds of their expenses in maintenance and supplies.
2. Some could. But should we ask them to assume additional debt after they have given two, three, or four years without pay?

For Further Information—write to Ronald von Riesen, Executive Secretary, Board of Education, Newton, Kansas.

Send all Contributions for this Fund to—
General Conference Headquarters,
722 Main Street, Newton, Kansas.

LEST WE FORGET their Service

Give to the C.P.S.

EDUCATIONAL REHABILITATION FUND

$75,000 NEEDED TO HELP
C. P. S. MEN ATTENDING
OUR CONFERENCE SCHOOLS

Invest
in Education for Service

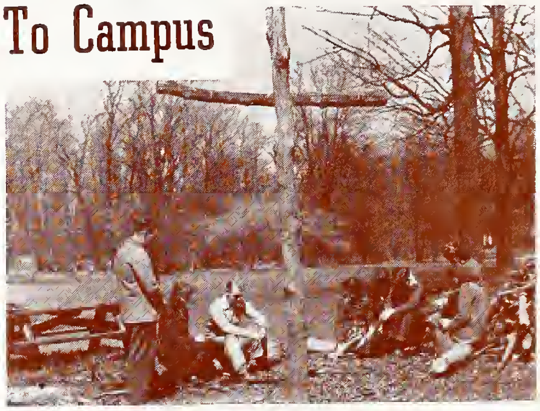
From Camp

To Campus



For Greater Service

G. I. Bill of Rights

A. Provides for educational aid to dis-charged veterans,

(1) Free tuition,
(2) Full maintenance,
(3) All laboratory fees,
(4) Books. (Every taxpayer pays part of every veteran's college expense)

B. Denies all educational aid to ex-C.P.S. men.

A Plan to Help C. P. S. Men

The General Conference Board of Edu cation is sponsoring a C.P.S. Educationa Rehabilitation Program to provide tu ition for ex-C.P.S. men who qualify t enroll in our conference academies an colleges. Worthy men will receive tuitio for a period equal to the time served i C.P.S. up to twenty-seven months.

Conference Authorization

Resolution No. 63, passed at the 194 session of the General Conference "Since according to statistics 26% of th General Conference C.P.S. men wish t continue their education after the war And since the government in its G. I Bill has made liberal provision for a discharged service men, but especiall for those who wish to continue thei education, and since our C.P.S. men have received no help from the government while in camp nor will they receive any when they get out; and since some of our most promising young men are in C.P.S. and should be helped to continue their education if they so desire; and since the Board of Education, the Home Mission Board, Relief Board and the Peace Committee are cooperating in working on this problem, it is recommended that the conference approve of this cooperative effort and encourage special contributions for this Educational Rehabilitation Program for C.P.S. men."

The Need

Approximately $15,000 will be needed annually to carry out this program for five years. For the first two years an estimated $18,000 will be needed yearly.

What the Plan Aims to Do

The Church provides one-third—(the tuition).

The ex-C.P.S. man will pay two-thirds—(board, room, travel, clothes, health fee, books and supplies). EACH COLLEGE IS PREPARED TO GIVE ASSISTANCE IN HELPING THE MAN TO EARN HIS MAINTENANCE.

This is your Opportunity——to follow through with men who gave years in learning to serve.

—to invest in the way of peace and love.

—to demonstrate loyalty to the doctrine of nonresistance.

—to utilize the C.P.S emotional and spiritual training for service.

—to meet the challenge to train men o maturity who have lived a witness o loyalty to Christ and the Church.

Who Might be interested in this Opportunity? —

1. Home Congregations showing agai their appreciation for the stand of th men and its significance in carrying o the historic principles and practices o the Mennonite Church.

2. Sunday Schools and Young People' Groups wishing to encourage these me for greater service in His Kingdom.

3. Ex-CPS Men now gainfully employed wishing to share in the service trainin of a fellow C.P.S. man.

4. Interested Individuals concerned for comprehensive OVER-ALL PEAC WITNESS and the rehabilitation an training of C.P.S. men.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Youth Council Lays Plans for the Year

The annual Young People's Union Council meeting was held February 8, 9, 10 at North Newton, Kansas. There were twenty-seven present for the meeting representing all districts in Canada and the States except Ontario whose representative was unable to come. Representatives of the student Christian organizations of the colleges were also represented.

The Council met to share and discuss the program of the Young People's Union and the district young people's organizations. Plans were laid for the coming year. The meetings are both a real inspiration and a great help in developing and planning a youth program in the church.

At this year's meeting the Western District C. E. Committee went to special pains to hold a youth rally in cooperation with the First Mennonite Church of Newton. A lunch was served, songs were sung, people were introduced, and Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander of Quakertown, Pa. was speaker at the lunch and at the evening service in the church at which the church was full.

Conference Next Summer

The Council made plans for the meeting of the General Conference to be held at Berne, Indiana, August 17-27. At the Berne meeting, a business session will be held. At this meeting, each congregation should have a representative. An effort will be made to have a representative under thirty years of age from each local church at the Y. P. U. business meeting.

The General Conference Young People's Retreat

In order for young people from all districts to get acquainted with each other, to make possible the sharing of experiences, ideas, and plans, and to experience the inspiration of meditation and Christian fellowship in a retreat setting, a retreat is being planned to be held after the Conference. It will be held, according to tentative arrangements, at Camp Mack, Indiana, from August 28-31.

This will be the first all-conference young people's retreat to be held. In 1935, a General Conference retreat was held in California after the Conference there.

Relation of Colleges to Y. P. U.

The student Christian organizations on the campuses of the church colleges have had, up to the present, no real connection with the Young People's Union. This matter was discussed at length, and they were to have representatives on the Council in the future. With such a relationship, the College students will be able to be more intimately connected and informed about the young people's activity in the church.

Voluntary Service Projects

The Y. P. U., in cooperation with the Peace Committee of the Conference, have a General Conference Voluntary Services Committee which has been functioning for a year. This Committee is responsible for the voluntary service work in the work in the Chicago mission which was done last summer.

This committee is undertaking a larger program this coming summer. Work will be undertaken in the Indian mission in Montana at which Bible School teachers will be needed as well as a group who will do manual labor repairing buildings and making improvements. Ten will be needed there, according to announced plans.

The Chicago mission will again have a unit. The program is to be expanded somewhat. Another group will be needed at Rosthern, Saskatchewan, in work at the farm there and in Bible School work. Youth teams to work in some of the smaller outlying churches will also be needed during the coming summer. The Voluntary Service Program will be presented in detail in a future issue.

Invitation to the Central District Young People

At this Council meeting, representatives from the Central District Conference sat for the first time. The representatives did not come as official representatives of their young people, but to become acquainted with the Y. P. U. program. They were extended an invitation to participate and cooperate in the Y. P. U. program. The representatives have returned to their district to make their report.

Around the World Mennonite Youth Fellowship

A report of the letter-writing fellowship which is making an effort to encourage correspondence between Christian young people across the boundaries and waters stated that to date there are eighty-eight young people participating. The young people participating is increasing right along.

Missionary Education Fund

The Y. P. U. is sponsoring the education of four young people who are training to return to their people and perform much needed services for them. Young people from Puerto Rico and Paraguay make up the group of four. They are training as a Christian worker, doctor, for hospital dietetics, and in home economics. Their services are sorely needed in all these areas in lands of great need in all areas of life. A fund has been raised and is being raised to help provide for their education. A folder has been prepared describing the whole foreign student education program of which this is a cooperative unit.

Projects

Fund raising projects for the coming year will include the continued support of the students mentioned above which will cost $1,200. A $1,000 project is being undertaken in connection with the Indian Mission at Lame Deer, Montana. This fund is to be used in the building of a church there. The general expenses are estimated at $1,000 for the coming year. This will include publication of Mennonite Youth in The Mennonite, the office and traveling expenses of the officers, and incidental expenses. The Y. P. U. budget is $3,200 again as it was last year.

Program and Leadership Training

One of the most needed and most difficult problems the Council faced was the problem of giving aid to leadership in the local churches in the field of program materials and leadership training. An effort is to be made to develop program material on five different areas. There are to be six programs in each area. The five areas are: (1) What It Means To Be a Christian, (2) Introduction to Our Mission Fields, (3) Bible, (4) The General Conference, its Organization and Task, (5) Youth Problems and Questions. Also, a packet of program material is to be compiled which is to be made available to local congregations.

The Mennonite Youth

The Mennonite Youth section of The Mennonite was discussed with the question of enlarging and improving it being given special consideration. A committee is to give the problem special study prior to the August meeting.

Those attending the Council meeting and the districts from which they came were: Eastern — Walter Frey; Middle — Genevieve Buhler, Carl Lehman, Weldon Lehman; Middle — Ervin Nofsinger, Jerrold Rocke; Northern — Delsie Tieszen, Hazel Buhler; Western — Roland Goering, Ronald von Riesen, Edwin Stucky, Frieda Claassen; Pacific — Vernon Neufeld; British Colombia — J. W. Nickel; Alberta — David Neufeld, David Janzen; Saskatchewan — Henry Friesen; Young People's Union Executive Committee — Elmer Ediger, Myrtle Wasser. Others present were: N. Paul Stucky, Bertha Fast, Anna Wiebe, A. H. Janzen, Earl Franz, Henry Epp, Esko Loewen.

Items of Interest

During the hey-day of C.P.S., many of, a C.P.S. man did work on farms receiving no pay. The wages he would have received were taken by the government and placed in a frozen fund which reached a total of $1,3000,000. That fund continues to remain in the U. S. treasury. W. Sterling Cole, Representative from New York in Congress, has introduced a bill (H. R. 1938) to use this fund for the International Children's Emergency Fund which has been set up by the United Nations to grant aid to children who, because of the war, face permanent disabilities. Doubtless many a "conchie" who spent long hours among sugar beets and in corn fields would be happy to see the money spent in such a way.

* * * *

Reports from Washington, as the present Selective Service Act approaches March 30, the end of its extension period, indicate that an effort may be made to extend the present act again rather than attempt to enact Universal Military Training. This is a tactical move because the War Department feels it would be possible to get this through when a Universal Training act may not be possible. It is certain that an effort will be made to get some legislation through and with Secretary of State Marshall backing such legislation along with President Truman, it is evident that great efforts will be made to get such legislation through.

* * * *

One hundred twenty-four Fellowshippers attended the banquet at the Beatrice Mennonite Church bringing to a close the week-long Fellowship Institute held by the young people of the First and Beatrice Mennonite Churches, January 26 to February 1. Rev. D. C. Wedel and Dr. R. C. Kauffman were the speakers of the week series.

* * * *

Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas has proposed to stop the advertisement of liquor by the press and radio and has submitted a bill to Congress, S. 265, which would prohibit the transportation in interstate commerce of advertisements of alcoholic beverages. Because nearly half the territory of the United States is by the vote of the majority of citizens living in it, Senator Capper feels this is sound and just legal action to stop solicitation in those dry areas by the liquor interests.

WESTERN DISTRICT YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD YOUTH RALLY

"United for Christ" was the theme of a Youth Rally held February 9 at the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas. The Rally was sponsored by the Western District in connection with the meeting of the Young People's Union Council, February 8, 9, and 10.

The Rally first had a fellowship luncheon in the basement of the church at which there was a large gathering. Rev. Roland Goering served as toastmaster of an informal program of singing, introductions to Y. P. U. officers and council representatives and a group of the foreign students who are attending Bethel College. Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander spoke briefly on the opportunities and challenges youth faces in the church.

The rally was held in the church after the luncheon. The church was crowded. The young men's chorus of the Eden Church, Moundridge, offered special music. Prof. Walter Hohmann led the congregational singing. Henry Friesen of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, spoke briefly bringing greetings from the Canadian young people. Rev. D. J. Unruh led the devotional period. Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander gave the address of the evening.

The thirty-ninth International Convention of Christian Endeavor is scheduled to be held in San Francisco, July 8-13 this summer. Featured speakers are to be Dr. Daniel Poling, President of the World's Christian Endeavor Union, and E. Stanley Jones. Topics emphasized will be citizenship, youth evangelism, leadership, music.

* * * *

The Amnesty Board, appointed just before Christmas by President Truman, is to review convictions of draft law violations and will deal quite specifically with conscientious objectors who were imprisoned and are now divested of the rights of citizenship because of their refusal to support the war. The board was appointed after hundreds of persons and organizations appealed to the President to proclaim a general amnesty. Among those appealing were prominent individuals, church leaders, writers, labor unions, legion posts, and countless others.

* * * *

Robert Root of Church World Service, relief agency for the World Council of Churches, wrote in an article, "We of the American churches can get them (Europe's undernourished) through to better times provided we will only see the size of the job. I know one American Church group, at least, which has begun to see. The Mennonites have this proud distinction. In Germany, relief officials said they had received in recent months a total of 1,500 tons of relief from 130,000 Mennonites. I figure that out at 20 pounds each . . . Almost anyone could afford to give the funds to buy and ship 20 pounds of flour or soybeans or powdered milk. Yet if 40 million American Protestants would equal that record, something like 400,000 tons of relief would go to the needy. That would be a REAL demontration of Christian solidarity." May that be an inspiration to even more devoted service and not to self-satisfaction!

* * * *

At the National Evangelical Convention in Toluca, Mexico, held recently, there were one hundred descendants of Don Ncanor Gomez. Mr. Gomez was a pioneer Protestant leader who was killed sixty-two years ago by a fanatical mob at near-by Capulhuac, his native village. The descendants ranged from sons to great-great-great-grandsons. Most of the adults are active church workers.

* * * *

Although the Danes suffered greatly during the occupation years, in 1945 the Danish contributions totalled two hundred and four thousand crowns in addition to a special fund of a hundred and seventy-seven thousand crowns for Finnish children. The crown is worth forty-five cents.

* * * *

Huge crowds have been attending Dr. Kagawa's evangelical meetings throughout Japan. He preaches almost every day and night. Attendance at all Protestant churches also has been increasing.

The Tractor Unit in China

by Robert Pannabecker

So far there haven't been any thrills in this job; in fact, I believe I had the first one this week. Howard Sollenberger the director of our unit, has been in Honan, and he wrote us a letter telling about starting the new project. I'll quote part of the letter and maybe you will see why I was thrilled:

"I went out with Eccles on the plowing project my first morning there. He had three tractors and four students under him. It was a circus watching the farmers. There must have been two hundred people on the two-acre plot to watch the "Iron Cow"plow. They had to be pushed out of the way to get operations under way.

"The land was being plowed for a tenant farmer who had no animals. He was a little worried at first. After walking around the tractor and looking it over carefully, he examined the plow, measuring the length and height. Then he stood up shaking his head.

"The tractor started off and the plow sank into the ground. The farmers were right in after it, squatting by the furrow. One span and two fingers deep. 'Hen how, hen how.' (Very good, very good.) But the thing that surprised them most was that it compleltly turned the land over and there were no big clods. Then the second tractor started in after the first, and the third after the second. The crowd got more and more excited. The farmer of the land stood over the first furrow like a king. I heard him tell one of the other men, "I feel like a landlord standing here and watching my land plowed for me. Who would have thought this morning that this mou of land would be plowed by noon?" Even the mothers of little babies were so interested that I had to pull the kids out from in front of the tractors.

"There was one lady about eighty years old. She hobbled over to me on bound feet and stood leaning on a cane. There was only one tooth in her mouth and a few strands of white hair on her head. "Where are you from, lao hsien sheng?" I told her that I was an American. "Can't be, Can't be. You are from Heaven. I heard about this but I didn't believe it. It's true. I can see that it's true. For eight years I have not left my village, but today I walked three li (1 mile) to see this. I have seen everything now and am ready to die. You must come over to our village to plow. I will cook for you myself. You shall have the best that our village has to offer. The Japanese killed our ox. If we cannot get our wheat planted soon we shall starve."

That letter made me feel a lot better. I was getting pretty well fed up with red tape and bungling and waste and graft and what not here in Shanghai in my work as expediter. Maybe we are getting somewhere now though and it won't be so hard to stick it out for a while instead of going up country where they are plowing.

RELIEF

"GREASE FOR PEACE"

The Need. Relief workers tell of the need for soap in many parts of Europe. They are especially conscious of this as they travel and find soap missing in washrooms and trains. We are now moving much of the soap stocks that we have on hand, and will be in position to handle much more than was received during the last year.

The Plan. In recent discussions with the Brethren Service Committee, they indicated that they would be willing to share their soap manufacturing plant at Nappanee, Indiana, with the Mennonite Central Committee. The Brethren have constructed a very efficient plant there are turning out a good product. The soap that they make is a mild laundry soap, that can be also used as toilet soap. This makes it ideal for shipment overseas for relief distribution, as it will serve a dual purpose.

The Brethren Service Committee has offered to accept all the fats that Mennonites will have to contribute. They will acknowledge them and process the fats into soap, returning to the Mennonite Central Committee about one pound of soap for every pound of fat that our people contribute. The Mennonite Central Committee will pay only the actual cost of manufacture and in turn will get a uniform product that is well adapted for overseas shipment.

What to Give. Pork or beef fats, chicken fats, butter or cotton seed oil, peanut oil, corn oil, coconut oil and most any kind of animal or vegetable fats can be used provided they are rendered. Do not send raw fats or cracklings.

How and Where to Send. Wherever possible, contributions should be sent direct to the Brethren Service Committee Center, Nappanee, Indiana. Use containers that you do not care to have returned. (If so desired, the Brethren center at Nappanee will furnish five-gallon cans for such contributions that are sent direct to Nappanee.) All contributions should be marked as a Mennonite gift, since the Mennonite Central Committee will receive soap for only those fats given by Mennonite people, and are so identified. Sewing Circles or other local groups are encouraged to combine their contributions and send them in larger quantity.

If it does not seem practical to ship a contribution direct to Nappanee, Indiana, it may be sent to one of the MCC food warehouses from which it will be hauled by MCC truck to Nappanee. Such M.C.C. food warehouses are located at Newton, Kansas; Kalona, Iowa; Reedley, California; Goshen, Indiana; Silver Springs, (Bruckhart Station c/o Landisville Agent), Pennsylvania.

Exception. This project can be carried out only in the United States. Because of governmental restrictions, it does not apply to Canada.

For further information. Write to the Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania for the "Grease for Peace" folder.

REFUGEE GROUP ARRIVES AT BUENOS AIRES

THE "VOLENDAM" docked at Buenos Aires, Argentina, on Saturday afternoon, February 22, with the 2,303 Mennonite refugees in good spirits. Small groups of these people are being taken inland to Paraguay as fast as transportation facilities permit. Peter and Frieda Dyck,, who had been working in Europe among these refugees, and accompanied them on their voyage, are now giving assistance in this rehabilitation work in South America.

COMMISSION TO MEXICO

William T. Snyder, director of the MCC Aid Section, left on February 26 for Mexico City. His mission is first to contact certain Mexican governmental officials to secure the written confirmation of that country's attitude toward further immigration of Mennonite settlers would be welcome in Mexico, with due recognition for religious and other liberties.

Brother Snyder will then be joined by C. J. Rempel of Kitchener, Ontario, and the two will contact Mennonite colonies already in Mexico, to learn from them the locations that would be suitable for refugee settlement, and to ascertain what help these present Mennonite colonists could give to the newcomers.

College and Seminary News

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Professor Benno Toews left for Rosthern, Saskatchewan, where he was called because of the serious illness of his father, Rev. David Toews, who died this week. Rev. Toews did a great deal in helping Mennonite refugees from the Russian Revolution resettle in Canada after the first world war. He was a friend of Prime Minister King, and when he recently celebrated his birthday among the many congratulatory messages he received was a telegram from Mr. King. Dr. H. E. Dester, medical missionary from India spoke on Monday. He spoke on the subject, "What Think Ye of Christ." On Wednesday Jacob Friesen and Rein Mestag spoke. For Music Day on Thursday the College Girls Quartet sang two numbers, and a string trio played a number. The winter-quarter-all-students social was held in the Gym on Monday. The College Freshman and Sophomores had charge of the Students Program given last Friday. The famous Don Cossack Chorus will be featured in the College Auditorium on March 14. This is one of the numbers in this years Entertainment Series.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

The Girls' Gospel Team is planning a trip through the Central District churches in Illinois, March 16-23. Dr. E. E. Miller, president of Goshen College, will be the Vesper speaker March 23. He will speak concerning the European Mennonites and show pictures which were taken on his European trip last summer. The local Lions Club is sponsoring a program to be put on by the Vesper Choir, March 25. Pro-

A TRIBUTE TO DAVID TOEWS

The news has just come to me that Rev. David Toews has passed on to his eternal reward. Since 1923 we have belonged to the Home Mission Board together, and I believe I have learned to know him quite well. We have sat together in Board meetings many times, and in hundreds of letters we have wrestled together over various home mission problems. The Board always sought his judgement and always felt that our Brother Toews endeavored earnestly to be unselfish.

His life has been a most fruitful one. He has not built up a large fortune; he was not a leader in industry or in politics, although we believe he had the talents to achieve success in any of these fields. His fruitfulness consisted in the very direct service he rendered to thousands of people and especially to the Mennonite refugees of Russia a quarter of a century ago. As the news of his death spread, many many will have bowed their heads and thanked God that David Toews ever lived.—J. M. Regier.

ceeds are to go toward the Auditorium-Physical Education Building Fund. The building fund campaign which closed in the local area brought in $8,384 during the two-week period. A sum of $8,304.55 had been given by people in the Pandoro-Bluffton area previously. Thus the present total from local sources is $16,688.55. The grand total in the fund is now $54,018.55 of which more than $42,0000.00 is in cash.

BETHEL COLLEGE

Final examinations for the winter quarter were given March 4 and 5. The spring quarter began Monday morning, March 10. On Tuesday evening, March 11, the Janet Bush Opera Quartet presents a program in Memorial Hall. On Thursday evening, February 27, Bertha Fast spoke in the Student Union Room on relief work in Northern Italy among the Waldensians. Her vivid description of the needs and her fine collection of kodachrome slides make Miss Fast's presentations unusually effective. In Chapel Tuesday morning, March 4, Rev. Sam Goering gave an intimate glimpse into the suffering in Europe. Again the Bethel faculty and students were challenged with the world's need for well-trained Christian workers for the tasks of rehabilitation and reconstruction in the name of Christ.

Paul Albrecht and Roland Bartel represented Bethel in debate and Leon Harder in oratory at the Forensic Tournament at Southeastern State College, Durante, Oklahoma, March 6 to 8.

Bible Week begins Sunday evening, March 16, at 7:30 with a sermon on "The Kingdom Church' by Dr. Floyd E. Mallott of the Biblical Seminary in Chicago. Beginning Monday, Dr. Mallott will speak at 3:30 and 7:30, while Dr. Frederick K. Stamm will speak at 2:30 and 8:15.

FINDING THE WAY INTO A HUMBLE LIFE

(Continued from page 1)

or ceremony so much as upon leading them to see the futility and destructiveness of the pride which had ruled them so much of late. Perhaps they remembered this incident later when they reviewed His life in perspective and thought of the time when they had objected to the presence of mothers who had brought their little children in order that Jesus might bless them. His answer on that occasion certainly constitutes a warning red light to anyone lacking His kind of humility; "Suffer (permit the little children to come unto me; forbid them not: for to such belongeth the Kingdom of God (of such is the Kingdom of God). Verily, I say unto you, whosoever shall not receive the Kingdom of God as a little child, he shall in no wise enter therein."

—J. H. Langenwalter

Jottings

—Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebraska: The trustees of the church have installed a complete sound system. It was dedicated unto the Lord on June 9, 1946, but was not entirely completed until shortly before Christmas due to the shortage of certain fixtures. The hook-up consists of an amplifier located under the rostrum and controlled by a remote control switch in the back of the church. A 360°, one-unit loud speaker is suspended from the ceiling in the center of the church, and four smaller loud speakers have been placed in the various basement rooms to serve mothers with babies and over flow meeting crowds. A stationary microphone is installed onto the pulpit and a portable microphone takes care of the choirs and other purposes. Shortly before Christmas ten devices or ear phones for the hard-hearing people were installed at various places in the front pews. These have proved quite satisfactory. After having learned to adjust ourselves to the system it has proved to be quite satisfactory as a whole. We all feel thankful for what has been accomplished.—Mrs. Ruben Friesen, Corr.

—Brudertal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: It was indeed a joyful homecoming day when our congregation, friends and relatives gathered on February 16 to welcome Sister Elisabeth D. Goertz, missionary from China home on furlough. She spoke in our morning worship service and again in the afternoon when a voluntary program was given. A noon basket lunch was enjoyed Monday evening, February 17, the Ladies Sewing Society and the Mary Martha Circle held a joint meeting at which time Miss Goertz related much of her work while in China. A social hour and refreshments were enjoyed by all. The ladies of the church joined in the program of the World Day of Prayer which was held in the First Mennonite Church of Hillsboro, Kansas. Miss Bertha Fast returned relief worker from Europe showed pictures of relief work in our church on February 24, 1946.—Katherine E. Nickel. Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: Our pastor, Rev. H. N. Harder, has been presenting a series of Sunday evening messages entitled "Bequests of Jesus." Humility, Love, Home, Name, Peace, Life Joy, Comforter, Victory, and That Where He is We May be Also, as the bequests left by Jesus for his children. He also used special quartets and double quartets to bring out thoughts of the messages. These bequests are all found in John chapter 13-17 inclusive. —Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Colfax, Washington: Due to the illness of our pastor, Rev. P. D. Unruh, we were without a minister Sunday. The time was spent in singing and prayer, a special vocal number and usual Sunday morning announcements. Rev. Cooper Evangelist of Spokane, representing the Youth for Christ, was with us recently. Special singing was enjoyed and Mrs. Cooper played the vibra harp. The Missionary Society is sewing, quilting, and packing for overseas relief.—Mrs. Horace D. Rogers, Corr.

—Butterfield Mennonite Church, Butterfield, Minnesota: Mr. and Mrs. Roger Casey were baptized and on February 16 they become members of the church. The sound film, "The God of Creation," produced by Rev. Irwin Moon, was shown in church February 26 by the Rev. Eugene A. Rohe, of the Moody Bible Institute extension department.—Mrs. Gust Miller, Corr.

—Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa., The Young People's Sunday School Class held its annual dinner at the church on February 11. Miss Elsie Pfister, one of our missionaries in Kentucky, brought an inspiring message. Miss Pfister and Miss Margaret Slotter, our other Kentucky missionary, have returned after spending a few weeks at home. On February 20 our Brotherhood held its annual father and son banquet at the church. Eighty-five fathers and sons enjoyed this fellowship. Our troop of Boy Scouts were special guests. Artist-evangelist, Phil Saint, brought a message on "The Cross in Our Life Today." Our pastor, Rev. J. J. Plenert, left New York City by airplane on February 21 for Brazil. He is on a five-weeks mission to South America for the Mennonite Central Committee to help in the settlement of the shipload of Mennonite refugees who recently arrived there from Europe.—Ruth E. Fretz, Corr.

—On February 1, 1947, the Mennonite Mission of Colombia, represented by Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Stucky and the Misses Janet Soldner and Mary Becker, officially took possession of the house near Cachipay, Cundinamarca, in which they will begin the school for needy children as soon as possible. There are approximately twenty-four children on the list at this time if all of them can be taken in at once. They request the prayers of all those of the home constituency for this great and needy undertaking. Their address from now on is Cachipay, Cundinamarca, Colombia, S. A. (Packages and other valuables should still be sent to Apartado 35 (or if airmail Apartado Aéreo 3604, Bogotá, Colombia)

—First Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebraska: After serving our church several months last summer and again this winter, our congregation bade farewell to Rev. Willard Wiebe, Sunday, March 2. In the evening a program was rendered in appreciation of his services, after which a lunch was served in the basement. We are looking forward to having Rev. Jacob T. Friesen in our midst before many months. Our church has prepared 1,923 cans of meat and 57 cans of lard for overseas relief. Recently some ladies of the hospital auxiliary made 200 pounds of soap for the hospital.—Mrs. John J. Wiebe, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Burns, Kansas: February 16 seven foreign students from the Bethel College gave us a very interesting program Febraury 23 Rev. J. J. Voth of North Newton brought us the morning messages. February 27, Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Goossen moved to their new home three miles north and two and one-fourth west of the church. Donations for relief from our church: 175 quarts of fruit and vegetables, 48 No. 2½ cans of vegetables, 138 No. 2½ cans of meat and soup.—Mrs. A. M. Hiebert.

—First Church of Garden Township, Halstead, Kan-

Boards and Committees Present BUDGETS

The Annual Union Meeting of Boards of Standing Committees of General Conference in session at the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas, February 12, 1947, received budget estimates for the current year totaling over $735,000. Individuals may wish to regard the following as a picture of the actual needs of the various phases of our General Conference work. The right hand column gives the approximate percentage of the total which each of these boards or committees needs.

Emergency Relief	$298,300[1]	or about 40%
Foreign Missions	235,000	or about 32%
Biblical Seminary	90,000[2]	or about 12%
Home Missions	40,000	or about 5%
Education	30,000[3]	or about 4%
Peace	20,000	or about 3%
Publications	12,000	or about 2%
Women's Missionary Ass.	2,300
Young People's Union	3,200
Mutual Aid	2,000
		or about 2%
Gen'l Conf. Treasury	2,000[4]
Doctrine and Conduct	1,000
Placement	500
Church Unity	100

[1] Includes $200,000 for General Relief; $90,000 for Resettlement.

[2] Includes $40,000 for Current Expense; $50,000 for Building Needs.

[3] Includes $18,000 for CPS Tuitio Aid; $5,000 Foreign Student Fund.

[4] Includes expenses connected with Conference sessions, the printing of Conference minutes, and such other expenses as cannot properly be paid out of other treasuries.

—Walter H. Dyck, Executive Secretary

Relief Worker Visits Churches in Pacific District

Miss Bertha Fast, returned relief worker, is visiting the churches of the Pacific District to present a first-hand contact with relief work and to tell about the voluntary service projects which are being planned for General Conference young people this coming summer. Miss Fast, who worked among Jugoslav refugees in Egypt and among Jews and Waldensians in Italy, is a fluent and interesting speaker and has excellent slides of the work in which she was engaged. She has slides on the relief work in Egypt and in Italy, and of visits to Switzerland and Palestine. Miss Fast, who believes that a prime requisite for relief work is a sincere love for people, brings her audiences into a close contact with the people among whom she worked. She is also telling about the voluntary service propects, which she is to guide this coming summer. These service projects are comparatively new and Miss Fast can give interested young people the necessary information. The Emergency Relief Board, the Peace Committee, and Young People's Union are sponsoring Miss Fast's visit to the churches. She will end her tour by the beginning of May. From then until the General Conference convenes, she will give her time to the service projects. Her remaining schedule after March 18 is as follows: At Winton, California, on Wednesday and Thursday, March 19-20; at Albany, Oregon, from Sunday to Tuesday, March 23-25; at Dallas, Oregon, from Wednesday to Friday, March 26-28; at Pratum, Oregon, from Sunday to Tuesday, March 30-April 1; at Portland, Oregon, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 8-9; at Monroe, Washington, Thursday and Friday, April 10-11; at Lind, Washington, Sunday to Wednesday, April 13-15; at Newport, Washington, Thursday and Friday, April 17-18; at Colfax, Washington, Sunday and Monday, April 20-21; at Caldwell, Idaho, Wednesday and Thursday, April 23-24; at Aberdeen, Idaho, Sunday to Tuesday, April 27-29.

---

sas: Miss Melva Lehman, missionary candidate to India, was in charge of the morning worship service February 16. On the morning of February 23, Dr. F. L. Comstock and John Ediger from Buhler, presented the work of the Gideons. The offerings for the cause amounted to one hundred dollars and was used for the purchase of New Testaments for the Halstead Public Schools. Rev. Edmund Miller, field representative of the Biblical Seminary and Bible School visted our church on the evening of February 27. Miss Jessie Brown spoke in the interest of relief on the afternoon of March 2.—Corr.

—Tabor Church, Newton, Kansas: On February 2 Rev. G. G. Epp of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, was the guest speaker. Two days later we had a farewell for the Clarence Schmidt family, who have moved to Washington. Rev. H. M. Harder of Aberdeen, Idaho, was guest speaker on February 16, and on February 23 Rev. Zimmerman, who represents the Northern Bible Society, spoke. The Ladies Sewing Society plans to have a sale on April 7. We plan meetings during Passion Week. Communion is to be observed on one of the evenings. Recent funerals were: Infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schmidt, February 24; Mrs. Sara Hiebert, sister to the late Rev. D. D. Unruh, on February 26; and the infant twins of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf Woelk on March 2.

—The Boynton Mennonite Church, Hopedale, Illinois, divides the offering of its "mission Sunday" as follows: Foreign missions 25 per cent, relief 15 per cent, Mennonite Hospital 15 per cent, Home Missions 10 percent, Mutual Aid 10 per cent, Mennonite Biblical Seminary 10 per cent; Bluffton College 10 per cent, and Old People's Home 5 per cent.

—Bethel College Church: The Women's Missionary Society of our church completed ten comforters during the last week in February. They were taken to the M.C.C. clothing center in Newton. A. J. Regier, our Sunday School superintendent, is ill at the Hospital with a heart ailment. Dr. J. H. Enns, who suffered a stroke a few weeks ago, was moved from his home to the hospital and is showing some improvement. Neither of these patients may receive visitors, but cards mailed to them may be helpful.—Eldon W. Graber. Corr.

—Gnadenberg Church, Whitewater, Kansas: Rev. Willard Claassen of the Salem Mennonite Church, Freeman, South Dakota, will hold a series of pre-Easter meetings in our church beginning Sunday, March 9. We invite friends to worship with us.—Mrs. Leo. Voth, Corr.

—Zoar Church, Goltry, Oklahoma: We have been blest by having various ministers in our church recently. The following were here: Rev. D. C. Wedel, Rev. Walter Dyck, Rev. A. P. Voth, and Mr. R. C. Kauffman, and also Mr. and Aron Suckau who showed sound pictures. Church attendance thus far this year has been good.—Corr.

—Rev. C. E. Krehbiel on a visit to the Headquarters office on February 26, reported that he was "some-

---

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

Every ten years the United States Government conducts a Census of Religious Bodies. Our office has just been informed that schedules for the 1946 Census have recently been mailed to our General Conference churches in the States. We wish to urge pastors or clerks to fill out and return the schedules promptly to the Bureau of Census, Washington, D. C. —Walter H. Dyck, Office Manager times up and sometimes down" and that although better on some days, he still had to stick quite close to his bed.

—The Newly organized Bethel Church, Lancaster, Pa., began Sunday evening Young People's programs on March 2. Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander was guest speaker at the Sunday services, February 23.

—Rev. Walter Gering, who served as M.C.C. relief worker in Denmark and later in Switzerland, returned home to Moundridge, Kansas, on March 4. Rev. Gering is Pastor of the large Eden Church.

—Mr. Menno Schrag, Editor of the Mennonite Weekly Review, left on Monday morning, March 3, for New York where he was to take a ship to Europe. He plans to spend about three months in Europe and the Near East.

—Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebraska: The choirs have started to rehearse the Easter Cantata, "The Crucifixion." Eleven boxes of new and used clothing and blankets and shoes were sent to our clothing centers. The total weight was over six hundred lbs. Let us remember in prayer the twenty-one young people that have recently joined the catechism class.—Mrs. Ruben Friesen, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: For several weeks, we have enjoyed our church bulletins printed by our pastor with the morning program, and necessary announcements of the week. The machine works fine, thanks, to the Mennonite Book Concern. Two letters have been received from Germany, regarding C.A.R.E. packages. Condition are bad. They have suffered much, but are so thankful for their Heavenly Father and his goodness. Nine bags have been filled for school children in Europe by individuals. We also plan to help in making hospital supplies. Rev. Kauffman is directing a Community Choir, from churches in and around Hydro, for a Easter cantata.—Wilfred Ewy. Corr.

—First Mennonite Church North of Butterfield, Minnesota: Mr. Peter Flaming passed away February 3 after an illness of twenty-seven years. Our congregation has finished out the church basement ceiling with Nuwood. Mr. Arthur Buhler was in charge of the work with members giving free help. Ladies of the church served morning and afternoon lunch and dinner at noon.—Mrs. Henry Penner.

—First Mennonite Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: Rev. Ronald von Riesen, Executive Secretary of the Board of Education is to show pictures of retreat grounds at our next Christian Endeavor meeting. March 16.—Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

—Salem Mennonite Church, Dalton, Ohio: President L. L. Ramseyer of Bluffton College gave the morning church message March 2. Our own pastor, Rev. A. S. Rosenberger, is the speaker for a series of messages at Topeka, Indiana, in the Mennonite Church of which Rev. Wilmer Shelly is the minister. The girl's gospel team of Bluffton gave an inspiring evening service. Three of our students in this group are the Misses Ethel Amstutz, Hazel Nussbaum, and Elnore Rosenberger. Rev. Russell Mast of Wadsworth, Ohio, will be our speaker for the pre-Easter services, March 16-21.—Mrs. Ivan Badertscher, Corr.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: On February 23 we received nine more members into the church. We are looking forward to our evangelistic meetings, which are to be held February 26-March 9. Rev. Edsion Habegger, evangelist, was the speaker at the Oregon youth rally recently held at Pratum.—Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—First Church, Halstead, Kansas: The offering for the refugees to Paraguay fund amounted to $555.05. Rev. E. J. Miller was the visiting minister on February 23. Jacob Esau, representing the Gideon Bible Society, spoke at the close of the Sunday School in the interest of placing Bibles in our schools. Mrs. Katie Keller passed away February 18. Funeral services were held February 21 with Rev. H. T. Unruh of Hillsboro officiating.

—Topeka Church, Topeka Indiana: Sunday morning, February 2, two persons were added to the church by baptism and three upon confession of faith. Rev. Shelly attended the Council of Boards Meetings in Newton, Kansas recently. This church participated in the World Day of Prayer held at the Methodist Church. Rev. John Friesen returned missionary from India under the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities, was the speaker. This church and the Maple Grove Mennonite Church united in securing John Moseman of the Bible Department of Goshen College for an exposition of the Gospel of John, which was held at the Maple Grove Church Wednesday evening, February 26. This was especially planned for the Sunday-School teachers of both churches, although anyone was welcome to attend. Rev. A. S. Rosenberger, Pastor of the Salem Mennonite Church, will conduct a series of special services at this church beginning Sunday morning, March 2 and continuing till Friday evening, March 7. Rev. Rosenberger's general theme for the week will be "Affirming Our Faith."—Opal King, Corr.

FOURTH QUARTERLY CONFERENCE OF EASTERN DISTRICT

Zion Church Souderton March 17, 2:30 and 7:30

Afternoon Session

PANEL: ...."The Gospel — The Center of the Student's Curriculum at a Christian College."

Sociology	Dr. I. W. Bauman
Home Economics	Edna Ramseyer
Bible	Rev. Paul R. Shelly
Business (Administration)	Carl Lehman

Evening Session

Message by Rev. Paul R. Shelly .... "How the Christian College Helps Young People Make Life Decisions."

Special music will be furnished by the Zion Congregation at the evening session. —Ward W. Shelly, Secretary.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — March 18, 1947 — Number 10

A Message for Lent

by Barbara Smucker

The Gothic grandeau of the University Chapel in Princeton, New Jersey, on the evening of March 6 was forgotten. A thousand odd people, seated in its pews, saw only the face of one man illumined by a tiny pulpit light. Pastor Martin Niemoeller, the living symbol of Christian resistance to evil during the bloody years of World War II, had come to Princeton as a prophet with a message for Lent. He spoke as one stepping from the pages of the Bible to bear its truths anew for our times — to bring blessings from suffering — and to make the fact of Christ's resurrection from the dead a living issue for today!

From his lips came this story:

When Hitler refused to believe that Jesus Christ was raised from the dead he met his fatal destiny. Hitler thought of Christ as a great man of bygone times, as one who had been dead for nearly 2,000 years. When he tried to build his super-man he didn't know that he would have to combat someone supposedly dead for all these years. Hitler met the voice of Christ and could not put Him aside like other human organizations. "For Christ is raised from the dead and is a living Lord and his voice cannot be silenced. The word of God cannot be bound!"

One Sunday Niemoeller read from his pulpit the Ten Commandements and paused for thirty seconds before and after — Thou Shalt Not Kill. It was after this sermon that he was sent to prison along with scores of other pastors. But God's word in the churches of courage could not be bound by this. Other pastors went from place to place to fill vacancies. Laymen preached. Housewives went into the pulpit, and one Sunday Niemoeller's sixteen-year-old son, now dead, preached his first sermon.

On a cold, gray day in March, 1938, Pastor Niemoeller entered his first prison camp. The procedure was to strip him of all his possessions, including his Bible. He was led "through the gates of Hell where 30,000 others lived," behind three iron doors into a small cell with bed, table, footstool and one high window. This was to be his home for three years. It would seem that here the voice of God would surely be silenced.

But a special request brought him his Bible. He couldn't leave his cell. He could just peek from the tiny window above him by standing on his table. Through it he saw twelve prisoners marching around the courtyard, passing his window twice each morning. From then on as they walked by each day he gave them a Bible verse, one from the Old Testament and one from the New.

On another day he noticed outside his window another prisoner, a Roman Catholic Priest, digging weeds in a small well-kept garden. He learned that this man had also been brought to the concentration camp because he had preached the authority of Christ above the authority of Hilter. Niemoeller obtained a copy of mass and each day as the priest worked outside his window, he walked up and down in his cell reading the holy mass. He did not partake, but gave for a fellow Christian.

In 1941 Niemoeller's solitary confinement ended. He was moved to Dachau. There seven cells were at his disposal. His companions were priests, but each day they prayed three times daily for two hours, and every afternoon from 4:30 to 6:30 Niemoeller gave a Bible lesson. The word of God had entered the strong, closed doors of the Dachau concentration camp.

When Christmas came in 1944, the Protestants among fifteen special prisoners petitioned to be allowed to hold a service. The Catholics had had mass, for its words were known in advance. A Protestant service, on the other hand, was unpredictable and could be dangerous. The request was granted! Niemoeller, the only Protestant cleric among them and the only German was the logical one to preach. This would be his first service in seven and a half years. The other prisoners included an Anglican army officer, a Slav count, a Dutchman, three Italians and a Macedonian journalist. Would peoples of seven different nationalities and seven different creeds want to hear a German preach? They would — and they wanted Communion!

God's word again could not be bound, the living Lord was present among them. He had overcome Adolf Hitler — the iron doors of concentration camps — national boundaries — and now seven different creeds! Jesus Christ is surely raised from the dead!

1870 - David Toews - 1947

(The following is the funeral sermon (slightly abridged) for the late Bishop David Toews of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, as given by Rev. J. J. Thiessen, Chairman of the Conference of Mennonites in Canada.)

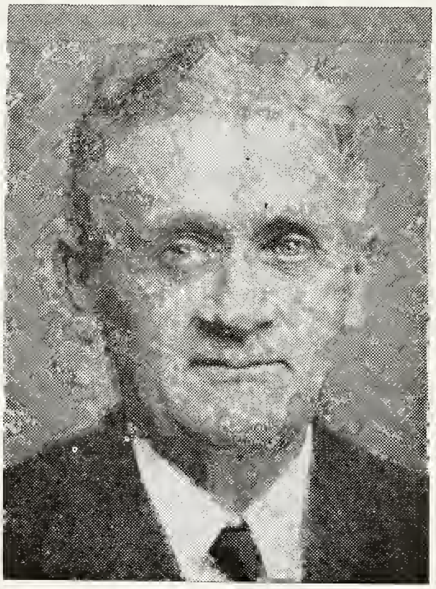
"And the king said unto his servants, Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?" II Sam. 3:38.

Bereaved friends: We are gathered here to pay respect to a deceased father, brother, and friend. We are all aware of the heavy responsibilities which were shouldered upon him. With his departure from the field of his activities a noticeable gap, which is hard to close, has developed, even though five successors are continuing the different branches of his work.

I have been asked by the bereaved family to officiate at this moment. I am afraid that I will be unable to do justice to it.

Our text is taken from the Old Testament. Were we to read the complete story, then the text would not be suitable, but taking this verse separately it expresses what each one of us actually feels or should feel: "Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?"

Rev. David Toews would have refused being called "a prince and a great man", and yet we are justified in doing so, because of the many duties and obligations which the Lord had placed upon him and the gigantic amount of work that he accomplished.



DAVID TOEWS

In the following, I would like to state some of his work that justly places him in the category of "prince and a great man." Due to lack of time, I cannot in detail describe his life, but, I hope and trust that one day the historian will impartially, justly and objectively record his life's work and give him his deserved place as a great leader of our church.

And yet, this recognition of his achievements, by man, is not the most important, rather, that his work finds recognition and meets with the approval of our Lord, who will thus be able to say: "Well done, thou good and faithful servant: Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

If one studies the lives of great men in both the Old and the New Testaments, such as Abraham, Isaac, Moses, John, Peter, Paul and others, we find, that their greatness was not a sudden development but they gradually grew in the school of God.

Rev. Toews too has been led by God to greatness through deep experiences, successes, disappointments, joys and sorrows, finally becoming: a Christian teacher, pious father, minister of the Gospel, Bishop of the church, Conference leader, Chairman of the Canadian Mennonite Board of Colonization, our spokesman to the government, delegate to the Mennonite World Conferences, etc.

As a young boy, he, with his parents migrated to central Asia and from there to the United States. These movements caused many hardships and disappointments. The young lad could not fully realize the significance of this movement; however, he felt some great motive was behind all this. At the age of fourteen, David Toews and parents arrived at Newton, Kansas, where their new home was established. Though diligently aiding his parents in their new venture, he had a great urge to study. This he managed to do and eventually he became a school teacher. It soon became evident that the Lord had destined him to serve his people in Canada. He taught in different schools both in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. As a teacher he was liked by students and parents. His teaching abilities have been characterized in words such as these. "He can hardly be too highly recommended." or "He has proved himself a very efficient teacher inside and outside the school and I think, everybody is sorry he is leaving." While in Saskatchewan he married and established his own home. During the years of his work he became deeply convinced that to prepare properly leaders for our church, a school for this purpose would have to be opened. Under his guidance such a school was founded at Rosthern. He became principal of this school holding this position for fifteen years, 1905-1920, and he remained the chairman of the board of directors until recently.

In 1901 he was called to the ministry. The church, recognizing his abilities as a leader, ordained him as Bishop of the Rosenort Church in 1913. An enormous amount of work was his lot in this new position, which he ably fulfilled, becoming a blessing to many. This great task was possible because he was a man of faith and a diligent worker.

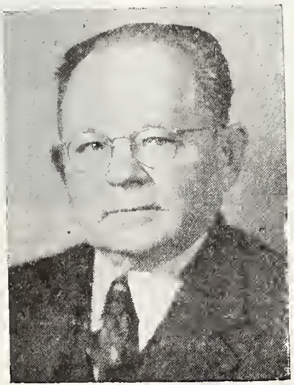
Besides his routine church work he exercised the duties of moderator for twenty-six years. Throughout this period he continually led his congregations on to a higher spiritual level and urged them to a more active participation in the home and foreign mission fields.

(Continued on page 3)

1884 - Aaron J. Regier - 1947

Aaron J. Regier was born November 13, 1884, on a farm six miles north of Mountain Lake, Minnesota. He was the second son of John J. and Katherina Wall Regier. His parents had come from Russia in 1878.

The young boy grew up to manhood on his father's well-appointed farm. He became a member of the Bruderthaler Mennonite Church at the age of eighteen. In those days it was uncommon for a young man of the community to get more education than was offered by the rural schools and short term parochial schools. But Aaron Regier was not satisfied. He finished the Academy and two years of college training at Goshen College, and later attended Bethel College for two years, becoming a member of the first graduating class receiving an A. B. degree.



AARON J. REGIER

The following year he became principal of the Mountain Lake German Preparatory School, which position he held for four years. A significant statement was made of him which appeared in the home-town paper at that time: "The relationship that exists between teacher and pupils is highly commendable. It takes much pedagogical tact on the part of a teacher, to be both authority and comrade to his pupils."

It was during this time that he met Suzanne Bargen. They were married in 1914.

In 1916, a call came from Freeman College to be an instructor. In 1918 he was elected president of Freeman Junior College. In 1921 he took a leave of absence and attended Minnesota University where he received his M.A. degree in 1922. The family then moved back to Freeman for the next five years. The Freeman Courier had this to say of Professor Regier at the end of his years in Freeman: "A college presidency is a very difficult place to fill. You must be financier, diplomat, and conduct affairs in such a way that the institution and the church work together; loyal to the denomination yet liberal enough to draw from other groups; to have good discipline and yet be popular with the students. Professor Regier has achieved this. He is an indefatigable worker. There is no other man who has done so much for the institution up to the present time. There is enough evidence to justify this assertion."

In 1927 a call came from Bethel College to become the professor of education of the college. This position he has held for twenty years. During this time, he attended summer sessions at Kansas University, and one winter session, after which he was granted a Ph. D. degree, in 1935.

In addition to his work as professor of education and teacher training, Dr. Regier now was also the director of the Bethel College summer school, and the Teacher Placement Bureau. He was deacon of the Bethel College Church for a three-year term, and the Superintendent of the Sunday School at the present time. He was instrumental in bringing about very real improvements in the Sunday School curriculum and organization.

He died at the Bethel Deaconess Hospital on Thursday night, March 6. He had been in the hospital since February 13, but suffered another heart attack Thursday night, and died quite suddenly.

Five daughters grew to young womanhood in this happy, hospitable home: Mrs. Frances Horan, Kansas City, Missouri; Mrs. Margaret Rich, Detroit, Michigan; Mrs. Winifred Ewy, Arlington, Kansas; Donna and Betty, at home. These, and their sorrowing mother deeply mourn the loss of a devoted father and husband He loved his four grandchildren: Robert and Barbara Rich, Gretta Sue Horan, and Eileen Ewy; and anyone who saw them together noticed how much they enjoyed one another. Mourning him are also three sons-in-law; two brothers, Rev. D. A. Regier and Jacob Regier; a sister, Mrs. Katherine Epp all of Mountain Lake, Minnesota; a sister, Miss Aganetha Regier, a missionary in China; and Miss Anna Regier, Meade, Kansas. Also his mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Bargen, Mountain Lake, and numerous neighbors and friends and former students.

His church, the Bethel College Mennonite Church and the entire campus family feel this loss very deeply, but with assurance we can say, "He has gone to be with his Lord."

(DAVID TOEWS — continued)

He served as a member in the Home Mission Board of the General Conference of North America for thirty-five years. During this period he did much for the smaller scattered groups, supplying them with travelling ministers and giving material aid. In the cities of Winnipeg, Saskatoon and Vancouver, girls' homes and churches were established. Also through his influence, dozens of churches were built in the poorer country districts, receiving assistance from the Home Mission Board.

With his tolerance and tactfulness he gained and maintained the confidence of the various branches of our church. This was especially valuable as the movement of approximately twenty thousand Mennonites from Russia, during the years 1923-1930, was undertaken, because in nearly every branch there was some opposition to this venture and could be successfully carried out only by the support of the larger branches. He with brethren negotiated the terms and signed a contract with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company for bringing across the immigrants on a credit basis amounting to $1,767,- 378.68. He strongly felt his moral obligations, and it was his deep desire to have this transportation debt liquidated before his death. By the grace of our God, the willingness of the immigrants to pay, and the co-operation of the C.P.R. this task was completed in 1946. With great joy he received this news and was moved to tears. I shall never forget that moment, at first it seemed as though he doubted the news but when I insisted that the debt was paid and his name had been redeemed, the tears streamed down his cheeks, and we gave glory and honour to God.

In summing up all that has been said of his duties placed on him by the Lord and the Church, we are justified in calling him "a prince and a great man."

After his retirement, he lost interest in life and longed for his eternal home. He was especially lonesome because his beloved wife had departed in 1941. It was my privilege to visit him, to have fellowship, and to share with him the second mile. On one occasion when we were speaking about his departure from this world I asked him, "What is your last wish? What shall I say on your behalf to the congregations, conferences, Home Mission Board, School and Mennonite Girls' Home?" And he replied: "Give them all my greetings and tell them to live a life that will make it possible for us to meet in Heaven." His children did everything possible to comfort him and ease his suffering through loving care. On the twenty-fifth of this month (February) his longing was fulfilled, and he left the scene of his activities to give account of his work to Him who entrusted these many duties to him.

And so Brother Toews rests now from all his worries, his labours, his sorrows, his disappointments and the many joys of life which were given him to train him for eternity. We greatly feel the loss of this great man and yet we grant him his rest.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, says the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works to follow them."

Life Facts

Born February 9, 1870, Lysanderhoehe, Saratov, Russia, son of Jacob Toews and Marie Wiebe-Toews. Married Margarete Friesen, Tiefengrund, Saskatchewan, September 20, 1900. Received his education: elementary school, Russia, 1876-1883; Halstead Seminary, 1887-1890, 1892-93; Winnipeg Collegiate Institute, 1896-1897; Normal School, Winnipeg, 1897- 1898. Positions: Assistant teacher, Mennonite Collegiate Institute, Gretna, Manitabo, 1893-1896; public school teacher, Burwalde, Manitoba, Tiefengrund and Eigenheim, Saskatchewan, 1898-1904; pastor of the Rosenort Church since 1901; principal of the English-German Academy, Rosthern, 1905-1920; chairman of the Canadian Mennonite Board of Colonization, 1922-1946. Surviving are one son and seven daughters.

LUBIN JANTZENS TO SAIL FOR INDIA

Passage has been arranged for Rev. and Mrs. Lubin Jantzen and children, Esther Anna and Daniel Eldon, to sail from New York for India by way England on Monday, March 17.

TRIES TO LOCATE BROTHER

Oksbuel Dist. II K 22/7, on the 10. II. 47.
Jutland, Denmark.

The Mennonite Publication Office,
722 Main Street,
Newton, Kansas.

I ask you very earnestly to help to search for my brother, Herman Richard Werner, born on the 16. 3. 1896 in Schoensee, district Gr. Werder (formerly Marienburg) Danzig. In May 1922 Werner emigrated to Milwaukee (63rd or 65th Street). Up to 1943 he was active there as an engineer. Werner was a German officer and had retained the German citizenship, and was interned when Germany entered into the war with America. We received the last information there over the Red Cross Berlin, at Christmas time 1943. From that time on every trace is missing. Werner was unmarried up to this time.

Please send answer to: Mrs. Helene Entz, maiden name Werner, born on the 8. 3. 99), in Oksbuel, Dist. II K 22/7, Jutland, Denmark, and to Kurt Werner in (23) Langen (Batterie) over Wesermuende, Province Hannover, British Zone.

My best thanks in advance for your efforts.

Don't get the idea you wouldn't be missed
If your name would be dropped from the mailing list.

More Suggestions on Observing the Week of Witness — by the Evangelism Committee

In saying, "Ye are my witnesses" our Lord impresses upon us the duty of speaking for Him by word of mouth. But there are also other ways by which we may bear witness for Him. What we do should confirm as true what we say. Acts of kindness will make more effective what we say. The Passion Week lends itself very well to special expressions of love and kindness towards those people who need encouragement to follow Christ and live the Christian life.

1. Before an effective word can be spoken for the Lord barriers need to be removed and friendship established. Jesus was expert in this. To accomplish this Jesus asked a favor of the Samaritan woman. He also asked her to do an errand for Him by calling her husband. These requests were motivated by an evangelistic purpose. In our circumstances sharing baked foods with neighbors, borrowing things from them, and asking favors of them may be used as means to establish friendship. Indifferent people may thus be made to feel our interest in them, and that in turn may open the way to encourage them to follow the Christ with us. Is there some way in which you might befriend someone who needs to be won to the Lord? Would you like to try your best to accomplish this during the coming Passion Week?

2. Sick people are often in need of encouragement. Jesus in giving us a preview of the Judgment at His return has made visiting the sick a matter on which eternal destinies will be determined. Possibly He has done this because it tests our love for the suffering and because visiting the sick presents a unique opportunity to encourage people in their faith at a time when their faith is severely tested. Do you know of anyone who is sick and who might need encouragement? If you can sense what the sick need, would it not be well this coming Passion Week to take time off actually to visit the sick and say a word for the Master to them?

From the editor's point - of - view:

RUSSIA as a nation would undoubtedly respond in many situations in much the same way that an individual responds in similar situations. Consequently the following words quoted from a little pamphlet, put out by the Church of the Brethren, are not only unusal but also very important. We quote, ". . . friendy co-operation is the only way of permitting the Soviet Union to relax and give its citizens political freedom. Friendly co-operation is the only way of showing them that there is no need of dominating small neighboring countries." The idea of inducing relaxation is so unusual in this fighting world of tensions that it appears impractical to many. Yet Jesus recommended it when he suggested not resisting "one who is evil," when he talked of turning the other cheek, of giving the cloak, of going two miles, of loving one's enemies and praying for those who persecute one. What is America doing that would permit Russia to breathe more freely? Will not America's opposition to Russia in the way of control over so much of the oil in the Near East, in the way of armament second to none, and in the way of a push for universal military training, cause Russia to be more tense than ever and therefore more ready to fight for what it considers vital? Just as we often tend to lose sight of the necessity of helping our personal opponents to relax, so the individuals who compose our government seem to overlook this necessity of life. Is the Christian teaching of not resisting the one who is evil and of overcoming evil with good just so much foolishness as far as relations between nations are concerned?

LIQUOR ADVERTISING

Those three brilliant magazines, "Fortune," "Life" and "Time" make more money from liquor advertising than from any other advertising source. Every time I open one of them I receive a shock, for at once there rises in my mind the recollection of the fact that the publisher of all three, Henry Luce, is a Presbyterian and the son of a Presbyterian missionary whom I remember from my college days. I do not know whether or not Mr. Luce holds a controlling interest in the company; but I have often thought that, if he could eliminate all liquor advertising from the pages of these widely read magazines, he would strike a great blow at the very worst of society's entrenched evils, a great blow for righteouness.—D. E. Burrell in The Presbyterian

Vacation Bible School Workshop Program

9:00 registration; 9:30 devotional period by Rev. D. C. Wedel; 9:50 talk "Practical Aids for the Vacation Bible School" by Mrs. Paul Erb; 10:50 "India" by Mrs. J. R. Duerksen; 11:30 "How To Use Pictures" by Mrs. Rudolph G. Warkentin; 11:50 dismissal; 12:10 dinner in the dinning hall; 1:45 Choral scripture reading by Miss Honora Becker; 2:45 inspirational message by Mrs. Paul Erb; 3:45 open forum in charge of Rev. D. C. Wedel. There will be a display of handwork, books, and teaching material. Bring notebooks, pencils, and questions. Place: Student Union Room, Memorial Hall, Bethel College. Time: March 22 at 9 a. m.

An invitation is extended to all who are interested to attend the Workshop for the Vacation Bible School on March 22, at the Student Union Room in the Memorial Hall, Bethel College. Come for both the inspiration and help that you will receive and give.

New Home Mission Worker in Northern Saskatchewan

Rev. Isaac Epp, Box 657, Prince Albert, Saskatchewan was recently accepted by the Board of Home Missions in cooperation with the Canadian Home Mission Committee as a worker for this northern Saskatchewan city and surrounding vicinity.

There are many scattered Mennonite groups in this section and the two committees are anxious to have them visited regularly and services conducted in Prince Albert.

Rev. Epp has had quite a bit of experience as a school teacher and young people's worker. For the past five or six years he has been a member of the Saskatchewan Youth Organization, having served as secretary. Frequently he preached in addition to his work as school teacher.

Your prayer interest is solicited for the large field.—A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary, Quakertown, Pa.

WORK IN PRINCE ALBERT DESCRIBED BY REV. EPP

For several years there have been a few scattered representatives of our faith in the city of Prince Albert. They were served occasionally by visiting ministers under the direction of Elder Johannes Regier of Laird. Last spring Rev. J. C. Schmidt and Rev. G. Elias made an effort to locate as many of our people as possible and gather them for services. They found a lively and interested group here. Arrangements were made to hold services in the West End Baptist Mission every first and third Sunday of each month. Since then a number of ministers have come for services. Among them were Rev. C. B. Dirks of Nipawin; Rev. C. Boldt of Hague; Rev. J. J. Esau of Bluffton, Ohio; Rev. B. Toews, now of Freeman, South Dakota; Rev. J. Gerbrandt of Rosthern; Elder G. G. Epp of Rosthern; Rev. Rev. J. C. Schmidt of Rosthern, and Rev. I. Epp of Waldheim.

The latter became interested in the work during the Rosthern retreat and visited the group for the first time about the middle of July while touring northern Saskatchewan with a male quartet. In August he came back for a series of meetings lasting eight days. When a definite call was extended to him from the group to come to serve them as their pastor he accepted it and moved to the city on November 15. The Home Mission Board of the General Conference is giving Rev. Epp part time financial support. In addition he is obliged to do secular work to make a living.

The mission extends a hearty welcome to all who would like to hear the gospel of our salvation to our Mennonite people in and around the city. It is our desire to have fellowship with one another and with the Lord. We have a Sunday School with an attendance of about thirty-five. The highest attendance at Sunday church service has been fifty-eight. There are approximately fifteen interested families. Sunday School and worship services are held every Sunday morning and evangelistic services every Sunday evening. We are planning to have a Young People's Christian Endeavor every third Sunday night. Week nights include prayer meetings and Bible study, singing and music practices, etc. Then there are hospital and sanatorium patients to be visited, besides making house visitations.

We are confident that the Lord, whose work this is, will undertake to see it established into the edification of His children and unto the salvation of those who still do not know Jesus as their personal Savior.—From Saskatchewan Mennonite Youth.

HOME ADDRESSES OF MEMBERS OF THE PRESIDENT'S ADVISORY COMMISSION

The War Department's all out drive for conscription is on, aided by General Marshall and President Truman. To oppose conscription write to your representatives and senators and the following people:

Honorable Jospeh E. Davies
3029 Klingle Road
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Dan Poling
419 Fourth Avenue
New York City, New York

Honorable Samuel I. Rosenman
165 Broadway
New York City, New York

Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, Public and Industrial Relations Consultant
444 Madison Avenue
New York City, New York

Truman K. Gibson, Jr.
3507 S. Parkway
Chicago, Illinois

Dr. Harold W. Dodds, President
Princeton University
Princeton, New Jersey

Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, Vice President
Georgetown University
37th A. O. Streets, N. W.
Washington, D. C.

Dr. Earl T. Compton
Massachusetts Institute of Technology
Cambridge, Massachusetts

Charles E. Wilson, President
General Electric Company
570 Lexington Avenue
New York City, New York

Office of the President's Advisory Commission on Universal Training
John H. Ohley, Executive Secretary
1712 G. Street, N. W.
Washington 25, D. C.

IN MEMORIAM

Anna Magdalena Kuehny was born April 29, 1868, in Summerfield, Illinois, She left us February 8, 1947. While small she came with her folks to Halstead, Kansas. When fifteen she was baptized by Rev. Christian Krehbiel and became a member of the Halstead Church. March 6, 1887, she was united in marriage to Daniel Dester. To this union seven children were born: Alma of St. Louis; Irvin, who died in infancy; Emil of Deer Creek; Herbert, missionary to India; Daniel who died at the age of thirteen months; Mrs. Milton Lichti of Deer Creek, Oklahoma, and Mrs. E. R. Langenwalter of Peoria, Illinois. In 1898 the family moved to Deer Creek, Oklahoma. Two years later father and several of the children became sick of typhoid fever, of which father died. Then followed years of hardships, but with the help of kind friends and neighbors mother kept the family together. In 1918 a home was purchased in Deer Creek, and God graciously permitted mother to spend her last years in comparative comfort. This was her home until her health began to fail. Thereafter she made her home in St. Louis and part time in Deer Creek. She will live on in the hearts of her children as one who gave herself unstintingly.

Mrs. Bertha M. Allenbach, pioneer of Whitman County, Washington, since 1890, died November 16, 1946. Mrs. Allenbach was a native of Switzerland. She was born in 1866. In 1884 she married Louis Allenbach. Three years later they came to the United States, where they settled in Kansas. In 1890 they came to Whitman County. Here they became members of the Onecho Church. Mr. Allenbach passed away in 1907. Surviving are two sons, August and Lewis of Colfax and seven daugthers, Mrs. Wm. Gordon, Mrs. Cecil Johnson and Mrs. Elliott Gay of Colfax; Mrs. Martin Conniff of Spokane, Mrs. Harry Bryson of Pendleton, Mrs. Rex Allingham and Mrs. Clara Christensen of Portland; two brothers, Alfred and Lee Maurer in Ohio, and a sister Emma Weis in Switzerland.

Roy Elmer Sommerfeld, son of Menno Sommerfeld and Tabitha Vogt Sommerfeld, was born at Hesston, Kansas, on July 22, 1934, and passed away at the Mercy Hospital, Moundridge, Kansas, on February 19, 1947. He will be greatly missed, for he was an affectionate, thoughtful and reverent boy. It was his delight to attend Sunday School and worship services. He took a great interest in learning spiritual truths and often expressed the desire to become a minister of the gospel. Those mourning his early departure are his parents, two sisters, one grandfather, one grandmother and many other relatives and friends. Funeral services from the home and the First Mennonite Church of Christian were conducted on February 22 with Rev. P. P. Wedel in charge.

Sarah Unruh Hiebert was born May 3, 1861 at Alexanderwohl, South Russia, and died February 24, 1947. She came to the United States with her parents when thirteen. They made their home on a farm near McPherson, Kansas. In 1879 she was baptized and received into the Hoffnungsau Church. Later she joined the Alexanderwohl Church and lastly the Tabor Church, of which she was a charter member. In 1884 she married A. D. Hiebert with whom she shared life for thirty-seven years. To this union were born ten children, seven of whom are still living. After her husband's death she lived with her son Albert and with her daughter Sarah, each for a short time and rest of the time with her daughter Marie, except for the last two weeks when she was with her daughter Susie. She is mourned by the following children: Mrs. C. K. Janzen, Newton; D. A. Hiebert, Portland, Oregon; Mrs. H. F. Unruh, Newton; Mrs. Anna Funk, Hillsboro; Mrs. J. J. Buller, Reedley, California; Albert Hiebert, Burns; and Mrs. Marie Funk, Newton; and three sisters: Mrs. David Buller and Mrs. H. P. Janzen of Newton, and Maria of the Home for the Aged, Goessel.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Western District Conference Charity Committee desires to announce to the congregations and members of this district that the secretary of this committee is Rev. J. R. Duerksen, 528 West 12th Street, Newton, Kansas, and that the treasurer is Rev. Waldo Kaufman, Hydro, Oklahoma.

Contributions and gifts are herewith solicited and should be sent to our treasurer, and applications should be made to the secretary of your Western District Charity Committee. "As we therefore have opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." Gal. 6:10.—H. Albert Claassen, Chairman.

Report of Money Received During the Last Half of 1946

by the Headquarters Office, from Non-church Sources

FOREIGN MISSIONS

No. 2901 — $49.00; 2902 — 10.00; 2914 — 2848.84; 2915 — 20.00; 2916 — 1380.88; 2917 — 8.74; 2928 — 25.00; 2935 — 100.00; 2945 — 200.00; 2961 — 25.00; 2964 — 121.50; 2977 — 19.91; 2980 — 75.00; 2991 — 50.65; 2992 — 2.00; 3017 — 2.00; 3020 — 200.00*; 3066 — 3.00; 3075 — 50.00; 3078 — 14.00; 3084 — 25.00; 3087 — 30.00; 3099 — 25.00; 3105 — 30.00; 3110 — 30.00; 3126 — 400.00; 3142 — 50.00; 3153 — 853.14; 3154 — 218.75*; 3155 — 20.00; 3164 — 23.87; 3166 — 29.31; 3169 — 2.30; 3170 — 5.25; 3179 — 30.00; 3182 — 400.00; 3188 — 30.00; 3219 — 75.00; 3226 — 8.75*; 3233 — 25.00; 3258 — 15.00; 3259 — 20.00; 3263 — 10.00; 3276 — 28.19; 3292 — 50.00; 3363 — 10.00; 3367 — 60.00; 3369 — 32.16; 3374 — 250.00; 3380 — 629.41; 3386 — 21.41; 3414 — 1000.00; 3423 — 267.83; 3437 — 50.00; 3446 — 20.00; 3468 — 16.20; 3469 — 2.55; 3473 — 5.25; 3474 — 5.25; 3477 — 255; 3478 — 80.00; 3479 — 3000.00; 3501 — 288.00; 3518 — 187.35; 3519 — 678.40; 3527 — 30.00; 3530 — 20.00; 3534 — 3.00; 3538 — 30.00; 3543 — 50.00; 3546 — 35.00; 3550 — 10.00;3565 — 37.00; 3566 — 100.00; 3567 — 2.55; 3597 — 150.00; 3608 — 10.00; 3609 — 30.00; 3617 — 8.11*; 3620 — 5.00; 3626 — 8.74; 3647 — 5.25; 3657 — 100.00; 3659 — 369.15; 3662 — 8.75; 3669 — 50.00; 3671 — 208.77; 3674 — 6.00; 3697 — 50.00; 3700 — 6.35; 3705 — 501.00; 3728 — 120.00; 3730 — 5.00; 3752 — 100.00; 3762 — 1000.00; 3767 — 526.15; 3778 — 33.51; 3791 — 18.76; 3795 — 303.73; 3803 — 50.00; 3804 — 75.00; 3805 — 150.00; 3806 — 150.00; 3807 — 75.00; 3808 — 75.00; 3827 — 34.00; 3842 — 20.00; 3851 — 25.00; 3854 — 5.00; 3870 — 500.00; 3899 — 4236.99*; 3909 — 30.00; 3924 — 9.00; 3930 — 965.00; 3955 — 10.00; 3961 — 5600.00*; 3965 — 26.25; 3184 — 3.50; 3985 — 19.12; 4006 — 100.00; 4011 — 5.00; 4041 — 20.00; 4057 — 75.00; 4070 — 20.00; 4071 — 10.00; 4072 — 10.00; 4080 — 25.00; 4081 — 50.00; 4099 — 100.00*; 4104 — 152.92* 4120 — 25.00; 4122 — 5.25* 4130 — 25.00; 4140 — 2.00; 4144 — 25.00; 4147 — 2.55; 4150 — 50.00; 4151 — 5.25*; 4157 — 17.96*; 4171 — 10.00; 4176 — 250.00; 4196 — 5.50; 4201 — 20.53; 4208 — 20.00; 4209 — 60.00*; 4210 — 1362.62; 4211 — 740.97;

4301 — 101.00; 4313 — 4.38*; 4328 — 100.00; 4339 — 50.00; 4345 — 45.00*; 4356 — 21.20; 4379 — 34.68; 4384 — 10.00; 4385 — 40.00; 4412 — 65.00; 4417 — 30.00; 4423 — 5.00. Total $33,949.93.

HOME MISSIONS

No. 2910 — $187. 50*; 2914 — 292.70; 2928 — 25.00; 2961 — 15.00; 3034 — 45.00; 3099 — 25.00; 3121 — 18.63; 3126 — 200.00; 3153 — 244.95; 3179 — 175.34; 3278 — 267.12*; 3373 — 5.00; 3468 — 4.30; 3597 — 50.00; 3599 — 125.00*; 3659 — 95.00; 3674 — 3.00; 3717 — 9.05; 3730 — 1.25; 3899 — 1036.57*; 3924 — 4.50 — 4006 — 100.00; 4028 — 26.00* 4031 — 560.98; 4041 — 20.00; 4070 — 15.00; — 4120 — 25.00; 4129 — 125.00*; 4179 — 50.00; 4196 — 2.50; 4210 — 50.00; 4211 — 110.00; 4212 — 50.00; 4304 — 15892.22*; 4305 — 150.00*; 4350 — 5.00; 4384 — 10.00; 4437 — 50.00. Total $20,071.61.

RELIEF

No. 2902 — $10.00; 2903 — 50.00; 2907 — 35.00; 2908 — 200.00; 2910 — 12.50; 2914 — 2025.14; 2928 — 25.00; 2942 — 10.00; 2949 — 12.50*; 2961 — 50.00; 2966 — 25.00; 3003 — 10.00; 3013 — 89.80*; 3029 — 45.00; 3030 — 25.00; 3037 — 600.00; 3050 — 100.00; 3051 — 90.00; 3052 — 250.00; 2053 — 75.00; 3054 — 150.00; 3055 — 155.50; 3056 — 10.00; 3059 — 100.00; 3061 — 100.00; 3071 — 25.00; 3085 — 50.00; 3096 — 5.00; 3099 — 50.00; 3100 — 25.00; 3102 — 42.50; 3105 — 20.00; 3109 — 10.00; 3110 — 18.00; 3115 — 2.00; 3123 — 10.00; 3125 — 40.00; 3143 — 2.50*; 3153 — 474.50; 3154 — 218.75; 3168 — 26.73; 3175 — 105.00; 3178 — 50.00; 3179 — 25.00; 3183 — 17.00; 3187 — 50.00; 3188 — 15.00; 3190 — 5.00; 3191 — 100.00; 3204 — 10.00; 3210 — 100.00; 3215 — 150.00; 3219 — 75.00; 3258 — 55.00; 3207 — 100.00*; 3322 — 25.00; 3326 — 20.00; 3331 — 30.00; 3333 — 15.00; 3334 — 25.00; 3342 — 1.00; 3350 — 6.46*; 3355 — 10.00; 3357 — 40.00; 3373 — 5.00; 3380 — 327.92; 3389 — 300.00; 3392 — 10.00; 3399 — 50.00; 3406 — 100.00; 3407 — 50.00; 3422 — 20.00; 3445 — 25.00; 3452 — 12.68; 3456 — 15.00; 3468 — 12.65; 3472 — 25.00; 3482 — 322.38; 3495 — 25.00; 3498 — 10.00; 3518 —187.35; 3520 — 100.00; 3522 — 100.00; 3523 — 100.00; 3534 — 1.00; 3539 — 2.00; 3543 — 50.00; 3544 — 150.00; 3558 — 50.00; 3564 — 20.00; 3565 — 29.25; 3566 — 350.00; 3571 — 15.00; 3576 — 15.00; 3582 — 20.00; 3590 — 20.00; 3591 — 25.00; 3594 — 35.00; 3595 — 2.00; 3642 — 20.00; 3649 — 50.00; 3650 — 50.00; 3651 — 25.00; 3652 — 10.00; 3657 — 100.00; 3658 — 165.97; 3659 — 359.17; 3660 — 100.00; 3661 — 100.00; 3710 — 2.00; 3714 — 10.00; 3715 — 15.00; 3718 — 100.00; 3720 — 50.00; 3724 — 5.38; 3729 — 30.00; 3730 — 5.00; 3739 — 32.80; 3751 — 199.65; 3753 — 21.18; 3755 — 40.00; 3756 — 10.00; 3778 — 54.39; 3780 — 100.00; 3794 — 20.00; 3795 — 375.60; 3800 — 20.00; 3815 — 100.00; 3840 — 10.00; 3841 — 10.00; 3842 — 20.00; 3859 — 10.00; 3863 — 10.00; 3867 — 50.00; 3875 — 20.00; 3876 — 50.00; 3877 — 50.00; 3878 — 20.00; 3901 — 10.00; 3902 — 10.00; 3904 — 100.00; 3909 — 100.00; 3910 — 23.10; 3912 — 20.00; 3922 — 10.00; 3923 — 2.00; 3926 — 10.00; 3940 — 20.00; 3954 — 20.00; 3966 — 25.00; 3974 — 20.00; 3975 — 30.00; 3978 — 300.00; 3782 — 35.00; 4005 — 40.00; 4006 — 100.00; 4008 — 1200.00; 4010 — 25.00; 4015 — 10.00; 4040 — 20.00; 4042 — 30.00; 4043 — 10.00; 4044 — 20.00; 4046 — 12.00; 4063 — 10.00; 4067 — 10.00; 4068 — 30.00; 4070 — 25.00; 4087 — 10.00; 4103 — 20.00; 4118 — 50.00; 4120 — 25.00; 4121 — 20.00; 4123 — 25.00; 4144 — 25.00; 4148 — 10.00; 4149 — 30.00; 4152 — 10.00; 4160 — 55.00; 4161 — 5.00; 4178 — 100.00; 4195 — 20.00; 4213 — 10.00; 4217 — 20.00; 4223 — 10.00; 4243 — 30.00; 4246 — 10.00; 4247 — 25.00; 4250 — 100.00; 4255 — 10.00; 4256 — 10.00; 4257 — 20.00; 4258 — 10.00; 4260 — 10.00; 4271 — 20.00; 4276 — 10.00; 4277 — 10.00; 4282 — 10.00; 4297 — 10.00; 4298 — 12.00; 4306 — 10.00; 4320 — 2.00; 4329 — 20.00; 4330 — 25.00; 4339 — 25.00; 4347 — 20.00; 4351 — 10.00; 4352 — 10.00; 4353 — 10.00; 4354 — 20.00; 4211 645.48; 4210 — 620.60; 4384 — 30.00; 4397 — 10.00; 4398 — 10.00; 4399 — 10.00; 4400 — 20.00; 4401 — 10.00; 4402 — 10.00; 4410 — 29.00; 4415 — 25.00; 4416 — 50.00; 4419 — 100.00; 4421 — 10.00; 4422 — 30.00; 4430 — 50.00; 4439 — 12.50; 4440 —40.00; 4443 — 135.00; 4445 — 25.00; Total $16,351.93.

PEACE

No. 2914 — $105.00; 3055 — 77.74; 3163 — 5.00; 3188 — 5.00; 3210 — 100.00; 3468 — 14.00; 3778 — 54.74; 4070 — 10.00; 4199 — 50.00; 4210 — 50.00. Total $471. 48.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

No. 3126 — $50.00; 3277 — 50.00*; 3373 — 10.00; 3420 — 815.16*; 3468 — .75; 3468 — 1.30; 3469 — 10.00; 3624 — 750.00; 3720 — 50.00; 4070 — 5.00; 4138 — 8.00; 4154 — 1500.00; 4156 — 200.00* Total $3450.21.

BOARD OF PUBLICATION

No. 2968 — $123.84*; 3042 — 100.00*; 3110 — 2.00; 3236 — 9.00; 3409 — 100.00*; 3592 — 100.00*; 3744 — 100.00; 3847 — 150.00; 4066 — 150.00*; 4070 — 5.00; 4098 — 100.00*; 4317 — 100.00*. Total $1039.84.

GENERAL CONFERENCE

No. 2957 — $15.00; 2961 — 10.00; 2968 — 24.00; 3193 — 131.25*; 3165 — 24.00; 3171 — .50; 3202 — 3.00; 3209 — 15.00; 3225 — 15.12; 3234 — 25.00; 3236 — 3.50; 3286 — 10.00; 3293 — 5.00; 3311 — 2.00; 3317 — 27.72; 3362 — 1.00; 3373 — 5.00; 3385 — 100.00; 3433 — 3.50; 3468 — .35; 3468 — .05; 3551 — 11.10; 3566 — 150.00; 3572 — 60.00; 3711 — 500.00; 3738 — 49.20; 3741 — 1.45; 3916 — 261.00*; 3929 — 4.08; 4048 — 26.34; 4049 — 15.50; 4070 — 5.00; 4070 — 5.00; 4153 — 7.50; 4391 — 3.15; 4436 — 18.16; 4446 — 2.50; 4118 — 25.00. Total $1565.97.

*Income from other sources.

REPORT OF TREASURER OF THE PACIFIC DISTRICT CONFERENCE

June 1, 1946—January 1, 1947.

Pacific District Conference, Lind, Wash., $733.25; Again $200.24; General Conference Home Mission Board, Newton, Kansas, $100; Again $122; First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, $373.94; Alberta Community Church, Portland, Ore., $50; A Friend, Odessa, Wash. $300; Menno Church, Lind, Wash., $311.92; Menn. Church, Newport, Wash., $39.75; Menn. Group, Caldwell, Idaho, $31.18; First Church, Shafter, Cal., $15.66; Calvary Church Barlow, Ore., $27.85; First Church, Monroe, Wash., $50.91; Menn. Country Church, Monroe, Wash., $20; Second Menn. Church, Paso Robles, Cal., $124.32; Emmanuel Church, Pratum, Ore., $83.21; Grace Church, Dallas, Ore., $282.15; Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, Cal., $51.41; First Church, Upland, Cal., $193.28; First Church, Reedley, Cal., $422.87. Total for the last half of 1946, $3,533.94.—Gratefully acknowledged by Jno. C. Jantz Odessa, Washington.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

What Has Happened to the Japanese Americans?

by Florence Auernheimer

The dark days, beginning on February, 14, 1942, and stretching out into two to four years for forty thousand Japanese, (many of whom were Americanized) and seventy thousand American citizens who wore an oriental face, have woven into many interesting patterns of readjustments in the peace time era; however not without many touches of sadness and its cup of bitterness, too.

About five thousand of these volunteered to return to Japan; yes, we say they volunteered. But in reality it was due to evacuation, life in assembly and relocation centers, insecurity of the War Relocation Authority Policy, and wide-spread propaganda which confused even the most stable-minded. How many are wishing themselves back in the states no one knows. I have heard directly from about a dozen of them. They all express the same desire. Shigeko wrote just before Christmas, "Can't believe it but almost a year has gone since I left United States. I'd give anything in the world if I could be back there to spend the Christmas as well as forever."

Outstanding, brilliant, nineteen-year-old Okumura, who was our elementary physical education teacher in the center, told my friend who met him in Tokyo that he had a good job but wasn't paid his full wages; consequently he hadn't had a full meal since he left the ship. Our principal had offered to pay his way through college if he would stay, but he felt he had to obey his parents and now he wishes himself back in the states.

Our school superintendent, who now is working in the educational field in Tokyo, just wrote me, "Most of the Nisei are able to get good positions with occupational forces because of their facility with the English language, but they get very little pay and are all so anxious to go back to the States. I hope that an opportunity opens for them to do so. If the act of renunciation is declared unconsitutional I think that they will have a chance to do so some time. . . . . . I received a letter from one girl describing the terrible conditions under which they are living, but of course there is nothing that I can do to help them. I imagine that many are having a very hard time of it. They are misfits among the Japanese, and the little money that they were permitted to bring with them was soon gone to the black market here."

Several hundred were deported. Of these I have heard nothing.

The rest of the 110,000 evacuees returned to their former homes, communities, or other parts of the United States. The last center to close was at Newell, California, February, 1946.

Eiko, our high school office girl, after returning to her home town in Sacramento writes, "Everybody is pretty much the same and seem glad to see us come back. So far I've been very lucky in meeting the nicest people and haven't experienced any difficulty which I feared and was prepared to meet."

Matsuye, one of the pre-school teachers, whose father sold his ranch on a short notice before going to camp and whose two brothers were pending deportation a year ago, now writes, "We will continue praying for the return of our treasured privileges but will in the meantime, continue working and saving for the day when we will have a place to call our own. We have, at least, our whole family together to be thankful for." As laws stand now, this family cannot buy a ranch.

May, one of my Sunday School pupils, who returned to her former community in Washington says that the people were even nicer now than before evacuation She is attending a Caucasian church there for which she is very happy. Would that more Caucasian churches would open their doors to all races.

Evacuation is probably one of the greatest mistakes the United States has made. Our concern is—what can we do now? The following are the recommendations given in the report made by the W.R.A. under the direction of Dillon S. Myer.

1. Legislation should be enacted providing for an evacuation claims commission to consider claims against the government for property losses resulting from the evacuation.

2. Legislation should be passed extending the privilege of citizenship to the Japanese living in this country. State land laws that discriminate against "aliens ineligible for naturalization" should also be repealed. These laws bar many Japanese from employment.

3. Local citizen committees and groups should aid

Florence Auernheimer, who taught school in Reedley, California and now teaches in Los Angeles, during the war served as school teacher in one of the War Relocation Centers in which the Japanese Americans were placed. There she was able to observe at first hand and share with these people the bitter experience that were their lot and she found among them many who have become close friends.

evacuees to readjust themselves to a postwar America.

A better understanding between groups may be gotten through well-planned, integrated programs by church and community, exchange students with Japan, and individuals continually working for equal rights. Each community must work according to its needs and opportunities. For those who have no opportunity for personal contacts with the Japanese Americans and have a desire of understanding them to a greater degree I suggest you read the following books. Both are good additions to the church library.

"A Brother is a Stranger" by Toru Matsumoto and Marion O. Lerrigo, published by The John Day Company, New York. It is an adventurous and romantic story of Toru, who in his native land and in America has fought against the oppression of his own country and his own brother. Pearl S. Buck says" . . . . the truest and most complete book of life in Japan, with all its good and evil, that I have ever read."

"Beyond Prejudice" by Toru Matsumoto, published by Friendship Press, New York. In this book Toru reveals many interesting happenings and the wonderful work the churches did for the Japanese Americans. Permit me to quote a paragraph from page 18. "Miss Mildred Bartholomew of the Y. W. C. A. tells a touching story of a child in those days of fears and tears. Confronted with the phrase "enemy alien" as applied to her mother, who was born in Japan, the child said to her mother when she came home from school.

"Mommie, you are my enemy."

"Yes, darling, but Jesus said you should love your enemy," said the mother.

The little girl replied as she flew into her mother's arms, "I do, Mommie, I do!"

Exchange Letters with Dutch Young People

Several of the correspondents in the churches report a little about their new friends in Europe. All of these have found friends in Holland to whom they are writing.

Walter Jost of Hillsboro, Kansas, is corresponding with Albert Wethmar from The Hague, Holland, who writes: " . . . . it will be difficult for you to realize how Holland looks. If you are now walking through the towns in Holland (Amsterdam, The Hague, and Rotterdam) you see at once there was a war. In our town the Germans destroyed about 10,000 houses for 'military purposes,' so we are now living along a large field with no houses at all. Five years ago this was one of the most beautiful parts of the town. All the trees have been burned by the people because there were no more coals in the town during the winter 1944-45."

Micke C. Wethmar, The Hague, is Esther Lehrman's correspondent. Esther is from Aberdeen, Idaho. Micke says in her letter: "I studied at a high school during six years and after that I followed a three-year-course at a housewifery school and now I am a teacher in domestic economy. In July I ended my study and now I am 23 years. My eldest brother is Mennonite Reverand and the other is K.E. M.E. officer."

Richard Ratzlaff of Pretty Prairie, Kansas, corresponds with Miss A. N. Rem of Litrecht, who is an analytical chemist in the Royal Health Institute. She has been at this job almost six years and is only twenty-six years old.

Gretha Glandorff of Rotterdam and Marjorie Linscheid of North Newton, Kansas, correspond. Gretha states: "My age is 24 years. At January 11 I work already 10 years at an office so my school years lie a long time behind me. But tell me in your following letter what the purpose is of your school. Our church is a Baptist church, (and has) about 1000 membership."

Aaltje Wijbenga, living in a small hamlet in Holland corresponds with Katherine Linscheid, North Newton, Kansas. Aaltje works as an assistant to a doctor and writes only in Dutch.

At present young people from the age of 12 to 40 are corresponding with each other. Young people in Canadian and United States churches are corresponding with young people in Holland and Germany. Thus an effort is being made to realize a more personal Christian fellowship between Christians in America and other lands.

Those interested in corresponding with someone across the water can get further information by writing to Esko Loewen, 6201 S. Carpenter, Chicago, Illinois.

Different Kinds of Ideals

Whether definitely conscious of it or not, ordinary people have their ideals in life, things of which they are desirous and after which they aspire. They wish to be saved from some things and to attain to others. Ideals are of different grades. The lowest is that of simply making a living, of security against poverty, against ill-health, and of being able to care for oneself or family. There is nothing in this in itself to be condemned, and "Safety first," properly interpreted, may have its place as a motto. There is the higher ideal which rises beyond self and bases itself upon social respectability. Such are agreeable people who make good neighbours, always willing to lend a hand, especially within the circle of their acquaintances which may be a large one. These are the decent, honourable, moral people who constitute a large portion of society, some of whom are in the various churches, though some are without, whose characters have been shaped by the hereditary or widely diffused influences of Christianity. There is a higher level still beyond those whose ideals are centered in self or society, those who find their desire and satisfaction in God. Men like St. Paul and David Livingstone, and present-day individuals such as Schweitzer of Africa and Kagawa of Japan discover to us that selfish or social standards are quite insufficient; they rise

(Continued on page 14.)

A Kassel Baker Calls It Holy Bread

by Robert Kreider

Flour — soft, snow-white American flour . . . . few gifts can we share with the hungry of Germany which they so gratefully receive as white flour.

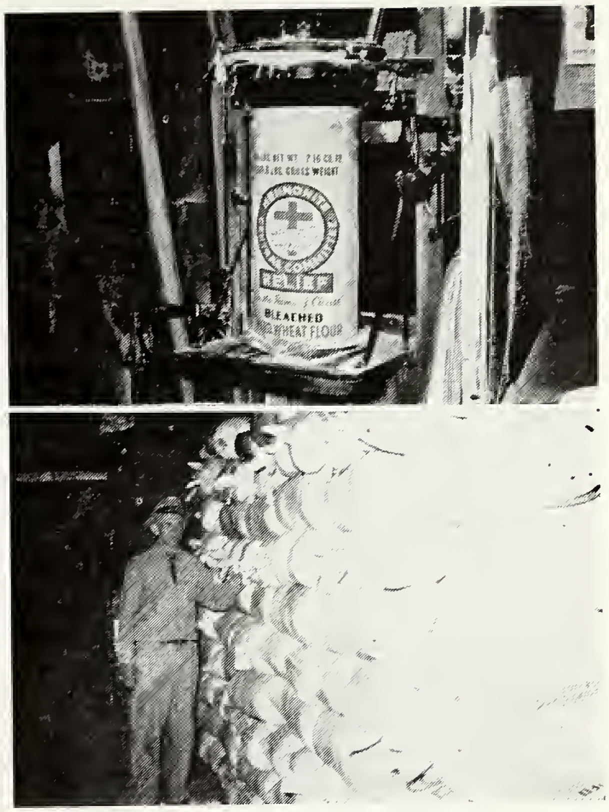
There are children who never in their little war-haunted lives have eaten white bread or rolls. And many an older German exclaims with deep appreciation: "Not in seven or eight years have we seen beautiful white flour!" The years of war were years of dark bread.

There was a time when I was a bit skeptical of the value of flour as a relief shipment. But these months in a land of gnawing hunger confirm to me that white flour is one of the finest gifts which our people can give.

From the French Zone we read a report . . . "For the tiny children more important now even than powdered milk is white flour. Can the Americans send us flour? With it we shall prepare nutritious soups and bake white bread for the little tots."

The M.C.C flour comes in 100-pounds bags, many of the bags bearing the M.C.C. symbol of the cross and the clasped hands. A director of a community child-feeding program writes: "The workers looked amazed at those bags with the joined hands. They did not understand the symbol. 'Who is it that joins hands here with us, the distressed, the offenders?' Another employee came and translated: 'Food for relief in the name of Christ.' The flour bags became a living witness to the love of God coming to men through His children. Day by day the sacks stood gazing at the men working there. They were opened. The men said: 'The lily-white flour has touched us like a warm friend's hand. We will take the labels to our director to keep them. They are like flags. We Germans have become a nation without a flag. Oh, that this might become our flag! And in the name of Christ.' "

In the city of Kassel there is a baker who bakes 100-gram rolls — brotchen — for the child-feeding program. To him this bread is "Holy Bread." He has been heard to say, "My bakehouse is becoming my house of worship . . . . . In baking these rolls I have been silently talking to them, seeing before me those multitudes of men over there in America for whom religion means 'serving' . . . . "



The upper picture shows a hundred-pound sack, with the M.C.C. emblem and the name of the donor, being filled with flour for relief at the Claassen Flour Mills, Newton, Kansas. Below Mr. P. D. Claassen. who is a member of the First Mennonite Church of Newton, is shown in the warehouse with some of the hundred-pound sacks ready for shipment. Mr. Claassen reports that he ground twenty-one carloads of relief flour for seven Mennonite churches and the Post War Relief Committee of the Church of God in Christ Mennonites from October, 1945, to February, 1947. One carload weighs about sixty thousand pounds. General Conference churches participating in this program were: Alexanderwohl; Emmaus; First Church, Newton; Goessel, Halstead, Tabor, and the Bethlehem Mennonite Church, Bloomfield, Montana. Most of the wheat ground into flour was raised by Mennonites in a radius of about thirty miles from Newton. The sacks now being used for shipping the flour are of strong cotton and can be used for clothing. Each sack bears the words, "In the Name of Christ."

A ten-year-old girl, Feya Cybulla, of the Jakob Krimm School writes: "I thank you for all which you have sent us: the beautiful white rolls and the thick, dark soup. . . . . When we are gathered altogether in the classroom and each one has his or her soup and roll, we say Grace and think of Jesus and of you. We enjoy the soup or porridge very much. It is nice to see the full big jugs. Our lady-teacher told us that there is printed on each sack: 'In the name of Christ.' Give my kind regards to all Christians in America and tell them my wish that they may go on living happily and in peace."

German families are often broken families: fathers lost or missing or in imprisonment. The mothers share

---

Robert Kreider, working under the M.C.C. with the C.R.A.L.O.G. agency which represents private relief organizations in Germany, here describes the results of sending flour from Canadian and American farms as an expression of Christ's love and the Christian's love for all mankind.

RELIEF NEEDS CONTINUE

Robert Kreider, MCC relief worker in Germany, writes, "I wonder whether there are those who now are beginning to ask, 'Isn't Germany getting back on its feet?' 'Isn't the need tapering off?' There is no question that suffering in 1946-1947 is more intense than in 1945-1946 and the need more universal. German officials and relief administrators and Military government men forsee as much hunger and suffering in 1947-1948 as this year. There are no signs on the horizon that the misery will be eased within the next year."

with their children the greater portion of their nations. Mothers look tired and depressed. The child feeding means much to these mothers. One such mother has said, "The feeding has given back to me a faith in God and men. I was in despair when my tiny and older children asked for bread and I was unable to give them anything. I pray to God that He may bless the givers over there. My life shall become an expression of gratitude."

Our people have given flour in full and heaping measure for the need of Germany — more than a thousand tons. It has been enough to bake three-ounce rolls for 100,000 children each day for a period of six months . . . . Each ton of flour received in Germany will provide 500 children with rolls (rich, nutritious rolls of more than 230 calories) each school day for a month!

Everywhere we hear the children say, "We like the rolls best. They are white, soft, and taste just like cake."

We see the radiant faces of the children and we know that the breaking of this bread is a sacrament. This is Holy Bread.

Items of Interest

The Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church has held a ban of hymn singing for 142 years. This ban has recently been lifted permitting this conservative body of Presbyterians to sing hymns in their church worship.

* * * *

Nine out ten of the Evangelical churches have been wrecked during the war in the Philippines. The congregations, however, are reported to be stronger, and several new groups were established in the mountains during the war.

* * * *

The Lutheran World Convention for China relief purchased at twenty-seven passenger transport plane which will make regular trips between China and Calcutta to transport personnel and bring back medicines and supplies. This plane will connect with another one in India which flies to Europe. It is operated by the Scandinavian Missionary Societies.

* * * *

Evangelical Christianity is not the only religion with many divisions. Japan's forty-five million Buddhists are broken up into eleven sects and fifty-six subsects. Christians number only three hundred and seventy thousand, or one-third of one per cent of the population. Of these, one hundred and seventy thousand belong to the Union church, Kyodon, while fourteen thousand are Greek Orthodox and a hundred and twenty thousand Roman Catholic.—Onward

* * * *

The Christian Endeavor movement will not hold a meeting in any city in which its Negro members will be segregated. This policy is true of numerous church organizations who regularly hold inter-racial meetinge and are embarrassed because of segragation policies. For this reason a recent meeting of the International Council of Religious Education was held in Battle Creek, Michigan, rather than Chicago.

* * * *

A total of seventeen Negroes are members of the American College of Surgeons which just within the past two years permitted members of the colored race to be eligible for membership.

* * * *

The development of a large Negro reading public, Negro self-expression and a growing interest in Negro-white relations are major trends in the book trade in the last twenty years. At first there was interest in the cultural contributions of the Negro, then white writers began to use Negroes as leading characters and in recent years a number of outstanding books have been written by Negroes. —Gospel Messenger

* * * *

General H. C. Holdridge of the United States army (retired) has given voice to strong opposition to the War Department's demand for a conscripted system of service. The General in the past was commander of the general training school of Ft. Washington, Maryland, and professor of history at West Point.

One of General Holdridge's charges is that the large industrial interests dictate the policy of our war department and that the maintenance of universal compulsory military training and a big army is not so much for foreign wars as an instrument of control in the domestic scene — when the next depression comes and millions of American workers get hungry. The General states, further, to support his contention that the atomic bomb has made obsolete huge armies while "to suppress your own people, you can use rifles." He is in outpoken opposition to this policy. —Between the Lines

* * * *

Baptist churches of Oklahoma conducted an evangelistic campaign in thirty-four cities during January and February. It was hoped the campaign would result in 300,000 consecrations.

* * * *

The Presbyterian Church plans to undertake an evangelistic campaign which is to result in one million new members and the establishment of three hundred new churches and Sunday Schools by 1950, the chairman of the national committee on evangelism announced.

* * * *

"The greatest conflict mankind has ever know is spreading throughout the world. Two diametrically opposing views are fighting for the allegiance of man — Communism and Christianity. Central Europe is the first battleground. If we lose the battle there, our chances for winning elsewhere including our own land, will be tragically diminished," was the statement made by Dr. Edgar Rees Tulloos, president of the National Lutheran Council. He further declared that Communism finds fertile soil where there is hopelessness, despair, suffering and hunger.

College and Seminary News

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Quarter tests were given March 6 and 7, and the spring quarter starts on March 10. Chapel speakers this week were President Unruh and Rev. John Duerksen of the E.M.B. Church. Rev. Benno Toews returned from Canada where he had gone for his father, Rev. David Toews funeral. Rev. Orlando Goering has been on the campus this week getting acquainted with his new work. He starts teaching in the Bible Department next week. He replaces Rev. S. T. Moyer, who taught here the first two quarters. Rev. Moyer will spend the spring quarter visiting Mennonite church communities of the Northern District in the interest of Christian education. He will contact high school seniors in these communities in the interest of Freeman Junior College. The Academy debate teams participated in a debate tournament at Wagner last Saturday. The College teams will meet teams from Wessington Springs Junior College this Friday. In the Inter-Class Basketball tournament the faculty played the Freshman in an exciting game witnessed by the entire school. The faculty won by a score of forty-eight to twenty-five.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Prof. J. P. Klassen has a special showing of wood carvings and ceramics at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts. The exhibition opened March 8 and continues through March 27. The Church and College Relations Committee of the First Mennonite Church is sponsoring a chili supper in conjunction with open house at Ropp Hall Saturday evening, March 15. A faculty group will conduct a weekend Christian Workers' Institute in Souderton, Pennsylvania, March 15, 16. There will be one session Saturday evening and three on Sunday. Those making the trip are Dr. I. W. Bauman, Miss Edna Ramseyer, Carl Lehman, and Rev. Paul Shelly. On Monday, March 17, they will take part in a ministers' conference. In the afternoon they will conduct a panel discussion on the topic, "The Gospel — "The Center of the Student's Curriculum at a Christian College," and in the evening Rev. Shelly will speak on "How the Christian College Helps Young People Make Life Decisions."

BETHEL COLLEGE

The postponed Memorial Hall Series lecture by Modecai Johnson is now scheduled for Friday, March 28. His subject will be "One World and the Conquest of Prejudice."

The number of churches which are assuming the responsibility of supporting Bethel College by an annual, every-member solicitation effort or by regular offerings is steadily increasing. This was clearly indicated by the presence of 250 representatives from thirty-one churches at the annual Fellowship Committee dinner meeting held in Memorial Hall, Friday evening, March 7.

To send out a representative from the college to collect money for the college is now the method used only in those churches which do not do this work themselves. A letter is being sent to ministers encouraging them to share in the church initiated work of financing Christian education at Bethel College. Sunday, March 23, is suggested as a fine day for a special, freewill offering. Most of the churches which conduct an every-member canvass are planning to do this on March 24.

The material needs of Bethel College are numerous. However, our greatest needs are spiritual, so above all, we seek your prayerful concern that Bethel becomes more effective in her Christian mission and fully surrendered to our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

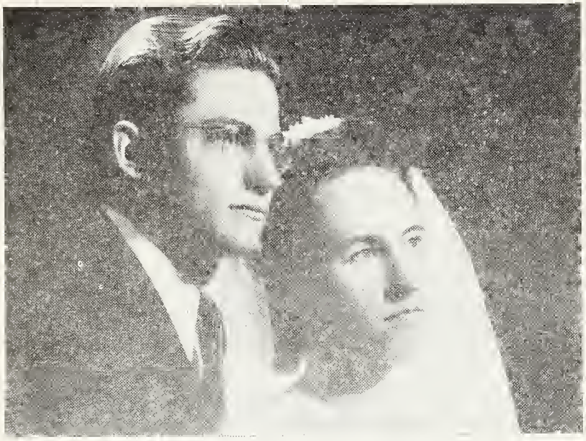
MENNONITE SEMINARY

During February, the Seminary enjoyed the fellowship of a dinner one evening with the First Mennonite Church. The entire seminary was invited for the dinner. The two groups became more closely acquainted with each other. The meal and fellowship were thoroughly enjoyed.

Dean Luther A. Weigle of Yale Divinity School and chairman of the editorial committee responsible for the new Revised Standard Version of the New Testament, spoke to the student body one evening on the new version of the New Testament.

The Seminary Board met for a day to consider the future plans and development of the school and to review the recent events.

The spring quarter has begun with Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Goering, recently connected with the M.C.C., and Leonard Metzker, who had been attending Hartford Theological Seminary joining the group. Willard Wiebe will be absent this quarter serving at the Bethel Mennonite church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota, While Rev. Erland Waltner joins the Seminary and Bible School faculty.



ERNST AND RUTH HARDER

Ernst Harder, who came to North America in 1939 and who has since studied in Freeman College, Bluffton College, Bethel College, and Mennonite Biblical Seminary, has now returned to Paraguay. The people who have learned to love and respect Ernst will be glad to know that he is going to be used for some time in our M.C.C. headquarters in Asuncion, Paraguay. Because of his knowledge of German and especially Spanish, he will be of great help in the work of establishing our Mennonite refugees in their new home. Since he is ordained into the ministry, he can also be of great service in ministering to the spiritual needs of the people living in Asuncion, as well as those of the new refugees.

Ruth Ewert Harder will ably fill a long felt need for a secretary-stenographer who can handle both English and German. She has also taken some Spanish and should soon be able to handle with intelligence papers written in that language. The settling of refugees will require a vast amount of paper work. Mrs. Ruth Harder will, therefore, fill an extremely important position in this large undertaking. Friends of Ruth and Ernst Harder will regard it a privilege to pray for them and their work.—H. A. Fast

---

GREETING FROM DR. AND MRS. P. A. PENNER

Our dear Friends in the U. S. and Canada:

It is now almost a year ago since the Lord saw fit to lay me aside from active work. During this time of inactivity I have received many letters of sympathy," get well soon" cards; and during the holiday season of 1946 many Chistmas and New Year cards and greetings found their way into our home. That because of my physical condition I was unable to answer them, I hope you will understand and pardon. They were very much appreciated. It was a new proof that our many friends thought of us. Many, many thanks. May God's Blessing be your reward! I feel reasonably sure that prayers for my recovery have been sent to the throne of God and have been partially answered. My health has steadily improved during recent months, but I am not yet able to do much work of any kind, and hence I solicit your continued intercessory prayers.

I am not compelled to be in the hospital, but am permitted to be in our home with the best of care. Though I am not permitted to be active as I was during the many years in India and the United States and Canada, yet I have now time to pray for the thousands of friends and Christians I have all over the world. My diary of forty-one volumes helps me in recalling the visits in homes, churches, schools and my forty years apprenticeship in India.

With cordial greetings from Mrs. Penner and me, I Am

Yours for India and its people,
P. A. Penner

P. A. Penner
Newton, Kansas
108 South Walnut Street

DIFFERENT KINDS OF IDEALS

(Continued from page 10)

triumphantly above all such measurements. In ordinary life these are to be found also, men and women who put God first, who in their daily tasks, humble though they may be, live serenely, victoriously, and who are really saints though they never think of themselves as such.

Jottings

—Bethel Church, Winton, California: Starting on February 19 to March 2, Reverend Paul Roth of Canby, Oregon, held a series of meetings here. The Women's Sewing Circle has made three comforters for relief. —Lorraine Heppner, Corr.

—Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas: A total of 928 worshippers gathered at the church March 9 to welcome back our pastor, Rev. Walter Gering. We were glad that Dr. C. E. Krehbiel could also be with us for the joyous occasion. A fellowship dinner was served in the basement to all who were present. At the afternoon meeting Rev. Sam J. Goering addressed the congregation.

—Deep Run Church, Pa. Rev. J. Herbert Fretz and Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander will exchange pulpits March 16. Sometime during the week of March 23-29 J. J. Esau, the blind evangelist from the west, will be here for several pre-Easter messages.—Mae Gross, Corr.

—Newport Church, Newport, Washington: Still being without a regular pastor Rev. Solom from Spokane continues to serve us every other Sunday. The visit of Mr. Harry Martens and Mr. Irwin Goering was much enjoyed. The Ladies Mission Circle has had several all-day meetings to sew for relief. A goodly number have enjoyed the services of Dr. Nathan Cohen Beskin, a converted Jew, at Priest River.—Mrs. Henry D. Hiebert, Corr.

—Waterloo-Kitchener Church, Waterloo, Ontario: A

FOUR BLANK PAGES!

It WOULD look queer if your MENNONITE should come out with the last four pages blank, wouldn't it?

Yet that's what WOULD happen if we printed only as much as the subscription price paid for. For it COSTS us 44 cents per year more than we get for it to print your church papers—the MENNONITE, for example. You say, "Where does the 44 cents EVER come from?" It comes (IF it comes!) as gifts from our churches. That's why we ask our churches, in sending in their gifts to specify, "For Publications." Let's have no Blank pages!

memorial service was held in our church on February 28, in memory of the passing of Rev. David Toews D. D. The service was in charge of Rev. J. H. Janzen, and speakers during the service included: Rev. C. F. Derstine of First Mennonite Church, Kitchener; Rev. J. Martin of Erb St. Mennonite Church, and Rev. H. G. Thielman and Rev. I. T. Ewert of Mennonite Brethren, Kitchener. An offering taken at this service, amounting to $122.00 will be used for relief work. At a congregational meeting on March 2, it was decided to asses each member with a ten dollar fee. This money, when collected, will be turned over to the M.C.C. to be used for transportation of refugees. In the evening Raymond Schlicting of the M. C. C. showed slides of his recent trip in European countries. The offering of eighty-two dollars at this service was donated to this work. Tuesday, March 4, we expect the Bluffton College Gospel Team, Bluffton, Ohio, in our midst. These boys, providing they get through, will be coming into real Canadian winter, because today, March 3, we are experiencing the worst snow-storm of the year, and all roads in this district are blocked. Drifts in some places are as high as the top of telephone poles with the wires running under the snow. "Nur die Hoffnung fest gehalten, Fruehling wird es doch einmal."—H. P. Enns —Bethel College Church: Dr. Harold W. Reed, Pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, Newton, and former head of the Department of Religion in Bethany Peniel College, delivered a sermon on "The Altar Builder," Sunday, March 9. Our pastor, Rev. Lester Hostetler, is in Upland, California, where he is conducting pre-Easter services.—Eldon W. Graber, Corr.

—Zion Church, Elbing, Kansas: The president of our Sewing Society presented the ladies with the Calendar of Activites until August, 1947. Such items: as place of meeting (we meet in the homes), names of ladies who are to furnish material for comforters for relief, who is to lead devotionals and furnish special music are all planned for each meeting, including the date of the same. It is also interesting to note the special "up to the minute" topics planned. The following are a few: "China Mission Work Begun Again," "Our Missionaries and Their Work in India," "My Impression at Woodlawn," "Being a Missionary among the American Indians." The last topic will be accompanied with an "Indian Collection of the American Indians." The latter is a hobby of one our intermediate girls.—Mrs. Louis Janzen, Corr.

—The Bethel Deaconess Home and Hospital Society held its forty-third annual meeting at the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas, February 18, 1947. This organization has a proposed expansion program which "includes an expansion of the present heating plant, new laundry and store room facilities, the Sister Memorial Chapel, and the addition to the Home for the Aged." The report of the annual meeting states, "If conditions permit these projects are to be started during 1947." The Bethel Hospital and the Home for Aged are now entirely debt free and have a combined net worth of over a half million dollars. Forty-seven students are enrolled in the hospital's school of nursing.

—Rev. and Mrs. Frank Mitchell have taken charge

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

The officers of General Conference herewith announce the appointment of the following three additional members to the Historical Committee, making a total of six members: Cornelius Krahn, North Newton, Kansas; Paul R. Shelly, Bluffton, Ohio; and C. Henry Smith, Bluffton, Ohio.

E. E. Leisy, Dallas, Texas, has been asked to fill the unexpired term of P. A. Penner who has asked to be relieved of these duties due to impaired health. The other continuing members are A. J. Dyck, Inman, Kansas, and A. Warkentin, Chicago, Illinois.
—Walter H. Dyck Office Manager of the Old People's Home, Meadows, Illinois. They will serve as superintendent and matron.

—Boynton Mennonite Church, Hopedale, Illinois: Maynard Shelly, student at the Mennonite Biblical Seminary, marked the first anniversary of his service in this church on March 2. The Ladies Aid rolled five pounds of bandages for the hospital in Africa, and it also sent a cash contribution of sixteen dollars to the Mennonite Biblical Seminary.

—Correction: Recenty we referred to a visitation program conducted by the First Church, Hutchinson, Evidently we stated it in an erroneous way. To correct it we print here the part of a church bulletin that refers to it: "Visitation Program—You have received copies of the latest list of 'Those Who Worship With Us.' We urge each couple and each single person to select one of more names from the list of individuals or families which you will promise to visit some day this week. On one of your sheets check the names of the ones you plan to visit; sign your name somewhere on the sheet and hand it in at the door before you leave."—the Editor.

—Gerald Stucky writes from Cachipay, Colombia, ". . . the new Ford Station Wagon, which the people in Berne have given, has arrived in good shape and has already been of tremendous value and service. It comes very close to being an indispensable aid."

—Butterfield, Minnesota, Church: A son was born to Rev. and Mrs. Paul Tschetter on March 5, at the Bethel Hospital, Mountain Lake, Minnesota. They have four nice daughters, so the son is very welcome.—Mrs. Gust Miller. Corr.

—Immanuel Church, Delft, Minnesota: March 9, in the afternoon our church held an ordination service for Miss Jaunita Smith, who is planning to sail for South America to join Brother Herman Friesen in the mission work there, when she finishes school this spring. We were privileged to have Rev. Abram A. Dyck, who is a missionary home on furlough from South America, in our midst for this occasion. Rev. Dyck also gave us an inspiring message during the morning service and showed pictures of the South American mission field in the evening.—Linda Wall, Corr.

—Salem Mennonite Church, Dalton, Ohio: Rev. William Stauffer of Sugar Creek, Ohio, conducted a funeral service at our church while our minister was at Topeka, Indiana. Class 3 of our Sunday School (young folk) has chosen the name of "Willing Workers." Our teacher is Ward Hofstetter, a returned C.P.S. veteran. Our president is Leonard Moser, a jeweler at Orrville, Ohio. At the February social meeting, Rev. Russell Mast of Wadsworth, Ohio, spoke against peacetime conscription. Cards were written to congressmen. Plans are made to invite the Christian Endeavor to the April meeting which will be a box social. The Ladies' Missionary Society is calling an extra meeting this week at the church to do some additional quilting. At our meeting last week, the vice-president, Mrs. Paul Badertcher, took charge of the program. The topic was India. Mrs. A. S. Rosenberger presented a fine illustrated talk on "The Map of India and Our Missionaries." Our president is Mrs. Leonard Moser, who is a school teacher. We are to have a church fellowship supper in March. —Mrs. Ivan Badertscher, Corr.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

The Reader Says:

Editor, The Mennonite:

"From where I sit," as the old liquor advertisement goes, it looks like it's time for the church to smash a telling blow at the liquor traffic. A day on the grand jury brought this strikingly to my attention, that and a staggering increase in my indemnity insurance rate. The explanation for the latter was weak — worn-out cars! That's not the reason! It's liquor! About half of our cases were heavily mixed with drink. The district attorney felt moved to take time out to preach the jury a sermon on the increase of this cause of crime. We had to try to figure who did what on the basis of the evidence presented by a dozen witnesses who had been drinking from 4: P. M. to 3 A. M.

We howl about a housing shortage. Our annual liquor bill is so big each year lately that it would pay for all the new houses needed and replace all the houses unfit for inhabitation or it would completely remodel our school system.

Recently a judge in Chicago said in reference to a nineteen-year-old boy, who had beaten a girl to death with his fists, "If he had not been served with intoxicating liquor at the age of nineteen he would not have been standing before me today. If there had been no tavern open at 4:00 A. M., the girl would have been alive."

In addition to the sins of omission and commission, there are sins of permission. It is in this latter category that much of the evil which good people do lies. It is here that most of us good churchmen sin on liquor.

If you reply that laws will not stop this, then why not start a society for the abolition of laws against murder, or what-have-you? If you say its not the job of the church, you tell us whose job it is.

George S. Stoneback

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — March 25, 1947 — Number 12

And Those Who Followed Were Afraid

"And they were on the road, going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was walking ahead of them; and they were amazed, and those who followed were afraid." Mark 10:32 RSV.

The disciples of Jesus are still afraid of the Cross. The great tragedy of Christendom today is that Christians, as a whole, are not fully enough soldiers of the cross not to be soldiers of the sword. It is the sword that is uplifted at Moscow today rather than Christ on the cross. Christians have not been leaven sufficient to leaven the lump of society to the point where the world is relaxed enough to think of peace instead of war. The Christian Church is not blameless as we today ardently long for the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

The tensions of the nations are but an extension of so much of the tension that is still within the nation, the community, the church, the family, and even the individual. We are not yet very fully united; we are still divided. The cross is still not owned enough by us for us to be free from these conflicts and divisions. Does not cross-bearing seem more unwise to many of us than we care to admit? Who are we in our sinfulness—and sin is the negation of the cross—to insist that we revere the cross so highly, we who fail to understand deeply all of our fellowmen, whereas He said, "They know not what they do"; we who know the anger of hate, whereas He forgave those who crucified Him; we who do not love our neighbor as ourself, whereas He gave his life for those in sin. As far as our adoration of the cross is concerned, are we not tempted to think much more highly of ourselves than we ought to think?

We are in a difficult situation, and it is no wonder that our military men tell us that the world is not good enough yet to cast away the sword and embrace the cross. Christians may have a good deal of appreciation for the Cross, but have they not also within them a great deal that is directly opposed to the Cross? Man has within him a God-given tendency of self-concern, but to the extent that that tendency of self-concern is unredeemed to that extent is a man opposed to the cross.

Can anyone say that this redemption of self-concern is a quick and easy matter? Is all the slag burned out of a Christian so quickly? That it is not is evident from the condition in which the Church and the world find themselves today.

We are told today that we must all learn quickly to live together or we shall all quickly die together. The disciples of today need to make haste in coming to a truer and fuller understanding and appreciation of God's love as revealed on the Cross.

Essential to this growth is: a knowledge of His truth, an experience of gracious fellowship which enables an individual to face himself, a facing of himself and a consequent realization of how much in him is really opposed to the Cross, and then the kind of prayer experience which brings to an individual an enlarged understanding and appreciation of how losing one's life enables one to find it.

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING must be defeated and universal training in peacemaking must be adopted by the American people if we are to have peace. The adoption of universal military training would tend to make us put more and more faith in the power of might to settle international difficulties. General Marshall frankly admitted this, we think, when in speaking of Universal Military Training he said,

"By this method we would establish, for the generations to come, a national military policy . . . which places the military world and therefore the political world on notice that this vast power, linked to our tremendous resources, wealth, and production, is immediately available. There can be no question that all the nations of the world will respect our views accordingly, creating at least a probability of peace on earth and of good will among men. . ."

Are we to believe that armed might rather than understanding, justice, and mercy will win the respect of other nations? Probably many military men would not insist upon this but would suggest that we have so little of the last named that we today must depend upon armed might. Unless the people of America show much more opposition, universal military training may become an actuality. One report says, "Our congressmen report that they are receiving almost no mail against compulsory military training from their constituents." By devoting a large amount of space to it, the press is giving the impression that the people are favorable to such a program. To give the world a chance to consider its ways it is necessary that this measure be defeated. However, its mere defeat will not insure peace. It takes peacemaking for peace. To keep on antagonizing other nations while neglecting to arm ourselves to the n'th degree is dangerous business. Military men seek to be very realistic about the conflicts between nations, and viewing them they naturally think it folly to neglect our armament program. General Marshall put all peacemakers on the spot when at the close of World War II he declared,

"In order to establish an international system for preventing wars, peace-loving peoples of the world are demonstrating an eagerness to send their representatives to such conferences as those at Dumbarton Oaks and San Francisco with the fervent hope that they may find a practical solution (all italics are ours). Yet, until it is proved that such a solution has been found to prevent wars, a rich nation which lays down its arms as we have done after every war in our history, will court distaster. The existence of the complex and fearful instruments of destruction now available make this a simple truth which is, in my opinion, undebatable."

We must not only put away our arms but we must quit provoking others unto wrath. Indeed we must become friends. Is the Christian Church capable of helping nations to become friends? The Church is on the spot as far as a "practical solution" is concerned. It was not necessarily heavy armament which got us into the Second World War; it was rather the lack of a "practical solution." That solution needs to be made so clear and so widely accepted that there can no longer be a case for military might. This means a change in our national spirit. It means conversion. This is the positive action which must supplement the negative action of opposition to universal military training. The Historic Peace Churches are showing much positive action in their relief programs. Perhaps, they ought to do more to help make clear the way of peacemaking as far as economic and political policies are concerned.

MISSION PROGRAMS seem to touch more and more on such fields as cooperatives, health, agriculture, and arts and crafts. The President of Princeton Seminary who has just returned from an air tour of several South American countries, has voiced a plea for an "integrated mission program in a Christian environment which would combine evangelism with training in agriculture, hygiene, and arts and crafts." Others have a similar emphasis.

STUMBLING BLOCKS can frequently be changed into stepping-stones.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

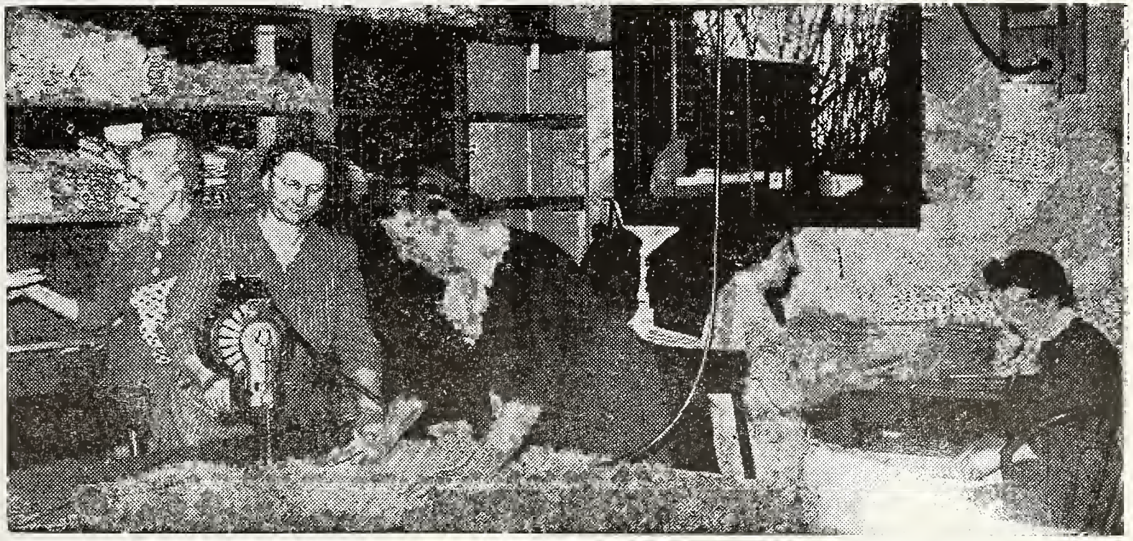
Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

OHIO CUTTING ROOM over 50,000 Mark

Women of four Mennonite churches in the Bluffton area were busy in the Ohio Cutting Room when these pictures were taken. Shown from left to right in the photos are: Picture below—Miss Bertha Diller, Mrs. Dan Bucher, Mrs. Oscar Lora, Mrs. Homer Reichenbach and Mrs. Chris Locher; upper view—Mrs. Monroe Geiger, Mrs. Willard Moser, Mrs. J. S. Shultz (standing), Mrs. Sam Locher, Mrs. Watson Steiner and Mrs. U. S. Amstutz.



BLUFFTON, Feb. 22—Because of an exceptionally unusual enterprise being conducted by the women of four Mennonite churches in the Bluffton area, many residents of war devastated countries are more comfortable this winter.

Three women from each of the Ebenezer and First churches of Bluffton and the Grace and St. John's Mennonite churches of Pandora meet regularly in Science hall of Bluffton Mennonite college to cut out and sew together garments.

Known as the Ohio Cutting Room, this enterprise is one of three in the United States. The others are located in Gordonville, Pa., and Kalona, Ia.

This is a non-profit organization which obtained its original financial support from the Mennonite Emergency Relief Commission in the form of a $500 loan. The $500 has been turned over 36 times for a total expenditure of about $18,000.

Women's societies of Mennonite congregations throughout the United States order the garments at cost price and forward them to MCC clothing depot.

Mrs. J. S. Shultz, Bluffton, is supervisor of the cutting room staff which donates its labor. The group has sent out over 50,000 garments since its organization in 1943.—(Reprinted from the Lima News by permission. Cuts courtesy Lima News) leave the city to be at home or visit friends and other places during that time.

SEMINARY NEWS

(Continued from page 8)

Work is underway to remodel the property recently purchased for use as living quarters. This building, a former private home, is situated next to the main building of the Seminary. When the remodeling is complete, the home will provide room for five families. This will relieve crowded conditions considerably.

M.C.C. VOLUNTARY SERVICE

The 1947 Voluntary Service folder will be available about March 15. It presents specific opportunities for this summer, this winter and one year volunteers. Ministers may wish to request a number for their congregation, or individuals may receive them by writing to Voluntary Services, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania.

Ten Possible Ways of Observing the Week of Witness — by the Evangelism Committee

Next week is Passion Week, when many Christian people will seek to bring others to Christ by a word of testimony. Jesus died for all the world. The doctrine of overcoming evil for all the world, and unless the world accepts this way of Christ destruction will come. In the following ways efforts can be made to win people to Christ.

1. Have a heart to heart talk with some member of your family that may be lukewarm or not a Christian at all.
2. Give a personal invitation to a non-Christian to attend church services and make special efforts to make him feel at home in church.
3. Write a letter this week to someone you cannot reach otherwise, giving definite testimony to Christ and expressing what Christ means to you. Be sure the letter is written in love.
4. Pass on pieces of literature that you have read and found a blessing. Tell the recipient what it means to you. This may include books, tracts and magazine articles or whatever you have found a spiritual help in your own experience.
5. Give a public testimony if you have opportunity. If your church does not provide this opportunity, ask your pastor to make provision in some way. You may have an answer to prayer to relate, a decision to obey Christ to make known, a verse of Scripture to share that has meant a great deal to you, or God's guidance to tell about.
6. Visit a sick person or someone who is old or otherwise lonely. Even young people will find that older people will appreciate their visit.
7. Pray for strength to give a "No" witness this week. For example:

   "No, thank you, I do not go to dances."

   "No, thank you, I would not like to be in a theater when Christ comes."
8. Go out of your way this week to do something as a specific expression of your love for someone who may feel that he has lost the respect of the community.
9. Encourage some weak Christian brother or sister to follow the Lord more faithfully. Evangelism includes winning people to the full Christian life. Appeal for a decision all along the line of Christian living.
10. Make a prayer list of ten non-Christian people of your acquaintance for future use.

Ratzlaff Report Tells of Many Baptisms

(The following report to Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board was written on November 18, 1946, from Jagdeeshpur, via Raipur, C. P., India, by Missionary Harold Ratzlaff. The report covers the second and third quarters of 1946.)

Throughout April, May, June and most of July the evangelistic work went on in a routine which it more or less set for itself. It was simply that of answering call after call to come and baptize. The Spirit of God simply went ahead preparing, and it was all we could do to manage to get around to the various calls which came. In many cases considerable time elapsed before we could get to the place from which the calls came. They simply came too close together, so we had to take them "first come first served." And thus it is that from the beginning of this year up to the present, the number of souls which have been baptized or which have been received into fellowship has exceeded all previous records of this area. (About seven hundred).

This great influx of souls involves much more than just going and answering the calls "to come and baptize." That, of course, is the initial step by which they actually come into the church. From that time on they must be shepherded and that is where we have run into the greater difficulty. Finding people who are willing and fit to live with these "new babes in Christ" has been very very difficult. Consequently many of our faithful and standing workers have had to assume twice and even three times as much responsibility as they were heretofore carrying. We praise God for the way in which these people have responded to the challenge. And we further praise and thank God for the new workers we have been able to get. Still further we praise and thank God for the other workers who have expressed their willingness to come and help us and with whom we are now in contact, with the view of getting them here. But even so we still cry to God and we still plead with all our people here and at home to pray with us to the God of the harvest to send forth more labourers into His harvest, for the calls for baptism still continue, and as we answer these calls one by one, the need for more workers grows and grows. So even while we continue to need and ask for more and more funds, yet our greatest need is your prayerful intercession. So, please urge our people to uphold us before the Throne of Grace that we may be equal to the task to which He has set us and that we might be found faithful in the doing of it.

The Annual Bible Course was taught here in Jagdeeshpur from July 29 until the end of August. Mr. Thiessen taught the Gospel of John, Miss Nickel taught the book of Exodus, and I taught a course in early Mennonite history in which I made an effort to get some of the good, time-tested, Mennonite principles before the minds and into the thinking of our dear fellow Christians here. From testimonies and also from other forms of evidence we now know that God blessed this annual Bible Course greatly, and we are glad for it.

On the last day of August and the first two days of September our semi-annual session of the Sammelan was held here in Jagdeeshpur. This Sammelan is comparable to a district conference, for we are one district in the area of the Hindustani Conference, which is the Conference of our entire mission area in India. Our beloved Rev. Isaac was to be the special speaker at these sessions, but he fell sick just a few days before it was time to come here. Consequently, two Indian Brethren from Champa came and served us with the Word of God in his place and they did worthily. God really spoke to us through these two brethren, and we thank Him for bringing such worthy substitutes when brother Isaac could not come.

Immediately after Sammelan I put things in order so that they should go on in my absence and then I proceeded to Landour where I joined my wife and daughter. Of our experience up there I will not write, for you already know of our loss of a little baby boy at that time. By God's miraculous grace Mrs. Ratzlaff was restored to Mary Ann and myself, and we were able to come back in time to attend our annual missionary conference in Champa from October 14 to 18.

Of the work as it goes at present I will try to report at the end of the quarter. So allow me to close by saying that Mrs. Ratzlaff is improving in every way these days, and we believe that in time she will again be able to take up full time duty. Allow me also to take this opportunity to sincerely thank you for the loving letter of sympathy which you sent us on September 26. It is good and also a great help and encouragement to know that you folks at home are with and back of us in all of our experiences here, be they experiences of joy or sorrow. Indeed it is true that "Blessed is the fellowship of His people."

With Christian greetings in the words of Paul in Romans 8:37, "In all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us," I am, Yours in His Service, Harold Ratzlaff.

Looking Back over Twenty-five Years

by John and Elizabeth Thiessen

To-morrow, December 31 it will be twenty-five years since we arrived the first time in Champa, India. We are now looking back over those twenty-five years with gratitude and humiliation. With gratitude to our heavenly Father for sustaining us, but still more for using us, faulty and weak as we are. We look back with humiliation when we see the many mistakes we have made. It seems as though we have just blundered along so very often, and yet our heavenly Father has used us. When we think of the many young people who in this quarter of a century have found their Lord and Saviour—though we humbly confess that we perhaps have not contributed so much to their new birth, because certainly other influences than we have worked on their souls—and when we think of the hundreds who have come into the church of Christ with some help of ours, one cannot help but be deeply grateful. Also during these years of frequent severe trials God gave us five children in our own home, all born in India, and all healthy today, and three of them now being in the years during which life decisions are usually made, and all three are preparing to serve our Lord and Saviour in His kingdom. This too makes us deeply grateful.

But there have also been disappointments and shadows. To put up with the wear and tear of the Orient, where is no demarkation between truth and untruth, where Christ has not yet received a chance to influence people, where expediency is the guiding star, where darkness is usually loved more than light, all this and more, has worn on us, and there have been times when the temptation to become a bit cynical has been very great. But thanks to the love of Christ, which, in the first place more than twenty-five years ago, constrained us to go to India, such temptations have always been conquered, and the love for fellowmen has prevailed. We have had fine fellowship with many brothers and sisters in the faith in India; these many Indian friends of ours will never be forgotten as long as our hearts pulsate in this tabernacle.

And now we realize that after all we have passed the meridian of life, though we feel that the sun is still shining high and bright. Yet the facts are that it has become the afternoon of life, and before long the shadows will lengthen. But we have very good reasons to look forward to a bright eventide, and eventually, who knows how soon, a glorious sunset.

Yet a word of appreciation to our many churches and individual relatives and friends, and the members of our Mission Board for backing us these twenty-five years with prayers and support. May our heavenly Father reward you all. —Gratefully Yours, John and Elizabeth Thiessen, Jadeesphur, India, December 30, 1946.

When Does Seed Sprout?

John Thiessen

This question came to me with vigour last Sunday (December 22, 1946). I was called to the village Boerdi to baptize a number of people. All of a sudden I recognized among the baptism candidates, Bhikari and Rajaram. They were in our Mauhadih boarding home twenty years ago. Years ago I heard that those boys had become as "lost sons," and I had lost track of them. Here, all of a sudden they came before me, confessing Christ. Their big smiles and joy when they saw that I recognized them, I will never forget. The seed sown in their hearts twenty years ago had sprouted and grown, and they now came home to the Father heart of God.

Down in the human heart, crushed by the tempter,
Feelings lie buried that grace can restore,
Touched by a loving hand, wakened by kindness,
Chords that were broken will vibrate once more.

MENNONITE REFUGEE SERVICE

"Hitherto hath the Lord Helped"

"The following vivid account of the arrival of the "Volendam" at Buenos Aires has been taken from a recent letter written by Gerhard Warkentin, Director of the MCC work in Paraguay.

"The great moment came on the 21st of February at 5:30 p.m., when we got a glimpse of the approaching ship, filled with people—our brethren from Europe—the people we were waiting for so long. The boat anchored. Here we stood before the ship beholding practically the entire group. We began to talk to them and they answered, and we began a conversation. In about one-half hour we were permitted to board the ship. Here we stood before them and as friends and other acquaintances soon approached us, the conversation began. These were exciting moments—moments which will not be forgotten soon.

"A great crowd of young people sang songs of praise and thanks. The whole group has five organized choirs with a director for every choir. Brother Dyck made a practical, timely and hearty welcome to us as representatives of the MCC here in Buenos Aires. Then Brother DeFehr welcomed them with a greeting in behalf of the executive committee in Akron, and in behalf of the churches in Canada and U.S.A. The dear people thanked with tears and joy for the greetings and the help they are receiving from the MCC. Then I called their attention to put up a stone and write on it: "Hitherto hath the Lord Helped'. He who helped in the past, does help in the present wonderfully and surely will help also in the future. I assured them that the brethren and sisters in Fernheim, Menno and Friesland have an open heart and have opened their homes for them. With thanks moved with tears, the meeting was closed by Brother Dyck who called their attention to the fact that they should do all they could to please the Argentine government which has graciously met us in our needs and has provided tents, a great dining room, and a big kitchen for us.

"Sunday morning the ship 'Concepcion' came alongside the 'Volendam' and 294 of the passengers were transferred, and at 12:30 left for Fernheim in Paraguay. Monday early in the morning the unloading of baggage began, and in the afternoon all the passengers left the ship in great order and walked about three blocks away to the place where the tents are. Supper was prepared and served in the great dining room. In three different shifts the whole group was fed and with a song of thanks in their hearts they all spent the first night in the tents in Argentina."

MENNONITE REFUGEE MIGRATION

The movement of some of the Mennonite refugees from Buenos Aires to Paraguay has been temporarily delayed, according to recent word from Brethren Gerhard Warkentin and C. A. DeFehr. The reason for this seems to be the political uprising and unrest which is at present taking place in Paraguay. About 1,200 of the refugees have by this time reached the locations of the Mennonite colonies, while the remaining 1,100 of the group are still being cared for in Buenos Aires.

RELIEF

Clothing for Relief

A total of 134,676 pounds of clothing have been received during the first quarter of 1947, at the five MCC Clothing Centers (Ephrata, Pennsylvania; Newton, Kansas; Reedley, California; Kitchener, Ontario; and Winnipeg, Manitoba). This is slightly lower than the total for the corresponding period last year, when 139,687 pounds were contributed.

Reports from the Ephrata and Newton Centers reveal a special need for baby clothes and for clothing for boys eight to fourteen years old. Shoes and overshoes are also items that are urgently needed.

Overseas School Bag Project Response Good

To date about 2,100 Overseas School Bags have been processed at the Akron, Pennsylvania center, with several thousand more in the warehouse ready for such processing. The prompt and hearty response in this Children's Relief Project is very encouraging.

Relief Commissioner to Visit Europe

Brother J. N. Byler, Director of the MCC Relief Program, arrived in Amsterdam, Holland on March 12, to begin his six-week visit of the MCC relief units in the various European countries. His itinerary will include Switzerland, Germany, Austria, Poland, Italy, France, Belgium, and Holland. His observations of needs and conditions in these countries will serve as a basis for planning the relief program for the coming months.

Poland Tractor Unit Increases

Ten additional men left New York on March 14, bound for Poland where they will serve in the MCC Poland Tractor Unit. This group includes the following: Henry E. Wiebe, Aberdeen, Idaho; Arthur H. Friesen, Hillsboro, Kansas; Arthur H. Augsburger, Middlebury, Indiana; Paul H. Horst, Lincoln Park, Pennsylvania; Francis A. Baker, Westover, Maryland; Lloyd E. Schlabach, Farmington, Delaware; Abner J. Zook, Larned, Kansas; Arthur Graybill, Lancaster, Pennsylvania; Paul Miller, Riverside, Iowa; and Albert Duerksen, Hillsboro, Kansas. This brings the total of men in this Tractor Unit to 21.

IF 164 Churches Could* Speak

They CAN—and Did! See "Report of Money Received During the Last Half of 1946," as given in THE MENNONITE, March 11, 1947, pages 6-10. Out of a total of 164 churches, 27 churches sent in gifts specially marked, "For Publications of the Conference," and 137 churches did not. Is the following imaginary conversation a FAIR interpretation of the feeling of these two groups, do you think? (Read paragraphs below alternately, left and right.)

137 Churches said:	27 Churches said:
"Why should our churches give money for Conference Publications?" (They quoted Galatians 6:5: "Let each man bear his own burden.")	"Why should our church give money to Conference Publications?" (They quoted Galatians 6:2: "But bear ye one another's burdens and so fullfil the law of Christ.")
"We pay for our church subscriptions and our Sunday school supplies regularly. What more is needed?"	"We should contribute beyond the bare costs of our Sunday School supplies and church papers, in order that the Board of Publications can put out ever better Sunday school and church helps."
"We paid our subscription price for our papers, either individually or on the HUNDRED PER CENT PLAN. The subscription prices should be high enough to cover all costs."	"Our church papers and Sunday school supplies are NOT for subscribers only. The rising costs of printing should be SHARED by ALL the churches, and not placed as a burden upon the subscribers alone. Our Conference Publications are worth far more than the subscription price."
"We are not concerned about the rising costs of printing. Let the publishers reduce the size of their papers. If 27 churches are willing to carry the ENTIRE burden of Conference Publications, let them carry it."	"It is better to SHARE the costs of printing, just like we share the rising costs of transportation when we send our missionaries and relief workers across to foreign lands."
"It costs too much to subscribe to our church papers at $1.75 a year. We prefer magazines at $4.50, even $5.00 a year which are NOT put out by the Conference.	"We pay for good Christian publications whether we subscribe or not. If we don't support publications generously, our whole church—and community life suffers spiritual breakdown—that's a still-higher price to pay."
"Other magazines — worldly magazines — make money. Why don't our Church papers?"	"That's an easy question. They DO make a profit—for US, in finer Christian thinking, in satisfying the deeper spiritual hunger of our souls—both individually and collectively. Non-profit magazines like THE MENNONITE, DER BUNDESBOTE, and THE JUNIOR MAGAZINE profit the entire family."
"We give to missions and relief."	"And you should—so do we! But we give regularly, as a church, to Conference Publications, because that makes for better missions, better schools, better relief—better EVERYTHING that the Conference attempts to do."
(This group didn't have much more to say.)	(This group had a lot more to say, besides.)

Your General Conference Board of Publications' Budget is approximately 2 per cent of the total amount to be raised for all purposes by our Conference. We suggest two approaches for each church, for your consideration: FOR THE CHURCH: One Sunday set aside for full, thoroughgoing discussion of the function of the printed word—The Bible, first book ever to have been printed, publications in general, with special emphasis on which work WITH the church, and which do not: using full displays, and special reports on our Conference Publications and their service to the Church. FOR THE SUNDAY SCHOOL: One Sunday-morning offering on the last Sunday in each quarter specially for our Conference Publications. That's fitting, because the publications are the TOOL for finer Christian Education in your Church.

College and Seminary News

BETHEL COLLEGE

The passing of Dr. A. J. Regier, professor of education at Bethel College for twenty years, leaves the campus shocked and saddened. Since his graduation from Bethel in 1912, he devoted his life to the cause of Christian education, serving in various capacities in three Mennonite schools. During these closing years of his life at Bethel he was Director of Teacher Training and organized the local Christopher Dock chapter of the Future Teachers, an affiliate of the National and State Educational Associations; he was director of the Teacher Placement Bureau, serving as state chairman for the past four years; he was chairman of the college division of Applied Arts and Sciences, as well as head of the Testing Program and of the Faculty Welfare Committee; and for a number of years he was Director of the Summer School and the leader in summer community activities It is with a great sense of loss and a profound appreciation for his varied contributions to the school and church life of this community that his co-workers take up the burdens he has had to lay lown.

One of the anticipated high points of each school year is the annual Bethel College Bible Week, which was held last week with the usual good attendance, very fine messages and spiritual refreshment. Dr. Frederick K. Stamm, noted writer, radio minister, and pastor of the large First Congregational Church in Chicago, and Dr. Floyd E. Mallott, missionary to Africa and professor of Old Testament History at Bethany Biblical Seminary in Chicago, had been secured as lecturers and spoke twice daily in Memorial Hall.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

The work of the spring quarter began March 10. Among new courses offered are: a Survey of Mennonite History, Mental Hygiene, Dramatics, and Nature Study. The Normal Training students are doing their practice teaching this term. They do their teaching under the supervision of the local public school teachers and of the Diamond Valley rural school. Jacob Friesen, Rein Mestag, and Vernon Duerksen have been sick for several days. Chapel speakers this week were Rev. S. T. Moyer and Rev. Jacob B. Hofer. A religious film, "Door to Heaven," was shown at the Monday meeting of the Christian Youth Volunteers. Rein Mestag spoke on Holland at a meeting of the Associated Country Women of the World on the campus of State College at Brookings, South Dakota. Rev. S. T. Moyer is to be in the Henderson and Madrid, Nebraska, communities for some time in the interest of our school. We were sorry to hear of the death of Dr. A. J. Regier. Dr. Regier served as President of Freeman Junior College from 1918 to 1926.

MENNONITE SEMINARY NOTES

Two missionary families stopped at the Seminary while en route to their field of service in China and India. Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Brown stopped a few hours. The Lubin Janzen family spent March 14-17, Thursday to Monday with the Albert Janzen family. They were en route to New York where they are embarking for Bombay, India, by way of the Mediterranean. At the regular Thursday evening fellowship meeting, the students and faculty extended to the departing family their prayers for a profitable and successful trip and work in India.

The new quarter began at the Seminary on March 11 with Rev. Erland Waltner of the Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota, teaching. During Holy Week, there will be no classes. Some students will

(Continued on page 3.)

MUTUAL AID BOARD TO SERVE AS CONFERENCE CLEARING HOUSE

The Board of Mutual Aid at its annual meeting on February 12, took action which will be of interest to many members of our Conference. In outlining its program for the future, it believed it was acting in accordance with the will of the Conference when it created the Board. The following motion was passed:

That the secretary be instructed to publish a statement in the church papers and otherwise let it be known that the Board of Mutual Aid would henceforth try to serve as a clearing house for the following purposes, namely, that the Board would use its central office at North Newton as a place where first, those individual members who desire jobs, those who want to rent farms, those who want to buy farms, and those who are looking for business opportunities, may make their wants known. Second, those who have job openings to offer, farms to rent, farms to sell, or who know of business opportunities, might list them at the Board of Mutual Aid office. The chief purpose of this service is to render mutual aid to members of the Conference for the purpose of strengthening Christian congregations and communities.

It is intended to help Mennonite people find employment and farming or business locations in Mennonite communities and for those Mennonite employers and farm owners, who desire employees or tenants from their own faith, to establish contact with such individuals. It should be clear that the Executive Secretary of the Board cannot investigate the merits and demerits of every situation listed. It will merely serve to get individuals into contact with each other when they have a common interest. The Board considers this to be a part of the service of Christian mutual aid. Individuals interested may express their preferences and needs within these defined limits by writing to J. W. Fretz, Executive Secretary, Board of Mutual Aid, North Newton, Kansas.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

What Goshen Would Be Like in Central Germany

This Dec. 16 in Berlin is cold—bitterly cold. Life is on a primitive level. The desolation is oppressive and inescapable; and even the leaden skies add to the melancholy mood.

Repeatedly one searches himself—Do you know—do you really feel the aching need of one who lives in this depressing land? No, I am as one set apart. I cannot know, I cannot feel that need. And then I try to visualize what it might be to live in a town such as Goshen, Indiana, my home town, if Goshen were to have suffered the fate of a German city. This is an imaginary glimpse of Goshen in the winter of 1946-47, just two years after "the bombings":

Goshen's fate is not unlike the fate of neighboring cities. In 1944 and early 1945 other cities were bombed—Elkhart, Ft. Wayne, South Bend, Chicago. Less than twenty per cent of the buildings of South Bend now remain standing. Only the smaller towns escaped the rain of death and fire—Middlebury, Topeka, Nappanee. In Goshen forty per cent of the city is totally destroyed—a mass of splinters, charred ruins, dusty rubble. An added thirty-five per cent of the buildings suffered very serious but not total damage.

Goshen High School is a mass of crumbled brick and plaster, as are the near-by industrial plants. The public library is gone. The business district south of the courthouse was almost completely leveled. One can climb on the highest mounds of debris and survey a bleak landscape for blocks around—the only thing comparable out of one's experience being the appearance of a city dump. With the aid of bull-dozers, paths have been cleared through where there had once been city streets. Eight of the town's churches have been completely bombed out—in most cases only a few naked walls standing. On the Goshen College campus only the men's dormitory and the science hall remain. The college struggles along in the two surviving buildings.

Our home on Seventh Street was only partially damaged. A bomb fragment tore a corner out of a second-story room. As in other residences in Goshen, most of the windows were broken during the bombardment. The windows on our house are boarded up with plywood and scraps of sheet metal, with tiny glass inserts to let in a bit of light. Glass is very scarce—one large pane of window glass costing more than a hundred dollars on the black market. The maple trees in our front yard were cut down last winter for fuel. During the summer both our front and rear lawns were converted into vegetable gardens. There was a good yield of turnips but the potatoes did not do so well.

There are thirteen living in our house now. With the influx of refugees, we have had to share our rooms. A mother, a grandmother, and a two-year-old child live in the front room which had been father's study. They installed a small, improvised stove with the stovepipe sticking out the window. A family of five have the upstairs rooms. Light bulbs are almost unobtainable. In the entire house are only seven bulbs. We have no coal. Mother makes a trip once a week with a coaster wagon to the country to load the little wagon full of sticks for heating our rooms. Father has too much pride to pick up cigarette butts from the streets, but most men and almost all of the children in town feel no shame in scouring the streets for cigarette butts. We have a car but no gasoline; so the car is jacked up on blocks in the garage. Mother has the hardest life of all. She is always hunting food. Sometimes she must stand as long as four hours at the local A & P store to get the month's ration of a half a pound of butter.

Our Eighth Street Mennonite Church was one of the eight churches in town which was leveled. Our congregation holds weekly services on Saturday afternoon in the basement of the Evangelical-Congregational Church. Attendance has fallen off in our congregation. So many were lost during the bombing. It is almost impossible for the country members to walk to town for service.

Ours is a grim life, but many there are whose life is sheer tragedy. The world always seems to have a dreary, gray cast to it. We are always hungry. The search for food seems to be the consuming activity of our daily existence, the major topic of conversation. Then, too, we are never warm. There is always the cold—the miserable, penetrating cold. Sometimes I wonder whether we should not try to escape from it all because the future looks so dismally dark. Often we talk of migrating to South America and starting anew. But father feels we should stay because, as he says, "We are called to serve here in this hour."

If Goshen had been a Hanau, or a Kassel, or a Heilbronn or a Pforzheim, this might have been Goshen in 1947.—The Christian Evangel

The Y.P.U. Constitution

The triennium meeting of the Young People's Union is to be held again this summer at the General Conference scheduled to be held in Berne, Indiana, August 17-28. Since these business meetings at which each local young peoples group can send delegates are so far apart, they are of great importance. In order to make the Young Peoples Union a vital force in the life of the church and of effective service, these meetings must accomplish much to make the young people feel themselves a part of a larger fellowship in the church and Christ.

In order to make the Young Peoples Union a better understood organization, the Constitution of the organization is printed for the study of the young people. Representatives to the Y.P.U. meeting in August will better appreciate the organization and understand it by studying its constitution.

CONSTITUTION OF THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA

(Adopted by the Union Session August 21. 1941, Souderton, Pa.)

ARTICLE I Name and Purpose

Section I Name: This organization shall be known as the Young People's Union of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America.

Section II Puropse: The purpose of this Union shall be to realize "A United Mennonite Youth in Christ":

a) by encouraging young people to accept Christ;
b) by a deepening of the spiritual life of young people;
c) by organizing for more effective work;
d) by bringing various young people's groups into a closer relationship with each other through: conference sessions, Y. P. conventions, retreats, publication, correspondence, united work and study projects; etc.
e) by fostering in the hearts and minds of Mennonite Youth an interest in the historic contributions of the Mennonite Church to the Cause of Christ, and to insure the continuous growth of His Church.

ARTICLE II Relation to the Conference

This union is an auxiliary of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America.

ARTICLE III Membership and Representation

Section I Membership: Any Mennonite young people's society that is a member of a district convention or conference automatically becomes a member of the Union and any other Mennonite Young People's Society in harmony with the aims and purpose of this Union is eligible for membership.

Section II Representation: Each society is entitled to one vote at the business meetings for every thirty members or fraction thereof and should therefore make every effort to be represented by a delegate or proxy. No person shall cast more than ten proxy votes.

ARTICLE IV Administration

Section I Union Board

Paragraph (1) This board shall be composed of: A President, a Vice President, a Secretary-Treasurer, the Councillor from the Board of Education and a representative from each district.

Paragraph (2) The executive committee of this board shall consist of: the president, vice president and secretary-treasurer.

Paragraph (3) The business of the Union between sessions shall be carried on by the executive committee.

Sections II Elections

Paragraph (1) Elections are to be by ballot.

Paragraph (2) The President and vice President shall be elected at the Union Business meeting for a term of six years,their terms to expire alternately. The secretary-treasurer shall be elected at the Union business meeting for a term of three years. The president and vice president shall not hold same office for more than one term. The secretary-treasurer shall eligible for reelection.

Section III Officers and their Duties

Paragraph (1) The president shall preside at Union business meetings and see that all resolutions are carried out. He shall have authority to appoint temporary committees.

Paragraph (2) The vice president shall assume the duties of the president in the absence of the president.

Paragraph (3) The secretary-treasurer shall (a) keep the minutes and conduct the correspondence of the Union; (b) receive and book all contributions as designated; (c) make disbursements only on written order of the president; (d) submit books for audit at the end of each triennium.

Section IV District Representatives

Paragraph (1) One representative from each of the conference districts shall be elected or appointed by the district organization for a term of three years in the year when the General Conference convenes.

Paragraph (2) Each district representative shall promote the program of the Union in his own district. He shall submit an annual report of work done to the president.

ARTICLE V Meetings

Section I The business meeting shall be held once every three years in connection with the session of the General Conference. A program of the meeting to be published in advance.

Section II All young people or young people's workers in attendance shall have the privilege of discussion.

ARTICLE VI Miscellaneous

Section I Vacancies The executive committee shall appoint persons to fill vacancies until the next regular meeting.

Section II Rules of Order On all points not covered by this constitution, Robert's Rules of Order shall be authority.

ARTICLE VII Amendments

Section I The constitution of this Union may be amended at any regular meeting by a two-thirds vote.

Section II Proposed changes must be submitted in writing to the Union Board at least three months before the business sessions in order that the changes may be published with the Conference Program.

Openings for Relief Service in Puerto Rico

During the war years as the Civilian Public Service program was expanding, there existed a constant search for more significant service projects. The availability of men with special qualifications and skills, and the service motivation of consecrated Christians, were powerful factors in seeking out areas of special need.

Among other projects which were found to be more directly related to the needs and suffering of humanity was the Puerto Rico program. Poverty and disease were found revaging the land. Centuries of economic exploitation left people poor and finanically impaired. Lack of good agricutural practices contributed to the undernourishment of the people. Sanitariums were provided for only a fraction of the tubercular, and a lack of sanitary facilities was responsible for a high incidence of hookworm.

Even now, that CPS personnel has diminished very considerably and the majority of the folks are serving on a relief worker's basis, the challenge continues and the job to be done is as big as ever. Many who have served in Puerto Rico have found it difficult to remove bodily, and impossible to remove themselves spiritually and mentally from the scenes of this service.

Although much of the efforts of the Mennonite and other Christian bodies has been directed into war sufferers' relief, Puerto Rico has continually pointed consecrated workers towards an open door to Christian service. There is a great need at present for personnel to continue the functions which we feel have been planned according to the will of God. A recent outline lists as needed a doctor, several nurses, several male hospital attendants, mechanic, several agricultural men, ground caretaker, educational assistant to work in the school and center, laboratory technician, and several cooks.

Puerto Rico offers a splendid opportunity for those who have 18 months in which to serve in a relief area. If you are interested in additional information you may write Relief Section, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania.

Released via Mennonite Central Committee
January 17, 1947

A Delegate under Thirty from Every Church at Berne

At the General Conference to be held at Berne, Indiana, August 17-27, the Young Peoples Union will hold its business meeting. In order to make the meeting of the Y.P.U. truly vital, the Y.P.U. Council in its February meeting favored the plan of urging each young peoples organization to send a delegate under thirty years of age to the Conference. Not only would this be an excellent experience for the delegate to become acquainted with the Young Peoples Union and its program, but it would be an excellent opportunity to become acquainted with the General Conference and its work. It would be an opportunity for the training of the future leadership of the church.

May each local congregation and young peoples group give this suggestion their prayerful consideration.

Items of Interest

A school girl in Florida, Betty Ann Bebile, wrote to the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce that she would like to write to some Japanese school children. Before long she received 235 letters from Japan written in schoolroom English!

* * * *

A cooperative endeavor has been undertaken to establish an interdenominational Christian university in Japan. Joseph C. Grew, former U. S. ambassador to Japan, heads the committee which is working on the project.

* * * *

The War Relocation Authority in its final report to the government, severely criticized the evacuation of Japanese from the West Coast saying that the action taken was overdone and unwarranted. Lt. Gen. DeWitt, responsible for recommending the evacuation, was charged with being "by no means free of racial feelings." Legislation was recommended to consider claims for property losses, to grant citizenship to Japanese living in this country, and that local groups should aid the Japanese to readjust themselves.

* * * *

The construction of a ten-story addition to Bethel House, the national headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses at Columbia Heights, Brooklyn will begin soon. Made necessary by the growth in membership and world-wide activities, this addition will house executive offices, radio station WBBR, dormitories, an auditorium, dinning room and hospital facilities.—Gospel Messenger

* * * *

A total of thirteen thousand churches in the Southern Baptist convention are planning building projects estimated to cost $250,000,000 as soon as building materials are available.

* * * *

Two crises — one physical, the other moral — have made Europe one of the great missionary areas of the world today, Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert said at the annual meeting of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America held at Buck Hill Falls, Pa.

* * * *

The placement of missionaries over the world according to a recent survey of the Foreign Missions Fellowship shows that there are fifty-six missionaries per million people in Africa; Mexico, Central America, and the West Indies, thirty per million; India fourteen per million; China, thirteen per million; French Indo-China, two per million; and in comparison the United States has 1,945 ministers per million people.

* * * *

"World, an International Newspaper" appeared on March 1, 1947, as Volume I, No. 1. This paper reflects the idea that the world is a community even though one that is quarreling and disputing. As the local newspaper tells of events in the local community, this paper tells of events in the world community. There is no "foreign" news in its pages. Whether it be from China, Russia, Germany or Africa, it is news and is not treated with a "foreign" slant. World is published at 1236 Eleventh St., N. W. Washington 1, D. C. by William Penn Associates, Inc. James Stanley, one of the editors, is a former C.P.S. man and editor of "The Reporter" with which all C.P.S. men were well acquainted.

* * * *

Today the postage stamp is so much taken for granted that we hardly think that there was a day when there was no postage stamp. Our adhesive stamp made its appearance first in Great Britain in May, 1840. Prior to that time, it was the custom that the recipient of the letter payed the postage rather than the sender of the letter as is done now. The adhesive stamp was nothing more than a receipt indicating that the postage had been paid!

* * * *

The pictorial magazine idea has entered Mennonite circles with the publication of the quarterly magazine, Mennonite Life, a new issue of which appeared this month. In the (Old) Mennonite Church, a new magazine appeared this month called The Mennonite Community. This magazine, appearing bi-monthly, will give emphasis to pictorial material.

One township in Marshall County, Kansas, has had no arrests and no court procedures within the township for more than thirty years. All residents in this township belong to the Lutheran church. There are two Lutheran schools and no public schools.

* * * *

The S. S. Marine Lynx, a navy troop ship, has been chartered by the Foreign Missions Conference to carry missionaries and service workers across the Pacific to China and the Philippines. The first trip it carried four hundred, the second trip took six hundred seventy, and the third trip takes three hundred across the waters. Where during the war the Marine Lynx carried troops armed with guns across the waters, its role has been changed to carrying men, women and children armed with the message of good will, salvation and life.

Projects selected and supported by the individual societies in the Eastern District are the following:

Allentown — Wedding gift for Rev. and Mrs. Lubin W. Jantzen (Missionaries).
Bally — Four Good Will Christmas Bundles to the MCC.
Bethany — Good Will Christmas Bundles to the MCC.
Deep Run — Good Will Christmas Bundles to MCC.
East Swamp — Distributed Bibles to Negro migrants.
Flatland — Utensils for foreign relief.
Lansdale — Good will Christmas Bundles for MCC. MCC.
Perkasie — Contribution toward relief.
Saucon — Distributed tracts at farm show.
Souderton — Six Good Will Christmas Bundles to MCC.
Springfield — Six Good Will Christmas Bundles to MCC.
West Swamp — $65.00 for Relief.
Zionsville — Heifer for Relief.

The Fall Rally offering of $45.26 was given to the Mission Education Fund of the Young People's Union.

— C. E. Witness

A woman came to an Ozark town looking for a "Hillbilly." At last she pointed out a dirty bewhiskered man after a long and disappointing afternoon of watching a crowd of average-looking farmers at their Saturday buying. "There now!" she exclaimed to her hostess. "Isn't he typical?" —Everett and Olga Webber, "In Them Hills", Holiday, 9-'46.

Every effort should be made for an over-all union of Presbyterian and Reformed bodies. The statesman of the Church should be working on such a plan and the General Assembly should give it careful consideration. We talk about and long for "one world," and yet churches with no doctrinal differences remain apart. —The Presbyterian

IN MEMORIAM

Harvey H. Baum, son of William and Maria (nee Hunsicker) Baum was born November 2, 1869, in Bedminster Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. Early in life he attended West Chester State Normal School and for several terms was a teacher in the Bedminster Township Schools. On November 15, 1890, he married Mary Shaddinger and on May 23, 1896, both of them were baptized upon confession of faith by Elder Allen M. Fretz of the Deep Run Congregation, of which congregation he was always a faithful member and for many years a Trustee. The deceased until several years ago owned and operated a large and well-kept farm in Hilltown Township, being one of the outstanding potato growers of the country. He was also a commission merchant in Philadelphia for over fifty years. He was a Christian of keen judgment and conviction, highly respected in the community. Ill for five years and bedfast for one year, he fell asleep March 3, 1947, age seventy-seven years. His wife preceeded him in death, March 11, 1944. One sister, seven children, seventeen grandchildren and ten great grandchildren remain. The funeral and burial were at Deep Run, March 7. J. H. Fretz preached; text Hebrews 4:9.

Jottings

—Ebenezer Mennonite, Bluffton, Ohio. On March 6 our Missionary society held its all-day sewing, and several beautiful white quilts were made for hospital work in India. For the past two weeks special prayer meetings have been held at the parsonage each Tuesday afternoon and Friday evening in preparation for our Bible Conference which is starting March 16, for one week. Addisaw C. Raws of Keswick Grove New Jersey is to be the speaker. We are glad to receive word that one of our girls, Viola Welty, has arrived safely at her mission station in Africa. The trip was made by plane from New York.—Anona Lander, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Nappanee, Indiana: A week ago last Sunday the boys and girls had charge of the morning and evening worship service—dedicating the eight school bags to relief and the thirty books for India they have gotten ready to send. For our evening service Theoren Christophel, a "sea-going Cowboy," showed slides of Greece, Athens and the Acropolis. The Lewis Ewerts, Mennonites of the vicinity of Saginaw, Michigan, drove down to visit our church which they had read about in The Mennonite. Reverend Ed. Miller of Chicago will be the speaker at our pre-Easter services March 24-30.—Mrs.Loyal Corwin, Corr.

—Saron Church, Orienta, Oklahoma: Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Sukau, who presented the cause of placing Bibles and tracts in tourist camps, also shared with us their audio-visual presentations. Prof. R. C. Kauffman, Bethel College, spoke on relief work in India, stressing the moral and spiritual aspects that enter into the situation. Rev. A. P. Voth brought a stirring message on February 25. since our meat canning project for relief did not materialize as planned, cash contributions were made amounting to $1,512.01. Comforters and clothing for overseas relief were packed and sent by the Ladies' Mission Society. Our pastor, Rev. H. P. Fast is in Meade, Kansas, serving the E.M.B. church this week.—Mrs. Wm. Frantz, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Fortuna, Missouri: I wish that we too could report about visiting ministers, missionaries, or relief workers visiting our church. The World Prayer Day was observed in connection with five other churches at Excelsior. Our part was music and a talk by Rev. E. A. Albrecht. We are studying the Psalms in our Wednesday night prayer services. The choir is rehearsing for Easter. The Sunday morning sermons are based on Isaiah. Last Sunday evening the C. E. gave an interesting mission program. The Women's Missionary Society meets regularly once a month at the parsonage.—Mrs. Joe Lehman, Corr.

—The Senior Women's Auxiliary of the Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas, has sixty-seven active members. Last year they marked 1,336 articles for the Hospital and the Home for the Aged, and they also contributed three hundred dollars towards the Sister Frieda Memorial Fund. Together with the Junior Auxiliary the members served the evening meal at the annual Gift Day. The Junior Auxiliary has sixty-four members. They completed 321 articles of sewing, repaired seventeen articles, and made 726 tray favors for the hospital and the home during the past year and as mentioned before helped serve the evening meal on Gift Day.

—Bethel Church, Waka, Texas: Rev. Abraham Albrecht of Newton, Kansas, conducted meetings here from March 5-9. He also had Bible study on two mornings. On Sunday afternoon we observed Holy Communion. We thank Rev. Albrecht for ministering to us.—Mrs. Herman Wiebe, Corr.

—Zion Church, Souderton, Pa., We have had rich experiences in the field of visual education through the use of our new sound-projector. Sunday evening, March 9, two excellent films were shown: "Thy Will Be Done," a missionary film on work in China, and "It's the Brain That Counts," a film prepared by the W.C.T.U. against the use of alcohol. At the Workers' Conference Wednesday evening, March 12, the slide-lecture, "The Church Must Teach," prepared by Dr. Paul H. Vieth, was presented and was followed by a profitable discussion on ways of improving the effectiveness of the work of our own Church School.

—Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Executive-Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, ordained Miss Leona Cressman, Kitchener, Ontario as missionary on March 9 and Miss Melva Lehman of Berne, Indiana, as missionary on March 16.

—Emmanuel Church, Moundridge, Kansas: On Sunday, March 6, Rev. Garman Wedel, was ordained as Elder. Ordination services were conducted by Rev. P. A. Wedel, assisted by Rev. A. J. Dyck, Dr. P. P. Wedel, Rev. Albert Gaeddert, and Rev. J. M. Regier.—Marie Wedel, Corr.

—Bergtal Church, Pawnee Rock, Kansas: The four churches of this community and the school are sponsoring a series of Sunday evening services at the high school auditorium during the Lenten season. Large crowds have been in attendance the past three Sundays. Each of the five organizations have a part of each service. All the churches of the community participated in the World Day of Prayer service, which was held in our church. Rev. John Loewen of Bethel College was our guest speaker on March 2.—Mrs. John Dirks, Corr.

—The three General Conference churches (First, Hillsboro; Johannestal, and Brudertal) of the Hillsboro, Kansas, community are cooperating every third Sunday evening of the month in what is called The Union Evening Hour. The place of meeting is alternated among the churches. Rev. Arnold E. Funk of the Brudertal Church reports that the interest in this new venture is good.

—Bethel Church, Lancaster, Pa., Robert Geigley, Mennonite lawyer of Gettysburg, Pa., who spent two years doing relief work among the Mennonites of Paraguay, showed moving pictures of the colony there and gave a talk on "The Mennonites of Paraguay" at the Sunday night service on March 16, sponsored by the Youth Fellowship of the church. At the morning service Rev. Freeman Swartz assisted the pastor, Rev. Don Smucker, in the ordination of the deacons and the installation of the new church officers.

—Bethany Church, Quakertown Pa., March 11 the joint adult Bible classes reorganized as one class. We also had a program and a social time together. We feel we must get together more often. March 16 Rev. Neuenschwander and Rev. J. Herbert Fretz, Pastor of the Deep Run Church, exchanged pulpits. Rev. Fretz spoke on "The Two Ways and the Two Travelers," also the good and corrupt trees and their fruits, using Matt. 7:13-20.—Mrs. Ed. K. Stoneback, Corr.

—Bethel Mennonite church of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, Rev. Waltner left for Chicago March 10 to teach in the Biblical Seminary for three months. He plans to be back for every Sunday. Rev. Willard Wiebe is to serve as assistant pastor during these months. The children of our Sunday school packed ninty-four school bags to be sent to Europe. Rev. Clyde H. Dirks of Portland, Oregon, is to be our guest speaker during Passion Week.—Helen Penner, Corr.

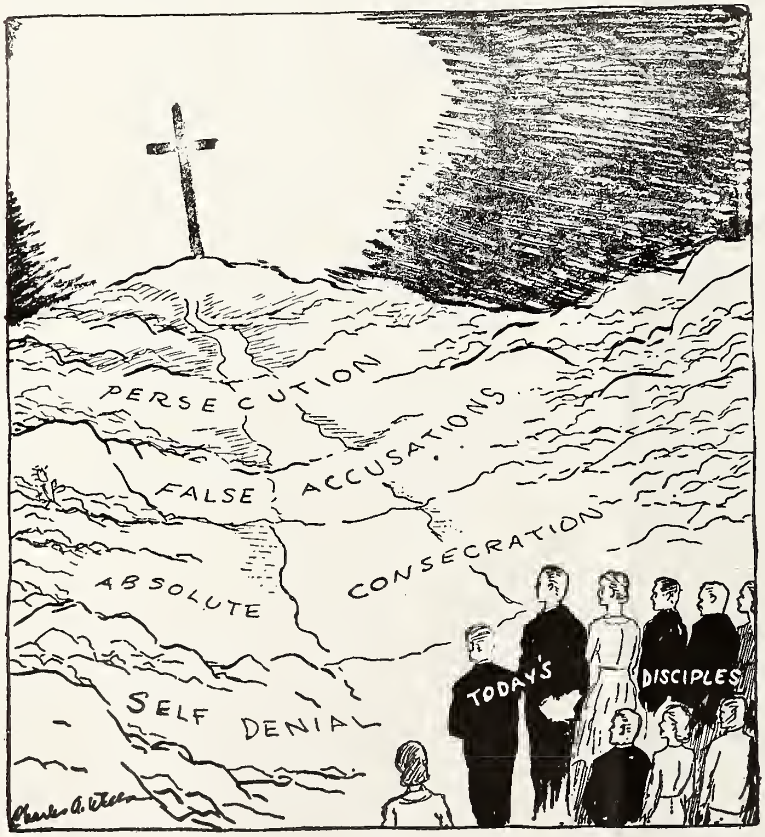
—Bethel Mennonite, Perkasie, Pa., On Saturday March 5 Erwin Keller of Perkasie and pastor Ward W. Shelly took a car load of used clothing from the Perkasie and Springfield charges to the clothing depot at Ephrata. The collection totaled 108 lbs. and contained a number of warm outer garments for men and women, as well as woolen underwear.

—Calvary Church, Barlow, Orgeon: Our folks of the Sunday School took great pleasure in filling the oversea's school bags. Seventeen bags were filled and shipped. Our young people are giving a return program to the Albany Grace Y.P.S. March 16. These exchange programs are enjoyed by all. Our missionary society is working on another relief shipment of used and new clothing. We are very anxiously awaiting the completion of the remodeling of our church. The room is so badly needed for Sunday School classrooms.—Mrs. L. E. Conrad, Corr.

—Johannestal Church; Hillsboro, Kansas; Mrs. John C. Bartel, nee Ewert, passed on to her heavenly home on March 8 at the age of ninty-four years. We fixed up seventeen school bags for boys and girls in Europe. The Bethel College Student Volunteer Band is scheduled to give a program in our church on Sunday evening March 23, for which we are eagerly looking forward.—Mrs. Arnold A. Plenert, Corr.

—Mt. Olivet Church; Huron, South Dakota: Our congregation has voted to ordain our minister as Elder. The C. E. rendered a program in the Fairfield Bethel Church, thirteen miles north of Huron, Sunday, March 16. Our Sunday school attendance is steadily increasing. The record attendance is ninty. Passion Week services will be held Sunday, March 30 through Good Friday, April 4. Rev. Joe Weatherly from the Minneapolis Youth for Christ office will bring the messages. A special drive is being conducted to pay off the old church debt. The purchase of a church cemetery is also under consideration.—Corr.

—The Evangelism Committee, consisting of the brethren, John T. Neufeld, J. J. Enz, and W. F. Unruh met on Monday evening, March 17, in the



HOW FAR WOULD YOU GO?

By Charles A. Wells

One way to make Christ real today is to reconstruct in our minds the path of His suffering,—the steps he took that required so much,—and finally demanded His all. How far would you go with Him today if the road to Calvary were to be taken again? Would you forsake the friends who misunderstood? Would you bear the ridicule of a blinded world? Would you take the spiritual and physical suffering and the loneliness? Would you go to a cross for truth, for love,—to reveal to men how far God's love will go and how cruel and blind are hatred and sin? Perhaps few of us really would, —but we can thus see how far He went to reveal to us God's love, to teach us the destructive and insane power of hatred and sin. By realizing this, perhaps we can at least follow Him a little more closely.

Mennonite Biblical Seminary in Chicago for a committee meeting. The committee hopes that many churches will observe the coming Passion Week as a Week of Witness and that the pastors will take the initiative in the effort.

—Gospel Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: Missionary John Wiebe brought us the morning message last Sunday. The Sunday before Rev. Alvin Ysker gave the message. Our congregation sent forty-nine school bags to Akron. Special meetings are scheduled for March 30-April 4. Rev. Paul Tschetter of the Butterfield Church will conduct them. Rev. H. H. Quiring received a message from Rev. and Mrs. Elmer J. Dick in Africa, announcing the birth of a daughter, Doretta Ann on February 23.—Helen Lohrenz, Corr.

—Rev. and Mrs. John E. Kaufman, and son Kenneth, arrived in Curitiba, Brazil, on March 10. The Kaufmans, who formerly served the Inman Mennonite Church, Inman, Kansas, have been asked by the Mennonite Central Committee to minister to the Mennonites in Brazil.

—Rev. and Mrs. John F. Schmidt, and children of Ellis, Kansas, attended some sessions of the recent Bethel College Bible Week and visited relatives and friends in the Hillsboro, Whitewater and Newton communities. Rev Schmidt is pastor of the First Congregational Church, Ellis.

—Dr. Mordecai Johnson, outstanding speaker against universal military training and renowned Negro educator, will speak on "One World and the Conquest of Prejudice" when he appears in Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas, March 28.

THE NORTHERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE FOR 1947

Time — May 31-June 4
Place — Doland, South Dakota
Theme — Evangelism
Special Speaker — Rev. S. T. Moyer from India

Mennonite Song Festival

To Be Held May 4

The committee members of the Mennonite Song Festival Society met with Mr. W. H. Hohmann on the Bethel College Campus recently and made plans for the Mennonite Song Festival to be held Sunday, May 4, 1947, in Memorial Hall on the Bethel College Campus, North Newton, Kansas.

For the first time in the history of the Song Festival Society all the churches of the Western District Conference are being invited to participate in this song festival. Churches in Nebraska, Oklahoma, Texas, Mexico, and Kansas have been informed of the festival and responses are coming in, indicating that they will participate. We desire to make this a great day of fellowship, and through the united efforts of all participating, it can be so.

As in former years the afternoon program will be composed of music by the churches. To take care of all churches invited the committee urges that neighboring churches which are conveniently close would unite into one large choir to present their afternoon number. If that is impossible a small group will be accepted without a doubt.

The evening program will include the singing of chorales by the audience and a program by a massed choir. Those participating in the massed choir should

---

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

There is much to a name—a family name! There is fellowship in the thought that someone who bears my name be in a far land and looking to me for a letter or a gift of helpfulness.

Among the over 2,300 persons who recently came to South America on the Volendam, there were many typical, Mennonite names. Possibly you have someone bearing your name with you in this group, and you would be willing to help bear a burden.

Look for a friend among the following names:

MENNONITE REFUGEES SAILING ON THE "VOLENDAM"

Albrecht, Allert. Allgeier, Andres

Baerg, Bahnmann, Baier, Ballau, Balzer, Barendt. Barg, Bartel, Becker. Bekker, Berg. Bergen. Bergmann, Bestvater, Birkholtz, Block, Boldt, Boschmann. Braeul, Braun, Brown, Bruehler. Bueckert, Buhler, Buller, Buschmann

Classen. Cornies

Dahl. Derksen, Dirks, Doerksen. Donhauser, Driediger, Dueck, Duerks, Duerksen. Duester. Duck, Durtel, Dyck

Eck, Ediger, Enns, Ens, Epp. Ewert

Falk, Fast. Fehr, Fischer, Fisher, Franz, Frei, Friesen Frischbutter, Froese. Funk

Geddert, Goerzen, Gorzen, Goosen, Goossen, Giesbrecht, Gronau, Gross. Grunau, Guenter

Hamm. Harder. Harms. Hartung. Hartwig, Heidebrecht. Heinrichs, Helmel, Herbot. Herfort. Hesse, Heyde, Hildebrand, Hildebrandt, Holzrichter, Huebert, Huebner

Isaak

Jannert. Janz, Janzen, Just

Kampen, Kick. Kinez, Klassen. Klatt, Klein, Klert, Kliewer Klott, Koehn, Koop, Krahn, Krause, Kroegir, Kroeker, Kronig Krueger, Kuhn

Lammert, Lehn, Lenzmann, Letekemann, Lipkin, Loepp, Loetkemann. Loewen. Lorenz, Lutz

Mantler. Maron. Martens, Mathies, Matthies, Matys, Matz, Moskot. Muetzel

Nachtigal, Neudorf, Neufeld, Neugebauer, Neumann, Neustaedter, Nickel, Niebert, Niebuhr, Nikol

Odenbach, Olfert

Paetkau, Pankratz, Panktratz, Pauls, Penner, Peters, Plett, Pries

Quiering, Quiring

Ratzlaff. Redekop. Redekopp, Regier, Reimer, Rempel, Richert, Riediger, Rimland

Saar. Sawatzky, Schellenberg. Schierling, Schmalz. Schmidt, Schoenfeld, Schroeder, Schulz, Schuster, Siebert, Siefert, Siemens. Sommer, Spenst, Stanke. Steinbrenner, Suderman

Teichgroeb, Teichroeb, Tessman, Thielmann, Thiessen, Thun, Tielmann. Tiessen, Toews, Tomm, Tows, Tschetter

Unger, Unrau, Unruh

de veer. Vogt. Vossler. Voth

Walde. Wall. Walter, Warkentin, Werner. Wieb, Wiebe, Wiehler Wieler, Wieller. Wiens, Wilhelm, Willems, Willms, Wilms, Winter, Wittenberg, Woelk

Zwittag

Anyone interested in looking through the complete list of names, birthdates, and occupations of these brethren in the faith may see such a list at the Conference Headquarters, 722 Man Street, Newton, Kansas.—Walter H. Dyck, Office Manager

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

attend the mass rehearsals (to be announced) and know the following anthems:

Open Our Eyes—Mcfarlane
All in the April Evening—Roberton
Send Forth Thy Spirit—Schuetky
Beautiful Savior—Christianson
O Pow'r of Love—W. H. Hohmann
"And the Glory," Messiah—Handel
"Hallelujah Chorus," Messiah—Handel
Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee—Back
"The Heavens are Telling," Creation— Haydn
Cherubim Song No. 7—Bortniansky (Schirmer edition)
Po'r Good Jesus—W. H. Hohmann

This music can be secured at the College Book Store, North Newton, Kansas.

The Song Festival Society officers for this year are:

President—Robert Senner, Buhler; Vice President —Herbert Stucky, Moundridge; Treasurer—Arthur Banman, Newton; Secretary—Elizabeth W. Nickel, Hillsboro.

Oklahoma Church Worker's Conference Grace Church, Enid, April 11 - 12

Dear Pastor and Leaders in the church:

We as a Church Worker's Committee hereby extend a cordial invitation to all ministers, ministers wives, deacons, and Sunday School superintendents of our Oklahoma Mennonite churches to attend the above named conference. We urge every minister to make it his responsibility to encourage all his church leaders to attend this conference. The following is the program for this conference.

"THE MISSION OF THE CHURCH
(Matt. 28:18-20)
In Light of Present-Day Problems"
April 11, 1947

Morning Program 10:00 A. M.
Song Service .... Rev. J. W. Bergen, Goltry
Devotions .... Rev. Ben Rahn, Enid
Bible Study — II Timothy chapter 1 .... Rev. Gerhard Neufeld, Meno
Seminar — "Influences from within the Church as They Affect Missions," .... Rev. Rudolf Schmidt, Fort Cobb

Afternon Program 2:00 P. M.
Song Service .... Rev. J. W. Bergen, Goltry
Devotions .... Rev. Walter Goossen, Gotebo
Bible Study — II Timonthy chapter 2 .... Rev. G. B. Regier, Inola
Seminar — Influences from without the Church as They Affect Missions," .... Rev. Henry Hege, Corn Evening Service Public Invited 7:45 P.M.

Song Service .... Rev. J. W. Bergen, Goltry
Devotions .... Rev. H. T. Neufeldt, Enid
Special Music
Address .... Rev. Peter Solomon, India
(Rev. Solomon is a native of India and is acquainted with some of our General Conference Missionaries. At the present he is a ministerial student at Phillips University, Enid. His family still resides in India.)

April 12, 1947

Mornning Program 10:00 A. M.
Song Service .... Rev. J. W. Bergen, Goltry
Devotions .... Rev. Paul Dahlenburg, Cordell
Bible Study — II Timothy chapter 3 .... Rev. Albert J. Unruh, Ringwood
Seminar — "What Can the Mission of the Church Expect from the Churches," .... Rev. H. P. Fast, Orienta

Afternoon Program 2:00 P. M.
Song Service .... Rev. J. W. Bergen, Goltry
Devotions .... Rev. Andrew Holliman, Cordell
Bible Study — II Timothy chapter 4 .... Rev. Henry Funck, El Reno
Address .... Rev. Sam Goering, North Newton
(Rev. Goering and his family have recently returned from Europe where he was engaged in relief work.)

Meals will be served during the conference by the Grace Mennonite Church Ladies Mission Society. Night lodging will be furnished in various homes.

—Respectfully Yours, Church Worker's Committee: Waldo Kaufman, Henry Hege, Ben Rahn.

HOME MISSION COMMITTEE OF THE WESTERN DISTRICT WANTS HELP WITH KANSAS CITY SURVEY

The Home Mission Committee of the Western District Conference is making a survey of Kansas City with the view "of finding out what members of our churches live there and what interest there might be among them in beginning a Mennonite Fellowship." This task may prove to be rather strenuous, uphill work unless those who know of General Conference Mennonites living in this city will make their names and addresses known to the Home Mission Committee. Names and addresses can either be sent to Brother Curt D. Boese, 1515 South 10th Street, Omaha, Nebraska, or to Brother Arnold E. Funk, Hillsboro, Kansas, who will forward them to Brother Boese. The latter has been asked by the Home Mission Committee to conduct a survey of Kansas City and perhaps Lawrence and Topeka also. Brother Boese was in Kansas City for the first time over the weekend of March 9. He reports that he has so far secured the names of twelve persons, some of whom he has visited. Pastors of churches, which have some members living in either one or more of the cities mentioned, are especially urged to send the names and addresses of such members to either one of the two brethren mentioned above.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 April 1, 1947 Number 13

Until He Comes

Someday, again, when earth's short day has ended,
Someday when all have heard the Savior's call—
In night, in day, at sunset or at dawning
On land and sea a glorious light shall fall.

A voice again shall herald forth the coming
Of God's great Son — but not in lowly birth—
A Victor strong, the mighty conquering Savior
Shall come at last as King of kings to earth.

And there shall meet His glorious descending
The host of those who put their trust in Him;
The dead shall rise and songs of triumph echo
Like thunder long through space unendingly.

On that great day shall come at last, though trembling,
The nations all to bow before their King
And every mouth shall move in full confession—
The name of Jesus as an homage bring.

Until He comes the Cross must be uplifted,
Before each soul must rise its wondrous love;
So shall it draw from south, north, west, and eastward,
The erring ones to faith and Life above.

Until He comes . . . O give us God that passion
To count all else, all else but as a loss;
And yield our all to one compelling mission—
To lift on high . . . . on high the wondrous Cross!

Joanna S. Andres

The Glory of the Cross

Ronald von Riesen

"In the Cross of Christ I glory,
Tow'ring o'er the wrecks of time;
All the light of sacred story
Gathers round its head sublime."

These words of Sir John Bowring which we often sing during the Lenten season are amplified by the Apostle Paul in his letter to the Galatian Christians, "God forbid that I should glory save in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." (Gal. 6:14)

It is interesting to note the place of the cross and the resurrection in the message of the apostles and the early church. More than half of Mark's gospel is taken up with the events of the passion of our Lord. It is likewise true that the message which the early apostles offered to a pagan generation was not so much a message concerning the life and teachings of Jesus as a message about his death and resurrection. The common greeting used by the early Christians, "The Lord is Risen, indeed" is ample evidence of that truth.

One would expect, judging from the enthusiasm of many of our contemporary Christian leaders, with respect to the power of the teachings of Jesus that that should have been the main theme of the early apostles in winning over a hostile generation. But to our surprise we find that Paul hardly quoted Jesus at all. His message was not so much what Jesus taught, but about His death and resurrection. Again and again his theme was, "Christ died for our sins," "God commendeth His love toward us in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." The New Testament bursts forth with this theme.

The message which turned the early world upside down was not so much a message about One who healed the sick and preached revolutionary ideas but about One who died and rose again.

We may well ask ourselves, why the emphasis on the power of the cross?

The Cross of Christ Gives Authority to the Teachings of Jesus

There is perhaps nothing so distasteful and void of power as a proclamation of principles for others to follow coming from one who has no intention of following them himself. Jesus undergirded His teachings by His exemplary life and also His death whereby He put the seal of His own blood on every word that he uttered.

As we gaze upon the cross, the symbol of our faith, we notice that it is the vertical bar, symbolizing the divine initiative and our relationship to God through Christ that gives authority and upholds the horizontal arms of teaching, healing the sick and feeding the hungry.

The Cross of Christ Is the Powerhouse of the Christian

The teachings of Jesus are not so entirely new as we sometimes suspect. The ethical teachings of the oriental religions contain many of the elements of the Christian ethic. Our difficulty lies not so much in that we do not know the right but rather that after we do know we are not always capable of carrying out the right. The Cross of Christ gives us that power. The New Birth itself is an act of God. We become new creatures in Christ Jesus through the redemptive power of Christ. The Holy Spirit worketh in us "both to will and to do His good pleasure."

The Cross of Christ Is Evidence of God's Love for the World

"God so loved the world that He gave His only Begotten Son." Notice that God does not love us because Christ died but rather that Christ died because God loved us. His life and death are the expression of God's love, not the producing cause of that love. All this to the end that man might receive forgiveness of sin and power to follow the ideal of righteousness. Jesus himself declared that He had come "to give His life a ransom for many." Paul affirms that declaration by saying of Christ, "in whom we have our redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of His grace." (Eph. 1:7)

Paul also declares that the purpose of God in Christ is "That we should be holy and without blemish before Him in love." (Eph. 1:4) The Cross was God's method of producing righteous men and women for His kingdom.

After many centuries of history, "the preaching of the cross is (still) foolishness to them that perish, but unto us which are saved it is the power of God."

With the coming of the Easter season our thoughts naturally turn to the Passion of our Lord. We become conscious of the significance and the importance of the Death of Christ as the central theme of the gospel message. It is a mystery too glorious to behold in one short hour. Like hearing a classical piece of music for the first time, we may be told that it is beautiful and we may express our agreement, but it has little value to us until it has invaded our whole being in which case we may make no reply at all but remain gratefuly silent.

Ronald von Riesen is Executive-Secretary of the Board of Education of the General Conference. He formerly served as pastor of the Walton Mennonite Church, Walton, Kansas.

An Easter Meditation

J.E. Amstutz

Several years ago, when one of our older church members had passed away, the suggestion came to me to use First Corinthians thirteen, verse thirteen, as my text for the funeral sermon for the occasion. As far as I know that text had never been used for such a purpose. But when one has been a minister in one place for a rather long time one desires and needs to find a fresh approach or basis for a comforting and assuring message. The verse proved to be more fruitful and helpful than was expected at first thought.

Now at this season of the year when all of us are again looking and longing for reassurances of immortality for ourselves and our loved ones I am led again to use this passage as the scriptural foundation for a meditation on the meaning of Easter and the hope of eternal life.

We are now more than ever in need of having something that endures and abides in the midst of so much change and even destruction and ruin. So it is very heartening to be reminded in this verse that there are at least three very important things that abide, such as faith, hope and love.

Each one of these three has a direct bearing on what is upper-most in our mind and heart at this time. Surely faith is what we greatly need. The faith of the disciples was sorely tried but finally emerged triumphantly in those early days of Christianity. "Ye believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions." "Now faith is the assurance of things hoped for, the conviction of things not seen." "That whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have eternal life."

"There's a land that is fairer than day,
And by faith we can see it afar."

Surely, faith also brings that land a little nearer to us.

We usually associate hope most readily with Easter. We speak of immortality and the future life as the Christian Hope. In the great statement of faith in Hebrews eleven, verse one, which we have already quoted, we see that hope is closely related to faith; in fact, it is one of faith's aspects or results. "Faith is the assurance of things hoped for." Our hope of heaven, which is so prominent at Eastertime, is something very precious and greatly to be desired. So we are grateful that St. Paul assures us that it too abides.

"In hope that sends a shining ray
Far down the future's broad'ning way,
In peace that only Thou canst give,
With Thee, O Master, let me live."

And now we come to the last of St. Paul's great trinity of things that abide. Of the three this is the central theme of this wonderful chapter and, of course, he calls it the greatest of them all. We do not so easily see the connection of love with the message of Easter as in the two preceding ones. Let us see whether there is not more in it than we ordinarily take for granted.

It was to those who loved Jesus most that He repeatedly appeared in those forty days between Easter and Ascension and to them alone came this assurance. May it not still be true that through a great love for Him we again become most sure of His Resurrection and Living Presence.

What about our own hope of eternal life? On what is it chiefly based? Is it not on the love of God? "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." The divine power of love is not only the greatest thing in the world for our everyday living and earthly relationships but it is also the power that gives us a strong assurance of Christian immortality. As St. Paul says at the close of the triumphant climax in Romans, chapter eight, "For I am persuaded that neither death nor life . . . nor anything else in all creation will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus, our Lord."

Does the measure in which we have love in our hearts and lives affect our belief in the future life? I think it does. The late President King of Oberlin once said that when he was living at his best he found it much easier to believe that his life would go on after death. The more the disciples contemplated the wonderful love of God as manifested in Jesus the more they came to realize that such a life could not be held by death. So also the more our lives are filled with this same divine spirit of love the more sure we become of living on eternally. Not because of any merit of ours but because we are thus vitally related to the One, who is truly eternal. Thus we learn to know Him, "Whom to know is to have etrenal life." "It is the Spirit himself bearing witness with our spirit that we are children of God, and if children, then heirs, heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ." God is love and in love we become most like Him.

Not only does a life of love make us more certain of eternal life, but it also helps us to have a truer vision of what heaven is like. Man has often formed for himself rather fantastic and unworthy pictures of heaven in order to satisfy a sometimes more or less morbid desire to know more about it. The best of life here below is permeated by and centered in love. So it must be in the life above. Jesus gives us the truest and most satisfactory conception when He says, "In

(Continued on page 8)

Rev. J. E. Amstutz is pastor of the Apostolic Mennonite Church, Trenton, Ohio, which he has served since 1921. For many years he was a member of the Home Mission Board of the General Conference.

BEGIN COLOMBIAN MISSION WORK on a Small Farm near Cachipay (Cot-chee-pie)

Dear Friends,

It has now been quite a while since I wrote to The Mennonite—not because I have not very often thought of you, but rather because for a long time our activity was largely language study and then recently I have been so busy that I have not found time to write. However, now we have finished our language study, and we have spent much time and effort in getting established in our new work here in Colombia.

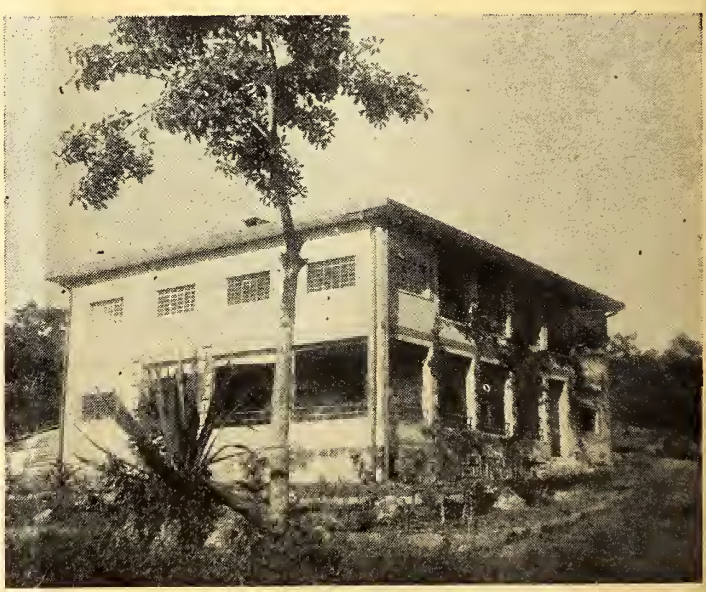
After much searching and prayer we found a small farm near Cachipay, Cund., in which to begin our work. (Cachipay is pronounced "cot-chee-pie"). The small farm (called finca here) has a big house built like a hotel and was constructed and owned by a German. It has been largely due to his friendly attitude that we have been able to secure this place. The house is very large and will, we believe, hold about twenty to thirty children. The house is nestled in the mountains, beside a stream, and has a beautiful view and will be a fine place to bring up children. We moved here about three weeks ago and have been busy day and night arranging things, buying things, and getting ready to receive children. Already there are four here—and many, many more want to come. The question is not at all "Where will we get our children?" but rather "How can we ever take all of them that want to come?" There are so very many poor and needy children. Already before we have had half a chance to get started people from all around have literally been begging us to take this boy and that girl. Every case seems extremely worthy and it is most painful to tell some guardian or widowed mother that as yet we just can't take her child. Even while I am writing this I think there must be at least a dozen to a dozen and a half who are ready to come at

The gate of opportunity to the finca (the farm)

The river that flows past the farm

The bridge, which one crosses before one comes to the gate to the farm.

Lower right: Closeup of the house which the General Conference Mission is renting near Cachipay, Cundinamarca, Colombia, South America.



---

by Gerald Stucky

a moment's notice. As soon and as fast as we can get organized we are planning to accept these needy children. We have been receiving a lot of free propaganda both by friends and by those who would hinder our work. Recently a priest preached against us, and almost immediately thereafter two new families made their appearance at the evangelical headquarters and said they wanted to send their children to us. They had not known about us before. Last night a poor and very sick mother begged me to take three of her many children since she did not know what to do with them, for she had to go to the hospital for an operation. Many of our children will be coming from sick and diseased parents.

We are happy to be beginning this needy work. It is a tremendous challenge with wonderful opportunities. The lives of little children can be molded and shaped. Their testimony for the Lord Jesus Christ can be the type that is backed by a real Christian character. Everyone that hears of our work here is enthusiastic about it and feels that it has great possibilities. Pray for us that we may have the strength and the wisdom that we will need to carry on this work for His glory.

Besides our basic work with the children, we will also have ample opportunity for evangelistic work. There is a large territory west and north of Cachipay in which no evangelical work is being carried on. There will be room for all the work we can do, and for all the other workers which we will be expecting to join us. Since the doors are open to missionaries, we are hoping that many will be coming. We also are glad to report that the Mennonite Brethren, who are beginning a work here too, already have a staff of about eight workers in this country and are going ahead with enthusiasm. The Lord has already blessed our efforts here in a very real way. Many are becoming interested in the gospel, and we have the faith to believe that in this mountain area the Lord will call out many people for His Name. During these months that have passed we have felt the power of your prayers and have been most grateful for them.—Cachipay, Cund, Colombia, South America, February 20, 1947

Excerpts from a Report by P.J. Boehrs

(The Boehr report from which the following excerpts are taken was dated February 15, 1947, and was sent from: Blackstone Hostel, 1331 Lafayette Rd., Shanghai, China.)

"Hitherto hath the Lord helped us!" This we can say from our hearts, and with the knowledge that we have had the Lord's gracious leading and protection all the way, in our more than eleven thousand miles of sea-voyage from the United States to China. We left Gulfport, Mississippi January 6, and arrived here in Shanghai February 11.

Our Shanghai address is as above, but mail addressed to us in care of the MCC workers here will reach us. Then also the address of the MCC workers at Kaifeng, Honan, China (care of Canadian Church Mission) can be used to get mail to us,—but not as yet for parcels. These should be sent: % Mr. Ralph Sommer, % Am. Advisory Committee, 316 Tibet Rd., Shanghai. These addresses are given here, should there be inquiry as to where we can receive (or through what agency in China) parcels. The best way, for the time being, is to have all parcels for missionaries in China sent with missionaries who may be coming this way from the States.

We feel assured that our churches and the Mission Board are much in prayer for us and the cause here in China; that is giving us joy and strength also while we must WAIT, Isa. 40, 31. We believe that the Lord has given to us guidance and a greater vision of the needs and opportunities in this great land through contacts with experienced missionaries in China and Formosa. We were fortunate in having as fellow-passengers with us the Rev. Geo. Mackay, and family of Formosa. He is a son of the pioneer Mackay missionary of Formosa, having gone there the first time in 1871. Our fellowship with them and a Mrs. Smail of the C I M was very uplifting.

February 17 — We had a good Lord's Day yesterday, when we attended the "Free Christian Church" in the area where the China Inland Mission has its headquarters, about thirty minutes walk from here. Also had fellowship with the P. D. Kiehns, and the Loyal Bartel daughters, and Miss Gerber in the afternoon at the CIM. The Kiehns are out under the M. B. Mennonites, and are detained here in Shanghai since their arrival here last August, I believe. They too told us that the only way now open to Kaifeng, Honan, (near our field) was by way of Hankow on Yangtze River steamer, and then by rail north. This is a round-about way, and is taken now by a number of missionaries and Chinese businessmen. Unless we have definite leading to the contrary, we may go up the Yangtze River as far as Hankow, with our baggage and freight; from there we can then go in person to see our people at Kaifeng (and possibly pay a visit to our field). We cannot say as yet when we will be able to leave Shanghai. Should it seem necessary, we'll send you a cable of our later movements. If we do go up the river to Hankow, we will not be so far from our former mission field section, and also partly on the way toward western China, should Brother Kreider come soon, and wish to make a trip with some of the missionaries toward west China, with a view to finding a new mission field. We will leave our forwarding address here, and with our MCC workers in Shanghai, so mail will follow us, should we find it best to leave for Hankow, and work out from there as we can. A large missionary home, in charge of the Lutheran Mission in China, is also located there.

The money exchange has "run amok" here in China, and thus a United States dollar sells for twelve thousand Chinese dollars now, which (as per today's newspaper) has been established by the Chinese government as the "official rate" of exchange.

February 20 — It is with grateful hearts that we say "all's well," and that "My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness." We three are well, and we have a good place to stay, and fairly cool "wards" to go to for our rest on army cots, and underneath United States army blankets. Weather has been real cold these days, but we have had sunshine for most of the time that we are in Shanghai (now it is over a week already). The warmer room is the common dining (and living) room. With the small wood-stoves in the wards we do not have much warmth in the colder weather. We are on the sixth floor—the top floor—and it is rather "breezy" when the wind blows. The central heating system was torn out by the Japanese, as in most large and small structures, including the two very large CIM buildings in Shanghai, where hundreds of missionaries come and go. There must be around one hundred missionaries there now.

Strange, in a way, that this very large stone and cement structure, in which we now stay, should be in charge of a Russian Jew, and that the many apartments in the place are occupied mostly by various types of foreigners who are not of the missionary type, and by Chinese. And yet the place was built by the well-known Christian millionarie, Mr. Blackstone, whose book, "Jesus Is Coming" was translated into hundreds of languages, I believe, and who built this place for purposes of Christian missionary work. Through the war, and the turning back to China of the foreign concessions (this is in the former French concession) mission properties have been considerably affected all over China. We hope, at least, that, should we be able to get back into our former mission field, we may be permitted by the authorities that be, to live in our mission houses.

This is what we feel should be done by all who come to China. All containers, trunks, boxes (wood or metal) should be provided with strong lids, on hinges, and with padlocks, and all should be well strapped with ropes. This will expedite custom's examination, and "passing," and may save missionaries about a week's extra stay in Shanghai, and enable them to go to the interior so much sooner.

All new articles are "dutiable," but they can make a difference between people who bring them with them for their own use and those who have shipped or bring them with them for 'trade." And so another matter for missionaries is, that they have an invoice of all new things, with value given (usually half of retail price). These new things need not be all in one container, or all together, and can be distributed through the baggage as it suits for packing.

Connections by rail are still broken between here and Kaifeng. People who go into Honan (where our MCC workers are, go by river to Hankow, and north by rail. We are wondering whether we should not go to Kanhow also, thus bringing us nearer to our Kaifeng area, and maybe also to the future new mission field, on which the missionaries, together with Brother Kreider, are to decide later. —Sincerely, P. J. and Frieda Boehr

(China Missionaries will please note the paragraphs in which Brother Boehr writes about taking things along and how they should be packed. —Howard G. Nyce, Secretary.)

HENRY AND MARY TOEWS VERY BUSY

(The letter of greetings and news from the Toews family was date-marked January 21, 1947, and was sent from: Charlesville, Kasai District, Congo Belge, Africa, to the Board of Foreign Missions.)

Greetings in the Name of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Thank you so much for the interesting and inspiring letter which we received in behalf of the Mission Board. We always appreciate letters from the home board. It encourages us to know that they think of us and pray for us.

We are exceptionally busy at this time as Rev. and Mrs. Frank J. Enns are at present visiting the outstations. In visiting the outstations they examine the pupils of the village school, hold meetings where they give out the Word of God to all of the people, have special consecration services for the Christians, and give out the Lord's Supper. They report that souls are being saved. Last Sunday they had a regional meeting in the village of Kakotshi. The attendance was well over a thousand. Chief Kakotshi is the only baptized chief in our territory.

Here on the station we have just finished up the first semester of a teacher's refresher course. Some of the teachers have been out in the villages for a long time and although they come in for teacher's institute twice a year, they naturally become rusty. So we had them come in every other two weeks. We then gave them six hours a day of intensive study. Some of the subjects taught were French, homiletics, school management, arithmetic, music, and Bible geography. The teachers were very enthusiastic and seemed to enjoy the course very much.

Another baptismal class is due to come in in another week. We have set February 2 as the date for baptism. Last year we baptized ninty-eight at our station.

May the Lord Jesus abundantly bless you. —With much Christian love, Henry A. and Mary Toews.

Andrew Hollimans Accept Call TO PREACH AND TEACH in the Hills of North Carolina

by A. J. Neuenschwander

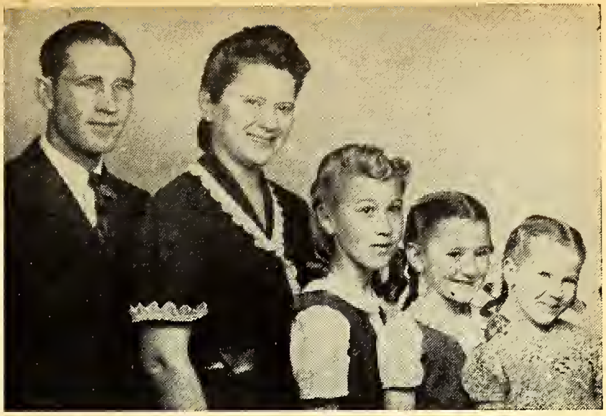
The Holliman family will go to Paint Rock, Madison County North Carolina early this summer.

Andrew Holliman was born in the hills near Marshall, Arkansas, thirty-one years ago. As a young man he went to the western part of Oklahoma and twelve years ago married a Mennonite girl. Seven years ago he was converted, accepted Christ as his personal Saviour, and joined the Sichar Mennonite Church, Cordell, Oklahoma.

Soon after experiencing the joy and blessing that comes to a redeemed soul, Brother Holliman felt the call for preaching Christ to those outside of Christ. Three years ago a start was made and he began to preach. The winter of 1945-46 was spent in Grace Bible Institute. On Sunday, July 7, 1946, he was ordained as Evangelist by Rev. Menno H. Kliewer, in the Sichar Church.

On July 9, 1946, The Mennonite, brought an article from Elsa E. Grantland, Paint Rock, North Carolina, entitled, "Who Will Feed These Sheep and Lambs?" We are herewith presenting that same picture and comment.

"This group and others like it need a good minister. Who will say: "Here am I; send me."— Paint Rock, North Carolina.



Brother and Sister Andrew Holliman and their children: Darlene, eleven; De Anna June, nine; Patsy Ellen, four.

On July 15 Brother Holliman wrote to the Secretary of the Board of Home Missions and indicated an interest in the Paint Rock field.

Last December they spent a week on this field holding evangelistic meeting. Immediately there was an attachment between the speaker and the mountain folk. One of the local group was heard to say, "He belongs to us, because he talks like we do."

When the Board met in Newton, Kansas, in February, the Hollimans came for an interview and immediately after they arrived at home in Cordell, Oklahoma, they sent in their acceptance of the call to represent Christ in the Paint Rock field.

When you stop and consider how the Lord guides and times every thing the conviction grows: "For the ways of man are before the eyes of the Lord, and he pondereth all his goings." Prov. 5:21

The Paint Rock Field

From the hills of Arkansas the Lord is moving Brother Holliman to the hills of North Carolina. Paint Rock is located along the main highway between Ashville, North Carolina and Knoxville, Kentucky. It is just inside the North Carolina boundary line. The valleys are small and the fields not large, only a few acres. The soil is such that it will respond to good farming methods. Buildings and homes can easily be improved by vision and inspiration.

When the valley was visited last summer by two members of the Board of Home Missions with their wives, the folks were very busy drying fruits and vegetables for their family needs.

The Board hopes that with workers Brother and Sister Holliman on the field, people who know the art of farming and love the Lord, they will be able to make the church the unifying and uplifting center of the whole community. As a Mennonite church with a rural background and philosophy, we should be able to be a definite influence for good in this community.

It was the evangelistic inspiration and the need of these people that caused the workers to decide to dedicate their lives in this field.

Naturally the call of the gospel for decisions will always be foremost, in the Sunday School, young people's work and worship services, but it will also be expected that believers will live so as to manifest their faith in all of life in the whole community.

Arrangements are under way for the ordination of Brother Holliman before he begins the work.

During the past year, the Middle District Young People's Organization pledged to support the workers here to the extent of one thousand dollars a year. It is planned that after they have been on the field a while and have made their first contacts and connections, Brother Holliman shall visit the Middle District Churches and especially the C. E. societies. The Board is greatly pleased with such fine interest and hopes that in the future similar support and interest can be secured.

Your prayerful interest will be needed and greatly appreciated by the Board and the workers.—A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary of the Home Mission Board, Quakertown, Pa.

SOMETHING BETTER THAN THE TRUMAN PROPOSAL

Thoughtful people are considering the Truman proposal in regard to Greece and Turkey as a definite road to war. Even if the Truman proposal should not bring on war at the moment, it would undoubtedly throw Russia into such a fear and hate psychology that it would feel driven to plan and work for an eventual day of victory over the United States.

The National Council Against Conscription advocates the following in place of the Truman Proposal:

1. Immediate relief on the basis of need to stricken peoples everywhere.
2. Material and technical aid for reconstruction of economic life of Europe and Asia.
3. Reliance upon the United Nations to solve any border problem between Yugoslavia and Greece, Turkey and Russia with the realization that unilateral action sooner or later leads to war.
4. An offer to proceed immediately and seriously to universal disarmament including demilitarization and internationalization of strategic waterways like the Dardenelles, Suez, and Panama canals.

If you agree, write your own Congressmen and Speaker of the House Joseph Martin at the House Office Building and your own Senators and Senator Robert Taft at the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C."

Need To Write Right Now

A letter from the National Council Against Conscription states,

"At the moment those Congressmen who have made up their minds are almost evenly divided for and against conscription. The great majority who have not yet made up their minds will have the deciding vote.

"The War Department is engaged in an all-out campaign now to win the decisive votes. Through the daily press, through well-paid publicity experts through speakers touring the country, through persistent visits to and pressure on Congressmen, the Army is seeking permanent conscription.

"What is needed on your part is a large and steady flow of letters to Congressmen so that they will have an important civilian point of view and so that they can be encouraged not to yield to military pressure . . . . .

"We believe permanent conscription can be defeated. But we know from previous experience how difficult it is to influence Congress by last-minute pressure just before a vote when many Congressmen have already made up their minds."

Right now there is urgent need that you write two senators in the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. and your representative in the House Office Building.

AN EASTER MEDITATION

(Continued from page 3)

my Father's house are many mansions (or rooms)." The Father's house is supremely a place of love. It is our Heavenly Home. It is the Family of God. And again when He says, "I will receive you to myself that where I am you may be also," we have portrayed to us a fellowship of love. So it is a place of highest enjoyment for all who live the life of love in community of spirit and understanding and divine fellowship forever. "For now we see in a mirror dimly, but then face to face. Now I know in part then I shall understand fully even as I am fully understood. So faith, hope, love, abide, these three, but the greatest of these is love."

"C" stand for "Church"—hunderd-per-cent plan
If the church can't, Maybe YOU can!

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

He Died and Is Risen!

"And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left." (Luke 23:33)

Sometimes we forget how Chrsitianity has come to us. Sometimes, in the easiness of our living, we forget that Christianity came to us through a cross, that resurrection came because there was a Calvary. Ah, yes, we speak of the cross and of Calvary and of the last days, the supper, the trial, Gethsemane, but sometimes we do not appreciate the depth of the suffering, the agony of the despair, the disgrace, the cost when the Son of God was slain.

Yet, it must be so for us. We, too, must pass from death into life. We must die to ourselves in order to live. As the grain of wheat planted in the soil dies to give life to the plant, so must we die to ourselves to gain life eternal. How else can it be? We seek so ardently the security and comfort of life. We surround ourselves with warm homes, fine clothes, good food, families and beloved friends. We feel more secure when there is money in the bank, the bills are paid, we are enjoying a goodly income. Sometimes by this we insulate ourselves from life!

Only when that shell of security is broken in one way or another and in the starkness of reality we see what empty lives ours really are and we can say with the man of old, "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord," then we are ready to die to ourselves for the greater life.

It was so with the disciples. Their shell of security had also to be broken. They, too, had to go through the black despair of that Friday and Saturday to find the glorious hope of Easter. We can and must share with those disciples the total emptiness of that fateful Friday and the bleak, dark Saturday. All that they had hoped for was gone. The kingdom they expected was not to be. The ruling power they were to hold in the kingdom was only an empty dream. All that they had so hopefully expected was gone. It was utterly shattered.

Only with such a crushing, desolate, and total emptiness could the brightness, joy and hope of Easter come forth in all its purity. For in Calvary and false notions, the mistaken search for a Jewish kingdom and security was burned out as dross. Then, when the disciples were crushed by their own blindness, the truth shone forth on Easter morn. Their joy knew no bounds. Then gradually they understood. Christ does live! His kingdom does endure! Nothing can prevail against it! Not even death. They can give themselves completely to it and know they will be sustained.

That was the message that burned in the hearts of men spreading and conquering the very ones who tried to crush it. The cross of Calvary and the resurrection of Easter are at the heart of the Gospel.

Sometimes we forget how Christianity has come to us. Sometimes, in the easiness of our living, we forget that Christianity came to us through a cross, that resurrection came because there was a Calvary. It must be as real to us as it was to those early disciples penetrating the deepest corners of our mind and soul. For it is the greatest event of all history—mankind has never been the same since they hung him on the tree. And it is as real today as on that first Good Friday and Easter.

A School Bag Goes to Europe

(As this goes to print, 2,100 school bags have been made ready to go to Europe and several thousand wait in the warehouse to be processed showing that many school children in the churches have helped make school mean more to children in Europe. Ed.)

I am a school bag. My short life has been very exciting and full of many new experiences. When I saw the light of day, I found myself hanging on a rack with my brothers and sisters in a busy five-and-ten-cent store. Many of my relatives disappeared in the hands of children who talked about starting to school in the fall. Then we spent many days watching the crowds go past our rack. One morning on a cold February day, two children came with their mother to look at us. They seemed to be very excited about something and I hoped the little girl would choose me. I held my breath and in a few minutes the little girl had me in her arms. I listened and watched and tried to learn what she was going to do with me. They stopped at other counters in that store and went into other stores and carried packages with them.

As soon as we arrived at their home, the children laid my friend and me out on the table with all the other little packages. The little girl said, "I just wonder who will get my school bag." Her brother answered, "I hope the child across the sea who gets mine will write me a letter and mail it in the envelope I am putting in the bag."

I began to get excited for it sounded as if I were going to take a long trip. I saw that those little packages contained articles which were to be put into us. A color book, two tablets, and four bright pencils were put in. Then was added colored paper, a sharpener, box of crayons, a box of paints, and a pair of scissors. Before she fastened the buckels the little girl added a box of clay, some scratch pads, two erasers, and a paper which said that her name was Dorothy Smith and she lived in Goshen, Indiana. I was so interested about what was happening to me that I almost failed to watch my friend. I looked just in time to see that a pen holder and pen points were put into him before he was closed.

Then together Dorothy and her brother, Dick, wrapped brown paper and string around us and we could not see where we were going. After about four days we arrived at a place where we heard someone say, "And here are two bags from Indiana." When our wrapping was taken away, we saw many more bags like ourselves. A worker there hunted for the paper which told Dorothy's name and address. This information was typed on a card and another card was mailed to Dorothy in Indiana.

Then my friend was placed on one big pile and I was put on another with many, many other bags. After several days the pile grew bigger and bigger, and I was almost covered up with other full bags which were sent to this place, too.

One day we all knew that something was going to happen for we saw more people around. And something new did happen! When the worker came to me, he put a book into me along with the things which Dorothy had put in. This book was a book of pictures of children in the Bible to be colored. The stories in my book were written in queer words. I heard some one say, "This is written in Italian Language." These voices talked about the books which had stories written in Spanish, German, French, and other different languages too. A sticker which said IN THE NAME OF CHRIST was put on me. I was put into a heavy box along with about twelve other bags which also contained Italian books. The lid was fastened down and we could no longer see what was happening. Then I remembered what Dorothy's brother had said about a child across the sea and I told the other bags in the box what I heard.

We felt we were travelling in a truck and some time later we heard men talking about putting us into the big ship. We could tell that there were many more boxes like ours filled with school bags, being loaded onto the ocean steamer. While we travelled on the water we told each other of our experiences. One bag told how a Sunday School class had such a happy time getting him ready. Another told that he was one of six bags made by a group of school children.

We arrived in the country of Italy where the people spoke a language which sounded very different. We were unloaded from the ship onto a truck which carried us away from the pier and into a part of the country named the Waldensian Valley.

There in this valley our box was opened by several workers who wore arm bands that said MENNONITE CENTRAL COMMITTEE—RELIEF. These workers took a large number of us one day to a school where many children attended. I was wondering what would become of us when I was placed into the hands of a little girl about the size of Dorothy. This little girl said, "Tante gracias", which I learned meant "Thank you very much". I was so excited when she opened me and looked at me! When she saw the many lovely things to be used at school, her eyes grew big and a large smile was on her face. One could tell that she had never had so many nice things of her own before. The first thing she did was to take out the envelope which Dorothy had put in and she wrote a letter to Dorothy thanking her for giving this lovely gift to little black-haired Rosa. Before she mailed her letter, Rosa used her new crayons to make pretty flowers decorating the paper.

At home the little girl's mother told her that this gift had been sent as a gift of love "In the Name of Christ." When Rosa found the story book she read the stories of Joseph and the little boy who helped Jesus with the loaves and fishes and others. She used her new colors and paints to color their pictures.

Dorothy in America was happy, and Rosa in Italy learned to love Jesus because I was sent and received IN THE NAME OF CHRIST.—Mary S. Lehman

Enthusiasm

Larry was a youngster who grew up on a farm on the Little Arkansas River. One Sunday afternoon he, his older brother, and Vic, a town boy, were out roving along the river with their teen-age cousin Flossy.

When the scenery and the river got monotonous, the boys began to tussel — all in a goodnatured way. But, as usually is the case, younger brothers like to test their metal with older ones. And older brothers, of course, have their seniority to defend. So it was that Larry tackled Gerry and Gerry's pal Vic sided with him. When the two got Larry down and held him till Flossy thought the friendly bout had passed the hilarious stage, she ventured to advise: "Boys, hadn't you better stop now? "No sir ree!", piped Larry, "This fight ain't over till I'm on top!"

Some years later Larry took his rifle and hatchet and went to the river. About supper time, his brother Gerry found him up-stairs in their bedroom with bloody head and blank mind. He was rushed to the hospital and a skull operation relieved the pressure on the brain. Just what had happened Larry did not know. Later a second operation was performed. The doctor made no charge for this, for he said long after that, that indicated what good he thought it did.

Nevertheless, Larry went through college and now has his M. A. and is high school coach, and he has a son Bobby two years and three months old.

The young family recently visited their great uncle and aunt. It was the basket ball season of 1946. At one stage of the visit naturally basket ball was discussed. Bobby at once was interested. His father crouched on his haunches to show how the coach peps up his team. Here Bobby came to the fore. He made his daddy put his right knee on the floor. Then he got hold of his seventy-five-year-old grand uncle's hand and pulled him also to the floor half crouching and half kneeling. Then he himself crouched in the same way and led off with a vigorous: "Rah, rah, rah; Rah, rah, rah! Peabody! Peabody!

Two years and three months old! And what enthusiasm!

How shall we cultivate, capture, consecrate, and channel that youthful enthusiasm into the service of the Christian Church? —C. E. K.

Items of Interest

The late January freeze in Florida left fifty thousand migrants who follow seasonal crops along the Atlantic seaboard jobless and almost penniless. It is to such migrants as these that the Women's Missionary Association ministers each summer through the volunteer workers that they sponsor.

* * * *

In the last ten years, from 1936 to 1946, the U.S. Census Bureau has listed fifty-seven new religious sects. Nine which were formerly listed have passed out of the picture. In 1936 there were 208 denominaitons. In 1946, there were 256.

* * * *

Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts credited conscientious objectors who worked in state mental hospitals for the creation of the National Mental Health Foundation. This Foundation is responsible for a series of public education pamphlets and training materials for mental institutions and fostering public interest in conditions in mental hospitals.

* * * *

The education of the twenty-four million children between the age of six and seventeen attending school this year, is being done with a teaching staff gravely short of personnel. One out of seven of the teachers in U. S. schools cannot meet the minimum requirements for a teachers' certificate. Less than half of the teachers have completed college and forty per cent have completed only the second year of college. The need for qualified teachers to give training in character development as well as knowledge is grave.

* * * *

An increased interest in and emphasis on international relations and world problems has caused colleges to reorganize their courses. The new emphasis is on international understanding.—Gospel Messenger

* * * *

Last January 24 at 8:15 a.m., under the auspices of the International Reform Federation, a prayer service was held in the rotunda of the capital at Washington, D. C. The group attending the service retired to the Senate dining room where they partook of a fellowship breakfast after the prayer service. Among the speakers at the breakfast were Associate Justice Burton of the Supreme Court, Senators Capper of Kansas and Johnson of Colorado, O' Daniel of Texas, Donnell of Missouri and Hoey of North Carolina and Mr. Frank E. Gannett of New York, publisher of twenty-one newspapers. All these speakers denounced the evils of the growing liquor traffic. Senator Capper is sponsoring a bill in Congress to stop liquor advertising, Mr. Gannett refuses all liquor advertising in his paper.

* * * *

The Jehovah's Witnesses are beginning construction on a ten-story addition to Bethel Home, its national headquarters in Brooklyn, New York. This is an expansion of their already large site of Brooklyn.

* * * *

Commercial packages for sending overseas costs ninety-five cents per pound against thirty-five cents per pound for the CARE packages which have been sent through the M.C.C. Also, commercial packages cost 1,700 calories per dollar, while CARE packages cost one dollar per 4,100 calories.

* * * *

Plans are underway to augent the present number of sixty-five missionaries in Japan with five hundred additional within the next three years. These missionaries will come from American Protestant churches. It is felt that the need for the Christian Gospel and the opportunity to share it with the Japanese people is unusually great at the present time. The state

Shintoism is shattered, and the people are seeking something to take the place of their old faith. Perhaps there will be an unusually great receptivity to the gospel now.

* * * *

Dr. Frank Laubach is famous for his method of teaching people to read. His unique method has been used successfully upon millions of people in the Far East who were illiterate. It is an efficient and an amazingly quick method that he uses. Brazil has adopted this plan recently to dispel illiteracy in that country.

RELIEF

Report on Operations at Glick's Cannery

This cannery at Smoketown, Pennsylvania, operated from November 5 through February 26, for a total of 58 working days. During this time 2,494 volunteers assisted at the cannery, making an average of 51 people per day. A total of 291 beeves, 271 hogs, and 13,133 chickens were butchered, making a total of 39,673 No. 10 cans of meat for relief. During the previous summer 8,035 cans of vegetables, apples, etc., were also canned.

A number of other similar canning projects have operated in other Mennonite communities. This has been a very efficient method of processing food for relief, and certainly the work has been well worth while in view of the needs which the food is supplying.

Recent Relief Shipments

The following shipments of food and clothing left port for Europe during the period of February 15 to March 15: To Brussels, Belgium, 4½ tons of new and used clothing, bedding and shoes; a similar shipment of 9 tons to Budapest, Hungary. Both of these shipments originated at Ephrata and Akron, Pennsylvania.

Thirty tons of Ralston cereal were sent to Gdansk, Poland; 26 tons of meats and vegetables from Kitchener, Ontario, to Mennonite Child Feeding project, British Zone, Germany; 44 tons of raisins and dried fruits contributed by the churches in California, to the Mennonite Child Feeding project, French Zone, Germany; 36 tons assorted foods from Silver Springs Food Warehouse, Pennsylvania, to Chistenpflicht, American Zone, Germany.

New Cutting Room for Relief Garments

A new cutting room has come into service, from which sewing circles may secure ready cut materials for the making of clothing. This work is being carried on by Anna Beiler, Route 1, Stuarts Draft, Virginia.. Sister Beiler is doing this in her own home and on her own initiative, in order to help in promoting the relief program. Groups or individuals interested in sewing for relief and located in this area, may find it convenient to order cut garments from Sister Beiler.

Relief Worker Departures

Luke and Verna Birky, of Albany, Oregon and Pearl Kauffman, of Minier, Illinois, left by air for Puerto Rico on March 19. Sister Kauffman is returning to that place of service for a second term.

Brothr and Sister John R. Friesen of Acme, Alberta, sailed on March 21 for France. Also leaving on March 21 were Velma Schlabach of Mulino, Oregon, for Italy, and Margaret Birky, of Kouts, Indiana, for Switzerland.

"Menno Travel Service" is organized

The travel needs of the Mennonite Central Committee have grown to considerable volume within the past years, and promise to continue thus indefinitely. There is also an evidence of growing interest on the part of individuals and groups within the constituency for counsel and aid in travelling. In order to coordinate the various aspects of such travellers aid and to give the most efficient service, a special section has been set up at Akron headquarters. This section has been designated as the "Menno Travel Service." The management and dirction of this is set up on a self-supporting basis; that is, at cost to the various MCC sections and outside church agencies and individuals who are served. Herold Swarteznedurber has been chosen to act as director of Menno Travel Service.

MENNONITE REFUGEES NOTES

Brother C. F. Klassen returned to Canada on March 16 after having served for about five months in Europe in the interest of helping Mennonite refugees. His untiring efforts were instrumental in working out the arrangements for the recent movements of 2,303 refugees to Paraguay on the Volendam.

Brother Klassen himself is formerly from Russia and was a leader in the Mennonite migration from Russia to Canada during the years from 1923 to 1930. He thus has a unique understanding of the problems in such a movement, and also can appreciate well the longings of persecuted peoples for a homeland of religious liberty and freedom.

BROWNS REPORT FROM PORT SAID, EGYPT

Yesterday it was two weeks since we sailed. The voyage has not been very rough and the weather has been fair. Since we are on a freighter, there are only twelve passengers besides the crew. For quiet rest, reading and studying this is the kind of a ship to sail on. It will take almost another month to get to Shanghai. We are well placed, have good food, and enjoy this change of life. Maria did not feel so good on the Atlantic, but she is now coming back rapidly in her strength. How we hope that it will be possible to visit our missionary friends in India after we arrive in Bombay. So far we are not sure whether time and circumstances permit this, but we shall find out upon arrival. In a few days we shall be in the Red Sea. From there on we expect hot weather. We poor people! We did not know our route, when we packed our baggage, and now we can't get at the light weight clothing. Consequently, we shall have to sweat more than should have been necessary.

Our fine and safe voyage up to here is an answer to the prayers of our many dear friends at home. We shall continue to covet your prayers for the rest of the trip! —Yours in the Master's service, H. J. and Maria Brown, Port Said, Egypt, March 13, 1947.

College and Seminary News

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Election of officers for the various organizations takes place at the beginning of the Spring quarter. This has been found useful because the new officers have then had some experience and are ready to start their work when school starts in fall. The new officers of the Student Association are: President—Gene Waltner; Vice-President—John Suderman; Secretary-Treasurer—Alice Kaufman; Star Editor—Leo Miller; Associate Editor—Wayne Dalke; Business Manager—Allen Linscheid; Assistant Manager Alvin Kroeker. The New Y. W. C. A. officers are: President—La Nae Eisenbeis; Vice-President—Rosemary Linscheid; Secretary-Treasurer—Thelma Hofer. The Y.M.C.A. chose: President—Calvin Schrag; Vice-President Alvin Kroeker; Secretary-Treasurer—John Suderman. Three Academy debate teams will represent Freeman at the Inter-State Academy Debate Tournament at Hull Iowa. Two College teams meet from Yankton College at Yankton this week. Professor Lichti takes the Academy Chorus to Hull, Iowa, where the chorus groups from the Inter-State Academy Conference will give a concert. Rev. Benno Toews was the chapel speaker on Monday. On Wednesday Rev. Martin Kroeker gave a report of the work and difficulties of the M.C.C. in transporting displaced Mennonites from Europe to South America. The auditorium was filled to capacitiy for the Don Cossack performance.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

The Women's Choir of the Messiah Bible College, Grantham, Pennsylvania, will give a concert in the Chapel service April 1. The group is on tour. Messiah is operated by the Brethren in Christ Church. This will be the first direct contact between the students of the two schools. Open House in the women's dormitory was held Saturday evening, March 22. The western Ohio division of the National Forensic League held a speech tournament at the College, March 21, 22. Contestants were present from such cities as Columbus, Dayton, Lima, Athens, Hamilton, and Sylvania. Dr. E. E. Miller gave a Vesper address Sunday March 23. He showed pictures taken on his European trip last summer. Arthur Dann, pianist, gave a piano concert Wednesday, March 26, as the third number on the College Concert Series. President Ramseyer and Dean Schultz attended sessions of the North Central Association held in Chicago March 27, 28. Religious counseling was discussed at the monthly faculty discussion meeting held March 21. Rev. Ernest Bohn led the discussion. A committee of Board and faculty members met in Wooster March 22 to work out a system of teacher retirement benefits. Up to this time no provision has been made for the support of staff members reaching retirement age.

BETHEL COLLEGE

In the spring reorganization of the Student Christian Association the following were elected to leadership for the coming year: president, Delbert Scharg; vice-president, Maurine Siemens; secretary, Norma Tieszen; and treasurer, Gilbert Goering. Installation services were held recently also for the new officers of the Student Volunteers: Helen Kornelson, president; Virgil Flickinger, vice-president; and Evelyne Sawatsky, secretary-treasurer. The Student Council has appointed Willard Linscheid editor-in-chief and Willard Friesen business manager to head the newly reorganized staff beginning this quarter for the Bethel Collegian. Roland Bartel and Paul Albrecht were the only undefeated team entering the Kansas Intercollegiate Debate tournament held in Salina on March 22. On the same day Leland Harder placed second in the state peace oratorical contest. Aaron Epp took second place in the state anti-tobacco oratorical contest held during the previous week at McPherson.

Jottings

—New Hopedale Church, Meno, Oklahoma: March 3-6, while the portable canner from Hesston Kansas, was here, were busy days for this congregation. Thirteen beeves were butchered at the Arthur Decker farm, of which twelve and one-half were processed, making a total of 1,585 No. 2½ cans for European relief. The canning unit was set up at the home of Brother and Sister I. C. Koehn. The meat was prepared for canning in their former dwelling house. The Koehns are now living in their new home. Members of the local committee in charge of the canning project were: J. M. Smith, W. E. Ratzlaff, Cecil Unruh and A. I. Ratzlaff. From here the canner was moved to Whitewater, Kansas.—Alvin Ratzlaff, Corr.

—Salem Church, Freeman, South Dakota: Dr. and Mrs. Dester, medical missionaries from India, have recently been in this community. Mrs. Dester spoke to the Salem ladies mission society at their monthly and pictures were shown of the work in India at a special evening meeting. The ladies missionary society decided to take over the schoolbag project and send sixty bags to the needy children in Europe. Nearly all of the bags, however, were paid for by private contributions from various members, when the project was presented to the church.—Elma Waltner, Corr.

—Bethel College Church: Rev. D. J. Unruh, Pastor of the First Mennonite Church, Newton, and Vice President of the Foreign Mission Board, preached on "How May I Know God's Will for Me?" Sunday morning, March 16. In the evening Rev. Walter Gering told of his relief experiences in Denmark during the past year.—Eldon W. Graber, Corr.

—Grace Church, Albany, Oregon: Quite a few relief boxes have been prepared by the ladies of the church. On January 19 Rev. Homer Leisy exchanged pulpits with Rev. Kliewer, our pastor. On January 30 Harry Martens and Erwin Goering spoke to us on the relief work that is being done in Puerto Rico. Rev. and Mrs. Lubin Jantzen, our outgoing missionaries, were in our church on Wednesday evening, February 26. On March 9 Rev. Mose Brennamen preached to us a very able sermon during the absence of Rev. and Mrs. Kliewer, who had gone to visit their son Dr. Paul Kliewer and family. On March 16, Rev. S. Mouttet of the "Go Ye" Mission of the Ozarks gave us two wonderful sermons. On March 28 Miss Bertha Fast will be with us to talk about relief work in Italy. This is indeed a needy field. Our Berean Class has been meeting the first Tuesday of each month in different homes. Our last meeting was at Corvallis with Rev. and Mrs. Rudy Larson at the farm home. Our next meeting will be in the home of Dr. and Joe Widmer. Another piano has been purchased for our main auditorium, while the old one is being used for Christian Endeavor meetings.—Mrs. Ivan Emmert, Corr.

—New Friedensburg Church, Vona, Colorado: Brother and Sister A. B. Becker celebrated their forty-eighth wedding anniversary on March 9, with Rev. John H. Epp of Kingman, Kansas, as guest speaker. (Rev. Epp serves the Vona church once a month.) The Beckers have ten children. Eli, Lydia, Leander, Wilbert and Alvina all live south of Vona. Jacob, Helena, and Abraham live in Denver, where Abraham attends Colorado University. Justina works in Michigan, and Mary serves in the Kentucky Mountain Mission at Winchester. Kentucky.

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma. Plans are being made and money raised for the mess hall, which our Conference is sponsoring as an addition to our Oklahoma retreat ground at Hydro Park. The building is to be located on the same lot as our parsonage. It will be available (free) for socials, picincs, and other activties to all of our Mennonite churches.—Wilfred Ewy, Corr.

—Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas: Sunday, March 2, Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz showed slide pictures and told us of his experiences at Puerto Rico. The offering for refugees amounted to over $2,700. The children of our church sent 62 overseas school bags.—Corr.

—Deep Run, Pa., Church: Our pastor, J. Herbert Fretz, will be formally ordained to the eldership by Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander and J. J. Esau on Tuesday evening March 25. Baptismal services will be held on Palm Sunday. Twenty-four school bags were purchased and filled by individuals and the Sunday School and given to school children in the war stricken areas in Europe.—Mae Gross, Corr.

—First Church, Berne, Indiana: On Sunday morning March 16, a member of the church, Miss Melva Lehman, was ordained as a missionary to India. Rev. Howard G. Nyce. Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, preached and had charge of the service. He was assisted by the pastor, Rev. Olin Krehbiel, and Dr. Herbert L. Dester, missionary on furlough. At this service a love offering was held for Miss Lehman, which amounted to $692.48. During the past week the Missionary Union of Berne held a missionary conference in this church. Missionaries representing India, Africa, Japan, Korea, South America, Palestine, and Russia were heard. The week brought rich blessing, the messages were a great inspiration and challenge, and many young people indicated their willingness to go as missionaries should the Lord so direct. On Good Friday the churches in town will unite with this church for a three-hour service. Seven ministers will speak, and "The Seven Last Words" will be presented by the choir under the direction of Freeman Burkhalter.—Martha Gilliom, Corr.

—Apostolic Mennonite Church, Trenton, Ohio: Our church for the third year has subscribed for The Mennonite to be sent to all of its members. Rev. J. J. Enz of Nappanee, Indiana spent an evening with us recently, speaking on the subject, "The Stewardship of Possessions."—Lydia A. Augspurger, Corr.

—Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas: Our pastor, Rev. Walter Gering, has been reporting to us of his experiences while in Europe. During his brief stay in Switzerland he visited the historic Grossmuenster church in the important city of Zurich. This is, supposedly, the church wherein the Anabaptists first made their appearance by challenging the doctrines of the leader, Zwingli. He also saw the stream where, it is said, the first Mennonite martyr, Felix Manz, was drowned.

—First Church, Reedley, California: A very special treat for us this weekend was Miss Bertha Fast as she spoke of her work in Egypt and Italy and showed her excellent slides on Sunday and Monday evenings. Tuesday noon she spoke to the ladies at the Annual Birthday Luncheon. On Friday evening the "Builders" Sunday School class, of which Mrs. Paul Sellers is teacher, sponsored an informal "Sing" for the whole church including young and old. Besides singing favorite numbers suggested by the group, several instrumental numbers interspersed the hearty participation of the audience. After an enjoyable hour the group retired to the social hall for light refreshments.—Corr.

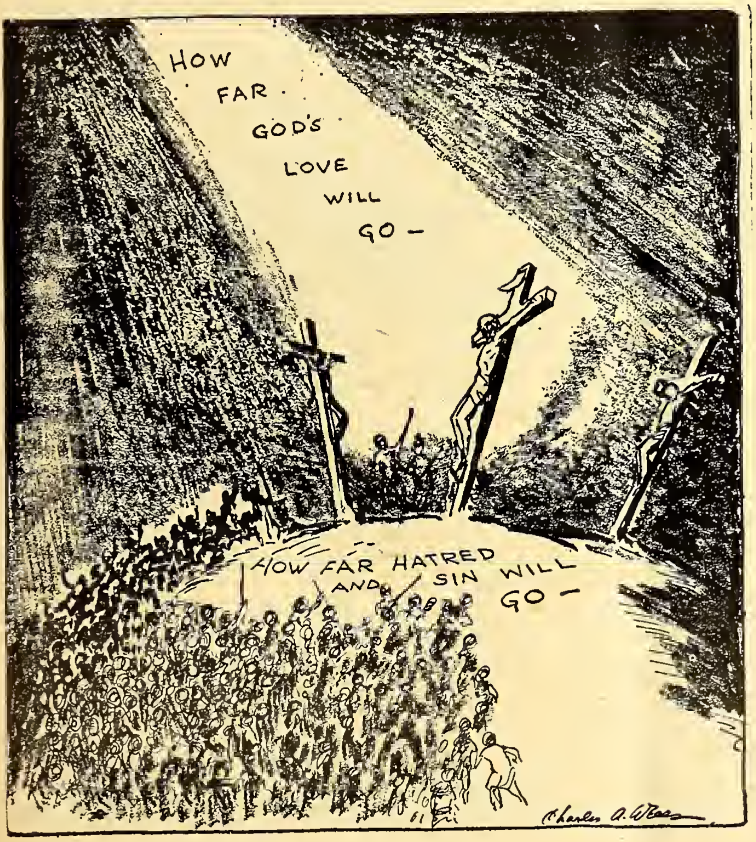
—Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio: Joining with Christendom in pre-Easter services, the Light of the World was inspiringly and sincerely reflected before our eyes in the challenging messages brought by Rev. Russell Mast of the Wadsworth Ohio, this week. His themes of various titles called for men of conviction who will take the message of the Church as their personal responsibility, thus making religion and spiritual life so meaningful, vital, and significant that they permeate all of life in all of its phases. The issue is Christ versus Chaos and we have only five minutes left before the midnight hour to decide. The church must not drift downstream but must send out men and women convinced for Christ, bent on the task of building a better world. There was an interesting variety of worship in music contributed by talented members and guests. The children were well-pleased with the special consideration given them by the Willing Workers Sunday School class, one of whose members gave a story or talk for them each evening. Not all the church members were present every evening, but those who made special efforts to attend were enriched spiritually.—Mrs. Ivan Badertscher, Corr.

—Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas: The "Happy Hour" sewing circle spent an enjoyable day when the thirty members went to Newton to visit the clothing and food centers. They were much impressed when they saw how kind people prepared relief articles in such a way that they might reach their destination in proper manner. The afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Harry Martens where they sewed for relief and listened to a report about the Puerto Rican people. Recently we carried to rest two of our church members, Mrs. J. D. Gaeddert, mother of our pastor, Rev. Albert Gaeddert, and Mr. J. U. Regier, who was a much loved church worker. We will be privileged to have Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman in our church next Sunday morning to open a series of sermons, which will continue through Passion Week. Our church choir has been rehearsing the cantata, "The Dawn of Easter." This they will present on Good Friday evening.—Mrs. Elmer Voth, Corr.

—Herald Church, Bessie, Oklahoma: During February we were privileged to have Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Suckau of Butterfield, Minnesota, with us. They showed religious pictures and gave their testimonies. A relief program was given in February. Rev. Henry Hege of the Bergtal Church, Corn, was the main speaker. A letter, which had been received from Germany in response to the chickens that the Herald Church had sent, was read. Three beefs were killed and canned for relief a few weeks ago when the cannery from Hesston, Kansas, was in this vicinity. A total of 556 quarts of meat and soup were canned. The children made thirty-four overseas school bags. a total of $950 was given for transportation of refugees from Germany to Paraguay. One acre of land was bought and added to the church grounds. Rev. J. J. Esau preached in the Herald Church one evening in February. Due to the bad roads he could not visit all of the neighboring churches. The Bethel College Octet will give a program on Good Friday evening. The Lord's Supper will be observed on the same evening. That week the children will give an Easter program. On Easter Sunday Rev. Christian Weis of Kansas City will begin a series of meetings.—Mrs. Jacob Penner, Corr.

—Walton Church, Walton, Kansas: After our former pastor, Rev. Ronald von Riesen, was called to General Conference work, the Lord supplied us with another efficient worker in Rev. C. B. Friesen. The congregation achieved its goal of one thousand dollars for the church debt this past year. We have three mid-week services; the divisions are: adult, young people, and children. The adults are studying The Life of Paul, the young people the Book of Corinthians, and the children are going through Old Testament stories. The C. E. Society meets every second Sunday in the month. The Men's Chorus meets every Monday evening, and the Mixed Chorus every Wednesday after Bible Study. The Mission Society, which meets twice a month, has been working on comforters for relief. The Juniors have been doing project work on School Bags and Bandages. We will have a series of evangelistic meetings March 30-April 6, with Rev. D. J. Unruh of Newton as speaker. Everyone is cordially invited. —Corr.

—The Lubin Jantzens were to leave the United States on March 21 and they were to arrive in Southampton, England, on March 28. They will leave from Liverpool and are to arrive in Bombay, India, on April 30.



HOW FAR GOD'S LOVE WILL GO —
HOW FAR HATRED AND SIN WILL GO —
Charles A. Wells

WHERE IT MEASURES

By Charles A. Wells

There are many theological interpretations of the meaning of the cross but there is one fact of the cross upon which all agree, — the cross measures how far God will go to reach the heart of man and how far sin and hatred can drive man. The love of God was made manifest in Christ, for no greater love can be found than that in which a Father would give His own son — even unto death, that such a love might be made known. Also there is no greater measurement of the blindness of hatred and the insane nature of sin than that it would drive men to destroy that which was loving, pure and good. Ever since Calvary men have known more about themselves, — and have known more about God. But sin is still driving men to destroy that which is noble and good, and God is still reaching out in love to touch the heart of man. Men will never forget this as long as they remember Calvary.

RENEW your MENNONITE — It renews you.

First Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebraska: Sunday March 23 our church observed installation services for two newly elected deacons. Heretofore this office had been filled by one man and was a life time office. Now we have two, serving for five-year terms. Rev. and Mrs. Walter H. Dyck and family were in our midst on this Sunday. A summary of offices shows that 111 church members had 161 positions in our church—Mrs. John J. Wiebe, Corr.

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon: This year instead of inviting an evangelist for a series of meetings, a "Visitation Campaign" was conducted March 9-16. Every member was expected to go calling during the week. Most of the calls were made in the homes of those who had been visitors in our church. Our pastor, Rev. Clyde Dirks, plans to leave next week to conduct meetings in the Bethel Mennonite church at Mountain Lake, Minnesota, from March 30 to April 4. He expects to fly home in order to be present for the Easter services.—Mrs. Homer Welty, Corr.

—The final number of the 1946-47 Bethel College Memorial Hall series will be a lecture by Stuart Chase on Wednesday, April 9, at 8 o'clock in the evening. He is a foremost economist, who insists that America can keep its people employed by following a middle road between extensive government planning and control on the one side and a planless boom-and-bust economy on the other. He has written over fifteen outstanding, readable books in the last twenty years.

—Note to correspondents: The number of correspondents reporting is increasing. Thank you for the many good reports. One suggestion: Please write words out in full. Write "Kansas" and not "Ks.," "Mr. and Mrs." and not "Mr. & Mrs." This will help us to follow a consistent standard through the paper.

—Ruth and Ernst Harder have been taking care of 370 Mennonite refugees which were stranded in the Asuncion harbor during the recent revolution. The camp is at the government school and experiment farm outside of Asuncion. Ruth Harder writes, "We knew there would be very little equipment here, but not as little as there really is . . . . . We got some meat, cut it up with table knives and one butcher knife which was dull. I'm telling you that was a job to cut up a hind quarter of beef with table knives sharpened on rocks." (We are sorry that we cannot bring more news from the Harders in this issue because of limited space. We hope to bring a fuller account in the next issue.)

—Dr. L. E. Penner of Beatrice, Nebraska, passed away on the afternoon of March 25. He was a member of the First Church there and had served as doctor in the community for a great many years.

—Boynton Mennonite Church, Hopedale, Illinois: The Girl's Gospel Team of Bluffton College gave us a program on the evening of March 23. In addition to the quarter numbers, Elnore Rosenberger gave a talk on "Prayer, the Greatest Power in Life."

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio: Rev. W. F. Unruh, former missionary to India and now pastor of the

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

West Zion Mennonite Church, Moundridge, presented a week of very inspirational pre-Easter messages March 9-16. The high school girls Sunday School Class filled one dozen school bags and sent them to our relief workers to be distributed to the unfortunate children of Europe.—Mrs. Laurence Burkhalter, Corr.

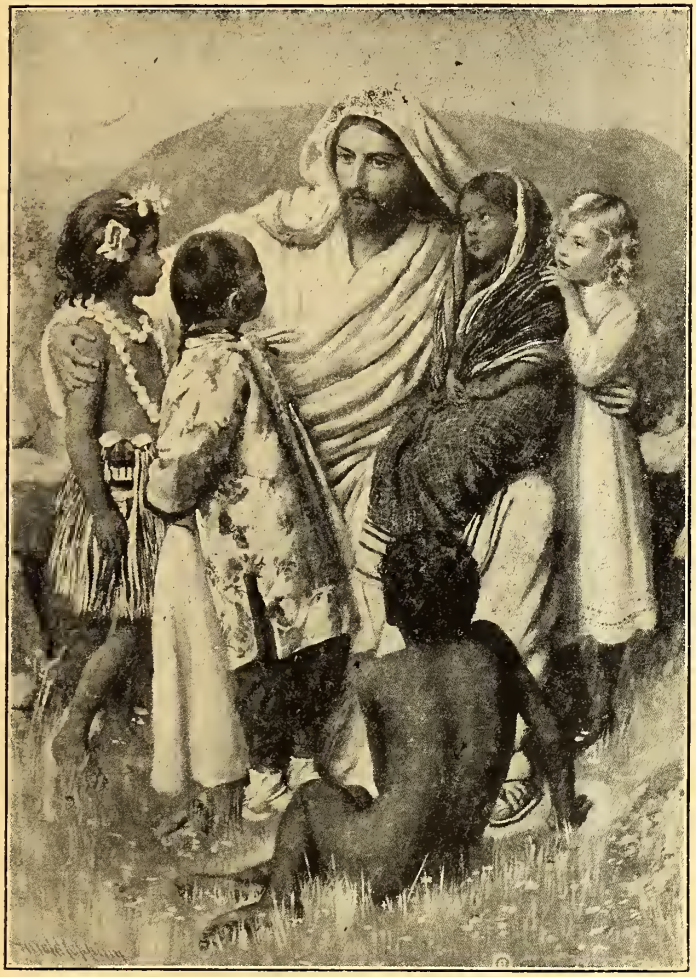
—Menno Mennonite Church, Lind, Washington Our congregation is happy to have the Lind Methodist minister, Rev. Hicks with us for a series of lenten services. We were blessed to have Rev. Haushauer with us again after an absence of five weeks. The Sunday School teachers of our church meet once a month to study the lessons.—Mrs. Henry J. Franz, Corr.

JUNIOR MESSENGER
Volume II
Sunday, February 23, 1946
No. 8
Peanut Butter—or—
Mrs. Margaret Hankins
For The Children in Your Home

Rate: 75 cents per year
Address
MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE
722 North Main Street Newton, Kansas

The Mennonite

Volume 62 April 8, 1947 Number 14



Despise Them Not

Cut, Courtesy, "Gospel Messenger"

How to help children achieve wholesome personalities is a major problem. Perhaps, no one has The answer, but the following points, made by a social worker at a children's center, are so suggestive of the things that Jesus said (Matthew 18) that they invite our attention.

A child needs to be loved if he is to learn to love. Essential to the security of any child is a period in which he is accepted just for what he is, dirty or clean, ugly or handsome, bright or dull. Without this security he will feel less like complying with the demands of adults and will be less able to do so. Jesus suggested that parents accept a child in His spirit, which is one of patience, understanding, and awareness of what the child can become, Matt. 18:5.

Parents can make a child resentful and rebellious by not giving him enough affection and by dominating and overprotecting him. A child who lacks affection is not satisfied and will therefore tend to be demanding rather than cooperative. The child who is dominated and overprotected recoils with anger at not being able to exercise his rightful initiative. Jesus made plain that adults can cause children to sin, that is, to exhibit negative, "naughty," "bad," behaviour, Matt. 18:6.

Failure to prize and esteem the child in his childishness, and domination and overprotection are factors which can make a child take such a negative attitude towards life that he will be a continuous heartache to his parents. It is "just too bad" for such adults, Jesus pointed out, Matt. 18:6b.

Since it is the parent's feelings which so largely determine those of the child, it is essential that parents achieve peace of mind if they are to keep from despising their children. Whenever a child "gets on the nerves" of a parent, then and there that parent is tempted to despise the child. Jesus admonished adults to see to it that they did not despise a child, Matt. 18:10.

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

THE LOST STATE OF MAN is not too clearly recognized by the churches of our day. While there is more and more danger of blowing man and his civilization off the face of the earth, the churches go on with their programs much as usual. Paul Hutchinson, a Christian journalist who has traveled around the world studying the churches in all the lands, comes back to the United States with this indictment:

". . . I do not find within the churches even yet a galvanic perception of the nature and imminence of the crisis. I know that a lot of preachers have preached a lot of sermons on the atomic bomb — so many that I hear of some who fish for cheap laughter and applause by beginning their discourses, 'I am not going to speak on the atom bomb.' Where, however, are the churches which give the impression of living with awareness that they have no more than a few years, perhaps only a few months, left in which to press on a doomed society their offer of salvation?"

". . . men and brethren, the nations are rushing toward destruction, and the time is short! And I return from this journey compelled to say that the churches do not yet give the impression, at least to this observer, that they are in deadly earnest about their use of the time that remains."

Some say that the churches can do no more than they are doing. Maybe that is true, for if the churches are to be different, then we as individual Christians must also be different in this time of possible destruction. However, have we as individuals or churches reached our best? It seems more Christian to hope for more vital living on the part of both individual and church.

"WAR AND HUMAN NATURE," a ten-cent Public Affairs Pamphlet, presents to the non-resistant Christian thirty-one pages of material that is unlike a great deal of peace literature up-to-date. People have long thought that war is hell and that it ought to be eliminated. They have also known that it was connected with human nature. However, they have not known a great deal about that human nature. Consequently, they have not been able to do much about war. Today, man has a vast amount of new (or should we say more accurate and systematized) knowledge of human nature. Case history after case history, which doctors, social workers, counsellors, and others have collected, are at the basis of this new store of knowledge. It is still so new that it has not been applied to general problems as a whole. War and Human Nature is a pamphlet which seeks to apply this knowledge to the matter of war. Naturally this pamphlet can only assume to be a trickle of a beginning along this line, but its manner of approach makes it important. (It is largely based on the book, Human Nature and Enduring Peace, edited by Gardner Murphy, New York, Houghton, Mifflin, 1945.) May we here give a few quotes from it: "War and peace depend upon what people feel they must have, and the ways they feel they can best get what they want." "We shall be really safe from war only after we have a program which ensures an essential harmony within every individual." ". . . we should all like to see that our children have music lessons and similar advantages. But from the standpoint of those who want world peace, it is far more important that they have lots of love." The pamphlet, no. 125, may be had from Public Affairs Committee, Inc., 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, N. Y., for ten cents a copy.

RICH NATIONS, as well as hungry nations, may drive towards conquest and war. Poverty can make a people more aggressive and warlike when their ideals are those of comparative economic prosperity. However, people who expect little else than poverty may not be driven to belligerency by it. Up to now the people of India have been an example of this. It is what a people expects which largely determines whether or not they will be driven into war-making. A rich people can set out to acquire even more wealth and thereby be involved in quarrels which may lead to war. Today, the United States is a rich nation. However, there is something about the motivation of American industrial and commercial interests that is making them reach out

(Continued on page 7)

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Ruth Ewert Harder Reports from Paraguay

(The following is a letter which Ruth Ewert Harder recently wrote to her parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Ewert, Hillsboro, Kansas. We print it here because of its general interest and because it describes in a concrete way how M.C.C. workers tackle problems. The refugees referred to are Mennonite refugees from Germany which were recently brought on the S. S. Volendam to Paraguay for settlement there. The Paraguayan revolution interfered with the transportation of the refugees.)

We are now living in a refugee camp just outside of Asuncion. In our last letter we wrote about the revolution here in Paraguay. It still isn't over. At any rate, one shipload of people were stranded in the Asuncion harbor for several days and for each day that we kept the 370 people on the boat in the harbor we had to pay over seven hundred dollars so that was quite expensive. Last Thursday we had a meeting at the center to decide whether to take them off and place them here at the Government school and experiment farm or to leave them on board ship. We agreed that it would be cheaper to take them off even though it would mean more work for us. The next question was who would be put in charge to see that everything was set up and that all the people would get three meals a day. Ernst and I volunteered to take charge if we could have help the first day or two to get things organized. We knew there would be very little equipment here, but not as little as there really is. All that was given us was part of the ground here and two large dormitories each having two large rooms. So that means four rooms for all of these people.

The First Dinner and Supper

On Friday morning we got up at 4:30, had breakfast at 5 and then started off for the market to buy food for these people. We couldn't get meat for such a large group, so we had mandioka, gravy, lettuce and bananas, bread and coffee. We were given one large kettle and two small ones to cook our food. There is no kitchen available so we quickly had to set one up under the trees. Before all was said and done our dinner wasn't ready before 1:15. During the time that the men were fixing us our stoves and building fires, the women were scrubbing the dormitories. You should have seen these people as they came—everything strange and we strange as well. Viola D. and Emma Schlichting came out to help us. Urie Gingerich was the errand man since he drove the pickup truck. We have no dining room except a tangerine orchard, so the people just eat under the trees or on their beds! Since we had so few kettles we had to start our supper immediately after we had our dinner eaten. We got some meat, cut it up with table knives and one butcher knife which was dull. I'm telling you that was a job to cut up a hind quarter of beef with table knives sharpened on rocks. Then we also cooked noodles, so the main dish for supper was noodles with meat. Then we had bread, coffee and tangerines. Just as it was time to serve supper we received word that we should be back in Asuncion before 7 or we'd have to stay until morning. We had two women and some girls serve the supper and Ernst stayed while I went back to the city for the night. That was a day which really made us a bit tired, but it was an interesting one. After I got back I packed our suitcase and went to bed.

Use Sticks To Mix Food in Washtubs

Saturday morning I got up at 4:30 again. We went to market in Asuncion right after our early breakfast in order to buy some vegetables. We got some carrots and beans, so that meant soup. I had wanted to get cabbage, but that was not available. In the meantime Ernst and some boys had gone to market here in San Lorenzo which is the small town about a mile from here. We went over there then to get them and the food they had purchased. That was Saturday, so we had to get enough for Sunday also. Here we mix all of our food in large wash tubs which we used in Asuncion for our laundry. Our mixing bowls are galvanized pails which people have loaned us. But you should taste the good meals which we serve here. It is amazing what can be done with a little. Our mixing spoons are sticks which the boys made for us. All of our water has to be carried in buckets and two ten gallon cans which were loaned to us. We have a spring about two blocks from here which gives us good water. We have four boys who are our firemen and water boys, and those fellows really have to work. They start a fire at 4:30 in the morning and keep it going until 6:30 every day. Ernst and I each have a cot here in a little room. Our clothes we have suspended from the ceiling. As soon as enough boxes have been emptied we want to make us a little table.

Services with a Choir and Sunday School

Sunday was really the big day for us. We had Sunday School for all the children under fifteen. The older folks had church service under the trees. We even had a choir sing at the services. This choir was organized Saturday evening around 9 o'clock after evening devotions. In our children's Sunday School class we had ninety-five. Ella Berg brought her Flannelgraph board and told a Bible story. That was something new for the children, so they were very attentive. Then they sang. You should hear the children as well as the older folks sing. They have learned a lot of songs and many of them have note books with them in which they have copied some of their favorites. There are at least a half dozen guitars in the group so we always have music.

Beef and Gravy and "Plumemos"

I was talking about Sunday so I better continue. We had a real dinner—mandioka, nice pieces of cooked beef, gravy made with the meat juice, lettuce, bread, coffee, bananas. Sunday for supper we had "Obstsuppe" made with prunes, figs and pears and then prepared like we make "Plumemos." You should have seen the people eat that. Everyone thought it was wonderful. It is sorta fun to cook for these people in our outdoor kitchen.

Services Every Evening

These people here have services every evening—singing and someone preaching. Of course, there are always some who do not take part, but most of them do. I wish you could hear these people tell their stories. We just don't have enough time to listen to all of them, but they always come around while we work and want to talk to us. We scarcely have ten minutes a day for ourselves. We hope by and by to have things going so that we can at least take a nap at noon, but so far that doesn't seem to be on the program.

Asuncion Mennonites Visit

I forgot to mention that on Sunday we had invited all the Asuncion Mennonites over here for the service. Many of them stayed to visit with the people in the afternoon. Some of the business men brought candy for the children and were they ever happy about that.

A Big Rainstorm

Last night we had a big rain storm. We just finished with supper and our evening devotions when it started to thunder, lighten, and then just pour. At 8 the electricity went off, so there wasn't much left for the people to do but to go to bed or to sit in the dark. Many of them were scared—especially the women. With all the windows closed and so many people in one room you can imagine that there wasn't much sleeping done before the storm was over. Our poor kitchen suffered too. We took all of our kettles inside, but our stoves had to get wet. This morning our poor firemen got up at 4 o'clock already and tried to build a fire. They had to scoop up the wet ashes, find some dry "strauch" and try to start the fire. I looked out of the window once and saw the three of them lying on the ground—one by each stove or fire—and just blowing to try to get it to burn. When we got out there at 6 they said they had blown the fire for one hour, and half an hour it had burned.

Children Drink Black Coffee and Condensed Milk

Needless to say we could hardly have our breakfast ready at 7, but we were ready at 7:30. We had oatmeal, coffee and bread. You would just be amazed to see children beginning at the age of one and up drink black coffee and eat great big pieces of bread. We do have good bread, but our children at home could never eat that much. There are some nursing mothers here, so we give them and all children up to three years of age a cup of milk every afternoon at 3 o'clock. We figure if they get their oatmeal in the morning with a bit of sugar and milk and the milk in the afternoon that should suffice. Of course all the milk we use here is powdered or condensed. Cows milk is scarce all over this country. I think the people would feel as though they had seen a wonder if they would find a cow here that gives milk like ours do.

Paraguayan Markets

I should tell you about the markets here. Of course, I wouldn't trade our method of shopping for this one. Early in the morning the Paraguayan women gather their vegetables, chickens or what have you and start to market on their donkeys. When they get to the market each one spreads his belongings on the ground. They even bring their cows to market to milk them and sell fresh milk. Of course, there you buy it by the cupfuls. I think some people just come to the market in the morning to eat their breakfast! The poor donkeys have to stand with their front feet tied together and wait for the old ladies to ride them back home. The little babies have to come along to market too, but they really aren't in the mother's way. She either puts it on her back or lays it on the ground. By 8 or 8:30 they have most of their goods sold and they can then stay at home the rest of the day and sleep. Quite convenient for them.

Song Festival

Just now they are having a song festival outside. The ladies are playing their guitars and all the people are sitting on the lawn and singing. It sounds nice. Some of the old songs which you know from the Perle and Liederperle they sing. Just now they are singing "Und wenn der Kampf vorueber, werden wir gekroent"—like you taught it to us.

Open School

Since we don't know how long we will be here we are going to start school for all the children under fifteen. There are a few teachers in the group but as yet we don't have writing material or any books.

Laundry in Cold Water

You should see them do their laundry in cold water and spread it all over the grass and trees—it is really quite a sight. Soap is very scarce here so they have to come and ask us for a piece when they want to do their laundry. Since I don't have time to go home to do our laundry I asked Viola and Emma to do it for us this time.

Sickness

We have all sorts of people here, among whom are also some sick ones. Some women have been beaten badly and have very weak nerves. It is really a pity to see them suffer. They should be in a hospital, but such we have not here, so we put them into our sick room. Today a lady also told me that her little boy had the measles and she could hardly keep him in bed. Some of the children get rash from the weeds, others get mosquito bites and scratch them until they bleed and

---

ECHO VERLAG

Echo Verlag is the title of a new publishing association, sponsored by the one-time students of the former Chortitz Russian Central Schule, and whose purpose it is to preserve through print some of the stirring experiences of the Mennonites in their Russian homeland by those who know these experiences first hand.

Three phamplets have already appeared: Die Tereker Ansiedlung, C. P. Toews; Die Ehemalige Schueler der Cortitzer Central Schule; and the third just off the press, Die Flucht ueber den Amur, A. Loewen and A. Friesen.

These booklets can be secured from Echo Verlag, Rosthern, Canada. This is a worthy project and should have the support of all Mennonites who are concerned about the preservation of the trials and experiences of one of the most stirring periods in all Mennonite history.—C. Henry Smith

WE FURNISH ANYTHING MADE OR PUBLISHED FOR SUNDAY SCHOOL OR CHURCH

MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE
PUBLISHERS-PRINTERS-RETAILERS

INVOICE
All Bills Net 30 Days

Newton, Kansas March 4, 1947

Sold To Invoice To

To All Our General Conference Churches
Everywhere

Terms: Before General Conference, August, 1947

________________Quarter

Return Invoice With Remittance

Quantity	Description	Unit Price	Total
7,343	copies per week, THE MENNONITE, 20 per cent increase in printing costs. Average annual cost of printing 69 cents more than subscription income		$5,066.67
2,166	copies per week, DER CHRISTLICHER BUNDESBOTE, 42 per cent increase in printing costs. Average annual cost of printing, 26 cents more than subscription income		563.16
3,698	copies per week, THE JUNIOR MESSENGER, 22 per cent increase in printing costs. Average annual costs, 18 cents more than subscription income		665.64
	Total services rendered in view of gifts to be received from our constituent churches, as per budget presented to the Council of Boards meeting in Newton, February 12, 1947.		$6,295.57

A gift "FOR PUBLICATIONS" is a gift for EVERY Conference function.

what have you. We still haven't gotten our medicine here for the camp so it is a bit difficult.

We have no idea how long we will be living here, but until political conditions are so that they can move on to the Chaco, we will have to stay here with them. They all hope it will be only a few days, but we will be happy if it won't be longer than a few weeks. Our pantry has mostly rice, noodles and macaroni, and that does get a bit tiresome. Besides the big boys here should be working instead of loafing all day. This is a good place for them to get the wrong impression of Paraguay because when they get into the colonies they will really have to work.

People Tell Sad Stories

I wish you could hear some of these people's stories. Just today a lady told me how she is separated from her husband and two oldest sons. One of them is in a prison camp in Italy and the other one she doesn't know. Her husband was a prisoner in Berlin for a long time, so she too fled with her family of five children who were still at home with her to Berlin in the hopes that she would somehow find him there. In the meantime he too was looking for his family after he was released. Not being able to find them he volunteered to go back to Russia to look for his family. Now the woman with five of the children is here and her husband is looking for them in Russia and Siberia. She is very downhearted and thinks about it whenever she isn't busy with something else and then too. Then there is a young man here whose wife and two small children were taken from him in Germany and sent back to Siberia or died somewhere on the way. He too was in the service and as he was about to be united with his family they were taken away and he had to flee for his life. His parents and brothers and sisters were taken in Russia and so here he is without relatives. Nearly every afternoon he comes and shows me pictures of his wife, children, brothers and sisters. He says it is so discouraging to think of starting to farm here all alone, but he wouldn't mind if he knew where his family was. He said he would be willing to swim across the ocean if he would get word that they were still alive . . . Then there is a girl here who escaped out of Russia with her grandparents. Her parents and brothers and sisters all stayed behind while she fled with the grandparents. They were old and didn't want to go alone, so she volunteered to flee with them. To hear these people talk about how they were starved and how their bodies puffed up because there was nothing to eat or how they ate grass and worms or even bugs if they could find them just nearly takes one's appetite away. One of the ladies said if all their histories would be written down she didn't know if she even wanted to read it because of its gruesomeness. The young girls working in the kitchen tell of how they ran miles and miles while the police was after them and how they hid in ditches and in people's barns during the night. One of the girls told of how her sisters hid in a hay stack. . . . We just can't even imagine the fear they must have had all the time.

I could write pages of what people tell us, but I better not.

You should see my table on which I am writing. I am sitting on Ernst's cot and using the suitcase for the table. It isn't very comfortable, but there isn't a chair in the building anywhere. We made a table in the pantry which Ernst also uses for his office. Our bathtub is a pitcher of water or for special occasions a pail of water.

Tomorrow my kitchen force changes so I'll have to break in a new staff of twelve in all. That means I'll have to be out there most of the day. We have decided to rotate workers every three days so that more of them get a chance to work.

This letter isn't very logical, but neither is this normal life so you'll have to pardon it. Maybe by next week things will have changed and we'll be able to have a bit more time to write letters.

BISHOP TOEWS—AN APPRECIATION

As a representative of the British and Foreign Bible Society for many years in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, may I offer on my own behalf and that of the Bible Society, a tribute of affection and high regard to the life and work of the late Rev. David Toews of Rosthern, Saskatchewan, for thirty-four years Bishop of the Mennonite Church, and whom I have known intimately for thirty-one years.

Through the kindness and influence of this great leader, I have been welcomed on behalf of the Bible Society in many Mennonite Churches and Conferences, both Provincial and General. I saw much of Bishop Toews during the immigration and settlement of the 20,000 Mennonites from Russia in 1923-1930, and realized somewhat of his magnanimous spirit in the tremendous task which was his as Chairman of The Mennonite Colonization Board.

He now "rests from his labors" but Mennonite Churches, Schools, and Academies, Girl's Homes, and Old Peoples' Homes, in various centres, are among the "works" that follow him. Thousands, also, of devoted Christians, interested in the distribution of the Holy Scriptures, and in the proclamation of the Gospel, at home and abroad, whom it is my privilege to know, live today to carry on the programme of their Master, Christ, inspired by their revered and lamented leader, Bishop Toews.

His soul we leave in God's keeping, and his work in God's hands. His former co-laborers, his successors in office, and the sorely bereaved families we earnestly commend to "The God of all Grace and Comfort."

Personally, I shall ever hold Bishop Toews in affectionate remembrance.

(Signed) Rev. J. B. Taylor

District Secretary Emeritus in North Saskatchewan.

MENNONITE REFUGEE NOTES

William T. Snyder and C. J. Rempel have been in Mexico for the past number of weeks as representatives of the Mennonite Central Committee, to investigate possibilities of refugee settlement in that country. After having had several interviews with government officials in Mexico City, as well as visiting the Mennonite colonies in Chihuahua and Durango, they have returned to report their findings and recommendations.

RELIEF

Child Feeding Unit at Krefeld

A new child feeding project is to begin about April 1 at Krefeld, in the British Zone of Germany. About 7,000 undernourished children between the ages of 3 and 6 years will be given supplementary food. Peter Bartel and Katherine Derksen are there now making the final arrangements, and Peter Epp is to join them soon.

New Builders' Unit in Belgium

Plans are taking definite shape for an MCC reconstruction unit in Belgium. Other builders units in Holland and France have been filling a great need as they work in rebuilding homes that have been damaged. The new unit in Belgium will be located at Bullange.

CPS

CPS Program Nears Termination

All of the men who are now in Mennonite CPS camps have had their final physical examinations, and in some cases the discharge papers have been received. The discharges are all to be effective as of March 29.

The total number of men being released from Mennonite camps is 142. Of these six are in Puerto Rico, twelve are in Camp Bernard, Gulfport, Mississippi, twenty-six are under detached service to MCC Headquarters and Material Aid program, and the remaining ninety-eight are in Camp No. 52, Powellsville, Maryland. This camp will automatically close after the men leave.

College and Seminary News

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

The play to be given by the College Department is Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize play, "Our Town." A new Westinghouse refrigerator was received for the Foods Room. Some new typewriters were finally secured for the typing classes. Miss Ratzlaff led chapel exercises on Monday. On Wednesday Rev. G. S. Warkentin of the Silver Lake, M. B. church spoke. Miss Ewert had charge of the Sunday School Review at the Salem South Church Sunday. The religious film "Found Wanting" was shown at the Christian Youth Volunteer program on Monday. Members of the Public Speech class have been busy judging rural school declamatory contests this spring. Rev. Arthur Ortman and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Fast from Warroad Minnesota were campus visitors this week. Elmer Ediger was on the campus Thursday and Friday to familiarize students with the various projects of the Voluntary Service Program of the Young Peoples Union and the Mennonite Central Committee. The faculty and faculty wives met for an evening of social fellowship and relaxation on Friday. O'Ray Graber will be the Freeman representative in the group of Mennonite students who will take part in the student exchange project this summer. Music Day will again be observed on Easter Monday. A full day of sacred music has been planned.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

The semi-annual meeting of the Board of Trustees of the College will be held Monday, April 7. The Manchester College Chorus is to give a program in Bluffton on the evening of April 7. Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, Professor of Philosophy at Earlham College, will give a Vesper address April 20. His subject is "A New Pattern of Living." Dr. Trueblood is author of The Predicament of Modern Man and Foundations for Reconstruction. The Gospel Teams will be in the churches of Northern Indiana on April 13. Rev. Harry Yoder spoke in the Silver Street and Middlebury, Indiana churches on the week end of March 30. He carried on solicitation work in those church areas on the following days. During the week of March 23 solicitation work was carried on in the Topeka, Indiana, community. Dr. and Mrs. Ramseyer expect to attend a meeting of alumni and former students of Bluffton College now living in Illinois, in the Jefferson Hotel in Peoria, Illinois, on April 12.

BETHEL COLLEGE

The College choir, which has made numerous appearances in the surrounding churches, opened the special Holy Week services of the community on Palm Sunday afternoon with the annual rendition, under the direction of Professor Hohmann, of "The Seven Last Words of Christ," by Dubois. Soloists were Alma Nolan Sapp, soprano; Edwin Brimmer, tenor; Harold Olmstead, bass—all of Wichita—with Meribeth Nachtigal as piano accompanist and Dr. Fast as narrator. College students and faculty, as part of the local congregation, took part in the three evening services arranged by the pastor, and which closed with the communion service on Wednesday evening. Good Friday services will be held in the chapel at 10 A. M. Easter vacation for the student body begins April 2. During this time the Men's Octet, which has been scheduled for numerous engagements this spring, will visit a number of Oklahoma churches.

MENNONITE SEMINARY

During the last week before Easter vacation,. Rev. Harper Will of the First Church of the Brethren, Chicago, led the chapel services in a series of Easter talks. The subject matter of the talks was based on Jesus' last week, passion, and resurrection. Harper Will was thinking particularly of the meaning of these closing events in Jesus life as they applied to a group of future ministers. His analysis and applications deepened the vision of a minister's field of service as well as the rich meaning of the Passion week.

Easter Sunday the Seminary had a special vesper service consisting of music commemorating the risen Lord. Lawrence Burkhalter of Bluffton College assisted in the program with his violin as did the Seminary choir and soloists from the Seminary.

David and La Veta Habegger spent Easter vacation in Kansas. Walter and Wanda Ediger visited friends in Detroit. Burt and Lila Russel spent several days in New York.

From the editor's point - of - view:

(Continued from page 2)

into all the world for more trade and more profits. In our case we seem to be dangerous to other nations, not because we are poor but because we are rich and desire to become richer. The whole matter raises the question as to what are the motives of American industry and the people as a whole. Can we with our present motives and pattern of behaviour win the masses of the earth as our friends, or are we on the road that alienates?

Idle words! Is that the proper designation for some of our comments upon facts which are absolutely obvious to all concerned? Or do they serve a certain purpose? Perhaps, even though they do not add to our thinking, they do something for our feelings. May they not be an attempt of getting into right and pleasant relationships with others? May not their superficiality be an indication of feelings of hurt and loneliness in the past, feelings which have bewildered? The person who feels very secure emotionally does not seem to be driven to say a lot that doesn't make sense. He is calm. His mind is concentrated on the essential. It can be, for he has few emotional warpings that compel him to make statements about the obvious or the unimportant. Idle words! They come out of the heart more than out of the head. They are often a clear indication that someone needs a lot of kindness, so that he can learn to feel secure and confident and thus be enabled to use words for gaining and sharing vital experience.

Helen Nickel Reports on First Months at Jagdeeshpur

It is not difficult to report what I have been doing during my first six months in Jagdeeshpur. It has been a period of adjustment and preparation for tasks that are quite new to me. Since I arrived here on May 20 the few remaining days of that month were spent mostly in perspiring and trying to get servants and things together enough to do my own housekeeping. Early in June I could make a long trip in the Jeep with Mr. Ratzlaff to see some of this large area where we have so many church groups. I made contacts with the few women workers who are employed to help in the evangelistic work and even read through the Oriya primer with the help of a teacher. The heat was very oppressive but at last late in the month the rains broke. Not until then did the missionaries get together at the station. . . At station meetings we could talk over plans and problems better and I found that there was a great task in supervising the teachers of the thirteen daily classes which we would be conducting for five weeks of the annual Bible Course. This year the rains were so insistent that there were some days when one could scarcely venture out of the house, but attendance at Bible Course, in classes in Exodus and John, were on the whole quite satisfactory.

The bad roads have been the greatest delaying factor in getting to see the thirteen rural schools. In September I made a number of futile attempts to reach certain schools by ox tanga. One evening we got stuck in a mud hole so thoroughly that it took hours of effort to get the animals out and it was impossible to go on the remaining six miles to our destination. Instead we spent the night on the veranda of a District Council (Government) school. To date I have not yet seen our own Koksa school in the Bethany church circuit. But the six schools that I have been able to reach hold much promise and all show great need for improvement. The equipment in every one of them is quite meager and too often the teacher is not trained for his or her work and naturally great weakness shows up. In a number of places, though, the interest of the children is refreshing. This seems to be true of the newest groups like those at Gidhli and Aukuri. The jeep will help solve many a conveyance problem, but it is calling for plenty of patience to get actually to use it. The men missionaries who have licenses to operate motors have their own work and interests, so I decided to get a fine young Indian helper trained to be a reliable driver. He has spent a month in Champa where Mr. Waltner has another boy under training, too. Soon he will come back here and then he should be able to take care of the jeep and go with me on these frequent trips. Unfortunately on Saturday Mr. Ratzlaff had bad luck! He brought a group of teachers, who had come here to attend an institute of a day-and-a-half, to Saraipali and Basna from where they could reach their homes on foot for Sunday. On his return trip, with only Mary Ann with him, it got dark and he rammed on to a stump and ruined the steering apparatus so that the jeep will now have to be towed to Raipur, ninty miles from here, for extensive repairs. In the meanwhile the beautiful short days slip by and we are forced to go at an ox cart rate to do any supervising work in the district.

Yesterday Elenore Schmidt who is here very temporarily went with me to the village of Aukuri where the Christian group was baptized about two months ago. They welcomed us with great eagerness, and I was happily surprized to find more than thirty school children lined up to sing for us. This school is not in any budget, has no equipment, and as yet not under the control of the Primary School Board. So I was most agreeably encouraged to find such spontaneous work. The present teacher had a long time in war service as a motor driver and it did me good to see him doing this kind of work with the help of his wife, rather than loaf and "gripe" as a number of local fellows are doing.

Now a word about the spelling of JAGDEESHPUR. We are rather careless in spelling this name. It should not be spelled in three different ways. Deori-Phuljhar Raj has also lost all significance if it ever had any for our American friends. Those two villages used to sort of mark the boundaries of the Mission area but now we have extended for beyond, and we should refer to Basna and Phuljhar much less seldom and get the folks at home acquainted with the fact that JAGDEESPHUR, now a post office, is the name of the Mission station and Christian community. and all work emanates from this center. Thanks.

I am happy in Jagdeeshpur, challenged greatly by the great need on every hand. As yet I feel that I have not been able to work to full capacity due to some of the conditions I have described, but I do trust that with patience and prayer I can get into my stride. I am also much concerned that we get more helpers from America and from among the widening circle of Christian young people here in India. For God's marvellous protection during these uncertain days in this land, we cannot praise Him enough. —Very sincerely, Helen E. Nickel, Jagdeeshpur, via Raipur, C. P., India, November 26, 1946.

Three blind men being brought to Mennonite mission hospital in India.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Five Voluntary Service Projects This Summer

Voluntary Service Units will be sponsored by the General Conference in five places this summer. These places are Chicago, Illinois; Busby, Montana; Rosthern, Saskatchewan; the Illinois-Indiana churches, and the Oklahoma-Kansas churches. In these different areas projects are being undertaken under the Home and Foreign Mission Boards, the Board of Education, and the Mennonite Youth Farm of Rosthern, Saskatchewan.

Young people interested in giving approximately two months of their summer to Christian service for the church have an opportunity of a variety of fields and a variety of types of service. Not only one type of skill is needed. Rather many types of skills are needed for this summer's work. Those who will teach in Daily Vacation Bible School, recreation leaders, carpenters, painters, musicians, speakers, those who will do house work. Many skills are needed in Voluntary Service units.

Four types of service units are to be offered this summer. In Montana there will be work with the Cheyenne Indians at the mission station with Rev. Alfred Habegger and Rev. Malcolm Wenger. In Chicago, there will be work with city children under Rev. Arnold Regier and Rev. John Neufeld. In the Indiana-Illinois and Kansas-Oklahoma churches there will be two youth teams. This is a new plan for young people to participate actively in church activity. An article appearing on another page describes this plan. In Saskatchewan there will be work at the Mennonite Youth Farm and in teaching Bible school.

The rich experiences of serving others, of the fellowship of a unit of enthusiastic young people together, and of working in new places with new people is the opportunity for young people who are desiring to make Christian service a real thing in their lives.

In these pages the full plans for the summer are presented for the General Conference program. In a later issue, the plans for Voluntary Service of the Mennonite Central Committee will be presented.

SERVICE UNITS FOR 1947

What Propects are There This Summer?

1. Daily Vacation Bible School. Chicago, Illinois. Time: Seven weeks beginning June 30. Rockwell Street Mission, Mennonite Gospel Mission, Mennonite Biblical Seminary are locations for this summer's schools.

2 Bible School and improvement of Mission Property. Lame Deer, Montana at the Montana Indiana Reservation. Time: Nine weeks beginning June 14.

3. Youth Service Teams. Indiana-Illinois and Oklahoma-Kansas areas. Time: Six weeks beginning July 5.

4. Summer Bible School and Building and Improvement on Mennonite Youth Farm. Rosthern, Saskatchewan. Time: Eight weeks beginning June 14.

5. Mennonite Central Committee service projects. These have not been announced as yet. Watch these pages for an announcement to appear soon.

Who May Apply?

Sincere Christian young men and women who are high school graduates or are above eighteen years of age. There are no educational requirements. Varying talents are needed. Good workers with the hammer and saw, those who like to do physical work, good Bible school teachers, good workers in the church. All kinds of talents are needed in the Lord's service.

What About Expenses?

All workers will receive an allowance of twenty dollars per month. Perhaps the local church or other local group who would be interested would aid in providing for the travel expenses. If this is not possible, the allowance can be used toward the paying of expenses.

Where Can I Apply?

Write: General Conference Voluntary Service
722 N. Main Street
Newton, Kansas

Mennonite Youth Teams Will Visit Churches

by Elmer Ediger

"Repeatedly people have said that the 'traveling youth team' visit was the best thing that ever happened to this church."

This remark is typical of that another denomination's leaders have been saying since such teams visited their churches for a week last summer. This summer for the first time such a youth service will be available to a few of our churches in the Indiana-Illinois and Kansas-Oklahoma area. Last year one volunteer worker toured a circuit of our California churches giving special emphasis to music. Some of those churches have again requested such service for this summer. The Mennonite Youth Team idea is a further development of this same service.

A Team of Young People — At Your Service

A team consists of three or four young people with a team leader, an older young person. Generally team members will be from eighteen to twenty-five years of age. The purpose of the team will be to share their talents, energies, love and prayers with the local church and pastor to strengthen and revitalize their own program. The workers will be "enthusaistic Christians" working with the local people through meetings, study groups, home visits, social and recreational gatherings, and actual work and service that the pastor and church leaders have wanted done.

What Is the Team Prepared To Do?

These young men and women enlist for a period of six weeks. The first week will be spent in a training conference to be held in Chicago. Here they will be assigned to either of the two teams to go out in order to make for greatest strength, so that each, for example, may have one strong music leader. The team members will receive help in planning various informative, interesting programs, in conducting study classes or discussions, in helping local youth to do some possible young people's activity, in story telling and handwork for children, and in helping to direct recreational evenings, and even how to help conduct an overnight or one-day retreat for the local church.

In the local church and perhaps in a nearby community there are things waiting to be done—young people visits to shut-ins, cleaning up or painting a room or some part of the church, repainting primary class chairs, helping the pastor or some local leader re-work the library or repair hymnals, assisting in evangelistic visitation.

The team is not coming to do things for the local people but with them—whether it be programs, fellowship, or some work. Nor will each team be able to do all that is wanted. Together a worthy program can be worked out.

The Local Church Must Prepare, Too

Those churches who want such a team and are scheduled will want to prepare for this special week or activities (or it can be a three-day period). Before the team comes someone from the outside will likely meet with the minister and perhaps other leaders to make the plans. The congregation will want to know what a Mennonite Youth Team is. Some information about the church as to size their particular desires, etc., will be given the team members while they are gathered for the first week of training and planning. The Sunday before the coming there should be united prayers that God may use this experience to His glory.

When the team arrives, probably on Saturday, a church leader or pastor will meet the members of the team and work out final schedules for the week. Sunday some of the team might be asked to teach Sunday school. The morning service may be turned over to them. Sunday afternoon the young people may gather with the team at some home for a sing and to get acquainted. Sunday evening may be a regular young people's or church program worked out together.

During the week days the forenoons will be needed for team members to prepare themselves. In the afternoon, they will help in the visiting of shut-ins and physical work like repainting. Evening meetings will vary —perhaps several open meetings for the entire church, others for special groups such as the young people, women's missionary group, or Sunday school teachers. The last evening may be a special inspirational meeting.

If your church would be interested in such a team, write to Bertha Fast, Mountain Lake, Minnesota.

Unit at the Youth Farm, Saskatchewan

by Henry Friesen

1. Daily Vacation Bible School. DVBS is taught in our Canadian Provinces. Any young Christian man or woman may participate in helping to bring the gospel to the children. This is indeed a very important phase of Christian work. It determines to a large extent the future of our children.

2. On the Mennonite Youth Society Farm at Rosthern, Saskatchewan, we have three main aims for the coming summer.

a. Repairing the grounds around the Invalid Home and Children's Home. This work has been entirely neglected since we purchased the farm in 1943. Most of our efforts went towards the paying of the twenty thousand dollars for which the farm was bought from the Dominion Government. We plan to sow lawns, trim the shrubbery, dig and cultivate around the trees, plant more trees, and on the whole bring the campus into a better condition.

b. A large new addition (34' x 62') has been built on to the Invalid Home. Also the Childrens' Home is about completed. We plan to complete the Childrens' Home this summer and lead the water and sewer systems to and from these places.

c. We do not have any intentions of building for the summer, except as already mentioned to finish the Children's Home, and in addition to this we are planning on enlarging one of our implement sheds. This shed has been used as an auditorium on our retreats and is getting too small. Since more people come year by year, we need more space.

Some of the other buildings need repairing and this is also expected to be done to a certain extent this summer. We are looking to the Lord to add His blessing upon this work we have in mind and we ask for your prayers, that the Lord might have His will in all that is done.

Serve at the Montana Indian Mission

The Indian Mission field is located in Southeastern Montana on the Tongue River Indian Reservation. The work is among the Northern Cheyenne Indians. Volunteers needed there for this summer will be in charge of daily vacation Bible school and will do much needed painting and repair work on mission property.

Vacation Bible School

The daily vacation Bible school workers will teach in the morning. In the afternoon there will be time for studying, camp visiting and assisting in the necessary work about the mission such as cooking and cleaning. The school will consist of many Indian children, some mixed bloods and some white children. There will be beginners up to higher grades, ages five to fourteen. There may be some older than this age. Each school is to last two weeks.

Repair Work

At the Busby and Birney stations there is need for quite a bit of repair work to be done. Also, there is need for the painting of buildings. The workers who volunteer to do this could also assist in the Sunday school and church services.

While at the mission, the volunteers will have the opportunity to learn about Indian life, their customs and ways of doing things, the problems the missionary faces in ministering to them. And, they will have the opportunity to learn to know the Indians personally and to appreciate and love them. Preaching the Gospel to a people with a different background has its own unique problems. This is an opportunity to learn about them first hand.

Summer Bible School Unit in Chicago

Last year the first group of workers to serve in a General Conference Voluntary Service Unit were at the Chicago Mission under the direction of Rev. John P. Neufeld. This summer the second unit is to work in Chicago. They will teach daily vacation Bible school as they did last summer.

The group will work under Rev. Arnold Regier. They will teach daily vacation Bible school at the General Conference Mission church on Rockwell Street, at the Central Conference Mission Church on Carpenter Street, and at the First Mennonite Church. Plans have not been completed, but there is a possibility that a school will also be held at the Mennonite Seminary.

The program will consist of teaching in the Bible School in the morning. Recreational work with the children will take place in the afternoon. There will also be opportunity to learn more about city life and to observe the culture of the city, its religious, social and economic life.

Last year the program consisted of the Bible school, recreation work, picnics, excursions on the lake, and visits to the sights of the city.

Those desiring to get a better insight into children's life in the city, the unique problems of teaching city children who are not as reserved as children in rural churches are, bringing the Bible stories to children, seeing and entering into city life, this is a unique and worthy opportunity.

Use 'Em!

A teacher who was much kinder at heart than his rough exterior would lead one to think used to growl at his students, "If you have a head, use it!"

Now students turn that around, and growl to themselves, "If we have a Publication Board, let's use 'em."

And they DO—thank God.

A graduate student needed a list of laymen who could be of help to him in his work at the seminary in gathering information. He called up the Publication Office of the General Conference—could they furnish a list of laymen?

Well, yes and no. We hadn't exactly made up a list of laymen, but we do firmly believe that "To them that Love the Lord, all things work together for good!" And so we offered him the list of Sunday School Superintendents and treasurers, than whom there ARE no finer laymen—and the problem was solved—in one hour, thanks to the new listing facilities of that Board.

That's right, young folks—you have Conference Boards. Use 'em.

Life of a Nurse in Honan Province, China

By Verna M. Zimmerman, R. N.

The sun seemed unable to penetrate the thick grey sky in a bleak, April morning as the dilapidated steam engine of the Peiping-Hankow Railroad slowly pulled in the first passenger train in nine years into the bombed out railroad station of Chengchow. Clouds of dust and sand whipped through the remaining pillars of the old railroad station. Here and there people were still huddled under their scant bedding having used the platform for their inn. The masses of people pulled their unattractive drab colored padded garments closer to their bodies in an effort to keep warm, at the same time trying to protect their eyes from the sharp sting of the wind and sand. There appeared sort of a perpetual grin on the faces of those people who had suffered a great deal from war, famine and foreign occupation in the past nine years. They exhibited a certain stolidity that has enabled them to endure hardship and maintain their identity and absorb their conquerers rather than be annihilated by them. The buildings with their grey bricks and grey tiled roof blended with the dull monotony of that bleak, April morning.

This was Honan, the place we planned to spend the next few years of our stay in China. Names in China always seem to portray a meaning. Honan means south of the river, referring to the Hwang Ho or Yellow River in English, Ho meaning river and nan south. The Hwang Ho is also known as China's Sorrow because of its tendency to overflow its banks and flood the surrounding areas. The Yellow River is so called because of its color. It carries a tremendous amount of silt, which is picked up as it follows its course through the loess areas of the North China Plain. The silt carried by the river is deposited in the river bed thus necessitating the building of dikes to prevent overflowing of its banks. Through the past centuries the river has overflown its banks many times causing a great deal of loss of life and property. The dikes were blown up to prevent the advance of the Japanese. This resulted in the devastation of a large area causing many people to be homeless. The dikes are being rebuilt by UNRRA in order to redirect the river in the old channel, thus preventing further flooding of these areas. It is in this area where a great deal of relief and rehabilitation is needed and where MCC personnel are engaged in the tractor project under CNRRA direction, also the organization and direction of small industries.

Chengchow

Chengchow is a junction of the railroads running north and south and east and west. For this reason the city was subjected to more bombing raids than some of the adjoining towns. Quite a large area of the city was demolished and nothing but a few pillars were left of the old railroad depot. Most of the schools and refugees returning from the west to their former homes passed through this town. Only about one-third of the city's population had so far returned. All along the main streets shops were in a state of repair. The first MCC headquarters in China were set up in the Free Methodist Mission Compound in Chengchow.

Vera Yoder and I arrived simultaneously from Calcutta and after a week's orientation were assigned to the Hua Mei Hospital under the management of the Friends' Ambulance Unit for a three month's period of medical orientation in China. Our term of service served a mutual purpose in that they had insufficient nursing personnel and we were eager for the experience. Vera was assigned to the theater for a period of three weeks after which she went to Changte, a hundred miles north of Chengchow where she was placed in charge of the nursing service at the Kwang Sheng Hospital, which was under the management of the FAU. I was assigned to the Out Patient Department of the Hua Mei Hospital.

Hospital Pioneering

The Friends' Ambulance Unit entered Chengchow before the evacuation of the Japanese and entered the mission compounds immediately after the Japanese evacuated and thus prevented the occupation and distruction of the property by the Chinese soldiers which so often occurred in many places. Their project was to reopen the mission hospitals in this area as soon as possible. Most of the hospitals were closed and those which were operating were running on very low standards. In the program of hospital rehabilitation the FAU set up carpenter shops and medical mechanics who made much of the equipment that was needed in the hospital. It was rather fascinating to observe how resourceful the medical mechanics were in improvising and making basins and pans out of an old crashed airplane. The hospital had very little equipment but as the hospital was being rehabilitated one by one the metal beds returned and eventually enough were gathered to furnish two large hospital wards. The Chinese Christians had taken what equipment they could and placed it in their homes to keep it from the Japanese.

This was the place I was going to spend my first four months in China. One of the first things a foreigner does upon entering China is to take on a Chinese name. The Chinese language contains only about one hundred surnames and so one must make one's choice from this list usually choosing that which sounds the most nearly like their own. In the hospital I responded to the name of Meng Hu shih (Hu shih meaning nurse.)

The Chinese Nurses

The Chinese nurses are much like their American sisters and some of them have even adopted their modern hair do's. I should like to introduce you to two of the girls working in the Out Patient Department. Ma Hu shih is a very fair girl with long black braids around her head. She seemed to have a distaste for the unpleasant tasks in nursing, but she came from a home of refinement and this probably accounted for it. She seemed to manifest a partiality for the Chinese doctor in the clinic and some of us sensed a romance in the offing. Several months later Dr. P'an offically invited me to his engagement feast. The whole affair was done in good Chinese fashion, and he did not propose to his fiancee directly. The Superintendent of Nurses served as the mediator and go between. Ma Hu shih had a deep religious experience and her fiance was baptized three week previous to their engagement. Miss Chu, the student nurse in the O. P. D., was of a slightly different calibre. She was quick and clever and had a weakness for bright colors and make up. Her nursing career came to a rather abrupt end when a young army officer from Shanghai decided he wanted her for his t'ai t'ai (wife).

Teaching and Not Knowing Chinese

Last of all I should like to introduce you to my bandaging class. Teaching in a school of nursing I figured would be one of the last duties of a relief worker. When confronted with the question one could hardly refuse as there appeared no one else to do it. But the question was how to do it especially without the aid of a textbook and with the teacher and students each having knowledge of only several dozen words of each other's language. The problem seemed to solve itself. Just at this time a missionary nurse came through and had in her possession a textbook containing all the needed materials. Pictures of all the bandages were made and a course of lectures to go with them. Just as the lectures were completed, a Chinese lady, who spoke very good English, came into O. P. D. for treatment. She saw the notes and the course of conversation it was discovered that she was professor of Pediatrics in the Medical School connected with Nanking University. She offered to translate all the lectures as a token of appreciation of what the foreigners were trying to do for China. Each student was given a copy of the lectures and told by an interpreter to study them and that they would be given a test at the end of the course. The course it self was given mostly by the sign language as the spoken language was not sufficient to convey the ideas that needed to be given. Six girls with a great deal of energy seem to be produce quite a few laughs and giggles as they practice their bandages on each other just as any student nurse does in our own land. They are always eager to learn English and like to exhibit what they have learned. A common expression as they had completed their bandages was "Meng Hu shih look here!" The girls all were Christians. Three of them had become Christians while they were attending a refugee school which was under Christian influence. Nursing in China is greatly influenced by Christianity. The non-Christians finds it difficult to give unselfish service and do the menial tasks that the nursing profession demands. It is the Christian philosophy that helps tham to overcome of the old prejudices.

The Chinese students wear their hair short as this is a goverment requirement for the sake of cleaniness. The girls have varied temperaments and their ability and social background varies the same as that of students in other parts of the world. They have their pet peeves and squabbles and friends and enemies the same as all the rest of us do..

Working with the Cinese nurses has been a rather small but worthwhile and stimulating piece of work, which has been done in the name of Christ. Our Chinese friends need your prayers as they adjust to the post war world.

LETTER FROM GERALD STUCKY RELATIVE TO ORDINATION OF MELVA LEHMAN

(The following letter was sent by Gerald Stucky of the Mennonite Mission in Colombia, South America, to Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, to be read at the ordination of Miss Lehman, which took place March 16 in Berne, Indiana.)

How grateful we are here in the Colombian mission field to hear that another worker is answering the call of the Lord's "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel." And how much greater joy there must be in heaven! Truly the fields are white unto harvest. The harvest, however, isn't the "wheat field" type of harvest where one man and a machine can reap hundreds of bushels in a short time. We find it to be rather the cotton field type—where men rather than machines gather one piece of cotton after the other. It seems that God's converts are hand picked.

I am glad that once more our church has the joy and the honor to send forth one of its own. I am sure that Melva is and will be a real witness for the Lord—and that she will bring honor to the Kingdom and joy to our church. The work on the field, we find, costs much in strength and effort and one has to do many many things that he never imagined that he would be doing and often doesn't do many of the things that he thought he would be doing. But many are the blessings in the work of the Lord. Furthermore, we would rather be in a work which may appear to be insignificant and failing now, but which we know will ultimately succeed than in a work which appears to be successful now but will ultimately fail. We are glad for the present and ultimate triumph of the work we are in.

May the blessing and peace of God be with you all Sunday as Melva is ordained into the work of the Lord. —Sincerely in Jesus Christ, Gerald Stucky

---

Verses like these are easy to write —And to READ, each week, in your Mennonite.

FIGHT AGAINST CANCER

Between Pearl Harbor and V-J Day 280,000 American lives were lost in the war. During that same period we lost 607,000 lives from cancer. Every three minutes someone in our country dies of cancer. A recent publication from the Division of Vital Statistics of the State Board of Health shows that cancer was a major cause of death in one or both sexes at all age levels after one year! In women between thirty and sixty-five years this unconquered enemy was the leading cause of death in 1945. In small boys from one to four, cancer was third on the list of leading causes of death.

Here are the red alerts which indicate that cancer may be approaching: A sore that does not heal, a painless lump, persistent indigestion, change in bowel habits, change in warts or moles, irregular bleeding or discharge.

Jottings

—First Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: The mothers and children of the church finished sixty-three school bags and sent them out to Akron, March 12. Our missionary to India, Gladys Klassen, left New York harbor on "The City of Tokyo," March 6. The church had a farewell service for her January 26 at which two former missionaries spoke: Rev. S. T. Moyer and Dr. H. C. Scholberg. The Oakleaf Mission Society took a special offering of fifty dollars to be used for dress materials for displaced persons. The order was sent to the Ohio Cutting Room. We are still seeking for a pastor to replace Rev. I. J. Dick, who wishes to lay down the work. Our Sunday School offerings are on the increase. The Lord is making us more sensitive toward a suffering world.—Mary Bargen, Corr.

—Lehigh Mennonite Church, Lehigh, Kansas: Twenty schoolbags were sent from our church to M.C.C. headquarters. Visiting ministers for March were: Rev. P. E. Goering of Linn, Kansas; and Milton Harder and David Janzen of Bethel College. Some shrubs, evergreens and trees have been planted to beautify the church yard. This week we also finished a cistern, which we have been looking forward to. At our last C. E. program we were privileged to have Wm. Kaether from Paraguay as a speaker. Mrs. W. E. Regier of Whitewater spoke in the interest of missions to the ladies of our church on the afternoon of March 26.—Mrs. F. G. Unruh, Corr.

—Hoffnungsau Church, Cuauhtemoc, Chihuahua, Mexico: A brief word of testimony from this corner of the Lord's vineyard. We do rejoice to know that the Lord has placed us here. Even though we have been speaking (my wife and I) of going into fulltime service we never even dreamt of going to Mexico. The field at Cuauhtemoc is not large but truly a needy one. The people are very nice and cooperative. Our work is limited to the city as such and amongst our own Mennonites. We do expect great things from the Lord, that it may please Him to save those which are without Christ as yet and to edify His own. The meetings are well attended. We have Sunday School every Sunday morning and after that the service. Every Sunday night we gather for a Bible-study. These are also well-attended. The work is very different from what we were used to in Canada, but we enjoy it, for we know it is for the Lord. Our desire is to be found faithful in preaching the unsearchable riches in Christ.—In gospel bonds, Frank P. Dyck —Meadow Mennonite Church, Colby, Kansas: Our congregation has donated several seven-hundred- bushel truckloads of wheat for relief. Rev. Heinrich T. Neufeld of the Oklahoma Bible Academy visited with us. Rev. Paul Kuhlman of the Grace Bible Institute was here last Sunday. Rev. W. C. Voth and Miss Elisabeth Goertz, China missionaries, expect to be here for Easter.—F. D. Goossen, Corr.

—Bethel College Church: Some new items on our literature table are: Buttrick, Christ and Man's Dilemma; Gregg, The Power of Non-violence; Hagedorn, The Bomb that Fell on America; Jones, I'm an Ill-adjusted Veteran; MacGregor, The New Testament Basis of Pacifism; Seagrave, Burma Surgeon. All these books may be checked out for two weeks.—Eldon Graber, Corr.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: We had the pleasure of having Bertha Fast, who did relief work in Egypt and Italy, in our church for two nights this week and also on Thursday afternoon when the ladies of the E.M.B. Church, M.B., and Grace Church met in the basement of Grace Church. Eighty women were present to enjoy the program, the fellowship and the cake and coffee. Miss Fast showed slides of Egypt, Palestine, and Italy.—Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—Boynton Mennonite Church, Hopedale, Illinois: The recent C. E. topic for discussion was, "What Does Good Friday Mean to Me?" The Lord's Supper and feet-washing were observed on March 30.

—First Church, Madrid, Nebraska: Our church had the joy of having Rev. J. J. Regier of Freeman, South Dakota, in our midst from March 24 to March 30. He brought us many helpful messages. On March 25 two boys in our community lost their lives while playing in a sand pit. The sand caved in and covered the boys, who died instantly. One boy, Ronald Dean Friesen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Friesen, was from our church. He would have been twelve years old the next day.—Mrs. J. Unruh, Corr.

—Rev. Howard G. Nyce received the following telegram from New York, dated March 21: "Sailing afternoon today. All well. God's joy to Friends. Farewell. L. W. and Matilda Jantzen.

—David Habegger, student at the Mennonite Seminary, served the Friedensfeld Church at Turpin, Oklahoma, on Good Friday and Easter. Brother Habegger served this church last summer and expects to serve it again this summer. Mr. and Mrs. Habegger also spent some time at Newton and at Hillsboro during the Easter vacation.

—Beatrice Church, Beatrice, Nebraska: Two valuable

C. E. programs during March were brought by Mr. Carl Epp and Dr. A. D. Stoesz who spoke and showed slides of Puerto Rico and the Mennonites of Mexico. Our pastor spent ten days at Alton, Kansas, conducting services in his father's church. On March 3 a fire, which began in the parsonage basement, caused an estimated one-thousand dollar dammage. The entire interior, except one bedroom, had to be redecorated. How thankful we are that it was discovered as soon as it was and that no one was injured.—Mrs. Elbert Koontz, Corr.

—Second Church, Paso, Robles, Calif. We have had quite a few special speakers lately. Rev. Solomon Mouttet of the "Go-Ye Mission" spoke of that work and showed pictures on March 4. March 9, 10 and 11 Miss Bertha Fast, representing the M.C.C. spoke of her experiences as a relief worker and of the opportunities to be given young people this summer. Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Osborne (nee Marie Schroeder) and small son, David, reached San Francisco from Nigeria, Africa, coming by way of New Zealand, March 14. They are now the happy parents of twins, a son and daughter, born on the eighteenth. They are to visit her parents, the E. H. Schroeders, before returning to their field. Within the same week, Rev. and Mrs. Lubin Jantzen and two children left New York, bound for the General Conference Mission field in India. Members of the congregation and other friends were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dyck at the celebration of their Silver Anniversary on the evening of March 23.

—Salem Zion Church, Marion, South Dakota: Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Dester visited our church March 2. showing slides of their work in India, at an evening meeting. Our mission society made and packed forty-two school bags with school supplies; it also finished and sent out six quilts for relief. A fine evening program was rendered in our church by the young people of the Salem congregation on March 23. Our pastor, Rev. J. J. Regier, is conducting a series of meetings in the Mennonite church of Madrid, Nebraska, during the last week in March. Rev John Schrag is to be in charge of the morning services on Sunday March 30 in Rev. Regier's absence.—Mrs. J. J. Saner, Corr.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: A very good revival was held in our church. Rev. Habegger from Van Nuys, California, was the evangelist, and he really brought us the true word of God. Christians were drawn closer and souls were saved. Wednesday night Rev. Solomon Mouttet of the "Go Ye" Mission brought slides of the work in the Ozarks and Oklahoma. The funeral of Mrs. Ben Friesen was held Wednesday at Salem. She was the daughter of Mrs. C. M. Friesen. They lived at Madrid, Nebraska, before coming to Oregon. The ladies all went to Oregon City to the George Fast home. Mrs. Leisy's birthady was celebrated,and it was house-warming for the Fasts.—Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—Swiss Church, Alsen, North Dakota: We were happy to have Miss Verna Janz with us on March 16. She is on her way to Morrocco as a missionary under the Gospel Missionary Union. She presented the challenge of missions in view of the second coming of Christ. In the evening her message was based on Isaiah's vision in Isaiah 6. A fellowship lunch was enjoyed by all during the noon hour, after which some time was spent in singing and testimonies. Our church has undertaken the support of Miss Janz. Abraham Unruh, who has been working in the mountains of Kentucky, was with us during the week of March 2. He brought us some inspiring messages as well as an interesting report of the work there. Rev. Waldo Flickinger recently made a trip to Oklahoma to speak at the "Go Ye" Mission Workers Conference. Many from our church are planning to attend the Annual County Wide Good Friday Service.—Corr.

MISS ELEANOR CAMP BEGINS WORK FOR THE WOMEN'S MISSIONARY ASSOCIATION

The centralization of the activities of the Women's Missionary Association in the Headquarters Building in Newton, Kansas, is in process of becoming a fact. This work was launched on April 1 and is in charge of Miss Eleanor Camp from the First Mennonite Church of Summerfield, Illinois. It is hoped that by coordinating the work of the Executive Committee and other committees and by relieving the members of routine and clerical detail, their energies may more fruitfully be expended in the growing organization, visitation, and project work. The purpose of this office is to make the work of the Women's Missionary Association increasingly useful to all by making materials and information more accessible. You are invited to make use of the W.M.A. "Corner" in the Headquarters Building.

—The M.C.C. Clothing Center at Newton, Kansas, shipped a truckload of 104 bales of clothing on March 20. The M.C.C. Food Center sent a railroad carload of about twenty-eight to thirty tons of food about the same time.

—Topeka, Indiana, Church: Professor Russell Lantz of Bluffton College conducted a music institute in our church March 14-16. The new Mennonite Hymnaries were dedicated at the Sunday morning service, and Professor Lantz spoke on "Hymns in the Lives of Men." There was a hymn sing in the afternoon. Rev. Wilmer S. Shelly, our pastor, delivered a Lenten message at the local Methodist Church on March 16. Members of our church were invited to join the service. At the recent meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, Miss Joanna Bowen gave a chapter, "Youth in India" from the study book, "India on the Threshold." Mrs. Garth Stoltz spoke on "Christian Education for the Youth of the Church." A Men's Brotherhood Meeting of men of the five Mennonite churches of the General Conference in this area was held at the Silver Street Church on March 19, with an attendance of sixty-five men. Dean S. F. Pannabecker of the Mennonite Seminary was the speaker. Rev. Harry Yoder of Bluffton, Ohio, brought the message March 23 and also

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

spoke concerning the work at Bluffton College. Rev. Yoder will canvass members of this congregation for funds for the auditorium-physical education building for Bluffton College.—Opal King, Corr.

—Butterfield Minnesota, Mennonite Church: Dr. and Mrs. B. E. Steiner, candidates for missionaries for Tibet, India, gave a message in church March 24, in the evening. As customary on March 30 we observed the Lord's supper, which comes four times a year. Rev. M. M. Lehmann from the church north of Butterfield gave a very interesting message March 30, in the evening in the absence of our pastor Rev. P. Tschetter, who is conducting meetings in Mountain Lake. —Mrs. Gust Miller, Corr.

—Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio: Our week of Bible Conference closed Sunday evening March 23, after a week of rich spiritual blessing. We had an excellent attendance at both our afternoon and evening meetings throughout the week. Addison C. Raws, of Keswick, New Jersey, was the speaker. His cornet playing added much to our meetings. Mr. Raws, spoke at the Assembly services of Bluffton College and the Beaverdam High School. The choir from Grace Bible School will be with us for a sacred concert on Thursday evening, April 3. Easter Sunday evening a choir of all the community churches, directed by Mrs. Mann, will give a contata in our church at 7:30. Easter Sunday will be our spring communion.—Anona Landes, Corr.

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: A full house attended an evening service held by the Epply Sisters of Pennsylvania, Wednesday evening March 26. They brought a spiritual program in song and music. A large congregation attended a Christian Endeavor program administered by the Oklahoma Bible Academy on Sunday evening, March 31. Viola Flickner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Flickner will be married to Melvin Zerger of the Eden Mennonite Church.—Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

—Hebron Church, Buhler, Kansas: Rev. Jacob W. Nickel has been elected as minister of our church. Twenty-four school-bags have been packaged by various groups to be sent overseas. Five dollars have been sent to the M.C.C. to buy seed, which will be given to the people in the Philippines in order that they may raise vegetables for their own use. One-hundred-sixty quarts of lard, cracklings, etc, have been canned to be used overseas. Also $2,900 have been donated for flour in stricken areas. A number of letters have been received from Europe regarding C.A.R.E. packages. All of them have been very grateful letters. The Cantata, "The Song of Triumph," was give in our church on Good Friday evening under the direction of P. R. Lohrentz. Miss Elisabeth Goertz, returned missionary from China, was our guest speaker on Palm Sunday.—Mrs. Arthur D. Neufeldt, Corr.

—Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church, Wichita, Kansas. The A Cappella Choir of Bethel College rendered a fine program at the East High School auditorium on Monday evening March 24. A large and appreciated audience attended. Our new church building is making progress. We frequently have friends who come to see the church during the week time and others who worship with us on Sunday, and are always glad to see them. —Mrs. P. E. Frantz, Corr.

—Salem Mennonite Church, Dalton, Ohio: Gathered around the family church table in the basement, our congregation of children, young folk, and adults enjoyed a bountiful fellowship in food, friendship, and song on Friday evening, March 28. Group 1 of the Ladies Missionary Society served the food which had been brought picnic basket fashion. The tables were decorated with bouquets of pussy willows and nests of Easter eggs, the latter being for the children. The group singing, some of which was very humorous, was led by the teacher of the Willing Workers Sunday School class and was especially enjoyed. After the supper, the group went to the church auditorium where Congressman W. R. Thom of Canton, Ohio, spoke to us about his trip to Germany last summer.—Mrs. I. Badertscher, Corr.

—Ebenezer Church, Gotebo, Oklahoma: During the first two weeks in March the men of our church met daily and and donated their labor in completely redecorating the interior of the church. The Women's Mission Circle meets twice each month once for Bible study and the other for sewing. The group is small but much is being accomplished in relief work.—Mrs. Oscar E. Schmidt, Corr.

—Mennonite Church, McPherson, Kansas: The sale of surplus building material which was held March 10 amounted to $1,030. The Ladies Friendship Circle had a bazaar March 11 which amounted to approximately $925. Miss Elisabeth Goertz, missionary to China, will be in our church Sunday evening, March 30.—Mrs. Freeman Jantz, Corr.

—Newport Church, Newport, Washington: Rev. Solom brought a brass trio from Spokane on March 23. All enjoyed a dinner in the church basement at noon. About eighty were in attendance. After dinner the trio gave a program. Mrs. Solom also sang several numbers. The Mission Circle sent seventy-five pounds of clothing for relief recently.—Mrs. Henry D. Hiebert, Corr.

MENNONITE SONG FESTIVAL

Remember the Mennonite Song Festival date is Sunday May 4, 1947, afternoon and evening in Memorial Hall.

The committee announces the dates for the mass choir rehearsals to be on two consecutive Sundays, April 13 and 20, beginning promptly at 2:15 o'clock, in Memorial Hall, under the direction of Mr. W. H. Hohmann. Choirs must remember to bring with them their music.—Elizabeth W. Nickel, Secretary

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — April 15, 1947 — Number 15

Photo by Philip Gendreau, New York

"Single-Blessedness"?

Author Anonymous

(This article is written to all single people over twenty-eight years of age, and to all younger people who expect to follow their example.)

Why are there so many of you fine, ambitious men and women rapidly approaching middle age, but still unmarried? I am sure some of you would like to be married and would make splendid homemakers and parents if you were, but why aren't you? If you were of doubtful character and intergrity, or of sub-normal intelligence, I would not be surprised to find a number of you unmarried. I note however that in most of our communities you are certainly not the "left-overs" but more often than not the "pick-of-the-bunch." Why then should society be robbed of your contribution to future generations? Or why should you, who have lived a God-fearing and conscientious life, be cheated out of the love and companionship, which is rarely found in any other than the marriage relationship?

Is it because the idea of "single-blessedness" so lightly and frequently referred to, has really seriously been overworked? Have we in the past, if not at present, possibly gone on the assumption that marriage is "a necessary evil" and he who can withstand it is just a little nearer saint-hood? If so, most of you have probably discovered before too many years that the "blessedness" is not all on the side of the unmarried. Especially so when you felt yourself getting too old

(Continued on page 3)

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

HIGH PRICES are more the result of industry's desire to pluck the consumer than they are the result of higher wages, if the figures given by Economic Outlook present the right picture. According to this paper 1946 "was the best profit year in American history for most companies and corporations. Tabulations . . . show 1946 profits for major food, textile, meat and steel companies one, two, and three times higher than in 1945 . . . In all cases return on net worth or investment for 1946 was one to two times greater than for war years 1942-45 and as much as eight to ten times greater than in the pre-war years 1936-39." Prices increased very much more than was necessary to offset increases in wages. For example wholesale prices of food products increased 58 per cent during the two years 1945-46, while the companies could have maintained their same level of profit by increasing prices only 2 per cent to take care of increases in wages. Thus food prices increased more than thirty times over what was needed to take care of wage increases. Naturally the increased price of raw materials enter into the picture, but the point we are making here is that industry cannot make labor the scapegoat of high prices. The high profits of industry reveal more clearly where the trouble may lie. In the meat industry Wilson's profits increased 105.1 per cent from 1945 to 1946. The 1946 return on investment was 14.1 per cent. The price increase in meats from early 1946 to November, 1946, was 90.6 per cent, whereas the price increase needed to offset wage increase equaled 1.6 per cent. In the textile field, for example, Industrial Rayon made a return of 28.3 per cent on its net investment from early 1946 to November, 1946. Wholesale price increase in textiles for that period was 31.8 per cent, whereas an increase of 6.7 per cent would have taken care of the increase in wages. In the iron and steal field United States Steel made 12.3 per cent on its investment for the period mentioned above. Wholesale prices in this field increased 16.7 per cent whereas an increase of 1.9 per cent would have been enough to take care of the higher wages. If these figures are close to the truth, then it seems evident that the laborer and consumer are getting the short end of the present industrial whirl and that the windmill of industry is again pumping so exceedingly fast and hard that it will pump the consumer well so low that pump priming may again become a necessity in the future. Of course, living in an economy where it is rather "natural" to make as high profits as possible, such action on the part of industry seems but as so much reward for the man or corporation who pushes, but as far as the "general welfare" is concerned something seems to be wrong with things as they are.

MY BROTHER'S KEEPER? The death of 111 men in the Centralia, Illinois, coal mine serves as a reminder that we so often expect others to be interested in our welfare while we forget to be interestd in theirs. Undoubtedly many citizens of Illinois felt annoyed in times past when striking miners went "against the public interest." Today it seems evident that the welfare of the miners was not considered any too seriously either.

ALL WORK ought to be done as for the sake of God. Last summer seven hundred Methodist youth were given a Christian interpretation of vocation. Grave Sloan Overton reports it thus:

"Vocational tests were given.

"As these young people came for individual counseling, they brought with them a card known as a 'profile' of their abilities as indicated by the test taken. In light of this, there was counseling and discussion of training, opportunities, and Christian motivation.

"On the last night as these young people came to dedication, each one had some particular ability he brought with some specific idea of how he could develop it and how he could use it for the building of the kingdom. It was a different kind of dedication to 'full-time Christian service.' "

It would seem that to know one's abilities fairly well and then to use them for God and man would be a holy adventure.

Children gone? And they never write?
Send them a subscription to The Mennonite.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST. in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22. 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor __________ Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign. $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

"Single-Blessedness"?

(Continued from page 1.)

for the young peoples groups and their social gatherings, and at the same time felt like an intruder in older groups, which were mostly comprised of married folks. Few church and Sunday school organizations have made provisions for your particular group and interest. Many times you have probably found your fellowship and association with understanding and like-minded people definitely restricted. In spite of this, you have given valuable and loyal service to church, school and community.

Are your returns what you expected them to be? By the time they have reached their middle thirties, there are few people who do not realize that a happy marriage has no substitute. This is nothing to be ashamed of. It is nature's way of beckoning us to meet one of our basic needs. Strange as it may seem, no other road will satisfy this longing. To those of you who are still far below thirty, and who now feel sure you would much rather follow an exciting career than be happily married, let me say, you have a great surprise in store for you when you discover how much your attitude will change on this subject in the next ten or fifteen years. But if this is true, why are not all of you older people married?

Some of you say you do not care to be married. Is this what you really feel, or is it a bit of rationalization? Is it possible that you may be so frustrated and repressed in this area that you no longer face the actual facts? As the years pass and the security and ties of your parental home no longer bind; as earning capacity diminishes, and old age and loneliness stare you in the face, will your desire for a home and companionship not become much more significant? Is it fair to add your burden to society then?

There are those of you who probably feel you just never happened to meet the right man or woman; therefore it must be God's will that you should not be married. Few happy marriages are the product of chance. Nor do I find anywhere in Jesus' teaching that chance and circumstance determine God's will. God has given us an intellect to use. Let us not abuse it. I have just one question to ask: Did you ever do anything about it?

Many of you may blame your community or environment for not being married. To the extent that you have acquired your ideas about sex and marriage from your environment, I suppose this is true. Now that you are an adult, however, you need no longer be fettered by these false notions. You are intelligent. You can examine your philosophy, and by study and observation you can develop it until you have a more wholesome outlook. One frequently hears it said that "there are no eligibles in my community, how then can I expect to marry?" When something goes wrong it is very easy to blame place and circumstance. Of all the powers God has given man, the most wonderful one is that the Christian may be master over every circumstance. If you will examine your contacts closely you will soon realize that they are not limited to the narrow confines of your community. If you can overcome the inhibitions and blockings that stand in the way of your radiant personality, the rest will take care of itself.

Then there are those of you who feel there are so many other things to do, you have no time for marriage. It is here we need to expand our idea of the possibilities within the marriage bond. Just because some people are content to "sit back and let the rest of the world go by" after they are married, is no reason why you should do the same! Remember too, there is probably no more strategic point at which to begin "doing things" than in the home—the foundation of the nation—and in the local community.

A few of you have been disappointed in love and have not had the courage to begin all over again. Can you believe that such a disappointment may actually mark the beginning of a greater you? Even in married happiness! A crisis can be either the making or the breaking point in one's life and character. You have the power to master the situation and use it as a stepping stone to a higher plane of living.

Some people say marriage is too big a risk. They look at the high divorce rates and the many unhappy homes, and decide they would rather "play safe." The greatest returns are realized only from the greatest risks. The man that buried his talent realized no returns!

It is often difficult to get expert counseling service, or even well qualified teachers in rural areas; therefore it is all the more important that the parents in our rural communities take time to study and consider more

"The trouble with most of us is that we are so absorbed in teaching children how to make a living and to prepare them for the economic struggle that home-making, love and marriage, social and religious welfare, together with all the other things that go into the making of an abundant life, are crowded out."

Census figures show that death rates for married men average about 30 per cent less than those for single men.

seriously their responsibility for developing a wholesome attitude toward sex and marriage in the minds of their children. Parents must face the fact that preparation for happy marriage is as essential as an eight-grade education. In the past children's questions regarding sex and marriage have often been "hushed up." This has sometimes led them to attach shame to the human body and its functions as well as to marriage. As a result many children have grown up gleaning their only knowledge regarding these subjects from newspapers, jokes, and the misinformation of their companions. Child psychologists tell us that a child's life-long attitude toward marriage and home may be established during the first few years of his life. Frequently parents have no thought, and often little understanding, of how to establish right attitudes so early in life. This may account for some of the unhappy homes as well as for some of the unmarried people of our day.

The trouble with most of us is that we are so absorbed in teaching children how to make a living and to prepare them for the economic struggle that home making, love and marriage, social and religious welfare, together with all the other things that go into the making of an abundant life are crowded out. In this respect there seems to be little or no differentiation made in the total training of sons and daughters. Girlhood and womanhood as such have almost lost their identity in the rearing of children.

Every normal person should have an opportunity to develop a wholesome attitude and relationship with the opposite sex. If an adult has not attained this, it is up to him to try and acquire some common sense regarding his social relationships. There is no reason why adolescent boys and girls should not enjoy wholesome fellowship and fun together without having adults do a lot of silly teasing. Too often this amounts to crude jesting which gives young people the wrong impression about love and marriage. Frequently young men and women are inhibited from practicing the common social courtesies and from enjoying each other's fellowship, because someone will interpret them as "flirting" or being too bold. There is little chance for wholesome courtship to develop until a natural, normal relationship can be established between the sexes.

Finally, a normal person should expect to marry happily. Life's fulfillment comes to those who believe they have the capacity for happiness and hope to attain it. To hope is both to desire and to expect. To desire and not expect is but the wish of an idle dreamer. Nothing is more prophetic in a man's (or woman's) life than a vision coupled with hope.

What Do Seminary Students Study

What do seminary students study? How do they prepare for their work in the Christian Church? Perhaps, one could divide the courses one takes into three parts: First, the Christian Faith; second, the Story of the Church; third, the Work of the Church.

In the first part, the Christian Faith lies the large area of Bible study: This includess language study, Hebrew and Greek, although this is not required. Survey courses on the Bible in which a year's study is given to a general survey of the Old and New Testaments, introduce one to the more detailed Bible study. Next comes the more detailed study of sections or books of the Bible. Although the Old Testament is of great importance, study of the New Testament is emphasized. This hardly needs further explanation.

The second part, the Story of the Church, deals with the history of the Church from the first century to the present. During this time, many, many things have occurred which has resulted in the Church of today. Doctrine, missions, denominational development, the issue regarding war, church organization, the story of other religious,theology all have a background which must be understood to make possible sound judgement today.

The third part, the Church at Work, deals with the many practical problems the Church and the worker must face today to make his service dynamic and meet the needs of the moment. Worship, evangelism, church organization, preaching or homiletics, the church and world problems, counseling, music, Christian education, psychology, recreation, the Christian family, are some of the many areas the Christian worker must prepare to meet.

ACCIDENTS

Number 1 enemy on the home safety front is falls. Two hundred seventy-eight persons died in Kansas last year because of falls in their homes. Many of the falls occur on stairs. The ideal stairway should be well lighted, uncluttered, and well guarded.

Burns are enemy No. 2 on the home safety front. Infants and children less than five years old suffered the greatest number of fatal burns. In most cases parents neglected adequate supervision or failed to remove hazards which tempt young tots. Saucepan handles which extend beyond the edge of the stove and can be grasped by tiny hands serve as the basis for many accidental burns. Several children who were left alone in homes where fires were going, burned to death. Matches should be kept out of reach of young children.

Although burns and falls are the leading causes of fatal home accidents, many other causes take their toll of lives—firearms, poisonings, absorption of poisonous gas, suffocation, drowing.

What Are YOU Doing Here?

S. T. Moyer

These words came to Elijah from the Lord God. He had been lodging in a cave. God had a big work for him to do. As long as he stayed in that cave, he could not become a co-worker with God in these most urgent, and strategic, and needy, and large assignments which awaited him from God.

He started out, and the words came to him a second time, "What ARE you doing here, Elijah?" God then sent him to anoint kings, and a prophet-successor. To anoint kings of two nations of peoples and a mighty successor were the urgent, strategic, and large assignments that awaited Elijah, while he dilly-dallied with his God-given talents, and God-given opportunities in a cave!

"What are YOU doing here, Saul?" Saul said, what would YOU have me do?" Saul thought he was on the right track. But he was not, yea he was displeasing his Lord grievously. The Lord gave him a large assignment. His life reads like a fairy tale, a romance of the first degree, as he stands before Kings preaching Christ, outrides storms and ships that ship-wreck, and converts prison guards almost faster than new ones can replace those who became disciples of the Crucified One. He planted many churches over two continents, and wrote thirteen epistles which have been translated into one thousand different languages.

"What are you doing here, William?" The word came to a shoemaker in a small town in England, whose name was William Carey. He arose in a conference and presented the needs of the non-Christian nations for Jesus the Saviour. Another stood up in that conference, and said, "Sit down, young man! When God wants to convert the heathen, he will do so, but without your help." God was with William Carey and sent him to India.

When he was teaching Sanskrit in a Government College in Bengal, he was seated one evening besides and English Lady of high rank, wife of the Governor of the province. Thinking to taunt him, she said, "Is it true that you were only a shoemaker in England?" Carey replied, "Not even that Lady, merely a cobbler." But God used His humble servant mightily. He mastered thirty Indian languages, superintended the translation of the Holy Scriptures into all of them. He wrote various grammars of many Indian languages, and three massive dictionaries, Pengali, Marathi, and Sanskrit. That was his assignment, so urgent, so needy, so strategically important.

What are you doing here, YOU young men, young women, of the Mennonite Church in America? Are you dwelling in a cave where the light is dim? Move out in the blessed sunshine of His Calling. Are you going on with a task you thought was of God, but which is not fulfilling His highest wish? Then say, "Speak Lord, for Thy servant heareth."

What are you doing here. YOU for whom your mother prayed before you were born? You whose parents dedicated you to the Lord Jesus in your old home church with the prayers and blessings of your faithful pastor that you might serve Christ? What are you doing here, young husbands and wife, as you are starting out life's work? Are you where Christ would have you be? What are you doing in view of what Christ has done for you, by His marvellous life and teachings, by His crucifixion on Calvary, by His glorious resurrection?

What are you, young people in our schools and colleges, doing about urgent needs? A partial list of these needs and opportunities in and through the church follows.

There are forty churches in the General Conference Mennonite Church without pastors. Many of our older minsters have had to retire from the ranks. The needs of America are great. What are you doing about these needs. The work among the American Indians calls. The work in South America calls. Africa calls.

China in her needs is opening up. The disturbed political conditions are merely symptoms of a sick national soul. Unless that soul is cured, those eastern countries will menace the western hemisphere. Said Dr. Robert E. Speer a couple of decades ago, "Send a thousand missionaries to Japan today, or within twenty years you will be sending your sons by the hundreds of thousands to die in war with Japan." His plea went unheeded; his warnings have been fulfilled. The church has money for luxuries, for the highest level of living the world has ever seen, and money for battleships. The cost of one battleship would have been sufficient to finance enough missionaries for sufficient years to have turned the tide in Japan, if they had gone out equipped with the power and message of Him who alone can transform men and nations, and save from sin.

What are you doing, young people, about India, and her needs? Jeremiah in the anguish of his soul cried out, "According to the number of thy cities are thy gods, O Judah." But we from India, knowing the shackles of the hideous gods and goddesses can truthfully say of India, "According to the number of my villages, 700,000 of them, there are 450 times as many gods and goddesses in that land with a hungry soul, yea a famished body and soul." Of these 700,000 there are 640,000 without a single Christian in them. There remaineth much land to be possessed.

India is rising up to a new life. A renaissance is upon her. Her youth are pushing on, a million of them entering and leaving high schools,—without Christ, and tens of thousands of them entering and leaving universities,— without God. As go the youth of a land, so goes that nation. NOW is the crucial time to plead the claims of Christ before the youth of India. "How shall they hear without a preacher? How shall they preach except they be sent?" and have a house to live in? What are we going to about these terrific needs, and opportunities?

Under the unmerited grace of God, the India Mission Field has enjoyed a steady continuous growth. But the burdens have never been so heavy, the needs for immediate reinforcements have never been so terrific, the victories have never been so glorious. What are you doing here in America, you who chance to read this? Are you where God wants you?

The India Mission Field, supported by the Mission Board is thinking in terms of five couples for immediate reinforcements. The first of these is ready to depart. Who will be the second? the third? the fourth? the fifth couple? In addition they are calling for a doctor, presumably married. In addition, they are calling for single young ladies. In addition they are thinking in terms of post-war advance, to meet the needs of growth and expansion, and adjacent closed native states now opening up to the Gospel under the pressure of national movements. A number of new bungalows, and one or two builders from America to build these are required. The India missionary workers believe that they just cannot cope with the need and the opportunity unless many more young people enter the ranks. To meet these needs requires certain spiritual qualifications, mental preparations, physical fitness. The King's Business requireth haste.

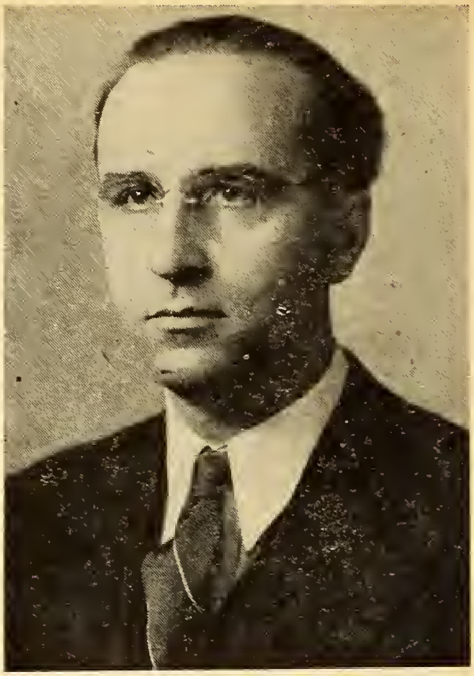
Are you on the road to Damascus, ignorantly going counter to God's fullest will? Or are you on the road to romance of first order, the romance of faith, because, stepping out in faith, you are saying, "What would you have me to do, Lord" Faith grows by venturning forth for God. Christ says to such, "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee."

Write your name in your prayer book. Then write to Rev. H. G. Nyce, Executive Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions, 1528 Chew Street, Allentown, Pa. Any missionary on furlough or on the field will be pleased to answer questions concerning this work. If you have questions, doubts, or perplexities which bother you, go to your pastor, mission board member, or write any missionary. Can you give a satisfactory reason before God for not going forth? Said D. L. Moody, "Let God have your life. He can do more with it than you can."

One imperative need in which all can help is to pray. No need for workers was ever met without much earnest prayer. When Christ saw the multitudes, sheep without a shepherd, He said, "Pray ye the Lord of the Harvest that He send forth laborers in His harvest." If God has spoken to you through the above lines, will you not take upon the burden of prayer, either privately, organizing a special prayer band to this end?

What are you doing, fathers, mothers, pastors, to encourage your young people to prepare them to qualify for full time Christian ministry, at home, or abroad?

To Ordain Walter McDowell



Rev. Walter H. McDowell, Pastor Calvary Church, Mechanics Grove, Pa.

The Lord willing, the ordination to the office of Elder is to be performed on Rev. Walter H. McDowell, in Calvary Mennonite Church, on Sunday afternoon, April 13, 3:00 P. M. Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Allentown, Pa., President of the Eastern District Conference, is to bring the sermon, and Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Quakertown, Pa., Secretary, of the Board of Home Missions is to perform the ordination.

The work in Calvary Church is going forward with the Lord's blessing. While the membership has not increased, the gifts for the Lord's work have increased definitely over previous years.

Last summer Brother McDowell was very active in the union summer Bible school which had an attendance of over one hundred. During the later part of the summer and early fall Brother McDowell ministered to a small colored group about ten miles away from the church. A Sunday School, with worship following, had been built up to an attendance of about thirty-five persons young and old. At that time a Methodist church group, which had previously held services, took up the work again. Although the work is not at present in the hands of the pastor and Calvary church, they feel that they were instrumental in getting it started again under the Lord's blessing.

Rev. McDowell and his wife and the church ask an interest in your prayers. The McDowell's address is: Route 2, Quarryville, Pa.—A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary of the Home Mission Board.

From Our Files

To the Pastor of
ONE OF OUR CHURCHES
About the HUNDRED PER CENT PLAN

Dear Reverend ———:

The other day the Geary, Oklahoma, Church joined the Conference publications in the HUNDRED PER CENT PLAN of church subscriptions. Would your church consider joining us in this also?

We now have 59 Conference churches in on this plan with something like 5,900 people reading either THE MENNONITE, THE BUNDESBOTE, and in some of our churches THE JUNIOR MESSENGER, for the children. They are knit together in Christian love, because they keep informed on all that their church is doing—in missions, in relief, in young people's work, retreats, etc. Not only those at home, but also those away from home read, each week, what the churches are doing, and how richly God is working through them.

The HUNDRED PER CENT PLAN is simply this: The local church decides to see to it that there is at least ONE of our church papers sent to each home in the congregation. They may put more than one to a family if they decide, but not less. The church may raise the money to pay for these subscriptions in any way they like—usually it is just put into the budget for the year, but in some cases they solicit especially for the purpose. They get a special rate of $1.25 per year, which is 50 cents per year less than the individual subscription rate.

The church that decides to go on this plan usually appoints the church secretary as the one person with whom we deal. That person sends us a list of the names to whom THE MENNONITE or the BUNDESBOTE or the JUNIOR MESSENGER is to go. We will be glad to mail you a list of your members who are NOW getting these papers, if you would like. We then figure the bill once for the entire year and no further bills are sent until the following year. However, each month we send you the names and NEW addresses of those who have moved, so that your church list is constantly kept up to date. That's one very good feature of the plan!

A word from the pastor from time to time is what it takes to lead the minds of the congregation into a receptiveness of such ideas. They follow your leadership. Let us take the matter before the Lord in prayer. Then, as He leads, let us follow—His will shall be our will.

—THE PUBLICATION OFFICE

What About the Laymen?

by J. S. Schultz

"As the Father sent me forth, I am sending you forth." This command of Christ as one of the last to His disciples applies as much to all of His followers today, as it did then.

The Women's Missionary Association of the General Conference has heeded this call for decades. The women labor untiringly, not only as individual Christian workers and as local missionary societies, but as an all-over association of societies from churches throughout the states and Canada.

The Young Peoples Union, likewise is a more recently formed organization made up of local societies from the many General Conference churches. In unity there lies strength. Much more can be, and is being accomplished, when society leaders pool their interests and energies first at district conferences, then at the general conference, than by limiting our Christian service to individuals or single church groups.

What about the third group of church members, the laymen? As far as the general conference is concerned, we are non-existent. While at conference sessions, we get together for a short program and a social hour, we have to date found no area of Christian service we as laymen of the general conference churches are doing together. Is it not time that we explore spots or areas in our personal lives as Christian men, in our church programs of activities, or in community, national, or world affairs, and there discover types of Christian service and living that have lain fallow or could be vastly improved?

Lest I be misunderstood, let me repeat that I am not saying we as Christian laymen are all idle or fruitless. I am saying that we have no way of strengthening each other at general conference sessions, nor have we any conference wide organization through which chosen leadership could help us to be more effective. Shall we talk it over at Berne next August when we meet for conference?

What could we talk about? The Eastern District has for years had an effective Brotherhood with units or chapters in the local churches. And they have found very worthwhile projects to do. In addition to fine social and spiritual fellowship at their local or district meetings, they help build a retreat ground, support the Old People's Home, provide scholarships for their needy college students and assist in many other benevolences.

Then further, many of us are active in church work as deacons, Sunday School superintendents, trustees choir leaders, or other church officers. Meeting in separate groups could be of much help to us. Deacons in a church in Indiana, I'm sure, do not do their work exactly the same way as those in Idaho, and choir leaders in Canada might easily have different problems than those in California or Pennsylvania.

Still another question worthy of exploring would be that of living as happy and effective Christians in our vocations. Does the patient really notice the difference between a Christian doctor and one that isn't? How about the Christian teacher? Does the Christian farmer, merchant, labourer, salesman, etc. have a different attitude toward his work and toward those he contacts than the non-Christian? Is there a difference? Why not think it over, pray about it and discuss it at the Berne conference? Time has been set apart for such meetings on the program.

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Rev. Howard Landis, pastor of the Ebenezer Mennonite Church, was the chapel speaker Thursday morning, April 3. Rev. J. N. Smucker gave a special Easter address to students Friday morning, April 4. The college had a short recess for Easter, dismissing classes Good Friday afternoon and Saturday. Normally school operates until Saturday noon. A walk-in refrigerator has been installed in Ropp Hall. This was purchased from government surplus and was financed by the womens organizations of the Eastern, Central, and Middle District conference. Rev. Harry Yoder was in Illinois on Easter and in the Wayland Iowa territory April 13. President Ramseyer expects to speak in the Pekin, Illinois, Mennonite Church on the morning of April 13.

BETHEL COLLEGE

Sixty-five of the foreign students enrolled at Tabor, Freeman, Hesston, and Bethel Colleges attended an all-day reunion in the Student Union Room on April 4. Professor Benno Toewes, Freeman, gave the morning address, and each of the ten national groups responded to the afternoon Roll Call of Nations with music and short talks. John P. Loewen was in charge of arrangements. The oral Comprehensive Examinations for Seniors began April 7 and will continue through the month. Graduate Record examinations are scheduled for the class for April 21-22. The Sophomore tests, part of an annual national testing program, were conducted on March 25-26, under the direction of Miss Marjorie Ruth. The Child Guidance class, under the instruction of Mrs. Harshbarger, is opening a half-day nursery school April 10 in Maple Home for pre-school campus children for the remainder of the quarter as a laboratory supplement in practical procedures and observation to the theory studied during the first half of the course.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

A candelight installation service was held for the new Y.W.C.A. officers at the Tuesday Y. meeting. Two pre-Easter chapel services were held by Mr. Neufeld and Mr. Lichti. Rev. S. T. Moyer spoke at the Bethel Church, Dolton, South Dakota, Sunday. Easter Sunday he is to speak at the Mennonite church at Wisner, Nebraska. Dr. Gross, Rev. Benno Toews, and Rev. S. T. Moyer spoke at the Freeman Bethany Church Sunday, Monday, and Thursday evening at pre-Easter services. Two debate teams from Wessington Springs Junior College were on the campus for a debate with Freeman debators. This debate closed the debate season here. The cast for Thornton Wilder's play "Our Town" has been selected, and practice has started. The Tabor College choir gave a sacred concert in the Auditorium April 2. Easter vacation starts Thursday evening, and school will resume Tuesday after Easter. On April 7 the annual Music Day events will again bring music lovers of the community together for morning, afternoon, and evening programs. Two more Westinghouse electric ranges were installed in the Foods Room.

MENNONITE SEMINARY

A large group gathered at the Seminary Easter Sunday afternoon to participate in a vesper service of worship through the great Easter hymns and songs. The group sang the great hymns together and listened to the Seminary choir and special arrangements of solos and duets. Dr. S. F. Pannebecker spoke briefly, stressing the meaning of Easter to the life of the individual. He pointed out that Easter becomes really significant when the individual recognizes Jesus. When the disciples in hopeless despair fished all night, were told to cast their net on the other side of the boat, and then recognized Jesus as the man on the shore, the change in their outlook was most striking and complete. In a similar manner the change in each individual's life is possible through a recognition of. Jesus.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Some Characteristics of Jesus' Teachings

1. Jesus Taught Persons.

He did not teach material or subject matter; He taught persons. Seldom did He teach in a systematic or formal way. He simply moved about among the people, and when He found a man or woman who needed His help, He gave it unstintingly. He did not conduct a class on "Regeneration" in Jerusalem; He simply talked in the dark of night with Nicodemus who came to Him, on being born anew.

2. Jesus Taught in Stories.

A large portion of Jesus' teaching comes to us in His parables, which are sometimes defined as "earthly stories with heavenly meanings." From a literary standpoint they are among the gems of literature. But more important, they stick in one's memory. Little as the average person knows about the Bible, who will not immediately know the story of the Prodigal Son, the Lost Sheep, the Good Samaritan, the Sower, and a score of other parables of Jesus? The parables enabled Him to teach those of spiritual hunger and insight, while the idle, curious, and hostile did not perceive the full truth.

3. Jesus Taught By Paradox

A paradox is a saying which seems to contradict itself. In this way, it immediately commands the attention and stirs thought. How it must have startled men to hear Jesus say: "Whosoever would save his life shall lose it" . . . "The first shall be last, and the last shall be first." Such statements take us by surprise, make us think, and then cling to memory.

4. Jesus Taught Not the Learned Only But all Men.

Great teachers usually surround themselves with a select band of followers. Consider Einstein as an example. His thoughts are so profound, so technical that only a handful of men can understand him. Jesus was no less profound, yet the common people heard Him gladly, while the learned men, the scribes and the Pharisees, marveled at Him. Jesus knew how to put the deepest truths of human life into language a child could fathom. In the speech of every day, He revealed God's truth.

5. Jesus Taught by the Project Method.

One of the most popular methods of religious education today is the "project method." This is "to learn by doing." Jesus was a master of this technique. At the Last Supper, He girded Himself with a towel and washed the feet of the disciples. What man would ever forget that lesson! And He forever demonstrated the redemptive love of God, not by an address on the subject, but by dying on Calvary.

6. Jesus' Teaching Was Timeless and Universal

Jesus says, "Come unto me," and a naked savage in Africa feels it as a personal call, just as does the scientist with a Ph.D. degree. The secret of it is that Jesus taught eternally true principles, not percepts and rules that pass away. Is it not marvelous that, with all our generation has discovered and achieved, we have not yet gone beyond the teachings of Jesus? Indeed, we have not even lived up to them.

7. Jesus Taught By What He Was.

As it is sometimes put, His words were deeds and His deeds were words. His words carried conviction because He lived the life that He taught others to live. He spoke of love and unselfishness and sacrifice; then He sealed His words at the cross.

8. He Taught With Authority.

The people were astonished at His teachings, for "he taught them as one having authority and not as the scribes." In what did that sense of authority lie? Why did Jesus teach in a different way from Jewish teachers? Was it not in His very nature and being? He knew what was in man, and He knew the mind and will of God. Or, to put it in this simple way. He was the Son of God.

—C. E. World

Meditation on Drifting

By Grace Helen Davis

I happened to notice a small piece of driftwood that had got caught in a backwash of the creek. It would float downstream a little way. Then the current would sweep it about, and it would float upstream a few yards. So it went, up and down, back and forth, pushed helplessly about and never getting anywhere.

I wouldn't want to be caught that way, I thought idly, and then was suddenly arrested. No, I wouldn't want to be caught that way, by currents and cross-currents of fear and uncertainity, drifting along, pushed here, pushed there, making nothing of my life. I want to chart a course and steer by it.

Dear God, let me not be a piece of flotsam in the currents and backwashes of world-shaking upheavels and changes. With a firm faith in the Master Mariner of life, and with his help giving me power, may I steer for high goals of personality and achievement, and strike out for myself, whether it be downstream or breasting the current. Give me a faith adequate to these times. Amen.

—Forward

The Cowboy at Sea

by Dave Janzen

(The sea-going cowboy is rapidly becoming a matter of history. Tales to be told to one's children will include that cowboy trip to Poland or Greece or Italy with a load of horses! Here is one of those stories which will cause many to reminisce about their trip. Dave Janzen is from Ontario.)

Last fall most of you probably saw a notice in one of our Mennonite publications, which offered young fellows a wonderful chance to help the needy people of war-torn Europe and see a bit of the world at the same time. Five fellows from our church took this opportunity, and went across the Atlantic on a cattleboat.

Afred Willms and I left by bus on October 31 for Newport News, Virginia, where we spent two weeks and our financial resources, waiting to sign on a boat. We reported to the "Cowboy Office," got our "Seaman's Cards" and then at last signed ship's articles on the "Frederic C. Howe," which we later discovered was one of the slowest Liberty ships afloat.

We were glad to find that we were to be part of an all-Mennonite Crew, the first by the way, so we met many fine young Mennonites from all over North America.

Our ship left the pier late on the night of November 15, and on the following morning we got out of our bunks to find that our appetities were not as good as they had usually been. After some of the boys had fed our finny friends who played around our ship, we went below to feed the horses.

Our ship carried nearly seven hundred horses. There were thirty cattlemen, two foreman, two veterinarians and one supervisor to take care of them. We were on duty from 6:30 a.m. until 8:30 p.m. We fed, watered and watched our equine friends who persisted in getting tangled up in each other's ropes, kicking each other and nipping at us if we got within snapping range.

The first nine days we saw nothing but water, several ships and a few porpoises who leaped and played around our ship's bow. Then one Sunday we passed between two Azcre Islands. They looked very beautiful with the sun beaming down upon the red and white buildings nestled on the hillsides and the citrus groves on the plateau. Five days later we stopped at Gibraltar, got orders and charts from the British Navy and sailed through the Strait and into the Mediterranean Sea. We stayed in sight of the African Coast pracitcally all the way through the Mediterranean. Then we went around Sicily, and up into the Adriatic and Ionian Seas. We felt rather uneasy when we were told that the waters were still considered dangerous because of mines. Although the minesweepers were constanly clearing the shipping lanes, we passed uncomfortably close to one.

On December 5. we got up to find ourselves in a terrific storm, the radio out of order, and the ship's officers were off course and they couldn't find our position until it got light. When dawn arrived we were close to shore and ahead of us we saw a range of snow-capped mountains.

The following afternoon we steamed into the Trieste harbour and tied up at the dock. In the harbour there were two large Italian liners lying on their sides where the British had bombed them during the war. Some of the buildings near the docks were completely demolished; a few more were partially destroyed; but on the whole Trieste does not seem to have suffered much from bombing during the recent war. The people appeared to be well-fed and warmly clad. They are comparatively well off because of the many ships that visit this port. We were told that conditions were much worse farther inland.

Trieste is a very beautiful city. It is built around the harbour and up on the hillsides which surround the city. Most of the streets are of stone, and the building of ancient design, with a few modern buildings on some streets. Two weeks before we docked they had riots there, but during our stay it was very peaceful. We found that most of the older people could speak German, so we had no trouble getting around. The stores were well-stocked, better than ours during the war; but the prices were two high for most of the people.

The Italian stevedores unloaded the horses, so we had three days to look the city over, and by souvenirs. Then we went out to sea, where the Italians cleaned out the stalls. Then we took them back to port and headed for home.

On the way home we swept and washed the stalls and equipment, and then sailed as passengers. We had nothing to do but amuse ourselves by eating, sleeping, reading, playing games and argue with the Americans, trying to convince them that King George is not the dictator of Canada.

We stopped at Gibraltar to refuel, and soon as we dropped our anchor, we were surrounded by Spaniards in rowboats who sold jewelry, tablecloths, liquor, etc. As soon as the oil-tanks were full we headed out into the Atlantic and back to America. We took a southern route, by way of the Madeira Islands and Bermuda, to avoid the storms of the North Atlantic. Although it was very rough for a few days, the more experienced sailors told us it was not dangerous until the smokestacks were submerged so long the water was full of smoked fish. We saw many porpoises, several sharks and our last day at sea we saw two whales off our port side.

On December 31. we sailed into the New York harbour. As most of us were broke, we waited in New York several days to get clear of the customs and get our cheques. We gave the city a good going-over and then most of us headed for home.

—Die Vereingsglocke

Eastern District Holds Annual Banquet

by Mrs. Robert M. Landis

The Eastern District Mennonite Christian Endeavor Union held their Annual Banquet, March 8, at Trainers Restaurant near Quakertown.

Approximately three hundred were present. Those on the program were Rlaph Lewis, Preisdent of the Eastern District C. E.; Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, who read Scripture; and Rev. J. J. Esau, who led with the opening prayer. Melvin Clemens of the Souderton Church acted as toastmaster. Rev. A. H. Schultz of the East Swamp Church led the singing. The Mohr brothers of the West Swamp Church and the Detweiler brothers brass trio of the Perkasie Church furnished special music. The Rev. G. Harold Hill of the Marcus Hook Baptist Church was guest speaker. He spoke on the "Christian Life in Action." Elmer Ediger, General Conference Y. P. U. President, spoke briefly on "Volunteer Service."

Each year the banquet is held, a special project is sponsored in connection with it. This year it was the gathering of school bags and supplies for relief through the local societies. A total of forty-four bags filled with required supplies and some extra supplies were gathered and sent to the Mennonite Central Committee.

Items of Interest

The national Mental Health Act is the first instance in which a nation acknowledges its social duty to aid, conserve and improve the mental health of its citizens. This act provides three things: (1) research grants to institutions and individuals engaged in worth-while projects in the field of mental health; (2) grants to institutions concerned with mental health services to improve facilities for training mental therapists; (3) allocation of federal funds to states in amounts matched by state funds to assist in developing community services.

* * * *

Europe has eleven million hungry children, a recent survey shows. This figure must be multiplied many times in Asia. These children need powdered milk, food concentrates and vitamin tablets to build them up.—Gospel Messenger.

* * * *

The Youth for Christ movement is spreading overseas. During the present year Youth for Christ sessions will be held in Cuba, South America, Mexico, China, the British Isles and the various countries of Europe.

Japan has requested that 2,500,000 New Testaments be sent to her this year. The American Bible Society is printing 1,500,000 at the present time and hopes to fill the request by the end of the year.

* * * *

Twenty thousand persons jammed themselves into the central square in Krefeld, Germany, to join in prayer, beseeching God, "that hunger and distress may cease in Germany and throughout the world." Joined together in this mass prayer meeting were Catholics, Mennonites, Baptists and almost all other denominational groups. —Gospel Messenger

* * * *

Twenty-two thousand Russian Orthodox churches and ninety monasteries were open throughout the Soviet Union at the end of 1946, according to a report made public by Metropolitan Nikolai of Kiev on behalf of the Moscow Patriarchate. Twelve seminaries have been opened to date for the training of priests. There are sixty-four bishops in the hierarchy at present.

* * * *

"All of God's Children Need Shoes" is the title of a new relief project undertaken by the Baptist Youth Fellowship. The drive to supply shoes to needy people in Europe and Asia is to continue until Thanksgiving.

* * * *

The average Amerian school teacher receives thirty-seven dollars per week. Ten thousand teachers get only twelve dollars a week in spite of the increase in the cost of living; 200,000 get twenty-five dollars weekly.

* * * *

Alcoholics Anonymous has 33,000 members in the United States. Fifty per cent of that number have quit the drinking habit without a slip; twenty-five per cent have had "only one slip" according to a report by Bob Pritchard, vice-president of the Washington chapter.

* * * *

The living cost in Great Britain increased 32 per cent in the last ten years, which is the lowest increase of all countries except Canada, according to figures compiled by the International Labor Office. Food prices in Great Britain increased only 21 per cent, while in the United States they have gone up 78 per cent. China has the highest recorded increase of living costs, 2,300 per cent.

* * * *

Every major Protestant denomination has voiced its opposition to military conscription.

* * * *

C. P. S. is history. The last men to leave the camps evacuated on March 28 thus making history a program which last seven years. But, although the Selective Service Act is no longer operative, the pressure for conscription remains unabated. World events of recent date will make the pressure greater.

* * * *

The Allis Chalmers strike which was recently settled had the influence of the Christian Church playing in the conflict when Rev. Ensworth Reisner, Methodist pastor, invited top union and company officials into his home to open negotiations to stop the strike. In doing this, Rev. Reisner emphasized that, "We have concerned ourselves too much with jockeying for our rights and exerting pressure to cut down another's power in political and industrial issues . . . .The Christian ideology is contained in the ancient teaching of Christian stewardship." On several occasions officials on both sides of the conflict met with Rev. Reisner and in prayer and with candor and rising goodwill, their problems were discussed. Doubtless his efforts have contributed to the settling of the strike.

* * * *

In Wright Airport, New York, there was a dedicatory service for an airplane. It will be used by Roger and Josephine Perkins, Presbyterian missionaries, in the huge and little expored jungles of Brazil.

Eastern District Brotherhood Appeals for Funds for the Home for Aged

At the annual meeting of the Brotherhood at Schwenksville on October 19, 1946, it was unanimously decided to make an appeal for at least $5000 from the churches and other organizations of the Eastern District Conference for the "Home Expansion and Improvement Fund" of our Home for the Aged at Frederick, Pa. This appeal has been approved by the Executive Committee of the Eastern District Conference. Please note the following needs and facts concerning our Home for the Aged:

(A) This is the only Institution owned and operated by our own Eastern District Conference.

(B) Pray for the Home and its Board of Managers elected by Conference, also for the Steward and Matron and all the Workers so that all may continue to serve faithfully and prove a real blessing to our aged folks.

(C) Pray for additional workers and better facilities for our aged.

(D) This $5,000 Home Expansion and Improvement Fund is but the beginning of fulfilling the future needs of our Home.

(E) Brotherhood Executive Board has pleged $1,000 personally for Home Expansion and Improvement Fund.

(F) Ground has been purchased, new oil burner and heater has just been installed. Other immediate needs are: electric washer, station wagon, and freezing unit.

(G) Visit the Home and help bring cheer and spiritual blessing to the guests.

(H) Sunday Schools, Societies and Churches may desire to make the Home for the Aged their Christmas White Gift objective or year end special gift donation by churches.

(I) Reports will be given periodically of the progress of Home Expansion and improvement Fund either by letter or through Church papers.

(J) All gifts from individuals or various organizations will be properly credited to the Church represented by gift.

(K) Send your gifts for Home Expansion and Improvement Fund to Harry M. Detweiler, Treasurer, Brotherhood, Souderton, Pa. marking same "HOME EXPANSION AND IMPROVEMENT FUND."

M.C.C. Central Files Handles 34,287 Items in Four Months

The first Annual Report of the Central Files Department was presented to the Annual Meeting of the Mennonite Central Committee on January 2, 1947. The report was read by Helen King, Central Files Supervisor.

The Central Files and Archives is an outgrowth for the need of a unified system of filing. Previous to this each office had a diverse system of filing. In case where the Relief Section received and answered a letter it was filed in that department. Sometimes it happened that the Relief Section received a letter, but referred it to some other section for answer; consequently, the carbon copy and the letter were filed in another department and thus it was not always clear in which department a letter was filed. Also, it was not clear in which department a letter should have been filed.

The actual work of filing current correspondence was begun on August 1, 1946. The Central Files receives material such as letters, telegrams, reports, pamphlets, and indexes this material for future reference. This department also looks up material called for by other departments and assists clerks from other departments in research work. It maintains follow-up files in order to bring up for attention material which is called for at a given date. Two persons are engaged in the work of current filing.

Helen King reports that from August 1 to November 30 the volume of work handled by the Central Files Department was as follows: Correspondence 17,591 pieces, Data 15,167 pieces, and Look-Ups 1,529.

"The seat of knowledge is in the head; of wisdom, in the heart. We are sure to judge wrong if we do not feel right."—Wm. Hazlitt, Characterstics

RELIEF

Overseas School Bags

Many, many children in war-torn countries will be made happy when they receive the School Bags which have been given by the Mennonite boys and girls in North America. A total of 11,800 of the Overseas School Bags have been recorded. After a Bible Story booklet is inserted into each Bag (printed in the language of the country to which it is sent) they will be shipped to these countries: Germany, Holland, Italy, France, Austria, Poland, China, Puerto Rico, Paraguay, and the Philippines. Relief workers in these countries report a great need for such school materials. In some cases they will be useful even this summer, for children have school during the warm part of the year rather than during the winter, due to lack of clothes for cold weather.

CPS Men Served in Material Aid Program

A total of ninety-three CPS men have given valuable assistance in the MCC Material Aid Program since the beginning of 1945. These men have been instrumental in the packing and shipping of over eight thousand tons of relief food and clothing valued at a total of 2½ million dollars.

The last fifteen of these CPS men in MCC Material Aid work were released on March 29. So far they have not all been replaced. Anyone interested in work of this nature may apply to Wayne Henard, Director of Material Aid.

VOLUNTARY SERVICES

An unusual opportunity has presented itself for opening a Voluntary Service Unit in Mexico this summer. The term of service will extend over a period of eight weeks beginning June 23. Work there consists of Bible teaching, general hospital attendant duty, and miscellaneous other services.

Persons interested in this work in Mexico or in one of the other Voluntary Service opportunities, may secure further information by writing to Voluntary Services, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pa.

MENNONITE AID NOTES

Refugees in South America

Unforeseen circumstances have detained some of the Mennonite refugees in Buenos Aires for a longer period than had been anticipated. The political rebellion in Paraguay has prevented them from moving from the port city of Buenos Aires to the colonies in Paraguay. At the present time over 800 have reached the colonies in Paraguay, 370 more are at Asuncion, and the remaining 1,097 are still at Buenos Aires.

Other Migration Possibilities

Settlement of Mennonite refugees in Mexico does not appear as favorable now as it had seemed some time ago. The Mexican government has not been willing to grant a satisfactory exemption from military service for children born in Mexico.

Canada has recently changed its restriction on immigration, opening the door to some classes of immigrants which had been excluded earlier. It is hoped that a number of the homeless Mennonites now in Europe may be able to qualify for entrance into Canada under the new regulations.

Aid in Naturalization

The Mennonite Aid Section has attempted to keep informed on details of procedure to be followed in securing United States citizenship. Contact is maintained with the Central Office of the Naturalization and Immigration Service. Mennonites living in the United States, and who desire citizenship or who have at some time applied for naturalization and have been refused because of objection to military service, are urged to write to the Mennonite Aid Section, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania, for further information on naturalization possibilities.

Western District S. S. Convention

The Western District Sunday School Convention will convene this year on Sunday, April 20, in the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas, at 2:30 P.M. an 7:45 P. M. The convention speaker will be Dr. G. Christian Weiss, Kansas City, Missouri. The afternoon session will include discussion groups. The convention theme is "Christ—Light not Darkness." Lunch will be served in the church basement.—Mrs. Kenneth Toevs, Acting Secretary, Western District Sunday School Convention.

PROGRAM

Afternoon Session, 2:30 P. M.

John W. Unruh, presiding

Song Service	Rev. J. W. Bergen Goltry, Oklahoma
Organist	Eunice Schmidt
Pianist	Louise Entz
Devotional Service	Rev. D. J. Unruh Newton, Kansas
Music — (double number)	Men's Chorus Bethany Mennonite Church, Kingman, Kansas
Group Discussion Period (45 minutes)
The Children's S. S. Class	Mrs. Waldo Enns Inman, Kansas
The Young People's S. S. Class	Rev. Victor Sawatzky, Hutchinson, Kansas
The Adult S. S. Class	Rev. Gordon Zimmerman Plevna, Kansas
The S. S. Superintendent	Ernest Voth Orienta, Oklahoma
Junior S. S. Demonstration Class	Mrs. Waldo Schrag, Pretty Prairie, Kansas
Music (double number)	Medford Mennonite Church Medford, Oklahoma
Offertory	Local Church
Offertory prayer	Rev. Arnold Epp Burrton, Kansas

Business Session
Closing Devotional Service .... Local S. S. Superintendent —Herman B. Regier

Evening Session 7:45 P. M.

Albert Graber, presiding

Song Service .... Rev. J. W. Bergen
Devotional Service .... Rev. H. E. Miller
Kingman, Kansas
Music (double number) .... Mixed Quartet
Beatrice Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebraska
Resolutions
Offertory .... Local Church
Offertory prayer .... Rev. Garman Wedel
Sermon .... Dr. G. Christian Weiss
Kansas City, Missouri
Benediction

Lunch to be served in the church basement (50c a plate).

Offerings to go for support of the Sunday School work.

Jottings

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: Our Easter services began on Good Friday, with an inspiring message of the life of Christ. Sunday morning, A Cross, (lighted by electricty) formed a beautiful setting for the Communion service. A large number, seated at the foot of the cross, ate and drank in remembrance of our Lord. Sunday afternoon, the Men's Octet from Bethel College gave a splendid program in our church. in the evening the cantata was given in the Methodist church in Hydro. The choir, under the direction of Rev. Waldo Kauffman, consisted of churches in and around Hydro. This was another wonderful event. The house was filled to capacity.—Wilfred Ewy, Corr.

First Church, Nappanee, Indiana: A week ago last Sunday evening our program was an open discussion by members of the church board on what the following week of services could mean to our church. At the 8th Street Mennonite church in Goshen in the afternoon there was a five-church vesper musicale with talents from each church. On Thursday night during our meetings, March 23- 29, we had guest night with a special musical program by the men's chorus of the Eighth Street church.—Mrs. Loyal Corwin, Corr.

—First Church North of Butterfield, Minnesota: March 23. Dr. and Mrs. B. E. Steiner and Natalie, missionaries to India, were with us. Dr. Steiner brought the morning message. Our pastor Rev. M. M. Lehman preached at the Gospel Mennonite church. A special men's meeting was held with Rev. William Neufeld of the Carson Church as guest speaker. Miss Adeline Fast, missionary to Africa, spoke briefly Easter Sunday morning. A kitchen shower was held Good Friday for Miss Fast at the John Flaming home.—Mrs. Henry Penner, Corr.

—Newport Church, Newport Washington: We are praising God for answered prayer in that Rev. Rudolph Schmidt from Oklahoma has accepted a call from our church to be our pastor. We hope to have him with us early in June. Rev. Mouttet was with us March 31.—Mrs. Henry D. Hiebert, Corr.

—Salem Church, Munich, North Dakota: On Thursday evening April 3, the Bethany Bible School held their commencement excercises. Violet Dick, Irene Unger, Elsie Harder, Clayton Klein and Donald Fast were the graduates. Rev. Arthur Flaming of Lustre, Montana was the commencement speaker. His topic was: "What Are You Pursuing?" Rev. and David Hooge are the instructors. During the last two months the student body and instructors have rendered programs at Cando, Bathgate, Cavalier, Langdon and in the Munich town hall.—Corr.

—Saron Church, Orienta, Oklahoma: On Sunday night March 30 we had farewell services for Herman Buller, Jr. who left next day for Akron, Pa. from which place he will leave as a M.C.C. relief worker to be stationed in northern Italy. He has been in similar work for some time and has crossed the ocean ten times. "Europe afterall, isn's so far way," says Herman Jr. Vernon V. Buller who is an attendant on a ship taking chickens, tractors, etc. to Ethiopia, sent a letter home from Greece where part of the cargo is being unloaded. Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Ratzlaff are home on Easter vacation from G.B.I. Mr. Ratzlaff spoke to us April 1. We have had blessed pre-Easter services April 2-4 with Rev. Ben Rahn, Enid, Oklahoma, speaker. In keeping with spring we have two new things to be happy for: a piano in church and a garage at the parsonage.—Mrs. Wm. Frantz, Corr.

—Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Jantzen's new address is: 217 21st Street, Manhattan Beach California.

—The Lubin Jantzens, new missionaries en route to India, arrived safely in Southampton, England, on March 31. They were sick only two days on the way. They spent some time in London on business and in sight-seeing. They hoped to sail from Liverpool on the H.M.S. Empire Trooper on April 3, with the intention of getting to Bombay about April 24.

—First Church, Colfax, Washington: We are sincerely thankful and very happy to report that our pastor, Rev. P. D. Unruh, who has been seriously sick, is slowly improving after a gallstone operation. We hope that as many as possible can will take in the State C. E. Convention to be held at Whiteworth College, Spokane, May 1, 2, 3. Our missionary society sent thirty dollars for Mennonite refugee rehabilitation in Paraguay. The society also sent one hundred pounds of clothing, forty-five pounds of soap, two crib quilts and six large quilt comforters for relief. Rev. Mouttet of the "Go Ye" Mission was in our midst Sunday.—Mrs. Horace R. Rogers, Corr.

—Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio: Easter was another glorious day, for Ebenezer spring communion was observed in the morning service, with church filled to capacity. Our mission offering for the day was taken for Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Steiner, in Tibet. In the evening the community chorus of the Bluffton churches rendered their Easter cantata, "From Death To Life." Our attendance for the evening was over six hundred. Our floral decorations were sent to our our sick and shut-ins, who at this time are many. On April 17 our Ladies Missionary Society will join the five churches

1947 Ministers Retreat, August 15-19

The Retreat Committee wishes to announce that plans are under way for the 1947 General Conference Ministers Retreat, to be held August 15-19, at Camp Shipshewanna, Shipshewanna, Indiana. This camp, located beside the beautiful Lake Shipshewanna, is owned and operated by the Brethren Church and has adequate facilities for 200-250 people. The camp is well adapted for family groups and should offer excellent vacation opportunities for ministers and missionaries and their families. As in the past year, the program has been so arranged that the afternoon will be free for relaxation, recreation, and sight-seeing.

We trust that many will take advantage of this opportunity for fellowship, inspiration, and relaxation. Further announcements will appear later. —The Retreat Committee: Olin Krehbiel, J. D. Unruh, A. S. Rosenberger, J. N. Smucker, Ronald von Riesen.

---

in a union service in the Lima Church.—Anona Landes, Corr.

—Rev. Edmund Miller, Field Representative of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary and Bible School, conducted special services at Sugarcreek, Ohio; Nappanee, Indiana, and Beatrice, Nebraska, recently.

—Brudertal Church, Hillsboro, Kans.: Several teachers of the Brudertal and Johannestal Sunday schools meet once a week to discuss the coming lesson. Some of the Junior C. E. members take part in the Tellament and Readament contests, which will be sponsored by the County Council of Christian Education on April 13. The Juniors have sent school bags, scrap books, and soap to the needy children of Europe. Each month they work on a different project. Upon invitation of the young people's C. E. Rev. Sam Goering came on March 23 to bring a message and show pictures taken while he was doing relief work in Europe. An offering, taken for relief, amounted to $75.78. At a joint meeting of the Ladies Sewing Society and the Mary Martha Circle on March 25, Mrs. W. E. Regier gave a talk in the interest of mission society work. Her helpful suggestions were appreciated. Using the general theme of "Personalities of the Passion," our pastor, Rev. Arnold E. Funk, preached on "Simon of Cyrene" on Good Friday and on "Caiaphas" on Easter Sunday.—Katherine E. Nickel, Corr.

—Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, California: Rev. Solomon Mouttet of the "Go Ye" Mission visited our church recently and presented several challenging messages concerning the work in the Ozarks. The Jubilate Trio and the Eppley Sisters, two well-known musical groups, inspired us by their consecrated singing and playing on Sunday evenings of March 2 and 9, respectively Rev. H. D. Burkholder conducted a week of pre-Easter services at the First Mennonite Church at Shafter. Twenty-three new members were received into our fellowship on Good Friday evening. Five received baptism by immersion (one a Jewess) three by pouring. Of the remaining number the majority transferred from other Mennonite Churches. on Easter Sunday evening our choir presented the cantata, "The King of Glory."—Mrs. Harold Burkholder, Corr.

—Menno Mennonite, Lind, Washington: Rev. Arnold Wall, of Whiteworth College, Spokane, brought us the message Easter morning. We united with the Lind churches to observe the Easter Sunrise Service. Our church is anticipating the privilege of having Miss Bertha Fast in our church next Sunday.—Mrs. Henry J. Franz, Corr.

—Zion, Church, Elbing, Kansas: As an extra feature of our Christian Endeavor program of April 6 we had Jessie Brown, R. N. speak to us about our relief work. Miss Brown returned last August from Europe where she had been secretary to Rev. Sam Goering. Now she is instructor at the Bethel Deaconess Hospital, Newton, Kansas.—Mrs. Louis A. Janzen, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Fredonia, Kansas: On Sunday, March 23, Rev. B. H. Janzen of Lehigh, Kansas, started a series of evening meetings. They were based on the work of the conference, with which he is associated. He concluded the meetings with the serving of the Holy Communion Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCroskey are attending the last semester at the Grace Bible Institute in Omaha. Mrs. Mc. Croskey is the former Mathilda Schmidt of Goessel, Kansas. Mrs. Henry Thiessen attended Bible Week at Bethel College in Newton. She also visited with her daughter Elfrieda who is attending school at Hesston.—Mrs. Alvin Schmidt, Corr.

—First Church of Garden Township, Halstead, Kansas: Mr. John Koppenhaver, instructor at Hesston College, brought the morning's message, March 23, in the absence of Rev. A. J. Dirks, who had gone to Greensburg to serve a group. Upon invitation of the "Mother's Sunday School Class" Rev. Waldo Harder, Berean Academy, Elbing, gave a special mission talk on his and Mrs. Harder's work among the Hopi Indians. He also preached a thought provoking Palm Sunday sermon. Rev. Ronald von Riesen solemnly, yet vivdly portrayed the crucifixion of Jesus in a sermon on Good Friday. Rev. A. J. Dirks has been holding a series of pre-Easter

---

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

NOTICE! ALL PASTORS AND CHURCH LEADERS

The last Sunday in April (April 27, 1947) has been designated by the General Conference Executive Committee as "Conference Sunday." Ministers are urged to plan the services of the day in such a way as to give opportunity for special intercession for the various phases of our united endeavor.—Walter H. Dyck, Executive Secretary

Miss Elizabeth Andres C-
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

services in the Friedenstal Church near Tampa, Kansas during Passion Week—Corr.

—Flatland Church, Quakertown, Pa., It was very gratifying to have with us again on Palm Sunday quite a few of our members who had been ill and indisposed for a month or more, to worship with us and to partake of the Lord's Supper after having fully recovered. We were glad to have with us Miss Flora Fellman, who is a guest at the Mennonite Home for the Aged at Frederick, Pa. About two weeks ago our Church started a heifer project. To date we have reached the three-quarter mark of our goal. It is to be sent to one of the war-torn countries of Europe.—Mrs. James S. Kline, Corr.

—Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio: On the evening of March 9, Dr. and Mrs. Bradford Steiner and Rev. and Mrs. Charles Warren spoke to us. They are planning to sail for India soon to be with their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Ezra Steiner, who are working in the Tibetan mission field. We greatly enjoyed the pre-Easter messages given by Dr. Marion Tinsler during the week of March 16-23. His theme was "Beliefs that Register." The young people of our Intermediate C. E. furnished the evening program on March 30 with a play entitled, "For God So Loved the World." It was based on the Easter story and well presented.—Mrs. Vernon Suter, Corr.

D. ELTON TRUEBLOOD VESPER SPEAKER

Dr. D. Elton Trueblood will speak on the topic, "A New Pattern of Living" at the Bluffton College Vesper Service, April 20, 3 P. M. in the Ramseyer Chapel. Dr. Trueblood, who is widely known for his books, "The Predicament of Modern Man" and "Foundation for Reconstruction" is Professor of Philosophy at Earlham, a Quaker college. He is a young man of forty-six who has had many notable experiences in the teaching field. From 1936-1945 he was professor of religion and chaplain of Stanford University. He has taught at Garrett Biblical Seminary for short periods, and in March 1946 he went to Europe and visited England, France, and Germany in a ministry of reconciliation and relief. His eighth book will be published in 1948. Dr. Trueblood, who is co-editor of "The Friend" magazine published in Philadelphia, has written many articles for national magazines, including "The Atlantic Monthy," the "Christian Science Monitor," etc.

—Mennonite Bible Mission, Chicago, Illinois: On Palm Sunday, three persons were baptized and accepted into the church. An inspiring pageant "The Challenge of the Cross" was presented by the Gospel Girls Choir during the evening services. Special meetings were held on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday during Passion Week. Thus far, friends and members have contributed $228.55 toward the Refugee Relocation Project.—Evelyn Triebe, Corr.

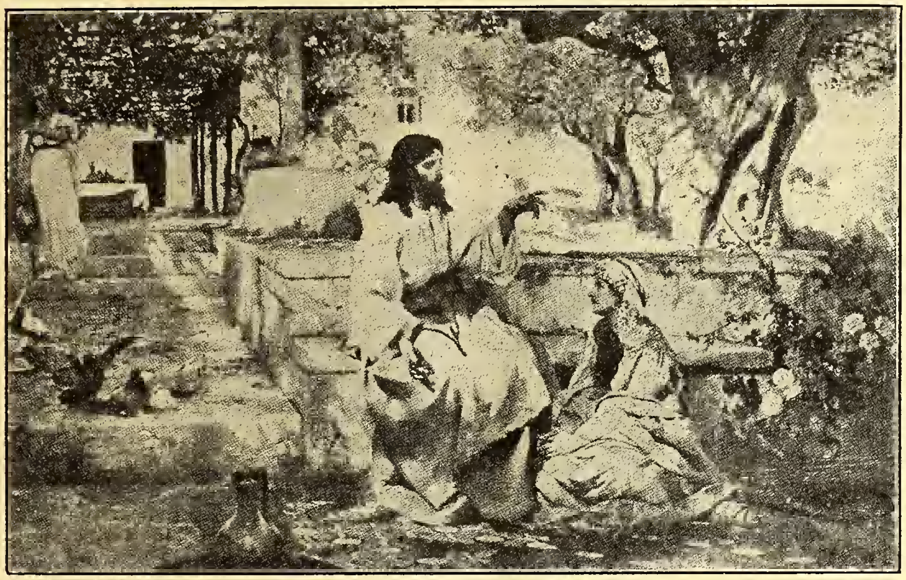
—First Church, Monroe, Washington: Rev. Solomon Mouttet of the Go Ye Mission showed slides and told about the work in Oklahoma March 26. The Ladies Missionary Society is presenting the Easter night program in drama, pantomine and song. We are commemorating the Lords Supper on Good Friday evening. "Because He lives we live also" is the text for our Easter morning service.—Corr.

—First Church, Paso Robles, California: On March 2 Rev. S. Mouttet of the "Ge Ye" Mission brought the morning message and in the evening showed his pictures of the same. March 9 Miss Bertha Fast showed pictures during the Sunday School hour and gave an interesting talk. The next night she spoke to the Girls' Sewing Club and the Ladies Missionary Society, and the following evening to the Young People's group of both the churches. Eight school bags were made up by the children of our Sunday School. Eleven more were sent by the children of the Paso Robles Released Time for Religious Education School. Rev. Orlo Kaufman had suggested this as a project. March 23 Rev. Alfred Wiebe of Upland occupied the pulpit in the absence of our pastor. The choir is busy preparing music for Easter and the coming California Sunday School and C. E. Convention to be held here April 25-27. Rev. Ben Rahn of Enid, Oklahoma, has accepted our call to become our pastor on or about June 1. Our present pastor, Rev. Orlo Kaufman will be with us until May 25, when they will first visit their parents and relatives before going to their new destination.—Gus Toevs, Corr.

—Correction: The financial report of the Mennonite of March 11 listed the Brudertal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas, as having given $51.25 for Education. This was a mistake. The amount was given for Publications and should have been shown that way.—Editor.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — April 22, 1947 — Number 16



Cut courtesy "The Gospel Messenger"

One Thing Is Needful

As Mary sat at the feet of Jesus and listened to His teaching, she very likely experienced a feeling of relaxation and cleansing, for we know that in our day even a person who is comparatively non-egocentric and non-defensive has that kind of an effect upon those who are tense, congested and confused in thought and feeling. Through Jesus Mary fellowshipped with God, who is the Creative Spirit. By being receptive to Him she was finding something for her problems.

Martha on the other hand was not finding something for the problems of her life, and problems there were, for she was distracted, anxious and troubled about many things, and resentful. She too longed for harmony within and for happy, satisfying relationships with others, but she neglected to sit at the feet of Jesus to relax and face the painful confusion within.

Life is very much a matter of problem solving. These problems are perhaps painful in varying degrees to different individuals. The more painful a problem. the more difficult the facing of it. Although there seems to be within us something which seeks to protect us from too great pain, the very nature of life at the same time seems to make pain a necessary part of growth.

Relaxation and time to think are essential for the facing of problems. Moses, Jesus, and Paul sought out such opportunities. Jesus taught the value of withdrawing into privacy to pray. Man needs time to think things out. He needs time to speak out his problems and then to wait for God's response to them. Perhaps, it is significant that most of us perceive God's response most clearly and definitely as we become quiet and relaxed. As we relax an increasing number of our brain cells begin to function, and God speaks better through our whole mind rather than through a part of it. It is necessary to take time to become whole. People with problems, people with a great mass of unverbalized matter on the fringe of their more active consciousness are people who can experience release and clarification by doing as Mary did.

"O what peace we often forefeit,
O what needless pain we bear,
All because we do not carry
Ev'ry-thing to God in pray'r"

Pensioning Our Ministers

by August Epp

The General Conference Ministers' Pension Committee met over the weekend of April 13 at the home of August Epp, in Newton. Those of the committee who were from out of town were: Rev. H. Albert Claassen, of Toronto, Canada; Robert Stauffer, of Milford Square, Pennsylvania; and Clinton Kaufman, Wichita. Mrs. J. E. Entz and August Epp are the Newton members of the committee. Miss Mary Bargen of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, also a member of the committee, was not able to be present. This was the second regular meeting of this committee, the first one being held at Beatrice, Nebraska, during the last session of the Western District Conference. The committee was very fortunate in having Rev. Walter Dyck spend a full day consulting with them.

The committee wasn't long in realizing that the work assigned to it is a very large assignment. In fact, it is so staggering that the committee keenly feels its inadequacy to work out the proposition. Since the committee decided that the pension plan would be underwritten by the Presbyterian Ministers Fund of Philadelphia, it was very fortunate in having Fev. Frank Hughes of the Fund meet with them. Rev. Hughes was very valuable in giving information to our committee since his organization has worked out pension plans for a large number of denominations. The more our committee delved into and explored the many possibilities and advantages of such a plan, the more it felt that the ministers pension plan, underwritten by a strong life insurance company, is the cheapest, soundest, and most feasible way of doing this job. It has been most interesting, and gives the committee a great sense of satisfaction and assurance, to find that such a very large percentage of our older ministers and prominent leaders of our churches so fully and wholeheartedly endorsed the committee's choice of this plan.

A fact that is not commonly known but which is a matter of record in the minutes of the General Conference, is that for approximately twenty-five years there has been a very definite desire on the part of Conference officials that a plan be worked out. In that period of time a number of committees groped with this problem and found it is so far-reaching and staggering a job, that they were discouraged, and not too much has been done until now. Our committee has met twice with the boards and committees of the General Conference and reported what our plans are. At our first meeting, several of the ministers impressed upon our committee that whatever plan we brought forward would have to be one in which the preachers themselves would share, one which has ample financial backing, one that will not disillusion its participants at the time of retirement, and above all one which can be financed with the least amount of money possible. As far as the finances of the plan are concerned your committee is convinced that it takes the least amount of money by having it underwritten by the Presbyterian Ministers Fund, which has been organized by ministers, and is run by ministers, for the benefit of ministers. The company has upwards of forty million dollars in assets, which, of course, are there to finance any plan it accepts. If the General Conference were to finance its own plan it would be obliged to raise between one and two million dollars and keep it wisely invested to produce returns which could be used for the pensioning of our ministers. It is obvious that to raise the above amount of capital among our people would be an almost impossible undertaking.

A pamphlet, worked out by our committee at its last session, sets forth somewhat in detail the plan and gives an illustrative table of figures. This will be sent to all churches of the Conference. The committee desires very much that study and consideration be given to this plan so that the delegates to the General Conference session in August will have knowledge of the plan so that they can vote intelligently. The committee fully realizes, since the ministers will greatly benefit by the plan, that it will be more up to our lay leadership to get behind this proposition and see that it becomes an actuality.

Rev. Walter Dyck, in a recent letter to all the ministers, has embodied in it a request that the ministers submit the name of some prominent church worker to the General Conference Headquarters, 722 Main Street, Newton, Kansas, since the material will be sent to this person as soon as possible.

Our committee feels that it is imperative for the churches of the Conference to give thought to and arrange for charity contributions to help our needy ministers and windows of ministers, who because of their age will not benefit from the plan, but who by all means must be cared for immediately.

Any advice or suggestions that our members have should be directed to the chairman or Brother Clinton Kaufman, who is the secretary, and will be given the best of attention possible. —August Epp, Chairman

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Board of Education Report on Annual Meeting

The following is a report of the Annual Meeting of the Board of Education, which was held in Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas, February 11-13, 1947.

The opening devotional period on Tuesday morning was conducted by the chairman, Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman, who read I Peter 2:1-10, and offered prayer. The following were present for the sessions: Ed. G. Kaufman, J. D. Unruh, Erland Waltner, L. L. Ramseyer, Olin Krehbiel, and A. S. Rosenberger, secretary. Ronald von Riesen, executive-secretary, was present at all sessions. Visitors were present from time to time.

Discuss Conference Schools

The first day was devoted to a discussion of conference schools. Brief statements were made as follows: L. L. Ramseyer, Bluffton College; K. G. Toews, Rosthern Junior College; J. D. Unruh, Freeman Junior College; E. J. Miller, Mennonite Biblical Seminary; Willis Rich, Bethel College.

Canadian Mennonite Bible College Proposed

A report on the proposed new Canadian Mennonite Bible College was given by Rev. J. J. Thiessen. Their Board, of which Brother Thiessen is chairman, consists of ten members elected by the Canadian Conference. It is planned to locate the college in Winnipeg, where it is hoped to obtain a suitable building. The Board passed a resolution that "whereas the brethren of the Canadian Conference have plans to establish a centrally located Canadian Mennonite Bible College, we recommend that the General Conference endorse the plan to establish such a college, and that we render all the assistance we can."

Sub-Committee on General Conference Schools

As a result of the discussion concerning the tasks and relationships of our conference schools, the Board passed a motion that a Sub-committee on General Conference Schools be formed to study the over-all need of our conference in this area, and coordinate activities; the committee to consist of one member appointed by each conference school, the president of the Board of the proposed Canadian Mennonite Bible College, and two members of the Board of Education. It was agreed that the presidents of the schools are to be considered members of the committee unless the Board is notified that someone else is appointed. The two members of the Board of Education asked to serve are Olin Krehbiel and A. S. Rosenberger.

One Month for Christian Education Emphasis

The problems that result from designating just one Sunday for Christian educational emphasis were discussed and the following motion was passed: that an educational emphasis period begin with the last Sunday in August and continue till the end of September with a Sunday or period of time therein to be selected by the individual congregation. It is recommended that a Sunday be devoted to Christian higher education; and a Sunday to the local church program, this not necessarily a sermon, but some recognition of what is being done.

Report by Curriculum Committee

The Wednesday morning session was opened with a devotional period in charge of the secretary, A. S. Rosenberger. He read Eph. 4:1-15 and led in prayer. Members of the Curriculum Committee, a sub-committee of the Board of Education, were present. Members of the committee are: Paul Shelly, chairman; Henry N. Harder and Christine Miller. The Board of Education is indefinitely continuing this committee. Among the recommendations of the committee which the Board adopted are: 1. That we negotiate with the (Old) Mennonites looking toward the re-editing of their Intermediate Quarterly for our use, and then having it carry the imprint of the General Conference. 2. That the Board of Education recommends that the revised (Old) Mennonite Daily Vacation Bible School material be used in our churches, and that for 1948 a Handbook be prepared by the Western District Education Committee. 3. That a Handbook on Stories of Church History, prepared by Rev. and Mrs. Arnold Regier, be sent to all General Conference Churches as a sample for usage in Sunday Schools, Daily Vacation Bible Schools, and C. E. Societies. 4. That a committee be appointed to serve with Ronald von Riesen, who is at present working in this field, to set up a "Leadership Training Course;" and that "Leadership Training Centers" be established, in cooperation with district education committees, in various sections of our constituency this summer for a period of one week. (These items were left to Ronald von Riesen and Erland Waltner for further action.) 5. That Paul Shelly, Ronald von Riesen and Elmer Ediger be asked to prepare a booklet on "Full-Time Christian Service."

Meeting with Board of Publication

On Wednesday afternoon the Board held a joint meeting with the Publication Board for about one hour. Following the opening prayer by A. A. Penner, items related to our joint work, such as the writing and publication of the quarterlies, were discussed. A plan was considered whereby all costs of the quarterlies are to be paid through the accounts of the Publication Board, and all profits and losses are then to be shared. After July 1, both Boards are to have a part in the appointment of writers for the quarterlies.

Young People's Union Represented

When the Board of Education reconvened in Memorial Hall, members of the Young People's Union were present to discuss the work of the young people. Elmer Ediger and Bertha Fast gave reports on the Voluntary Service projects, explaining that they are proposing three projects, one at Lame Deer, Montana, under the direction of the Foreign Mission Board, one in Chicago under the Home Mission Board, and a third to consist of two caravans to work in selected Mennonite communities where there are opportunities for service. The Board of Education was asked to underwrite the third project, which is to consist of two groups of young people, four or five to a group, to serve for six weeks. The Board agreed to do this. It also approved the retreat which the Young People's Union is planning to hold at Camp Mack, Indiana, from August 28-31. Rev. Olin Krehbiel was appointed Young People's counsellor, representing this Board.

At a meeting with Dr. A. Warkentin, chairman of the Historical Committee, various matters of common concern in collecting and preserving Mennonite material were discussed.

Exchange of Foreign Students

The Thursday morning session was opened with a prayer period in charge of Erland Waltner. The exchange of foreign students was discussed. This is being supervised by this Board, with other Boards, and groups cooperating to make the project possible. The cost per student is about $750, of which sum some have been able to pay a considerable amount and others the bare minimum of $50. It was voted that foreign students for next year be selected on the basis of a budget of $6,200 (of which $1,200 is being raised by the Y.P.U.), with $5,000 allocated to European students and the balance to those from Puerto Rico and Paraguay. These students are to be selected on the basis of preparation for Christian service, interpreted in the broader sense. It is agreed that it is the best policy to have students come for only one year, except in special cases.

Report on Curricula Study

Dean P. S. Goertz, of Bethel College, made a report to the Board of a committee study on curricula for our schools with special reference to the relationship of Canadian and U. S. schools. He reported that it was the feeling of the college deans that college teachers and administrators of our General Conference should meet for four or five days to discuss their tasks in relation to our program of Christian education. The Board approved this proposal and turned the matter over to the newly created Committee on General Conference Schools.

The program for the Ministers Retreat for 1947 at Shipshewana, Indiana, was approved, and due announcement will be made.

There is to be no Young Christian Workers' Institute this year in view of the ending of Civilian Public Service, and also due to the proposed General Conference Y. P. Retreat, which will serve much the same purpose.

Amount of Tuition for C.P.S. Men

In answer to a question of the executive-secretary as to the amount of tuition aid to which a CPS man is entitled in cases where more or less than the normal number of hours is taken under the CPS Educational Rehabilitation Program, it was resolved that each CPS man be entitled to the amount of education for which he would be eligible if he were taking the normal full-time college load, regardless of the length of time it takes him to do it, except that the work must be completed within the five-year limit formerly agreed upon.

The Board reappointed the writers for the Senior-Adult Quarterly. The appointment of the editor of the Junior Quarterly is continued through previous action of the Board.

Add to Questionnaire

It was resolved that in connection with the questionnaire for information on Sunday Schools, distributed under the direction of Erland Waltner, we enclose a separate slip requesting information as to the schools which the young people of each congregation are attending, and also ask the names of young people definitely interested in Christian service. An enrollment and financial statistical report is also to be requested of each General Conference school by the executive-secretary, and the result is to be incorporated in the Board's report to the General Conference.

Joint Meeting with Doctrine and Conduct Committee

A brief joint meeting for the purpose of clarification of projects was held with the Committee on Doctrine and Conduct represented by Don Smucker, Henry Harder and Willard Claassen. Olin Krehbiel is a member both of the Board and this committee.

It was reported that a form for the consecration of college teachers has been prepared under the direction of Olin Krehbiel and has been turned over to the Handbook Committee.

Report of Executive-secretary

The report of the executive-secretary, Ronald von Riesen, was received with appreciation, for what has been done. Mr. von Riesen was granted the privilege of attending seminary in Kansas City for one quarter of the year with the understanding that he will be at home over week-ends. The Board feels that he should accept no regular church commitment in view of his duties as executive-secretary.

Budget of $30,000 for Current Year

The budget was set at $30,000 for the current year, of which $18,000 is for the educational rehabilitation of CPS men, and $5,000 is for Foreign Student Exchange. These projects would not be possible without the cooperation of other Boards and groups, as well as individual contributions which are all much appreciated.

It was agreed that some General Conference literature be forwarded to some Dutch ministers in answer to a request from them for such material.

The session of the Board came to a close with a prayer period conducted by Dr. Kaufman, chairman. Members of the Board and visitors led in prayer from time to time to close the sessions.—A. S. Rosenberger, Secretary; Ed. G. Kaufman, Chairman.

A Prayer

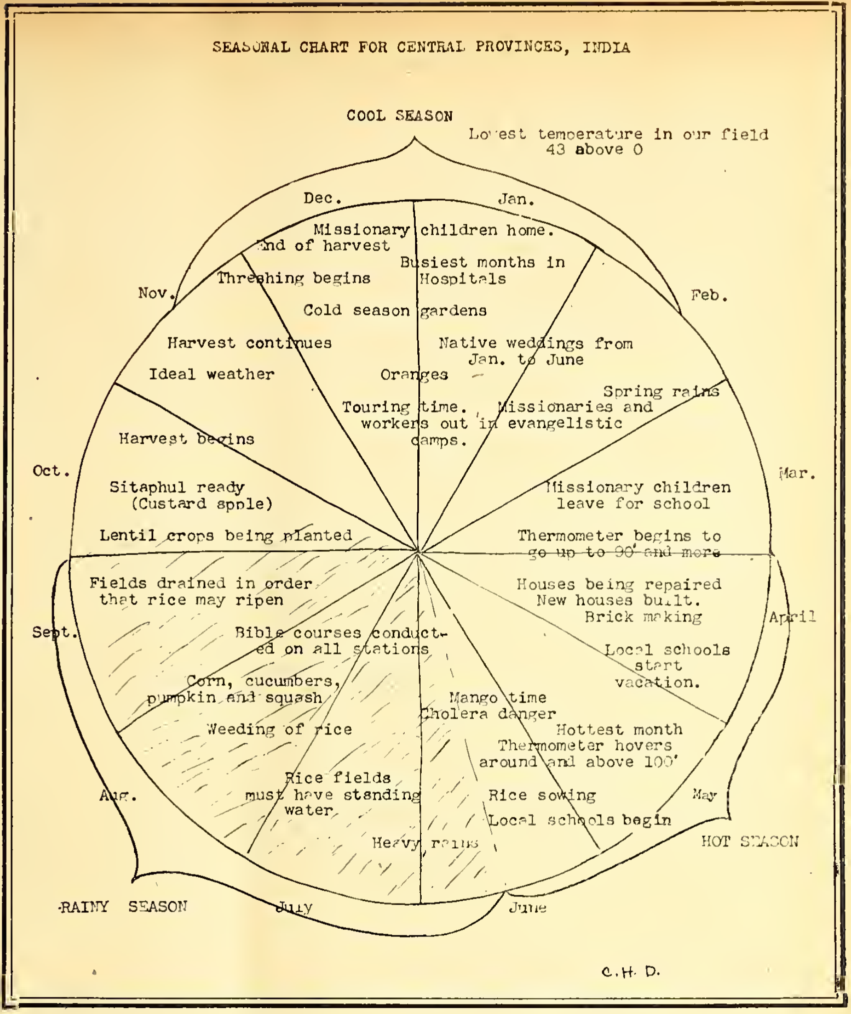
Teach me, Father, how to go
Softly as the grasses grow;
Hush my soul to meet the shock
Of the wild world as a rock;
But my spirit, propped with power,
Make as simple as a flower.

— Edwin Markham

The Seasons of Central India

by

Christena Duerksen



SEASONAL CHART FOR CENTRAL PROVINCES, INDIA
COOL SEASON
Lowest temperature in our field 43 above 0
Dec.
Jan.
Missionary children home.
End of harvest
Busiest months in Hospitals
Threshing begins
Cold season gardens
Nov.
Feb.
Harvest continues
Native weddings from Jan. to June
Ideal weather
Oranges
Spring rains
Touring time. Missionaries and workers out in evangelistic camps.
Harvest begins
Oct.
Mar.
Sitaphul ready (Custard apple)
Missionary children leave for school
Lentil crops being planted
Thermometer begins to go up to 90' and more
Fields drained in order that rice may ripen
Houses being repaired New houses built. Brick making Sept.
April
Bible courses conducted on all stations
Local schools start vacation.
Corn, cucumbers, pumpkin and squash
Mango time
Cholera danger
Weeding of rice
Hottest month Thermometer hovers around and above 100'
Rice fields must have standing water
Aug.
Rice sowing
May
Local schools begin
Heavy rains
HOT SEASON
RAINY SEASON
July
June
C.H. D.

The above chart is an attempt to answer the oft-repeated question we are asked, "Just what kind of weather are they having in India now?"

To the missionaries who have children in school, I think December feels like the first month of the year. The school in the Himalayas closes during the last week in November, and by the first week in December the children are at "home." Christmas preparations, beginning of evangelistic tours to the villages, more patients in the hospitals increase the tempo of missionary life. The cool weather is invigorating, the gardens irrigated from the wells furnish good, wholesome vegetables and oranges, and other citrus fruits hang from loaded boughs. Now comes the farmer's leisure time, January to March, and therefore the best time for village-to-village evangelism. Village weddings are in order, and the evangelists sometimes find a large, holiday crowd ready to hear something new and interesting. Books are sold, and even whole Bibles find their way into far-away villages.

By the middle of March the days are already "hot," and the green of the gardens gives way to sere and rusty browns. For the missionary families, March opens the next chapter when, with trunks and boxes, bedding rolls and precious personal possessions, the children are sent off to school. From then until the beginning of December, although days are full of work, there is an emptiness about the bungalows.

As the heat increases, housebuilding and repair work are the order of the day. The hot sun dries the mud walls and the mud bricks which are then ready for the kiln. In spite of the heat, a miracle of nature takes place. Dainty bright green, dark red, and fresh yellow leaves come out to take the place of the old ones which dropped to the ground only a few weeks before. The schools for Indian children declare a "hot weather" vacation. This gives the missionaries engaged in educational work a chance to get away to the "hill station" for a rest in a cooler atmosphere. Many of the missionaries go away for a few weeks in May and June. Those who must stay to supervise institutional work go later during the rains or even in September or October when days are often sultry and trying. New missionaries, who must attend the language school in Landour, go up for four months, from May to the end of August.

In the hot season vegetables are hard to get. Everyone rejoices when the mango trees bear well. Green, the fruit can be used as a vegetable; pickled, it adds zest to an otherwise drab meal. Ripe, filled with a delightful, juicy pulp, it rejoices the heart of young and old. Analytically, it has been found to be a perfect complement for a diet too heavy in starch. With the water in reservoirs and tanks low and impure there is always danger of a cholera outbreak at this time of the year.

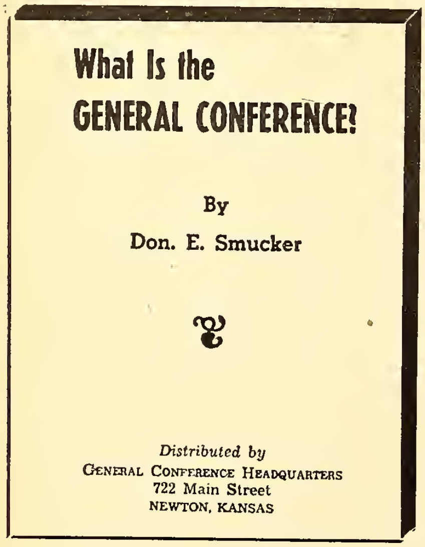
For the farmer, the middle of June is the beginning of the year. Earlier he has plowed and prepared the fields and cleaned the seed rice. Eagerly he scans the horizon for signs of monsoon clouds. As soon as the first rains come he sows the seed in hopes of another harvest.

With the rice sown and watered by the ever increasing rains, fields that were hard and baked just a few weeks before, become lush and green with new growth. Pumpkins, squash, cucumbers and corn grow amazingly in the warm wetness. When the rice has grown to about four inches and the fields have retained enough water so that it stands in the plots, the farmers go in with their plows and scratch around in a way that, to one unversed in the mysteries of rice farming, seems to spell ruin to the crop. But the disturbed plants send out stronger roots and multiplied stalks which mean a better harvest. When the plants have recovered from the rough treatment, the weeding takes place. This is done by hand, and it takes sharp eyes to distinguish between rice plants and grass. It is during these weeks that farmers are worried if the rains let up for any length of time.

Harvest begins with the high fields in October, and from then on to the end of November there are always some fields ready for the sickle. Just before the earliest harvest, when the rains no longer pour down, the higher level fields for the lentil crops are prepared and sown. In the gardens the "cold" season vegetables are started —peas, beans, carrots, cabbage, tomatoes, celery and whatever else can be grown. These need irrigation later on. During these weeks another of India's delightful fruits ripens—the custard apple.

While the farmer has been busy in his fields the missionary has not been sitting idle. There is always correspondence with which to catch up. Bible courses for the evangelists and workers are conducted at all stations. Whenever possible, classes for all church members are also arranged for, both for literate and illiterate. These latter classes often meet during the noon hour when farmers take a few hours off from field work. Later the workers go out to scattered groups of Christians to hold similar miniature Bible courses.

From the end of November, and for a month to come, the district churches are busy with harvest festivals. Missionaries try to attend as many of these as possible because they are truly times of thanksgiving. It might be well to mention here that, whenever possible, the annual missionary conference takes place in October or November when little village evangelism can be done due to the farmer's heavy field work. As soon as that gets lighter the cycle begins again.



What Is the
GENERAL CONFERENCE?

By
Don. E. Smucker

Distributed by General Conference Headquarters
722 Main Street
NEWTON, KANSAS

Now being printed!

A HAND-OUT pamphlet which should be in the hands of every
GENERAL CONFERENCE MEMBER

Order coupon

Ship to ________________________________ Church or Sunday School

Person ordering ________________________________ ________ copies, "What Is the General Conference?"

(Price $2.00 per hundred)

"Kindly place my advance order for the 100 copies . . . . 'What Is the General Conference?' I wish I knew just what this is like. If I knew I might order 500 copies. Every time I sail a ship, or board a train somewhere over this globe folks ask, 'Who are the Mennonites?' (Such a pamphlet will) . . . . give a testimony for Christ."—S. T. Moyer.

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Five members of the faculty attended the meeting of the Ohio College Association, held in Columbus, April 11. The Board of Trustees held its semi-annual meeting April 7. Action was taken looking toward inauguration of a teacher retirement annuity and insurance plan beginning with the next fiscal year, September 1. A committee was authorized to take action with respect to some health and hospitatilizaion plan as well. President Ramseyer attended committee meetings in Chicago April 14, 15. The Y's held their Geneva banquet Wednesday evening, April 9. Y elections were held on the day previous. Those elected to YW officers for next year were: Arlene Hartzler, Goshen, Indiana, president; Janice Welty, Pandora, Ohio, vice president; Betty Jean Pannabecker, Peoria, Illinois, treasurer; and Dorothy Salzman, Upland, California, secretary. YM officers elected were Burton Yost, Lansdale, Pennsylvania, president Charles Richert, Canton, Ohio, vice president; John Neufer, Topeka, Indiana, secretary; and Ralph Althaus, Bluffton, treasurer.

BETHEL COLLEGE

Staurt Chase, noted economist, closed the 1946-47 Memorial Hall Series on April 9 with an analytical lecture on "Full Employment." As is customary, a small group of approximately one hundred met in the Student Union Room after the speech for an informal discussion with the lecturer. Large audiences of several thousand have been enjoying the high-caliber educational entertainment which the Series brings to the community, and on March 25, preceding the Mordecai Johnson lecture, they rated past performances by ballot and also expressed preferences for future numbers. The Committee in arranging the 1947-48 program, has already made public the securing of the Chicago Little Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra and Louis Untermeyer. Season tickets have gone on sale at one dollar plus. Speakers appearing before the student body recently include Howard Cleaves, naturalist; Loring Campbell, entertainer; Bishop C. F. Derstine, evangelist; L. W. Brooks, State Superintendent of Education, and Elisabeth Goertz, returned from China.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Music Day performs a unique service for the Mennonite churches of this area. No other event so well unites divergent elements and interests as does this event. The fourteen churches of four Mennonite Conferences, who joined in the morning program, demonstrated this. Music directors in small schools must possess great versatility since limited staffs do not permit small fields of specialization. Limited time forces them to make the difficult choice between spending all their efforts on small groups of specially gifted musicians, or spending it to help the whole group to a higher level of musical appreciation and performance. The first choice brings brilliant performance by small groups but ignores the majority. The second brings less spectacular results but recognizes the needs of that majority. In these days of competitive endeavor it takes courage to make the latter choice. Monday's programs demonstrated that the difficult feat of combining these aims had been achieved. Much credit goes to the Music Department for its work with the students of average musical ability as well as its splendid work with the select groups.

MENNONITE SEMINARY

The high point of each day at school is the period of worship together in the chapel service. Each day at nine o'clock in the morning students and faculty gather together in the chapel. Before the program of worship begins there is a period of silent meditation while the organ plays. Always, a hearty amount of singing is a part of chapel. The worship period continues with the singing of great stirring hymns. This is always a deeply thrilling part of the service because Brethren sing with as deep sincerity and enthusiasm as Mennonites like to believe they sing! Through such singing, the worship of the eternal God and Father of us all becomes very real and close to one's life. Each day the chapel service is in charge of some appointed person. Either a visitor speaks or one of the faculty members. On Thursdays the students are in charge of chapel, and these are conducted in various different ways. It is in the chapel service that the fellowship of seminary life becomes intimate and real because it is there that life pauses while each worshipper searches himself and humbles himself before Him who is author and finisher of our faith.

HENDERSON, NEBRASKA, COMMUNITY TO CELEBRATE

Sometime this coming August the Mennonite community of Henderson, Nebraska, will spend three or four evenings in recalling pioneer days and the migration from Russia, which preceded the settlement here in the "land of the free." Local talent will present the various features of the celebration. A map, showing the original tract of land on which the Mennonite pioneer families settled in 1874 and giving exact place and name where each family settled, is to be a part of the important historical data that is to be collected.

In 1847 thirty-five families (207 souls in all) settled in the western part of York and in the eastern part of Hamilton counties, on land purchased from the B & M Railroad Company. A total of about 6,400 acres was purchased and reserved. Terms were $3.50 an acre cash or $6 on a long and easy payment plan with low interest.

According to one list the following pioneers, scattered across the United States and Canada, are still living: Mrs. Klass Friesen, Mrs. Peter P. Epp, John W. Friesen, and Jacob Friesen (These four have lived in Henderson Community for seventy-three consecutive years.); (The following have left the community.) Mrs. Johann Sperling (in the nineties and possibly the oldest), Henry Abrahams, Johann Voth, Mrs. A. J. Mierau, Mrs. Peter Gaede, Jacob C. Wall, Gerhard Sperling, Peter Sperling, Mrs. Herman Schmidt, John Fast, Aganetha Fast, and Mrs. Gerhard Friesen.

(The foregoing facts are based upon a letter by J. J. Friesen of Henderson. Mr. Friesen would appreciate knowing whether there are any other surviving pioneers than those listed.)

MARIA WIENS SEEK RELATIVES

Maria Wiens of Zehman, Gaschwitz, Hauptstrasse 31 (10) Kries Leipsig, Germany, is seeking relatives and friends of Abraham Wiens, who in 1923 resided at Friedensfeld, Nikapol, Government Jekaterinoslov, South Russia. She is seeking: a cousin, Mr. Jacob Willms; and a cousin, Mrs. Sara Janzen, who has since remarried in America. A cousin Johann Willms died in America, but his wife Maria Schmidt Willms is still in America. Neighbors of the Willms family, which came to America in 1923, are: Mr. Peter Penner; his son-in-law Heinrich Janzen; a teacher, Gerhard Penner, and his wife, daughter of Philipp Isaak.

Mrs. P. C. Jantz of Odessa, Washington, has received several letters from Maria Wiens and writes, "She (Maria Wiens) is very much alone and in need of help. I shall be glad to send her letter on to any of the relatives interested in her . . . Perhaps, some of the families that left the same village (Friedensfeld) in 1923 can give information of the whereabouts of the . . . people she is seeking." Anyone having information for Maria Wiens may write to her directly or get in touch with Mrs. P. C. Jantz, Odessa, Washington.

FRAU FRIDA WIENS, HAMFELDE BEI TRITTAU, BEZ, HAMBURG, BRITISH ZONE, GERMANY would like to hear from:
FRAU LOISE FRIESEN, NEE DICK, formerly of Pietgendorf, Germay.

FRAU HEINRICH HEIDEBRECHT, HAMFELDE BEI TRITTAU, BEZ. HAMBURG, BRITISH ZONE, GERMANY would like to hear from:
Any descendant of:
JOHANN CLAASSEN and MARGARETE CLAASSEN, formerly of Reimerwald, Prussia, who came to America about sixty-two years ago.

(Handed in by Ernest G. Claassen, Whitewater, Kansas)

IN MEMORIAM

Hilda May Bartel Laubach, daughter of Cornelius and Martha Bartel, was born May 30, 1912, at Hillsboro, Kansas. She passed away at Boulder, Colorado, on March 14, 1947. In 1927 she was baptized and received as a member of the Bethel Mennonite Church, Wolf Point, Montana, In 1933 she was united in marriage to George C. Laubach. Three children, Bonnie, Carol Ann, and Norbert, were born to this union. She is mourned by her husband and children, by her parents, three brothers and one sister. Rev. Albert Ewert was in charge of the funeral. Burial was in the Bethel Wolf Point Cemetery.

John A. Koehn, son of Andrew P. and Anna Schmidt Koehn, was born near Moundridge, Kansas, February 6, 1885. With his parents he migrated to Meno, Oklahoma, where he lived since. In 1903 he was baptized and accepted as a member of the New Hopedale Mennonite Church. He was united in marriage to Aganetha Schaertner in 1909. Together they shared joy and sorrow for over thirty-seven years. Besides his beloved wife there survive him: two sons, Lowell of Meno, and Reuben of Liberal, Kansas; two daughters, Mrs. Dan Jantzen, Kremlin, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Clinton McBroom, Fairview, Oklahoma. He also left mourning him: four brothers, Jacob, Ben, Solomon, and Abram, all of Meno; and six sisters, Caroline, Lena, Katie, and Mrs. Henry B. Buller, all of Enid, Mrs. Dan Nightingale, Goltry and Mrs. Joe Eck, Meno. His death came suddenly on February 20, 1947.

A Gift and the Giver

by O. A. Waltner

Ever since he had been admitted as a patient in the Bethesda Leper Home at Champa, Makunda was regular in attending the church services. It was most natural for him to attend the Sunday School classes that afternoon. Makunda came to church early. Usually he came with the other groups of patients just a few minutes before the classes began. But this time he didn't wait for his friends. He had a particular work to do before the service began. His step was slow and not too firm as he made his way to the church. He leaned heavily on his bamboo cane which was light but strong. At the bottom of the steps leading up to the front door of the church he paused to remove his shoes. He offered a prayer and then walked up the steps into the church.

Usually he entered by the side door, but this time he walked through the main door down the center aisle. He walked down the low bench on which he habitually sits with his friends. Down the length of the aisle he came, and there before the altar he bowed his head and prayed. While his head was still bowed in prayer and the left hand over his breast, the deformed and crippled right hand drew out something from the shirt pocket. Early comers watched as he got down on his knees. People were coming into the church, but Makunda didn't hear them. He was offering a gift to the Lord and he wouldn't be hurried. The people sitting on the benches were watching him closely as he lay prostrate on the coir matting facing the altar. His hands were spread out—his left palm turned up. In the right hand he held the gift he was offering to the Lord together with a prayer. Some saw his lips move and joined him in this sacred moment. Finally, after what seemed a long time the right hand opened and the few who were close by saw that Makunda was bringing an offering of 1¼ annas, about 2½ cents!

After getting up, Makunda reverently laid down the "Widow's mite" and offered yet another prayer. Then he turned to go to his accustomed place in the audience. The church was filled with people by this time, but Makunda found his place among the more than five hundred patients who had come for the Sunday School classes. He had not only prepared himself for the services which began almost immediately after he sat down, but his humble consecration had a moving effect on all in the audience. We all felt nearer to God and Christ in that moment.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

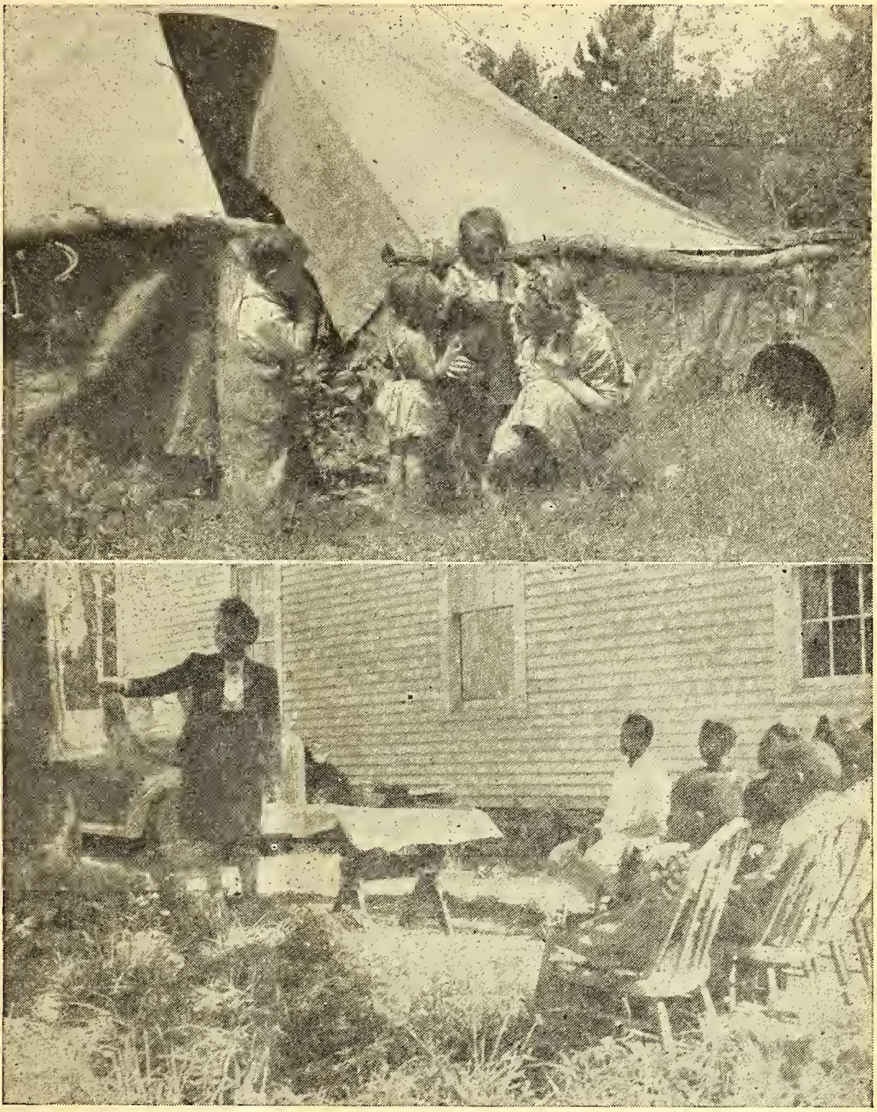
Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Who Are the Migrants?



Befriending some children in front of their tent home, a worker finds the children appreciate her interest in and service to them. In the lower picture an outdoor Sunday School class is being held under a tree. The migrants reached by the Home Missions program include whites, American Negroes, Jamaicans, Bahamians, Spanish-speaking Americans, Mexican nationals, Puerto Ricans and American Indians.

Cut courtesy "The Gospel Messenger"

When harvest season comes to Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, and South Dakota, moving on into Canada, many a harvest hand would "follow the harvest." Many a reader of this paper will remember the ancient rattle traps that came up from Arkansas, Missouri, and Oklahome with a carload of 'hands' looking for a job. Each season they would "make the run." Each season many of the same ones would come back following the same "contacts."

Many of these hands had little farms of their own back in the Ozarks and would follow the wheat harvest returning home for the rest of the year. But, there are many more who don't just follow the wheat harvest, but make regular yearly runs starting with citrus in Florida in the winter, then vegetables, and fruit on north, then on farther north in vegetable crops and winding up in fruit crops in New York or New England in the fall. Then, they return to Florida for citrus crops in the winter and start the trek over again.

Migrants follow regular routes like this all over the country. One migrant route is on the East Coast, another is in the Middle West starting in the South and ending in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Another route follows the West Coast from Southern California north to Washington.

Last year the Home Mission Council worked in states in which there were 325,000 seasonal farm workers. They reached ninety thousand of them. There were twenty-three denominations which cooperated in this program. The Council was divided in two hundred project areas and there were two hundred twenty workers who served in seventeen states.

EASTERN AREA (New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia): 36,000 migrants, 21,600 reached (60 per cent); 94 projects conducted by 55 regular and many volunteer workers, including 23 ministers, 12 community workers and 11 children's nursery workers; total budget—$39,700, of which $34,800 was contributed through state and local migrant committees.

MIDWESTERN AREA (Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Arkansas): 44,800 migrants; 13,900 reached (31 per cent); 35 projects conducted by 64 staff workers and volunteers, including 15 ministers, 26 community workers and 11 children's nursery workers; total budget $18,600, of which $10,700 was contributed through state and local committees.

WESTERN AREA (California, Oregon, Washington and Colorado): 242,000 migrants, 54,000 reached (22 per cent); 77 projects conducted by 101 regular and volunteer workers, including 2 ministers and 7 community workers; total budget—$14,000, of which $8,000 was contributed through state and local committees.

It should be remembered that these wandering thousands of people upon whose labor we depend for our fresh lettuce, oranges, apples, carrots and countless other foods, these wandering people do not have many things we take for granted. Their families have no home, but must live in camps, tents, cars, shanties or whatever is at hand. They have no churches to go to, their children must often go to half a dozen schools in a year, they have no neighbors and friends whom they can depend upon and get help from when they are in need. None of the ordinary things we take for granted are theirs — no property or wardrobes of clothes or cellars of food. They are a uprooted people.

This fact deeply affects their moral and spiritual outlook. An uprooted life results in uprooted moral and spiritual conditions for the individuals. Stability of character goes with the loss of stability in living conditions. A ministry of the Christian Gospel of love becomes all the more acute.

But, uprooted people do not have ministers to serve them even though they so sorely need such a ministry. For this reason, the call for workers who are willing to work for a summer or for full time with the migrants becomes so great. This year the Women's Missionary Association has issued a call for eight volunteers for the summer season. Those who will volunteer for this work will have a most challenging and difficult task, but at the same time will perform one of the most needy services to a very needy people.

Call for Summer Migrant Work Volunteers

by Emma Ruth

For the fourth consecutive season the Mennonite Women's Service Committee expects to sponsor mission workers among the migrant agricultural laborers during the summer months. By God's grace and the interest of young people it has been possible to double the number of workers each year since we began with one in 1944. Our prayer is that this may be possible again this year. This would call for eight workers for the summer of 1947. The need is great. May our faith be equal to it. Christian teachers can make a real contribution because of their training and experience, and young people expecting to enter full-time Christian service can have an invaluable experience in preparation for their work giving ten or twelve weeks to migrant missionary work. If you are interested and feel called of God to give of your time to this Christian ministry, write to Emma Ruth, 1049 West Ave. Reedley, California, secretary of the committee, for further information. There is some remuneration for the work. The Committee is looking forward to the time when we may have a full time worker in this needy field right at our doors, which we dare not over look. This work is sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society.

Diary of Migrant Mission Workers

(Last Summer Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Boehr of Henderson, Nebraska, served in migrant mission work at Springdale, Arkansas. under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Association. The following contains extracts from their daily dairy reflecting the life of a worker.)

June 3 — We arrived in Springdale, Arkansas, via car this evening at about 6:30 p.m. We looked up Mr. D. N. Misenhimer, the government man in charge of the Farm Labor Supply Center here in Springdale. We were very warmly welcomed by him and invited to stay for supper. Then for the night Mr. Misenhimer put us up at the clinic and we slept well.

June 4 — This is a government Farm Labor Supply Center in which the migrant people are staying and in which we are to do our work. This morning we were shown our shelter-cabin in which we might stay. It needed a good scrubbing, as well as did the stove, bed, table and chairs.

June 5 — This morning we spent cleaning our office which is located in the same building as the Farm Labor Supply office is. We also took inventory of material stored in it and organized it for use.

Later we checked supplies in community building, wrote out a general plan of our program to be followed. Looked around the camp a little, met some of the workers. This evening we visited the Jacob's family who have nine children. They had taken active part in last year's program and spoke highly of the Joiners as do many others.

At 8:00 we attended the regular monthly community-night meeting of laborers and were given a chance to say a few words and introduce briefly our summer's program. There seems to be quite an interest here in our type of work and so we are looking forward to some real cooperation. One of the migrant girls offered her help in teaching Sunday School and in daily vacation Bible school work.

June 31 — Visited the Lutheran Church this A.M. People seemed quite interested in our work at the camp. Had our regular Sunday School this afternoon with increased attendance. I taught adults and Mrs. Boehr the children. One of the camp girls led the children in singing. After S. S. several women stayed to sing and play the piano.

Had a ball game with about 35 older and younger boys later in the afternoon. Mrs. Boehr visited with the Carmack family during this time. This evening between 35-40 people were out for worship services at the Community Center. I had charge of services. — it was good to see so many present.

July 15 — Had 31 in Bible Hour this A. M. For prayer meeting we had more children than adults. Had singing, special numbers and prayer. Mr. Butler of the camp led in the singing. He has done this several times before. However, now the family plans to leave for California. They've received a few hundred dollars income (here they barely made ends meet) and now they'll try to get to California. That's a type of people we have here; not knowing how to manage what little they do have.

July 18 — This morning in Bible Hour I was touched with the very earnest sincerity with which Jerr Baker, a cute little fellow, mentioned that he had told his father to pray before meals, but he wouldn't do it.

Later in our morning playground activity, held inside because of the great heat outside, Jerry and Doc sang a little duet of "Jesus Loves Me" together. I snapped a picture of them. The two fellows are opposite in color of hair, skin, and build, but both are very cute.

There was another fight here in camp early this morning between some men. It's of interest to note that these usually take place when the season is slack. Tonight Kay met with her Senior girls Club for a course in Homemaking, while I had the boys play ball.

Do Migrants Want Mission Workers?

Mrs. John Sykes of Sanford, Florida, told a minister in a New York camp:

"Reverend, I'm so glad to see you. I was in a camp in Pennsylvania last year and they didn't have a single service all the while I was there. I said I wouldn't spend another season up here if they didn't have some kind of religious service. I was fixing to go home if some of you ministers hadn't come in here to start services. I found out what they mean to a camp."

Yes, some migrants want these workers! It is a mission both to Christians desiring a ministry and to those who do not personally known Christ.

NEWTON C. E. HOLDS YOUTH CONFERENCE

The Young People's C. E. of the First Church, Newton, Kansas, invites your attention to its annual youth conference which will be held from April 24 to April 27 inclusive. Dr. Walter L. Wilson of Kansas City, Missouri, will be the speaker. These meetings will be held at the church each evening on the above dates with services on Sunday morning and afternoon, as well.
—Dora Harder in behalf of the Publicity Committee

Why Are There Migrants?

Is there need for migrants? Why should there be over three hundred thousand wandering workers in seventeen states? Can't we harvest our crops some other way?

Of course, the reason for migrant workers is that there are seasonal crops which for a short period of time call for many workers. The migrants follow these seasonal labor needs, and their work takes them from one place to the next perhaps for only a few weeks or, at best, months at a time at a single place.

But, where do these workers come from? Could they not settle down to more permanent work? Many of the workers who now are migrants once were sharecroppers in the South, or farmers in the Middle West, or had other employment. But, mechanization of farming has forced many of them off the land. In 1918 there were eighty-five thousand tractors on American farms. Today there are over two million. A farm worker can do twice the work today that he could do in 1910. Nineteen per cent of the population is employed today in agriculture, and some are of the opinion that this percentage will go down to ten per cent of the population.

All of this means that the low producing, poor farmer gets pushed off his property. Farms are bigger, more efficient. From this comes a great number of migrant laborers. Uprooted people following seasonal jobs which they know how to do, having done that sort of work since childhood. Many of these migrants come from the South which has undergone a tremendous change in farming methods in the last thirty years.

Not much can be done about these forces which have caused migrant labor to develop, not much at the moment. But, much can be done for the people who are migrants.

The Congregation Can Expect of the Minister:

by Edwin P. Graber

Who is the man in the pulpit, the Christian minister? What can a congregation expect of him? Christians must all agree that the most urgent problem of the hour is neither political, nor economic, but spiritual. It is in this field that we expect the minister to work and make his contribution.

First, we expect our pastor to be a born-again child of God. He must have experienced salvation and feel the calling to proclaim the good news for men who have lost their way. He must be confident that he has a sure word for a world that is adrift and without chart or compass. He should feel that his God-given duty is to give life direction, and to disclose its source, meaning and goal.

Ministers have, in point of education, ranged all the way from near illiteracy to great men of learning. Needless to say, I prefer the latter type. One who is to lead and direct his flock, which is composed of people in many walks of life, needs to be a scholar. He must be above the average. I would expect him to study much, take leave of absence (on pay) for further study at regular intervals. He should read books that are helpful in his profession, and have a well chosen library.

There can be no substitute for sermons since it is the very act which forms the crux of the service. Public lectures, forums, films etc, are poor substitutes. The sermons are to be varied. They should not consist of milk only, but also of meat; both types are necessary. He should speak with conviction. The message should be delivered without fear or favor, regardless of how it is received and no apologies made for it. There should be a direct personal encounter. The hearer must feel that the sermon was meant for him.

I expect the pastor to be true to the doctrines of the denomination he serves. He should not compromise or straddle the fence, trying to please or agree with all other views—thus being hypocritical. He is the watchman of his flock and therefore must sound the alarm when danger nears.

His sermons should be proclaimed in the light of contemporary situations, must be practical and related to the special condition and circumstances of the day. A first century theme should have a twentieth century setting.

The minister should have the welfare of each individual in his charge at heart. He must therefore study the needs of his people and prepare the messages to meet the needs. The language must be simple, so that all can understand. It should also be free from scholastic jargon. Much time should be spent in prayer.

In order to be an effective personal worker, which is of greatest importance, he must be humble and a good mixer. I expect him to participate in wholesome recreation, hunt, fish, and play ball with the youth in his charge and thus win their confidence. To visit every member annually may be nearly impossible, but I would expect him to call on all sick, aged, and those who have a special need or desire for God's word or church fellowship.

In business he should not be slothful. His life and conduct count more than his sermons. In all dealings he should be an example of diligence and honesty. An alert minister will see the need of a Christian education. He will spare no time in encouraging youth to attend church schools. One of my pastors used to say very emphatically "Parents send your children to a Christian school." He saw an opportunity and made use of it.

I do not expect my pastor to take sides in personal disputes or disagreements among members, unless right or justice compels. His tenure will be short if he does. Everybody's business is not the preacher's business.

I expect my pastor to encourage various church organizations. He should, however, work behind the scenes. Leadership should come from the group. It is reasonable to expect the pastor to be prompt in starting and closing. Overtime prayers and sermons may cause weariness. Where weariness begins, devotion ends.

It is his first responsibility, in my opinion, to reprimand and admonish on subjects of church discipline and order during the church services.

In summarizing—the ideal preacher should have a conscience of a watchman, heart of a shepherd, message of an evangelist, power of a prophet and the vision of a seer. This is a big program, but there are ministers who come near to this goal.

I Tim. 4: 16, "Take heed unto thyself and unto doctrine; continue in them: for doing this thou shalt save thyself and them that hear thee."

LITTLE THINGS

Light will shine through narrow windows
If the panes are clean.

Night will seem a friend the moment
The first star is seen.

Narrow strips of crooked lightning
Brighten ink dark sky.

Poems live on blessing many
Though the poets die.

—Amanda Friesen

RELIEF

Poland Tractor Unit Becomes Organized

Recent word from the MCC Tractor Unit in Poland states that the snow there is now vanishing rapidly, and that with the coming of warmer weather the work of organizing the project is moving ahead. The first group of men have been assigned to their respective tractor centers. In some cases men are assigned in pairs of two at a place, while in other instances one man is placed at a center alone. Menno Fast writes, "I believe our men will have nothing to fear—except that it certainly will be an entirely new experience for them."

Relief Commissioner Writes from Europe

J. N. Byler, who is at present the MCC relief units in Europe, states in a recent letter that although he is very busy, he has been able to follow his itinerary as it had been outlined and planned. Already he has surveyed the work in Germany, Poland, Austria, Switzerland and France. An important part of this of this commission to Europe will be a conference at Basel, Switzerland, of directors from the various relief units in Europe, at which time plans and concerns can be coordinated for the total relief program in Europe. Brother Byler is to return to this country on April 20.

Relief Worker Departures and Arrivals

Herman Buller of Orienta, Oklahoma, and Paul King, Elida, Ohio, leave on April 11 aboard the "Marine Marlin" for Italy.

Fannie Schrock arrived in Manila on April 8. Anna Lois Rohrer arrived in Bombay, India on April 10.

Luman Yoder, Elmer Smucker, Reuben Horst, Paul Schowalter, Jesse Yoder, David Derstine and Maxine Derstine arrived at Antwerp, Belgium, on April 8.

MENNONITE AID NOTES

Mennonite Refugees in Austria

Reports from MCC workers in Austria indicate that there are at least five hundred Mennonite refugees in Austria. The plight of these has been similar to that of many other refugees in Europe. About 250 of them are now located in a refugee camp. It is hoped that some MCC assistance can soon be given to these homeless brethren who are in Austria.

Two Mennonite Refugee Families Enter U. S.

Two family groups of Mennonite refugees have recently been able to enter the United States under the regular Russian immigration quota. The one family consists of Maria Bergman and her daughter Margarete (Bergman) Baergen with sons Eduard, aged 9 and Herman, aged 6. This family had formerly been cared for in the Roverstein home in Holland. The other family consists of David Sawatzky and wife, their son David, aged 10, and a sister Justine Sawatzky.

Relatives of these families sponsored their coming into this country while the MCC Aid Section was instrumental in making the proper immigration contacts.

Refugees in South America

The situation in Paraguay continues without significant changes, making it necessary for some of the Mennonite refugees to continue in their temporary living quarters in Buenos Aires and Asuncion. Some of these are doing various kinds of work for the sake of utilizing their time, and also to help in providing for their maintenance.

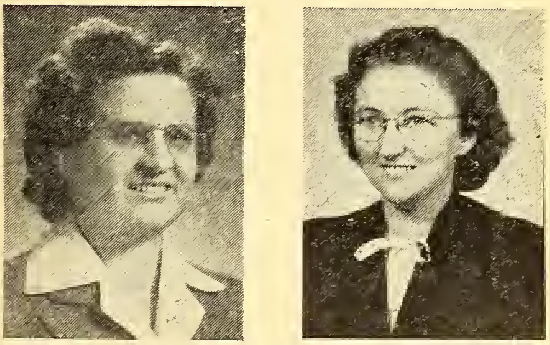
Jottings

—Zion Church, Elbing, Kansas: Under the leadership of our recreational director our young people enjoyed a profitable social evening at the home of one of their members. Rev. W. H. Dyck, who is Secretary of the General Conference showed moving pictures of "The Smoke Jumpers" and one on "Retreats." To acquaint further the group with the General Conference a large map was displayed. On it all churches of Canada and United States were indicated. The Rev. Albert Ewert of Bridgewater, South Dakota, and formerly of Wolf Point, Montana, will hold a series of meetings May 4-11 at our church We invite the public to come and share the blessings with us.—Mrs. Louis A. Janzen, Corr.

—Friedensfeld Church, Turpin, Oklahoma. Easter Sunday was a joyous day for us. It was our privilege to have Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Voth of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, Brother David Habegger of Chicago, and students of Bethel College with us. Rev. Voth brought the morning message. Brother Habegger and the Bethel students gave a program in the afternoon, and Rev. Voth and Brother Habegger each brought a message in the evening. This past week Rev. and Mrs. Voth have been conducting a series of meetings, which have been a great blessing to our church.—Mrs. Franzie Loepp, Corr.

—The Mennonite Song Festival will be held Sunday

Melva Lehman and Leona Cressman Sail for India



Miss Melva Lehman, (right) and Miss Leona Cressman (left) sailed for India on April 15. Both are new missionaries for the India field. Miss Melva Lehman is a member of the First Mennonite Church, Berne, Indiana, and was ordained March 16. Miss Leona Cressman is a member of the Sterling Avenue Mennonite Church, Kitchener, Ontario, and was ordained March 9.

afternoon and evening, May 4, in the Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas.

—Butterfield (Minnesota) Church: On Good Friday, Rev. Willard Wiebe occupied the pulpit here. Our Junior Sunday School sent eight school bags to Akron. We are looking forward to hearing the Men's Chorus from Mountain Lake on the evening of April 20.—Mrs. Gust Miller, Corr.

—Hereford Church, Bally Pa.: A special offering, amounting to one thousand dollars, was lifted in our church for the Refugee Movement on Sunday morning, April 13. Rev. Cornelius Wall, a student at Princeton Theological Seminary, is substituting for us during Dr. Elmer E. S. Johnson's period of convalescence. After suffering a relapse Dr. Johnson was removed to the Allentown Hospital, Allentown, Pa. on March 4, where he has been since that time. He is now permitted to sit on a chair for one-half hour in the morning and in the afternoon.—Mae Latshaw, Corr.

—First Church, Wadsworth, Ohio: Our congregation has just voted unanimously to buy a new Wurlitzer organ. The entire cost is $3,550.00. So far our contributions total $2,071.00. Between now and June, when the organ will be delivered, we hope to raise the balance in cash. The Tri-Church Youth Banquet, honoring young people from Dalton, Sugar-Creek and Wadsworth churches, will be held on Saturday night, April 20. Mr. Wilbur Becky, instructor at Smithville High School, will talk to the group on problems of youth.—Hattie Yoder, Corr.

—Bethel College Church, North Newton, Kansas: Miss Elisabeth Goertz spoke to the Ladies Bible Class Sunday morning April 13. In the afternoon she addressed the Mother-Daughter meeting sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society. Miss Goertz related many interesting experiences of missionary activities in China during the war.—Eldon W. Graber —Bethel Church, Winton, California: The sewing circle held their annual program on March 30, consisting of a pot luck dinner, and a program in the afternoon. The collection amounted to seventy-five dollars. For sometime the Mennonite Brethren, and the Bethel choirs practiced an Easter cantata together. It was given on Easter night.—Lorraine Heppner, Corr.

—Einsiedel Mennonite Church, Hanston, Kansas: Our annual Sunday School election was held March 23. E. E. Hirschler was reelected Superintendent. Paul Boschman, Gordon Neuenschwander, Henry Epp, Glen Habegger and Milton Harder, representing the Student Volunteer Band of Bethel College, rendered a program in song and message April 5. In the afternoon the boys visited shut-ins. On April 6, Easter Sunday, Rev. A. J. Dyck of Inman assisted us in the observance of the Lord's Supper. Rev. V. Wm. Hinshaw, who held a series of meetings in Jetmore, conducted services in our church several times recently. The Ladies Mission Society keeps busy sewing for relief, sending new and and used clothing to the Newton Clothing Center and tying comforters.—Mrs. Agnes E. Schowalter, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Summerfield, Illinois: The Ladies' Missionary Society and the Bible Class held a farewell gathering in honor of Miss Eleanor Camp, who left our community and is now in charge of the office which the Women's Missionary Association has in Newton, Kansas. The Ladies' Missionary Society observed the Easter meeting as a guest meeting. Twelve school bags were sent out for relief. Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Bechtel are spending several weeks in Pennsylvania, visiting with friends and relatives.—Kathryn Ruth, Corr.

—Salem Church, Wisner, Nebraska: Missionary S. T. Moyer was in our midst for Easter Sunday. His message on "The Fruits of the Resurrection" will long be remembered. We then had communion services. Our offering was for missions. In the evening Rev. Moyer told us about our mission field in India.—Corr.

—West Zion Church, Moundridge, Kansas: Rev. W. F. Unruh conducted a series of meetings at Bluffton, Ohio from March 9 to March 16. Missionary J. R. Duerksen and Brother Loris Habegger filled the pulpit during Rev. Unruh's absence. Mr. and Mrs. Phil Krehbiel held a reception Sunday evening, March 2 in our church, for their children, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Krehbiel, who were married in Paris before Tom came back home. Mrs. Tom Krehbiel's home was in Paris. The women of the Methodist church were hostesses to the members of the womens' missionary organizations of the West Zion, Calvary Tabernacle, Evangelical United Brethren, and First Mennonite of Christian Churches in a union meeting, held Thursday afternoon, March 20 in the basement of our church. The program centered around the missionary theme, and each organization had a part. Following the program a social hour and dainty refreshments were enjoyed by all present. Our church basement has been redecorated. The walls are tinted in a pale green. The window drapes with a green leaf design blend harmoniously with the green covered settee set, seat covers for piano bench, mirror bench and chairs. The clock and large mirror on the back wall and the potted plants placed in artistic pot holders on the side wall give the basement the atmosphere of a large parlor.—Mrs. Ernest Miller, Corr.

—Rev. and Mrs. Alvin van der Smissen are now living at 1009 South Kansas, Newton, Kansas. The van der Smissens served at the C.P.S. Camp at Powellsville, Maryland, until recently when it closed.

—Waterloo-Kitchener United Mennonite Church, Waterloo, Ontario: On Good Friday Holy Communion was partaken of by a large number. Rev. J. H. Janzen left Friday night for western Canada to attend a conference in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, to discuss the refugee program. The young people's group sponsored an Easter sunrise service. In the absence of our pastor, Rev. Jacob Braun was the guest speaker at the regular Easter services.—H. P. Enns, Corr.

—First Church of Christian Mennonite, Moundridge, Kansas: Among the foreign students from Bethel College who have spoken to our Christian Endeavor are Piet Doves and Elisabeth Craandijk from Holland and Francisco Santos from Puerto Rico. Forty-four school bags were sent to the M.C.C. by our relief committee. A short interesting Easter program of a piano solo, men's octet, and an Easter reading was given before the regular Sunday School discussion classes.—Mrs. Myron G. Stucky, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Lustre, Montana: March 9, Rev. R. A. Winstanley, missionary from South America, was with us for the morning service. Twenty-two school

THE NEW HOUSE OF WORSHIP of the Lorraine Avenue Church
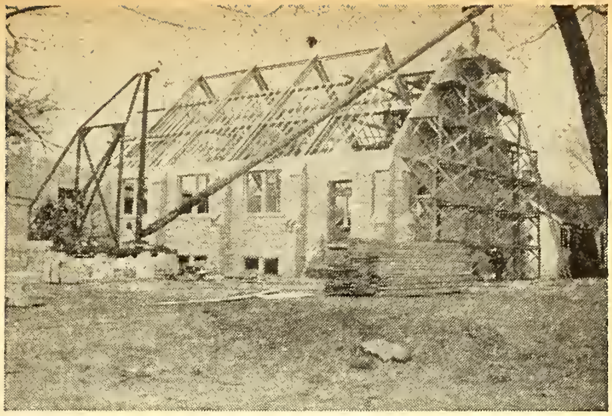
Wichita, Kansas



The accompanying picture was taken on the fifteenth of February. It is hoped that the walls will be entirely completed before the end of April. After that will come the completion of the roof, the placing of the doors and windows, and then the preparation of room after room for its intended use. This may have meaning only to those who know how the work of this church has been handicapped by lack of room.

This group is thankful for the progress which has been made. They feel keenly their responsibility toward nearly two hundred children from the nearby grade school who come once a week for instruction in Christian life and living. They feel the rights of their own children to have proper and sufficient space for the Sunday School work. They will be glad when they can fittingly take care of visiting friends and look after the interests and well being of the increasing number of young people who are coming to Wichita. These come from many of our churches far and near.

Building a house of worship and building a spirit, which shall make possible the best kind of use of that house, go hand in hand. Building a house of worship is an act of worship in itself. That is true for all concerned.

The Fellowship, known as the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church of Wichita, is deeply grateful to all who show an interest in this work. They desire to show their gratitude through doing their best in meeting the existing needs in so far as they are given an opportunity to do so.

---

bags were sent to the M.C.C. for the boys and girls in Europe. The mission society has again sent a shipment of new and used clothing for relief. On March 21, Rev. Nagel, representatives of the National Association of Evangelicals, was in our community and told of their work. A communion set, donated by a brother, was dedicated and used for the first time on Easter Monday morning. The Lustre Bible School had its commencement on Good Friday. Rev. and Mrs. Henry P. Wiens have been the teachers this past winter.—Mrs. J.L.H., Corr.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: The church held an Easter sunrise service at the cemetery in spite of the cold and the mist. The young people gave the cantata, "The Risen Saviour" in the evening. We had Bertha Fast in our midst on March 26, 27. In the afternoon of March 27 she talked to the women of the E.M. B., M.B. and Grace churches. Eighty-two were present. They enjoyed a sociable time together and enjoyed some cake and coffee.—Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—Miss Elisabeth Goertz, returned missionary from China, is now visiting the churches in Ohio. Miss Goertz plans to attend the Eastern District Conference during the first week of May and then the International Congress of Nurses, which is to convene at Atlantic City, New Jersey, May 11-16. Nurses from thirty-two countries, including about six nurses from China, are to attend this congress. During June and July Miss Goertz is to attend retreats is Canada, go to the Canadian Conference and also visit churches. In August she is to attend the General Conference in Berne. Miss Goertz reports that this will be the first time since she began her mission work that she will have the opportunity to attend a General Conference session. After coming to the United States and visiting a little, Miss Goertz enjoyed a month of rest at the Bethel Deaconess Home, Newton, Kansas. This abode of rest she calls "Near Heaven." Her address for April and May: c/o Rev. Howard Nyce, 1528 Chew Street, Allentown, Pa.

—Mr. B. Bargen, Manager of the Publication Office, left Newton, Kansas, for Bloomington, Illinois, on April 17 to transact some business for the Board of Publication. On his return trip Mr. Bargen was to visit the Mennonite Book Concern at Berne, Indiana.

—Attention: Senior Quarterly Readers: Please note correction in Lesson Seven for May 18, 1947, under the caption, "Thoughts from the Text." The tenth line from the beginning of the comments should read: "Amos, who claimed to have no connection with the prophetic office . ." instead of, "Amos, who claimed to have connection . . ."—Ronald von Riesen, Editor.

—Bethany Church, Kingman, Kansas: Sunday evening March 9, Mr. Jake Goering of the Zion church in Kingman gave an interesting account of his trip to Greece as an attendant on a cattle boat. The Hillsboro Gospel Quartet gave a very inspirational program to a packed house Sunday evening, March 16. Rev. Gerhard Neufeld and seven students of the Oklahoma Bible Academy had charge of the morning service March 23.

—Bergtal Church, Pawnee Rock, Kansas: The Good Friday Union Services were held at the M. E. Church.

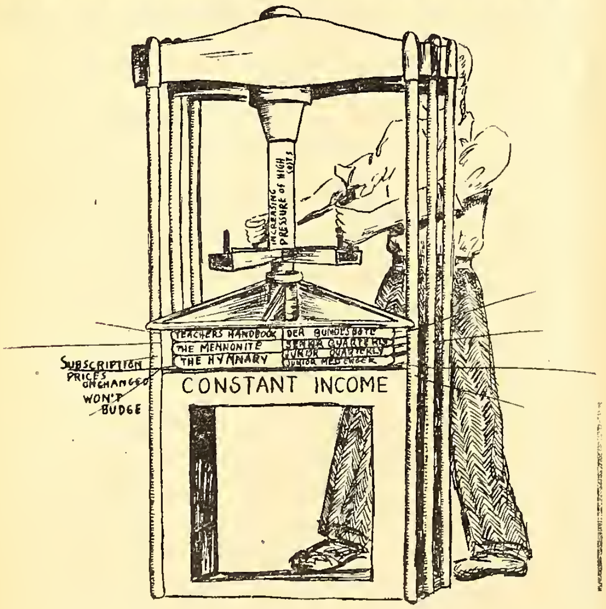
HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

Members of our churches will be interested to know that the dates for the thirty-first session of General Conference, to be held at Berne, Indiana, have now been definitely set. God willing, General Conference is to be in session from Wednesday, August 20, to Wednesday, August 27, 1947.—Walter H. Dyck, Executive Secretary

"The Words of Jesus Upon His Cross" was the Theme. The four local ministers and three guest speakers gave inspirational messages. The pageant, "The Way of the Cross," was again presented at the sunrise service. on the "Rock" north of town on Easter morn. We enjoyed the many visitors who worshiped with us in our services and also the Fellowship dinner on Easter Sunday. The Bethel College group gave an interesting program in the afternoon. This was highly appreciated.—Mrs. John Dirks, Corr.

—East Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pa.: The "Victor Class" of our Sunday School presented an Easter pageant "The Answer of the Cross." This pageant was based on the seven last words of Christ. It prepared us to understand better the message of the cross and the sacrifice which we commemorate in the communion service. Following the pageant our church choir presented the cantata "When Christ Arose." This brought blessings to those who listened as well as those who helped to present it.—Mrs. Raymond Miller, Corr.

—First Church, Aberdeen, Id.: The past week has been a great blessing to our church. Dr. A. Warkentin, President of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary, Chicago, brought us a week of messages. Beginning on Sunday, March 30, to April 4. On Easter Sunday the choir presented the climax to the Passion Week meetings by singing the cantata, "Bright Easter Morn," by E. K. Heyser, under the direction of Mrs. Randolph Moser, accompanied by Eleanor Isaak at the piano and Alden Toevs at the Hammond Organ—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.



THE BIBLE WAS FIRST PRINTED on a very simple press, built somewhat along the lines of the above illustration. Today religious publications of your Conference are printed on modern presses, which are speedy and accurate. The illustration above shows how your Conference publications find themselves squeezed between constant subscription prices and the increasing pressure of increased printing costs. Realizing that "A Gift for Publications Is a Gift for Every Conference Function," some churches regularly raise one offering in each quarter—both in the church and the Sunday School—designated, "FOR PUBLICATIONS."

Mrs. Henry Ensz
710 East Fourth Street
Newton
Kansas

—First Church, Geary, Oklahoma: Our congregation has been blessed with outside services this winter. On February 13. we enjoyed hearing Dr. R. C. Kauffman's report about relief work in India. February 16 Rev. H. N. Harder was in our midst and gave us the morning sermon; it was good to have him in our midst again. Then, on April 6, in the evening, we were priviledged to hear the Boy's Octet from Bethel College, accompanied by Mr. R. W. Tully. Many of the members, who sent C.A.R.E. packages to Europe, have received letters of acknowledgment and thanks. Though some were a little difficult to translate, they were interesting and appreciated.—Corr.

—Grace Church, Enid, Oklahoma: The Oklahoma Bible Academy gave us a musical program on March 9. On March 18 Rev. Rosenblom, a converted Jew, spoke in our church on the work among the Jews. March 31 the young people's choir from the Meno church gave us a musical Easter program. Our pastor conducted pre-Easter services at the Saron church at Orienta, Oklahoma. Our pastor, Rev. Ben Rahn, has tendered his resignation as pastor of our church, effective June 1, and has accepted the call from the First Mennonite church at Paso Robles, California. Corr.—

—Tabor Church, Newton, Kansas: During Passion Week meetings were held on three evenings. Rev. A. J. Dyck, Rev. P. P. Buller, and Rev. P. A. Wedel were the speakers. Rev. J. B. Frey brought the Easter message. The choir gave a program on Easter Sunday evening. Johann Hilverda and Piet Doves, students at Bethel College, were our guests on Easter Monday. There was a fellowship dinner and the Ladies Sewing Society had a public sale. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Unruh plan to celebrate their sliver anniversary on April 15. —D. S. Thiesen. Corr.

—Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa.: During Rev. Plenert's absence in South America, our Sunday morning services have been very ably conducted by Rev. Edward Burkhalter, who is preparing for the mission field at Biblical Seminary, New York. The evening services were in charge of various guest speakers. Sunday eveing, March 16, the Doylestown and Deep Run (Old) Mennonite men's chorus rendered a much appreciated service of hymns and sacred songs. On March 23 our Church had an afternoon service at the Montgomery County jail and a large delegation attended. Rev. A. C. Rosenberger of the Brethren in Christ (River Brethren) church brought the message to the prisoners. Rev. J. J. Esau was with us for Palm Sunday and special services during Holy Week. He also conducted the communion service on Easter. The cantata "He is Risen" was rendered by the choir under the direction of Warren Geisinger at the evening service on Easter. The Schwenkfelder, the Evangelical-United Brethren and our church again held joint Wednesday evening services during Lent.—Ruth E. Fretz, Corr.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — April 29, 1947 — Number 17

A Nurse's Prayer

Because the day that stretches out for me
Is full of busy hours, I come to Thee
To ask Thee, Lord, that Thou wilt see me through
The many things that I may have to do.
Help me to make my beds the smoothest way,
Help me to make more tempting every tray.
Help me to sense when pain must have relief.
Help me to deal with those borne down by grief.
Help me to take to every patient's room
The light of Life to brighten up the gloom.
Help me to bring to every soul in fear
The sure and steadfast thought that Thou art near.
And if today, or, if tonight, maybe
Some patients in my care set out to sea
To face the great adventure we call death,
Sustain them, Father, in their parting breath.
Help me to live throughout this live long day
As one who loves Thee well, dear Lord, I pray;
And when the day is done, and evening stars
Shine through the dark above the sunset bars,
When weary quite, I turn to seek my rest,
Lord, may I truly know I've done my best.

—Ruth Winant Wheeler

Four Emphases of Nursing

by Sister Lena Mae Smith

The physician, the patients, the buildings and equipment all constitute a very important part of institutions, but what about the care given to our patients? Who are the nurses? What is their work and what may we expect of them? We might answer that very simply by saying that the main business of practical Christian living is the pursuit of righteousness, but I should like to emphasize four things in nursing care. We will not discuss hospital administration or management, nor the supervision or teaching of nurses as such, nor even the diet, medicine, sunshine, fresh air or rest, but the patient. He has a four-fold need, and nurses should meet this need.

Each individual person has a four-fold nature to cultivate and to develop. A well-balanced individual is one who has developed physically, mentally, socially, and spiritually. He can enjoy living abundantly. But what has this to do with nursing care? Just this: any patient admitted to the hospital is sick or handicapped because of either his physical, mental, social, or spiritual condition. The nurse must possess these qualities of life if she will meet her responsibilities in nursing her patient to health. It is true that some patients recover in spite of their physicians and nurses, but generally speaking, physicians and nurses do aid the patient in his recovery.

The first emphasis in nursing care that I shall mention is nursing the patient who is physically ill. The patient may have appendicitis, a gall stone attack, or an open wound that needs attention. Usually this need is soon met for there are specific remedies for such conditions. The physician takes care of the emergency, and the nurse then finds the task of providing surroundings to promote healing fairly simple. The nurse, for these, as well as for all those that I shall mention later, should be one who has those Christian ideals of service that place God first, others second, and self third or last. She should be one who is conscientious and who gives efficient, intelligent, and skillful nursing care.

Some patients have the second need. They may be ill mentally, may be over-worked, may be diseased; their nerves may be exhausted, or they may have an emotional imbalance. To meet this need is often more difficult; the requirements are different, but the need is real and deserves careful consideration. Again, the physician is needed to determine the cause and to prescribe proper treatment. The nurse, in many instances, is the one who contacts the patient more frequently and carries out many of the procedures in treatment. What kind of a nurse should she be? To meet the needs of one who is mentally ill requires that he be dealt with in a kind way, patiently, lovingly, confidently, honorably. The nurse must understand human nature; she should have a knowledge of psychology. She should be wise so as not to offend the patient or cause him to lose confidence in humanity; she should be—like our Master—long-suffering and kind, and as Doctor Cabot advises, she should never be offended. These patients often require more time to recover than those of our first class, but the medical profession is becoming more efficient in dealing with them and results are gratifying—often miraculous.

The third emphasis that I would mention is that of meeting the social needs of the patient. People naturally are social beings and crave fellowship. The patient may be ill either physically, or mentally, but he also needs to have contacts with the outside world. There are numerous things that a nurse may bring to her patient to keep him out of the ruts of monotony and to make his hospital term profitable. We realize that the radio and daily papers contribute a great deal, but aside from these, life in the hospital may be very interesting for the patient. The nurse should be informed in current events; she should have an interest in and contact with nature, for birds, flowers, and all growing things stimulate one to forget one's own misery; she may create an interest in worthwhile movements such as public health, missions, education, photography, travel, and projects for the betterment of conditions in one's immediate locality. Books and magazines can be used to broaden one's outlook. It is true that some patients are too ill to apply themselves or to concentrate on these things, but as nurses, we can not overlook the fact that there are great possibilities for rendering a worthwhile service to our patients by remembering their social needs. We must be prepared to meet them.

The fourth emphasis in nursing care, and the one that is our special privilege in a Christian hospital, is to meet the spiritual need of the patient. Here I might mention the four freedoms. Each patient should be at ease in the hospital, free to express himself because he has confidence in his physician, the hospital, and his nurse. He should to be free to worship God. He should be made free from want, and certainly, all fears should be met and removed as far as possible. Our great Physician has given us sufficient prescriptions or messages with which to meet every spiritual

---

Sister Lena Mae Smith is Deaconess Mother at the Bethel Deaconess Hospital Newton, Kansas. Her thoughts are especially appropriate for the observance of Deaconess Sunday, May 4.

Ella Risser and Hilda Mueller Ordained as Deaconesses on March 9

On the evening of March 9 Ella Risser of Hesston, Kansas, and Hilda Mueller of Halstead, Kansas, were ordained as deaconesses in the First Mennonite Church, Newton. Rev. J. E. Entz performed the ordination. The messages at the occasion were given by Rev. Earl Buckwalter, pastor of Sister Ella's home church, and by Rev. D. C. Wedel, the former pastor of Sister Hilda's home church.

need. The Disciples of Christ in their magazine "The World Call" call our attention to the fact that February 16 to 23, is their week of compassion. Every week should be a week of compassion; if we care, we will share that which we have to help provide the needs of another. Rev. Paul Erb in "Thinking About Relief" says that relief should be a form of evangelism.

For nurses as well as for anyone else, offering relief to the spiritually ill should be an expression of love to our Lord and Master. In India, I understand, our medical missionaries provide for a spiritual service before the candidate is seen by the physician in regard to his physical needs. The plan is that all who receive physicial help shall also receive spiritual help. In China, too the patients gather in an assembly hall waiting their turn to see the physician. While waiting, a Bible women or Bible man makes contacts and uses this opportunity to bring them the Gospel. Should we do less? Our needs may seem different, but aren't we all in need of something that our Lord can supply, whether that is faith, joy, courage, love, peace, or any other gift that God has for us? In a Christian hospital, we might well consider this service an essential if not the essential. We sing it and we believe it that "Earth has no sorrows that heaven can not heal." Spiritual health will cure many other ills. When Jesus was asked why a certain man suffered—was it because of his own sin or that of his parents—Jesus said that it was neither. It was for the glory of God! Pain may be sent to some so they will glorify God. Suffering may discipline one and cause him to become victorious and triumphant through pain.

A few illustrations may serve to show how God uses the service of nurses.

A child, call her Mary, was stricken with appendicitis and was brought to the hospital for surgery. During her hospital stay her nurses had devotions with Mary daily. Mary's home had been different. She did not know the Lord. Her parents were not Christians, but in the hospital she learned to know and to love the Lord. She learned to pray. After Mary went home, we heard nothing of her for several years. But one day, a very sick young lady was brought to the hospital. Her condition was such that the physician said she would not recover. Anxious parents watched at her bedside. Before Mary's spirit departed, she prayed; she told of heavenly music that she heard, and soon she told her parents that she was going to her heavenly home for the angels were coming for her. The parents were amazed, and in answer to their questions concerning the girl's prayers, the songs, and her home-going, they too heard the gospel, the good news of the Saviour. A Sister or nurse who knows and loves the Lord, can find opportunities like these, and the Lord will use her. Another chapter of this story tells us that later a brother of Mary was a patient, and he too learned to know and to love the Lord. It gave us joy to notify the minister of his choice to come to minister unto him spiritually. Mary suffered and died physically, but she as well as her family received the Gift of Life from above.

A young woman, whom we will call Mrs. Smith, entered the hospital for surgery. She was not a Christian. A bloodcount revealed that she was anemic. The physician advised a blood transfusion. Mrs. Smith was a stranger in Newton, so one of the sisters offered of her blood for the transfusion. The patient improved rapidly, and soon was in condition for the surgery. But the transfusion and treatment impressed her and also provided a splendid opportunity to tell the story of the blood of Jesus Christ which cleanseth from all sin and provides forgiveness. Before she went to surgery, Mrs. Smith had the minister of the church in her localty come to see her. She accepted the Lord and was baptized.

A young woman, discouraged, about to despair, enters the hospital. She doesn't know how to meet the future. She is not interested. A nurse, interested in her, gradually builds up her confidence in people, gets her interested in books, people, and work. The patient begins with a little reading, a few stitches with her needle, a short walk, a little knitting, and before long, her desire to live and to do things returns. She faces the future with new courage, and as she returns to her home. you see a happy, re-united family.

Great hymns, poems of comfort and help, as well as sympathetic and understanding hearts and lives, are often found as a result of suffering. We have heard much concerning priorities, but in God's kingdom, there is one priority. God shall be glorified through suffering as well as through a life of health.

This describes the kind of nurses that are such a blessing to our institutions: nurses that meet the needs, not perfectly, but as God gives them wisdom and grace. We commend our entire hospital personnel to you for prayer and support. A great work is entrusted to us. We are thankful for the young women in our midst who love the Lord, love people, and who love to serve! May Bethel continue to be the House of God where patients' needs are met and God is glorified!

The Opportunity of the Bible School Teacher

by Alta Mae Erb

Children have spiritual needs. And since they are not little men nor little women, their needs are those of children. Each child of each age has specific spiritual problems, and therefore specific needs.

The tiny tots don't recognize their need, but they should become acquainted with God—a God who is all-wise and knows how to do things for them, who created the earth with all its beauties, laws, and good provisions for our living, a wonderful Creator; a God of love, who thinks of the child, cares for him, is concerned if his dog should die, and is interested in all his problems, a God to whom he likes to talk; a God who knows everything, all the child's motives, thoughts, sorrows, needs, and dangers, a God in whom the child can feel secure and can trust.

As the child grows older he needs to learn God's standards of righteousness. These Jesus reveals, and the child learns them through the stories of Jesus well told. The child now recognizes he has trouble with himself in meeting God's standards. He must early come to know the meaning of forgiveness, prayer, love, sympathy, and all the attributes of God and Christ that will help him someday to take his sins to Jesus.

The older child should come to understand clearly the scriptural meaning of all the doctrines of the Bible, including those of the church. He also has increasing spiritual problems rising out of his social life at school and church. Hero worshiping can be used to his spiritual good.

The Bible school exists to help children meet their spiritual needs. This should ever be the teacher's aim. Bible study is interesting to children when it functions in their life. If we so-called teachers don't cause anything to happen in the spiritual lives of our pupils, we are really not teaching. Knowing something of what our task is directs us in our preparation to accomplish that end. Our job is not to entertain the child, not to keep school, not to fill up time, but it is to help children to know Jesus Christ and take Him to themselves for a Saviour and to walk in His Spirit.

There are a few prices that a teacher must pay, but they bring good returns. Since we teach children we must know the children in our classes. Each pupil has a soul, a spirit, which we must reach. Each pupil needs God. Some are brilliant; some are dull. Some are lovely; some are not so attractive. Some may be less interested than others. But the real teacher loves all of them and is deeply concerned that each one grows spiritually under her instruction. The better we are acquainted with the particular children in our classes, the easier it will be for the Holy Spirit to direct us in teaching them. Classes must be small, for no teacher can rightly carry many children in her heart and mind. The teacher's work is not all done in the teaching hour. We must pray for each child with regard to the truths taught. We must not forget what we have taught. Our teaching must be followed up. The good teacher will read concerning the characteristics of the particular age he teaches. Time spent in studying our children will bring large returns.

For the sake of the children we must put ourselves into the study of the lesson. "Study to show thyself approved unto God." Bible school dare not be just a routine. Meditate, pray, study until the Lord gives you

---

Mrs. Alta Mae Erb of Scottdale, Pennsylvania, who is at present acting as an advisor to the core of Summer Bible School teachers who are working on the new courses of study for their Daily Vacation Bible Schools is an instructress in elementary education and a member of the (old) Mennonite Church. She is the author of a recent publication entitled, "The Christian Nurture of Children." The above article was presented by her at the Vacation Bible School Workshop conducted by the Western Education Committee, March 22, at North Newton, Kansas.

a message for your class. If you will tell the story, let it become very real to you. Tell it aloud in your preparation. Portions of scripture that are to be memorized must become very meaningful. Don't ask for a child that he memorize a verse that he can't understand now but will some day. There are too many verses he can understand now, and whose help he needs. Know the Bible. Use the Bible in class. Teach from the Bible. Let the Bible answer the questions raised. A marked verse or a marked story in even a tiny child's Bible will be effective. We teach out of an overflow; so get well filled. Pray with the Psalmist, Quicken me, O Lord. Give me understanding. Teach me.

It won't cost too much money to have in your classroom supplementary books. In one primary Sunday school there were placed lately by the superintendent five copies of "A Child's Book of Prayers." This is a collection of prayers beautifully illustrated for little children, by Masha. His similar work on hymns is excellent too. Bible story books to be read silently or orally will do something the teacher can't. Books like "Small Rain" and "The Christ Child" are good spiritual teachers. They are the words of scripture illustrated by good artists for little children. Older children will enjoy "Graphic Bible" (one hundred animated maps of Bible geography and some Bible history) and "A Picture Book of Palestine." "God's Wonderland" and "Then I Think of God" are two good books for devotions in the kindergarten room. A Bible atlas is a necessity in all older classes. "Sing in Praise" is an excellent book. It is a study of hymns for children. Each hymn is presented with one or more beautiful illustrations.

Let the worship center in the Bible school be a place of beauty. A large picture of Christ (not just the head) would make a good center. Accompanying this could be printed verses used in worship. And to keep before the children the fact that we know God through the revelation of Jesus in the Word, an open Bible should be before the children, perhaps below the picture of Jesus. Let all the room carry the atmosphere of things spiritual. Remember to hang pictures for little children in their range of vision. Permit them plenty of time to look, meditate, and even touch the picture of the wonderful Jesus. To keep a spirit of reverence in the school, use only the good hymns. The children will learn to love them, and they can be used to nurture the children in real worship. Light music and most motion songs detract from God.

To teach God to children in the Bible school is a grand opportunity. What greater privilege could one ask than to attract the child to Jesus, who, if He be lifted up, will draw all men unto Him. Dear God, quicken more Bible teachers to teach children Thy Word.

P. J. Boehrs Report on Trip and on Conditions in China

Never before have we started China-ward by going south, but this time we did. After a few days of hurried preparations, we left our home in Winona Lake, Indiana, on New Year's day, for Gulfport, Mississippi. There we were to board the Steamship John B. Waterman, a large freighter, due to sail on January 3. Because of the shortness of time allotted us to "make" the boat, we were obligated to take our baggage with us by truck. Thus for two nights and a day, by car and truck, we were speeding southward as fast as sleet, snow, rain and fog would permit. "The hand of the Lord was upon us for good" in loving protection, guidance, and expedition. We pulled into Gulfport on the morning of January 3. We soon learned that our freighter would not sail until January 6, thus allowing for some necessary shopping that we had not been able to accomplish earlier and giving us a little time to enjoy the "Sunny South," which proved to be the rainiest, coldest days they had had for years. The clouds dispersed before we sailed, and it was under a beautiful sky that we (including Mary Ellen) said our goodbyes to our other children, Ernest and Anna Louise, and to Brother Herbert Sprunger and nephew James. They set out on their journey northward with the truck that had brought our goods. Our car was on the freighter with us.

Accommodation Delightful, Passengers Congenial

The accommodations on board were all one could wish, and the group of passengers congenial. The twelve passengers consisted of four groups: three missionary families of three persons each, and three Chinese young men returning to their homeland. The voyage for the first two weeks led through a warm climate. The calm. blue Carribean Sea, with its many flying fish, was lovely, and the passage through the Panama Canal, with the huge locks by which our freighter was lifted and lowered, proved very interesting. We were rather disappointed not to get to go ashore at San Pedro, California, nor at Yokohoma, Japan, at both of which places we stopped—in all about two days. After San Pedro we encountered colder weather and rougher sea. The week before we reached Yokohoma the sea was "rough" practically all the time. Our boat was heavy with cargo, otherwise the rocking would have been even worse. We were fairly good sailors, Frieda being the only one of us who was considerably affected by seasickness.

Rescue Japanese Fisherman

One of the outstanding experiences of our entire voyage took place one evening, shortly before we arrived in Yokohoma. The storm of the day had abated somewhat, though the waves were still high. It was about 8:30 o'clock, and dark, when someone announced that a ship was passing us not far away. This did not excite us much, for, as we were nearing land, passing ships were not quite as rare articles as out in mid-ocean; nevertheless we donned our wraps and went out on port-side deck. The "ship" seemed to be very nearby, and was distinguishable only because of the light on board. This was visible and invisible alternately as big waves would come between us and them. It proved to be a Japanese fishing smack, about fifty feet long. The sails were gone, the emergency engine evidently not working, and the boat was simply drifting. The men on board were signalling by means of torches, and we felt that they were in distress. When they had drifted within hearing distance, one of our fellow-passengers, missionary to Formosa, was given a magaphone, and asked to try to talk with them, since he was able to speak and understand Japanese. Missionary Machay called to them, "Do you want to be taken on board this ship?" They answered, "Hai, Hai!" (Yes, Yes!) This our good crew tried to do, but it took three big turns of the great ship around the little boat before it could be accomplished.

"We Got Them All!"

At the first round, a small rope was thrown to the boat. This was to serve as a leader for a stronger rope, but it broke, and the boat drifted away over the restless black sea. At the second attempt, two of the Japanese jumped daringly into the water, swam toward us, and climbed up the rope-ladders onto the ship. They then told us that they had been drifting many days without food and water. In the meantime, the boat with the other occupants, weeping and wailing, again drifted off. Once more our big freighter circled around, and "cumbersomely" drew as near alongside the now burning boat as possible. The boat had evidently been set on fire that it might be seen in the dark. This time it would be "kill or cure." The remaining "life-rings," with flash lights attached, were thrown to them, also ropes. Up on our deck, bundled in heavy wraps, and leaning over the railing, we watched proceedings, breathlessly and prayerfully. One by one the Japanese fisherman jumped into the heaving water, grasped the ropes, and were pulled toward the ship, and helped up the rope ladders. The last man on the boat hestitated to jump off the burning smack, even after the rope was in his hand. He was evidently feeling a great pang of responsibility for the burning vessel. Finally he was literally pulled off! What a picture of the children of the world, finding it so hard to leave the "burning vessel" for the "ship of faith! What a joy was ours—all on the ship—when they were all safe. The voice of one of the crew rang with joy when on passing us on deck, he said, "We got them all!" Likewise there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." What a hopeless picture the burning vessel presented as it drifted on and on out into the black distance.

Week's Board and Room $988,000

We are now in Shanghai for over a month, and we are well aware that we are in China. It is a new China, with new ideas and ambitions, but still the "old China," moving slowly, and thus requiring much time to accomplish things. It took us weeks to get all our things through customs and delivered to our rooming place. That part is over, but we are now confronted with hindrances because of war conditions up north, in and near our field, and great difficulties in travel and transportation. Many missionaries are "stranded" here in this melting pot of the Far East," for the time being, until there is a way to get to their fields. Prices are very high here in Shanghai, even though one United States dollar changes for twelve thousand paper dollars. For example, the other day a fellow-guest got a board and room bill for the week's stay here of their family of four, to the sum of $988,000; and the custom's duty alone (not including many other expenses) on our used automobile amounted to nearly $3,000,000. We are looking forward to the day when we can leave this metropolis. We are making inquiries about a new field; however, we cannot make definite plans until our Mission Board representative, Dr. A. E. Krieder, and other co-workers have arrived. As we wait we get first-hand experience in "communal" living on the sixth floor of the Blackstone apartments this floor being reserved for missionary transients. There are large men's and women's wards, where we sleep on army cots and under army blankets. Here we have had the privilege of meeting with some choice servants of the Lord. Our daughter Mary Ellen has started in school at the Shanghai American School, boarding and lodging with a good Christian (German) family, where the Loyal Bartel daughters of the China Mennonite Mission are also lodging.

Teach in Bible School

We have been asked to help in a Bible School at Soochow city (not far from Shanghai) while we wait to go on to our future field. This school is sponsored by a warm, evangelical Chinese group. We feel that this may be the Lord's leading for us for the present. As we go in what we believe the Lord's way for us, we are confident that He will lead farther on. "When thou goest thy steps shall not be straightened" (Prov. 4, 12). One translation puts it this way, "As thou goest step by step, I will open the way before thee." We can well trust our glorious Leader, even though we see only a step at a time.

We take this opportunity to thank all of you again for the good wishes, prayers, and gifts. We rejoice in your Christian fellowship, and covet much your earnest prayers, for we do long to be channels through which the Holy Spirit can pour out blessings to the needy of this land. We praise God for His goodness in bringing us again to China, but we also feel our need for wisdom and patience to understand the Lord's will for us and to carry it out. Therefore, pray and praise with us! Very sincerely in the bonds of Christian love, P. J. and Frieda Boehr (March 14)

P. S. Address us, 1331 Lafayette Street, Shanghai, until further notice.

Budget for Primary Schools in Jagdeeshpur Area

(The following budget for primary schools in the Jugdeeshpur mission area in India is here presented with the idea that churches may adopt certain of the items as projects. Miss Helen E. Nickel made this budget report.)

There are about one thousand little children between the ages of six and thirteen enrolled in the primary schools. A large number of these come from Christian homes, and in some villages the parents have been Christians a very short time. Most of the parents are illiterate, so it is doubly necessary that the children be given a primary education.

During the past year we were able to operate twelve schools. We desire to open at least three new schools during the coming year. A new salary scale for the teachers has come into effect with the current year, and now the teachers will no longer be seriously underpaid for their services. The Indian churches, under the organization of the "Samelan," have pledged one-fourth of the expenses, and this, too, is a sign of growth because the sum of money is larger for school purposes than it has been before.

The total budget for all the schools is Rs. 8682-0-0 or about $2892.

The Indian churches will pay $723. We are asking for $2,169 from United States.

The money is needed for these items:

SCHOOLROOM EQUIPMENT Blackboards, chairs, desks for teachers.	$ 70
RENT REPAIRS On buildings which are now in use but not owned by the mission or churches.	125
SCHOOL SUPPLIES Books, maps, chalk, ink, paper, etc. Slates are especially needed. Some pupils pay for them in full, but prices have gone up very much, and so some supplies are furnished.	180
SPORTS EQUIPMENT Balls, small prizes for races, games	30
SALARIES OF TEACHERS Twenty-four teachers now employed, some are trained, others untrained; three high school passed 225.00; teachers whom we expect to employ.	1500
TRAVEL EXPENSES Teachers help in church and evangelistic work and go from village to village; sometimes they are transferred. Such service, often in Sunday Schools, they do free with the exception of extra travel cost.	39

The average cost of conducting one school will be $155. A small school may cost the mission $100 and a large one $200. Perhaps, certain societies would like to make one school their project for the year 1947. The names of the villages in which a school is operating now are: Baitari, Rajgur in the Eden Church circuit of which Rev. Harold Ratzlaff is pastor; Koksa and Gidhli in the Bethany Church circuit of which Rev. Philip Gardia is pastor; Nawapara in Antioch Church of which Rev. T. N. Paul is pastor; Dangania in the Salem Church of which Palak Hanuk Masih is pastor; Sirko and Narainpur in the Emmanuel Church circuit of which Rev. Abhaya Das is pastor, and Jiradabri and the large local school at Jagdeeshpur in the Bethel Church of which Rev. J. Thiessen is pastor. Two other schools at Kodopali and Patrapali ran for part of the year. One school has recently been started at Aukuri. There is a great need for more teachers, buildings and equipment. There are many many prospective pupils.

College and Seminary News

BETHEL COLLEGE

The Senior Class has chosen to present Lillian Hellman's "The Little Foxes" as its annual stage production. The play is to be presented Friday evening, May 9, in Memorial Hall. "The Little Foxes" portrays the effects of greed and selfishness on an over-ambitius Southern family. Its subtle theme contains a severe indictment of the evils cropping out of materialistic desires and lust for power. The play is a realistic drama which challenges society to re-evaluate and rethink its criterion for living. It leaves the impression that the lack of spiritual values and the unregenerate hearts of men are responsible for many of the evils in the world. Regular rehearsals are in progress under the direction of Mr. Eldon Graber, with Bernice Lehrman and Ira Bartel playing the lead roles in a cast of ten characters. Hildegard Peters as student director heads the production staff recently appointed by class officers.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Miss Elisabeth Goertz, missionary to China, was the chapel speaker on Friday, April 18. Dr. L. L. Rummell will be the speaker for the Booster Banquet to be held May 12. Dr. Rummell is now in charge of public relations for Krogers, Cincinnati. He was formerly editor of the Ohio Farmer and is soon to become Dean of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, and director of the State Agricutural Experiment Station. Dr. Clarence E. MacCartney, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, has been secured as the commencement speaker. Commencement activities will be held May 31-June 2. The Junior Class play, Pride and Prejudice, is to be given April 30. The Vesper Choir will make a tour of the Indiana churches May 1-4. President Ramseyer expects to be in Pennsylvania April 26-May 4 attending a meeting of the East Coast Club, made up of alumni, former students, and friends of Bluffton Colleges; calling on prospective students; and attending the Eastern District Conference. The East Coast Club meets at Trainers at Quakertown on the evening of April 26.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Rev. S. T. Moyer and the Christian Youth Volunteer Quartet started Sunday on a three thousand-mile trip. They will visit Mennonite churches in Minnesota, North Dakota, Canada, Montana, Idaho, and South Dakota. Academy music groups received four superior ratings and four excellent ratings at the High School Music Contest at Yankton, South Dakota. A phonograph-reording machine was purchased by the music and speech departments. Rev. J. J. Regier, pastor of the Salem-Zion church, gave a challenging message in chapel on Wednesday.

RELIEF

No Bread!

"At night the baker has fixed a sign on the door of his shop saying '500 grams bread tomorrow at 9 o'clock'. In a few minutes everybody in the neighborhood knows it. Women tell it to each other across the street, children are sent to friends to inform them.

"At 6:30 the next morning the first women appear to line up in front of the bakery. It is still dark and an icy wind is blowing. Slowly light comes, and what dawn graciously concealed, daylight discloses: emaciated, narrow, grey, tired faces. The clothing is too thin for this cold day, and the shoes are altogether insufficient. In all faces is the fear, 'Will there be enough bread? 'Will I get a loaf?' The line becomes longer. Finally the shop opens. There is bread for seventy people; then the baker fixes a sign on the door: 'Bread sold out, new bread tomorrow at 9 o'clock.' The listlessly waiting people do not comprehend at once, but when the door is barred, they know! No bread! Again no bread! No bread since two or three days ago. The children are hungry, the father must work in the factory, there are no, or not enough, potatoes! No bread! There will be bread tomorrow, indeed. But what are they to eat today, these children, men and women? Conditions are improving; next year it will be better. But even so, what does that help them now? Will they live to see the next, better year?"

—Robert Kreider, MCC Relief Worker in Germany

Overseas Play Equipment

As a result of the destruction during the recent war, many people in Europe and other parts of the world do not enjoy the normal life activities which we take for granted here in America. Food and clothing are properly the immediate concerns in relief work in these needy lands. Other forms of ministry are also badly needed, which provide for the spiritual, educational and recreational welfare. For instance, there is a real need for children's toys and playthings. Someone in Germany wrote: "Our children have no playground anymore. One day I walked through a destroyed residential section and watched the children play. Out of a pile of rubble they took stones and built themselves a home and played 'Mother and Child'. They did not need a father, since most of them do not know their fathers. Most of the fathers died in the war or are prisoners of war. Some of the little girls looked for broken glass and kitchen utensils among the rubble and pretended they were cooking delicious food, things which they had not eaten for several years."

In response to this evident need, the Mennonite Central Committee is making it possible for children in North America to give toys and other playthings for these children overseas. There is no deadline by which time these things must be sent in, but shipments will be made to the various countries as contributions are received. Inasmuch as this is primarly a project in which children participate it is urged that parents, teachers, group sponsors, Sunday School superintendents, and other children's leaders help their children in this project. A folder is available giving instructions as to the types of toys to send, how to pack them and where to send them. For information, write to Overseas Play Equipment, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania, or to Overseas Play Equipment, Mennonite Central Committee, 223 King Street East, Kitchener, Ontario.

MENNONITE AID

Students to Study in Europe

An educational trip to Europe during the summer of 1947 is being planned for a group of students or recent graduates from Mennonite and Brethren in Christ Colleges. The group will include approximately twenty-five students, and will be accompanied by one or more leaders designated by the Council of Mennonite and Affiliated Colleges. The group plans to sail about June 15, and will return about two months later. The itinerary of this trip will include such countries as Switzerland, France, Beligum, Italy, and Holland, although one of the European universities will be the central headquarters. This project is under the sponsorship of the Council of Mennonite and Affiliated Colleges, with the Mennonite Central Committee helping to make arrangements for travel and other accommodations.

Some of the objectives of this summer of travel and study in Europe are, to increase the understanding between European and American Mennonites for the mutual strengthening of both; to study the European foundations and origins of the Mennonite church; to learn to better understand the cultures, customs and problems of the countries visited; to observe the destructiveness of war—physical, moral and spiritual; and study the relief work being done by our workers in Europe, as well as the relief needs there.

VOLUNTARY SERVICES

Opportunities for more Volunteers

A goodly number of young people have already indicated their interest in participating in the Voluntary Services which are being sponsored by the Mennonite Central Committee. Leaders and matrons are being chosen for service in the various units. Additional workers can still be accepted. Opportunities for such service include recreational, Bible teaching, health and sanitation work in Gulfport, Mississippi; work as attendants, and assistants in various types of therapy in three mental institutions; office work at the headquarters of the MCC, Akron, Pennsylvania; and hospital attendant work or Bible School work in Mexico.

Persons interested in this kind of service should write immediately requesting information and application blanks. Write to Voluntary Services, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania.

TWO CENTS' WORTH!

Are your church publications worth 2 cents out of every dollar you give for all General Conference purposes?

The budget of the Publication Board is just 2 per cent of the total General Conference Budget. Does your church or Sunday School regularly take a Sunday morning offering—ONCE EACH QUARTER—for PUBLICATIONS?

"A gift for PUBLICATIONS is a gift for EVERY Conference function."

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Religious Emphasis on a College Campus

To achieve a well-rounded personality, it is not only necessary that a student attending a Christian Church school the various arts and sciences, but it is also necessary that he formulate and integrate his thoughts and actions with his religious philosophy. A college campus presents numberless opportunities for the expression of Christian principles.

The day at Bethel College begins early. At 6:30 A.M. the breakfast bell peals out its call to several hundred students. Having taken their places at the tables in the dining hall, the students pause for morning devotions before beginning the meal. One of the students leads the group in singing a hymn. Then he suggests a few inspirational thoughts for the day and closes with a prayer. The clang of silverware, glasses, and dishes indicate that breakfast has begun.

By 8:15 the college campus has become alive with activity, for that is the time when the classes begin. Together with courses in literature, home economics, music, psychology, and many others, the curriculum also includes a large variety of Bible studies, each student being required to have Bible and Christian Education credit in order to graduate.

Coming from the Science Hall, Music Hall, the dormitories, and from classes in the Ad Building, more than four hundred students gather in the chapel each morning at 10:00 for a pause from the day's busy activities. Following the organ prelude and the singing of a hymn, one of the faculty members, a minister from one of the surrounding communities, or one of the students speaks. Occasionally, also, the group hears an all-musical program.

Chimes ring out from the Ad Building tower at 12:15, with the tones of a familiar hymn, announcing the dismissal of classes for the lunch hour. Following the routine of the afternoon classes, sixty singers meet for an hour's a cappella choir rehearsal, sending the strains of sacred music over the college campus.

Dinner having been served at 6:45, the evening approaches to bring with it a large variety of extracurricular activities. Many students will attend the meetings of such organizations as the Biology Seminar, the Alpha Si Omego, the Radio Club, and one or more of the religious organizations, thereby receiving practical as well as spiritual guidance and sharing their particular talents with those of fellow-students.

Bethel College Student Issue

This issue of Mennonite Youth has been written by students of Bethel College. In it they describe the religious life, organizations and activity on the campus. Ruby Friesen wrote on the Student Christian Association, Virgil Flickinger on the Student Volunteer Movement and Loris Habegger on the student ministers. The photographs are by Carl Andreas. Rosella Reimer served as chairman of the editorial committee.

Gathering at the Administration Building, over four hundred students attend chapel services every morning at ten o'clock.

The Student Volunteer Movement

The National Student Volunteer Movement was organized in 1886. The purpose of the movement is summed up in the motto which was decided upon for the organization, namely, "The Evangelization of the World in This Generation."

"The Volunteer Band of Bethel College," a subdivision of the larger National Student Volunteer Movement, had its beginning in 1909 with a total of nine members. Anyone was eligible to become a part of this group if he (or she) was willing to sign a card on which were the following words, "It is my purpose, God permit, to become a foreign missionary."

The Student Volunteer organization of today, with a membership of sixty-five, has changed very little from the Volunteer Band of bygone days. Foreign mission work is still emphasized. Now, as then, the group meets each Tuesday evening for an hour of fellowship in singing of hymns, prayer, and discussion of problems pertaining to Christian life. All student members are given opportunity to contribute to these programs and to uncover and develop talents useful in the Service of our Master. Now, too, as before, programs are given in neigboring churches—as they ask for them. It has been a policy of the group not to force themselves upon the churches, but to be eager and willing to testify for their Redeemer in song and word whenever the churches request them. All programs are student-planned and directed.

Members of the S.C.A. and S.V.M. deliver boxes of food to needy families in Newton during the Christmas season.

In addition to the above activities, the Student Volunteers of today have extended the scope of their influence to other areas. This group conducts student prayer meetings each Monday, Wednesday and Friday immediately after the evening meal, to which all students are invited. Students take turns leading these prayer meetings with devotional thoughts; prayer requests are accepted; then all enter into a season of prayer in which intercession of foreign mission and relief work receives chief emphasis.

Deputation work has expanded from giving requested programs in various churches to monthly visits to the Old People's Home in Goessel, Kansas. A small group regularly appears at this Home to conduct a brief worship service to an appreciative audience.

Once a year the Student Volunteers sponsor a mission rally for which some outside speaker is obtained. They were fortunate in securing Dr. S. F. Pannabecker, Dean of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary in Chicago, for the 1946-47 rally. The rally was made more meaningful by the presence of a number of foreign missionaries and by exhibits of articles and literature from various mission fields.

Another annual event is the Student Volunteer All-Membership Retreat. Shortly after studies were resumed in the New Year, S. V. members left the campus for an evening of fellowship, inspiration, and rededication as ambassadors of Christ. As the name indicates, it is a retreat—a retreat from the daily routine of school work, from entering the same doors into the same building, from climbing the same steps, from seeing the same places and the same people every day. It is a retreat from all this in order that one might be refreshed, not only in the Lord, but also in a physical sense. It becomes an experience which students may look back upon and gain new strength and courage simply by reliving those joyful moments of fellowship and those sobering and solemn moments of reconsecration.

Other activities include an occasional chapel service solely in charge of the student "volunteers." During the Christmas season, baskets of food, clothing, household items, and toys are prepared and given to needy families in Newton.

Many and varied are the ways in which youth can serve on and near a college campus. The Student Volunteer organization of Bethel College seeks to bring work and worker together. It seeks to bring to light those talents which a student has within himself and offers opportunities to develop them. Often one hears the expression, "If only there were something I could do to be of service." Here, in a fellowship of likeminded young people, students are given that something to do, and the result is a strengthening of one's faith, a bolstering of one's selfconfidence (the knowledge that you can do things of which you were once skeptical), and a keener sense of that bond of fellowship ever present among groups of people with a common purpose—to seek the way of God and follow therein.

The Student Christian Association

The Student Christian Association is the largest religious organization on our campus. Being a part of the Rocky Mountain Student Christian Movement, which, in turn, is a part of the World Student Christian Federation, the purpose of the S.C.A. is to direct its program towards giving guidance to its members in the growth and development of their Christian thinking and living during their college experience. It aims to lead students to faith in God and into service in the Christian Church. It seeks to promote the growth of the members in Christian faith and character, especially through Bible study and prayer. Finally, it seeks to influence them to devote themselves to making the will of God effective in society.

At the present time there are approximately 250 members belonging to the S. C. A., of which a little over one hundred are classified as active members, indicating that they serve on various committees and take an active part in S. C. A. projects. A cabinet initiates policies and plans the program for the organization. Cabinet members are elected by the members, and officers are chosen by election from the cabinet members. This year Faire Stucky of Hutchinson, Kansas, has been president of the organization.

In order to help achieve its purposes the S. C. A. sponsors a series of meetings for one week each fall. This week is known as Religious Emphasis Week. An outside speaker brings the messages during each chapel period and each evening. Last fall the Rev. Edmund Miller of Chicago, Illinois, acted as speaker giving messages from the Gospel of John.

The S. C. A. is in charge of the Wednesday morning chapel services, three committees alternating in planning the programs. Various types of programs are presented. Some Wednesday morning programs have been devoted to the sharing of the varied experiences of the S. C. A. members. The audiences have gone to Estes Park with those girls who spent the summer working there. They have visited mental hospitals and have been brought face to face with conditions there. They have even traveled abroad and visited European countries with the Youth Hostelers who have worked there rebuilding hostels and promoting understanding and goodwill among the youth of America and Europe. Some of the foreign students have also shared a few of their experiences and have presented problems confronting those in their homelands. Outside speakers have, likewise, contributed to the programs. Several Chinese students have spoken to our organization.

During Christmas vacation the convention of the National Intercollegiate Christian Council was held in Urbana, Illinois. Three members of the Bethel S. C. A. organization attended, thus making the local group feel more a part of the national movement.

Together with the Bethel College Church the S.C.A. helps to plan Sunday evening services. Soon after Christmas a School of Missions was conducted for six consecutive Sundays. Students helped to teach the pre-school and primary classes.

Groups of students enjoy "mountain-top" experiences at retreats away from the campus.

During the month of January a drive for the World Student Service Fund and for M.C.C. relief was made. The money for the W.S.S.F. is used in helping students in other countries to enjoy more fully the opportunities for education which we are privileged to enjoy. The money is used for improving the living conditions of the student, the purchasing of books, and other pressing needs. The money for M.C.C. relief was used in helping move the Mennonite refugees from Europe to Paraguay. In connection with these drives a frugal meal instead of the regular dinner was served one day to the students eating at the dining hall. The money saved was added to the amount contributed by students. A "white elephant" sale also helped supplement the fund.

Members have contributed time as well as money. In order to help relieve the war-stricken areas students have gone to the clothing depot in Newton and helped with work there. At Christmas time members have gone to the Children's Home or to some other group of underprivileged children and helped to bring Christmas cheer into their lives by a party and the giving of gifts.

Each spring and each fall the S.C.A. cabinet goes on a retreat. In spring the program for the coming year is planned. New committees are chosen. In fall the cabinet members meet again. In order that those who have been newly elected may know the program of the S.C.A., old members summarize what has been done. The mistakes that have been made are pointed out and suggestions for a more effective S.C.A. are made. This year an all-membership retreat was also held. The group retreated to a pasture several miles from the campus to meditate on "Following Christ, Our Leader."

A committee has planned recreation for the S.C.A. members at various times during the year. Several "sings" in the out-of-doors are planned. A play night is also planned to provide wholesome fun for those participating.

Each summer a conference is held at Estes Park in Colorado. This park belongs to the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. Some members spend the summer at Estes doing various kinds of work. Others go just for the S. C. A. conference.

An attempt having been made to prepare the next day's lessons and the club meeting being ended, the Bethel student hears the evening benediction of the chimes ring through the air with "Now the Day Is Over," "Holy, Holy, Holy," or "When You Come to the End of a Perfect Day." And as the individual meditates privately before retiring, he realizes his religious life includes devotions, chapel meetings, and religious clubs, but it also means much more; he realizes that it means a way of life which he must follow every minute of the day in every situation.

The Student Minister's Fellowship

The dearth of male students who were studying for the ministry passed over during the school year of 1945-46, and Bethel College found its enrollment enlarged by several ministerial students. Some of the men were older students who found that they were facing vital issues as they contemplated entering their life-commitment to the ministry. They found themselves in need of time for discussing the problems which confronted them in their work. A large number of churches without pastors called for the services of the young men, and the experiences in serving these churches was an index of the great work confronting the future pastors.

Several of the interested men instigated a program which came to fruition during the second quarter of the 1945-46 school year. The Fellowship was inaugurated at a meeting of the student ministers. There the needs and desires were voiced, and the deliberations resulted in a purpose which would meet the needs of the Fellowship. The purpose is listed in the following statements:

1. To meet for spiritual fellowship.
2. To study our problems in relation to theological questions, church work, and personal work.
3. To encourage us in practical Christian service.

The men realized that meeting regularly would serve to unite the bonds of fellowship in a cohesive friendship which would exist beyond the day of leaving the campus for fields of service. With these thoughts in mind, the Fellowship was prayerfully launched, and the invitation to participate in our bi-monthly meetings was extended to all men students who were preparing for full time Christian service. Our present membership is thirty, a large increase over the thirteen members of last year.

Some of the pressing topics which have been discussed have been the problems relating to pastoral counseling, the evangelistic efforts of our churches, acquaintance with the entire work of the General Conference, and the total work of the minister in the administrative, preaching, and pastoral areas. All of the topics have given new impetus and a better base to our task.

Since the group is interested primarily in a Fellowship designed to process its own needs and to strengthen and unify the bonds of friendship, there is no regularly sponsored and clearly-defined outside activity. This does not imply that they have an entirely introvertive vision! They have many outside concerns and opportunities for service. Within a two hundred-mile radius of the campus there are many Mennonite churches which have no pastor. Regular assignments to these churches take up as much time as the men have to give. Not infrequently are the men called upon to travel over week-ends, leaving on Saturday noon and returning late on Sunday evening. Churches which are being served occasionally or regularly are the Deer Creek and Turpin congregations of Oklahoma; and the Kismet, Montezuma, Columbus, Pawnee Rock, Inman, Colby, Hebron (Buhler), Halstead, Hanston, Arlington, and West Zion (Moundridge) churches in Kansas. Other churches call from time to time to have students fill appointments. The work of these churches has enlarged the vision of Fellowship members. On-campus religious activities of the members are directed largely through the other organizations represented in this picture of Bethel's religious activities.

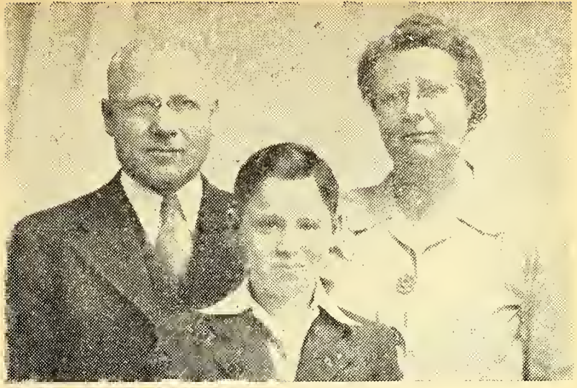
A minor proportion of the members' effort is directed toward social activities. The married members and their wives provided a banquet for the single students and their friends during the fall quarter of the current school year. Dr. J. H. Langenwalter was the speaker for the occasion. Last year the members of the Fellowship were guests of the ministerial students of McPherson College, the Church of the Brethren education institution located thirty miles northwest of Bethel. It is the hope of the organization that it may provide fellowship with the ministerial students of McPherson College and with those of our neighboring Mennonite Colleges.

A News Letter was launched this year to provide contact with those members who have gone elsewhere. It will keep each individual informed of those who are present members, where the post-graduates are located and what their work is, and will carry other articles of interest to the group. Published biannually, the News Letter should provide for that unity so desirable in this work.

The Fellowship is providing those things which will help carry out the great commission, "Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, to the close of the age." Matt. 28:19-20 (A.R.V.).

Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Kaufman Serve in Brazil



Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Kaufman, who formerly served the Inman Mennonite Church Inman, Kansas, are now working in Brazil. They have been appointed by the Mennonite Central Committee to contribute a spiritual ministry and counsel to the Mennonite colonists in the Sao Paulo vicinity in order to enable these colonists to become more firmly established in their family, church, and community life. Shown here are the Kaufmans and son Kenneth Carroll. Their present address is: Witmarsum, Correio Presidente Getulio, Via Blumenau, Santa Catarina, Brazil, South America.

Jottings

—Bethany Church, Quakertown, Pa. April 12 the C. E. Societies of our charge had a program followed by games and refreshments, Bethany being the host society. Elmer Ediger, President of the General Conference Y. P. U. was our guest speaker. Each society furnished special music. April 13 our pastor and wife spent the day at the Calvary Church, Mechanics Grove, Pa. Rev. Neuenschwander conducted the installation services for Rev. McDowell the pastor there. Rev. Abraham C. Rosenberger of Souderton had the services of the charge. In the evening, at Bethany, he spoke on Gen. 26:18 on famous wells of the Bible. "Like Isaac let us dig again the Wells."—Mrs.Ed. K. Stoneback, Corr.

—First Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: A letter from Gladys Klassen states that her ship arrived at Bombay, India, April 11. She was met by Martha Burkhalter and Mrs. S. T. Moyer. Rev. L. R. Amstutz, Tiskilwa, Illinios, preached a series of four sermons for us beginning April 13. The church will install an oil burner. Our modern, seven-room parsonage will be completed by the end of summer. The Relief Committee expects to have 125 pounds of waste fats to ship to Nappanee, Indiana, by May 1. Our shipment of school bags totalled sixty-three. Our Sunday school offerings of late have averaged fifty cents per scholar. May we never rob God of that which belongs to Him!—Miss Mary Bargen, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Waka, Texas: On Thursday evening, April 3, a group from the Student Volunteer Band of Bethel College, presented a program in song and sermon in our church. On Easter Sunday morning we were favored with a special Easter program by a group from Hesston College, consisting of a ladies quartet, chalk talk and sermonet. They also gave a program in the (Old) Mennonite church in Perryton, Texas, that night. Our Sunday school superintendant, Herman Wiebe and J. B. Friesen, Hooker, Oklahoma attended the Church Worker's Conference at Enid, Oklahoma, April 11 and 12. —Mrs. Herman Wiebe, Corr.

—Burns Mennonite Church, Burns, Kansas. Rev. B. H. Janzen, "Field Worker," spoke to us March 30, 31 and April 1. Our church sent sixteen school bags through the M.C.C. Easter Sunday we had two services one in the morning and a Easter program in the evening. We have young people's Bible class meeting every Wednesday evening.—Mrs. A. M. Hiebert, Corr.

—Eicher Church, Noble, Iowa: On Monday evening April 7, we had the privilege of having the A Cappella Choir from Grace Bible Institute in our church. Union Holy Week services were held in and around Wayland. Each evening had a different speaker. On Easter Sunday evening, picture slides of the Passion Play were shown in our church by the pastor. Songs and special numbers accompanied the pictures. On Sunday evening April 13, Rev. Harry Yoder of Bluffton College was in our church. He showed pictures of the college and also of its work.—Mrs. W. H. Regier, Corr.

—First Mennonite, Caldwell, Idaho. We have had services in our church in Caldwell for a few weeks. Easter Sunday we had Christian Endeavor and the children gave their Easter program. We are anxiously looking forward to the dedication. The date has not been definitely set yet. We have the basement to finish first. The farmers are very busy here now and don't have much time to help on the church.—Mrs. Leonard Schmidt, Corr.

—First Church, Nappanee, Indiana. Last Tuesday evening, at our April Workers' Conference, we had Rev. Robert Hartzler of the Eighth Street Church of Goshen as speaker. His subject was "Church Workers Join Hands in Their Task." Next Sunday Dr. S. F. Pannabecker, dean of the Seminary in Chicago and missionary on furlough from China, will be our speaker for our spring missions Sunday and will show pictures of his work in China in the evening. Sunday, May 4, the Bluffton College chorus will give a program of sacred music at our morning service.—Mrs. Loyal Corwin, Corr.

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: The date chosen for the wedding of Eugene Shroeder to Louise Stucky is April 20. Due to flood conditions in this community, a small congregation attended the evening services on April 13, of Dr. Chandra-Sekhar, a young Hindu. Dr. Chandra-Sekhar has been President of the India Youth Congress. Rev. E. J. Miller of Chicago. Rev. John Epp of Kingman. Rev. H. E. Miller of Kingman, Rev. D. J. Unruh, Newton, Mrs. P. A. Penner, Newton, and Rev. Sam Goering will be the guest speakers at Bible Conference to be held in this church April 20-23. —Ralph Krehbiel, Corr.

ANDREW HOLLIMAN TO BE ORDAINED

The Lord willing, the ordination of Brother Andrew Holliman, Cordell, Oklahoma, is to take place in the Sichar Mennonite Church at 2:30 o'clock, May 4, 1947. Rev. J. M. Regier, Chairman of the Board of Home Missions, Hillsboro, Kansas, is to perform the ordination. Since the Holliman family is planning to move to their new field of labor at Paint Rock, North Carolina, in the near future, he will be ordained as an Elder with full charge of the work. Neighboring ministers who are to take part in the service are, Rev. Paul Dahlenburg, Herold Church, Bessie, and Rev. Henry Hege of the Bergtal Church, Corn.

The Board of Home Missions and the Sichar Church Council herewith extend a cordial invitation to friends in the neighboring congregations to attend this service if possible. Friends of missions everywhere are asked to remember this service and the workers in intercession and also the field where they are to serve.—In the name of Christ, A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary of the Board of Home Missions, Quakertown, Pa., and H. W. Schmidt, Secretary of the Sichar Church Council.

—Flatland Church, Quakertown, Pa.: Recently on the way home from Newton, Kansas, our pastor got into conversation with a fellow passenger. While discussing relief for the poor people in Europe, he said, "The least we can do is to be Christian and help them. Whereupon our pastor told him that much food, clothing, and flour had been sent, also that some churches were buying heifers for relief. He became interested and gave a five dollar bill. This was the beginning of our Heifer-for-Relief Project. On Easter Sunday we had reached the full amount of $160, and the money has been sent away. I think it very commendable considering our membership which is sixty-three. The children from the Quakertown Community Children's Home are regular attendants at our Sunday School.—Mrs. James S. Kline, Corr.

—Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio: The monthly meeting of our Women's Missionary Society was held April 9 at the home of Mrs. Paul Badertscher, our vice president. Miss Hulda Amstutz and Mrs. Levi Amstutz presented two outstanding messages on Africa. The Willing Workers Sunday School Class and Christian Endeavor held a box social April 11 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilson. Mrs. Magdalene Geiger of Hawaii (formerly from this community) gave an interesting talk about the trees of Hawaii. April 13, three Bluffton College students were at our church. At the morning services, Miss Annetta de Graaf of Holland sang two numbers. Miss Alice Magarian, a Grecian girl from Lebanon told of her war years and experiences in the Middle East. At the evening service, Mr. Paola Comba of Italy gave a brief review of Waldensian history, told of his experiences in the war and how it happened that he could come to America.—Corr.

—Scarboro Church, Calgary Alberta: Spring has finally come and with it better roads. Rev. C. F. Klassen visited our church on April 18 to speak on European relief. He gave a stirring message. We had the largest congregation our church has ever seen, about 450 people. They came from almost every Mennonite center in Alberta, since he spoke only at two places in our province. Some of us had the privilege of attending the dedication of the new Mennonite Bible school at Didsbury and also the closing program.—Miss Tina Loewen, Corr.

—Saucon Church, Coopersburg, Pa., Communion was held on April 13. The pastor spoke on "The Ark a Type of Christ's Church." Seventy-two were present in the service (including five from West Swamp.) About forty-two communed. As the congregation sang the last verse of "Just As I Am" Dorothy Meyers and Mrs. Paul Beahm came forward and were baptized and received into the Church. In the absence of Brother Robert Stauffer who was in Kansas, the pastor was assisted in the communion and baptismal services by Deacon Herbert Stauffer of the Souderton Church. On March 23, Rev. Andrew Telford of Philadelphia spoke in our Church and on April 20 the choir of the West Swamp Church rendered a program of sacred music.—Kathryn Mumbauer, Corr.

—Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebraska: Exchange C. E. programs are creating quite an interest in our young people. A few weeks ago the M. B. Church of Henderson rendered a program in our church. April 27, our C. E. is to give a program at the Pleasant View Mennonite church at Aurora, Nebraska.—Mrs. Ruben Friesen, Corr.

—Bethel College Church: Children's consecration service will be held Sunday morning, May 11. Carlton Schroeder, the last of our young men to be discharged, is at home again after serving over a year and a halt in the army air corps. He writes: "As I am now at home again, having been discharged from the service last week, I want to express my appreciation and thanks to the pastor and church members for the contact they have maintained with me during my absence."—Eldon W. Graber, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: We were greatly blessed at our Pre-Easter services with Rev. C. H. Dirks as speaker. The Cross was the theme of every message. On Good Friday communion was observed. In the afternoon of that day there was a community Good Friday service. Easter sunrise service was observed again, with Rev. Willard Wiebe as speaker. April 20, two Mennonite students from Holland and Paraguay, now attending Freeman College, spoke at our C. E. meeting. A men's quartet from Freeman College rendered a few numbers.—Helen Penner, Corr.

—First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: Rev. Harder left April 18 for Lind, Washington, to hold a series of evangelistic meetings. Rev. A. H. Barbazat of Filer, Idaho, brought the morning and evening messages April 20. Rev. Barbazet based his message on John 16:8. They were entitled, "The Working of The Holy Spirit."—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio: Miss Elisabeth Goertz spoke at a joint meeting of the mission societies of the five Mennonite churches of this community on April 17. Twenty-five of our members attended. That evening Miss Goertz spoke at the prayer service in our church. The Gideons presented their work to us on the evening of April 20.—Anana Landes, Corr.

—Professor Walter H. Hohmann's two new choral arrangements of mixed voices are now available. The two arrangements, "Po' Good Jesus" and "Christ Walks into the Hills" may be secured from the Hall & McCreary Company, Chicago. The first is eighteen cents a copy and the second fifteen cents.

—The Sub-Committee on Conference Schools held its first meeting on April 15 at the Mennonite Biblical Seminary, Chicago. Members of this committee are: Rev. A. S. Rosenberger and Rev. Olin Krehbiel, representing the Board of Education; Dr. E. G. Kaufman, Bethel College; Dr. L. L. Ramseyer, Bluffton College; Dr. J. D. Unruh, Freeman Junior College; Prof. G. H. Peters, Mennonite Collegiate Institute, Gretna, Manitoba; Rev. I. I. Friesen as representative of the newly proposed Mennonite Bible College of Winnepeg, Manitoba; Prof. K. G. Toews of the Rosthern Academy, and Dr. A. Warkentin of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary. All members were present. Also present were: Rev. Erland Waltner, Dr. S. F. Pannabecker, and Rev. Ronald von Riesen. Among the items discussed were two matters of coordination of the financial campaigns of the schools and plans for an educational emphasis during September through joint publicity and the church papers. The committee, which consists of one member appointed by each conference school, the president of the proposed Canadian Mennonite Bible College, and the two members of the Board of Education, was created at the February session of the Board of Education and to coordinate the activities of the various institutions.

NOTICE TO:

General Conference Delegates and Visitors

The local arrangements committee looking forward to the entertainment of the General Conference this summer, from August 20 to 27, at the First Mennonite Church in Berne, Indiana, is seeking some advance information from those who expect to attend the conference.

It is desired that those who expect to attend the conference as delegates or visitors please notify the chairman of the local Lodging Committee, Mr. Clifton Gilliom, Berne, Indiana, as soon as you know for certain that you plan to attend. Please, in reporting this information, indicate by what method of transportation you expect to travel, and how many will be in your party, indicating the number of men, women and children including the ages of the children.

The chairman of the Exhibits Committee, Mr. Fred Von Gunten, Berne, Indiana, urges that all conference boards, committees, schools, auxiliaries, etc., contact him as soon as possible indicating whether or not they will want to have a display at the conference, and, if so, how much table or wall space will be needed.

Although the conference is still quite some time in the future, it will be well for us to think and plan for this event and invoke God's blessing for our conference sessions in our prayers.

Olin A. Krehbiel, Pastor
Howard Gilliom, Secretary

—The Mennonite Song Festival will be held Sunday afternoon and evening, May 4, in the Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas.

—First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: Rev. Henry Harder's meditation for the communion service on April 13 was based on Luke 24:13-25. Soft organ music furnished the background to it. That evening Agnes Becker told us about her work in the government camps at Yuba City, California.—Arnold E. Bartel, Corr.

—Meadow Church, Colby, Kansas: Rev. John Unruh of Madrid, Nebraska, held evangelistic services for us. April 19 Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Duerksen spoke to us and showed slides of the mission work in India. Rev. Sam J. Goering of North Newton, Kansas, is to bring us a message on European relief on April 27.—F. D. Goossen, Corr.

—Another issue of Mennonite Life is off the press, and it is as charming as its predecessors. In addition to a variety of interesting articles this issue has a series of articles on the Mennonites of Mexico. Since very little information on the Mennonites of Mexico has heretofore been available, many readers may be doubly interested in securing a copy of the April, 1947, Mennonite Life. Copies may be purchased at the Mennonite Book Store, 710 Main, Newton, Kansas, for fifty cents a copy.

—Zion Church, Souderton, Pa. At Easter we again enjoyed "The Seven Last Words" by our choir and also a special Easter program. On Good Friday we received thirty new members into our fellowship. Elmer Ediger, General Conference Y.P.U. president, spoke to the Intermediate Fellowship on "Service," and later in the evening of Sunday, April 13, he brought the evening message in which he gave a challenging story of the work of the M.C.C.—Corr.

—Calvary Church, Mechanic Grove, Pa., was blessed on April 13 by the presence of Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, Rev. Howard Nyce, and Rev. E. D. Hess. The special occasion was the ordination of our pastor, Rev. Walter McDowell as Elder. Prayer is requested for our pastor in this field and also for the complete restoration of his health.—Corr.

—Wayland Mennonite Church, Wayland, Iowa: Our church, with the other churches of the community, observed Holy Week by having union meetings each evening, and a Good Friday service from 1 to 3 P.M. The following week our pastor and wife made a trip to Michigan and Ohio to visit their children. On April 13 Rev. Harry Yoder of Bluffton, Ohio, brought the morning message. He was here in the interest of prospective students for Bluffton College. The churchhouse is to have a new coat of paint.—Anna E. Muluett, Corr.

—The Apollo Boys' Choir will give a concert in Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas, on Wednesday evening, April 30, at eight o'clock. Goodwill Builders and their friends under twelve years of age will be seated in a reserved section and will be admitted free of charge.

—The Middle District Conference will be held at Bluffton College, Bluffton, Ohio, June 7-10. This is the first time that Bluffton College is host to the conference. Rev. Sylvan Lehman of Lima, Ohio, is president. Saturday will be young people's day; a special program is scheduled for Sunday, with the business sessions on Monday and Tuesday.—C. W. Schneck, Secretary —Zion Church, Arena, North Dakota: Rev. G. Shroeder of Mcklusky, North Dakota, gave a message in our church on the afternoon of March 23 and again on Good Friday. The ladies mission society sent 253 pounds of new and used clothing, comforters, and soap for relief. The April 6 C. E. program was postponed because of heavy snows and muddy roads. The church members have done a lot of work on the parsonage this spring.—Mrs. David J. Buller, Corr.

—First Church, Monroe, Washington: Bertha Fast, who has done relief work in Egypt and Italy, was in our church for two nights and one afternoon. She told the Women's Missionary Society of her work with the Waldensees in Italy. Twenty women enjoyed the program. Cake and coffee were served. Brother Laurence Goerz from Granger, Washington, gave the evening message on April 13.—Corr.

—Mr. H. J. Andres, Chairman of the Board of Publication and Administrator of Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas, has been confined to the hospital because of an infection.

NUTCRACKERS! AND A NUT TO CRACK!

You slip a nut into the jaws of a nutcracker.

As your hand grips the two levers of the nutcracker and you begin to apply the pressure, something begins to happen—and SUDDENLY! Something must GIVE!

Like the nut between the handles of the nutcracker, your CONFERENCE PUBLICATIONS are being squeezed between the increasing pressure of higher printing costs (One handle!) and the rigid unchanging subscription price (The other handle!) Something must give!

It could be the printer. He won't—he CAN'T, because rising costs of labor pinch him, too.

It could be the quality of the paper, or the size, or the frequency. That's already been done to where it can't be done much more. We CAN'T reduce the quality in a time of such great need and when opportunity for service looms so large.

It COULD be the churches, who raise regular Sunday morning offerings—ONCE EACH QUARTER—for PUBLICTIONS, the basic TOOL of Christian Education in the Home Church.

414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 —— May 6, 1947 —— Number 18

Cut courtesy "Gospel Messenger"

Another Wilderness To Conquer

Today when the nature of field and forest has been so largely conquered and converted into autos, refrigerators, radios, dishwashers, etc., the modern mother and son find themselves in another wilderness, the wilderness of human nature which in our country is characterized in part by: two atomic bombings, eight million individuals torn by life-destroying conflicts within them, one out of every twenty-two in a mental hospital during part of his life, one out of three marriages ending in divorce, thousands of alcoholics, and millions of people—though comparatively happy and at peace within—of such doubtful "saltiness" that a scientist must warn, "We are entering on an era which will probably be more chaotic, disruptive and emotionally disturbing than we have ever known . . . ." Man has subdued the animals and the inanimate, but he himself stands before God bewildered and frequently wild. A doctor says, "Man's darkest continent is the human mind." That continent is difficult to explore, for ever since Adam and Eve man has tried to hide from others and even from himself that which made him feel ashamed and guilty. No wonder that man knows so little of the forces that make him do the opposite of his best intentions. The modern mother and son must venture into that darkest continent" if the wilderness of human nature is to be known and through God conquered and made fruitful.

John and Sara

(This is the first in a series about those who found freedom for the new life. The articles have been prepared by a minister who prefers that his name be unknown. For a number of years he has been guiding a church to become a beloved fellowship in which people are either kept free to grow in the spiritual life, or helped to find freedom from whatever blocks their growth in the way and the truth by which the life that is God may become life eternal in them and by which the love that is God may become manifest in all the areas of their experiences.

Although these accounts are written by the minister, many times he has been aided by members of the church who are devoted to soul winning and, so far as possible, this will be made clear in the stories that appear. Most of them tell of those who found freedom from earthbound anchors or other tyrannies that kept them from coming to know the gift of God's grace.)

John was baptized when he was a baby and went to Sunday School until he was thirteen years old. He slipped away then, unnoticed, and had no definite contact with the church until he came with his prospective bride to a minister to be married. Sara was also baptized as a baby and while she did not leave the church so completely as John, from the time she went to college until she came with John to make arrangements for her wedding, she had little contact with the Church. Both had joined a church at the end of the sixth grade—one a Methodist and one a Presbyterian.

On the "Vegetable" Level

John was twenty-eight years old and Sara twenty-six, when they decided to be married. Both had had many love affairs. John glibly admitted that he had made a plaything of love. Both of them lived only on the "vegetable" level. They had neglected their souls and lived as though God did not exist.

When they came to the minister to be married he told them that he would be glad to perform the ceremony if they would be willing to go through a process of study. John objected at first but, with the insistence of Sara, he finally gave in. That study somehow or other got hold of both of them. They were interested to discover that the minister's first concern was to lead them to Christ. He led them to see that marriage is a spiritual relationship. They discussed together the meaning of marriage and how their house could become a home, their hearthfire an altar, their family a unit of God's Kingdom. He talked with them not only about the principles of marriage but about the Sermon on the Mount. He showed them that only as they centered on the goodness of God could they be free from the self-esteem and self-regard which are the enemies of marriage. He was able to awaken them to an interest in the spiritual life; in finding union with God in each other and within themselves; in finding that life eternal which is the very heart of the universe. "How can you hope to find the fullest experience of marriage until you seek first the kingdom of God?" he asked them.

Something New Happened

The result of it was that both of them agreed to join the church the day they were married and they both asked to be baptized again. They were married, and on the day of their wedding Sara seemed to have a great spiritual experience. From that day on, she began to love things she had never loved before. She became very devoted to the church. She began a prayer life. Something happened within her that was new. John gave intellectual consent but had no change of heart, really. He still bragged and paraded his intellect. But he did begin to read, and both of them started to attend church regularly. They accepted whatever assignments were given to them. John became president of the men's brotherhood and did a fine job. They established a family altar and, as best they could, they had grace at the table.

After Two Years

Two years passed. Then one Sunday morning John had a great spiritual experience in the church service. He is very analytical and says that to this day he can't understand it. He felt what Sara had felt. He became warm inside. He was so stirred that he felt as if he had to get up and shout. As soon as the service was over, he came excitedly to the minister. "I believe I have religion. Something happened to me today." The minister took him to the altar and he knelt there and committed his life again to Christ and said, "From now on I will put You first; everything else, second."

To this day that man will do anything his minister or his church calls upon him to do. About a year ago the church drew up a statement of its faith. John edited it and did a good job. He is one the greatest helpers the church has in winning others to Christ. He is especially helpful with the argumentative type who demand proof.

John and Sara have two children, and they are seeking to keep them free for a normal growth into the new life, knowing that in time they must know the work of God's grace or it will all be in vain.

John and Sara found freedom for the new life. Early in their search, Sara received the gift of life eternal; it came to John later, but even more fully.

—Reprint permission granted from The New Life Magazine, copyrighted 1946 by the General Board of Evangelism of The Methodist Church.

Efficient Teaching Methods

Alta Mae Erb

Effective teaching will cause something to happen in the spiritual lives of those taught. What an opportunity! And how much such teaching is needed! How can the teacher bring about these spiritual reactions in the pupil? That is method.

Purpose to accomplish something in each lesson and in the whole of the lessons is the best directive for discovering good teaching procedures. What shall happen in the lives of the pupils? Well, when once a message or objective has become very clear to the teacher, then definite methods suggest themselves. The desire to have the pupils come to know and feel and will to do the truth of the lesson brings to the mind a plan to use to accomplish that end. The allover purpose of a term's studies is very significant in clarifying the daily aims and in suggesting procedures for the whole teaching.

The Time Line

Some one ongoing activity is very effective. If the lessons are historical the whole sequence of events may be made clear by the use of a time line. This history story might be told with pictures and printing (or writing) on a long roll of paper. (Shelf paper is very good). At the top of the roll a line is marked off into time divisions, so many years to a foot. Men and events are located in their respective times. Certain colors may graphically represent certain men or nations; in the story of the divided kingdom a green line might be used for the northern kingdom. All the kings' names could be written in green. Orange color would distinguish those of the southern kingdom. At any time when the geography is significant, maps should be put on the roll. To see the map changing from the division among the twelve tribes to the kingdom of David and then to the division between Judah and Israel greatly aids the understanding.

While teacher and pupil develop this time line, much Bible reading goes on. All the facts possible are gleaned from the Bibles. Bible geographies and Bible histories should help too. The teacher can't know the story too well, but for real learnings the pupils must do the findings and the building together of the facts into the graphic time line. Many pictures of events, of graphic facts, of men and women may be pasted on the roll to help make the story live. Search for photographs and interpretations of good artists, even though they can't all be cut out and mounted. Let the well-developed-from-the-Bible story tell the truth of the course and effect of evil deeds and the way and glorious rewards of the godly life. Moralizing at the end is not wise. The truth of a story presented so vividly will not escape the spiritual eye of the child or youth. Younger children may use little jets to tell briefly historical sequences. Pictures are almost essential with them. Children under the fourth grade have little chronological sense.

Learning the Bible

Another all-time objective might be to get acquainted with a book of the Bible: with the truths, the stories, verses to be put up for remembrance, locations of verses, truths, and stories. To know where to find things in the Bible is a worthy objective.

Devices that call for attentive, purposive repetition are valuable. A verse that the teacher wishes the pupil to memorize must be full of meaning to the learner and to be so, it must meet his today's spiritual needs. By this time the truth has been expericenced, the words expressing the truth will be easy to learn. Finding stories, finding verses, finding dis-

AT PLAY— —AT PRAYER

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS need the BEST guidance available, especially during the growing years, 9-12. Are they getting it?

The new JUNIOR QUATERLY and the JUNIOR MESSENGER are two splendid items which will help you—in the home and in the Sunday school to set those feet and those hearts on the path that leads to God. Ask your Sunday school superintendent and teachers to provide them!

Not long ago a supposedly successful father stepped into the office of the dean in a great American university and said, "Now that my son has been admitted to your college I am happy to think that you may be able to do for him the things which I have been unable to do, through the pressure of business. I hope you'll take the lad in hand and straighten him out. He needs something."

The dean looked that father squarely in the eye and said pointedly, "I'm sorry. I refuse to take up a job which you have neglected for eighteen years. I cannot now do what you have so long left undone." The dean meant to say, in substance, that the boy could not be fitted, overnight, with a cloak of character qualities which should have been growing for years in the fiber of his being.—From the Parent's Magazine cussions of certain truths, finding particular references—all these are made easier if the stories, verses, truths, and books of the Bible become real and interesting and vital to the learner's spiritual life. All ages have particular spiritual needs. The Bible meets them all. It is the teacher's opportunity to bring the great God to the learner's spiritual problem. Effective attention to the Word of God will bring joy and appreciation.

Games

Remembering how God has made the child to learn through play, we can use games for effective drill. In learning facts (it is essential to learn them well) the games of "who" or "where" or "when" or "what" are stimulating. The teacher or a pupil prepares a list of people to identify and asks such questions as these from John. Who— (1) called Jesus the Lamb of God? (2) first findeth his own brother? (3) was a sinner with five husbands? The preparation of these questions by the pupils is excellent drill. Encourage provocative questions.

Retelling the Story

Telling the stories over and over again is essential to putting them up for remembrance. These stories must be better learned. Teachers should make the story live by putting in background essentials to the learner's understanding, since they are not in Bible lands or Bible times. The little child delights in hearing the familiar story. Let all close their eyes and dream (recall) a story. Then all awake and tell their dreams. Tell a story to each visitor. Send home a cutout or picture to use in telling the story to grandma or a neighbor shut-in. Let the child select a picture to stand by or hold while telling the story. Stand-up characters (cutouts tacked to the flat surface of a split spool) are excellent to move about on the table to act out the story.

Self-Expression

Perhaps we defeat our best purposes in planning for a so-called expression period. A good discussion is the highest type of self-expression. Building a time line as the story develops is another good example of true learning by expression. Pupil participation should be found in every lesson period. And if the learning is to be real the expression must be that of the pupil, not of the teacher. Dictating a sentence for each pupil to copy in a notebook may give some neat writing to exhibit, but little or no spiritual help. Let the child write from his own thinking. Good teaching will provoke self-expression and will permit it.

Map Work

Sketching maps from memory (not copying or tracing), map talks by pupils, map tests, and map puzzles may be effectively used to build up usable map images.

Teaching the Word of God is a most important work. The best teaching methods should be used under the direction of the Holy Spirit. The teacher who truly desires to teach children or youth the precious truth will study the Word and study the children and will find good methods.—Missionary Messenger.

A. E. Kreider Reports from Philippines and Shanghai

(The following letters were written by Rev. A. E. Kreider to Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions. Rev. Kreider is chairman of the board. The first letter was written on March 18 from Vigan, Ilocos Sur in the Philippines and the second from Shanghai on April 7.)

The Lord has wondrously blessed and prospered my way as I have been traveling from country to country. He has given me health, although the tropical climate and the strenuous life of travel requires much energy. I never cease to give thanks unto God for his many mercies. When a person is engaged in the service of the Lord, he can rest in the assurance of the Lord's help.

Fifteen-Day Visit in Batavia, Java

Perhaps I should give a brief account of my travels. I left Calcutta January 26 and went directly to Batavia in Java. I spent fifteen days in the city of Batavia. I was not able to go into the interior of Java because of the political unrest and the danger at

Index to the 1946 Mennonite

One day, last January, approximately twenty-four men and women assembled for one afternoon to index fully and comprehensively the 1946 issue of "The Mennonite."

This index is now completed and will appear in next week's issue of "The Mennonite," the entire issue being devoted to this purpose.

This is a new venture on the part of the Board of Publications to serve our Mennonite constituency, particular our pastors, Sunday school teachers, youth leaders, schools, colleges, and seminaries, and the students doing research on Mennonite life and culture, religion and philosophy—in fact all who are charged with the responsibility of making the Christian way seem beautiful and desirable.

This index we send to you with the hope and prayer that it will save you many hours of work and enrich your hours of study and preparation in the work of the home, the church, and the school. As all first attempts, it is not perfect, and we sincerely hope that readers and users of this index will pardon any oversights, errors, or omissions. As a Board we assure you that they were not intentional.

Any comments, criticisms, or suggestions concerning the index for the 1947 issue of The Mennonite will be most gratefully received by

THE PUBLICATION OFFICE
722 Main, Newton, Kansas

the time. As you may know the Dutch Mennonite Church has had a mission in the north of Java for many years. Many of the missionaries who have worked there have come from among the Mennonites of South Russia, Switzerland and Germany. The last missionary to leave the field, which has been since the liberation, was an Amstutz family from Switzerland. There are no missionaries now on the field. In fact, no missionaries of any Board have returned to their former field since the end of the war. The interior of Java is now under the control of the Indonesian Republic which was set up immediately after the surrender of Japan. The Dutch only control the four or five larger cities of Java. Some months ago the Dutch and the Republic drew up terms of agreement. These were accepted by the Republic, but when the Dutch government in Holland added certain interpretations to this agreement the Republic refused to accept them. That is the situation as it now stands. Once the political situation is settled then it will be possible for missionaries to return to their fields in the interior. There were a number in the city of Batavia waiting for that development. The purpose of my visit was to investigate whether the M.C.C. could render a service at this time. The M.C.C. would gladly assist the Dutch Mennonite Mission in the rehabilitation of its work. The Mission has a number of churches, a hospital, a leper home and some school work. It was impossible to set up definite plans. But I did make contact with the Committee for Relief and Rehabilitation set up jointly by the evangelical missions of Java and Sumatra. It is hoped that we will be able to send in some workers within the course of a few months. During my stay in Batavia I had many contacts with missionaries and church leaders. Great changes are taking place in this quarter of the world. It is a day of opportunity for the renewed presentation of the Gospel of Christ.

Visits M.C.C. Unit in Philippines

From Batavia I came to Manila, stopping en route to Singapore, Bangkok and Hong Kong. I have been here in the Philippines for a month. All except a few days in Manila have been spent with the fifteen workers here on the field. In this unit there are none from our General Conference. The Brethren in Christ and the Old Mennonites have largely supplied the personnel in this unit. There is a doctor and two nurses. The other workers are engaged in distributing clothing and some food to only the most needy in the province of Abra. This is a mountain province. Its population is 87,000. The capital, Bangued, was almost completely destroyed by American bombers at the time of the liberation. The blasted and burned walls of former buildings still stand. The people have built houses of bamboo. Shops are now housed in wooden structures. This is a province in which there are a number of evangelical churches and our workers work in close cooperation with these pastors as they go from one municipality to another. The Philipppines are Roman Catholic, but evangelical missions now have reached the point where the priests have discovered that it is futile to persecute the evangelical Christians. The hold of the Roman Catholic church upon its people is not the same as it had been. One missionary spoke hopefully concerning the furture. He felt that the evanglical church and the missionaries have an opportunity such as they have not had at any time in the past. Others have voiced similar sentiments. Here I have learned that the Filipino evangelical church is also giving itself to the further evangelization of their fellow Filipinos. Missionaries in the different countries are working toward a self-supporting, self-governing, and self-propagating church. In Java, one native church of a number of congregations has undertaken as its responsibility the evangelization of the island of Bali. That is encouraging. Here in the Philippines the native church is also assuming its share of responsibility in the unfinished task of evangelization. My trip is impressing upon me that fact. The evangelization of none of these countries can be fully accomplished except through the labors of the native churches in each land. Our own missionaries in India have as one of their objectives the building of a church that will give itself to the great unfinished task of evangelization. They are to be encouraged in that purpose.

I leave Vigan tomorrow. Dr. Brenneman and I want to visit the United Brethren mission in the Mountain Province on our way to Manila. This mission has set as its goal for the present year in their field 2,000 converts. Since the beginning of the year already about 700 have been won to Christ. I am not certain of the exact number of missionaries from the homeland, but I do not think that there are more than nine on the field. This work is largely being done through the Filipino evangelists.

I have passage engaged to leave Manila March 23 for Shanghai. Brother J. D. Graber of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities is now in China. I hope to meet him in Shanghai. He has been on a tour of investigation looking for a field in China.

The month of April and May will be spent in China. I will spend most of this time out in Honan provinces, and if conditions permit I will want to visit our own field. Will Brother Brown soon come to China? (This letter has been answered and Brother Kreider was informed of the leaving of the Browns'—Nyce) I am hoping that I can visit the field with him. It is planned that I shall accompany Brother Miller to Japan in June.

May Be Back for General Conference

It is impossible to give anything very definite concerning date of my return. I shall rejoice if the Lord sees fit to open the way so I may be home in time for conference.

My address: c/o American Advisory Committee, Moore Memorial Bldg., 316 Tibet Road, Shanghai, China. Remember me in your prayers. (see page 7)

JUNIOR MESSENGERS--CHRISTIAN BLESSING-ers

Nobody seems to know for certain—at least WE haven't met anyone who knows for certain—just how old our JUNIOR MESSENGER is!

Anyway, how old can a JUNIOR be and no longer be a junior?

But one thing we DO know—and FOR CERTAIN. Wherever the JUNIOR MESSENGER is found on the reading table where children can get at it, it isn't long on the table. They READ it—and like it. They like the stories, the little puzzles, the heart-warming, friendly chats with the editor, Mrs. T. A. van der Smissen, and the letters which other children send in.

Children, reading the JUNIOR MESSENGER through the years themselves become "messengers." They become disciples of Christ, a blessing to all. That's why we say: "Junior Messengers—Christian Blessingers." That may not be good poetry, but it is a fact which parents have noticed.

Is it a fact in your home? The coupon below is all that it takes. Decide first which coupon you should send in—or BOTH. Then sign it, send it—and get the blessing! Rate: 75 cents per year.

For GROWN-UP Children:

I'm no longer a child, but I can help OTHERS to get the blessing of the JUNIOR MESSENGER. I enclose $.................... for:

( ) Gift to help the Publication Board in its work of publication.

( ) Gift subscription for:

Name ....

St. or Rt. ....

City, State ....

For OTHER Children:

( ) We want the JUNIOR MESSENGER IN OUR HOME. Enter our subscription as follows:

Name ....

St. or Rt. ....

City, State ....

Send subscriptions to
MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE
722 North Main
Newton, Kansas
(Ten or more to one address, 65 cents per year)

Letter from Shanghai

The good Lord has brought me safely thus far on my journey. I never cease to give thanks for his many mercies. A week ago today I arrived in Shanghai. Although I live in another part of the city, I have been with the Boehrs a number of times. We have gone together to consult with some of the missionary leaders who are here in the city. With Brother Boehr I have discussed our plans for the immediate future. Since the Browns will arrive in ten days or sooner, it was thought best if Brother Boehr remain in the city to assist Brother Brown through customs. That is not easy in these days. It is planned that I shall go out to Kaifeng. I plan to leave tomorrow morning in company with Ralph Hilty. It is a two-day journey by train. I will stay at Kaifeng with the unit until about April 21, when I will return to Shanghai to accompany Lawrence Burkholder of the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities on a trip into Kiangsi to investigate an unoccupied area there. As you know our sister Board is making plans to open a mission here in China and is now investigating several areas. When Brother Graber was here they visited an area north of Chungking. They were favorably impressed with this area as a prospective field. There is an area to the southeast of Chungking which is unoccupied. Upon my return from the visit to Kiangsi I will return to Kaifeng. By that time it is hoped that the two missionary families will be ready to travel out to Kaifeng. Then we will try to visit our own field and survey the situation. Then the decision will have to be made as to whether we ought to look for a new field of work. Bishop Houghton of the China Inland Mission urged, when we met with him, that we consult with the leaders of the church on the field. These leaders have carried the responsibility for the work during the years of the occupation. He thinks that if the leadership of the Chinese church has actually assumed the responsibility for the work that they should be left in charge and that the foreign workers should come in as helpers and should be placed according to the wish of the Chinese leaders. If that is the situation on our field we may not need all of our available missionaries for the work in Hopeh. We may not need to supply as much money for the work as we did. In fact, the question arises as to whether we ought to supply as much money as we once did. The goal or objective is to encourage the church on our field toward a self-supporting church which will carry on its program of evangelism throughout the area. Some missionary helpers will be needed and also money will be needed, but I feel that we as a Board will have to exercise great care that we do not hinder the church in its progress toward a self-supporting evangelistic church. Pray that the Lord may lead us and have His way as future plans are made. I realize that two months will be brief for all that should be done during my stay.

A Day of Opportunity in China

Conditions here in China are unsettled as you know. No one knows the future. The conflict between the nationalists and communists will not likely be resolved in the near future. Even though conditions are unsettled, that is not sufficient reason to postpone work. There are areas in which the gospel can be preached unhindered. If it is not wise to reenter our former field, we ought to find a new field. I am persuaded on that point. This is a day of opportunity in China. There are open doors here. Saturday I was present with Brother and Sister Boehr at a baptismal service in a Chinese church. Some seventy men and women were baptized that afternoon. The day previous another large class was baptized by the same Chinese pastor. The Chinese Christain church has come through the war, tested and severely tried. But the church is alive. That is an encouraging fact. There is an active, Spirit-filled church here in this great land. It is small in numbers, but under the leading of our Lord Jesus Christ there is a promising future.

Ambassador Speaks at Sunrise Service

Yesterday morning a great gathering of people, almost wholly Chinese, gathered in an athletic field for a sunrise Easter Service here in Shanghai. I was deeply moved as I looked upon the the throng of people numbering 5,000 or more. The United States ambassador to China, who was a former missionary spoke. He spoke in Chinese. He dwelt upon the fact of the resurrection of Jesus Christ. He spoke of the spiritual meaning of this miracle of all miracles. The ambassador gave his testimony for Christ. The people followed his words with the closest attention. My heart was made glad. The impression comes to me again and again in the course of my journey that this is a day of new opportunities for missionary effort. We as a conference must push ahead. The word comes today as of old, "Speak to my people that they go forward." We have the young people who are willing to offer themselves. Our people have the financial means. The task falls to us as a Board to lead the way. "Where there is no vision the people perish." God help us.

Pensioning Our Ministers

H. Albert Claassen

(Rev. H. Albert Claassen, of Ontario, Canada, a member of the General Conference Pension Committee, wrote the following article in behalf of the Committee.)

A meeting of the General Conference Pension Committee for ministers, missionaries, and full-time church workers took me to Newton, Kansas, recently. The matter of study, discussion and formulation of suggestive recommendations to lay before the next session of General Conference occupied us. Before consenting to follow the call to this meeting the question, "Is the cost thereof justified?" was in my mind and heart.

This is a day of great change in the national, social, economic and religious life of people. We too experience the effects thereof in our Mennonite Church life and work. For more than a quarter of a century our General Conference has sought to find ways and means of meeting the need of its missionaries and ministers without, any definite results. These servants of the Lord, having been chosen or called to serve with no or inadequate remuneration, come to their declining years with no provision made for themselves and their families. They have to face the painful outlook of being supplied by charitable gifts from congregations who never recognized their responsibilities to their spiritual leaders and representatives.

This committee, being charged with the task of suggesting to the next Conference session ways to provide means for such purposes, labored harmoniously together to find constructive measures to put before the Conference next August. We are fortunate to have in the chairman of our committee a man (August Epp), whose life work it is to work out pension plans for people. He, in concurrence with the two members of the committee who live in close proximity to each other, had invited Rev. Hughes of the Presbyterian Church, who is in charge of such affairs, to counsel with us. This was a great help in the matter. We spent all of a day and a half and two long evening sessions working out this plan. We are happy to have made such progress in our task that we can hope that the executive members of our committee, Mr. August Epp, Mr. Clinton Kaufman, and Mrs. J. E. Entz, will complete the work and perfect the plan to be put before the General Conference next summer.

(All churches will soon receive copies of this plan, and are urgently requested to study it.)

The Mother-in-Law

by Edmund Miller

There are people who stay away from church on Mother's Day because they do not care for "sickly sentimentalism." I once heard of a minister who reported "a great Mother's Day service-not a dry eye in the congregation!" To get away from such undue sentimentality it might be advisable to give mother-in-law a place on the program.

She is rarely a subject for sentimental tears. Seldom are boxes of candy or roses sent to her. The only poets who compose odes to mothers-in-law are those who have a sense of humor. A large percentage of the jokes in existence today are made at her expense. But whether she is ignored, laughed at, or honored, she is still a member of the family, and her influence will be felt in one way or another.

What are some of the secrets for her unpopularity?

She is playing a new role . . . a very delicate and difficult one. She is called upon to be a mother to one who is really not her own. This task requires a fund or tact, forbearance, broadmindedness and good sense. It also demands a love big enough to cover a multitude of faults. There are scores of women who are playing the part with most beautiful success. It is not unusal to find those who regard the parents of their husband or wife with an affection little less than that given to their own father and mother. This, however, is not always the case. Sometimes a very successful mother makes a blundering mother-in-law.

While she is playing this new role she is being seen, not through the kind and loving eyes of her own children, but through the eyes of one who is inwardly comparing her to his or her own mother. We are not surprised that she may suffer by comparison. A mother who seems almost perfect to her own children may at the same time appear very faulty to the husband of her daughter or the wife of her son.

In spite of all this, a mother-in-law can be a real blessing and benediction. It is true that many children's lives have been molded by the care and prayers of devout mothers; it is also true that that many young men and women have been challenged to nobler heights and greater achievements through the loving hearts, understanding minds, helping hands, and unceasing prayers of saintly mothers-in-law. Though many homes have been made unhappy through the interference of mothers-in-law, countless homes have been strengthened and enriched by the unselfish devotion and loving spirit of mothers-in-law.

Let us not forget to honor our mothers-in-law and to give them a rightful place on Mother's Day.

Mennonite Refugees in South America

Recent word from Paraguay states that some of the refugees who have been located at Buenos Aires, Argentina, are now being moved to Asuncion, Paraguay, where they will be housed in some agricultural school buildings. The political rebellion in Paraguay continues to prevent any movement from Asuncion, in southern Paraguay, to the Mennonite colonies which are located in the north-central part of Paraguay.

Commissioners to South America Return

P. C. Hiebert and J. J. Plenert have returned from their mission in Brazil, Paraguay, and Argentina. They reported that many problems and difficulties confront the refugees who are waiting to settle in Paraguay. In Brazil and Argentina contacts were made with governmental officials in the interests of Mennonite immigration, in some cases with favorable and encouraging response, while in other cases less favorable.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Comparison of the Mennonites of Holland and America

An American View

(From the Dutch youth paper The Healksteen, an article by Magdalen Friesen, M.C.C. relief worker in Amsterdam, Holland, translated by J. W. Hilverda, with some closing remarks by him.)

Although I haven't been in Holland long, I still believe that the young people of our countries can mean very much to each other. When one gets in contact with our friends in the Netherlands, one discovers that there are many differences in the way of living and thinking. I believe, however, that these differences do not separate us, but that they can help to bring us closer together. I will discuss some of the peculiarities.

First, we will look at the work, which the young people in both countries are doing in the congregation and in the Sunday Schools. As far as I have seen the situation, the churches in Holland are usually only attended by the older people; very few young people seem to go to church. Therefore, it often seems as though the congregations were dying out. With a few exceptions there are no Sunday schools, at least not as we know them in America. You young people here seem to neglect the church and to pay more attention to other things. There are, however, some exceptions, and in these places where the young people help and serve in Sunday School work, one is amazed at the wonderful spirit and the excellent organization.

Most churches in Holland have no Sunday Schools, but a Bible and catechism hour during the week. Worship services and Sunday Schools are completely separated, and I am told that it is not desirable that children younger than twelve years attend the worship services. I will tell you something about our Sunday Schools in America. (Here she explains what the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor mean in America. J. W. H.)

Sunday School and Christian Endeavor are an excellent means of preparing our young people for service in the church. Of course, there are also some who lose their interest in the church and disappear, but in general our young people are interested and they take an active part in the work and the organization of the congregation.

Your (the Dutch) congregations are growing congregations in this respect. They try to get members of non-Mennonite background. These members often experience more the value of the congregation than those that were raised in a Mennonite atmosphere. Our Mennonite congregations in America don't do very much to get new members from the non-Mennonite world.

A subject of many discussions between young people of Holland and America has always been the attitude towards historical Mennonite principles. It seems to me that you Dutch young people emphasize very strongly tolerance and freedom in the congregation. You think it very important to have complete freedom of religion in the Mennonite congregation. For many American young people the principle of peace has become one of the most important things which our church represents. The peace idea is not only expressed negatively in abstinences from war and destruction, but also in a constructive and postive way, by returning good for evil. Among the Dutch youth one finds a strong class-consciousness. This sometimes causes reservedness in the cooperation of organizations in the congregation—a feeling of not belonging to the same class of society. In America we sometimes have a subconscious, class-consciousness but not as much as in Holland. In our American society difficulties in cooperation are more often caused by desires for personal authority, than by feelings of class-consciousness.

There is another important thing which I have observed. Many young people here in Holland approach the problems which they face in a logical or intellectual way. They consider and think out a problem carefully and discuss it. We Americans must seem rather superficial to you, and perhaps we are more superficial than most of you. I am sure that our thinking often is not as deep as yours. Too often we do not take the time to think about certain things as you do, in a deep and serious way, and to discuss things with each other. Here another difference appears. You often think that reasoning and logic possibly can give the answer to most of our problems. We, however, feel that reasoning often is insufficient and that we do not receive most eternal truths by means of intellect but through faith. It seems to me that you emphasize philosophy, while we feel that religion gives us the answer to the problems that philosophy cannot solve.

One thing in which you Holland young people excel the Americans is your appreciation and understanding of the finer elements of culture, like music, art and good literature. The cause of this is probably, for the greater part, your domestic environment with its many artistic values—paintings, pottery, musical instruments and many good books. In too many American homes these finer things of life are neglected by striving for mere materialistic profits. Love and appreciation for art, music and literature contributes very much towards making life more abundant and deeper. In America we have lacked much, because we neglected that. Let me repeat what I said in the beginning: we Dutch and American Mennonites can, not in spite of, but by means of our differences learn from each other. It seems to me that the greatest contribution which we Americans can give you is a spirit of enthusiasm, power and idealism. We can learn from you to penetrate deeper into the problems of life, to think more and deeper, and to appreciate all beautiful and divine things of life. (End of translated article)

A Dutch Reply

by Johann Hilverda

I certainly appreciate Magdalen Friesen's ideas very much, and I am sure that in many respects she is right and that she has observed certain differences with a remarkable insight. In some respects her view, however, is rather onesided, and I think that the cause of it might be that she judges the entire Dutch Mennonite life by looking at big city congregations and probably especially the congregations of Amsterdam, the city in which most of the Holland relief workers live. It is indeed true that the church attendance of young people among the Dutch-Mennonites is much worse than it is here. It is however one of the Dutch Mennonite principles never to force young people to go to church or to be baptized. Faith has only value if it is an absolutely personal decision. Therefore many young people don't attend worship services regularly until they really have found God because of their own desires. In some congregations the young people also meet separately from the rest of the congregation. This great freedom however, creates, a danger. There can be too much freedom. We Dutch Mennonites are very much afraid of any kind of group discipline. What she says about Sunday schools is true. We don't know the Sunday school in the American sense. Sunday school, however, as you practice it over here is a typical American institution and as such unknown in any church denomination on the continent of Europe. There is indeed more class consciousness among Dutch Mennonites, but this is especially true in big city congregations like Amsterdam and Haarlem and not so much in many country congregations where, as far as that is concerned, there is no difference from the American Mennonites. It is also true that Dutch Mennonites in their sermons, in their discussions, in their writings and in their beliefs put more emphasis on philosophical solutions. Personally, I have never met a Dutch Mennonite who really thought that reasoning and logic can possibly give the answer to many religious problems. Philosophical conceptions may often enter into discussion and play a rather important part, but I am sure that almost all Mennonites in Holland like all Mennonites all over the world, believe that the final answers to the problems of our life are found through religion in God's revelation, whether they believe in receiving that revelation through the Bible through Christ, through nature, or through a direct mystical communion of the human soul with God.

A Summer of Volunteer Service in Chicago

BY ROBERT MOUNTENAY

The volunteer service unit to which I belong was comprised of nine Mennonite young people, many of whom were preparing for fulltime Christian service. The unit was stationed in Chicago, and its purpose was to operate daily vacation Bible schools in southside Chicago. Our headquarters was at the Chicago Mennonite Bible Mission where Rev. John Neufeld has been preaching for many years. It was at the mission where our principal Bible school was located. In the past the Bible school has been run by Rev. and Mrs. Neufeld. This past summer, however, the whole program was administered by the unit itself under the leadership of Virgil Flickinger, a young man who had just been discharged from a C.P.S. unit. We operated on an allotment of $600 from the Home Mission Board plus about $100 donated by the Chicago Mission. This amount provided for our board and lodging, supplies, and all incidentals over a six-week period.

Our pupils were rough and ready south-side Chicagoans, from the surrounding stockyard district. This area was thus named because of its proximity to the large meat packing plants and stockyards where most of its residents were employed. Many of the youngsters came from Catholic homes, a few were Jewish, and a considerable number had had no religious training in their homes whatsoever.

Our activities program proved to be very attractive to the pupils. We had several picnics in the city parks, and these were topped off with a trip in two chartered buses to the Brookfield Zoo. It is interesting to note that the class attendance was always improved several days prior to one of these excursions. The season was

To Editors of Local Church Papers

Local church youth groups often publish little local papers which keep the fellowship informed regarding their life and activity. Any such a local paper would be very much appreciated by the editor of Mennonite Youth. On occasion local papers contain news items which are of general interest in the church. So please send a copy of your local church youth paper to Esko Loewen, 6201 S. Carpenter, Chicago 21, Illinois.

climaxed at its end by an evening service given by the unit for the parents of the pupils. This service featured songs, recitations, and exercies by the youngsters themselves. After the service the hand work done during the summer was displayed to those in attendance.

To us unit members the summer was full of new and interesting experiences. As a rule we had the evenings to ourselves. Frequently we attended the free concerts at the great outdoor auditorium in Grant Park located on the edge of Lake Michigan. We also had the privilege of attending services at the famous Moody Church and at the Chicago Temple. One night we had supper at a restaurant in Chinatown, and that same evening we had what was for many of us the first ride on a subway-elevated train. One afternoon was spent at the Chicago planetarium and aquarium. However one can acquire any of these experiences in a lifetime, but we felt that we were especially privileged in gaining a spiritual experience which few others would ever realize.

Another benefit to us was the opportunity of becoming acquainted with Mennonite young people from other areas. The unit members came from Idaho, Kansas, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Indiana, and even Canada. It is indeed unusual, especially if one did not attend a Mennonite school, to be able to come to know so intimately other active church workers from all over the country. Each of us made new and lasting friendships.

Without a doubt, the most important aspect of the summer project was the influence it had on the area in which we worked. It is well nigh impossible to determine just how much good was done or to predict how much will be done as a result of our work. However, we firmly believed that if only one youngster was taught to follow in the footsteps of the Master, our summer was exceedingly well spent. We found it relatively easy to create at least an interest in salvation in these young minds which were as yet unaffected by the scepticism and sophistication of adulthood. Whether or not this interest will develop into a conviction is another matter, but once there is an interest, there is a fighting chance that a firm faith in Christ will result.

We also were able to show them that a Christian life is a life of joy. We thoroughly enjoyed our work, and the pupils could not fail to see it. Whether or not prior to coming to Bible School they thought that to be a Christian meant to live a life of solemnity and seclusion they couldn't have left Bible School with the same idea. This is conclusively evidenced by a conversation I overheard between two of the younger boys. The first one said, "What do you want to do when you grow up?" The other, referring to Virgil Flickinger, the unit leader, said, "I want to have the job that Virgil has." Beyond a doubt, our lives seemed attractive to them.

Another of our accomplishments was to show them a new standard of conduct and a new concept of morality, and from this we realized that an improved moral standard would create a medium in which true Christianity could better develop.

In conclusion I can say that a summer with a volunteer service unit is an experience too valuable to miss and a witness too important to neglect.—Robert M. Mountenay, Deep Run

American Veterans' Committee Opposes Peacetime Conscription

The following significant editorial appeared in the January 1947 New York American Veterans' Committee paper:

Veterans organizations habitually sound off on such widely varied subjects as atomic energy, discrimination in colleges or the action of real estate owners in Oklahoma City. As citizens interested in the general welfare this is our right.

Occasionally, however, an issue arises where former G.I.'s have a special knowledge of the subject. To speak out then is not merely our right; it is our duty. Universal military training is such a subject . . . . When it comes to basic training—the kind we got in thirteen muddy weeks at Bragg or Knox or Croft or Wheeler—we are authorities. . . .

Military training is degrading, stultifying, timewasting. We put up with it during the war because it was the means to defeat two powerful and aggressive enemies. We are determined that with the war over, our younger brothers and our sons shall not have to undergo the same degradation and waste of time.

As expert witnesses we can tell the President's Advisory Commission on Universal Training this: Whatever such training is called, if the army runs the program it will:

—prepare men for war but not for citizenship;

—teach men to disassemble machine guns but not to earn a living;

—increase their opportunity to get syphilis, but not improve their health or morals;

—give them dentists to extract decayed teeth, but none to make up for eighteen years of inadequate dental care;

—teach them to get along with officers by saying "Yes, sir!" but teach them nothing about getting along with Negroes in segregated units.

German Youth Make Appeal for Peace

A thousand German young people gathered at Bad Pyrmont, British zone, and adopted a united statement which has received no publicity in the United States, but which contains important implications for the future development of German public opinion.

"At the outbreak of war," says the statement in part, "we were too young to have any influences on the course of events. We were growing up during the war and had to face it in all its cruel hardships and destruction. In this appeal we want to contradict the idea that we, the youth of Germany, believe in war and that we see in it the only possible chance for a solution of international conflict. We stand for a peaceful settlement of all problems affecting the common life of human society, because this method leads directly to reconstruction, whereas war inevitably means destruction.

"While we solemnly assert our will to peace today we feel at the same time a sense of frustration, and our present way of living, without peace, depresses us. It is not for us to put forward any claims, but we want to appeal to those nations which hold the fate of the German people in their hands that they do not miss the opportunity of achieving a true, lasting peace under conditions that can be borne by us and by all nations."

On behalf of the 1,000 youth, the appeal was signed by Dietrich Maltzahn, Joachim Hans Hannemann, Reinhart Schultze, Juliane Biermann, Heinz Schrader, Gert von Schierstedt, Hans Grebenstein and Hermann Mueller, eight leaders of as many youth organizations.

Project Suggestion Secretary

Quite a few local organizations and district organizations have written to various boards, young people's leaders, and Conference headquarters asking for suggestions of projects which their young people might contribute toward. The group in the Y.P.U Council Meeting this past February again pointed out the need for some central source from which these suggestions might come. It was thought to be helpful to the boards and to local groups and districts if some one person could be designated who would learn from them of project possibilities and make them available to folks as they wrote in.

Delsie Tieszen, who is a regular worker at the General Conference headquarters and who is also a member of the Northern District Young People's Executive Committee, is intimately acquainted with the needs of various boards. The Y.P.U. Executive Committee has asked her to serve as Y.P.U. Project Suggestion Secretary. She is available for inquiries regarding possible projects young peoples groups might undertake. Local Young People's Associations, C. E.'s, young people's Sunday School classes should feel free to make inquires. Her address is: Delsie Tieszen, 722 Main Street, Newton, Kansas.

Items of Interest

The first issue of the first edition of the famous Gutenberg Bible was sold at auction in London recently. It brought $88,000. This Bible was issued in Mainz, Germany, in 1455 and was the first Bible printed on the newly invented movable type which transformed human history .

* * * *

Five national groups and six states are at work in the country to prevent alcoholism and save the more than 2,250,000 alcoholics. The oldest group is Alcoholics Anonymous, founded in 1935. Two states, New Jersey and Connecticut, have created commissions to combat alcoholism. Four other states have set up committees to study the problem.

* * * *

A survey made last winter in Wuerzburg, Germany, showed that there were 2,800 rooms occupied at the rate of six persons per room; 3,450 rooms at the rate of seven persons per room; 106 rooms at the rate of eight persons per room; and 2,300 rooms at the rate of from one to five persons per room, and that there were 1,300 familes living in garages, garden houses and chicken coops. Dwelling facilities in that city had suffered an estimated 74.6 per cent destruction.

* * * *

Four out of ten families, according to the Gallup Poll, follow the practice of saying grace before meals. The polls showed that there has been a drop in the ratio; over half of those questioned had family grace when they were children.

* * * *

Only 5 per cent of London's population goes to church regularly, Lord Mayor Sir Bracewell Smith declared at the annual meeting of the London City Mission. The workers of this mission pay 800,000 visits to London homes each year.

* * * *

In the thirteen years since the repeal of prohibition this country has consumed more than 1,800,000,000 gallons of liquor, more than 1,000,000,000 gallons of wine and more than 21,700,000,000 gallons of beer. And all this has cost the consumer amost $60,000,000,000.

* * * *

The Japanese newspaper, Chugai Nippo, which is under Buddhist management and often hostile to Christianity, reports that the cross of Christ is replacing the golden images of Buddha in various temples of Hokkaido, Japan.—Gospel Messenger

* * * *

Six leading world government organizations in America met recently in Asheville, North Carolina, and consolidated into one organization seeking world government. Their new name is "United World Federalists." They say, "We believe that peace is not merely the absence of war but the presence of justice, law and order; in short of government. Therefore, we will work to strengthen the United Nations into a world government of limited powers adequate to prevent war."

RELIEF

MCC Work in Hungary Authorized

Permission has been granted for three workers to enter Hungary. Isaac Baer, who has been in France will be the director of this new work. Howard Blosser and Delmar Stahly are being transferred from Italy. About 100 tons of food and clothing are already en route. This now brings the number of countries in which MCC relief workers are located, to eighteen.

Relief Commissioner Returns from Europe

J. N. Byler, Director of MCC Relief, has returned from his five and one-half week trip through the various countries of Europe in which MCC relief units are located. He states that needs in central Europe, particularly the occupied areas, are greater than one can realize without actually seeing them. Needs for food, clothing and housing are acute. The past winter has been a particularly difficult one.

One of the most impressive aspects of relief in Europe is the child feeding work being carried on in several places. About 35,000 children in the British Zone of Germany and 24,000 children in the French Zone of Germany, are given one meal each day. This feeding has been organized in conjunction with the schools which the children attend.

Clothing needs seem to be particularly prevalent, because of one or more of three reasons: (1) clothing or cloth materials are not available at all, (2) rations are too short to supply the need, or (3) the price is so high that people of average income cannot purchase them. Men's work clothing and shoes are very scarce and are needed desperately at this season of the year.

Material Aid Shipments.

The following shipments of clothing, soap and food left port for Europe from March 16 to April 15:

Clothing, bedding and soap from United States:

1½ tons of soap and 13½ tons of clothing, bedding and shoes to Holland; 8 tons of clothing, bedding and shoes to the Mennonite Child Feeding Program, British Zone of Germany, and a similar shipment of 7¾ tons to Asuncion, Paraguay.

Food from Canada:

120 tons of flour to CRALOG, divided equally among the British, French and American Zones of Germany; 48½ tons of assorted foods to the Mennonite Child Feeding Program, British Zone of Germany; 35 tons meats and fats to the Mennonite Child Feeding Program in French Zone, Germany.

Food from United States:

60 tons of flour, 30 tons assorted foods and 40 tons of meat and broth to Austria; 30 tons of flour to Berlin Displaced Persons; 1½ tons of powdered milk to Poland; 42 tons flour to CRALOG, French Zone of Germany; 22½ tons baby food and 30 tons flour to CRALOG, American Zone of Germany; 38 tons flour and 30 tons assorted foods to CRALOG, British Zone of Germany; 30 tons flour and 4½ tons powdered milk to Mennonite Child Feeding Program, British Zone of Germany.

CPS Directory Available

The CPS Directory, which has been in process of preparation for some time, is now off the press and is available from the National Service Board for Religious Objectors, 941 Massachusetts Avenue, N. W., Washington 1, D. C., for fifty cents per copy. This 170-page directory lists alphabetically the names of all men who served in CPS, together with the address, age, affiliation, length of service and camps in which located.

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Miss Elisabeth Goertz spoke to students intending to give their lives in full time Christian service, in a meeting held Sunday evening, April 20. Rev. Harry Yoder is in Illinois working in the interest of the Building Fund. He is to speak in the North Danvers and Washington churches. The Heermann String Trio gave a concert on the College Music Series in Ramseyer Chapel Tuesday evening, April 29. Paola Comba, Italian student, has received a scholarship for study next year in the California Institute of Technology. The music department of the college sponsored the Northwest Ohio Music Association contest in Bluffton the week end of April 26. Contests were held in band, orchestra and choruses. Nearly two thousand contestants took part. Professor Klassen spent a week at a Y.M.C.A. youth conference near Minneapolis, Minnesota, demonstrating and giving instruction in wood carving to youth leaders. Professor Bauman's sociology classes visited a number of state institutions on Thursday, April 24.

BETHEL COLLEGE

Bethel College Loyalty Week is being observed from April 27 to May 2 in special chapel and evening services, with a general aim of studying and discovering new ways to help preserve, purify, and strengthen our Christian heritage. During Monday's chapel period Dr. P. J. Wedel spoke on "What Shall We Preserve?" and on Tuesday a panel of three faculty members and three students, with President Kaufman presiding, discussed "What Needs Purifying and Strengthening?" The Bethel College Goodwill Builders were guests at the Wednesday evening program, when the Apollo Boys Choir returned to Memorial Hall for a third concert of high musical merit. Loyalty Week will be climaxed on Friday evening by the sixteenth annual Booster program, planned as an expression of appreciation to friends who have contributed so generously to the school during the past year. The usual large audience is expected to respond to the invitations, hearing this year Dr. Raymond Schwegler, Dean Emeritus in the Department of Education at the University of Kansas, who will speak on "The Everlasting Hills." Preceding the musical program and lecture, the faculty and students will be hosts at a reception in the Memorial Hall basement.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE

Several rural schools have celebrated their school picnics on the campus. They came to see the Museum, Shop, and Home Economics Rooms. Last Sunday Jacob Friesen, Rein Mesdag, Harris Waltner Palmer Graber, LaVerne Waltner, and Leo Miller gave a program in the Bethel church at Mountain Lake, Minnesota. The College Chorus plans to make several short trips this spring. A Greyhound Bus has been chartered for them. The first trip takes them to Nebraska, where they will appear at Henderson Sunday evening May 4 and at Beatrice on Monday evening. The second trip is into Minnesota where they sing at the First Mennonite and Bethel churches at Mountain Lake on Sunday, May 11, and at Butterfield on Monday evening.

MENNONITE SEMINARY

In his Tuesday chapel address, Dr. Rufus Bowman, president of Bethany Seminary, made a plea for vital, thoroughgoing evangelism in the churches. He asserted that the sense of urgency and certainty in the tent revival meetings he attended in his youth are basic needs in winning men to Jesus Christ and His kingdom. Luke warm intellectual doubts, he stated, would not avail. He stated further that these days of grim fast action on the world front illustrate the tremendous need for churches with a vital program of evangelistic effort and work, Also, now there is an unusual opportunity, for the love of Christ avails for all ages and conditions.

Rev. Freeman Swartz of the Eden church Schwenksville, Pa., was a speaker and guest at the seminary over the week-end of April 19-21. At the vesper service Sunday afternoon he spoke. On Monday and Tuesday evenings he gave a brief review of his studies in philosophy. On Tuesday morning he spoke in the chapel service. The fellowship with him was pleasant and inspiring.

Jottings

—"The Little Foxes" has been chosen as the Bethel College Senior Class play to be presented Friday evening, May 9, in Memorial Hall. The play is a realistic drama portraying the evil effects which arise when individuals are motivated by materialistic desires and neglect the abiding spiritual values in life.

—Mr. B. Bargen, Manager of the Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kansas, left May 5 for Rosthern, Saskatchewan. Mr. Bargen, who expects to be gone about a week, is making the trip in the interest of the Board of Publication. In addition to other matters of business, Mr. Bargen will visit, while at Rosthern the General Conference Book Store recently opened by the Board of Publication and managed by John R. Dyck.

—The Mennonite Central Committee Relief Clothing Center located at 225 Main Street, Newton, will be open only five days a week—Monday through Friday from 8 A.M. to 5 P.M., beginning May 5.—Mrs. Selma Linscheid —Alexanderwohl Church, Goessel, Kansas: The Men's Chorus of the Walton Church brought us a message in song Sunday evening, April 20. The group is under the direction of Mr. Novalis Toews of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, a student in Bethel College. The group was accompanied by Mr. Alvin Woelk, who spoke briefly on "Mutual Blessings," and by Rev. Friesen their pastor, who led the worship service. Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Reimer and Walter Reimer have moved from this community to Lind, Washington. Three of our Junior C. E. members participated in the Tellament and Readament contests sponsored by the County Council of Christian Education on April 13. Junior Janzen rated first place in readament; Melvin Dean Schmidt and Orletta Nikkel were awarded first and third places respectively in the tellament contest. Milton, John and Eldon Reimer and Harold Wedel were the guest singers on Sunday night April 20 of the Calvary Tabernacle in Moundridge. These services are broadcast each Sunday over station KSAL of Salina.—Mrs. R. D. Voth, Corr.

MENNONITE COMMUNITY SOURCEBOOK

This is another valuable reference book written and published through the efforts of CPS men. As the name suggests, it is a source book containing a large amount of information on community life, Christian Life and Service, Peace and Mennonite Heritage, Family and Home, Agriculture and Vocations, Music, Crafts, Recreation, and Methods of Education. The book was designed and written for the purpose of making available to leaders in Mennonite churches and communities, the information and techniques found useful in directing the educational, religious and social life in CPS camps. This is available from the Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania, for 50c per copy.

—Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon:—Rev. and Mrs. Clyde Dirks were honored April 20 when a special program was given to celebrate their fifteenth wedding anniversary. Refreshments were served after the program. Rev. Clyde Dirks plans to leave April 23 for Delft, Minnesota, to hold some meetings. After that he expects to go to the Mayo Clinic for a check-up. Our attendance has been excellent eighty to ninety every Sunday. Easter Sunday there were 137, and the seating capacity was indeed taxed to the utmost.—Mrs. Homer Welty, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: On April 11, Rev. Waldo Kauffman, and Val. C. Krehbiel, attended the Church Workers Conference at Enid.—Wilfred Ewy, Corr.

—Bethel College Church: The canvass for the new church building, on the afternoon of May 11, will be made by fifteen or twenty teams who will go from home to home. Our minimum goal is $50,000 for the anniversary next October. The church council appointed Eldon Graber to assist Mrs. J. J. Siemens in the superintendency of the Sunday School, filling the vacancy caused by the death of A. J. Regier.

—Deep Run Church, (Pa.) A sunrise service was held Easter morning, Rev. Wesley Ewert of the First Church, Philadelphia, brought an inspiring message. Henry Detwiler of Souderton showed pictures of relief work of Egypt, Italy and Holland. Several of our young people are planning to do Voluntary Service

Check your calendar now for WESTERN DISTRICT RETREATS:

June 6, 7, and 8—Peace Committee Retreat for Adults
June 6, 7 and 8—Conference for Recreation Leaders
June 8 to 12—Intermediate Retreat
June 8 to 12—Leadership Training Institute
July 21 to 27—Young People's Retreat

All these retreats will be held at the Church of God Camp near Wichita, Kansas.

during their summer vacations. The Women's Missionary Society discussed the topic of "Africa" at their last meeting. A beautiful plant was placed on the altar Sunday morning in loving memory of Rev. Allen M. Fretz. It was given by his children. It was just four years ago that he passed from this life.—Mae Gross, Corr.

—First Church, Sugarcreek, Ohio: On Sunday, April 27, we had as our guest Dr. Carl Kreider, Dean and Professor of Social Science at Goshen College. Dr. Kreider preached the morning sermon, and in the evening service he spoke in our public forum on the topic: "Our International Trade Policy." Our Sunday School prepared and filled fourteen school kits to be sent to the children of Europe.—Wiley McDowell —Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas: Rev. Albert Gaeddert, our pastor, and Dr. H. S. Bender recently went to Washington, D. C. to be present at a hearing held by the President's Advisory Commission on Universal Training. Rev. Gaeddert gave us an interesting report on his trip. On April 13 Rev. Walter Gering showed us pictures and told us of his work among the displaced Mennonites now living in large camps in Denmark. On April 11 the mission societies from the Bethel, Inman, and Hoffnungsau churches met in our church to hear Miss Elisabeth Goertz, missionary. The Bethel group shared with us their visitors, the Missionary J. R. Duerksens. A social with refreshments concluded the program.—Mrs. Elmer Voth, Corr.

—Johannestal Church: Hillsboro, Kansas: Prof. I. G. Neufeld will be with us May 4. We again plan on having "Consecration of Children" on Mother's Day. Eight babies have made their appearance since last Mother's Day. Missionary J. R. Duerksens have consented to be with us. —Mrs. Arnold A. Plenert, Corr.

—Mount Olivet Church, Huron, South Dakota: We enjoyed the ministry of Rev. J. J. Regier of Freeman on April 20. Holy Communion was observed in the morning service. In the afternoon our pastor was ordained as Elder. Rev. Regier performed the ordination. Other ministers who participated in the service were: Rev. Frank Loewen, Emmanuel Church; Rev. Joe Hofer, Hofer Church, and Rev. J. W. Kleinsasser. We have a Junior choir of sixteen voices. The Hofer Church (twenty-two miles northeast) will bring a C. E. program on May 18. Mother's Day will be observed May 11 by the children bringing a program in honor of their mothers at the evening service.—Corr.

—Brudertal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: Our church has again started a four-weeks term of vacation Bible school with Miss Viola Ewert and Miss Eunice Schmidt as teachers. I wish to correct a mistake made in mentioning the topic of the Easter Sermon our Minister preached. It should have read "Christ Risen in Us", Phil. 3:10, and II Cor. 5:17 instead of on "Caiphas" which sermon was given on March 23, The choir, under direction of Miss Elizabeth Nickel, is furnishing the special music for our worship service on Sundays.—Katherine E. Nickel, Corr.

—Bethel Church, Inman, Kansas: Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz of McPherson spoke to the ladies and girls in various phases of the Women's Missionary Society Activities at a joint meeting of the ladies of the Inman Mennonite Church and the Bethel Church on April 1, at 7:30. A supper was enjoyed after the program. At Easter a large choir gave the cantata, "The Resurrection Song." After Easter Rev. J. R. Duerksen preached five evenings and conducted Bible study during the day. Our newly organized men's chorus made its first public appearance on April 20.—A. B. Neufeld, Corr.

—First Church, Colfax, Washington: Miss Bertha Fast, M.C.C. relief worker, was with us April 20, 21. She told us of her work with refugees in Italy and Egypt and showed some excellent slides. Monday afternoon she explained to the Women's Missionary Society the critical needs for relief. An offering was taken for relief after the meeting Monday night. Rev. P. D. Unruh, who is calvalescing was able to be out both Sunday and Monday evenings to enjoy with us Miss Fast's interesting report of her trips to Switzerland and Palestine.—Mrs. Horace D. Rogers, Corr.

—First Church, Upland, California: Recently a special vesper service was held in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Alfred Wiebe who have now left for Canton, Oklahoma. where they are doing mission work among the Southern Cheyenne Indians. Their work is under the sponsorship and direction of the Foreign Mission Board of the General Conference.—Mrs. Herman Rempel. Corr.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: On April 13 Miss Laurine Voelker told us of her mission work among the Jews of Los Angeles and other places. April 20 we had baptismal services. Seven were baptized in the morning, and seven were immersed in the Christian Church at 1 P. M. Rosella Hiebert is back home from the P. B. I. in Canada. She plans to teach Bible school during the summer months.— Mrs. Dave Balzer, Corr.

—North Star Church, Drake, Saskatchewan: During March our Sunday school and some individual families sent 103 school bags to children overseas. A new sewing society, consisting of the ladies between twenty and forty, has been organized. The society's aim is to contribute to Conference mission and relief projects in general. Our Sunday school offering on Christmas eve enabled us to send twenty C.A.R.E. packages to displaced people in Europe, who have no relatives in

I thank thee Lord for gracious days,
For quietness, for rest.
I praise thee that through all my days
Thy will for me is best.
That come what may my heart can know
My life in thee is blest.
—Mrs. E. O. Albrecht

Canada. Letters of appreciation have been received from these people. On April 20 Mr. Henry W. Friesen of Rosthern was with us to report on the young people's work in our province. He also told us of the work of the Y. P. U., the Montana mission field, and showed slides of the Youth Farm at Rosthern.—P. Schroeder, Corr.

—Newton, Kansas: Rev. Ronald von Riesen, Executive Secretary of the Board of Education, left on April 30 to attend the Eastern District Conference May 1-4. After the conference he was to attend a meeting of the Ministers' Retreat Committee and visit Camp Shipshewana, where the Ministers' Retreat is to be held this coming August. He planned to return to Newton on May 7.

—The Brotherhood of the Eastern District Conference has helped to make possible several hundred feet of Kodachrome movie film, 16mm, on the Mennonites of South America. The Brotherhood voted $100 towards the cost of the necessary film, etc. When Rev. J. J. Plenert went to South America for the M.C.C. he used the film for pictures of South American Mennonites. Rev. Plenert has now returned, and as soon as the film is developed it will be available for use in churches. The Brotherhood has already raised $4,700 for expansion of the Home for the aged at Frederick, Pa.

—The Lorraine Avenue Church, Wichita, which is building a new house of worship, had not incurred any debts on the new building by March 1. Construction costs to that date were $21,059.21, and a cash balance of $2,824.14 remained. Pledges and other assets amounted to $6,105.94. Easter Sunday and the following two weeks were set aside as a special period of consecration for members and friends of the church. During that time a program of personal visitation was carried out. The rise in building costs has been very noticeable, and further funds are necessary for the completion of the structure.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., During the absence of our pastor the pulpit was supplied on the morning of April 20 by Mr. Ervin Souder recently returned from South America. He told of the history and problems of the displaced Mennonites who recently arrived there and the work being done for them by the Mennonite Central Committee. Our special Easter offering for this project amounted to $232.00. The conditions, relief needs, and tractor projects carried on in China were presented to us by colored slides on Saturday evening, April 19, by Mr. Clayton Byler, former M.C.C. China Relief director. He also brought the message in the evening, April 20. Dr. J. E. Hartzler occupied our pulpit on April 27 and Rev. A. H. Shultz supplied the morning of May 4.—Mrs. H. S. Weiss, Corr.

—First Church, Madrid, Nebraska: Rev. J. R. Barkman and five children of the Grace Children's Home, Henderson, Nebraska, gave us a fine, spiritual program on April 27. In the evening the ladies of the church presented The Mite Box Program. The money is to be used for the missionary retirement fund. The offering amounted to $45.50. The members are enlarging the parsonage and building in a bathroom. Rev. J. G. Unruh, wife, and daughters were at Colby, Kansas, from April 8 to 13, for a week of special meetings. On Sunday, April 13, six of the Madrid young people went to Colby to be present for the closing service and also to bring several special numbers.—Corr.

Mrs. Henry Ensz
710 East Fourth Stre
Newton
Kansas

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance. $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

—Married: Elizabeth Anne Horsch, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. L. J. Horsch of Upland, California, and Mr. Howard W. Lees, Jr., of Pittsburg, Pa. on April 19.

—First Church, Reedley, California: A number of the Senior C.E. presented a program at the Mission church in Orange Cove last night. Another "Sing" is being planned for May 16.—Corr.

—Salem Zion Church, Marion, South Dakota: At an evening meeting on April 6 a group of co-workers with Rev. E. H. Mueller, director of the Union Gospel Mission of Sioux Falls, gave us an interesting program explaining their work. Our congregation was represented by our Junior and Mixed Choirs at the Music Day program of the churches at the Freeman College auditorium on Easter Monday morning. Our pastor Rev. J. J. Regier attended ordination services at the Mount Olivet church at Huron, South Dakota on April 20. In his absence Rev. M. A. Kroeker brought an inspiring message in the German language. Rev. S. T. Moyer spoke on "Christian Education," and the Freeman College quartet sang several numbers at our Sunday morning worship service on April 27.—Mrs. J. J. Saner, Corr.

—Tabor Church, Newton, Kansas: We had a church business meeting to elect a deacon who will be ordained before Pentecost when we will have baptismal services. Brother Neufeld of the Oklahoma Bible Academy was our guest on April 20. Mr. and Mrs. Jacob S. Unruh celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary in the April 15.—D. S. Thiesen, Corr.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — May 13, 1947 — Number 19

Index to The Mennonite for Year 1946

EXPLANATORY NOTE

This index is a single, composite index in which all authors, titles, and subjects of articles which appeared in THE MENNONITE during the year 1946 are arranged in one continuous, alphabetical series. Reference at the end of each item is to the issue number and the page in that issue. For example, the entry:

Addington, Marion H. "Incantation" (poem), 27-9.

indicates that this poem will be found in issue number 27, on page 9. The dates of the issues which appeared in the year 1946 are given in the list of issue numbers herewith.

Issue No.	Dated	Issue No.	Dated
1	January 1	27	July 9
2	January 8	28	July 16
3	January 15	29	July 23
4	January 22	30	July 30
5	January 29	31	August 6
6	February 5	32	August 13
7	February 12	33	August 20
8	February 19	34	August 27
9	February 26	35	September 3
10	March 5	36	September 10
11	March 12	37	September 17
12	March 19	38	September 24
13	March 26	39	October 1
14	April 2	40	October 8
15	April 9	41	October 15
16	April 16	42	October 22
17	April 23	43	October 29
18	April 30	44	November 5
19	May 7	45	November 12
20	May 14	46	November 19
21	May 21	47	November 26
22	May 28	48	December 3
23	June 4	49	December 10
24	June 11	50	December 17
25	June 18	51	December 31
26	June 25

(No issues during the week of July 4 and Christmas)

Names of individuals are mentioned only, as a general rule, where such individuals were authors of some article. Each article was cross-indexed by approximately two subject references. The only items appearing in the section "Jottings" which were indexed were the names of churches and the names of Conference institutions.

This is the first attempt of the General Conference Board of Publication to present to our readers and to research students in general a complete index of any year of THE MENNONITE. It is, of course, not to be expected that a work of this nature is perfect. Without question there will be oversights and some errors. Despite that, this index is presented to our people in the hope that it may lead towards greater unity of understanding, to a hunger for information, and to a joy in the search for truth. We think that this index should be of use to pastors in the preparation of their sermons; to young people's workers in the preparation of programs; to women's missionary societies in the preparation of their studies, reports, and programs; to students in colleges and seminaries in their study of Mennonite culture, Mennonite ideals, Mennonite theology; and, in fact, to all who at one time or another would like to reread something that they enjoyed but who have forgotten where they read it.

The work of indexing was done as a voluntary contribution by the following persons to whom our thanks and lasting gratitude are due; J. P. Baehr, Mrs. J. P. Baehr, Mrs. Gerhard Friesen, Mrs. Loris Habegger, Mrs. Eva Harshbarger, Mrs. Lester Hostetler, Mrs. P. S. Goertz, Mrs. Eldon Graber, Mrs. Pete Kaufman, Mrs. Jake Lingenfelder, Mrs. Harry E. Martens, Mrs. J. F. Moyer, Mrs. J. E. Linscheid, Mrs. Willis Rich, Marjorie Ruth, Mrs. Dave Suderman, Mrs. J. J. Siemens, Mrs. L. C. Kreider, Mrs. Robert Tully, Mrs. Cornelius Krahn, Mrs. R. C. Kauffman, Mrs. Vilas Gerber, Vilas Gerber, Reynold Weinbrenner, Leona Krehbiel.

Respectfully submitted,

The Mennonite Publication Office

Price, 50 cents, if purchased separately.

A

"A Chance to Get Together," 47-2.
"A Note About Dr. E. C. Krehbiel," 47-8.
"A Real Thanksgiving," 47-2.
"A Three-day Jeep Tour," Helen E. Nickel, 47-4.
Aberdeen, Idaho, First Mennonite Church, 50-14.
"Aberdeen Young People Have Three-day Retreat," 37-11.
"Accepting Ourselves," Paul Albrecht, 32-1.
Achievements, Onward (Magazine), Playing Safe with Life," 22-10.
Addington, Marian H., "Incantation" (poem), 27-9.
Adjustment, Eva Harshbarger, "The Valley of Weeping," 21-3.
Adoption system, "Clippings of Events," 5-12.
Adrian, Walter, "Overcoming Prejudices," 24-8.
"Advent," 47-2.
Adversity, Thomas A. Kempis, "On the Uses of Adversity," 14-10.
Africa, C. I. M. Nyanga, "Foreign Missions, 22-7.
Africa, trip to, Elmer Dick, "Elmer Dick's Describe Trip to Africa," 32-6.
Agriculture, J. C. Schmidt, Isaac Epp, Henry Friesen, "Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 23-9.
"(The) Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern:"
  Isaac Epp, 22-9.
  Henry Friesen, 22-9.
  J. C. Schmidt, 22-9.
"Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," J. C. Schmidt, Isaac Epp, Henry Friesen, 23-9.
Alaska, 'Mennonites to Alaska?" 1-16.
Alberta Community Church, Portland, Oregon, 15-15, 22-16.
  "Alberta Division," 19-11.
Albrecht, Paul:
  "Accepting Ourselves," 32-1.
  "Facing Our Feelings of Guilt," 25-1.
  "Handling Resentments," 36-3.
  "On Sequoia Trails," 9-6.
Alcohol, attitude toward, editorial, 42-2.
"Alcoholics Anonymous,' editorial, 42-2.
Alcholics Anonymous, R. C. Kauffman, "Alcoholism and Its Cure," 42-3
Alcoholism, R. C. Kauffman, "Alcoholism and Its Cure," 42-3.
"Alcoholism and Its Cure," R. C. Kauffman, 42-3.
Alexanderwohl Mennonite Church, Goessel, Kansas, 3-16, 9-16, 13-15, 18-8, 35-15, 35-16, 42-16, 46-14.
All-India Radio, editorial, 37-2.
"All Life Is God's," Marie Medora, 40-10.
"All One Body We?" Roland Bartel, 43-3.
"All Treasurers Notice," 13-16.
Allee, Marjorie Hill, "Smoke Jumper," A Novel for Young People, 6-12.
Allison, Bunt Dan, "A War-lord's Prayer," (poem), 23-2.
Alsatian Mennonites, Cornelius Krahn, "Mennonites the World Over," 41-6.
Ambition Onward (Magazine), 'Is Ambition Dangerous?" 23-10.
"America First," G. Ashton Oldham, 26-7.
America in wartime, Herbert E. Dester, "First Impressions of America," 26-4.
(The) American Friend, "Comment on Communism," 34-4.
American Lutheran, "It Pays," 42-5.
Amish, "An Amish Brush Marine," 6-10.
Amstutz, Adam, obituary, 2-6.
"An Alphabetical Prayer," 8-10.
"An Appeal for the Family Altar and Bible Reading," C. C. Wedel, 48-5.
Anderson, William K., "It Is August—1965," 34-7.
Andreas, W. C., "Salvaged Church Records," 9-15.
Andres, Joanna S., "Lenten Meditation" (poem), 13-1.
  "So shall I Enter" (poem), 51-1.
"And Teaching Them," editorial, 35-1.
"Announcing the Opening of the Mennonite Book Store, Newton, Kansas," J. M. Suderman, 41-7.
"(The) Annual Bethel College Bible Week," Henry A. Fast, 51-15.
Anxiety, editorial, 10-2.
Apostolic Church, Henderson, Nebraska, 26-15.
Apostolic Mennonite Church, Trenton, Ohio, 5-15, 9-14, 19-15, 40-15.
"(The) Appalachian Trail," Skyliner, August, 1945, 14-11.
Arapohoe Indian Church, Canton, Oklahoma, 23-15.
Arbitration, "The Christ of the Andes," 44-1.
Archives, "C. P. S.," 24-13.
"Are You Opposed to the Extension of the Draft?" 15-13.
Arizona, "Oraibi Mission, 41-15.
Arlington Mennonite Church, Arlington, Kansas, 18-15, 27-15, 40-14, 45-13, 51-15.
"Art and the Child," Lena Waltner, 25-6.
Art capacities editorial, 25-2.
Ascension Day, editorial, 21-2.
"Aspects of Nurses Training," Bethel Deaconess School of Nursing (Students), 21-9.
(The) Atom, Leonard C. Kreider, "God's Smallest Creation," 26-1.
Atomic Bomb, editorial, 14-2.
  "Youth Events," 14-12.
Attendants on cattle boats, 7-12.
Attitudes:
  Henry A. Fast, "A Christian's Attitude towards Russia," 24-7.
  Mrs. Willis E. Rich, "God's Orchestra," 23-1.
"(The) Attitude Towards Alcohol," editorial, 42-2.
  "Autumn," 42-11.

B

Bachman, Ernest, 47-14.
Baehr, J. P.:
  "What Can I Do about Potsdam?" 5-7.
  "The Reader Says:" 48-13.
Baer, Fern, "A Nurse's Prayer," 21-11.
Baergen, Mrs. John, obituary, 40-7.
Balzer, J. J., obituary, 14-4.
Baptism, Africa, Henry A. Toews, "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
Bargen, B.:
  "Life's Supreme Purpose," 17-3.
  "Towards Unity," 42-4.
  "What It Means to Love," 45-3.
Bartel, Arnold E., "Mission Work in an Idaho Mexican Labor Camp," 20-11.
Bartel, Roland, "All One Body We?" 43-3.
Basinger, Elma, obituary, 30-14.
Basinger, Elmer, "New Year's Message," 51-3.
Basinger, Joyce, "Lake of the Ozarks Retreat," 61-12.
Bauman, Harvey, "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
Baumgartner, Paul, obituary, 1-14.
Beatrice Mennonite Church, 4-14, 10-16, 18-15, 24-15, 35-16, 40-15.
"Beauty Forever," Arthur Quiterman, 20-11.
Becker, Elizabeth (Schultz), obituary, 24-14.
Becker, Mary:
  "Need to Evaluate Anew the Youth Program in the Churches," 8-9.
  "Quote," 9-7.
  "Social Life and Service of Young People in the Western District," 7-9.
  "A Survey of the Youth Program in Mennonite Churches," 5-9.
  "Why I Wouldn't Want to Be a Missionary," 49-9.
  "Worship and Study in the Church," 6-9.
Beechy, Atlee:
  "C. P. C." 23-13.
  "Gave Over Million Dollars Worth for Relief," 19-4.
  "Plans for the 1946 Food for Relief Program," 20-5.
Beethoven, Ludwig Van, "Ludwig Van Beethoven," 38-10.
"Beginning Voluntary Service Program," Elmer Ediger, 32-9.
Bengal, "Rehabilitation in Bengal," 6-13.
Bereavement, Eva Harshbarger, "The Valley of Weeping," 21-3.
Bergtal Mennonite Church, Pawnee Rock, Kansas, 13-15, 15-15, 17-15, 19-16, 24-15, 25-15, 37-16, 38-16, 44-15, 47-15.
Bessie, Oklahoma, 20-16.
Bethany Mennonite Church, Freeman, South Dakota, 14-15, 23-15, 30-16, 45-13.
Bethany Mennonite Church, Kingman, Kansas, 8-5, 46-14.
Bethany Mennonite Church, Quakertown, Pennsylyania, 8-6, 8-15, 10-15, 13-16, 17-15, 42-15, 44-12, 47-14.
Bethel Deaconess Home and Hospital, 6-16, 19-15.
Bethel Deaconess School of Nursing Students, "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-9.
Bethel Mennonite Church, Fortuna, Missouri, 5-14, 8-15, 10-14, 15-14, 19-16, 26-16, 33-15, 38-15, 44-12, 47-15, 49-14.
Bethel Mennonite Church, Henderson, Nebraska, 2-16.
Bethel Mennonite Church, Hydro, Oklahoma, 4-15.
Bethel Mennonite Church, Inman, Kansas, 9-14, 13-15, 17-16, 23-15, 34-15, 41-15, 45-13.
Bethel Mennonite Church, Lustre, Montana, 22-16, 35-15, 43-15.
Bethel Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota, 2-15, 2-16, 5-16, 7-15, 18-15, 24-16, 31-15, 38-16, 51-15, 44-13.
Bethel Mennonite Church, Waka, Texas, 46-15.
Bethel Mennonite Church Winton, California, 4-15, 23-15, 42-15, 48-15.
Bethel College, 1-14, 2-14, 3-14, 4-13, 5-14, 6-14, 10-14, 13-14, 14-14, 15-14, 16-14, 17-14, 18-14, 19-4, 20-14, 21-14, 21-16, 22-14, 23-14, 23-14, 36-14, 37-15, 38-13, 40-7, 41-14, 43-15, 44-8, 46-13, 47-6, 48-14, 51-14.
  Corporation, 46-15.
  Mennonite Church, 4-14, 5-16, 8-5, 14-15, 16-16, 18-8, 19-15, 21-16, 27-16, 31-15, 38-16, 40-15, 41-16, 42-15, 44-15, 47-13, 47-15, 48-15.
  Parent-Student, Founders' Day, 42-14.
Bethel Mennite Mission, Winnipeg, Manitoba, 10-16.
  Friesen, I. I., "Report on Bethel Mission." 26-7.
Bethesda Mennonite Church, Henderson, Nebraska, 9-15, 20-15, 26-15, 42-15, 44-13, 45-15, 49-15.
Bethesda Mennonite Church, Marion, South Dakota, 18-16.
Bethelehem Mennonite Church, Bloomfield, Montana, 4-15, 8-15, 37-16, 42-15.
Bible, "Clippings of Events," 5-12.
Bible chapters, "Ten Favorite Bible Chapters," 6-13.
Bible School, A. S. Rosenberger, "Our Mennonite Biblical Seminary and Bible School," 20-3.
Bible School, Canada, "Young People's Union Council Meeting," 10-9.
"Bible Study," 48-2.
"Bible Study That Satisfies," Jacob J. Enz, 48-9.
"Bibles in Japan,"The Presbyterian, 50-12.
"(The) Biblical Seminary and Bible School," 17-14.
  A Warkentin, 31-14.
Binder, Grace, "Report of the Eastern District C. E. Convention," 27-10.
"(A) Biography of an Outstanding Mennonite Leader," review, Der Bote, 21-6.
"The Blank Paper," The Churchman, (magazine), 24-7.
"Blankets for Europe," editorial, 7-1.
"Blankets Urgently Needed," 5-15, 6-5.
Bluffton College, 1-14, 2-14, 3-14, 4-13, 6-14, 9-14, 10-14, 13-14. 14-14, 15-14, 16-14, 17-14, 18-14, 20-14, 21-14, 21-15, 22-14, 23-14, 36-14, 38-14, 41-14, 43-15, 44-8, 45-7, 46-13, 47-6, 48-14, 49-8, 51-14.
  Ministers Conference, 42-7.
  "Third Christian Worker's Institute Met at Bluffton, Ohio," 27-6.
  Vesper speakers, 42-14.
  Women's missionary program for conference, 42-8.
"Bluffton College Bible Lectures, November 17-22," 42-7.
Board of Education:
  "C. P. S. Rehabilitation Fund," 15-7.
  "One Generation," 10-5.
"Board Meeting in Newton, Kansas," 37-12.
Board of Mutual Aid, "Help Needed to Rehabilitate Mennonite War Refugees," 50-13.

"Board of Publication Meets," J. M. Suderman, 30-3.
"Board to Have Executive Secretary," 5-5.
Boehr, Melvin, "Work with Migrants in Arkansas," 35-11.
Boese, Minnie, obituary, 10-13.
Bogota, Colombia, Gerald Stucky, "For Christ and His Church in Colombia," 23-7.
Bohn, Ernest J., "Christianizing Christmas," 50-6.
Bolar, Edith Dunn, "Growth," (poem), 43-12.
Bonar, Horatius, "Choose Thou for Me," (poem), 5-12.
Bonnell, Dr. John Sutherland, "How to Deal with Your Doubts," 24-5.
"(The) Book Review," Lester Hostetler, 18-6.
"Book Review," In the Steps of St. Francis, by Ernest Raymond, reviewed by Magdalen Friesen, 9-10.
Books for children, "Items of Interest," 46-12.
  Children's Books for Church Libraries," 2-7.
"Books for South America," 41-15.
Bowen, Joann, "Reminiscences of a Last Year's Retreater," 26-10.
Bowman, Harry, "Youth Activity of the Church of the Brethren," 47-9.
Boynton Mennonite Church, Hopedale, Illinois, 18-16.
Brazil, Cornelius Krahn, "Mennonites from Brazil," 6-6.
Bremen, Paul D. Miller, "We Were Shocked When We Saw Bremen," 19-7.
Brethren Service Committee, 21-15.
Britain and the United States, "Youth Events," 15-12.
"British Columbia Division," 19-10.
British Friends ambulance unit, "Youth Events," 23-12.
(The) British Weekly, "A Defender of the Inform Passes," 32-11.
Brotherhood of the Eastern District Conference, 13-5.
Brown, Missionary, "Canadian Itinerary of Missionary Brown," 25-3.
Brudertal Mennonite Church, Hillsboro, Kansas, 1-15, 9-16, 19-15, 35-15, 40-15, 42-16, 47-14.
Buhler Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas, 3-15, 7-15, 26-16, 32-16, 38-14.
Builder's Unit, "Relief," 16-13.
Building program, Lester Hostetler, "Building the Church," 5-3.
"Building World Security," 47-13.
Burden, Youth's Christian Companion, "Relief Responsibility," 23-11.
Buried alive, Cornelius Krahn, "Mennonites the World Over," 6-6.
Burkhalter, Martha, 48-14.
  "Miss Martha Burkhalter's Farewell Letter," 37-13.
Burkholder, H. D., "What Is Sin?" (symposium), 41-3.
Burlap, Joshua, "Tempers," 27-11.
Burns, Kans, 26-15.
Burrton Mennonite Church, Burrton, Kansas, 26-15, 44-14.
Burry, Albert A., and Hilty, Albert B., "In Memoriam," 5-13.
Bus trip, Christian Youth Fellowship, "Items of Interest," 43-12.
"But I Don't Know the Way," Thiessen, John, 20-7.
Butterfield Mennonite Church, Butterfield, Minnesota, 42-16, 46-14, 48-15.

C

"Caesar and God," 45-11.
"(The) California Y. P. U.," Vernon Neufeld, 4-12.
Call of God, Joanna S. Andres, "Lenten Meditation," 13-1.
Calvary, W. F. Unruh, "The Gethsemane Calvary Way of Dealing with Evil," 14-3.
"Calvary and Easter," author unknown, 16-10.
Calvary Mennonite Church, Barlow, Oregon, 18-8, 19-16.
Campsite:
  "Of Interest to Youth," 6-12.
  "On Selecting a Campsite," Ronald von Riesen, 41-9.
"Can Our Funerals Please God?" J. H. Langenwalter, 41-5.
Canada:
  Cornelius Krahn, "A Mennonite Paradise in Canada," 6-6.
  "Youth Organziations in Canada," 19-9.
Canadian conference, "Report on Recent Session," 41-6.
Canadian visitation, "Home Missions," 22-8.
Canadian young people projects, "Young People's Union Council Meeting," 10-9.
"Capital Punishment," editorial, 42-2.
C. A. R. E., 27-13, 33-13.
  "C. A. R. E. Now in Operation," (relief), 18-13.
  "Membership in C. A. R. E.," 6-13.
  "Mennonites the World Over," Cornelius Krahn, 22-6.
  "Mennonites the World Over," Cornelius Krahn, (packages), 41-6.
"(The) Care of Mental Illness in the Community," 9-10.
Carlock Mennonite Church, Illinois, 18-16.
Carter, Ruth, "Petition," (poem), 10-12.
Carver, George Washington, "A Great Man," 6-1-.
Cattle to Europe, "Items of Interest," 44-10.
Cattle boats, "Youth Events," 17-12.
Cattleboat units, "C. P. S.," 15-13.
"Central and Middle District Retreat at Camp Mack," Robert Hartzler, 26-10.
"Central Conference Notes," 18-16, 23-15.
Central Conference, "(A) Short History of the Central Conference, by Raymond L. Hartzler, 17-5.
Chaco, A. M. Lohrentz, "'Headwork' in the Rough, Beautiful Chaco," 10-3.
Champa hospital, "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
"(A) Chance to Serve," 10-10.
Chaplains of Protestant hospitals, (announcement of organization), 41-6.
Chase, Stuart, "For This We Fought" (quotations), 45-2.
Cheserton-Mangle, Dr. Maenna, "No Room for Hate," 37-17.
Chicago Mennonite Bible Mission, Willard A. Wiebe, "A Glance at City Missions," 37-7.
Child feeding, "Relief," 27-14.
Child guidance, "How Shall These Feet Be Guided?" 18-1.
Child training, Mrs. Willis Rich, "Saying, Feeling, and Doing," 46-1.
Childhood experiences, editorial, 23-2.
"Children May Send Goodwill Christmas Bundles," Marcille Steiner, 42-7.
"Children's Books for Church Libraries," 2-7.
Children's home, J. C. Schmidt, Isaac Epp, Henry Friesen, "Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 22-9, 23-9.
China:
  "Internment in Weihsien," Marie J. Regier, 37-1.
  "Items of Interest," 43-12.
  "Relief," 21-13, 22-13, 23-13, 24-13, 44-11.
  "Revival at Kai Chow," Mrs. James Liu, 24-3.
Choir, William H. Regier, "Responsibilities of a Choir Member," 4-3.
"Choose Thou for Me," (poem), Horatius Bonar, 5-12.
"Choosing a Retreat Ground," Harry Yoder, 42-10.
Christ, Erland Waltner, "They Hated Him," 13-3.
"Christ—Christians—Christmas," 50-1-.
"(The) Christ of the Andes," 44-1.
Christian Advocate, "It Is August—1965," 34-7.
"(The) Christian and His Bible," Lester Hostetler, 48-3.
"(The) Christian Ashram and the Kingdom of God," Lester Hostetler, 35-7.
"(A) Christian Attitude Towards Russia," Henry A. Fast, 24-7.
Christian Century (magazine), "Youth Events," 23-12.
"(The) Christian Church in Japan," 43-14.
Christian Doctrine (magazine), "Reading the Bible Thoughtfully," 50-10.
Christian education:
  Editorial, 33-2.
  "Freedom from What?" Ronald von Riesen, 33-1.
  "Happy Is the Man That Getteth Understanding," 33-3.
  "Teacher Training in Your Church," 33-4.
  "Vacation Bible School, 1946" Western District Vacation Bible School Staff, 8-5.
Christian endeavor:
  "C. E. Plants 'Lord's Acre'," 18-11.
  "C. E. Programs," editorial, 5-2.
  Convension, Western Ditsrict, 33-12.
  "Items of Interest," 43-12.
  Organization, "We Need to Get Together," 3-11.
  C. E. Witness, 33-12.
  "Worship and Study in the Church," Mary Becker, 6-10.
Christian home, editorial, 18-2.
  "(The) Christian Layman and Church Unity," Gordon M. Liechty, 27-3.
Christian ministry, "Farming for God," 21-1.
Christian Phlicht, 31-12.
Christian service, Barbara Cornet Ryberg, "My Task," 43-14.
"Christian, Show Your Light," Ruth B. Statler, 27-9.
Christian teacher, Erland Waltner, 33-4.
Christian unity, editorial, 51-2.
Christian way of life, "A Tragedy and Denial of Faith," 43-13.
Christian Witness, "Farming for God," 21-1.
Christian Workers' Institute: 13-12, 22-6.
  "Leaders of Christian Workers' Institute," 20-11.
  "Plan Third Annual Christian Workers' Institute," 17-12.
  "Program of Christian Workers' Institute," 18-10.
  "Purpose of Christian Workers' Institute," 19-12.
  "Third Christian Workers' Institute Met At Bluffton, Ohio, 27-6.
Christian Youth Fellowship, "Items of Interest," 43-12.
Christianty, "How Christian Are We?" 19-2.
"Christianizing Christmas," Ernest J. Bohn, 50-6.
Christmas party, Mennonite Youth, 50-10.
Christmas (gift packages), Cornelius Krahn, "Mennonites the World Over," 45-6.
"Christmas Preparations," J. N. Smucker, 50-3.
Church and Mennonite Youth, Mary Becker, "Need to Evaluate Anew the Youth Program in the Churches," 8-9.
"(The) Church and Returning Conscientious Objectors":
  Book Review, 18-6.
  Epp, Aaron, 15-8.
Church and young people, Helen Louise Penner, "What Young People Expect of the Church," 7-11.
Church building—India, Hilda and Herbert E. Dester, "Wide, Wide As the Ocean," 21-7.
Church canvass, editorial, "The United Church Canvass," 6-2.
Church, Fred W., "Upon Hearing a Night-Rain," (poem), 61-12.
Church growth—India, Hilda and Herbert E. Dester, "Wide, Wide As the Ocean," 21-7.
Church influence, Menno H. Kliewer, "The Story of a Small Country Church," 21-5.
Church Libraries, 25-11.
Church of the Brethren, 18-3.
Church papers, "Fifty Churches Use 100 Per Cent Plan," 3-7.
Church, Peggy, Pond, "Ultimatum for Man," 32-12.
Church unity:
  "All One Body We?" Roland Bartel, 43-3.
  "(The) Christian Layman and Church Unity," Gordon M. Liechty, 27-3.
  Editorial, 51-2.
(The) Churchman (magazine), "The Blank Paper," 24-7.

Churches, "Jottings," See name of church, 19-14.
"(The) Church's Attitude toward Organized Labor," Winfield Fretz, 25-5.
"(The) Church's Opportunity in the World of Today," Middle District Conference, 20-6.
"C. I. M. Board to Send Representative to the Field," 6-8.
C. P. S.: 4-13, 7-13, 8-13.
  "C. P. S.," 2-5, 5-13, 6-13, 9-13, 10-13, 13-13, 15-13, 17-13, 16-13, 20-13, 19-13, 21-13, 22-13, 24-13, 25-13, 27-14, 37-13, 42-13, 43-13.
  "A Jaundiced 'Guinea Pig'," Wallace Fisher, 9-9.
  Beechy, Atlee, 23-13.
  "C. P. S. and Church Libraries," 25-11.
  "C. P. S. At a New Low," 48-11.
  "C. P. S. Briefs," 18-13.
  "C. P. S. Men and Creative Relationship," Harold Gross, 4-5.
  "C. P. S. Men in Puerto Rico," editorial, 6-2.
  "C. P. S., Population Less," 5-13.
  "C. P. S. Rehabilitation Fund," Board of Education, 15-7.
  "C. P. S. Contributions to Relief," 5-8.
  "C. P. S. Men and Creative Relations Conference, 33-13.
  Cost of C. P. S., 41-12.
  Demobilization, in "Youth Events," 31-10.
  Director's conference, 41-13.
  Directory, "Items of Interest," 37-12, 42-13.
  Employment service, "Mennonite Aid Notes," 44-12.
  "Famous Missionary Visits C. P. S. Unit in Puerto Rico," Hugh Hostetler, 3-5.
  "Farm Service Change," 9-13.
  "Items of Interest," 45-12.
  "Looking Back on the C. P. S. Experience," Karl V. Schultz, 15-11.
  Medical, 34-12.
  "Needs of C. P. S. Program Continue," 6-5.
  "Men and Hunger," H. A. Fast, 34-6.
  "News," 30-13.
  Puerto Rico, "A Traveler's Palm," Harry Martens, 46-5.
  Recording of five years of C. P. S., 41-12.
  Rehabilitation, "Boards Engage Rehabilitation Worker," Mutual Aid and Home Mission, 24-4.
  "Release of Canadian and British C. O.'s," 10-13.
  "Releases," 9-13.
  Relief contribution, "Farnhurst," 6-14.
  "(The) Returning C. P. S. Man," Dale Nebel, 4-4.
  Tests for entering Mennonite colleges, 42-14.
  "Thoughts upon Release from Camp," Arlo Sonnenberg, 9-9.
  "Topeka, Kansas, Unite Fails to Materialize," 9-13.
  Unit publications, 21-13.
  "U.N.R.R.A. Reserve Unite Underway," 10-13.
  The Voice of Peace, Hill City publication, 42-13.
  Voluntary service program, 41-12.
  "Youth Events," 16-12.
Claassen, Catherine, obituary, 10-13.
Claassen, Frieda, "Leathercraft in the Youth Fellowship," 9-12.
Claassen, Willard:
  "Pastoral Prayer in the Worship Service," 30-8.
  "What Is Sin?" (symposium) 41-4.
The Classmate, "Toward Peace or War," 27-10.
Cleaves, Charles Poole, "The Upper Room," 16-4.
Clokey, Joseph W., "In Every Corner Sing," 22-15.
Clothing, "Clothing Distribution in Holland," 6-13.
"Clothed and in His Right Mind," 8-7.
Clothing Center at Reedley, "Relief," 15-13.
"College and Seminary News," 5-14, 7-14, 8-14, 9-14, 10-14, 13-14, 14-14, 15-14, 17-14, 18-14, 19-14, 20-14, 21-14, 22-14, 23-14, 36-14, 37-15, 38-13, 41-14, 42-14, 43-14, 44-8, 45-7, 46-13.
Colleges, editorial, 14-2.
College student, editorial, 33-2.
"Combatting Evil," Gospel Herald, 8-10.
"(The) Coming Great Church," Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 19-6.
"Comment on Communism," The American Friend, 34-4.
Communion, A. S. Rosenberger, "This do in Remembrance of Me," 16-5.
Communion, John A. Thiessen, "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
Communism, The American Friend, "Comment on Communism," 34-4.
Communists, Gospel Herald, (quotation), 33-6.
"Competitive Sports in the Community," Paul Schmidt, 2-9.
Compulsory military training:
  "Cost of Compulsory Training," 5-13.
  "For Your Encouragement," Milo Stucky, 13-14.
"Compulsory Military Training Memorial," 13-14.
"Comrades on the Journey," (poem), Hazel M. Kerr, 8-11.
"Conclusions about Youth in the Conference," Elmer Ediger, 22-11.
"Condition of Displaced Mennonites in Berlin," Peter Dyck, 51-6.
"Conditions of Existence in Germany," Robert Kreider, 51-10.
"(The) Congo Inland Mission," R. L. Hartzler, 30-5.
Conference, Helen H. Mueller, "I Like to Know What's Happening in Our Conference," 17-6.
Conference of ministers in South Germany, Cornelius Krahn, "Mennonites the World Over," 45-6.
Conference Sunday, Executive Secretary, General Conference, "Observing Conference Sunday," 14-5.
Confessing, Mrs. James Liu, "Revival at Kai Chow," 24-3.
Confession, editorial, 24-2.
Congerville Mennonite Church, Illinois, 18-16.
"Congregational Pacifists," 47-8.
Conscientious objectors: 7-12.
  Book Review: "The Church and Returning Conscientious Objectors," 18-6.
  "(The) Church and the Returning C.O.," Aaron Epp, 15-8.
  Court Declares C. O. Eligible for Naturalization," 26-13.
  Editorail, 33-2.
  In Prison, 51-12.
  "What is Starvation?" Lester Glich, 51-8.
  Youth Events, 15-12.
Conscription, "Youth Events," 16-12.
Contacts with European Mennonites, Cornelius Krahn, "Mennonites the World Over," 42-8.
Consolation Magazine, "The Monkey's Disgrace" (poem), 32-11.
"Conversion Accounts," 40-2.
"(The) Conversion of an Intellectual," Jacob H. Janzen, 40-5.
Conviction, Jacob T. Friesen, "God's Requirements," 24-12.
Cooperation, Mrs. Willis E. Rich, "God's Orchestra," 23-1.
Cooperation, Christian, editorial, 31-2.
Cooperative method, The Pennsylvania Co-op Review, "Quote," 10-6.
Cotton, G. E. L., "This Fair Earth," (poem), 43-11.
Country Church, Menno H. Kliewer, "The Story of a Small Country Church," 21-5.
C. R. A. L. O. G., (Illustration), 41-11.
C. R. A. L. O. G., School feeding program, Robert Kreider, "Glimpses of Germany," 41-1.
Creighton, W. B., "What About Prejudice?" 41-12.
Cressman, Leona, "Summer Service in the Chicago Mission," 31-10.
Criticism, editorial, 30-2.
Cross, "He Chose the Cross for Our Sake," 14-1.
Crowell, Grace Noll: (poems)
  "Labor With the Hands," 47-13.
  "Responsibility," (poem), 30-15.
  "(The) Sparrows," 49-12.
Crucifixion, Orlo Kaufman, "Meaning of the Crucifixion and the Resurrection of Christ," 16-9.
Customs, Colombia, Gerald Stucky, "For Christ and His Church in Colombia," 23-7.

D

Daily vacation Bible school, Henry Friesen, "Review of Work in Saskatchewan," 43-10.
Danzig Mennonite Church, W. C. Andreas, "Salvaged Church Records," None.
Davis, Grace Helen, "A Young Person's Prayer: First Things," 25-10.
Day, Albert Edward, "His Radiance Transforms," 37-1.
"(A) Day in the Life of Two Relief Workers," Wilhelmina Kuyf, 2-4.
Dayton, Ohio, 22-16.
Deaconess work, Betherl Deaconess School of Nursing (students), "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-10.
  Camargo, Gonzalo Baez, "What It Means to Be a Deaconess," 18-4.
Death:
  Editorial, 16-2.
  Harshbarger, Eva, "The Valley of Weeping," 21-3.
Decker, Emil H., "In Memoriam," 6-14.
"Dedicate Toronto Mission Chapel," 21-6.
Deep Run Mennonite Church, Deep Run, Pennsylvania, 4-15, 8-16, 9-6, 10-16, 13-16, 17-15, 20-15, 26-16, 27-16, 33-16, 40-15, 42-16, 49-14, 50-15, 51-16.
Deer Creek Mennonite Church, Deer Creek, Oklahoma, 7-15, 13-4.
"(A) Defender of the Infirm Passes," The British Weekly, 32-11.
Deferment policies, "C. P. S.," 37-13.
Delinquency, "Youth Events," 14-12.
Demobilization, "C. P. S.," 21-13.
Denmark, Cornelius Krahn, "Packages to the Mennonites in Denmark," 6-6.
Der Bote, "A Biography of an Outstanding Mennonite Leader," review, 21-6.
Dester, Herbert E., "First Impressions of America," 26-4.
  "Wide, Wide as the Ocean," 21-7.
Dester, Hilda, "Wide, Wide as the Ocean," 21-7.
Devotional, "His Radiance Transforms," Day, Albert Edward, 37-1.
Devotional Literature:
  Autumn, editorial, 42-11.
  "Steps for a Daily Program of Prayer," D. D. Eitzen.
  Varying season of the Spirit, 42-1.
Devotions—Nurses, Bethel Deaconess School of Nursnig (Students), "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-12.
Dick, Elmer: 5-15.
  "Trip to Africa," 32-6.
Dick, Rev. and Mrs. Elmer J., "Rev. and Mrs. Elmer J. Dick Write from Africa," 46-8.
"Die Vereinsglocke," "Items of Interest," 43-12.
Dirks, Marvin J., 23-14.
  "Ye Shall Be My Witnesses," 23-3.
Dirks, Mrs. Nellie B. Schmidt, obituary, 35-6.
"Discuss 'Missions in India' at Rosthern," 14-11.
Displaced people, John Thiessen, "Millions of Displaced People," 18-12.
Displaced persons:
  Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 22-5, 41-6.
  "The Fate of the Molotschna Colony," 34-4.
  Zenz, Ellen, "Seeks Relatives," 51-7.
Displaced Mennonites, "Relief," 27-13.
Displaced Mennonites cared for, "Relief," 15-13.
Divorce, editorial, "Until Death Do Us Part," 49-2.
"Does a Pastor Need Time Off?" Walter Dyck, 26-5.
Doubt, Bonnell, John Sutherland, "How to Deal with Your Doubts," 24-5.
The Dove-Tale, "Thoughts about a Smile," 8-19.
"Do Your Own Thinking," 25-10.
Dubois, Lauriston J., "Youth Activity in the Church of the Nazarene," 46-10.

Duerksen, Mrs. J. R., "What Conversion Means to Me," 40-4.
Dutch and American Mennonites meet, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 21-6.
Dutch interest in American Mennonites, 5-8.
Dutch Mennonites, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 13-5.
Dutch mission field at Java, Cornelius Krahn, "Mennonites the World Over," 21-6.
"Dutch People Grateful For Food," Ruth Hilty, 25-13.
Dutch relief, Elma Esau, "Experiences in Dutch Relief," 16-11.
Dutch students, 41-12.
Duty, Youths Christian Companion, "Releif Responsibility," 23-11.
Dyck, A. J., "Christ the Saviour as I Know Him," 49-3.
Dyck, Peter, "Condition of Displaced Mennonites in Berlin," 51-6.
Dyck, Walter, "Does a Pastor Need Time Off? 26-5.
  "Headquarters Office Corner," (regular feature), 41-15, 31-15.
  "Shall We Compete or Plan Together?" 50-5.
Dyke, Henry van, "Relaince," (poem), 25-11.

E

"Early Thanksgiving Dishes," Walter K. Putney, 46-10.
East Freedom, Pennsylvania, "New Church to be Built," 16-6.
East Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pennsylvania, 6-15, 20-15.
Easter, "They Laid Him in the Grave," 16-1.
Easter Meditation, Erland Waltner, "They Hated Him," 13-3.
Easter morning, J. N. Smucker, "(The) Light of Easter Morning," 16-3.
Eastern District C. E., "Items of Interest," 46-12.
Eastern District Conference, 5-15, 13-5, 19-15, 42-14.
Eastern District Conference, "Eastern District Elects New Officers," 30-10.
Eastern District Conference:
  Layman's Labor Day conference, 42-5.
  Home Mission Committee, Freeman H. Swartz, "The Growth of a Mennonite Fellowship," 42-6.
  148th Session, 21-14.
Eastern District Conference Peace Committee, "The Reader Says," 46-7.
Eastern District Conference, second quarterly conference, 42-14.
"Eastern District Conference Labor Day Bible Conference," 42-5.
Eastern District Young People, "Hold Conference and Banquet," 13-12.
"Eastern District Young People's Officers," 46-12.
"(The) Eastern District Y. P. U.," Ervin F. Miller, 4-10.
Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio, 14-14, 17-15, 31-15, 32-16, 34-15, 44-15.
Economic conditions, China, "Items of Interest," 43-12.
Eden Church, Inola, Oklahoma, 8-5.
(The) Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas, 4-14, 7-15, 9-6, 10-15, 21-16, 25-15, 40-16, 42-15, 47-15, 48-15.
Eden Church, Schwenksville, Pennsylvania, 27-6.
(The) Eden Congregation, Schwenksville, Pennsylvania, 27-6.
Ediger, Rev. D. J., obituary, 51-13.
Ediger, Elmer, "The Beginning Voluntary Service Program," 32-9.
  "Conclusions about Youth in the Conference," 22-11.
  "A Visit with the Pacific District," 20-9.
Editorials, 3-3, 4-2, 7-2, 8-2, 10-2, 14-2, 17-2, 19-2, 20-2, 21-2, 22-2, 31-2, 41-2, 42-2, 43-2, 43-11, 44-2, 45-2, 46-2.
Editorial, "Blankets for Europe," 7-1.
  "Cambridge, England, Conference," 32-2.
  "The Social and Personal," 2-3.
"Editor's Explanation from the Teacher's Handbook," 37-5.
"Edmund Miller to Become Field Secretary for Mennonite Seminary," General Conference Headquarters, 16-6.
Education:
  "Board to Have Executive Secretary," 5-5.
  von Riesen, Ronald, "One Generation," 10-5.
Education, Board of, "Board to Have Executive Secretary," 5-5.
Educational work—India, Dester, Hilda and Herbert E., "Wide, Wide as the Ocean," 21-7.
Eicher Emmanuel Church, Noble, Iowa, 5-14, 9-16, 17-15, 20-15, 42-14, 42-15.
Eicher, Walter, 40-13.
Einsiedel Church, Hanston, Kansas, 19-15.
Eitzen, D. D., "Steps for a Daily Program of Prayer," 9-1.
  "Teach us to Pray," 9-3.
  "What Conversion Means to Me," 40-3.
"(The) Eleventh Commandment," Walter C. Powdermilk, 22-13.
Elliott, Charlotte, "Just As I Am," 40-1.
Emergency Famine Committee, "C. P. S.," 22-13.
Emergency Relief Board, "Help Needed to Rehabilitate Mennonite War Refugees," 50-13.
(The) Emergency Relief Board, "Send Contributions to Conference Headquarters," 36-16.
Emmanuel Church, Denver, Pennsylvania, 10-14.
Emmanuel Church, Galva, Kansas, 20-16, 47-15.
Emmanuel Church, Moundridge, Kansas, 8-6.
Emmaus Church, Whitewater, Kansas, 8-5, 33-15, 42-16.
Emotional Catharsis, Eva Harshbarger, "(The) Valley of Weeping," 21-4.
Emptiness, editorial, 17-2.
Enns, Mrs. D. D., obituary, 10-13.
"Enthusiasm," 48-2.
Enz, Rev. J. J., Nappanee, Indiana, 50-14.
Enz, Rev. Jacob J., 51-16.
  "Barriers to Effective Prayer," 1-5.
  "Bible Study That Satisfies," 48-9.
Epp, Aaron, "(The) Church and the Returning C. O.," 15-8.
Epp, August, "Pensioning Our Ministers," 26-3.
Epp, Carl, "Retreat Grounds and the Northern District," 40-9.
Epp, Isaac, "The Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 22-9.
Epp, Isaac; Schmidt, J. C.; Friesen, Henry, "Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 23-9.
Epp, Isaac, "Saskatchewan Division," 19-11.
  "Youth Organizations in Canada," 19-9.
Epp, Jacob B., obituary, 2-6.
"(The) Eternal Word of God in the English of Today." 48-1.
Ethiopia, "Relief," 22-13.
"Eva Pauls Report from Champa, India," Eva Pauls, 36-6.
Evangelism, editorial, 30-2.
(The) Evangelism Committee, "Time Element in Winning People to Christ," 7-8.
Evangelisches, Hilfswerk, 41-1.
  "Flour, Cause for Thanksgiving," 46-3.
Evil, W. F. Unruh, "The Gethsemane—Calvary Way of Dealing with Evil," 14-3.
"(The) Expectations of the Kingdom," Arnold Regier. 15-5.
"Experience in Dutch Relief," Elma Esau, 16-11.
  Lulu Smith, 16-11.
"Experience in Mental Hospital Raises Question: 'A Mennonite Mental Hospital?'."
"(The) Experience of Hunger," Leonare Hollander Koehler, 41-11.
Experience with God, editorial, 17-2.

F

"Facing Our Feelings of Guilt," Paul Albrecht, 25-1.
  Fairfield Church, Dalton, Ohio, 15-15.
(The) Fairfield, Pennsylvania, Church, 8-5, 3-15, 10-16, 13-16, 26-15, 32-16, 33-16.
(The) Fairfield Church, Fairfield, Pennsylvania, 37-16, 40-15, 49-14.
Faith, editorail, "He Was Afraid and Sank," 24-1.
"Faith," Reynold Weinbrenner, 40-2.
Faith, Eva Harshbarger, "(The) Valley of Weeping," 21-4.
Family radios, "Items of Interest," 44-10.
"Famous Missionary Visits—C. P. S. Unit in Puerto Rico," Hugh Hostetler, 3-5.
Famous statue, "(The) Christ of the Andes," 44-1.
"Farming for God," 21-1.
Fast, Henry A., "Annual Bethel College Bible Week," 51-15.
  "A Christian Attitude toward Russia," 24-7.
  "Men and Hunger" (a book review), 34-6.
  "The Present Relief Needs," 33-5.
Fear, editorial, "He Was Afraid and Sank," 24-1.
Federal Council of Churches, editorial, 49-2.
Feelings of guilt, Paul Albrecht, "Facing Our Feelings of Guilt," 25-1.
Fernheim colony, Dr. Lohrentz, A. M., " 'Headwork,' in the Rough, Beautiful Chaco," 10-3.
"Fellowship with People of Other Lands," 41-10.
Fi
Financial reports, editorial, 7-2.
Financial report, "Report of Money Received during the Fourth quarter, 1946," 13-6.
"First Impressions of America," Herbert E. Dester, 26-4.
First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, 4-15, 8-6, 10-6.
First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, "Youth Events," 16-12.
First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, 18-15, 22-16, 23-15, 25-14, 25-15, 27-16, 33-15, 35-15, 45-13.
First Church, Allentown, Pennsylvania, 5-14, 9-14.
First Church, Beatrice, Nebraska, 7-15, 10-6, 15-15, 2-15, 5-16, 19-15, 23-15, 24-16, 25-15, 32-16, 35-16, 37-16, 38-16, 41-15, 43-15, 45-14, 49-14.
First Church, Berne, Indiana, 3-15, 6-15, 10-15, 16-11, 25-16, 26-15, 33-14, 40-15.
First Church, Bluffton, Ohio, 5-16, 8-15, 17-16, 25-15, 35-15, 46-14.
First Church, Burns, Kansas, 8-5, 13-15, 14-15, 23-15, 32-15.
First Church, Butterfield, Minnesota, 8-15, 33-16, 44-13.
First Mennonite Church, Butterfield, Minnesota, 49-16.
First Mennonite Church, Caldwell, Idaho, 21-15.
"First Mennonite Church of Caldwell, Idaho," "Active Group at Caldwell, Idaho," 51-7.
First Church, Colfax, Washnigton, 5-14, 14-14, 27-15, 37-16, 48-15.
First Church, Fredonia, Kansas, 17-16, 19-15, 51-15.
First Mennonite Church, Garden Township, Moundridge, Kansas, 47-15.
First Church, Geary, Oklahoma, "Jottings," 36-15.
First Church, Halstead, Kansas, 3-15, 7-15, 9-16, 14-15, 38-16.
First Church, Hillsboro, Kansas, 6-16, 8-5, 18-14, 21-16, 38-16, 51-16.
First Church, Hutchinson, Kansas, 2-15, 9-6, 13-5, 18-8, 26-16, 37-16.
First Church, Lehigh, Kansas, 6-16, 23-15.
First Mennonite Church, Lima, Ohio, 46-15.
First Church, McPherson, Kansas, 5-16, 13-16, 22-15, 40-16, 42-16.
First Church, Madrid, Nebraska, 2-15, 10-6, 23-15, 25-15, 33-14, 44-13.
First Church, Monroe, Washington, 2-15, 7-15, 10-6, 20-15, 26-16, 38-16, 48-15.
First Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota, 6-15, 6-16, 10-16, 19-16, 22-16, 32-15, 48-15.
First Church, Nappanee, Indiana, 5-15, 5-16, 9-6, 9-15, 10-15, 13-16, 16-15, 17-15, 18-15, 19-15, 20-15, 21-15, 22-15, 23-15, 24-16, 25-15, 30-15, 33-15, 34-16, 35-14, 38-15, 42-15, 44-15, 47-14, 48-15, 50-14, 51-16.
First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas, 8-15, 13-15, 46-15, 49-15.

First Mennonite Church, Normal, Illinois, 51-16.
First Church (North) of Butterfield, Minnesota, 16-15, 27-15.
First Church of Christian Mennonite, Moundridge, Kansas, 2-16, 8-6, 9-16, 19-14, 22-16, 31-15, 40-14, 43-15, 34-14, 37-16, 50-16.
First Church, Paso Robles, California, 8-6, 15-15.
First Church, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, 9-15, 15-16, 33-14, 38-15, 46-15.
First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas, 3-15, 3-16, 9-14, 6-15, 17-15, 23-15, 31-16, 35-15, 40-15, 45-13.
First Church, Ransom, Kansas, 27-16, 36-16.
First Church, Reedley, California, 5-16, 16-15, 21-16, 44-13.
First Church, Shafter, California, 2-16, 9-16, 22-15.
First Church, Sugarcreek, Ohio, 1-15, 14-15, 17-15, 38-16, 41-16, 42-16, 46-14.
First Church, Summerfield, Illinois, 10-15, 19-15, 38-16, 10-15.
First Church, Upland, California, 10-15, 19-16, 44-13.
First Church, Wadsworth, Ohio, 2-15, 10-16, 23-15, 30-16, 38-14.
"The First Session of the Pacific District Conference," Dan J. Steiner, 47-1.
Fisher, Wallace, "A Jaundiced 'Guinea Pig'," 9-9.
Flanagan, Illinois, Church, 18-16.
Flatland Church, Quakertown, Pennsylvania, 9-16, 35-15.
Flickinger, Virgil, "Summer Service in the Chicago Mission," 31-9.
Flour, "Relief," 24-13.
"Flour, cause for Thanksgiving," 46-3.
Flour to Europe, "Letters from Europe," 44-9.

Fo-Fy

Food, Atlee Beechy, "Plans for the 1946 Food for Relief Program," 20-5.
Food, "Food Shipments to Europe," 6-13.
Food crisis, "World Food Crisis," 16-8.
Food packages, "Relief," 27-13.
"(The) Foot Prints of Christ," Mrs. (Dr.) Samuel, 36-7.
". . . For All Come Short of the Glory of God," 6-10.
"For Better Health in Mennonite Communities," A. K. Ratzlaff. 42-3.
"For Christ and His Church in Colombia," Gerald Stucky, 23-7.
Foreign Mission Board:
  "Explanation Regarding the Resignation of Missionary Fred Johnson," 61-7.
  Nyce, Howard, Secretary, 50-13.
  "Rev. H. G. Nyce New Secretary," 25-13.
"Foreign Missions," 21-7, 14-8, 5-6.
"Foreign Missions," Howard Nyce, 20-7, 19-8.
Foreign missions, Marie J. Regier, "Internment Camp Experience Significant," 4-7.
  "Interment in Weihsien," 37-1.
"Foreign Missions:"
  P. H. Richert, 6-8.
  Henry A. Toews, 22-7.
  Mary Toews, 22-7.
Foreign missions—Africa, Henry A. Toews, "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
Foreign missions—Africa, Mary Toews, "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
Foreign missions—India, Hilda and Herbert E. Dester, "Wide, Wide As the Ocean," 21-7.
Fort Collins C. P. S. Camp, 41-8.
Fort Collins Men Thanked for Services, 40-13.
"For Your Encouragement," Milo Stucky, 13-14.
Forward, "Let's Get Together," 36-11.
Founders Day at Freeman Junior College, 49-13.
"Four Requisites for Great Preaching," H. L. Hartsongh, 25-10.
France, "Relief," 24-13, 24-13, 22-13.
Freedom, J. E. Hartzler, "God Is With Me," 22-4.
"Freedom from What?" Ronald von Riesen, 33-1.
Freeman Junior College, 41-16, 41-16, 2-14, 3-14, 4-13, 1-14, 49-8, 20-14, 45-7, 19-14, 40-7, 47-6, 48-14, 18-14, 10-14, 51-14, 46-13, 22-14, 44-8, 43-14, 37-15, 9-14, 36-14, 15-14, 14-14, 21-14, 17-14, 5-14, 50-8, 6-14, 16-14, 13-14, 6-16, 38-14, 41-14.
Freeman Junior College: faculty meetings, 41-14.
"Free Service," 43-14.
Fretz, J. H., "What It Means to Love," 45-5.
Fretz, J. Winfield, "Boards Engage Rehabilitation Worker," 24-4.
  "General Conference Mutual Aid Board Organizes and Plans Program of Action," 1-7.
  "Mennonite Colonization," 22-13.
  "Mennonite Colonization,"
  "Religion Among the Old Colony Mennonites of Mexico," 35-5.
Fretz, J. Winfield, (Book Review) "(The) Jehvoah Witnesses, 42-4.
Friedensberg Church, Avon, South Dakota, 7-15, 18-15, 27-16, 35-16, 42-15, 45-15.
Friesen, Arthur, "In Time of Sickness," 20-7.
Friesen, C. H., "What Conversion Means to Me," 40-4.
Friesen, E. W., "Should Our Church Activities Be Widened?", 37-9.
Friesen, Evelyn Joyce, "Obituary," 32-14.
Friesen, Gerhard, "Observations on My Trip to Poland," 10-7.
Friesen, Henry, "The Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 22-9.
  "Review of Work in Saskatchewan," 43-10.
Friesen, Henry; Schmidt, J. C.; Epp, Isaac, "Mennonite Youth;" 23-9.
  "Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 23-9.
Friesen, J. John, "What of the Church?", 36-5.
Friesen, Jacob L., "God's Requirements," 24-12.
  "Student Arrives from Paraguay," 32-11.
Friesen, Leonard G., "Migrants Need Us, We Need Them," 3-9.
Friesen, Magdelene, "A Russian Meeting in Holland," 51-10.
  reviewing "In the Steps of St. Francis," by Ernest Raymond, 9-10.
Friesland colony, A. M. Lohrentz, " 'Headwork', in the Rough, Beautiful Chaco," 10-3.
"From Homestead Days to the Present," 5-4.
"From the Editor's Point-of-view," 19-2, 20-2.
"From the Militarist's Point-of-view," Albert M. Gaeddert, 44-3.
"Full Time Christian Service?", 48-11.
Funerals, harmonization with life, editorial, 41-2.
Funerals, suggested program for, J. H. Langenwalter, "Can Our Funerals Please God?" 41-5.

Ga-Gi

Gaeddert, Albert M., "From the Militarist's Point-of-View," 44-3.
  "Why, as a Non-resistant Christian, I Can Not Take Part in War," 44-3.
Gaeddert, John J., "Obituary," 31-13.
Garden Township Church, Halstead, Kansas, 21-16, 30-16, 19-15, 18-14, 23-15, 26-16.
"Gave Over Million Dollars Worth For Relief," Atlee Beechy, 19-4.
Geisinger, Norman A., "The History of Men-o-Lan," 43-9.
General and Central Conference, editorial, "The Union of the Central and General Conference," 9-2.
"General and Central Conference Unite," W. F. Unruh, 9-5.
General Conference boards and committees, 9-15.
General Conference Headquarters: 47-14.
  "Edmund Miller to become Field Secretary for Mennonite Seminary," 16-6.
  "Walter Dyck to fill Headquarters Vacancy for Time Being," 16-6.
"(The) General Conference is Still Growing," 17-1.
General Conference Mennonite, Fellowship Lancaster, Pennsylvania, "Jottings," 45-16.
"General Conference Minister's Retreat," 27-4.
General Conference program, J. S. Schultz, "The 1947 Conference Program."
George, David M., obituary, 43-7.
"George Washington Carver," Leona Krehbiel, 6-3.
German occupation, Cornelius Krahn, "Mennonites the World Over," 15-6.
"German Pastors Send Letters of Gratitude," J. M. Regier, 33-7.
"German Pastor Sends Letter of Thanks for Clothing," Pastor Wallach, 41-7.
German prisoners of war, "Mutual Aid Notes," 13-13.
Germany, editorial, "Shipment of Relief Supplies and Mail into Germany," 6-2.
Germany:
  "Gift Parcels to Germany," 25-13.
  "Items of Interest," 43-12.
  "Postal Service to Germany," 15-13.
  "Relief," 18-13.
  "Relief," 21-13.
German youth, Robert Kreider, "Glimpses of Germany," 41-1.
Germany's religious attitude, editorial, 17-2.
Gethsemane, W. F. Unruh, "The Gethsemane—Calvary Way of Dealing with Evil," 14-3.
"(The) Gethsemane—Calvary Way of Dealing with Evil," W. F. Unruh, 14-3.
"Gets Children to Learn Bible Verses," Elsie Pfister, 9-7.
"Gift Parcels to Germany," 25-13.
"Girls Serve in the South," Rosella Reimer, 35-10.
Giving:
  "The Joy of Giving," 5-8.
  Appeal, Peace Committee, "Please," 23-4.
Gift parcels, "Relief," 17-13.
Gingerich, Melvin, 'Looking at People of Other Races," 32-10.

Gi-Gy

"Glance at City Missions, A," Willard W. Wiebe, 37-7.
Glick, Lester, "What is Starvation?" 51-8.
Glidden, Eleanor Dixon, "Perfection" (Poem), 41-12.
"Glimpses of Germany," Robert Kreider, 41-1.
"Glory to God," Robert Kreider, 41-1.
Gnadenberg Church, Whitewater, Kansas, 3-15, 18-15, 5-15.
"God Is to Me," J. E. Hartzler, 22-4.
"God Is to Me," La Verne Rutschman, 22-4.
"God Is to Me," Luella Smith Regier, 22-3.
"God's Orchestra," Mrs. Willis E. Rich, 23-1.
"God's Requirements," Jacob T. Friesen, 24-12.
"God's Smallest Creation," Leonard C. Kreider, 26-1.
God's Spirit, editorial, 15-2.
Goering, Milo, "Labor Conditions in a Small, Kansas Town," 34-5.
Goering, Paul, 34-8.
Goering, Roland, "Western District C. E. Societies," 61-11.
Goering, Sam, "Home Again," 35-3.
  "Sam Goering Family Now in Switzerland," 1-4.
Goernig, Walter, "Relief Activities in Denmark," 25-13.
Goessel Church, Goessel, Kansas, 8-6, 15-16, 20-15, 17-16.
Grace Church, Enid, Oklahoma, 34-16.
Goessel Mennonite Church, 25-14, 32-15.
Good Friday, editorial, 15-2.
"Good Gifts for Our Children," Hulda Rich (Mrs. Willis E.), 8-3.
"Good Morning," (poem), Jessie Owen Pierce, 22-10.
Goossen, John H., obituary, 10-13.
Gordon, A. J., "One Man's Influence," (quotations), 45-9.
Gorter, S. H. N., 5-1.

Gospel Herald:
(exchange), 33.
(quotation), 33-6.
"Combatting Evil," 8-19.
"(The) Gospel—No More, No Less," Elsie Pfister, 34-5.
Gospel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota, 4-15, 5-16, 10-15, 14-15, 17-15, 20-16, 22-15, 24-16, 26-16, 27-15, 36-16, 41-15, 44-13, 45-14.
Gospel Messenger:
"Suggestions for Panel Discussions," 37-10.
(Dan West), "The Truth and the Golden Rule," 9-11.
Gossip (poem), "They Say," 51-12.
"Governor's Wife Visits Mission at Jagdeeshpur," John Thiessen, 33-8.
Graber, Ellis, 'Being a Host In the House of God Is a Noble Calling," 49-5.
Graber, Mary M., obituary, 10-13.
Grace Church, Elbany, Oregon, 51-16.
Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon, 6-16, 8-6, 9-15, 10-14, 15-15, 15-16, 16-16, 18-14, 19-16, 21-15, 22-16, 26-16, 27-16, 30-16, 31-15, 33-15, 33-16, 38-14, 42-15, 44-12, 45-14, 48-15.
Grace Church, Enid, Oklahoma, 5-16, 9-16, 15-16, 26-16, 46-14, 50-14.
Grace Church, Landsdale, Pennsylvania, 42-15, 44-14, 49-15.
Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio, 2-15, 7-15, 9-14, 13-5, 21-16, 30-16, 49-15.
Grace of God, editorial, 38-2.
Grantland, Elsa M., 47-13.
"Who Will Feed These Sheep and Lambs?" 27-7.
Gratitude, J. M. Regier, "German Pastors Send Letters of Gratitude," 33-7.
Gray, Elizabeth Janet, Marjorie Hill Allee, "Smoke Jumper," A Novel for Young People, 6-12.
"(A) Great Man," 6-1.
Greenfield Church, Fort Cobb, Oklahoma, 8-15, 23-15.
Gross, Harold, "C. P. S. Men and Creative Relationships," 4-5.
"(The) Growth of a Mennonite Fellowship," Freeman H. Swartz, 42-6.
"Growth" (poem), Edith Dunn Bolar, 43-12.
Guetzkow and Bowman, "Men and Hunger" (book), 34-6.
Guilt, Paul Albrecht, "Facing Our Feelings of Guilt," 25-1.
Guiterman, Arthur, "Beauty Forever" (poem), 20-11.

H

Halloween, Editorial, 45-2.
Halstead Church, 42-14.
"Halstead C. E. Holds All Day Retreat," 38-11.
Hamburg, Altona, Mennonite Church, Krahn, Cornelius, in "Mennonites the World Over," 32-4.
"Handbook for Vacation Bible School," 13-15.
Handicraft—India, Dester, Hilda and Herbert E., "Wide, Wide As the Ocean," 21-7.
"The Handicapped Worker," 48-13.
"Handling Resentments," Paul Albrecht, 36-3.
"Happy Is the Man that Getteth Understanding," S. F. Pannabecker, 33-3.
Harder, Ernst, "How an Education in America Looks to a Mennonite from Paraguay," 42-9.
"Ministering to the Sick at Cook County Hospital," 20-8.
Harder, H. N., "What It Means to Love," 45-4.
Harder, Menno S., "A Social Program for the General Conference," 17-7.
Harder, Wilma, "Summer Service in Chicago Mission," 31-10.
Harms, Henry H., "In Memoriam," 6-14.
Harshbarger, Eva, "The Valley of Weeping," 21-3.
Hartzler, J. E., 50-14.
"God Is to Me," 22-4.
Hartzler, R. L., "The Congo Inland Mission," 30-5.
"A Short History of the Central Conference," 17-5.
Hartzler, Robert, "Central and Middle District Retreat at Camp Mack," 26-10.
"Glory to God," 50-9.
"On the Experiences of a Seminarian," 24-9.
"A Roll-Call of Seminary Students," 24-10.
Hate, Editorial, 45-2.
Harvest festival, editorial, 38-2.
Headquarters, "General Conference Headquarters," "Walter Dyck to fill Headquarters Vacancy for Time Being," 16-6.
"Headquarters Office Corner," 40-15, 24-15, 27-15, 21-8, 30-15, 41-15.
Walter H. Dyck, 42-15, 23-15, 25-15.
"'Headwork' in the Rough, Beautiful Chaco," A. M. Lohrentz, 10-3.
Hebron Church, Buhler, Kansas, 31-16, 40-14, 50-15, 43-15, 51-16, 24-16, 30-15, 18-14, 13-15, 8-14, 17-16.
"He Chose the Cross for Our Sake," 14-1.
"He Chose To Be A Kingly Servant," Frank D. Laubach, 15-1.
Hege, Rev. Henry, 47-13.
Heifer for Relief, 50-14.
Heifer project, "Relief," 17-13.
"Help Needed to Rehabilitate Mennonite "War Refugees," Board of Mutual Aid, 50-13.
Emergency Relief Board, 50-73.
Henderson, Nebraska, Bethesda, 34-16.
Hereford Church, Bally, Pennsylvania, 17-15, 42-16, 26-15, 46-15.
Herold Mennonite Church, Bessie, Oklahoma, 48-15, 21-15.
Hertz, J. H., ((A) Traveler's Tale," 51-4.
"He Was Afraid and Sank," editorial, 24-1.
"He Was Rich but Hungry," 20-1.
"He Would Heal Today," 42-1.
Hiebert, Mrs. Henry G., obituary, 1-14.
Heifers for Relief, "Youth Events," 25-12.
"High School Graduates in Jagdeeshpur, India," John Thiessen, 34-9.
Hilty, Albert B. and Burry, Albert A., "In Memoriam," 5-13.
Hilty, Mrs. Eva, obituary, 23-7.
Hilverda, Johannes, "Impressions Upon Coming to America," 42-9.
Hirschler, Edward E., "The Story of a Pioneer Family," 2-16.
"His Radiance Transforms," Albert Edward Day, 37-1.
"(The) History of Men-O-Lan," Norman A Geisinger, 43-9.
"(A) History of the General Conference," 17-8.
Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas, 9-6, 45-14, 22-16, 5-15, 21-15, 8-6, 44-12.
Hoffnungsau, Hebron, and Buhler Churches, "Youth Events," 7-12.
"Hold Music Institutes in C. P. S. Camps," 8-11.
"Hold Reunion of Ex C. P. S. Men," 30-10.
Holland, "Ducth Ministers Want to Know Us Better," 34-14.
Holland evangelical movement, "Clippings of Events," 5-12.
Holland, "Mennonites the World Over," 21-6.
Holland, "(A) Mennonite Youth in Holland Writes," 15-9.
Holland, "Relief," 22-13.
Holland youth, "Relief," 13-13.
Holy Spirit, editorial, 15-2.
Home, Rich, Mrs. Willis, "The Task of the Christian Home," 19-1.
"Home Again," Sam Goering, 35-3.
Home and the child, Rich, Hulda, (Mrs. Willis E.), "Good Gifts for Our Children," 8-3.
Homes for refugees, German, "Items of Interest," 43-12.
"The Home God Meant," H. T. Unruh, 18-3.
Home life, Unruh, H. T., "The Home God Meant," 18-3.
"Home Mission News," 47-8.
"Home Missions," 14-7, 15-4.
Neuenschwander, A. J., 20-8, 6-7, 19-8.
Neufeld, John T., "Taking a Little Walk," 3-8.
Rough, John S., "Report from Smith Corner," 3-8.
Home mission task, 49-4.
"Home Mission Workers Move and New Girl's School Opened," A. J. Neuenschwender, 43-7.
Hookworm control, "Relief," 45-7.
Hopi Christians, Suderman, John P., "Suderman's Report from Oraibi, Arizona," 31-8.
Hosman, E. M., 40-14.
Hostetler, Hugh, "Famous Missionary Visits C. P. S. Unit in Puerto Rico," 3-5.
Hostetler, Lester, "Building the Church," 5-3.
"The Christian Ashram and the Kingdom of God," 35-7.
"The Christian and His Bible," 48-3.
"The School of Missions," 25-4.
Hospital administration, Bethel Deaconess School of Nursing (Students), "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-10.
Hospital history, Bethel Deaconess School of Nursing (Students), "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-9.
Hospital—India, Dester, Hilda and Herbert E., "Wide, Wide As the Ocean," 21-8.
Hospital Purpose, Bethel Deaconess School of Nursing (Students), "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-9.
Hospital service, "C. P. S.," 22-13.
"How an Education in America Looks to a Mennonite from Paraguay," Ernst Harder, 42-9.
"How Christian Are We?" 19-2.
"How Do You Use Your Health," Y. P. Friend (Magazine), 24-11.
"How Does God Call?" Arnold Nickel, 36-10.
"How Far to Bethlehem?" (Poem), Madeleine Sweney Miller, 50-8.
"How is the Mennonite Church Contributing to World Order," J. D. Unruh, 44-5.
"How Much Would You Pay?" Harold Ratzlaff, 5-6.
"How Shall the New Year Be Brought in?" 51-11.
"How Shall These Feet Be Guided?" 18-1.
"How the Sunday School Came To Be," Mrs. Lubin Jantzen, 13-3.
"How to Deal with Your Doubts," John Sutherland Bonnell, 24-5.
"How Was Your State Named," Dorothy S. Shutt, 40-11.
Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas, 36-16.
Humanity of God, Rutschman, LaVerne, "God Is to Me," 22-4.
Hunger, Koehler, Leonare Hollander, "The Experiences of Hunger," 41-11.
Hutchinson, Kansas, News-Herald, (quotation) 33-2.
Hutterites, "Cultural Conference," 10-14.
Hutterites, Brazil, "Mennonites the World Over," 23-8.

I

"I Like to Know What's Happening in Our Conference," Helen H. Mueller, 17-6.
Illness, Friesen, Arthur, "In Time of Sickness," 20-7.
Harder, Ernst, "Ministering to the Sick at Cook County Hospital," 20-8.
Immanuel Church, Delft, Minnesota, 27-15, 8-15, 1-15, 33-14, 46-14.
Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, California, 30-16, 18-15, 1-15, 6-16.
"Impressions Upon Coming to America," Johannes Hilverda, 42-8.
Impressions upon coming to America, Hilverda, Johannes, "Impressions upon Coming to America," 42-9.
"Incantation," Marion H. Addington.
Independence Sunday, Editorail, 26-2.
"India-Grams," S. T. Moyer, 25-8.
India, "Items of Interest," 43-12.
Indian Boy, "The Story of My Life," 32-6.
Indian people, General characteristics of, Kauffman, R. C., "Satyagraha and Christian Pacifism," 7-2.
Individual and social organization of society, editorial, 42-2.
Inductions halted, "C. P. S.," 43-13.

"In Every Corner Sing," J. E. Amstutz, 22-15.
Inman Church, Inman, Kansas, 8-6, 21-16.
"In Memoriam," 19-3, 47-7, 19-7, 41-15, 42-5, 18-8, 20-14.
Mrs. Elmer E. S. Johnson, Mrs. John Baergen, 40-6, 7.
Edward E. Goering, 41-8.
"An Index of Mennonite Thinking," 47-15.
"Indian Missionaries Choose New Officers," Howard G. Nyce, 47-16.
Inner Preparation, 43-2.
"Inspection Trip to Africa," 6-8.
"(The) Inspiration of Group Life at Norristown," Maurine Siemens, 33-10.
(The) Institute of International Relations, "Jottings," 23-15.
"In Such an Age," (Poem) Angela Morgan, 19-6.
International conference of educators, 41-12.
"Internment Camp Experience Significant," Marie J. Regier, 4-7.
"Internment in Weihsien," Marie J. Regier, 37-1.
"In Time of Sickness," Arthur Friesen, 20-7.
"Introducing the Coming Junior Quarterly," Ronald von Riesen, 37-5.
Invalid home, Schmidt, J. C.; Epp, Isaac; Friesen, Henry, "Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 22-9.
Isaac, Anna, "Quarterly Report by F. J. and Anna Isaac," 36-4.
Isaak, Arthur, "Youth Preparation for Life," 30-9.
Isaac, F. J., "Quarterly Report by F. J. and Anna Isaac," 36-4.
Isaac, Ferdinand Jacob, obituary, 43-7.
"Is Ambition Dangerous," Onward, 23-10.
"It Maketh Rich," 48-11.
Italy, "Relief," 16-13, 21-13.
"Items of Interest," 38-12, 46-12, 43-12, 44-10, 50-12, 49-12, 35-12, 36-12, 40-12, 47-12, 48-12, 37-11, 45-12, 40-12, 41-12, 42-12.
"It Is August, 1965," William K. Anderson, 36-7.
"It Pays," American Lutheran, 42-5.

J

"Jagdeeshpur Mission Area Very Active," John Thiessen, 42-6.
Jantzen, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron, 50-14.
Jantzen, Mrs. Lubin, "How the Sunday School Came To Be," 13-3.
Jantzen, Mrs. L. W., "Why Use Graded Sunday School Lesson Material" 30-4.
Jantzen, Mr. and Mrs. Lubin, 50-14.
Janzen, Jacob H., "The Conversion of an Intellectual," 40-5.
"Not One Dull Moment," 6-7.
Janzen, Jacob P., obituary, 47-7.
Japanese Americans, Nisei Christain Youth Conference, "Items of Interest," 44-10.
Japanese labor strike, "Free Service," 43-14.
"A Jaundiced 'Guinea Pig'," Wallace Fisher, 9-9.
Jefferson, Charles E., "The Narrowness of Jesus," 1-11.
"Jehovah Witnesses," (Book Review) Winfield Fretz, 42-4.
Jehovah's Witnesses, "Youth Events," 14-12.
"Jesus' Teachings on Prayer," Pearl Sommers, 13-9.
Jewish-christians, "Relief," 44-11.
Johannestal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas, 27-16, 15-16, 14-15, 40-13, 47-14, 50-14, 49-14, 37-16, 41-16, 24-16, 6-16.
Johnson, Mrs. Elmer E. S., obituary, 40-6.
Johnson, Agnes G., 40-6.
Jones, Dr. E. Stanley, "Proposal made a 'go-between' for United States and Japan in 1941," 1-6.
Jottings, 8-14, 8-5, 7-13, 40-13, 47-13, 48-14, 9-14, 35-14, 36-15, 20-15, 45-13, 22-15, 42-14, 41-15, 46-14, 19-14, 21-15, 14-13, 10-6, 10-14, 24-15, 43-15, 44-2, 14-14, 28-14, 15-14.
"(The) Jottings," editorial, 8-2.
Junior Teacher's Handbook, Editor, "Editor's Explanation from the Teacher's Handbook," 37-5.
"Just As I Am," Charlotte Elliott, 40-1.

Ka-Ki

Kaethler, Cornie, "Ontario Division," 19-10.
Kaehler, Leonore Hollander, "The Experience of Hunger," 41-11.
Kagaua, Friends, 50-15.
Kagawa, Mennonites, "Mennonites the World Over," 23-8.
Kaufman, J. C., "Christ the Saviour as I Know Him," 49-3.
Kaufman, Orlo, "Christ the Saviour as I Know Him," 49-4.
"Meaning of the Crucifixion and the Resurrection of Christ," 16-8.
Kaufman, Wesley, "Meeting Temptations," 40-10.
Kauffman, R. C., "Alcoholism and Its Cure," 42-3.
"Satyagraha and Christian Pacifism," 7-3.
Keller, Paul W., "A World Newspaper," 41-10.
Kerr, Hazel M., "Comrades on the Journey," 8-11.
"To Whom the Portals Open" (poem), 45-9.
Kingdom, Regier, Arnold, "(The) Expectations of the Kingdom," 15-5.
King, Ellis, obituary, 36-13.
Kirchhofer, Delvin, "What a Movement of Refugees is Like," 3-4.
Kitchener, Ontario, 42-15.
Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 31-4.
"Mennonites the World Over," 32-4.

Kl-Kz

Klassen, J. P., "Home Missions," 22-8.
Kliewer, Menno H., "The Story of a Small Country Church," 21-5.
Kneeling, Y. P. Friend (Magazine) "How Do You Use Your Health?" 24-11.
Koontz, Elbert, "What Is Sin?" (symposium) 41-3.
Koop, A. B., "Alberta Division," 19-11.
Krahn, Cornelius, "Let the Old Welcome the New Year," 1-1.
"Mennonites the World Over," 8-7, 31-4, 32-4, 42-8, 45-6, 26-8, 20-4, 30-7, 19-6, 23-8, 51-4, 22-5, 25-14, 17-8, 15-6, 44-6, 43-6, 42-5, 13-5, 18-6, 37-3, 9-8, 35-8, 36-7, 49-7, 50-4, 6-6, 40-8, 48-8, 41-6, 50-4, 3-6, 4-6, 1-8, 16-4.
"Religious Education Through Visual Aid," 40-8.
Krehbiel, Dr. C. E., 47-8.
"The Pastor As a Conference Worker," 37-15.
Krehbiel, Christian C., obituary, 30-14.
Krehbiel, Leona, "George Washington Carver," 6-3.
Krehbiel, Neal N., obituary, 61-8.
Krehbiel, Olin A., "God Is To Me," 22-3.
"Kreider, (Rev.) A. E., Writes from Calcutta," Rev. A. E. Kreider, 51-5.
Kreider, A. E., "Rev. A. E. Kreider Writes from Calcutta," 51-5.
Kreider, Leonard C., "God's Smallest Creation," 26-1.
Kreider, Robert, Akron, Pennsylvania, 49-15.
"Conditions of Existence in Germany," 51-10.
"Glimpses of Germany," 41-1.
Kreider, Robert, in Berlin, "Relief," 17-13.
Kuyf, Wilhelmina, "A Day in the Life of Two Relief Workers," 2-4.
Kunkel, Fritz, "Wonder-Working Power," 22-1.

La

Labor, Goering, Milo, "Labor Conditions in a Small Kansas Town," 34-5.
"Labor Conditions in a Small Kansas Town," Milo Goering, 34-5.
Labor Day, editorial, 34-2.
Labor organized, Fretz, Winfield, "The Church's Attitude toward Organized Labor," 25-5.
Labor relations, Habegger, C. T., "On Labor Relations," 34-3.
"Labor With the Hands," Grace Noll Crowell, 47-13.
Landes, Rev. Carl J., 51-16.
Lancaster Fellowship (Pennsylvania), 40-14.
Lancaster Mennonite Fellowship, Swartz, Freeman H., "The Growth of a Mennonite Fellowship," 42-6.
Langenwalter, J. H., "Can Our Funerals Please God?" 41-5.
"Righteousness," 10-12.
"What a King," 15-3.
LaPlato, Puerto Rico, "Relief,"
(The) Large Alexanderwohl Church, 2-14.
Large Conference at Berne Church, 46-15.
Latin American Evangelical Youth Congress, "Items of Interest," 44-10.
Laubach, Frank, "He Chose to be a Kingly Servant," 15-1.
Law, William, "Silence," 23-4.
Laymen's organization, 13-5.
"Lay Plans for California Retreat, August 10 to 17," 18-11.

Le-Li

Leaders institute, "Some Reactions to the Y. P. Leaders Institute," 5-11.
"Western District Holds Leader's Institute," 3-11.
"Youth Events," 8-12.
"Leaders of Christian Worker's Institute," 20-11.
"Leathercraft in the Youth Fellowship," Frieda Claassen, 9-12.
Lehigh Mennonite Church, Lehigh, Kansas, 25-15.
Lehman, Mrs. Anna, obituary, 15-4.
Lehman, Carl M., "(The) Position of the Militaristic Christian," 44-4.
"What is Our Concept of Missions?" 32-9.
"Why I Am a Non-resistant Christian," 44-5.
Lehman, Dennis, "Thanksgiving Day in Friesland," 46-8.
Lehman, Rev. Henry S., 50-15.
Leisy, Jean, "What Can Students Do To Promote World Peace?" 15-12.
"Lenten Meditation," Joanna S. Andres, 13-1.
"Let Love Speak," J. P. Boehr, 14-13.
"Let's Get Together," Forward (Magazine), 36-11.
"Letters from Europe," 44-9.
Letters from displaced persons, Krahn, Cornelius, "A Time of Terror," 33-6.
Lettkeman, Gertrude Kasdorf, obituary, 26-8.
Liberal, Kansas, 20-16.
Liechty, Gordon M., "The Christian Layman and Church Unity," 27-3.
Life problems, editorial, 22-2.
Life problem's, Harshbarger, Eva "(The) Valley of Weeping," 21-4.
"Life's Supreme Purpose," B. Bargen, 17-3.
"Life's Supreme Purpose," Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker, 17-3.
"Life's Supreme Purpose," Sister Lena Mae Smith, 17-4.
'Life's Supreme Purpose," Dallas Voran, 17-4.
"(The) Light of Easter Morning," J. N. Smucker, 16-3.
(Menno Church) Lind, Washington, 34-16.
Literature—Christian, 34-10.
Livestock boats, "C. P. S. Unit for Livestock Boats," 6-13.
" 'Live Wire' Sunday School Class Celebrates," Mrs. Earl Schmech, 51-6.

Lo-Ly

Local church youth program, "Young Peoples Council Meeting," 10-9.
Local papers, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 43-6.
Loering, Edward E., obituary, 41-8.

Loewen, Esko, "Mennonite Youth," 31-9.
  "Summer Service in the Chicago Mission," 31-9.
Loewen, John, "What It Means to Love," 45-4.
Lohrentz, A. M., "'Headwork' in the Rough, Beautiful Chaco," 10-3.
  "My Trip Home," 10-4.
  "Thoughts of a Relief Worker on Education for Chaco Mennonites," 42-11.
"Looking at People of Other Races," Melvin Gingerich, 32-10.
ence," Karl V. Schultz, 15-11.
"Looking Back on the C. P. S. Experi-
Lord's Supper, Rosenberger, A. S., "This Do in Remembrance of Me," 16-5.
Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church, Wichita, Kansas, 42-15, 21-16, 38-12, 6-16, 38-14, 38-16.
Love, Bargen, B., "What It Means to Love," A Symposium, 45-3.
Love, Boehr, J. P., "Let Love Speak," 14-13.
Love, Fretz, J. H., "What It Means to Love," A Symposium, 45-4.
Love, Harder, H. N., "What It Means to Love," A Symposium, 45-4.
Love, Loewen, John, "What It Means to Love," A Symposium, 45-4.
Love, Nickel, Ben J., "What It Means to Love," A Symposium, 45-3.
Love of God, Kunkel, Fritz, "Wonder-Working Power," 22-1.
Love of God, Regier, Lueila Smith, "God Is to Me," 22-3.
Low-cost diet, "Items of Interest," 44-10.
"Lubin Jantzens to Go to India," (letter) 35-4.
Lucy Winchester, book review, Fred von Gunten, 8-4.
"Ludwig Van Beethoven," Russell J. Robinson, 38-10.
Lieu's, Mrs. James, "Revival at Kai Chow," 24-3.

Mc

MacDonald, George, "Obedience," (poem), 37-14.
McDowell, Walter, "Home Missions," 22-8.
McDowells Now Serve Calvary Church, Mechanics Grove, Pennsylvania, 14-7.
(First Mennonite Church,) McPherson, Kansas, 34-14.

Ma

"The Magic Word," 47-11.
Mail service to all portions of Germany, "Relief," 17-14.
"Make Up Your Mind," 45-11.
"Manitoba Division," 19-12.
Man, nature of, editorial, "The Real Problem Is the Nature of Man," 21-1.
Martens, Harry E., "A Traveler's Palm," 46-5.
Martin, Harold S., "Meeting Human Needs in Mississippi," 13-11.
Mary-Martha Girls Home, 43-7.
Material aid: Canada, "Relief," 13-13.
"Material Aid," 47-7.
Material aid, Krahn, Cornelius, "I was Enhungered and Ye Gave Me Meat," 6-6.
"Material Aid Notes," 43-13, 43-13, 31-12, 37-13.

Me-Mi

Meadow Church, Colby, Kansas, 13-15, 7-15, 32-15, 42-15.
Meaning of Life, Smucker, J. N., "The Light of Easter Morning," 16-3.
"The Meaning of the Crucifixion and the Resurrection of Christ," Orlo Kaufman, 16-9.
Meat for relief, "Material Aid Notes," 43-13.
"Mechanics and Dynamics," 45-10.
Mechanics Grove, Pennsylvania, "McDowells Now Serve Calvary Church, Mechanics Grove, Pennsylvania, 14-7.
Medford Church, Medford, Oklahoma, 17-15, 13-15.
Medical work, China, "Relief," 44-11.
Medical work—India, Dester, Hilda and Herbert E., "Wide, Wide As the Ocean," 21-8.
Meditation, Samuel, Dr, Mrs., "(The) Hungry Are Filled," 37-8.
Meditation, Stephen, Samuel, "Prayer and the Will of God," 37-14.
Meditation thoughts, "Suggested Theme for Conference Sunday, April 28, 1946," 14-6.
Medora, Marie, "All Life Is God's," 40-10.
"Meeting Human Needs in Mississippi," Harold S. Martin, 13-11.
Meeting of Young People's Board, "Youth Events," 9-12.
"Meeting Temptations," Wesley Kaufman, 40-10.
Memorial gift, "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
"Men and Hunger" (book review), H. A. Fast, 34-6.
Menno Church, Lind, Washington, 2-15, 47-13, 51-16, 44-14, 50-15, 17-15, 5-15, 6-15, 13-5, 7-15, 14-16, 8-15, 32-15, 15-15.
Menno colony, Lohrentz, A. M., "'Headwork' in the Rough, Beautiful Chaco," 10-3.
"Mennonite Aid," 37-14.
"Mennonite Aid Notes," 35-13, 44-12, 43-13.
"Mennonite Aid Section Notes," 18-6, 5-13, 22-13.
The Mennonite Aid Union of Kansas, 44-12.
Mennonites and war, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 8-7.
Mennonite Bible Mission, Chicago, Illinois, 40-16.
"Mennonite Biblical Seminary and Bible School,' 48-14, 13-14, 6-15, 34-13, 44-8.
Mennonite Biblical Seminary, 49-8, 3-14, 4-14, 27-14, 9-14, 23-14, 37-15, 23-14, 21-14, 19-14, 5-14.
"Mennonite Biblical Seminary," Board of Trustees, 32-5.
Mennonite Biblical Seminary, "Mennonite Biblical Seminary News," 27-14.
Mennonite Bible Mission, "Jottings," 6-16.
Mennonite Bible Mission, Chicago, 7-15, 27-15, 44-12.
Mennonite Book Concern, 7-15.
"Mennonite Book Store Moved," J. M. Suderman, 38-8.
Mennonite Book Store, Suderman, J. M., "Announcing the Opening of the Mennonite Book Store, Newton, Kansas," 41-7.
Mennonite Central Committee, 41-1, 27-13.
"M. C. C. Announces Summer Service," 10-10.
M. C. C. Archives, C. P. S., 24-13.
M. C. C., cost of C. P. S., 41-12.
M. C. C.: German books for South America (announcement), 41-15.
M. C. C., "Mennonite Cattle Crews," 61-8.
M. C. C. offices, Bargen, B., "Towards Unity," 42-4.
M. C. C., sailings of relief personnel, 41-13.
M. C. C., "Sea-going Cowboys," 41-12.
M. C. C.. Session Convenes in Interest of European Mennonite Refugees, "Relief," 46-13.
M. C .C., story of twenty-five years, M. C. C., Akron, Pennsylvania, in "Mennonites the World Over," 31-4.
Mennonite Central Committee, "Youth Events," 15-13.
Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, "Aberdeen Young People Have Three-Day Retreat," 37-11.
Mennonite Church, Arlington, Kansas, 34-14.
Mennonite Church, Burrton, Kansas, 21-16.
Mennonite Church, Butterfield, Minnesota, 37-16, 50-17, 38-14.
Mennonite Church, Carlock, Illinois, 21-15.
Mennonite Church, Deer Creek, Oklahoma, 42-15.
Mennonite Church, Germantown, Pennsylvania, 33-14.
Mennonite Church, Goessel, Kansas, 22-16.
Mennonite Church, Hanston, Kansas, 6-15.
Mennonite Church, Herbert, Saskatchewan, 10-6.
Mennonite Church, Inman, Kansas, 21-16.
Mennonite Church, Madrid, Nebraska, 17-16.
Mennonite Church, Newport, Washington, 24-15, 10-6.
Mennonite Church, Rotterdam, Holland, 5-1.
Mennonite Church, Wako, Texas, 30-16.
Mennonite Church, Walton, Kansas, 34-14.
Mennonite Church, Wymark, Saskatchewan, 13-15.
"Mennonite Emphases and New India," S. T. Moyer, 43-4.
"(A) Mennonite Encyclopedia," 27-5.
Mennonite Encyclopedia, "A Mennonite Encyclopedia," 27-5.
Mennonite Fellowship in New York, "Home Missions," 22-8.
Mennonite Fellowship, New York City, 8-16.
Mennonite Hymnary, "In Every Corner Sing," 22-15.
"Mennonite Life," 27-15.

Mennonite Life, 21-16.
"Mennonite Mission in Chicago Active in Work," John T. Neufeld, 24-14.
"Mennonite Mission in Chicago," "Youth Events," 25-12.
"Mennonite Mission in the Chaco," (Dr.) John R. Schmidt, 38-1.
Mennonite missions, Neufeld, John T., "Mennonite Mission in Chicago Active in Work," 24-14.
Mennonite modesty, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 43-6.
Mennonite Publication Office, B. Bargen, 49-14.
"Mennonite Relief in Ethiopia," 9-7.

Mennonite Seminary News, "College and Seminary News," 51-14.
"Mennonite Song Festival," 14-4.
Mennonite writer, Krahn, Cornelius, "A Mennonite Writer—Arnold Dyck," 6-6.
"Mennonites the World Over," Cornelius Krahn, 8-7, 31-4, 42-8, 45-6, 26-8, 20-4, 30-7, 19-6, 23-8, 51-4, 22-5, 25-14, 17-8, 44-6, 43-6, 42-5, 13-5, 18-6, 37-4, 9-8, 35-8, 36-7, 50-4, 6-6, 48-8, 41-6, 50-4, 16-4, 49-7, 51-4, 27-5, 21-6.
Mennonite unity, Sheiiy, Andrew, "Promoting Mennonite Unity," 23-6.
Mennonite witness, Dester, Herbert E., 21-15.
Mennonite Year Book," 16-16.
"Mennonite Youth," 35-9, 37-9, 45-9, 22-9, 42-9, 41-9, 46-9, 30-9, 19-9, 20-9, 21-9, 44-9, 43-9, 24-9.
Mennonite youth conference in Switzerland, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 42-8.
"Mennonite Youth—Education Fund," 42-8.
"(A) Mennonite Youth in Holland Writes," Holland, 15-9.
"Mennonite Youth," Esko Loewen, Editor, 13-9, 18-9.
"Mennonite Youth," J. C. Schmidt, Isaac Epp,. Henry Friesen, 23-9.
Mennonite youth section, "The Program of the Young People's Union," 17-10.
Mennonite youth section of Mennonite Y. P. U. Executive Committee, "An Open Letter to the Ministers," 7-10.
"Mennonite Youth," Adr. Zwartendijk, 36-9.
Mennonite Church, EiReno, Oklahoma, 13-5, 5-14.
Mental health, Wright, Frank Jr. "Service to Those Forgotten," 18-9.
Mental hospitals: "About Mental Hospital Service Units," 33-9.
  "Ohio Hospital Units Receive Recognition," 5-13.
  Siemens, Maurine, "The Inspiration of Group Life at Norristown," 33-10.
  Siemens, Rosie, "Ward," poem, 33-11.
    "Work on the Ward at Howard," 33-9.
  voluntary service, 41-14.
  Weity, Janice, "Tours Made by the Cleveland Service Unit," 33-11.
  work in, 8-7.
  Wright, Frank Jr., "Service to Those Forgotten," 17-11.
Mental hygiene program, 18-12.
Mental illness, editorial, 18-2.
Mentally ill, editorial, 16-2.
Methods of living (quality of), von Riesen, Ronald, "Sufficient unto the Day," 22-5.
Meyers, Grace, "Thoughts on Retreat," 27-9.
Middle District Conference, "The Church's

- Opportunity in the World of Today," 20-6.
- (The) Middle District Conference, 1946, 7-15.
- Middle District Conference, "Middle District Young People Meet," 30-11.
- "Middle District Young People Adopt Resolutions," 38-11.
- "Middle District Y. P. U.," Evelyn Nunemaker, 4-10.
- Middleburg, "Experiences in Dutch Relief," 16-11.
- Mierau, Dietrich, J., obituary, 15-2.
- Mierau, Hugo, "Christ the Saviour as I Know Him," 49-4.
- Migrants, 18-13, 13-12.
  - Bartel, Arnold E., "Mission Work in an Idaho Mexican Labor Camp," 20-11.
  - Friesen, Leonore G., "Migrants Need Us, We Need Them," 3-9.
- "Migrants Need Us, We Need Them," Leonore G. Friesen, 3-9.
- Migrants, "There Is Work Among Migrants This Summer," 20-10.
- Migrant work, "Youth Events," 10-12.
- "(The) Milk Supply in Jagdeeshpur," John Thiessen, 34-8.
- Militarism in America, Anderson, William K., "It Is August—1965," 34-7.
- Militaristic Christians, "Towards Understanding," 44-3.
- Military appropriations, in "Youth Events," 34-12.
- Military way, "Youth Events," 17-12.
- Miller, D. Paul, "We Were Shocked When We Saw Bremen," 19-7.
- Miller, Edward Daniel, obituary, 15-4.
- Miller, Edmund J., "The Ministry of the Communion Service," 37-3.
- Miller, Madeleine Sweeny, Poem "How Far to Bethlehem?" 50-8.
- Miller, Orie, "Orie Miller's Return," 31-13.
- Miller, Mayme Gardner, "World Call," 26-12.
- "Millions of Displaced People," John Thiessen, 18-12.
- Ministerial expense allowances, Stonebeck, George, "'Who's Crazy?'—A Phantasy," 43-8.
- Ministerial retreats, von Riesen, Ronald, "Place of Rest and Re-creation for Your Pastor and His Wife," 32-7.
- "Ministering to the Sick at Coole County Hospital," Harder, Ernst, 20-8.
- "Ministers Aid Committee Accepts Appointment," Walter H. Dyck, 6-14.
- Minister's Conference program, 10-4.
- Minister's Handbook, "Revision of Minister's Handbook Undertaken," 14-13.
- Minister's Pension Committee, "Pensioning Our Ministers," 26-3.
- Minister's pensions, Epp, August, "Pensioning Our Ministers," 26-3.
- Ministers placement, "The Reader Says," 22-14.
- Minister's retreat, "First General Conference Minister's Retreat," 26-15.
  - "General Conference Minister's Retreat," 27-4.
- "Minister's Retreat in Rertospect," Ronald von Riesen, 38-6.
- "(The) Ministry of the Communion Service," Edmund J. Miller, 37-3.
- "Miss Martha Burkhalter's Farewell Letter," Martha Burkhalter, 37-13.
- Mission—Congo, Hartzler, R. L., "The Congo Inland Mission," 30-5.
- Mission—India, Ratzlaff, Ruth and Harold, "Ruth and Harold Ratzlaff Report From Jagdeeshpur," 30-6.
- Mission retreat, "(The) Christian Church in Japan," 43-14.
- Mission supplement, 37-1-16.
- "Mission Work in an Idaho Mexican Labor Camp," Bartel, Arnold E., 20-11.
- Missionary ambassador to China, editorial, 37-2.
- Missionary education fund, 42-9.
  - "The Program of the Young People's Union," 17-10.
- Missions, agricultural, "Of Interest to Youth," 6-12.
- Mission Church, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, 8-15.
- Missions—foreign, 7-7.
  - Dick, Rev. and Mrs. Elmer J., "Rev. and Mrs. Elmer J. Dick Write from Africa," 46-8.
  - India, Thiessen, John, "Eight High School Graduates in Jagdeeshpur, India," 34-9.
    - "The Milk Supply in Jagdeeshpur," 34-8.
    - "Governor's Wife Visits Mission at Jagdeeshpur," 33-8.
- Missions, Grantland, Elsa E., "Who Will Feed These Sheep and Lambs," 27-7.
- Missions, home, in "News," 8-8.
  - Pfister, Elsie, "The Gospel—No More, No Less," 34-5.
  - Rempel, J. G., "Prayer Meeting at Rosthern Bible School," 7-7.
- Missions, Hostetler, Lester, "The School of Missions," 25-4.
- Missions—India, "Discuss 'Missions in India' at Rosthern," 14-11.
  - Moyer, S. T., "Mennonite Emphases and New India," 43-4.
  - Thiessen, John, "Governor's Wife Visits Mission at Jagdeeshpur," 33-8.
- Missions in India, Kreider, A. E., "Rev. A. E. Kreider Writes from Calcutta," 51-5.
- "Mission News," Howard G. Nyce, 41-8.
- Mississippi Service Unit, Martin, Harold S., "Meeting Human Needs in Mississippi," 13-11.

Mo-My

- Molotschna Colony, Der Bote, "The Fate of the Molotschna Colony," 34-4.
- "(The) Monkey's Disgrace," poem, Consolation Magazine, 32-11.
- Morgan, Angele, "In Such an Age," 19-6.
- Mothers' influence, editorial, 44-2.
- "Motives," 47-2.
- (The) Mount Olivet Church, Huron, South Dakota, 10-16.
- Mount Olivet Church, Huron, South Dakota, 19-14, 38-14, 25-16.
- (First Mennonite Church,) Mountain Lake, Minnesota, 34-15.
- Mountain Lake Watchmaker, "Associated Press Story Features Mountain Lake Watchmaker," 45-13.
- Moyer, S. T., "India-Grams," 25-8.
  - "Mennonite Emphasis and New India," 43-4.
  - "Rev. F. J. Isaac, an Appreciation," 44-7.
- "My Master's Face," William Hurd Hiliyer, 16-3.
- "My Mother," (poem) Mrs. John Thiessen, 41-15.
- "My Task" (poem), Barbara Cornet Ryberg, 43-14.
- "My Trip Home," A. M. Lohrentz, 10-4.
- Mueller, Helen H., "I Like to Know What's Happening in Our Conference," 17-6.
  - "Western District Retreats," 41-9.
- Music institutes, Reimer, Alvin, "Music Institutes In the Churches," 14-9.
- Music institutes in C. P. S. camps, "Hold Music Institutes in C. P. S. Camps," 8-11.
- "Music Institutes in the Churches," Alvin Reimer, 14-9.
- Music Institutes, Youth Events, 25-12.
- Mutual aid, Fretz, Winfield J., "The General Conference Mutual Aid Board," 8-8.
  - Kerr, Hazel M., "Comrades on the Journey" (poem), 8-11.
  - "Mutual Aid Board Loans Now Over $10,300," 27-6.
- "Mutual Aid and Home Mission Board Engage Rehabilitation Worker," J. W. Fretz, 24-4.
- Mutual Aid Board, Fretz, J. Winfield "General Conference Mutual Aid Board organizes and Plans Program of Action," 1-7.
- Mutual Aid Board, aim and purpose, "What Should a Mennonite Do With His Money?" 42-5.
- "Mutual Aid Board Loans Now Over $10,300," 27-6.
  - "Mutual Aid Notes," 13-13.

N

- "(The) Narrowness of Jesus," Charles E. Jefferson, 1-11.
- National family week, editorial, 18-2.
- National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, "Potatoes Going Into Liquor," 37-10.
- Naturalization, "Court Declares C. O. Eligible for Naturalization," 26-13.
- Nebel, Dale, "The Returning C. P. S. Man," 4-4.
- "(The) Need for a Place to Worship," Rev. and Mrs. Charles B. Dirks, 15-4.
- "Need to Evaluate Anew the Youth Program in the Churches," Mary Becker, 8-9.
- Needs—India, Dester, Hilda and Herbert E., "Wide, Wide As the Ocean," 21-8.
- "Needs of C. P. S. Program Continue," 6-5.
- Nelson, Boyd, 40-13.
- Netherlands Bible Society, "Youth Events," 16-12.
- Neuenschwander, A. J., "Baptismal Service in Saskatoon," 61-7.
  - "Home Missions," 20-8, 19-8.
  - "Home Mission Workers Move and New Girls' School Opened," 43-7.
  - "Resolution by Home Mission Board," 51-5.
  - "U. S. View of Canadian Mennonite Conference," 30-3.
  - "Writings by J. H. Janzen," 45-9.
- Neufeld, John T., "Mennonite Mission in Chicago Active in Work," 24-14.
  - "Taking a Little Walk," 3-8.
- Neufeld, Katherine, "Summer Service in the Chicago Mission," 31-9.
- Nevins, "Differences of Opinion," 8-11.
- The New Hopedale Church, Meno, Oklahoma, 46-15.
  - "From Homestead Days to the Present," 5-4.
- "New Life" (magazine), "His Radiance Transforms," 37-1.
- New Year, Andres, Joanna S., "So Shall I Enter," 51-1.
  - Basinger, Elmer, "A New Year's Message," 51-3.
  - editorial, 51-2.
- "(A) New Year Begins," 51-9.
- New Year, Krahn, Cornelius, "Let the Old Welcome the New," 1-1.
  - "We Begin Another New Year," 1-9.
- "New Worker Going to Mexico," 48-7.
- "(A) New Year's Message," Elmer Basinger, 51-3.
- Nickel. Arnold, "How Does God Call?" 36-10.
- Nickel, Ben J., "What It Means to Love," 45-3.
- Nickel, Helen E., "A Three-Day Jeep Tour," 47-4.
- Nickel, J. W., "British Columbia Division," 19-10.
- "(The) 1945 'Mennonite Year Book'," 14-16.
- "1946 Vacation Bible School," 9-5.
- "1946 Vacation Bible School," Western District Education Committee, 10-5.
- "1946 Vacation Bible School," Western District Vacation Bible School Staff, 10-5.
- 1946 Vacation Bible School Handbook, 21-15.
- Nisei Christian Youth Conference, "Items of Interest," 44-10.
- Nobel Peace Prize, editorial, "Have the Mennonites Not Been Practical Enough in Their Efforts?" 49-2.
- Non-resitance and the mentally ill, Stoltzfus, Grant, "Experience in Mental Hospitals Raises Question: 'A Mennonite Mental Hospital?'" 18-7.
- Non-resistant Christians, "Towards Understanding," 44-3.
- Non-violence, editorial, 7-2.
  - Kauffman, R. C., "Satyagraha and Christian Pacifism," 7-3.
- Normal, Illinois, Church, 18-16.
- "No Room for Hate," Maenna Cheserton-Mangle, 37-8.
- North Danvers Church, Danvers, Illinois, 18-16.
- Northern District Conference, 25-16.
- (The) Northern District Conference, "Program for the Northern District Conference, Salem Church, Freeman, South Dakota," 16-7.
- "Northern District Young People Make Contribution to Missions," 14-11.

"(The) Northern District Y. P. U.," Hazel Senner, 4-12.
North Star Church, Drake Saskatchewan, 8-6, 3-15, 45-14, 30-16.
"Not One Dull Moment," Jacob H. Janzen, 6-7.
"Not Trivial Things," Joanna Palmer, 20-12.
"A Noval for Young People," Elizabeth Janet Gray, 6-12.
Nurses—activities, Bethel Deaconess School of Nursing (Students), "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-10.
"A Nurses Prayer," Fern Baer, 21-11.
Nurses Training, Bethel Deaconess School of Nursing (Students), "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-10.
Nijdam, Rev. C., death of, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 41-6.
"Rev. H. G. Nyce—New Secretary," A. E. Kreider, chairman, 25-13.
Nyce, Howard, "Foreign Missions," 19-8, 20-7.
Nyce, Rev. Howard G., 50-14.
  "Mission News," 41-8.
  "India Missionaries Choose New Officers," 47-16.

O

"O Lord of Heaven, Earth and Sea," Christopher Wordsworth, 48-12.
"Obedience," George MacDonald, 37-14.
Obituaries, 44-6, 20-14, 19-3 & 7, 10-13.
  Becker, Elizabeth (Schultz), 24-14.
  Anna Friesen Stoesz, 41-15.
  George, David M., 43-7.
  Caroline Waltner Goering, 42-5.
  Hilty, Mrs. Eva E., 23-7.
  in Appreciation of Rev. J. J. Balzer," Erland Waltner, 14-4.
  Isaac, Ferdinand Jacob, 43-7.
  Roth, Mrs. Emma, 43-7.
  Schroeder, Margaret nee Hiebert, 24-13.
"Observations on My Trip to Poland," Gerhard Friesen, 10-7.
"Observing Conference Sunday," Executive Secretary, General Conference, 14-6.
"(The) Offering as an Act of Worship," W. F. Unruh, 24-14.
Offering, Unruh, W. F., "The Offering as an Act of Worship," 24-14.
Officers, Eastern District Young People's, 46-12.
"Officers of Eastern District Young People's Reports," 36-12.
"Of Interest to Youth," 6-12.
Oklahoma Church Workers' Conference, "Program at Deer Creek," 13-4.
"Oklahoma Convention Program," 34-15.
"Oklahoma Young People's Retreat," 31-10.
Oldham, Bishop G. Ashton, "America First," 26-7.
"One Generation," Board of Education, 10-5.
  Ronald von Riesen, 10-5.
"One God—One Purpose," 5-11.
"One Man's Influence," 45-10.
"On Labor Relations," C. T. Habegger, 34-3.
"On Planning Young People's Meetings," The Society Kit, 31-11.
"On Selecting a Campsite," Ronald von Riesen, 41-9.
"On Sequois Trails," Paul Albrecht, 9-6.
"On 'Sunshine'," Hazel G. Werner, 42-11.
"Ontario Division," 19-10.
"On the Experiences of a Seminarian," Robert Hartzler, 24-9.
"On the Uses of Adversity," Thomas A. Kempis, 14-10.
Onward, "Attention on People, Not Causes" (quotation), 34-11.
Onward, "Caesar and God," 45-11.
Onward, (magazine), "Is Ambition Dangerous," 23-10.
Onward, "No Complaining in Our Streets," 34-11.
Onward, "One Man's Influence," 45-10.
Onward, (magazine), "Source of Inspiration," 50-10.
Onward, "Tremendous Trifles," 27-11.
Ordination of Minister, "Home Missions," 22-8.
"Oregon Young People Hold Fifth Annual Retreat," Elaine Widmer, 34-10.
"Orie Miller's Return," Orie Miller, 31-13.
Overcoming evil, editorial, 21-2.
"Our Seminary and Bible School," 17-4.
  A. Warkentin, 35-14.
Overcoming, Adrian, Walter, "Overcoming Prejudices," 24-8.
"Overcoming Prejudices," Walter Adrian, 24-8.
"O World, Thou Choosest Not," George Santayana, 13-10.

Pa-Ph

Pacific District, Edlger, Elmer, "A Visit with the Pacific District," 20-9.
Pacific District Conference, 9-15.
Pacifism, Christian, Kauffman, R. C., "Satyagraha and Christian Pacifism," 7-3.
Pacifism, Hindu, Kauffman, R. C., "Satyagraha and Christian Pacifism," 7-5.
Palmer, Joanna, "Not Trivial Things," 20-12.
"Pannabecker, S. F., Accepts Deanship of Seminary," A. Warkentin, 20-3.
Pannabecker, S. F., "The Development of the General Conference of the Mennonites of North America in the American Environment," 17-8.
  "Happy Is the Man That Getteth Understanding," 33-3.
  "Jottings," 21-15.
Pannabecker, Mrs. S. F., "Life's Supreme Purpose," 17-3.
Paraguay, 25-14.
  Lohrentz, A. M., "'Headwork' in the Rough, Beautiful Chaco," 10-3.
  "Mennonite Mission in the Chaco," 38-1.
  "Relief," 23-13.
  "This Is the Way It Looks in Paraguay," 10-1.
Paraguay to admit Mennonite refugees, "Relief," 16-13.
Parents, school, editorial, 34-2.
Paso Robles, California, 41-15.
Passion Sunday, editorial, 14-2.
"Pastoral Prayer in the Worship Service," Willard Claassen, 30-8.
"(The) Pastor As a Conference Worker," C. E. Krehbiel, 37-15.
Pastor's Conference of the Northern District Conference, 44-14.
"Paul and Pastors' Salaries," George Stoneback, 37-15.
Pauls, Eva, "Eva Pauls Reports from Champa, India," 36-6.
Peace, 8-13.
Peace action, "C. P. S.," 21-13.
Peace books, 44-15.
Peace, Classmate (magazine), "Toward Peace or War," 27-10.
Peace Committee, 23-15.
Peace, editorial, 50-2.
Peace, Jones, E. Stanley, "Proposal Made As 'Go-between' for the United States and Japan in 1941," 1-6.
"Peace Notes," 36-13.
Peace, Rich, Willis E., "Prophets or Puppets?" 26-6.
  Rousch, Dr. Walter E., "Quote," 8-8.
Peace testimony, Eastern District Conference Peace Committee, "The Reader Says," 46-7.
Penner, Anne, 48-14.
Penner, Helen Louise, "What Young People Expect of the Church," 7-11.
Penner, Herman, obituary, 15-4.
Penner, P. W., "Asia and the Gospel," 49-10.
The Pennsylvania Coop Review, "Quote," 10-6.
"Pensioning Our Ministers," August Epp, 26-3.
"Perfection," (Poem), Eleanor Dixon Glidden, 41-12.
Personal testimonies, editorial, 7-2.
Peters, A. H., "Ordination Service," 36-15.
"Petition" (poem), Ruth Carter, 10-12.
Petter, Mrs. Rodolphe, 40-14, 50-14.
Petter, Rodolphe, "Mrs. Petter's Jubilee of Mission Service," 48-6.
Pfister, Elsie, "Gets Children to Learn Bible Verses," 9-7.
Philippine Islands, "Relief," 23-13.
Philippine Relief Unit, 40-13.
Physical and spiritual suffering, "Items of Interest," 43-12.

Pi-Py

Picture slides, "C. P. S.," 43-13.
Pierce, Edith Lovejoy, poem, 21-3.
Pierce, Jessie Owen, "Good Morning" (poem), 22-10.
Pioneer days, "From Homestead Days to the Present," 5-4.
Placement of the M. C. C. personnel in India, Kreider, A. E., "Rev. A. E. Kreider Writes from Calcutta," 51-5.
"Place of Rest and Re-creation for Your Pastor and His Wife," Ronald von Riesen, 32-7.
"Plans for the 1946 Food for Relief Program," Beechy, Atlee, 20-5.
"Plan Third Annual Christian Worker's Institute," 17-12.
"Playing Safe With Life," Onward (magazine), 22-10.
"Please," H. T. Unruh, 23-4.
Poem, Addington, Marian H., "Incantation," 27-12.
  Allison, Brent Dow, "A War-Lord's Prayer," 23-2.
  Andres, Joanna S., "Lenten Meditation," 13-1.
  author unknown, "Calvary and Easter," 16-10.
  Baer, Fern, "A Nurse's Prayer," 21-11.
  Bolar, Edith Dunn, "Growth," 43-12.
  Carter, Ruth, "Petition," 10-12.
  Cleaves, Charles Poole, "The Upper Room," 16-4.
  Cotton, G. E. L., "This Fair Earth," 43-11.
  Crowell, Grace Noll, "The Sparrow," 49-12.
  Glidden, Eleanor Dixon, "Perfection," 41-12.
  Hillyer, William Hurd, "My Master's Face," 16-3.
  Kerr, Hazel M., "To Whom the Portals Open," 45-9.
  MacDonald, George, 'Obedience," 37-14.
  Miller, Madaleine Sweeny, "How Far to Bethlehem?" 50-8.
  Miller, Mayme Gardner, "World Call," 26-12.
  Pierce, Edith Lovejoy, 21-3.
  Pierce, Jessie Owen, "Good Morning," 22-10.
  Ryberg, Barbara Cornet, "My Task," 43-14.
  Santayana, George, "O World, Thou Choosest Not," 13-10.
  Staller, Ruth B., Christian, Show Your Light," 27-9.
  Bonar, Horatius, "Choose Thou for Me," 5-12.
  Church, Peggy Pond, "Ultimatum for Man," 32-12.
  Consolation Magazine, "The Monkey's Disgrace," 32-11.
  Guiterman, Arthur, "Beauty Forever," 20-11.
  "Immeasurably More," 20-10.
  Morgan, Angela, "In Such an Age," 19-6.
  Palmer, Joanna, "Not Trivial Things," 20-12.
  "A Prayer for a Little Home," 20-6.
"(The) Position of the Militaristic Christian," Carl M. Lehman, 44-4.
"Postal Service to Germany," Germany, 15-13.
"Potatoes Going into Liquor," National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, 37-10.
Potsdam, Baehr, J. P., "What Can I Do about Potsdam?" 5-7.
Potsdam policy, editorial, 1-3.
"(The) Power of Love" (advertisement), 45-6.
"Practicing Brotherhood," 47-8.
Pratum, Oregon, 4-15.
"Prayer and the Will of God," Samuel Stephan, 37-14.
Prayer, "C. P. S. Man's Prayer," 3-1.
  Davis, Grace Helen, "A Young Person's Prayer: First Things," 25-10.
  edtiorial, 1-3.
  editorial, "Prayer," 9-2.
  Eitzen, D. D., "Teach Us to Pray," 9-3.

- Enz, Jacob J., "Barriers to Effective Prayer," 1-5.
- Executive Secretary, General Confrence, "Observing Conference Sunday," 14-6.

"A Prayer for a Little Home," 20-6.
"Prayer Meeting at Rosthern Bible School," J. C. Rempel, 7-7.
Prayer, Pastoral, in the worship service, Claassen, Willard, "Pastoral Prayer in the Worship Service," 30-8.
Prayer (poem), "An Alphabetical Prayer," 8-10.
- Sommers, Pearl, "Jesus' Teachings on Prayer," 13-9.
- Y. P. Friend (magazine), "How Do You Use Your Health?" 24-11.

Preaching, Hartsough, H. L., "Four Requisites for Great Preaching," 25-10.
Prejudices, Adrian, Wälter, "Overcoming Prejudices," 24-8.
"Prejudice," Winslow Ames, 15-10.
The Presbyterian, "Bibles in Japan," 50-12.
"Present Relief Needs," Henry A. Fast, 33-5.
Prisoner of War Camp, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites in a Prisoner of War Camp," 6-6.
"Prisoner-of-War Camp in Belgium," Delmar Wedel, 51-10.
P. R. N., book, "C. P. S.," 21-13.
"The Problem of Financing in a 'Spiritual' Vocation," Lloyd L. Ramseyer, 31-3.
Program for Bluffton College Bible lectures, 42-7.
"Program for the Northern District Conference, Salem Church, Freeman, South Dakota," 16-7.
Program materials, need for, "The Program of the Young People's Union," 17-10.
"Program of Christian Workers' Institute," 18-10.
"Program of the Western District Conference," 38-15.
Union," 17-10.
"(The) Program of the Young People's Union," 17-10.
Program, "Oklahoma Church Workers Conference," 13-4.
Program, "Pacific District Conference Program," 23-8.
Prohibition, "Items of Interest," 38-12.
Project for young people, "A Project for a Young People's Group," 34-10.
Projects at Rosthern, Friesen, Henry, "Review of Work in Saskatchewan," 43-10.
"Promoting Mennonite Unity," Andrew Shelly, 23-6.
"Prophets or Puppets?" Willis E. Rich, 26-6.
Prosperity, Chase, Stuart, "For This We Fought," (Quotations) 45-2.
"Protestant Hospital Chaplains Organize," 41-6.
Public Welfare, editorial, 22-2.
Puerto Rico, editorial, "C. P. S. Men in Puerto Rico," 6-2.
Puerto Rico, La Plata, "Relief," 24-13.
Puerto Rico, Martens, Harry E., "A Traveler's Palm," 46-5.
"Puerto Rican 'Natives' In Our Schools," N. Paul Stucky, 42-10.
Puerto Rico, "Relief," 24-13.
"Purchase Home for Seminary and Bible School," Seminary, 42-14.
Purpose, Bargen, B., "Life's Supreme Purpose," 17-3.
- Pannabecker, Mrs. S. F., "Life's Supreme Purpose," 17-3.
- Smith, Sister Lena Mae, "Life's Supreme Purpose," 17-4.
- Voran, Dallas, "Life's Supreme Purpose," 17-4.
- Waltner, Erland, "This Is That," 23-5.

"Purpose of Christian Workers Institute," 19-12.
Putney. Walter K., "Early Thanksgiving Dishes," 46-10.

Q

(Bethany Church,) Quakertown, Pennsylvania, 50-15.
"Quarterly Report," F. J. and Anna Isaac," 36-4.
Quiet waiting, editorial, 23-2.
"Quote," (The) Pennsylvania Co-op Review, 10-6.

Ra-Ri

Race Prejudice, (The) Churchman (Magazine), "The Blank Paper," 24-7.
Race relations, editorial, 6-2.
Race relations, Gingerich, Melvin, "Looking at People of Other Races," 32-10.
- India, "Items of Interest," 43-12.
- Stucky, Dale M., "Science Also Says, 'All of One Blood'," 6-4.
- Youth Events, 25-12.

Rally in Eastern District, Lantis, Mrs. Robert M., 49-10.
Ramseyer, Lloyd L., "The Problem of Financing in a 'Spiritual' Vocation," 31-3.
Ransom, Kansas, 4-15.
Rationing, "Relief," 17-13.
"Ratzlaff Baby Dies," 40-14.
Ratzlaff, A. K., "For Better Health in Mennonite Communities," 42-3.
"Ratzlaff Baby Dies," Howard G. Nyce, 40-14.
Ratzlaff, Harold, "How Much Would You Pay?" 5-6.
- "Ruth and Harold Ratzlaff Report from Jagdeeshpur," 30-6.

Ratzlaff, Laura, obituary, 32-14.
Ratzlaff, Ruth, "Ruth and Harold Ratzlaff Report from Jagdeeshpur," 30-6.
Raugb, John S., "Report from Smith Corner," 3-8.
- "What Conversion Means to Me," 40-3.

"(The) Reader Says:" J. P. Baehr, 48-13.
"(The) Reader Says," 37-15, 22-14.
- Eastern District Conference Peace Committee, 46-7.
- G. S. Stoneback, 36-15.

"Reading the Bible Thoughtfully," Christian Doctrine, 50-10.
(A) Readiness to Criticise, editorial, 30-2.
Readjustment, "Valiant Young Pagans," 15-10.
"Realism," Reynold Weinbrenner, 40-2.
"(The) Real Problem Is the Nature of Man," editorial, 27-1.
"Realism," 40-2.
"Recreation and the Church," The Dove-Tale, 2-11.
Recreation schools, "Some Summer Recreation Schools," 23-10.
Recreation, "To Get More Information About Recreation," 2-8.
Recreation, "What Makes Recreation Worthwhile," 2-11.
Recreation, worship and discussion ideas, plans, The society kit, "On Planning Young Peoples Meetings," 31-11.
Recreation, "Youth Events," 9-12.
"Reconstruction Unit in France," 35-13.
Redemption, editorial, 13-2.
- Kaufman, Orlo, "Meaning of the Crucifixion and the Resurrection of Christ," 16-9.

Reformation Day, 43-2.
- Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 44-6.

Refugees (European Mennonite), "Relief," 46-13.
- Kirchhofer, Delvin, "What a Movement of Refugees Is Like," 3-4.
- Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 45-6, 16-4.

Refugees of displaced persons, 33-6.
Refunds for clergy-fare certificates, Dyck, Walter H., "Headquarters Office Corner," 41-15.
Regier, Arnold, "(The) Expectations of the Kingdom," 15-5.
Regier, J. M., "Elsa Grantland To Visit Churches and Conference," 61-16.
Regier, Jacob R., "In Memoriam," 5-13.
Regier, Luella Smith, "God Is to Me," 22-3.
Regier, Marie J., "Internment Camp Experience Significant," 4-7.
- "Internment in Weihsien," 37-1.
- "Marie J. Regier Writes to Foreign Mission Board" 3-2.

Regier, P. K., "How to Call a Minister," 61-3.
Regier, William H., "Responsibilities of a Choir Member," 4-3.
Rehabilitation, Board of Education, "C. P. S. Rehabiliiation Fund," 15-7.
- "Rehabilitation in Bengal," 6-13.

Rehabilitation work, "Relief," 8-13.
Reimer, Alvin, "Music Institutes in the Church," 14-9.
Reimer, Rosella, "Girls Serve in South," 35-10.
Reinhard, Edward, "In Memoriam," 6-14.
Releases, "C. P. S.," 23-13.
"Reliance," Henry van Dyke, 25-11.
Reliance (poem), Dyke, Henry van, "Reliance," 25-11.
Relief, 3-13, 4-8, 7-13, 8-13, 45-7, 10-13, 24-13, 23-13, 43-13, 44-11, 25-13, 16-13, 9-13, 35-13, 17-13, 36-13, 1-13, 2-5, 20-13, 13-13, 37-13, 40-13, 48-13, 40-13, 22-13, 41-13, 6-13, 18-13, 15-13, 46-12, 26-13, 27-13, 19-13, 21-13, 32-13, 31-12, 5-8.
- Austria, 41-13.
- Beechy, Atlee, "Plans for the 1946 Food for Relief Program," 20-5.
- "Blankets Coming in," 9-13.
- "Blankets for Relief," 10-13.
- "Carload Shipments for Relief by Mennonite Communities," 26-14.
- cereal, 33-13.
- child feeding in Germany, 41-13.
- China, "Relief," 23-13.
- Clothing Center, Newton, Kansas, 7-15.
- "Clothing Distribution in Holland," 9-13.
- Community Canning Projects, 42-13.
- "Construction and Transport Units Planned," 9-13.
- Europe, editorial, "Blankets for Europe," 7-1.
- Evangelishes Hilfswerk, "Flour, cause for Thanksgiving," 46-3.
- "Farewell Service," 9-13.
- "Farnhurst," 6-14.
- Fast, H. A., "Men and Hunger," 34-6.
  - "The Present Relief Needs," 33-5.
- "Flour Shipments," 9-13.
- "Food Shipments," 10-13.
- food for Germany, 41-1.
- "Gave Over Million Dollars Worth for Relief," 19-4.
- Germany, editorial, 7-2.
- gift parcels, 41-13.
- giving, editorial, 46-2.
- Goering, Sam, "Sam Goering Family Now in Switzerland," 1-4.
- goods, "Relief," 17-13.
- Heifers-for-relief, 18-16.
- in Belgium, "Conditions in Belgium," 51-11.
- India, "Relief," 23-13.
- letters of appreciation, 34-13.
- Material Aid Notes, 42-13.
- M. C. C. personnel, 42-13.
- "Mennonite D. P.'s—C.A.R.E., 41-13.
- need of doctor in China unit, 41-13.

"Relief Needs—Only Sensational?" Robert Root, 38-9.
Relief, "Note of Thanks," 10-13.
- "Offering for Dehydrated Milk," 33-16.
- packages, "Letters from Europe," 44-9.
- packages to Europe, 42-13.
- Paraguay, "Relief," 23-13.
- "Paraguay Worker Returns," 10-13.
- Philippine Islands, "Relief," 23-13.
- Philippines. 41-13.

"Relief Projects Open to C. P. S. Men," 46-7.
Relief, Regier, J. M., "German Pastors Send Letters of Gratitude," 33-7.
- "Relief Activities in France," 10-13.
- "Relief Briefs," 10-13.

"Relief Responsibility," Youth Christian Companion, 23-11.
Relief workers, "Relief," 43-13.
- sailings of M. C. C. personnel, 41-13.
- supplies to Germany, "Youth Events," 8-12.
- Wallach, pastor, "German Pastor Sends Letter of Thanks for Clothing," 41-7.
- worker, Kuyf, Wilhelmina, "A Day in the Life of Two Relief Workers," 2-4.
- workers, "Relief," 44-11.
- worker summary, "Relief," 16-13.
- work in Europe, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 8-7.
- work in the past, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 43-6.

"Religion among the Old Colony Mennonites of Mexico," J. Winfield Fretz, 35-5.
Religion, editorial, 24-2.
Religious education, Shelly, Paul R., "The Work of the Curriculum Committee," 27-7.

- "Religious Education through Visual Aid," Cornelius Krahn, 40-8.
- Religion in Russia, "Items of Interest," 44-10.
- "Religious Education Through Visual Aid," Cornelius Krahn, 40-8.
- "Religious Education Week," 36-11.
- "Reminiscences of a Last Year's Retreat," Joann Bowen, 26-10.
- Rempel, P. A., "Manitoba Division," 19-12.
- Rempel, J. G., "Prayer Meeting at Rosthern Bible School," 7-7.
- Report, "Board Meeting in Newton, Kansas," 37-12.
- "Report from Smith Corner," John S. Raugh, 3-8.
- Report of festivities, Habegger, Mrs. Alfred, 49-6.
- "Report of Money Received During the First Half of 1946," 31-5.
- "Report of Money Received During the Fourth Quarter, 1946," 13-6.
- "Report of the Eastern District C. E. Convention," Grace Binder, 27-10.
- "Report on Recent Session of Northern District Conference," 25-16.
- Report, "Special Meeting of Mission Board in Chicago," 37-10.
- "Reporter Visits Fort Collins C. P. S. Camp," 41-8.
- Requirements, Friesen, Jacob T., "God's Requirements," 24-12.
- "Resettlement of Displaced Mennonites," in "Mennonite Aid Section Notes," 32-12.
- "Resolution by Home Mission Board," A. J. Neuenschwander, 51-5.
- "Responsibilities of a Choir Member," William H. Regier, 4-3.
- Responsibility, Friesen, Jacob T., "God's Requirements," 24-12.
- "Responsibility" (Poem), Grace Noll Crowell, 30-15.
- "Rest Awhile," 30-1.
- Restitutionism, Neuenschwander, A. J., "Resolution by Home Mission Board," 51-5.
- Results of war, Gospel Herald, "Combatting Evil," 8-10.
- Resurrection, Kaufman, Orlo, "(The) Meaning of the Crucifixion and the Resurrection of Christ," 16-9.
  - "They Laid Him in the Grave," 16-1.
- Retreat at Men-O-Lan, 27-9.
  - California, 32-10.
  - dates, "Youth Events," 13-12.
- "Retreat Grounds and the Northern District," Carl Epp, 40-9.
- Retreat grounds, Geisinger, Norman A., "(The) History of Men-O-Lan, 43-9.
  - Yoder, Harry, "Choosing a Retreat Ground," 42-10.
- Retreat, "Halstead C. E. Holds All Day Retreat," 38-11.
  - "Lay Plans for California Retreat," 18-11.
  - "The Program of the Young People's Union," 17-10.
  - von Riesen, Ronald, "Ministers' Retreat in Retrospect," 38-6.
- "Retreat Grounds and the Northern District," Carl Epp, 40-9.
- Returning C. O., Epp, Aaron, "(The) Church and the Returning C. O.," 15-8.
- "(The) Returning C. P. S. Man," Dale Nebel, 4-4.
- "Rev. and Mrs. Elmer J. Dick Write from Africa," Rev. and Mrs. Elmer J. Dick and LaVera Joyce, 46-8.
- "Rev. F. J. Isaac, an Appreciation," S. T. Moyer, 44-7.
- "Review of Work in Saskatchewan," Henry Friesen, 43-10.
- "(The) Revised Standard Version of the New Testament," editorial, 8-2.
- (The) Revised Standard Version of the New Testament, "The Word in New Words," 10-11.
- "Revision of Minister's Handbook Undertaken," 14-13.
- "Revival at Kai Chow," Mrs. James Liu', 24-3.
- Rich, Mrs. Willis E., 23-14.
  - "God's Orchestra," 23-1.
  - "Good Gifts for Our Children," 8-3.
- Rich, Willis E., "Prophets or Puppets?" 26-6.
- Ricb, Mrs. Willis, "Saying, Feeling, and Doing," 46-1.
  - "The Task of the Christian Home," 19-1.
- Rich young ruler, 20-1.
- Richfield, Pennsylvania, Church, 13-15, 48-15, 17-16.
- Risks, Onward (Magazine), "Playing Safe with Life," 22-10.

Ro-Ry

- Robinson, Russell, J., "Ludwig Van Beethoven," 38-10.
- "(The) Role of a Saint," 7-12.
- "A Rollcall of Seminary Students," Robert Hartzler, 24-10.
- Root, Robert, "Relief Needs—Only Sensational?" 38-9.
- Rosenberger, A. S., "Our Mennonite Biblical Seminary and Bible School," 20-3.
  - "This Do in Remembrance of Me," 16-5.
- Rosfeld, John, obituary, 35-6.
- Rosthern Youth Farm, 18-12.
- Roth, Mrs. Emma, obituary, 43-7.
- Roush, Dr. Walter E., "Quote," 8-8.
- Rural life Sunday, editorial, 21-2.
- Russia, editorial, 15-2.
  - Fast, Henry A., "A Christian Attitude towards Russia," 24-7.
  - "These World Events," 45-9.
  - "Youth Events," 14-12.
  - and America, editorial, 41-2.
- "Russian Mennonite Meeting in Holland," Magdelene Friesn, 51-10.
- Russian Mennonite refugees, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 21-6, 22-6.
- Russian Mennonites in Western Europe, Krahn, Cornelius, 51-4.
- "Ruth and Harold Ratzlaff Report from Jagdeeshpur," Ruth and Harold Ratzlaff, 30-6.
- Ruth, Mrs. Anna B., obituary, 44-6.
  - Mrs. Mary S., obituary, 44-6.
- Rutschman, LaVerne, "God Is to Me," 22-4.
- Rutschman, Waldo David, obituary, 37-16.
- Ryberg, Barbara Cornet, "My Task," (poem), 43-14.

Sa

- Sacrifice, Friesen, Jacob T., "God's Requirements," 24-12.
  - Sailing dates for missionaries, Nyce, Howard G., 41-8.
- (The) Saint,—a Christian, "The Role of a Saint," 7-12.
- Salzman, Mrs. Earl, "Should the Pastor's Wife Entertain All the Guests?" 47-3.
- St. John Church, Pandora, Ohio, 25-15, 20-15, 30-16, 10-6, 3-15, 7-15, 14-14.
- Salaries, editorial, 25-2.
- Salaries for Mennonite ministers, Ramseyer, Lloyd L., "Problem of Financing in a 'Spiritual' Vocation," 31-3.
- Salaries of home missionaries and pastors, American Lutheran, "It Pays," 42-5.
- "Salvaged Church Records," W. C. Andreas, 9-15.
- Salvation, Pfister, Elsie, "The Gospel—No More, No Less," 34-5.
- Salem Church, 30-15.
  - Dalton, Ohio, 9-15, 8-16, 15-15, 34-16.
  - Freeman, South Dakota, 7-15, 6-16, 42-16, 26-16, 19-16.
  - Munich, North Dakota, 15-15, 10-6, 10-14, 22-15.
  - Wisner, Nebraska, 7-15, 21-15, 45-14.
  - "Program for the Northern District Conference, Salem Church, Freeman, South Dakota," 16-7.
- Salem-Zion Church, Freeman, South Dakota, 27-6, 14-16, 50-15, 3-15.
- Samuel, Mrs. (Dr.) "The Foot Prints of Christ" (Meditation), 36-7.
  - "The Hungry are Filled," 37-17.
  - "Songs in the Night," 32-4.
- "Saskatchewan Division," 19-11.
- "Saskatchewan Ministers and Deacons Hold Conference," 3-16.
- "Satyagraha and Christian Pacifism," R. C. Kauffman, 7-3.
- (The) Saucon Mennonite Church, Coopersburg, Pennsylvania, 45-14.
- Sawatzky, J. F., "The Christian Church and World Peace," 61-8.
- "Saying, Feeling, and Doing," Mrs. Willis Rich, 46-1.

Sc

- Schmidt, Abraham A., obituary, 47-7.
- Schmidt, Dr. and Mrs. John R., 4-16.
- Schlmmel, Thomas R., obituary, 38-12.
- Schmidt, Elenore M., "Report from Champa, India," 41-14.
- Schmidt, Henry H., obituary, 32-14.
- Schmidt, Dr. Herbert R., "Visiting the Sick in the Hospital," 18-5.
- Schmidt, J. C., "The Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 22-9.
- Schmidt, J. C.; Epp, Isaac; Friesen, Henry, "Mennonite Youth," 23-9.
  - "Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 23-9.
- Schmidt, John R., "The Mennonite Mission in the Chaco," 38-1.
- Schoenwiese Church, Winnipeg, Manitoba, 15-16.
- "(The) School of Missions," Lester Hostetler, 25-4.
- Schowalter, Abraham E., obituary, 51-13.
- Schrock, Mrs. Lina, obituary, 26-8.
- Schroeder, Eugene J., obituary, 26-8.
- Schroeder, Margaret nee Hiebert, obituary, 24-13.
- Schultz, Mrs. Irene, obituary, 2-6.
- Schultz, Karl V., "Looking Back on a C. P. S. Experience," 15-11.
- "Science Also Says, 'All of One Blood'," Dale M. Stucky, 6-4.
- Science and the nature of man, editorial, 26-2.
- "Scientific Developments," Esko L. Loewen, 6-11.
- Science, Loewen, Esko L., "Scientific Developments," 6-11.
- "The Season of Expectancy," 47-12.
- Second Church, Paso Robles, California, 27-6, 44-13, 48-14, 7-15, 43-15.
- Self-knowledge, editorial, 21-2.
- Self-righteousness, editorial, 23-2.
- "Selma Unruh Reports," Selma Unruh, 40-7.
- "Semi-Annual Financial Report," General Conference Headquarters, 31-7.
- Seminary, "College and Seminary News," 19-14.
- Seminary and Bible School, "College and Seminary News." 16-14.
- Seminary, General Conference Headquarters, "Edmund Miller to become Field Secretary for Mennonite Seminary," 16-6.
  - Hartzler, Robert, "On the Experiences of a Seminarian," 24-9.
  - Rosenberger, A. S., "Our Mennonite Biblical Seminary and Bible School," 20-3.
  - Warkentin, A., "S. F. Pannabecker Accepts Deanship of Seminary," 20-3.
- Seminary, Mennonite Biblical, "Purchase Home for Seminary and Bible School," 42-14.
- Seminary students, Hartzler, Robert, "A Roll call of Seminary Students," 24-10.
- "Senator Asks for Spiritual Reconversion," Raymond E. Willis, 36-14.
- "Send Contributions to Conference Headquarters," Emergency Relief Board, 36-16.
- Service, "A Chance to Serve," 10-10.
- "Service of Ordination of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Harder, Bethel College Chapel," 48-15.
- Service of young people to church and Conference, Becker, Mary, "Social Life and Service of Young People in the Western District," 7-9.
- "Service to These Forgotten," Frank Wright, Jr., 17-11.
- "Service to Those Forgotten" (con't), Frank Wright, Jr., 18-9.
- Service units, "Volunteer Summer Service Units," 25-10.
  - "Youth Events," 15-12.
- "Shall we compete or Plan Together?" Walter H. Dyck, 50-5.
- Shand, The Foundations of Character, 21-3.
- Shelly, Andrew, 23-14.
  - "Promoting Mennonite Unity," 23-6.
- Shelly, Paul R., "Study Aids for S. S. Lessons," 41-14.
  - "The Work of the Curriculum Committee," 27-7.
- Shelly, Wilmer, "What Is Sin?" (Symposium), 41-4.

"(A) Short History of the Central Conference," Raymond L. Hartzler, 17-5.
"Should Our Church Activities Be Widened?" E. W. Friesen, 37-9.
"Should the Pastor's Wife Entertain All the Guests?" Mrs. Earl Salzman, 47-3.
Schultz, Rev. David A., obituary, 35-6.
Shutt, Dorothy S., "How Was Your State Named?" 40-11.
Sicher Church, Cordell, Oklahoma, 7-15, 18-15, 31-15, 21-15, 35-14.
  "The Story of a Small Country Church," 21-5.
Siemens, (Mrs.) Arthur, obituary, 32-13, 31-13.
Siemens, Maurine, "The Inspiration of Group Life at Norristown," 33-10.
Siemens, Rosie, "Ward," (poem), 33-14.
  "Work On the Ward at Howard," 33-9.
Silence, Law, William, "Silence," 23-4.
"Silence," William Low, 23-4.
Silver Street Church, Goshen, Indiana, 51-16.
Sin, nature of, editorial, 41-2.
  symposium, "What Is Sin?" 41-3.
"Sing On!" (poem), Great Thoughts, 41-12.

Sk-Sr

Slotter, Margaret, "Glimpses of Camp Nathaneal, Kentucky," 36-6.
Small Town, Goering, Milo, "Labor Conditions in a Small Kansas Town," 34-5.
Smile, The Dove-Tale, "Thoughts about a Smile," 8-10.
Smith corner, "New Church to be Built," 16-6.
Smith, Sister Lena Mae, "Life's Supreme Purpose," 17-4.
Smucker, J. N., "Christmas Preparations," 50-3.
Smucker, J. N., "The Light of Easter Morning," 16-3.
"(A) Social at Home," 45-10.
"Social Life and Service of Young People in the Western District," Mary Becker, 7-9.
Social life of young people in Western District, Becker, Mary, "Social Life and Service of Young People in the Western District," 7-9.
"(A) Social Program for the General Conference," Menno S. Harder, 17-7.
(The) Society Kit, "On Planning Young Peoples Meetings," 31-11.
Soil conservation, Lowdermilk, Walter C., "The Eleventh Commandment," 22-13.
Solution to a problem, Hartzler, J. E., "God Is to Me," 22-4.
"Some Reactions to the Y. P. Leaders Institute," 5-11.
Sommers, Pearl, "Jesus' Teachings on Prayer," 13-9.
Song festival, "Mennonite Song Festival," 14-4.
"Songs in the Night," Dr. Mrs. Samuel, 32-4.
Sonnenberg, Arlo, "Thoughts upon Release from Camp," 9-9.
Sorrow, Harshbarger, Eva, "The Valley of Weeping," 21-3.
"So Shall I Enter" (poem), Joanna S. Andres, 51-1.
Soudertown, Pennsylvania, Church, 7-12.
Soul restoration, Krehbiel, Olin A., "God Is to Me," 22-3.
Source of Inspiration, Mennonite Youth, Onward, 50-10.
"Source of Inspiration," Onward (magazine), 50-10.
South America, "Resettlement of Displaced Mennonites," 32-13.
"Special Meeting of Mission Board in Chicago," 37-10.
"Specific Items for Prayer," Executive Secretary, General Conference, 14-6.
"Sport Two Thousand Years Ago," Onward (Magazine), 37-12.
Spring, editorial, 14-2.
Springfield Church, Pennsylvania, 42-16, 8-16.
  Pleasant Valley, Pennsylvania, 25-16.
Spiritual goals, von Riesen, Ronald, "Sufficient unto the Day," 22-5.
"Spiritual Growth," editorial, 5-2.
Spiritual vitality, Hertz, J. H., "A Traveler's Tale," 51-4.
Spiritual welfare, Schmidt, J. C.; Epp, Isaac; Friesen, Henry, "Aims of the Youth Farm at Rosthern," 22-9.

St-Sz

Starvation, editorial, 10-2.
  Fast, H. A., "Men and Hunger," 34-6.
  Glick, Lester, "What is Starvation?" 51-8.
  "How Christian Are We?" 19-2.
"Statement of Policy," 13-16.
Statler, Ruth B., "Christian, Show Your Light" (poem), 27-9.
Steiner, Dan J., "The First Session of the Pacific District Conference," 47-1.
Steiner, Marcille, "Children May Send Goodwill Christmas Bundles," 42-7.
Stephan, Samuel, "Prayer and the Will of God," 37-14.
"Steps for a Daily Program of Prayer," D. D. Eitzen, 9-1.
Sterling Avenue Church, Kitchener, Ontario, 5-15, 30-15, 48-15, 2-16.
Stevens, Cecil E., "The Traveler's Palm" (poem), 46-5.
Stoltzfus, Grant, "Experience in Mental Hospitals Raises Question: A Mennonite Mental Hospital?" 18-7.
Stoneback, G. S., "The Reader Says," 36-15.
  Stoneback, George, "Paul and Pastors' Salaries," 37-15.
  "Who's Crazy?"—A Phantasy, 43-8.
"(The) Story of a Small Country Church," Menno H. Kliewer, 21-5.
"(The) Story of Franz, A Young Mennonite from Europe," Mennonite Youth, 25-9.
"(The) Story of My Life," Indian Boy, 32-6.
Strikes, editorial, 22-2, 10-2.
Stucky, Anna, obituary, 61-8.
Stucky, Dale M., "Science Also Says, 'All of One Blood'," 6-4.
Stucky, Gerald, 23-14.
  "For Christ and His Church in Colombia," 23-7.
Stucky, N. Paul, "Puerto Rican 'Natives' in Our Schools," 42-10.
"Student Arrives from Paraguay," Jacob Friesen, 32-11.
"Student Christian Movement," 36-12.
Student exchange, Krahn, Cornelius, "Mennonites the World Over," 23-8.
  "Relief," 23-13.
Student Volunteers, Bethel College, 50-16.
Students—Bethel Deaconess School of Nursing, "Aspects of Nurses Training," 21-9.
"Study Aids for Sunday School Lessons," Paul R. Shelly, 41-14.
Study, Becker, Mary, Worship and Study in the Church," 6-9.
Sublimation, editorial, 18-2.
Suffering, "He Chose the Cross for Our Sake," 14-1.
"Sufficient unto the Day," Ronald von Riesen, 22-5.
Sugarcreek, Ohio, Church, 23-15.
"Suggestions for Panel Discussions," Gospel Messenger, 37-10.
"Suggested Theme for Conference, Sunday, April 28, 1946," 14-6.
Suderman, J. M., "Announcing the Opening of the Mennonite Book Store, Newton, Kansas," 41-7.
  "Board of Publication Meets," 30-3.
  "Mennonite Bookstore Moved," 38-8.
Suderman, John, "Suderman's Report from Oraibi, Arizona," 31-8.
Suderman, Mabel, "Suderman's Report from Oraibi, Arizona," 31-8.
"Summer Program of Elim Gospel Beach," 26-9.
"Summer Service in the Chicago Mission," Esko Loewen, 31-9.
Summerfield, Illinois, 35-15, 44-14.
Sunday school class celebrates, Schmeek, Mrs. Earl, (Correspondent), "'Live-Wire' Sunday School Class Celebrates," 51-6.
Sunday School, Jantzen, Mrs. Lubin, "How the Sunday School Came To Be," 13-3.
Sunday school teacher, Waltner, Erland, "Teacher Training in Your Church," 33-4.
"Suppose You Try Smiling," 47-10.
Supreme purpose, editorial, 17-2.
"(A) Survey of the Youth Program in Mennonite Churches," Mary Becker, 5-9.
Swartz, Freeman H., "The Growth of a Mennonite Fellowship," 42-6.
The Swiss Church, Alsen, North Dakota, 4-15, 42-15, 44-13, 23-15, 15-15.

T

Tabor Church, Newton, Kansas, 32-16, 40-15, 4-15.
"Taking a Little Walk," John T. Neufeld, 3-8.
"(The) Task of the Christian Home," Mrs. Willis E. Rich, 19-1.
Taylor, Stanley, "Activities of a Pacifist Conscript" (Review), 36-13.
"Teach Us to Pray," D. D. Eitzen, 9-3.
"Teacher Training in Your Church," Erland Waltner, 33-4.
Telling truth, "The Truth About Half Truths," 23-10.
"Tempers," Joshua Burlap, 27-11.
Testimony of love, "Items of Interest," 43-12.
"Thanksgiving Day in Friesland," Dennis Lehman, 46-9.
Thanksgiving, editorial, 46-2.
Thanksgiving, Evangelisches Hilfswerk, "Flour, Cause for Thanksgiving," 46-3.
  Lehman, Dennis, "Thanksgiving Day in Friesland," 46-9.
  Putney, Walter K., "Early Thanksgiving Dishes," 46-10.
Thatcher, Mrs. Ellen W., obituary, 10-13.
"There Is Work among Migrants This Summer," 20-10.
"These World Events," 45-9.
"They Hated Him," Erland Waltner, 13-3.
"They Laid Him in the Grave," 16-1.
"They Say" (poem). 51-12.
Thiessen, John, "But I Don't Know the Way," 20-7.
  "Governor's Wife Visits Mission at Jagdeeshpur," 33-8.
  "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
  "Jagdeeshpur Mission Area Very Active," 42-6.
  "The Milk Supply in Jagdeeshpur," 34-8.
Thiessen, Mrs. John, "Tribute," 41-15.
Thinking, "Do Your Own Thinking," 25-10.
"Third Christian Workers Institute Met at Bluffton, Ohio," 27-6.
"This Do in Remembrance of Me," A. S. Rosenberger, 16-5.
"This Fair Earth" (poem), G. E. L. Cotton, 43-11.
"This Is That," Erland Waltner, 23-5.
"Thoughts about a Smile," The Dove-Tale, 8-10.
"Thoughts about Leadership," 45-11.
"Thoughts of a Relief Worker on Education for Chaco Mennonites," A. M. Lohrentz, 42-11.
"Thoughts on Atomic Might," 41-5.
"Thoughts upon Release from Camp," Arlo Sonnenberg, 9-9.
"Thy Neighbor" (poem), 35-3.
Rev. Derk P. Tieszen, obituary, 18-8.
"(The) Time Element in Winning People to Christ," The Evangelism Committee, 7-12.
"'Tis Life Beyond" (poem), 30-14.
Toews, Henry A., "Foreign Missions," 22-7.
Tolerance, Christian, Nevins, "Differences of Opinion," 8-11.
Topeka Church, Topeka, Indiana, 48-15, 18-16, 20-15.
"Tours Made by the Cleveland Service Unit," Janice Welty, 33-11.
"Toward Peace or War," Classmate (magazine), 27-10.
"Towards Understanding," 44-3.
"Towards Unity," B. Bargen, 42-4.
"To Whom the Portals Open," Hazel M. Kerr, 45-9.
Tracts, "Witnessing with Tracts," 5-8.
"(A) Tragedy and Denial of Faith," 43-13.
Translation of the Bible, "Clipping of Events," 5-12.
"(A) Traveler's Palm," Harry E. Martens, 46-5.
"(A) Traveler's Tale," J. H. Hertz, 51-4.

Treatment of C. O.'s, “Youth Events,” 15-12.
“Tremendous Trifles,” Onward (magaer?” 35-9.
Veteran, “Valiant Young Pagans,” 15-10.
“Victory Is a Twin,” Pike View Peace zine), 27-11.
“Trends of Youth Work in the Rural Church,” 5-10.
Trenton, Ohio, Apostolic Mennonite Church, 49-14.
“(A) Tribute,” Mrs. John Thiessen, 41-15.
Triumphal entry, Langenwalter, J. H., “What a King!” 15-3.
Trouble, editorial, 16-2.
  Kempis, Thomas A., “On the Uses of Adversity,” 14-10.
Troyer Memorial Nurses Home, “Central Conference Notes,” 23-16.
True vine, “Suggested Theme for Conference Sunday, April 28, 1946,” 14-6.
Trustees, Board of, “Mennonite Biblical Seminary,” 32-5.
“The Truth about Half Truths,” 23-10.
“(The) Truth and the Golden Rule,” Dan West, 9-11.
Truth, Hartzler, J. E., “God Is to Me,” 22-4.
Tuberculosis, Burkholder, J. Lawrence, “Tuberculosis in India,” 5-8.
Twentieth Century Joint Conference of Mennonite Meeting, 50-15.

U.

“Ultimatum for Man,” poem, Peggy Pond Church, 32-12.
Uncertainty of future and trust in God, Basinger, Elmer, “A New Year's Message,” 51-3.
Unchurched people, “Items of Interest,” 44-10.
Understanding, editorial, 15-2.
Understanding people, editorial, 21-2.
Unification of Dutch church, 42-12.
United Brethern Church, “Items of Interest,” 38-12.
  “Youth Events,” 25-12.
(The) United Christian Youth Movement, “Of Interest to Youth,” 6-12.
United Mennonite Church, Waterloo, Ontario, 8-6, 9-6, 26-16.
United Mennonite Mission Church, 14-8.
United Nations Organization, “Youth Events,” 25-12.
Unity, editorial, 10-2.
  expanding, Shelly, Andrew, “Promoting Mennonite Unity,” 23-6.
U. N. R. R. A., 21-15.
  Reserve Unit, “C. P. S.,” 8-13.
“U. S. View of Canadian Mennonite Conference,” A. J. Neuenschwander, 30-3.
Unrau, Maria, obituary, 47-7.
Unruh, Rev. D. D., obituary, 16-15.
Unruh, David S., obituary, 36-13.
Unruh, H. T., “The Home God Meant,” 18-3.
  “Please,” 23-4.
Unruh, J. D., “How Is the Mennonite Church Contributing to World Order?” 44-5.
Unruh, Selma, “Selma Unruh Reports,” 40-7.
Unruh, W. F., “General and Central Conferences Unite,” 9-5.
  “The Gethsemane-Calvary Way of Dealing with Evil,” 14-3.
  “Offering as an Act of Worship,” 24-14.
Unzicker, Edward D., obituary, 2-6.
Upland, California, Church, 32-16, 30-16.
Upper Milford Church, Zionsville, Pennsylvania, 20-15.
“(The) Upper Room,” Charles Poole Cleaves, 16-4.
Ushers, Unruh, W. F., “The Offering as an Act of Worship,” 24-14.

V

Vacation Bible School, Board of Education of the General Conference. “Recommends Vacation Bible School Handbook,” 14-5.
Vacation Bible School, editorial, 14-2.
  “Handbook for Vacation Bible School,” 13-15.
“Vacation Bible School, 1946,” Western District Vacation Bible School Staff, 8-5.
Vacations for pastors, Dyck, Walter, “Does a Pastor Need Time Off?” 26-5.
“(The) Valley of Weeping,” Eva Harshbarger, 21-3.
Valuation, “Relief,” 21-13.
“(The) Value of C. P. S.,” 5-15.
van der Smissen, C. H., 50-14.
van der Smissen, Sister Hillegonda, “Sister Hillegonda's Statement,” 41-14.
van, Dyke, Henry, (poem), 34-1.
Varney, Grace Acker, “Who is My Broth-News, 18-12.
Victory over resentments, editorial, 21-2.
Vision, Walter, Erland, “This Is That,” 23-5.
“Visiting the Sick in the Hospital,” Herbert R. Schmidt, 18-5.
“(A) Visit with the Pacific District,” Ediger, Elmer, 20-9.
Visual materials in the church, “Items of Interest,” 38-12.
Vlissingen, “Experiences in Dutch Relief,” 16-11.
(The) Voice of Peace, (book), “C. P. S.,” 21-13.
(The) Voice of Peace (Hill City C. P. S. Publication), 42-13.
Voluntary service, “Relief,” 27-14.
Voluntary service, mental hospitals, 41-14.
Voluntary service program, 33-12.
  C. P. S., 41-12.
  “The Program of the Young People's Union,” 17-10.
  units, 34-12.
“Voluntary Service Units and Living ‘Statistics’,” Dallas Voran, 18-11.
Voluntary summer service program, M. C. C. Release, “M. C. C. Announces Summer Service,” 10-10.
“Volunteer Summer Service Units,” 25-10.
von Bodelschwingh, Dr. Fritz, The British Weekly, “A Defender of the Infirm Passes,” 32-11.
Von Gunten, Fred, book review Lucy Winchester, by Christmas Carol Kauffman, 8-4. von Riesen, Ronald, “Board to Have Executive Secretary,” 5-5.
  “Freedom from What?” 33-1.
  “Introducing the Coming Junior Quarterly,” 37-5.
  “Ministers' Retreat in Retrospect,” 38-6.
  “One Generation,” 10-5.
  “On Selecting a Campsite,” 4-19.
  “A Place of Rest and Re-creation for Your Pastor and His Wife,” 32-7.
  “Sufficient unto the Day,” 22-5.
Voran, Rev. Christian J., obituary, 30-14.
Voran, Dallas, “Voluntary Service Units and Living ‘Statistics’,” 18-11.
  “Life's Supreme Purpose,” 17-4.
Voran, Mrs. Fannie Kaufman, obituary, 19-7.
Voran, Tobias, obituary, 19-7.
Voters' information, editorial, 44-2.
Voth, Raymond M., “The Evangelical Youth Fellowship,” 49-11.
Voth, Mrs. W. C., 50-14.

Wa

Wage scale, Goering, Milo, “Labor Conditions in a Small Kansas Town,” 34-5.
Wako, Texas, 30-16.
Walcheren, “Experiences in Dutch Relief,” 16-11.
Waldensians, 33-13.
“Walter Dyck to fill Headquarters Vacancy for Time Being,” General Conference Headquarters, 16-6.
Walton, Kansas, Church, 14-14, 7-15, 25-15, 23-15.
Waltner, Erland, 23-14.
  “Teacher Training In Your Church,” 33-4.
  “They Hated Him,” 13-3.
  “This Is That,” 23-5.
Waltner, Lena, “Art and the Child,” 25-6.
War, Classmate (magazine), “Toward Peace or War,” 27-10.
  editorial, 27-2.
  “Thoughts on Atomic Might,” 41-5.
“Ward,” (poem), Rosie Siemens, 33-11.
Warkentin, Dr. A., 8-16.
  “Mennonite Biblical Seminary and Bible School,” 31-14.
  “Our Seminary and Bible School,” 35-14.
  “S. F. Pannabecker Accepts Deanship of Seminary,” 20-3.
“A War-Lord's Prayer,” Brent Allison Dow, 23-2.
War-relief expenditures, “Youth Events,” 13-12.
“(The) Washington State Y. P. U.,” Marie Franz, 4-12.
Waterloo-Kitchener Church, Waterloo, Ontario, 22-16, 44-12, 17-16, 40-14, 14-15.
Wayland Mennonite Church, Wayland. Iowa, 47-14, 4-15, 36-15, 45-13.

We-Wh

“We Have Your Number,” 40-16.
Wedel, C. C., “An Appeal for the Family Altar and Bible Reading,” 48-5.
Wedel, Delmar, “A Prisoner-of-War Camp in Belgium,” 51-10.
Wedel, Fred C., obituary, 32-14.
Wedel, Jeanne, “Summer Service in the Chicago Mission,” 31-9.
Wedel, Theodore O., Krahn, Cornelius, “Mennonites the World Over,” 19-6.
Week of Prayer, The, editorial, 51-2.
Wehrli, Dr. Allen G., Bible lecturer at Bluffton, 42-7.
Weinbrenner, Reynold, “Will Never Thirst,” 31-1.
Welty, David, 47-14.
Welty, Janice, “Tours made by the Cleveland Service Unit,” 33-11.
Welty, Sylvanus, obituary, 30-14.
Werner, Hazen G., “On ‘Sunshine’,” 42-11.
West, Dan, “The Truth and the Golden Rule,” 9-11.
“(The) West Hill Services of Aalsmeer, Holland,” Adriaan Zwartendijk, 50-11.
West Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pennsylvania, 14-14, 21-16, 44-12, 36-16, 9-6.
West Zion Church, Moundridge, Kansas, 42-16, 10-16, 50-15, 4-16, 31-15, 21-16, 16-15.
Western District C. E., “Items of Interest,” 46-12.
  Convention, 33-12.
  “Western District C. E. Convention to be held at Eden Mennonite Church,” 30-14.
Western District Conference, 44-16, 41-16.
Western District Conference Charity Committee, 51-16.
Western District Conference, “Program of the Western District Conference,” 38-15.
  Retreats, 26-12.
“Western District Conference Women's Missionary Meeting,” 40-16.
Western District Education Committee, “1946 Vacation Bible School,” 10-5.
“Western District Retreats,” Helen Mueller, 41-9.
(The) Western District Sunday School Convention, 17-16.
Western District Vacation Bible School Staff, “1946 Vacation Bible School,” 10-5.
“(The) Western District Y. P. U.,” Frieda Claassen, 4-11.
“We Were Shocked When We Saw Bremen,” D. Paul Miller, 19-7.
“What a King,” J. H. Langenwalter, 15-3.
“What a Movement of Refugees Is Like,” Delvin Kirchhofer, 3-4.
“What a Year Brings Forth,” E. L. Loewen, 6-11.
“What Can I Do about Potsdam?” J. P. Baehr, 5-7.
“What Can Students Do to Promote World Peace?” Jean Leisy, 15-12.
“What Conversion Means to Me,” Mrs. J. R. Duerksen, 40-4.
“What Conversion Means to Me,” D. D. Eitzen, 40-3.
“What Conversion Means to Me,” C. H. Friesen, 40-4.
“What Conversion Means to Me,” John S. Raugh, 40-3.
“What Is Our Concept of Missions?” Carl Lehman, 32-9.

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of tbe GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

“What Is Sin?” (Symposium), 41-3.
“What It Means to be a Deaconess,” Gonzalo Baez Camargo, 18-4.
“What It Means to Love,” (Symposium), B. Bargen, 45-3.
“What It Means to Love,” (Symposium), J. H. Fretz, 45-5.
“What It Means to Love,” (Symposium), H. N. Harder, 45-4.
“What It Means to Love,” (Symposium), John Loewen, 45-4.
“What It Means to Love,” (Symposium), Ben J. Nickel, 45-3.
“What of the Church?” J. John Friesen, 36-5.
“What Should a Mennonite Do With His Money?” Board of Mutual Aid, 42-5.
“What the Retreat Meant to Me,” 38-7.
“What Young People Expect of the Church,” Helen Louise Penner, 7-11.
“When We Taste Defeat,” The Teacher, 40-9.
“ ’Who’s Crazy?’—A Phantasy,” George Stoneback, 43-8.
“Who Is My Brother?” Grace Acker Varney, 35-9.
“Who Will Feed These Sheep and Lambs?” Elsa E. Grantland, 27-7.
“Why Are Ye Fearful?” editorial, 43-11.
“Why as a Non-resistant Christian, I Can Not Take Part in War,” Albert M. Gaeddert, 44-3.
“Why I Am a Non-resistant Christian,” Carl M. Lehman, 44-5.
“What the Retreat Grounds Should Be,” 44-11.
“Why Use Graded Sunday School Lesson Material?” Mrs. L. W. Jantzen, 30-4.

Wi-Wy

“Wide, Wide as the Ocean,” Herbert E. Dester, 21-7.
  Hilda Dester, 21-7.
Widmer, Elaine, “Oregon Young People Hold Fifth Annual Retreat,” 34-10.
Wiebe, Willard W., “A Glance at City Missions,” 37-7.
Wiens, Mrs. Abraham, obituary, 26-8.
Wiens, Mrs. Catherine, obituary, 51-13.
“Will Never Thirst,” Reynold Weinbrenner, 31-1.
Williams, Agnes, obituary, 19-3.
Willis, E. Raymond, “Senator Asks for Spiritual Reconversion,” 36-14.
Winton, California, 8-6.
Witnesses, Dirks, Marvin J., “Ye Shall Be My Witnesses,” 23-3.
Wolf Point, Montana, 15-15.
Women’s Missionary Society meeting, 10-4.
“Wonder-Working Power,” Fritz Kunkel, 22-1.
“The Word in New Words,” 10-11.
Wordsworth, Christopher, “O Lord of Heaven, Earth, and Sea,” 48-12.
Work, a blessing, editorial, 34-2.
“(The) Work of the Curriculum Committee,” Paul R. Shelly, 27-7.
“Work on the Ward at Howard,” Rosie Siemens, 33-9.
“Work with Migrants in Arkansas,” Melvin Boehr, 35-11.
“World Call” (poem), Mayme Gardner Miller, 26-12.
World Christian youth conference, 42-12.
World Council of Churches, “Relief Responsibility,” 23-11.
“World Food Crisis,” “Statistics,” 16-8.
“World Mennonitism,” by H. C. Yoder, Krahn, Cornelius, “Mennonites the World Over,” 42-8.
“(A) World Newspaper,” Paul W. Keller, 41-10.
World Order, editorial, 44-2.
World peace, Leisy, Jean, “What Can Students Do to Promote World Peace?” 15-12.
“World-Wide Bible Reading, Thanksgiving to Christmas,” 48-8.
World (weekly paper), Keller, Paul W., “A World Newspaper,” 41-10.
Worship, Dirks, Rev. and Mrs. Charles B., “Need for a Place to Worship,” 15-4.
“Worship and Study in the Church,” Mary Becker, 6-9.
Wright, Frank, Jr., “Service to Those Forgotten,” 18-9.
  “Service to These Forgotten,” 17-11.
“Writings by J. H. Janzen,” A. J. Neuenschwander, 45-8.
Wymark, Saskatchewan, 34-14, 19-16.

X

X-Ray machine, “Foreign Missions,” 22-7.

Y

“Ye Shall Be My Witnesses,” Marvin J. Dirks, 23-3.
Yearbook, “Yearbook Gets Streamlined,” 46-7.
“Yearbook Gets Streamlined,” 46-7.
Yoder, Harry, “Choosing a Retreat Ground,” 42-10.
  “Toward Understanding Young People,” 41-4.
Y. P. Friend (Magazine), “How Do You Use Your Health,” 24-11.
Y, P, U.—existing conditions, Ediger, Elmer, “Conclusions about Youth in the Conference,” 22-11.
  recommendations, Ediger, Elmer, “Conclusions about Youth in the Conference,” 22-11.
Young people, “Northern District Young People Make Contributions to Missions,” 14-11.
Young people’s activities, “Publish Survey of Young People’s Activities,” 3-12.
Young people and the church; Pener, Helen Louise, “What Young People Expect of the Church,” 7-11.
“Young People’s Organizations in the General Conference,” 4-9.
“Young People’s Program of the Western District C. E. Convention,” 41-10.
Young people’s retreat, “Oklahoma Young People’s Retreat,” 31-10.
  Widmer, Elaine, “Oregon Young People Hold Fifth Annual Retreat,” 34-10.
Young people’s union, “The Program of the Young People’s Union,” 17-10.
Young People’s Union, “Youth Events,” 22-12.
“(Meeting of) Young People’s Union Council, 10-9.
Young People’s Union Executive Committee, 33-12.
“(A) Young Person’s Prayer: ‘First Things’,” Grace Helen Davis, 25-10.
Youth, “Youth Activity in Other Churches,” 46-10.
Youth activity, Dubois, Lauriston J., “Youth Activity in the Church of the Nazarene,” 26-10.
“Youth Activity of the Church of the Brethren,” Harry Bowman, 47-9.
“Youth Activity in Other Churches,” Youth (Magazine), 46-10.
Youth and the church, Becker, Mary, “Need to Evaluate Anew the Youth Program in the Churches,” 8-9.
Youth church Membership, “Items of Interest,” 44-10.
“Youth Events,” 27-12, 17-12, 26-11, 23-12, 10-12, 22-12, 42-12, 16-12, 41-11, 32-12, 31-10, 20-12, 7-12, 15-12, 8-12, 25-12, 14-12, 13-12, 18-12, 9-12.
Youth fellowship, “The Program of the Young People’s Union,” 17-10.
Youth organizations, “Young People’s Union Board Meets,” 17-9.
“Youth Organizations in Canada,” 19-9.
Youth paper, Die Vereinsglocke, “Items of Interest,” 43-12.
“Youth Preparing for Life,” Arthur Isaak, 30-9.
Youth program, Becker, Mary, “A Survey of the Youth Program in Mennonite Churches,” 5-9.
Youth projects, “Young People’s Union Council Meeting,” 10-9.
Youth rallies, Friesen, Henry, “Review of Work in Saskatchewan,” 43-10.
Youth’s Christian Companion (magazine), “Relief Responsibility,” 23-11.
Ypsi, booklet, “C. P. S.,” 21-13.

Z

Zigler, R. M., 7-14.
Zion Church, Arena, North Dakota, 36-15, 42-16.
Zion Church, Bridgewater, South Dakota, 27-14, 20-15.
  Donnellson, Iowa, 32-16, 8-6, 14-15, 44-14, 5-15.
  Elbing, Kansas, 18-14, 38-15, 32-15, 7-15, 4-14, 42-15, 44-13, 10-15, 24-16, 14-14, 51-14.
    “To Have Service of Praise and Thanksgiving,” 51-14.
  Kingman, Kansas, 8-16.
  Souderton, Pennsylvania, 49-14, 9-15, 1-15, 33-15, 41-16, 22-16, 46-14, 5-16, 17-16, 5-15, 10-15.
  Zoar Church, Goltry, Oklahoma, 16-15, 40-14, 8-6, 32-15.
Zwartendijk, Adr., “The Mennonite Youth of Aalsmeer, Holland,” 36-9.
  “The West-Hill Services of Aalsmeer, Holland,” 50-11.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — May 20, 1947 — Number 20

O Pentecost Come Today!

Although there are probably no finer men and women than the noblest characters of the Christian Church today, it still is true that the modern Church must experience a Pentecost if it is to be the Church in such a way as to keep darkness and death from covering the earth.

"Man is coming to realize that if he is to be saved from destruction, not untold milleniums hence but quite possibly within the lifetime of those now living, he requires a firm individual and social morality. He also needs a new spirit of humility, of penitence, of devotion to justice, of voluntary cooperation . . . . . the churches should be surging forward to a new authority and power in their preaching and their ministry. Are they? I fear that question answers itself . . . there is an enormous amount of effort being expended by devoted but tradition-bound churches which has virtually no chance of influencing the young men and women who are typical products of our contemporary cultural processes . . . . . institutional religion has little influence over the masses and over contemporary social orders and agencies . . . A report adopted last year by the Church of England declared that the work of the churches must now start from the premise that Britain 'is a pagan nation.' "—Paul Hutchinson

"Throughout Europe the majority of people are definitely non-Christian or indifferently Christian." —Dr. J. Hutchison Cockburn

"The rank and file are turning away from organized religion. It does not satisfy . . . The church is sterile."—G. B. Oxnan

"The Protestant churches are confronted with a scandal. It is our more than 250 denominations. It is a scandal because it splits communities into conflicting loyalties.—Robert Edgar

"What is needed is a church which is the conscience of society, a church which will condemn selfish, nationalistic, imperialistic, compromising social action, by whomever contemplated or committed, and insist upon a society which will recognize, as Jesus did, that man is more than a producer and consumer of goods, more than a breeder of wage-slaves and cannon-fodder."—Bernard Iddings Bell

"We have had our last chance . . . . The problem basically is theological and involves a spiritual recrudescense."—General Douglas MacArthur

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

THE TRUMAN DOCTRINE may stop Russia, but it will very likely not stop a great many people in the world from entertaining the idea that they are worthy of bread and butter, of garments for their bodies, and of a decent roof over their heads. It seems likely that the military aid to Greece and Turkey will be but the beginning of military activities in such other countries as Korea, China, etc., on a scale that makes the present "aid" only a very small item. Possibly after a bit it will seem logical to Americans that if Communism is to be stopped in many places, it ought to be stopped everywhere. But what if the United States did conquer Russia? Could it then also solve the world's problems? That is the sixty-four dollar question. The haunting ghost of our last depression, the millions of ill-fed, ill-clothed, and ill-housed in our own Southland, the slums of Puerto Rico, the wretched conditions of the people over whom we rule in Japan and Germany, the growing Communism among the people of Italy whom we "liberated," etc., are all factors which should make us very thoughtful. If America conquers the world, then its two billion people, including such of Russia's two hundred million as may be left, will look to the United States for bread and reconstruction. Will the United States be able to give them more than a stone? If not, then resistance movements are bound to develop out of the misery and chaos on earth. What then? Use more force? Guns do not solve economic problems in our nation or among nations. There are those who see a rosy future in the "American Century" with American capital being invested all over the world. American capital is needed throughout the world, but though the people of the world need the American dollar they do not want to be ruled by it. Coerced socialism is not the way out and neither is exploitation through the dollar. A Life magazine editorial exclaims "American business men who go abroad this year should make a lot of money." This kind of motivation can never bring peace and plenty to all, for it lacks a concern for the general welfare. Christ taught that peace and plenty and self-realization can only come as the individual cares for the general welfare as he cares for himself. Profit motivation, on the other hand, holds that only by caring supremely for himself will the individual benefit society to the greatest extent. How fallacious this is is indicated by two current events. When it was rumored that Japanese textile mills might be allowed to open to something like half-throttle, American cotton mill owners began to have fear of competition. According to Max Rheinstein, "Under the guise of reparations we have been and still are exerting pressure upon both our war allies and neutrals to confiscate all German assets which would serve as a basis for any future export trade." The American dollar must serve rather than exploit if the misery and chaos on which Communism feeds is to be wiped out. In the face of America's present faith in military aid, let it be remembered that it was a war-scarred general who said, "We have had our last chance . . . The problem basically is theological and involves a spiritual recrudescene." Those are tremendous words. But since the problem is tremendous, the answer must be likewise. Let there be such a "spiritual recrudescence" that America's billions for defense will instead be used for relief and reconstruction, with millions of Americans going out into the whole world to build goodwill, let American capital serve rather than exploit, let America be as one who serves rather than as one who rules, and then it will be such a country as no other nation in the world will want to destroy.

QUIETNESS AND CONFIDENCE constituted Isaiah's foreign policy for dealing with a nation which did not acknowledge the God of the Hebrews and which pursued a vigorous expansionist policy, Isa. 30:15. It seems that most of his fellow-citizens put their trust in armaments and alliances. Today as then people believe in different methods for achieving the same goal, namely, security. Today as then the majority favors armament. Armament, in a way, invites trust, for in many ways a tank, a machine gun, etc., seem so much more tangible than an attitude of goodwill. In fact, it is much easier to pile up guns than to get people of one nation to achieve attitudes which will overcome the feelings of fear and hatred in another nation. However, though guns can overcome guns, only feelings of love can overcome feelings of fear and hatred. Isaiah's

(Continued on page 8)

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

U-N-I-T-Y --- an expository sermon on I Cor. 12

by Don Smucker

Seven living religions are active opponents of Christianity. And, what is most important, Christendom itself is divided into three major groups, Eastern, Roman, and Protestant. The evangelicals, moreover, are divided into 250 different denominations. All this division, of course, is against the background of a strife-torn world.

Does the Word of God have an answer to division and difference? Indeed it does. Consider the twelfth chapter of First Corinthians. The theme of this chapter is unity. For, the problem of division and difference is a very old problem. Banish at the very outcast the false view that the apostolic church had no problems; or, that is was a spotless, heavenly utopia. The apostolic church faced the same issues as the twentieth century.

Merely as an aid to clarity and ready remembrance I propose to present the twelfth chapter of First Corinthians in acrostic form. The acrostic forms the word U-N-I-T-Y.

I

First, is unity under the Lordship of Christ working through the Holy Spirit. " . . . . . no man can say, Jesus is Lord, but in the Holy Spirit."

How marvelously the Edinburg conference on Faith and Life caught this truth. In 1937 Christians assembled from radically different backgrounds. What was the basis of unity? Was it some creedal declaration written by the theologians? No, it was the Lordship of Christ through the Holy Spirit. Listen to their moving declaration:

"We are one in faith in our Lord Jesus Christ . . . . We are one in acknowledging that this allegiance takes precedence of any other allegiance that may make claims upon us.

"This unity does not consist in the agreement of our minds or the consent of our wills. It is founded on Jesus Christ Himself, Who lived, died and rose again to bring us to the Father, and Who through the Holy Spirit dwells in His Church. We are one because we are all the objects of the love and grace of God, and called by Him to witness to all the world to His glorious Gospel.

Our unity is of heart and spirit. We are divided in the outward forms of our life in Christ, because we understand differently His will for His church. We believe, however, that a deeper understanding will lead us towards a united apprehension of the truth as it is in Jesus."

There it is! The truth is in Christ. And Christ is known through the Holy Spirit in our hearts. Heart and Spirit dominated by the Lord Jesus. Put that down as the basis of every movement for unity Under Christ.

II

Under Christ

Not emotional or forced. This truth must be placed alongside the first one. Paul declares in the second verse: "Ye know that when ye were Gentiles ye were led away unto those dumb idols, however ye might be led." Goodspeed's translation reveals more clearly the literal meaning: "You know that when you were heathen you would stray off as impulse directed to idols that could not speak." That is to say, these Gentiles were dominated by a purely emotional reaction. Beware of mere heat rather than light.

The issue of emotion is real. Men and women survey the strife and conflict. They are depressed by it. Along comes a false prophet with easy solution. His quack remedy is bathed in emotion. His oratory is bathed in catch phrases and epigrams. The solution is always less than Christ.

Yes, beware of mere emotional unity. For, it leads directly to forced unity. From false fervor to false fascism! From flame to fanaticism! From hysteria to hate! This is not the unity of the heart of which the Apostle spoke.

III

Under Christ
Not emotional or forced
Involves variety. The Apostle says: "Now there are diversities of gifts but the same Spirit. And there are diversities of ministrations and the same Lord. And there are diversities of workings but the same, God, who worketh all things in all." Then Paul amplifies this truth by citing the variety of gifts which different men possess.

Right here is the center of gravity in most issues of unity. Many people assume that unity calls for a dull uniformity. God forbid! Such an objective is not only wrong but frightening. I say 'frightening' because totalitarianism has acutely dramatized the evil of uniformity of this kind.

But note more closely what the apostle has declared: " . . . . there are diversities of gifts." Goodspeed translates this as "Endowments vary." Men differ in their natural ability and aptitude. The Spirit is still the same. Moreover, there are "diversities of ministrations" or forms of service. Men have different vocations; different ways of expressing the talents they have been given. The Spirit is still the same. Finally, there are "diversities of workings." That is, difference in our experience as we face life with varied talents and vocations. The Spirit is still the same. Talents! Vocation! Experience! These three are united in the common good for a universal God who is sovereign over all. Unity truly involves variety. Unity presupposes variety. Inversely, mechanical uniformity is simply disunity in disguise. Behind every movement, religious or secular which denies the truth of I Cor. 12:4-11 is actual disunity under camouflage. Germany was never complete Nazi. In fact only 10-12 per cent of the people ever joined the Nazi party. Russia is not completely Communist: only 2-4 per cent of the people belong to the Communist party. Or, show me a nation with a religious monopoly enforced by law and I will show you a people with wide divergence of religious conviction. Variety is not only inevitable. It is ordained of God for the enrichment of life!

IV

Under Christ
Not emotional or forced
Involves variety

Teaches specialization plus appreciation. Here Paul lays down a further development of the previous point. Variety exists not merely for the sake of variety. Variety's true function is that of specialization. And specialization of function assumes appreciation of the contribution of others. "For as the body is one," writes Paul, " and hath many members, and all the members of the body, being many, are one body; so also is Christ. For in one Spirit were we all baptized unto one body whether Jews or Greeks, whether bond or free; and were all made to drink of one Spirit. For the body is not one member but many." (verses 12-13). Following this general principle Paul continues with his famous illustration of false isolationism. What clever personalizing of bodily parts.

The foot says, "I am not the hand" nevertheless, it remains a part of the body.

The ear says, "I am not the eye." Nevertheless it remains a part of the body. In other words, no matter how loudly you declare your isolation and self-sufficiency you still belong to the Body of Christ.

Then the argument shifts to another basis. Suppose the whole body were nothing but eyes. Alas, then you could not hear. Or, try to imagine the whole body with nothing but the ability to hear. Alas, then you would not smell. In his first argument Paul declared that you can't resign from your common humanity in the Body of Christ. Now he says that you can't limit humanity to your talent, your vocation, your experience without ruin to yourself. No, the eye cannot say to the hand that I have no need of thee. This is the dead end street leading to ruin.

Still another application of this principle is made. This deals with the pride of status and distinction. The great man, the great church may say: "We grant that your little contribution is part of the whole; indeed, that it is needed. But, please do not equate your lowly, tiny gift with our glorious leadership." Paul rebukes such pride. He shows that the lowliest part of the body is of crucial importance. And what is more to the point, that God gives special care to the lowliest precisely because they are valuable parts of the whole.

The twenty-fifth and twenty-sixth verses clinch the whole discussion: " . . . . . . that there should be no schism in the body; but that members should have the same care one for another. And whether one member suffereth all the members suffereth with it; or one member is honored all the members rejoice with it."

CROWDED FOR SPACE:

"The Mennonite" is very crowded for space. Some articles, which have been in our files for a long time, ought to be published. Readers want both reports on conference work and inspirational articles. Please, condense news items, announcements, and articles as much as possible.

Can Christians live up to this truth? Can American Methodists suffer and rejoice with the Christian remnant of Russia? Can Anglicans suffer and rejoice with the Lutherans of Germany? Can the Lutherans of Germany suffer and rejoice with the Reformed churches of Hungary and Czechoslovakia? Can Southern Baptists suffer and rejoice with Negro Quakers of the Beligian Congo? Can the Japanese Christians suffer and rejoice with the Chinese Christians? Can the Nazarenes suffer and rejoice with the Presbyterians of Brazil? For the first time in nineteen centuries Christianity has become a global religion. Virtually every nation, every culture, every race, every continent has the beginnings of the Christian brotherhood. Today is the moment of testing. For eighteen centuries schism and division have dominated the church. Today consolidation and expansion have become dominant. Can Christian people keep faith with the missionary movement? Dare we to take I Corinthians 12 seriously? Dare we think of the Body of Christ? Hear the prophetc words of Dr. John A. Mackay. "An epoch-making step has been taken in the Protestant world when division is regarded as one of the greatest evils which can afflict the church of Christ. In the light of Christ and the developing unity which brings the Protestant churches of the world together, schism has a hideous face. And what is the soul of schism but that one institutional expression of the church of Christ should presume to be the whole? Those Christians are schismatics in the worst sense who, in spite of the New Testament record and the testimony of history, regard the particular organization to which they belong as The Church." Dr. Mackey then suggests a basic concept for the church coming down from the early church fathers: "Where Christ is, there is the church." Concede that and you are on the way to unity. But, turn to Paul's final affirmation.

V

Our word u-n-i-t-y is almost complete.
Under Christ
Not emotional or forced.
Involves variety
Teaches specialization plus appreciation

Yields to the more excellent way of love. How I Cor. 12:31 has eluded Bible students! It is one of the most important connectives in the entire Bible. This verse connects the twelfth and thirteenth chapters of I Corinthians. Note well its words "But desire more earnestly the greater gifts. And moreover a most excellent way I show I unto you." This more excellent way is an arrow pointing to the great charity chapter where "the beatitudes are set to music." Love, Christian love, is the all-important cementing ingredient of true unity.

The motive for unity cannot come from organizational enthusiasts who see nothing but the greater efficiency unity may bring. The motive for unity cannot come from those who would water down the Christian message to a pale least common denominator which has lost the boldness and audacity of our Lord in the Temple and Paul on Mars Hill. The motive for unity must be the love of Christ which never faileth.

Where is Christian unity most real? On the mission fields—that is the answer. The desire for the more effective discharge of missionary tasks has prompted the best Christian unity. Supremely the heart of the missionary is saturated in the love of Christ. This is not unity for the sake of unity. But unity through the love of Christ. A chaplain approached a wounded soldier. The soldier looked up and said, "Thanks just the same, padre, but I don't belong to your church." Replied the Chaplain, "I know. But you belong to my God." Across the world are the millions for whom Christ died. To bring them the broken body anl shed blood of Jesus Christ demands God's gracious love working through the Holy Spirit.

Unity! May God grant it on His basis for our salvation.

Pensioning Our Ministers

by August Epp

The General Conference Pension Committee has prepared a folder giving information on the Minister's Pension Plan. We are in the process of mailing to each minister a copy of same, and each minister has been requested to give us the name and address of a layman of his church to whom we will mail enough folders so that there will be one for each delegate to the General Conference. Upon receipt of these folders the churches are urged to acquaint themselves with the plan by having meetings at which time they can study and discuss the Plan. The committee is constantly encouraged by finding the keen interest our people have in this matter.

A letter which will accompany these folders, will point out some of the high spots of the plan and will show comparisons of the cost between this Plan and other plans that we could have given consideration.

Each church will be at liberty to accept or reject the Plan. Assuming that church "A" accepts the Plan and church "B" rejects the Plan, Church "B" will, by rejecting the Plan, not be paying any money directly for the support of the Plan which church "A" installed. If a minister leaves church "A," which has the Plan, and goes to serve Church "B," which does not have the Plan, it is expected that church "B" will carry on with the minister's Retirement Life Income Plan. If, however, church "B" refuses to carry on with the Plan, the minister has three options: first, to assume the full payments into the Plan himself, second, to discontinue that part of the payments which he would feel he could not pay, and third, he could discontinue the Plan altogether and what would have been paid into it would be used to buy him an annuity for his future income.

The committee desires to convey the following information: when delegates vote for approval of the Plan at the General Conference, their vote does not mean that the church they represent is obliged to enter into the Plan; each church must feel free to accept or reject it. The committee further feels that it would be unwise for a church to instruct definitely a delegate on how to vote on this matter at the Conference before such delegate has had an opportunity to hear the Plan fully explained and discussed at the Conference session.

So far we have mentioned that the Plan is for ministers, but there are others who will also be eligible, and the committee recommends the following:

A. Elders of the General Conference in charge of churches
B. Full time ordained Assistant Ministers.
C. Missionaries under the employ of the Home or Foreign Mission Boards.
D. Teachers employed by schools, colleges and seminaries approved by the General Conference.
E. Employees of the General and District Conferences.
F. Other employees of the organizations within the General Conference approved by the Penison Committee.

Here is a brief explanation of the Plan:

Under this Plan, each participant will receive, upon reaching the age of sixty-five, the income which ten per cent of his annual salary will have purchased. A Retirement Income of $50 a month is considered to be a basic minimum. It would seem reasonable to expect that after the Plan has been in effect for a number of years, participants will be entering the Plan at a relatively early age. This will result in a very high percentage having a life income of $50 or more. At the present, however, participation will be approved for the older applicants at a figure lower than the basic minimum.

Payment of Dues:

Payments into the Retirement Life Income Plan will be apportioned as follows:

75 per cent by the employing organization and 25 per cent by the participating member.

IT SHOULD BE CLEARLY UNDERSTOOD THAT THE EMPLOYING ORGANIZATION'S

PAYMENT INTO THE PLAN SHALL NOT BE CONSIDERED TO BE A PART OF THE PARTICIPANT'S SALARY.

Death Benefits before retirement:

If a participant should die prior to retirement, his beneficiary would receive $1000 for each $10 of monthly pension under the Retirement Income Contract. If under the Retirement Annuity Contract, the beneficiary would receive the amount contributed plus the interest thereon.

More information regarding the Plan will be found in later articles. —August Epp, Chairman.

Having Communion with the Saints

by Marie J. Regier

A few years ago I read Henry C. Link's book on the Return to Religion. As I remember, his reasons for going to church again after having stayed away for a long time were mostly disciplinary. To many of us who grew up in a Christian community, the habit became ingrained before we had anything to do with it. We just went because that was the thing to do and we hardly stopped to think, why? If there was any question, we had one answer, "Jesus went to the synagogue as was his habit." That was enough for us. I must say that this still seems a pretty good reason. My opinion of Jesus is so high, that anything He suggested doing I would feel justified in doing even if I didn't know why He did it.

However, He might have done things which were the best for those days but which would not apply today. Jesus walked from place to place, but that does not seem a particular reason why I should not take a train or ride in a car, or even go up in an airplane. Jesus had to walk; there was no other way of communication. On the other hand He might have walked in order to have more leisurely contact with His disciples as He went from place to place. Hence, before we say that we go to church just because Jesus did, we really ought to stop to think, "Why did He go and why should we go?"

When you get out into the world you certainly find a lot of fine people who do not go to church. One British lady in concentration camp was echoing what many say: "So and so goes to church every Sunday; she reads her Bible for long periods at a time, but she is so narrow, so self-centered and un-loving, I don't see that it does her any good. On the other hand there is so and so who never goes to church and see how helpful she is to everybody. She is always thinking of others."

In answer to that line of reasoning, I always have to think of a somewhat amusing situation a cousin of mine finds herself in. She graduated from high school. After this she married a man who had only finished the grades, but who was naturally endowed with a brilliant mind. Very often it happened that he would enlighten her about many things she knew nothing or very little about. Then he would tease her about her superior education. Her comeback was always, "Yes, but think what I would be like if I hadn't had even high school."

However, I must confess that I have had times when I have wondered just what difference it would make if I didn't go to church. Would I be any different? What an amount of time I could save if I didn't go to to church. How many other things, which I like to do, I would have time for. I have wished for a period of time to be free to stay away from church and see whether it made any difference.

Among the intelligentsia of China, being a Christian in silence, without hardly ever going to church, seems very popular. An English gentleman to whom I spoke about this, a man who at one time studied to be a minister, but now very rarely goes to church shrugged his shoulders and said, "Going to church is a western custom isn't it? The Chinese don't express their religion that way."

Among Chinese faculty members one gets answers like these: "Sunday is my only day off. It's the one day when I can be at home." " I realize we need more warmth in our religion, but we need a change of personnel in the religious department. We need pastors who live their religion, not only speak about it." Another said reminiscently, "When I was in England I used to go to the cathedral in order to hear the boys' choir sing. I never went to hear the sermon."

Our churches have been too much pastor and sermon centered, and therefore if the member does not like the pastor or his sermons, he feels justified in staying away. Moreover as one grows older, sermons do not thrill one so much anymore. The pastor usually says what we have heard many times before. Personally, I find that as a rule a communion service stirs me much more than a sermon, though as a young person, I found the communion service stilted and artifical.

A student said to me, "I always go to church when I have time," which indicated that he didn't consider it important enough to find time. "Many young people," he continued, "go to church not because they want to worship God, but because it gives them a chance to see each other." "I suppose," he added haltingly, "that isn't exactly an excuse." I thought of the criticism that is passed upon our country churches in the States, namely that they are primarily social centers.

So then I sat down and wrote down for him what I considered reasons for going to church and what I thought should be our attitude when we go to church. As I was writing I realized how far short I fall of going to church in the right attitude. After he had read over what I had written, he said, "Why didn't you tell me that long ago?" I realized then, how often those of us who have had more privileges and more experiences along the line of religious education take so many things for granted which others who have not had that religious background do not know at all.

Why should we go to church? We spoke of this in a small group meeting. David Fang, a man in the religious education department in Yenching said, "People should look upon it as their duty, even if they do not care to go." Muriel Lester said, "It is spiritual exercise which we need." But to go a step farther, "Why should it be a duty? Why is it helpful as a spiritual exercise? Part of the following is what I wrote down for the above mentioned student.

Then I remembered a few weeks ago when I had been to see my adopted Chinese daughter, who is living with her mother and two brothers. As I left, her mother said to me, "Will you not do something to help my children to become more warm hearted Christians?"

"But isn't she?" I asked pointing to the young woman.

She shook her head, "They all don't like to go to church." Here was another case of a young educated Christian not sensing the need of church. So I rewrote with some additions what I had written for the young man to send to her. This is what I said:

We ought to go to church:

1. In order to worship God together with other people. The Christian religion is not only the religion of the individual, but it is also a social religion. Jesus said, "For God so loved the world." We should join others in praising Him for the wonderful world in which He has placed us, for the marvelous bodies equipped with wonderful brains which He has given us. But above all, we should praise Him for His son Jesus Christ who revealed to us what God is like and showed us God's infinite justice and much more His unspeakable love.

2. To receive inspiration, courage and power for the week to come. Each Sunday should be a new start. We human beings are so forgetful. Sunday should remind us of the things God has done for us and is still doing for us. It should also remind us to give ourselves over to Him again and again to see the duties ahead of us during the coming week.

3. In order to have fellowship with other Christians and to help one another. We all have many faults but by working together we can help each other. By attending church regularly we find out what the church is doing in all countries of the world. It is true that the church has many faults, but, after all, the church is called Christ's body. It is the best He has. The church has done a lot of good things when it has trusted in Christ and it has done a lot of bad things when it did not. If a member stays away from church he does not make the church better thereby; he hinders it. Each member should know the good points as well as the bad points of the church, so that he may be able to help along that which is good and overcome that which is bad.

4. In order to learn more of Christ's gospel and how it should be applied to all phases of life, both individual and social. We can always learn from the experiences and thoughts of others.

In what attitude should one go to church?

1. The answer to the first question partly answers this one. One should go with the desire to worship, to learn, and to help each other.

2. One should go in an attitude of prayer. As you enter the church pray for the pastor that God may put His words into his mouth; pray that the other members of the congregation may receive help from the service; pray for yourself that you may be of help to others and that you may receive the help which you need.

If we go to church in this attitude we will always receive something at least a little inspiration or an opportunity to help some one else. Still there may be seasons when we go again and again and yet everything seems parched. It may seem a pure waste of time. But, this occurred to me with special force the other day, isn't it exactly the same in other realms of life? Doesn't a scientist have to work on and on without any seeming results? Doesn't he have to perform ever so many experiments and yet find nothing? Then all of a sudden comes a new lead and he makes a new discovery. Or take the businessman, how many trips he must make, how many calls, how many conferences he has to attend, all seeming to end in nothingness, and then all of a sudden he gets a new line and he can put through a successful piece of business.

Exactly the same thing happens along religious lines. We may go many times and think it is all very boring, then suddenly we catch a new idea, a new inspiration, a new insight that lifts us up and gives us a new push to go on and up the Christian way. Just the other Sunday I had such an experience. The young minister who spoke had a good sermon, but what stuck in my mind was a little story which he told from his own experience.

One day he had been sitting in an automobile with E. Stanley Jones. Just as they were talking a drunk came up and begged for money. The young minister revolted at the sight, but in order to get rid of him he gave him what he wanted. Then the man became very sociable and introduced himself and shook hands with them. The young minister shook hands as quickly as possible. Not so Stanley Jones when his turn came. He gripped the man's hand firmly and said, "Son, you are a child of God, but now you are in the power of evil." He kept holding his hand until the man could feel a little of what Mr. Jones was trying to say to him. The young minister added, "I saw only a revolting sight, but Mr. Jones saw a man whom Christ saved."

Vacation Bible School supplies can be obtained from the Mennonite Book Store, 710 Main Street, Newton, Kansas. The courses recommended are those offered by the Scottdale Publishing House.

The reasons for going to church also apply to one's private devotions. Only the one is the individual method, while the other is the group method. We need both because we are both individuals and members of a group.

But both will be of value only if we come in the right spirit or at least desire to be put into the right spirit. They are means not ends in themselves. They will be of little use if we mean thereby to pile up spiritual credits. We are weak, God is strong; we are sinful, God is holy; we are full of wrong desires, God is love. We can obtain these spiritual riches only as God gives them to us, but we must stretch out our hands. Going to church, reading our Bibles, praying, are ways of stretching out our hands. No, I no longer want that period of time in which I would be free to stay away from church.

College and Seminary News

BETHEL ADDS FIVE STAFF MEMBERS

The President's Office has announced four new additions to the teaching staff for the next school year. Mr. J. Lloyd Spaulding, Ph. M., now doing further graduate work toward his Ph. D. at the University of Minnesota, will be Assistant Professor of Economics. He was engaged in land economics research as assistant agricultural economist in Iowa from 1939-42 and also served in CPS as Junior Administrator under the NSBRO. Coming to the commerce Department are Miss Frances Becker, Ringwood, Oklahoma, a Bethel graduate of 1942, who has done graduate work at the University of Denver and high school teaching at Macksville and Buhler in Kansas, and also Miss Ruth K. Baughman, who holds a Master's degree in Commerical Science from Indiana University and has been teaching for the past two years in her home high school at Kouts, Indiana. Mr. James W. Bixel, a graduate of Bluffton with a Master's degree in music from the Cincinnati Conservatory, will join the faculty as an instructor in piano. He has taught music in Ohio high schools and in CPS camps, serving at present as Institution Music Director at the Kalamazoo State Hospital. Miss Hulda Gaede, a Bethel alumna from Shafter, California, joined the staff in April as secretary to the president.

FREEMAN CHORUS TO NEBRASKA AND MINNESOTA

The Church History class and Prof. Goering visited at the Jamesville Colony on Tuesday. Jacob Friesen and Rein Mesdag left for Goshen, Indiana, where they will attend a meeting of all the foreign students attending Mennonite colleges. Mrs. Benno Toews entertained the faculty wives and lady faculty members at her home Thursday evening. The College Chorus and Professor Lichti returned from their trip to Nebraska on Tuesday. On the way home they stopped at Lincoln and at Boys' Town near Omaha. Sunday they leave for Minnesota where they will give several concerts. May 13 and 14 Professor Lichti and Mrs. Gering present their private voice and piano students in two recitals. Rev. Jensen and Rev. Nordeen of the Sunday School Union were on the campus looking for Vacation Bible School teachers for churchless areas of the state. The Y.C.L. saw a short religious film, "Glad Tidings," at their Monday meeting.

SEMINARY PRESIDENT SERIOUSLY ILL

After a period of protracted discomfort and pain, Dr. Warkentin entered the Wesley Hospital last Thursday, May 8. He is seriously ill. The prayers of the church congregations in these hours of trial for Dr. Warkentin and his family are particularly requested. His brave and cheerful service even in affliction is a testimony to his love and service to the Lord.

Students and staff members gathered together on Tuesday, May 6, to have a spring clean-up of the campus and buildings. The lawn was put in condition for the growing season, bushes and hedges were cultivated, windows were cleaned and rooms were put in tidy condition for the warm summer season. In the evening the group met for their regular service of prayer. The period of fellowship in work and prayer was a real inspiration.

Quietness and Confidence

(Continued from page 2)

words are often used for bolstering personal courage, whereas he really stated them as a matter of foreign policy. Is it possible that a policy of quietness instead of tough talk and confidence instead of fear does lessen the fear and hatred of an enemy and hence also his tendency towards aggression? (Assyria, which once wielded the sword so powerfully, is today trying to gain the attention and help of the United Nations.)

GENERAL CONFERENCE SESSIONS — What Do You Know About Them?

1. In how many states and provinces in North America are our Conference congregations located?

2. In how many of these has a General Conference been held?

3. Which states lead in the number of sessions held?

4. In which localities have sessions been held most often?

5. Which districts rank the highest in the number of Conference sessions held?

6. When and where is the next session to be held?

How many of the above questions can you answer correctly? (Turn to page 13 for answers to the above questions.)

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

M.C.C. Summer Service Units

For the summer of 1947, the Mennonite Central Committee is sponsoring five Summer Service Units. These units will be in the following kinds of work: two will be in mental hospitals, one will be in a school for the mentally deficient, one at the M.C.C. headquarters, and one in the deep South of Gulfport Mississippi. The two mental hospital units will be located at Cleveland, Ohio, where summer units have been the two years past and at Pueblo, Colorado, where service units never have been in the past. The unit at the institution for the mentally deficient will be at Spring City, Pennsylvania.

Last summer's Summer Service Unit at Gulfport, Mississippi, helped in teaching Bible School, in daily camp life and work, and in various types of community work.

Voluntary Service Units are being sponsored by the M.C.C. as an opportunity for young people to express actively their Christian faith. As one worker said, "I am more fully convinced that it is easier to preach brotherly love, non-resistance . . . . than it is to practice them." The service units are an effort actually to practice what the Mennonite church believes.

In all cases, the service units will operate where there is great need — need which one can hardly imagine until he actually participates in such service. In four of the five units, the service will be to unfortunate people. It will be to people sick of mind and in need of loving care, people who lack so much in mental power that they cannot live in society, and people who are so down and out economically that they cannot rise above their present broken, destitute condition.

Voluntary service is an opportunity. It is an opportunity to carry the ministry of Jesus directly to needy people. The thrill of seeing one person respond to one's service and to give him an idea of what Jesus is like, is worth the whole summer's effort. So testify past members of service units.

Voluntary service is also an opportunity for the person volunteering. The experience of freely giving of one's time and energy for the sake of others does not leave the person volunteering the same afterward. It is one of the best ways whereby one can experience what God wants men to do with their lives.

The challenge of serving in any of the many ways possible in the Summer Service program this summer stands as a challenge to youth to do something with their lives — something which they will never regret having done!

Where to Apply for Summer Service

Persons interested in applying for Summer Service should contact Voluntary Service, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania. Their application should be sent in immediately. The choice of service personnel are being made now.

Those interested in Summer Service are also referred to the April 8 issue of Mennonite Youth telling of the five Summer Service projects sponsored by the General Conference. More information on this work is available from General Conference Voluntary Service, 722 Main Street, Newton, Kansas.

Where Volunteers Will Serve . . .

. . . the Mentally Ill

Cleveland, Ohio — Cleveland State Hospital

For a third summer we return—because they need and want our help; they have a hospital administration who has a vision for improvements. The buildings are far from new, but their very nature seems to add to the call for our assistance.

Educationally the summer will be very worth-while—weekly lectures on mental illness, one "creative educational night" a week, and tours to visit some of the excellent possibilities within Cleveland, a cultural center. Members will do attendant work and assist recreationally. Regular attendant wages less a ten dollar fee for expenses of Voluntary Services.

Date: June 15 to August 22 Size: 20 men and women

Pueblo, Colorado — Colorado State Hospital

Here we have a pioneering job since there has been neither a C.P.S. nor summer service unit at Pueblo. In addition to their need and interest, Pueblo was chosen so that a unit might be more in reach of our western constituency. This state mental hospital is the only one in the state. It has excellent affiliate training facilities for nurses, dietitians, medical doctors, and psychiatrists. It has a large number of modern buildings. The administration is eager to experiment with a unit whose primary purpose will be to provide a much needed summer's recreation programn for the patients. The off-times emphasis will be focused on a strong religious program, a mental hygiene course, a discussion series on recreation for our local communities, and side trips to Pike's Peak and other scenic spots. (Pueblo is on the edge of the mountains.) Women attendants should have white shoes and from three to five white uniforms which need, however, not be of regulation type. Men should have white trousers, white shirts and black bow ties. Regular attendant wages less a ten dollar fee for expenses of Voluntary Services.

Date: June 9 to August 15 Size: 20 men and women

. . . the Mentally Deficient

Pennhurst, Spring City, Pennsylvania

Thirty miles northwest of Philadelphia on the banks of the Schuykill River is located a 2,400 bed institution devoted to the study, care, treatment education and vocational training of mentally retarded or mentally deficient boys and girls, generally below twenty years of age. The summer unit is eagerly anticipated by the institution staff. Volunteers will find a pleasant, friendly atmosphere at Pennhurst. Their coming will enable regular attendants to take vacations and will give added emphasis to the recreational therapy program. In addition to attendant work, there will be opportunity for a limited number, who possess proper qualifications, to serve as assistants in the departments of social case work, psychology, photography, recreation and occupational therapy. Off-hour educational emphasis will include one evening a week study of "retarded children" particularly from the parent and teacher point of view. Another evening will be devoted to lectures and discussions focused on other teaching methods. The favorable location of the unit will permit field trips to Philadelphia, Valley Forge, possibly Washington and New York, and other historical spots including those of the "cradle of the American Mennonites." The M.C.C. headquarters will be less than forty miles distant. Regular attendant wages less a ten dollar fee.

. . . the Total Service

M.C.C. Akron, Pennsylvania

This Headquarters of the Mennonite Central Committee is in a sense the "hub" of our varied international services "in the name of Christ." Approximately fifty workers are distributed in various sections and departments—Relief, Mennonite Aid, C.P.S. and Voluntary Service, Peace, Finance, Publicity Research, Central Files, Housekeeping. Summer workers will be utilized for housekeeping, clerical work in central files, as typists in various offices, and at the food-for-relief shipping center (men would live at Akron for week-end). In addition to headquarters meetings, one educational night a week will be arranged to cover M.C.C. relief and other service more thoroughly. Week-end trips will be scheduled to points of interest in this "gardenspot of the world." Volunteers will receive a ten dollar monthly allowance and up to forty dollar scholarships will be available for travel expenses to and from Akron.

Date: June 9 to August 15 Size: 6 to 10 men and women.

. . . the Deep South

Gulfport, Mississippi

This year summer volunteers will be used to assist in the regular areas of work. The men and women will rotate to serve in two or more of the following areas during the summer:

1. Christian education — four members will teach vacation Bible schools near camp for four weeks, another four will spend two two-week periods living in the outlying communities — teaching, visiting homes, and helping in other community services.

2. Community recreation — four members will assist the regular recreational director with supervised play-ground activities, supervised swimming and perhaps day-camps for children at the camp.

3. Public health — two summer-service unit men will become part of a construction and repair team.

4. Camp headquarters — two members assist in kitchen, laundry, and office.

It's Me, O Lord!

"This (U. S. responsibility invloves . . . maintaining, for the benefit of those who have yet to learn that there are greater things than force, a strong Army and Navy."—Lead editorial, "New York Times," Feb. 15, 1947, as quoted in "Fellowship."

5. Investigation group — two or three members at a time will assist Professor J. Winfield Fretz in a special study of community problems.

In addition to the actual service and a strong religious emphasis, the Gulfport unit will offer an excellent laboratory opportunity for firsthand study of conditions in the deep South. This will appeal particularly to those from the classroom, teachers, and students, but also other alert and interested individuals. To direct this COMMUNITY-AS-THE-LABORATORY experiment, the services of Professor J. Winfield Fretz are being made available by the Bethel Extension Service.

The first of the nine summer weeks will be used for work in the camp, orientation to the South and special training for those going into Bible teaching, recreational work, and home visitation. During the remaining eight weeks of the summer the job itself will be a learning instituation. There will be opportunity for case work in connection with regular work, and two evenings a week will be used for lectures and discussions. Field trips to New Orlean, Mobile and other points of interest will be arranged. Regular college credit may be earned through Bethel College by individual arrangement with Professor Fretz at the beginning of the summer.

All summer unit members will receive ten dollars monthly allowance plus room and board. Scholarships up to forty dollars will be available for travel to and from Gulfport.

Date: June 9 to August 8 Size: 10 — 15 men and women

. . . Latin America

Chihuahua, Mexico

Directly south of El Paso, Texas, a distance of three hundred miles lies this typical old Mexico city, Chihuahua (pronounced Cheewawa). It is a half day's bus trip from the large Mennonite colony at Cuauhtemoc (Quata'moc). Chihuahua has a high altitude and the climate is temperate.

The needs in Mexico for service are similar to those of Puerto Rico and Mississippi. This first summer's work at Chihuahua will be in connection with a Christian hospital, Sanatario Palmore, and the Christian center in the heart of Chihuahua, Centre Christiano, operated by the Methodists for over forty years.

Two men and two women will assist in common duties at the seventy-bed general hospital. Other workers will assist in the Centro Christiano and its activity. Here twenty-five children of the low wage earner group are given care and training by Christian leaders in a day nursery. English classes and a program of recreation are other activities undertaken by this center in the past.

This is an opportunity to become acquainted with the Latin American culture which is so different from that in which we live. The leader of the mission has labored in Mexico for forty years and is eager to make the experience as helpful as possible. There will be orientation, lectures, and discussion opportunities as well as special opportunity to learn Spanish.

Volunteers will receive ten dollars per month allowance, maintenance, and, if needed, up to forty dollars scholarships for travel expenses. Applicants must have good physical health. A speaking knowledge of Spanish is helpful but not essential. Previous experience in service units is desirable.

Dates: June 23 to August 15 Unit: Six to ten members

Notes from the 1946 Volunteers' Diaries

In Hospital Units

"This week I had an occasion to speak to the mother of one of our patients. It is striking to me how they still hope for the son's recovery with most of the odds against them. I found out that she was a Christian woman. This experience led me to feel responsible to the patient and I can feel more the concern which that mother expressed."

"On our ward there was a very unresponsive woman. She never seemed to notice or appreciate what was done for her. I always kept on trying to be kind and smiling to her. This morning I was really thrilled when she greeted me saying, "Good morning Miss T . . . . ., how are you today?" In other patients I have noticed much the same thing — a little effort on our part is often appreciated afterwards although they seem to ignore it at the time."

"I overheard several comments by patients about our unit this week: "Thank God for the conscientious objectors." "Come in and talk to me. You're the first nurse who ever took time to do that."

"I had been spending quite a bit of time with a man who was almost constantly hallucinated, talking to him, getting him to read, and had succeeded in bringing him back to reality a little. One morning he fell off his chair in a faint, and one of the patient attendants, a paranoid, saying he had done it only to attract attention, grabbed him, slammed him down in his chair, slapping him so hard that he was sent right back into his world of unreality."

"I had the nice experience this week of giving my Bible to a young colored girl whom some of the nurses made fun of because she wanted to read a Bible."

"A soft answer turneth away wrath." Perhaps the wrath may persist for a while, but at any rate it's worth a try. I've found that replying kindly to a refusal to let me cut finger nails caused the patient to request it when she had observed quitely for awhile."

AT GULFPORT, MISSISSIPPI

"One hot evening after prayer meeting we girls went into town for ice-cream — afterwards we went out to a pier to really cool off. The beauty of the scene got the better of us and we spontaneously had a hymn sing and prayer meeting of our own."

"A delightful trip to New Orleans was taken over the weekend which included a wide variety of experiences — pop concert, sightseeing, worship and general recreation and fun. It was all very relaxing.

"We also visited a cattle boat which was loading at Gulfport. Cattle donated by the state for Greek relief."

"They needed someone in the kitchen to help along since the girls unit is here and after asking for a volunteer I said I would — however it isn't quite as "glamorous" as teaching Bible School — but I thoroughly enjoy it and the fellows in the kitchen are very cooperative."

"Sunday afternoon, three of us girls drove down to the county poor farm with two of the boys. We sang for the old white folks, for the colored folks and for the boys in the jail. Most of the prisoners were young, eighteen or nineteen year-old fellows who didn't look at all like hardened criminals. They were very respectful when we sang for them."

The truths of the Bible need to be clasped in men's hearts even as this youngster clasps this Bible in his arms. Opportunity to present Biblical truth to youngsters like this one awaits the volunteer to Gulfport service.

Western District Retreats in 1947

This is the twenty-second year of retreats for youth of the Western District. During these years many young people have enjoyed wonderful days of Christian fellowship, in the early years on the Bethel College campus and the last ten to fifteen years at Camp Wood.

This year the expanding YMCA program at Camp Wood does not allow time for church groups to meet there, so the Western District Retreat Committee has arranged for all retreats to be held at a Church of God Camp near Wichita, Kansas.

Four different groups are scheduled to meet at this camp in June. First is a retreat sponsored by the Peace Committee, on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, June 6, 7, and 8. This is planned especially for adults, including young people who have already completed college. The purpose of this retreat is to spend a few days in intensive study of our peace principles and their application in the life and work of the individual. This will be a wonderful opportunity for adults to meet together to consider questions of highest importance to each one today.

At the same time that this retreat is held, there will be a conference for recreation leaders. This conference is under the direction of Rev. Robert Tully, of Bethel College. Plans for such a meeting developed as a result of the many requests which came from our young people for guidance in the field of Christian recreation. Anyone who is interested in this phase of young people's work is urged to attend. The retreat committee hopes to see each church and C. E. in the district represented at this conference.

Immediately following these two retreats for adults, there will be the third annual Intermediate Retreat for children of Junior High School age. This will begin on the afternoon of June 8 and will end on June 12. Simultaneously with the Intermediate Retreat there will be held a Leadership Training Institute, sponsored by the Curriculum Committee of the General Conference. This meeting is for Sunday School teachers and others who are interested in teaching children and young people. Among other subjects, materials and methods of teaching will be discussed. Many young people and adults will wish to avail themselves of the fine opportunity to get acquainted with new materials for their work with children and other age groups.

July 21 to 27 will find young people of high school and college age at camp for their twenty-second annual retreat. Since the capacity of the camp is almost twice that of Camp Wood, it will be possible for many young people to attend. A wonderful program is being planned for this week, and consecrated Christian leaders have been engaged.

The retreat committee is confident that these two weeks of retreating will prove to be an inspiration to all who attend and to others with whom they will share their blessings.

Argentina Becomes Friendly to Mennonites

M.C.C. To Help Mennonites in Denmark To Migrate

AKRON, PA. May 9.—Although unfavorable to receiving refugees in the past, Argentina, upon becoming acquainted with the group of Mennonites now on their way to Paraguay, has expressed a strong desire to have Mennonite settlers. The terms and conditions to which Argentina has tentatively agreed include the freedom of religious faith and practice. The M.C.C. plans to help the German Mennonite refugees, who are now located in camps in Denmark, to find a new home in Argentina.

A bill (Number H. R. 2910, entitled "Emergency Temporary Displaced Admission Act"), introduced in the United States Congress April 1, would permit as many as 400,000 displaced persons to enter the United States in the next four years.

M.C.C. To Open Three Homes for the Mentally Ill

Three small homes for the mentally ill are planned for the eastern, middle west and western parts of the United States. A home at Leitersburg, Maryland, formerly used for a C.P.S. project, is to open this fall with accomodations for twenty patients. The one in California, which is to be located at a reasonable distance from a Mennonite settlement, may be ready for occupancy within the coming year. Contributions for these projects can be directed to the "Homes for the Mentally Ill Fund" by sending them through General Conference Headquarters, 722 Main Street, Newton, Kansas.

C. J. Rempel To Cultivate Non-resistance Among South American Mennonites

On May 8 C. J. Rempel of Kitchener, Ontario, left on his mission to help the Mennonites of Brazil, Argentina, and Paraguay to clarify and strengthen their non-resistant witness. In the Mennonite colonies he will distribute peace literature, give talks, counsel with leaders, etc., in order to promote a deeper understanding and appreciation of the nonresistant witness. At the same time he is to interpret the non-resistant faith and way of life to the proper officials in the governments of the three countries.

Twenty-four Mennonites Teaching Polish Farmers To Operate Tractors

The twenty-four members of the M.C.C. Tractor Training Unit are now teaching Polish farmers, who have had little or no experience with tractors before, to run efficiently the machines which they have received through the UNRRA. One man reports that he helps fifty-seven farmers with their tractors. The men work singly or in twos from certain centers.

Six Thousand Eight Hundred Children Being Fed in Krefeld, Germany

Mennonites in Krefeld, Germany, headed by their pastor, Dr. Dirk Cattepoel, are helping feed 6,800 children, three to six years old, with food supplied by the M.C.C. The children receive one meal a day. Krefeld lies in the British Zone.

Other Items

Though C.P.S. is formally over, the C.P.S. witness continues in the health, sanitation, and community work being carried on by Voluntary Service workers at Gulfport, Mississippi; in the relief work in Puerto Rico; in care for the mentally ill as expressed in the mental rest homes being planned by the M.C.C. and in the units of young people which will again serve in mental hospitals this summer.

The Mennonite refugees from Germany are still in Buenos Aires awaiting an opportunity to continue their journey to Paraguay, which has been delayed by the revolution going on in the latter country.

Arthur Voth recently entered Austria to acertain the needs of Mennonite refugees scattered throughout that country.

Elma Esau, who served in M.C.C. clothing centers in Holland for a long while, has now returned to the United States. She is at home at Whitewater, Kansas.

THE WORK OF THE M.C.C.

1. The Relief Section directs the work of the 296 relief workers who are located in 18 different foreign countries; the sending of tons and tons of food, clothing and other material aid.

2. The Mennonite Aid Section keeps in touch with Mennonite refugee problems and maintains contact with certain governmental agencies in connection with immigration problems.

3. The Peace Section keeps alert to certain legislative and other developments which relate to our nonresistant witness. This work is now broadening in its scope, to include a ministry to our brethren in Europe and South America in the interests of strengthening among them the nonresistant witness.

5. The Homes-for-Mentally-Ill program is being developed as rapidly as possible to meet a definite need in this way.

6. Menno Travel Service coordinates all matters relating to visas, boat passage and other details of foreign travel, for MCC personnel, and also for any other individuals and agencies of the church requesting this aid.

What Do I Know About General Conference Sessions?

(Answers to questions on page 8)

1. In 20 states of the Union; 5 provinces in Canada; 1 in Mexico.

2. Sessions have been held in 12 of the above (Less than one-half).

3. Sessions, have been held in Ohio — 9 times; Pennsylvania — 5 times; Kansas — 4 times; Indiana — the coming session will be the 4th.

4. In Wadsworth, Ohio — 6 times; Bluffton, Ohio— 3 times; Berne, Indiana— the coming session will be the 3rd.

5. In the Middle District — the coming session is the 15th (almost one-half of all sessions); the Western District — 6; Eastern District — 5; Northern District — 3; Pacific District — 2; Canadian District — 1.

6. August 20 to 27, 1947, at the First Mennonite Church, Berne, Indiana.

Jottings

—Upper Milford Church, Zionsville, Pa., The annual spring social gathering of the Ladies Aid Society was held in the Sunday School building April 19. April 27, Dr. L. L. Ramseyer, President of Bluffton College, brought the message in our regular morning worship services. In the evening the congregation worshipped with the First Church of Allentown. The choir rendered special music and the Allentown C. E. Society presented the Easter drama "The Great Dawn" by Valeria R. Lehman.—Mrs. J. A. Miller, Jr., Corr.

—Immanuel Church, Delft, Minnesota: Rev. C. H. Dirks of Portland, Oregon, gave us some very inspirational messages during our evangelistic services, April 27-May 2.

—Johannestal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: Brother William Ewert, age forty-six, was relieved from his intense suffering on May 9. Rudolph Klassen and Evelyn Thomas were married on May 18.

—Newport (Washington) Church: We enjoyed Miss Bertha Fast's visit very much. She spoke to the young people on voluntary service, showed pictures two evenings, had an afternoon with the mission society, and spoke at a youth rally in Newport. We were also blest by a two-day visit by Rev. W. Regier of Pratum.

—Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio: The Orrville Mennonite Church presented us an inspiring evening worship service on May 4. It included chorus and quartet numbers and a talk by Helen Moser on experiences as relief worker in Egypt and India. Rev. G. I. Gundy of Meadows, Illinois, brought the message on April 27.

—Salem Church,, Freeman, South Dakota: The men's chorus, which has been singing for approximately twenty years and still has many of the original members, gave its annual spring concert to a capacity audience. The missionary society recently sent 390 pounds of clothing and thirty-two wool comforters for relief.

—Topeka (Indiana) Church: The Vesper choir of Bluffton College presented a sacred musical concert in this church on May 1. Three young people of the congregation were in the group.

—Zion Church, Arena, North Dakota: Our pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. H. H. Peters, who are attending Grace Bible Institute, visited our community for a few days. Rev. S. T. Moyer and the men's quartet of Freeman Junior College gave us a program on April 18.

—Zion Church, Donnellson, Iowa: Rev. Arnold Nickel, a student at the Mennonite Biblical Seminary of Chicago, has served as our pastor, commuting from Chicago to Donnellson every week end. On May 4, he brought with him as guest speaker, Leo Laurense of Amsterdam, Holland, a fellow student at the Seminary.

—Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: The Freeman Junior College Choir rendered a sacred program on May 11. Bethel Hospital had open house on May 12. Borscht and pie were served.

—Apostolic Church, Trenton, Ohio: The Men's Gospel Team of Bluffton rendered a beautiful program on May 11. The team was accompanied by their advisor, Paul R. Shelly.

—Bethany Church, Quakertown, Pa., On May 11 we had an interesting C. E. meeting with Mrs. A. H. Schultz of East Swamp speaking on "The Christian Home," and "Worship Strengthening the Family Tie." Two Sunday school scholars have received word from the recipients of two of the six C.A.R.E. packages we sent.

—Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio: The pastor's sermon topic for Mother's Day was "Hannah, the Godly Mother." Mrs. Mary Roettilisberger, the oldest mother present, was presented a corsage of pink carnations. A special offering for the organ fund amounted to $500.

—First Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Unruh attended the Kansas Ministers' Convocation at Emporia.

—First Church, Summerfield, Illinois: The mission society is collecting "Grease for Peace." This is to be made into soap. In the C. E. service on Mother's Day we studied the various mothers of the Bible.

—Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas: Seventy-five are enrolled in vacation Bible school. Curriculum material of the "Old" Mennonite Church is being used for a teaching guide. Missionary J. R. Duerksens served as visiting teachers on two days and then returned once more to show pictures of mission work in India.

—Comment: In the article on "Pensioning Our Ministers" in The Mennonite of May 6 it was stated: "For more than a quarter of a century our General Conference has sought to find ways and means of meeting the need of its missionaries and ministers without, any definite results." Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, former Conference President, points out that General Conference does have pension provisions for its missionaries and an aid plan for ministers.

—The annual Mennonite Song Festival was held in Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas, on May 4 with an estimated audience of 4,000 in the afternoon and a well-filled hall in the evening. Twenty-seven churches participated, with churches as far away as Pawnee Rock, Kans., and Beatrice,Nebraska, being represented The Women's Association of Bethel College served a delicious lunch to the visitors. Mr. Jacob Goering of Moundridge was elected Vice-President and Miss Elizabeth W. Nickel of Hillsboro was re-elected Secretary. The revised constitution was amended and then adopted. It is hoped that next year's festival will be even bigger and better.

—The Adult Retreat in the Western District will be held June 6, 7, 8 at the Church of God Camp near Wichita. The theme of the retreat will center around peace principles. Dr. Kirby Page and Dr. S. F. Pannabecker will be the group leaders. Lodging and meals will be provided. Just bring your pocketbook. Register now with Mrs. A. T. Mueller, Phillips University, Enid, Oklahoma, so that the committee planning the retreat can have some idea of how many will attend. The retreat comes in a very busy season, but there will also be a fine, busy time at the camp.—H. T. Unruh —Wanted: Expert swimmers to serve as lifeguards at two Western District retreats near Wichita, Kansas: June 8-12, Intermediate Retreat; July 21-27, Young People's Retreat. Lifeguards receive expenses paid retreat and small remuneration. Send application to: Roland Bartel, North Newton, Kansas.

—Rev. J. F. Sawatzky, is the author of a thirty-two page booklet, entitled "The Hope of the Church." Single copies may be had for thirty cents by writing to Rev. J. F. Sawatzky, 1617 Poplar Street, Newton, Kansas. Six or more copies for twenty-seven cents each.

—Bergtal Church, Pawnee Rock, Kansas: A full house heard the Bethel College A Cappella Choir on April 27. Recently Miss Elisabeth Goertz told us of experiences in China, and Mrs. W. F. Unruh addressed us on the subjects of missions and peace.

—Deep Run (Pa.) Church: Born to Rev. and Mrs. J. Herbert Fretz, on April 21, a daughter, Barbara Christine.

—Fairfield (Pa.) Church: On April 27, Orie Baer, who attended a shipment of horses to Poland, showed us pictures of activities on board ship and of ruins in Poland.

—First Church, Aberdeen, Idaho: "The Famous Nights of the Old and New Testaments" is the theme of our pastor's sermon series. April 23 Rev. S. T. Moyer and a men's quartet from Freeman Junior College visited us. The next week Miss Bertha Fast told us of relief work in Egypt and Italy and showed pictures. She also told us of the voluntary service program for young people this coming summer.

—First Church, Allentown, Pa. The Zionsville and Springfield congregations joined us on April 27 for a repeat performance of the Easter drama, "The Great Dawn."

—First Church, Caldwell, Idaho: Miss Bertha Fast visited us recently. She was the first visitor in our new building, which we hope to finish soon.

—First Church, McPherson, Kansas: Sale of tickets to the building-fund banquet, April 25, brought in about $3,135. Approximately four hundred people attended the banquet in Convention Hall and heard an address by Walter A. Huxman, former governor of Kansas and now a United States Circuit Judge. Also on the program were: Dr. W. W. Peters of McPherson College, Rev. Arnold E. Funk of the Home Mission Board, the president of the ministeral alliance in McPherson, and the mayor of the city.

—Friedensburg Church, Avon, South Dakota: On April 30, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schultz, who are active in the ministry of music in our church, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary at their farm house.

—Hebron Church, Buhler, Kansas: On April 27 we welcomed our new minister and family, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Nickel and children. The congregation also gave a grocery shower. Special meetings were conducted by Rev. Walter H. Dyck from April 13 to April 18. All the services were very inspirational.

C. F. KLASSEN RETURNS TO EUROPE

C. F. Klassen, who has been a Moses to the Mennonite refugees in Europe, again left Winnipeg, Manitoba, on May 14 for Europe, where he will help more Mennonites to start on the way to a new homeland. Brother Klassen urges prayer to the end that God may open the way and solve the problems so that thousands may still reach their new home this summer. He also urges prayer to God to make us not only willing to give for the movement of refugees but to sacrifice for it. He also suggests remembering the refugees who are stranded in Buenos Aires and the M.C.C. relief workers, De Fehr, Warkentin, and the Dycks, who face many problems. Upon his recent arrival in Canada Brother Klassen visited the various provinces where Mennonites live and told them of his experiences in aiding the Mennonite refugees who left Germany for Paraguay. He hopes that many of the ones remaining in Europe may be admitted into Canada where relatives are eagerly awaiting them.

—Menno Church, Lind Washington: The special services by Rev. Henry Harder of Aberdeen, Idaho, were very well attended. April 13-15 Miss Bertha Fast vividly presented the relief program abroad. We are working and praying to the end that we may soon have a pastor for our church.

—Mennoville Church, El-Reno, Oklahoma: We hope to have Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Unruh and baby of El Reno, who recently visited us, as regular attendants. A recent Sunday offering for foreign relief totalled $112.05.

—Richfield (Pa.) Church: On the evenings of April 22-24, Rev. Howard G. Nyce of Allentown was our speaker. His themes were: "Hidden Possibilities," "The Will," and "Moving Door Posts."

—The General Conference of the Mennonite Churches in Canada will convene at Coaldale, Alberta, July 5-9. Many Manitoba Mennonites had the privilege of hearing Dr. A. Warkentin of the Mennonite Seminary when he visited Winkler, Altona, and Winnipeg.

—The Mennonite Central Committee Relief Clothing Center, Newton, reports that used, clean, and mended garments continue to be a desired relief contribution as well as new clothing. Shoes are in constant demand according to word from relief fields.

—Andrew Holliman, who is to do mission work in the hills of North Carolina, was ordained as Elder on May 4 in the Sichar Church, Cordell, Oklahoma. Five elders participated in the laying on of hands. Rev. J. M. Regier, Chairman of the Home Mission Board, performed the ordination. Rev. Holliman, who was reared in Arkansas, know the ways of mountain people and talks their language.

—The Oklahoma Bible Academy has raised $14,000 among the Oklahoma churches for the $30,000 building program, which includes a new industrial arts shop, an extra classroom and two home economics rooms on the first floor and two classrooms and an auditorium for four hundred on the second floor. Five thousand dollars will go for a new steam heating system. The structure has already been completed up to the second floor windows. This six-teacher Mennonite academy has an enrollment of about seventy this year, with more expected next year. Gerhard Neufeld is principal. Rev. H. T. Neufeld is canvassing Kansas churches in the interest of the building program.

—"God and Health," "Strength in Our Sickness," and "A Road to Recovery" are three little booklets recently published by The Commission on Religion and Health, 297 Fourth Avenue, New York 10. N. Y. Price ten cents a single copy.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Deckert, who left America February 7 to fly to Africa, endured cold hotels and airplanes en route. After reaching Kano they walked to their mission station. They have transferred to the station Zonkwa.

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: The men of our church are building a mess hall for the coming Oklahoma young people's retreat. They also repaired the porch of our church building.

—Bethel Church, Lustre, Montana: "Memories of Bible School Days," and "Good Citizens in the Community as a Result of Bible Training," were two topics on a program by former students of the Lustre Bible School. Rev. S. T. Moyer and a quartet from Freeman Junior College visited us April 20.

—Bethel College Church: The Committee on Christian Education is sponsoring three weeks of vacation Bible school. The men's brotherhood recently had a social at which they discussed the proposed new church building and voted to send a carload of flour to Europe.

—Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebraska: The Freeman Junior College A Cappella Choir gave us a very fine program May 6. A pot luck lunch was served in the church basement. The children of the Sunday School have sent 159 school bags to children in Europe.

—Burrton (Kansas) Mennonite Church: On May 8 Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz spoke to the mission society on the work of the mission societies of the General Conference and also told of her visit to Canada. The Juniors gave each mother a flower on Mother's Day.

—Butterfield (Minnesota) Church: Lately we sent seven boxes of clothing and one of soap to the M.C.C. Mrs. M. M. Lehman recently spoke to our mission society.

—Calvary Church, Barlow, Oregon: The young people have surprised the congregation with a new piano. Eight churches of the community observed one night of Music Week with a one-hour union service of song and praise.

—Ebenezer Church, Bluffton, Ohio: Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz of McPherson, Kansas, spoke to a joint meeting of ladies missionary groups at the St. John's church on May 16. William Richie, of the Scripture Gift Mission of Philadelphia, spoke and showed pictures on May 4. Our pastor, Rev. Howard Landes, was connected with this mission for fifteen years while in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Henry Ensz
710 East Fourth Street
Newton
Kansas

—Ebenezer Church, Gotebo, Oklahoma: More than twelve letters have been received by our members from thankful recipients of C.A.R.E. packages in Germany. The Sunday School has raised $66.43 for Bibles for Russians in the Ukraine. Our church was greatly blessed by a week of meetings held by Rev. H. P. Fast of Orienta.

—Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas: On May 8 we adopted the revision of our constitution which has been prepared article by article on various evenings during the past few months.

—First Church, Beatrice, Nebraska: A custom of many years was repeated this year, namely, the reading of our Articles of Faith on several Sunday mornings. Several are read each Sunday. The Bethel Student Volunteers recently gave a program at a joint C. E. meeting.

—The Halstead (Kansas) Church has made arrangements with Mr. Loris Habegger, student at Bethel College, to serve them as their pastor for a year. He will also continue his work at the College. Please send all mail for the church directly to him. After June 1 his address will be Halstead.—C. F. Haury —First Church, Madrid, Nebraska: Herman Regier reported on May 4 on his cattleboat trip to China. The very interesting report broadened our understanding.

—First Church, Nappanee, Indiana: The other Sunday we dedicated the Oldsmobile, which M. S. Pletcher has given to the Mennonite Seminary. Conference Sunday was observed with a quiz on "Know Your Conference" and a forum on "Kingdom Strategy." Our missionary circle will entertain four sister churches at a joint meeting at which Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker will be guest speaker. The Circle sent seventy-two rolls of bandages to Africa.

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas. Rev. Walter Gering, who did M.C.C. relief work in Denmark, has been with us twice to speak and show pictures. The Men's Chorus gave a special program on the afternoon of Mother's Day.

—Friedensfeld Church, Turpin, Oklahoma; Fifteen of our men helped clean up the wreckage in the tornado-swept area at Woodward, Oklahoma. The Ladies Aid recently gathered bedding and cooking utensils for a family near Minnesta, Kansas, whose home was demolished by storm.

Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: Four students graduated from the Teachers' Training Course conducted by Rev. Leisy. Rosella Hiebert, who returned from Three Hills Bible School in Canada will teach vacation Bible school in Idaho.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 May 27, 1947 Number 21

In Memoriam

What kind of memories will the surviving have of us who now live but whose bodies will someday lie in the grave? Will they have cause to remember us gratefully and joyfully? Will their memories of us help to make life increasingly meaningful to them? Will their memories of our characteristic attitudes help them to solve life's puzzles and to unlock the door to a conscience free from guilt toward God and man? Will they feel an urge to live on and out the master purpose and the lesser ones we cherished? Will we be remembered for the way we were calm and full of faith when the angry billows of life's troubles tumbled over us, for the understanding we showed for the hurts and joys of others, for our appreciation of the interests, aspirations, and good intentions of others, for our non-resistance to evil and our ability to overcome it with good, for the way we sought the welfare of all when nation, race, or clique sought the werst sovereignty from God, the Father, for the way we took the ideals of heaven and actualized them in the tasks and relationships of each day of life, for our visiting with God, for our openness of life, for humility, for words warm and vital, for a spirit that overcomes the death of the grave?

Grazie Tanto!

by Menno Schrag

(Mr. Menno Schrag, Mennonite Weekly Review editor, who is now traveling through Europe and the Near East, has been so gracious as to submit to the readers of The Mennonite a on-the-spot story of the distribution of M.C.C. relief supplies in a little Waldensian community in the rugged mountains of Italy. Mr. Schrag expects to get home about June 20.)

"Grazie tanto!"

"Thanks very much!"

This typical Italian expression of gratitude was repeated over and over again last Sunday night to the row of relief workers standing in a "receiving line" outside the historic Waldensian church far up in the hidden mountain village of Rora, about a forty-minutes' drive from the MCC headquarters here at Torre Pellice.

The hour was extremely late. In fact, it was near midnight. But even the children, leaving for home with gift packages under their arm, were still wide awake. For this Waldensian congregation of about 150, as well as for the pastor, Rev. Enrico Geymet, it had been a memorable occasion.

Yet still more impressive and heart-thrilling for the local relief unit members. Theirs was the privilege of giving to these needy mountain folks, food and clothing sent by the churches in America—towels, shirts, dresses, shoes, potatoes, cereals and bread—In the Name of Christ.

The drive to Rora is over a road winding up along dangerous precipices. For burrows and ox-teams it's quite adequate, but our two-ton truck had to back up several times to get around the many hair-pin turns.

The existence of even a small village in such a rugged, inhospitable environment is positively amazing. It seems almost impossible that people could make a living among these rocks and steep inclines, nor support a pastor and maintain a church. But here this Waldensian brotherhood has existed and thrived spiritually for more than two hundred years. Hunted and persecuted like thousands before them—"of whom the world was not worthy"—they had fled to these hills and mountains for refuge.

Immediately upon our arrival we noticed that the congregation was prepared for an evening of festivity. Willing helpers were ready to carry the supplies into the church. From the main entrance to the pulpit in front, the center aisle was lined on both sides with twigs of blossoming spirea. The relief workers were led up this flowery path to their reserved benches facing the audience.

The sermon in the Italian language by Rev. Geymet was earnest and soul-searching. He briefly reviewed Mennonite history, emphasized the necessity of gratitude not only for physical relief but also for Christ's sacrificial atonement on Calvary, and closed by urging greater adherence to the teaching of nonresistance.

Following his message, children with flower baskets came forward and handed large bouquets to each relief worker. Boyd Nelson, unit director who speaks a good Italian, was asked to introduce the group. The distribution was then carried out under the direction of relief workers, the pastor and a local committee. Deep satisfaction gleamed from the eyes of the children. Needy mothers had happy smiles on their faces as they received their gift packages. From every aspect it looked like Christmas in May.

To hear chorales, used by Mennonites in America, sung at this secluded Italian mountain spot is an inspiring experience. Among the numbers played on the organ or sung by the congregation were "Take Thou my Hand and Lead Me," and "Lead Kindly Light."

Without doubt the blessings of this fellowship, made possible through the gifts of American churches, will project themselves far into the future. Not only has physical need been alleviated, but Christians who are clinging to their Redeemer in spite of hard circumstances and ecclesiastical opposition are strengthened in their faith.

For many years to come, in some way or another, there will come from grateful hearts an expression of "Grazie tanto!"

ATTENTION: all Bergmanns

Hermann Bergmann of 24 Luebeck, Wickedstrasse 27, British Zone, Germany, wants to get in touch with his relatives in America who are descendants of a certain Bernhard Bergmann, who came to America in 1880.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Tentative Program for General Conference Sessions

Berne, Indiana, August 20-27, 1947

Wednesday

Evening: Welcome. Addresses on "Contributions by General Conference Mennonites to American Protestantism," A. General: E. G. Kaufman, B. Specific: S. F. Pannabecker.

Thursday

A. M.: Opening Session. Conference sermon. Introductory business. Delegate presentation. Appointment of temporary committees. Reading of minutes.

P. M.: Executive Committee. Unity Committee. Ministers Pension Committee. Preliminary. Historical Committee. Coordination Committee. Preliminary.

Evening: Memorial and Communion Service.

Friday

A. M.: Foreign Missions. Women's Missionary Association.

P. M.: Special Commissions (brief joint session). Women. Young People's Union. Men.

Evening: Women's Missionary Program.

Saturday

A. M.: Home Missions.

P. M.: Trustees. Fellowship Social.

Evening: Chorus.

Sunday

A. M.: Regular services.

P. M.: Centennial and M. C. C. Work.

Evening: Berne Chorus.

Monday

A. M.: Relief. Mutual Aid.

P. M.: Boards and Committees. Woman. Young People.

Evening: Young People's Program.

Tuesday

A. M.: Ministers Pension Committee. Publication.

P. M.: Education.

Evening: Unfinished Business. Coordinating Committee.

Wednesday

A. M.: Seminary. Placement Committee.

P. M.: Doctrine and Conduct. Peace Committee. Close.

NAMES OF NOMINATING COMMITTEE

Western District, Rev. Lester Hostetler, Chairman; Pacific District, Rev. Earl Salzman; Northern District, Rev. A. F. Ortmann; Central District, Rev. W. B. Weaver; Middle District, Rev. J. J. Enz; Eastern District, Rev. Ward Shelly; Canadian District, Rev. John Wichert.

BERNE HOMES TO ENTERTAIN DELEGATES

Rev. Olin A. Krehbiel, Pastor of the First Church, Berne, Indiana, has announced that the people of Berne, Indiana, plan to entertain in their homes the delegates to the coming General Conference. It is suggested that delegates make their plans accordingly.

Suggested Needs of Prayer

(Those who feel the urge to pray intelligently and comprehensively for the work of the General Conference may find very helpful the following list of needs for prayer. The list was prepared by Rev. J. N. Smucker, Conference president.)

1. That all ministers and leaders may be fully dedicated to God and His work.
2. For the Mission Boards, that they may have the divine direction and blessing of God in all their phases of work.
3. For the Emergency Relief Board in its heavy responsibility in aiding displaced Mennonites and needy through-out the world.
4. For the Board of Education in its important work of Christian education, student exchange, etc.
5. For the work of our Publication Board in its effort to meet the publication needs and opportunities of our churches.
6. For our Peace Committee as it seeks ways and means of increasing our loyalty to the Prince of Peace.
7. For the Committees of Doctrine and Conduct, Unity, that they may help strengthen our faith and fellowship.
8. For our Seminary Board in its effort to train religious leaders according to the teaching and spirit of our Lord.
9. For the Women's Missionary organizations and their great work.
10. For the Young Peoples' Union in their effort to enlist our youth in the cause of Christ.
11. For the Mutual Aid Board, the Board of Trustees, the Historical Committee, the Placement Committee, Ministers' Aid Committee, in their particular responsibilities.
12. For the Business Committee of Conference, which prepares the program for the coming General Conference.
13. For the Conference Officers and Executive Committee, that God may definitely lead them in their responsiblities.
14. For all our missionaries and relief workers.
15. For our schools and colleges and Seminary, and other institutions.
16. For the proposed Ministers' Retreat preceding Conference.
17. Special prayers for the coming General Conference at Berne, Indiana, August 20-27.

College and Seminary News

BLUFFTON EVENTS

After being frequently postponed because of bad weather, Thursday, May 15, was finally chosen as Clean-up Day. Much constructive work was done in cleaning up and beautifying the campus. European students attended a meeting at Goshen College the week end of May 9-11, this meeting being a gathering of students from foreign countries attending the various Mennonite colleges. President Ramseyer also attended the meeting. Miss Bertha Fast spoke to a joint YM-YWCA meeting in the Chapel on the evening of May 14, showing pictures of her work in southern Italy. The next evening she spoke of her work in the Waldensian community in a meeting at the church. On Friday morning she spoke in chapel on the problem of displaced persons. Camilla Gorby, senior from Rawson, Ohio, was chosen May Queen. She was president of the YWCA in her senior year. Phyllis Hartzler, member of the Eighth Street Church in Goshen, Indiana, was chosen maid of honor.

BERTHA FAST VISITS FREEMAN

The College Choir returned from their trip into Minnesota on Tuesday. The Music Department presented private voice and piano students of Professor Lichti and Mrs. Oscar Gering in two recitals May 13 and 14. Miss Bertha Fast was on the campus Monday and spoke to the students and faculty twice that day. Miss Fast shared her experiences with us in a very vivid and interesting manner. She also explained the work of Voluntary Service units which will be under her direction this summer. Miss Elva Ratzlaff, head of the Home Economics Department leaves for Canada early in June where she will be the leader of the unit that will work in cooperation with Canadian young people on their projects at Rosthern.

BETHEL A CAPPELA CHOIR CONCERT, JUNE 1

The College Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Vilas Gerber, appeared in an unusually fine concert on May 11. High point of the afternoon was the brilliant playing of Rupert Hohmann, concertmaster as soloist in the Mendelssohn Concerto in E Minor for Violin and Orchestra. The Men's Octet presented a program on May 18, and the home concert of the A Cappella Choir is scheduled for the afternoon of Baccalaureate Sunday, June 1. The Music Department has presented a number of students in a series of individual and joint recitals throughout the spring quarter. The spring athletic program under Coach Tully has been centered around three major sports—track, tennis, and baseball. Bethel took fourth place in the Kansas Conference track meet held at Ottawa on May 16, with Ransom Stucky tying for first place in individual scoring honors. Conference preliminary tennis matches were played off on Bethel courts during the previous week. The remaining Conference competition during this year lies in baseball which Bethel has resumed after a period of many years.

SEMINARY NOTES

Rev. Erland Waltner was the speaker at the vesper service held May 4. The Seminary has obtained the use of the chapel of a church three doors from the seminary home. In this quiet chapel in which one can withdraw for prayer and worship, the services have become a source of real inspiration to a greater commitment to Christ and His kingdom. Students are in the final weeks of the school year. Upon looking back over the year's experience, they are unanimous in feeling that the study, work and fellowship has been a great enriching experience which is preparing them for greater service in the days ahead.

Boehrs Write from Shanghai

(P. J. Boehrs, who have returned to China to continue the General Conference mission work there, were still in Shanghai on April 12, when the following letter was written to the secretary of the Foreign Mission Board. According to a letter by Rev. and Mrs. Brown, which appears elsewhere in this issue, the Boehrs and Browns have very likely moved to Kaifeng by this time.)

Brother A. E. Kreider has already left for Kaifeng, and we three agreed that we better stay here until Missionary Browns arrive, so that we can help them through customs, etc. We are still looking for a room for them. It is getting very problematic already to receive missionaries, because no "Missionary Home" has been opened after the war. The Lutherans and the C.I.M. care for their incoming missionaries. The Assemblies of God also do. We may be able to put the Browns in with the "Assemblies" people. Even other groups, such as the English Baptists and others find it difficult to place their workers in Shanghai until they can go up country.

Brother Kreider is expected back soon from Kaifeng and from here will then make a quick air trip into a part of Kiangsi Province South West of this Shanghai area; then he'll return, and we all will meet again in Kaifeng for further conference and action.

The situation up north is not yet clear, for fighting has been resumed in areas even south of our field, where it was thought the trouble had subsided. Also a train was robbed on its way north of Nanking, toward our northern area (former field), and quite a few cases of other missionaries' things were pilfered. There are open doors all over China now, and even here in and around Shanghai many more missionaries could put in full time for years and do good soul-saving work. We have contact with a strong local Chinese pastor and Bible teacher, with whom we have fellowship. We were at a baptismal service at his church the Saturday before Easter. This was a deeply spiritual exercise, and around fifty received baptism by immersion. Brother Kreider was with us at that service, and he also met this fine Christian leader, Mr. Chao Shih Kwang. The next morning we

(Continued on page 6.)

Pensioning Our Ministers

by Clinton Kaufman

An article in the May 20 issue of The Mennonite presented a part of the Life Income Plan for pensioning our ministers as proposed by the General Conference Pension Committee. Some additional provisions of the plan are:

Death Benefits after Retirement —

If a participant should die after he has begun receiving an annuity, but before he has received 100 monthly installments, the Income Contract guarantees continuance of these payments to a designated beneficiary until 100 such payments have been made. In a similar condition under the Annunity Contract, payments will be continued to a designated beneficiary until an amount equal to the cost of the Annuity has been paid.

Benefits after Termination of Service —

I. In the event a member should withdraw from the Plan, after five (5) years continuous service, he shall be entitled to one of the following:

a. Receive the entire cash surrender value stipulated in the contract.

b. Secure a paid-up deferred annuity in the amount which the cash value of the policy will purchase at that time.

c. Continue the Contract independently with the underwriting company. *

II. Any member withdrawing from the Plan after less than five (5) years of continuous service shall be entitled to receive such cash value or paid-up deferred Annuity as may result from his (her) own aggregate contributions to the pension. The balance shall become the property of the Pension Committee to provide additional Retirement Income where the per cent of the salary of a minister is inadequate to yield an income of $50 per month at the time of retirement.

As the churches and their delegates to the General Conference study the proposed Life Income Plan a number of questions will be asked. One of these is how does a minister, or other eligible person, become a member of the plan.

The first step is for the minister and his local church to arrive at a mutual agreement to participate and to notify the pension committee that they wish to do so. The committee will then provide them with any information they wish explaining the details of the plan and how to proceed.

The minister and the church will each be asked to make a separate written agreement to participate in the plan on forms provided by the pension committee for that purpose. A minister cannot enter without the joint participation of his church.

Upon receipt of these agreements from a minister and his church the committee will apply to the insuring company for an Annuity Contract or an Income Contract for the benefit of the minister. The application for the policy and the policy itself will designate the Pension Committee as the sole owner of such policy. The exercise of the ownership privilege, however, will be restricted to the provisions of the pension plan as adpoted by the conference. The minister does not become a participant in the plan until the committee has received the policy from the company. He will receive a certificate of suitable form showing that he is a participant.

The committee will receive all annual, or monthly payments of the minister and their churches and forward them to the insuring company. It will keep a complete record of such payments and give every minister a report at his request.

One-fourth of the dividends paid on each policy will be left with the insuring company to provide additional retirement income for the participant. The other three-fourths will be paid to the pension committee. These funds are to be used to help, as far as possible, those ministers, ten per cent of whose annual salary will not provide a minimum of $50 per month retirement.

The committee will present other phases of the plan for pensioning ministers in future articles in The Mennonite.

The committee appeals again to the churches for contributions to help the needy ministers who because of their age will not benefit from the above plan. These funds should be sent to Conference Headquarters and designated for the Ministers's Aid Fund. (Mr. Clinton Kaufman is Secretary of the Ministers' Pension Committee.)

---

*Underwriting Company is to be the Presbyterian Minister's Fund of Philadelphia.

". . . I think for example, of the concern which has steadily grown over the last twenty years with respect to the undisciplined character of many of our young men, particularly in the big cities and under the influence of the inevitable gang . . . . A year of military training . . . could have a very WHOLESOME influence on the succeeding generations of young men . . . . The serious question in fact is whether they do not have too much FREEDOM and too little discipline to be the most effective members of society." statement in April, 1945, by—Dr. Karl T. Compton, chairman of the commission on Universal Military Training

". . . The state that has no interest in healthy people has neglected this duty in a criminal manner. It lets the present young generation degenerate in the streets and in brothels, instead of taking them by the LEASH and training them physically until one day a healthy MAN and a healthy WOMAN have grown out of this . . . The ARMY EDUCATES them to be reliable, DECENT members of the community, men who in the hour of need and danger will feel themselves united in loyalty with the nation . . ."—A. Hitler in Mein Kampf attended an Easter Sunrise Service at the "Canidrome" (dog-racing place, an immense enclosure with room for thousands on the bleachers). Our ambassador, Dr. Leighton Stuart, spoke, and there was excellent singing by a large Chinese choir. It was very impressive, and we were so glad that our ambassador (missionary to China for forty years) gave a good, sound message on the Resurrection of Christ and its meaning to the disciples and to the Church. There must have been 6000-7000 people there, and maybe more than half of them Christians.—Blackstone Hostel, 1331 Rue Lafayette, Shanghai, China.

(Continued from page 4)

Boehrs and Browns Go to Kaifeng Instead of Kai Chow

(According to the following letter written by H. J. and Maria Brown from Shanghai on April 24, the Boehrs and the Browns, unable to enter the old field at present, will go to Kaifeng instead.)

We are glad to be in China, but there still is trouble on the old mission field. Rev. Chang Ching of Kai Chow, Hopei, has fled to Kaifeng and is waiting for us there. We will now first go to Kaifeng, South Suburbs, Honan. Once there we shall see what we can do for the people in our field.

As to the contemplated new field, we need more time. Rev. A. E. Kreider and J. Lawrence Burkholder left today for Kiangsi Province to look over prospects there. We have been told that both Mennonite groups could find room to work in that province. Two missions could also easily open work in Szechuen Province. Then too there is talk of room for a mission in Shensi Province. The Boehrs and the Browns will leave in a few days for Kaifeng. Rev. A. E. Kreider will also return there in three weeks. Then we shall plan further activities. Some Chinese friends are waiting anxiously for us to come. We would have left today had it not been for an unexpected delay in the Boehr baggage and an UNRRA allotment of certain food supplies. We shall try to leave on April 29. If all goes well we should be in Kaifeng in two days and one night. All letters should be sent to Kaifeng, South Suburbs, Honan.

Mutual Aid

JOB OPPORTUNITY — A young man, married or single, with some business training and preferably experienced, to manage a feed store in a Mennonite community in Oklahoma. The man is needed immediately. The work is attractive and provides a promising future for one interested in business. Write to Krehbiel and Lehman Feed Store, Geary, Oklahoma, or to J. W. Fretz, Board of Mutual Aid, North Newton, Kansas.

FARMS WANTED — A number of Mennonite young men with farming experience wish to rent farms. Mennonite communities wishing to attract additional families are invited to write to the Board of Mutual Aid, North Newton, Kansas, if they know of farms to rent. Whatever information is available should be supplied when writing.

FUNDS NEEDED — The Board of Mutual Aid has assisted over forty-five young men to buy machinery, establish homes, get started in business, etc. Additional funds are needed to help others who want to make small loans for this purpose. Those with funds to invest are invited to write to J. W. Fretz, North Newton, Kansas, and inquire about conditions of the loans.

—"RECEIVED AIRMAIL FROM DR. BAUMAN LUBIN JANTZENS ARRIVED CHAMPA APRIL 25." The foregoing telegram by Rev. Howard G. Nyce, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board, was relayed to General Conference Headquarters on May 20. This is the first word that Headquarters has had of the Jantzen's arrival.

United Sunday School Convention To Be Held at Mennonite Brethren Church, Frazer, Montana, June 1, 1947, Beginning at 9:30 A. M.

FRAZER, MONTANA, May 15.—Besides musical numbers, etc., a number of topics will be featured. Those in the morning will be: "How To Promote Missions in the Sunday School," by Rev. Henry P. Wiens; "Privileges and Responsibility of Teaching Sunday School," by Rev. J. L. Hoffman, and "Evangelism in the Sunday School," by Rev. Alvin Ysker. The topic to be treated in the afternoon is: "How Will the Present Sunday School Affect the Future Sunday School?", by Rev. George Moir; Rev. D. M. Hoff is on for a song and gospel message.

NORTHERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT EMMANUEL CHURCH, DOLAND, SOUTH DAKOTA, MAY 31 — JUNE 4, 1947

Theme: "EVANGELISM"

(Note: The following write-up does not include all items on the program, but only such as addresses, business, etc.)

PASTOR'S CONFERENCE

Saturday Evening, 7:45

Message on the "Meaning of Evangelism" by Professor Benno Toews. Message on "The Place of Evangelism in the Church," by Rev. S. T. Moyer.

SUNDAY

A. M.: Mission service arranged by host church.

2:00 P. M.: Conference message by Rev. Willard Claassen. Message by Rev. J. N. Smucker, President of the General Conference.

7:30 P. M.: Testimony service led by Rev. M. M. Lehman. Message, "Evangelism, an Integral Part of Our Peace Program."

MONDAY

A. M.: Conference business. Report of Educational Committee. Message, "Evangelism in India."

1:30 P. M.: Report of Peace Committee. Report of Examining Committee. Report of Evangelization Committee. Election of officers. Message, "The Medical Evangelist," by Rev. S. T. Moyer.

7:30 P. M.: Theme for the evening, "Evangelism in the Sunday

School." "Topic, "The Sunday School Reaching the Unevangelized," by Rev. Arthur Ortman. "Impressions Gained while Attending Sunday School:" by representatives from Avon, Friedensburg, Hutterthal, Freeman, Bethesda, Henderson. Message, "Evangelism through Teachers of the Sunday School."

TUESDAY

A. M.: Memorial service and season of prayer by J. A. Tieszen. Business. Communion sermon by Rev. S. T. Moyer and communion service under the direction of Rev. Willard Claassen.

2:00 P. M.: WOMEN'S MISSIONARY PROGRAM: Talk, "Evangelism among Women in Our Mission Field in India," by Mrs. S. T. Moyer. Talk, "Evangelism through the Mission Societies," by Miss Anna Quiring of the Congo Inland Mission.

7:30 P. M.: Peace Committee sponsoring two C. P. S. boys on the the question, "Why I Take the Non-resistant Stand." Evangelization Committee sponsoring testimonies on "How the Lord Called Me." Message based on Luke 15, "Christ and the Lost," by Rev. S. T. Moyer.

WEDNESDAY
YOUNG PEOPLE'S DAY

Topic: "Strengthening Young People's Organizations at Home."

The program will be in charge of the Northern District Young People's Organization of which Carl Epp, Henderson, Nebraska, is chairman. The main speaker, Rev. Ronald von Riesen, Executive Secretary of the Board of Education, will bring messages for the morning and evening services. One of the foreign students attending our colleges will discuss the youth work of his home country.

Highlight of the afternoon program will be a panel discussion on "The Challenge to Young People in the Work of the Church," in which young people from various sections of the Northern District will take part.

Mr. Ernest Lichti, music instructor at Freeman Junior College, will be in charge of the Young People's Choir which will take part in the evening service. A fellowship hour is to to be arranged, if possible, by the local Young People's Organization.

DR. BERNARD C. CLAUSEN
Bethel Commencement Speaker

"Masters of Anger" is the title of the Bethel College commencement address to be given by Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Clausen, who is the author of more than a dozen books, was a pioneer in radio broadcasting. Now he is involved in experiments looking forward to television and its use of religion. A specialist in campus religion, he has had wide contacts with youth. He speaks annually in the chapels of eastern colleges and gives a score of commencement addresses in high schools every spring. Dr. Clausen has also been active in community forums.

MIDDLE DISTRICT CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT BLUFFTON COLLEGE, JUNE 7-10

PROGRAM

General Theme — "The Church and Its Community"

SATURDAY, June 7

The afternoon and evening are given over to the Young People's Organization of the Middle District Conference.

SUNDAY MORNING, June 8

Sunday School
Conference Sermon by Sylvan Lehman
Communion Service

SUNDAY AFTERNOON

E. W. Baumgartner — Chairman

2:00 Worship Service led by Rev. J. E. Amstutz
Report on Young People's projects
Song by the Lima Church
Report on Relief Work
3:45 Recess
4:00 Music Program of Bluffton and Pandora Churches — Arranged by Earl Lehman

SUNDAY EVENING

Program of Women's Missionary Societies

MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 9

9:00 Worship Service led by Rev. Frank S. Harder
9:15 Business Session
1. Presentation of Delegates
2. Reading of Minutes of last Conference
3. Announcement of Committees
4. Report of Floor Privilege Committee
5. Report of Conference Trustees
6. Election of Conference Trustee
7. Election of Conference Officers

10:45 Recess
11:00 Business Meeting of the Women's Missionary Society
Men's Meeting led by Rev. G. T. Soldner
Discussion — Brotherhoods

MONDAY AFTERNOON

2:00 Worship Service led by Rev. Elmer Basinger
2:15 Business Session
1. Report of Home Mission Committee
2. Election of Home Mission Committee Member
3. Report of Peace Committee
4. Election of Peace Committee member
5. Report of Women's work
6. Report of Young People's work

3:45 Recess
4:00 Music by Grace Church, Pandora
Topic — "The Church's Responsibility for the Evangelization of Its Community" by Rev. J. J. Enz.

MONDAY EVENING

Laymen's Program — Chairman — Dr. I. W. Bauman
7:30 Worship led by Rev. Russell L. Mast
7:40 Theme: "The Church's Responsibility toward the Aged" — D. W. Bixler (15 minutes)
Discussion
Music: St. Johns Church, Pandora
8:15 Theme: "The Church and the Social and Recreational Life of the Community" — Gerhard Buhler. (15 minutes)

Discussion

Theme: "The Church's Responsibility for the Economic Welfare of the Community" — Clifton H. Sprunger

Discussion

TUESDAY MORNING, June 10

9:00 Worship Service led by Howard Landes

9:15 Business Session
  1. Report of Education Committee
  2. Election of Education Committee member
  3. Report of Bluffton College — Dr. L. L. Ramseyer
  4. Election of College Trustee

11:00 Recess

11:10 Music — Ebenezer Church, Bluffton

Topic: "The Church's Responsibility for the Spiritual Growth of the Community" — Rev. E. S. Mullett

Discussion

TUESDAY AFTERNOON

2:00 Worship Service led by Rev. Walter Regier, Noble, Iowa

2:10 Business Session
  1. Report of Seminary — Rev. A. S. Rosenberger
  2. Unfinished Business
  3. Election of member of Program Committee
  4. Choosing of next Conference
  5. New Business

3:45 Recess

4:00 Music — First Church — Bluffton

Topic: "The Church and the Public School" — Rev. Ernest Bohn

Discussion.

CONFERENCE OFFICERS

President — Rev. Sylvan Lehman
Vice President — Rev. Olin A. Krehbiel
Secretary — Clarence Schneck
Treasurer — L. A. Geiger
Program Committee — Dr. I. W. Bauman
E. W. Baumgartner
Rev. John T. Neufeld

DR. CLARENCE MACARTNEY

Bluffton Commencement Speaker

Dr. Clarence Macartney, renowned preacher and author, will give the Bluffton College Commencement Address this year. He will speak at the First Mennonite Church, on Monday morning, June 2, at 10 A. M., on the subject, "The Greatest Thing in Man." Dr. Macartney has been pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, Pa., since 1934. He "is known as a proclaimer and defender of the cardinal doctrines of the Christian faith, but has been noted also for sermons in the field of Christian biography." His best known sermon is probably "Come before Winter," a sermon on opportunity. He is the author of forty-two volumes in the fields of theology, homiletics, biography, and history. A forthcoming book, "Sermons on the Greatest Texts of the Bible" will represent his preaching on the great texts and doctrines of the Christian faith. A great traveler, he has followed the trail of St. Paul in his journeys over the Mediterranean world. One of his books is "Paul the Man."

PACIFIC DISTRICT CONFERENCE TO BE HELD AT ALBANY, OREGON, JUNE 19—22, 1947.

Theme: "FAITH OF OUR FATHERS"

(Note: The following write-up does not include all items on the program, but only such as addresses, business, etc.)

THURSDAY MORNING
(Ministers' Conference)

9 A. M.: Studies in Christian Doctrine: "The Incarnation," by Rev. P. K. Regier; "Salvation," by Rev. Henry Harder; "Justification by Faith," by Rev. John Bartel; "Atonement," by Rev. Clyde Dirks. Discussion after each subject.

1:30 P. M.: "The Lord's Coming," Rev. George Kopper; "The Holy Spirit," by Rev. Wilbert Regier; "Inspiration of Scriptures," by Rev. Harley King; "The New Birth," by Rev. Homer Leisy.

THURSDAY EVENING
(Beginning of regular conference session)

7:15 P. M.: Address of Welcome by Rev. P. A. Kliewer and Response by Rev. P. D. Unruh. Conference sermon by Rev. Harold Burkholder.

FRIDAY

9:00 A. P.: Reports of Officers and Committees: Secretary, Mr. Marvin Linscheid; Treasurer, Mr. John C. Janz; Evangelization, Rev. Wilbert Regier; Bethel College, Rev. P. K. Regier; Educational, Rev. Homer Leisy; Peace, Mr. Rufus Franz; Young People's Miss Marie Franz.

1:30 P. M.: Unfinished Business. Message, "So Great a Salvation," by Rev. Howard Nyce.

7:30 P. M.: WOMEN'S MISSIONARY PROGRAM: Message by Mrs. H. E. Dester.

SATURDAY

9:00 A. M.: Unfinished business. Election of officers. Message, "The Church, Her Problems and Their Solution," by Dr. A. Warkentin.

1:30 P. M.: Unfinished business. Budget 1947-1948. Message, "The Faith We Profess," by Dr. A. Warkentin.

7:30 P. M.: Message, "Sharing the Faith," by Rev. Howard Nyce.

SUNDAY

A. M.: Sunday school and worship service arranged by local church.

1:30 P. M.: Message by Rev. Ronald von Riesen, Executive-Secretary of the Board of Education of the General Conference. Message by Dr. A. Warkentin.

7:00 P. M.: (In charge of the young people). Talk, "The Faith Youth Will Live For," Lind Church. Talk, "The Evangelism Youth Will Undertake," Barlow Church. Talk, "The Foreign Mission Board and Young People," by Rev. Howard Nyce.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SESSION
FRIDAY AFTERNOON

1:30 P. M.: Report of officers and presentation and discussion of constitution. Message, "Our Relation to the Conference," by Dr. A. Warkentin.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

1:30 P. M.: Unfinished business. Adoption of constitution. Election of officers. Message, "Mission Project," by Miss Doris Andres of the Shafter Farm Work Community.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

The Contribution of Freeman to the Church and Community

by Leo Miller

In this world of secularism and godlessness, we as Christian people must be on the alert, lest we slip from our firm foundation, Jesus Christ. "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." Upon that foundation the Mennonite church has built a vast and powerful structure. Many lives were lost in the process of building. Those shall not have died in vain. Our heritage dare not become extinct. The church school goes a long way to preserve that heritage. Unless we give our wholehearted support, unless we come to realize the important part the church school plays, our faith will soon be lost and our way of life forgotten.

FREEMAN JUNIOR COLLEGE AND ACADEMY ISSUE

This issue of "Mennonite Youth" was written by the students of Freeman Junior College and Academy. In addition to the signed articles, the following served on the editorial committee: Grace Miller, Rosemary Linscheid, Harris Waltner and Leo Miller. Rev. Benno Toews, head of the Bible Department assisted as adviser.

An education is not balanced unless a study of the Bible is included. Studying the scriptures along with the other subjects furnishes the right flavoring to the studies themselves, to the social life, to the school spirit and to the general atmosphere. It fills in that unknown gap. It provides a hopeful outlook on life as the ex-students labor in their various vocations. It is interesting to note that 70 per cent of the Academy graduates, who originally came from the Mennonite churches in this community, are still here.

Through the working together of the triangle, the home, the Christian school, and the church, there is tremendous power. Take away the school and a large percentage of that power is gone. Education is the training for larger service. Christian education is the training for larger Christian service. That large field of service is white and ready unto harvest.

Among the 474 Academy graduates serving Christ and the country, there are 18 in full time Christian ministry, 18 Christian physicans, nurses, dentists, and lawyers, 55 Christian teachers, 144 Christian farmers, 34 students in higher education, 39 Christian business men, and 144 Christian home-makers. Fifty-five are undesignated, three hundred seventeen graduates, former students, and faculty members are now serving in some designated capacity in twelve Mennonite churches in the surrounding community.

Through the means of a Christian school, a priceless bond of fellowship and unity is developed within the community which strengthens the home and strengthens the church. By means of a Christian school, the Christ-centered way of life is in the foreground, giving Him the preeminence in all areas of life.

Social Activities and Recreation in Freeman

by Junior Toews

Social activities of our school have increased much in the past years. We have subscribed to two University of Minnesota Entertainment Courses, one for the students and the other for the community. Through these courses we receive many varied and interesting numbers—from concert violin and vocal soloists and news commentators to the Don Cossacks and Bohemian glass blowers.

The school gives three all-school parties each year or one every quarter, the last one being the school picnic. The first quarter the half of the student body, who sells the most "Star" subscriptions, is given a party by the half who loses the contest. Each class is also allowed one party each quarter.

Then there are two plays given each year, one by the Academy and the other by the College. Since the College has its movie machine, we see quite a few educational pictures. Every month a "March of Time" film is shown on a subject in today's news. Occasionally a feature film is obtained. Recently "The Last Days of Pompeii" was shown. Also, the Christian Youth Volunteers show a religious film every two week.

The Administration Building of Freeman Junior College.

For recreation the boys play volley ball during the spring season, and some boys are going out for track. During the winter quarter we have a lot of basketball games. This year the Academy team won the inter-Academy tournament. The girls also have their recreation periods during which they play basket-ball or Volley ball. Soon we hope to be able to play softball. Ping pong seems to be the main recreation for everyone in school after class periods. Our recreation and social activities provide plenty of wholesome fun for everyone.

Life in the Dormitory

by Marilyn Wollman

The new and the old dormitory on the campus of Freeman College, where a happy and healthy dorm family is residing, is a place of peace and contentment. In the new dormitory there are two apartments downstairs for two teachers and their families. Upstairs live eleven girls. Downstairs in the old dorm one teacher and twelve boys make their home. Upstairs we find two teachers and twelve girls—a total of thirty-five students and five teachers, living in the two dorms. During the stormy winter nights many more students often find refuge here.

That these students enjoy the religious atmosphere can be seen by their regular attendance at the dorm prayer meetings. The girls have prayer meeting every Monday evening where they take turns reading scripture. The scripture reading is followed by prayer and their theme song, "We are Climbing Jacob's Ladder." It is also expected that every girl have a devotion period of her own at least once a day.

Of course, the dorm family is not always peaceful and quiet. Many times certain people will be sprinkled with water by some mischievous boy or girl, or rooms will be turned upside down when someone goes out for the evening. Behind this fun, however, there is still the spirit of cooperation and right Christian living.

A group of students gather in the chapel for worship and prayer.

The Christian Youth Volunteers

by Ardis Leder, Marvin Ewert, Naomi Tieszen

"But they that worship Him, must worship Him in Spirit and in truth."

The Christian Youth Volunteers Organization is the heart of Freeman College, and has as its center, Christ Jesus. At the present time about eighty-five students are members of this group. In order to be a member one has to confess Jesus as one's personal Savior, and express the desire to do some special work for Him throughout the school year. The C.Y.V. members, as they are called, meet every Monday afternoon for a general program. Here also different projects for students are outlined. At the present time, we have a mission bulletin board. Students write to missionaries and ask for their pictures. These are then put on the bulletin board. Next to this board the C. Y. V. has a tract rack, made by one of the students. Here one can find a number of very good tracts. Students, who are artistically inclined draw or paint pictures to be placed next to the mission board and tract rack. We now have a picture of a church in a peaceful valley, with these words, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature."

Every Wednesday and Friday noons at 12:30 students meet in a small "upper room" for prayer meetings. One has been appointed to take charge. Scripture is read, usually some special music is furnished, and prayer requests are given. Then students kneel in prayer. Some times students also give personal testimonies. When evangelistic meetings are being held, or we have Bible week in school, prayer meetings are held every day for two or three weeks, with a minister in charge.

We realize that when hearts unite in prayer, wondrous things are wrought, for nowhere on earth is found one who works as silently as God. Sometimes up to sixty-five students gather at one time to pray. Private prayer and Bible study are encouraged.

It is a privilege to be able to serve Christ in our every-day life at school. So many opportunities arise daily in which we may witness for Him, and prove our loyalty to Him. Through these organizations and these groups we are ever challenged anew to "glorify Christ in our lives because we are bought with a great price."

Every Monday during the activity period the Christian Youth Volunteer group meets. We have topics, discussions, readings, poetry, stories of missionaries, and vocal music. There are some organized trios and quartets and they furnish some of the music. Once every two weeks a short religious film is shown in addition to the program. Occasionally a faculty member gives a talk and whenever there are missionaries or visiting ministers in this community, we have them speak to us. Since this is the only time all the members of the organization can come together, business is occasionally brought up at these meetings.

This organization also goes out into the various churches in the surrounding community to render programs. Here is where we especially use our singing groups. Besides the vocal music, we have instrumental music, topics, readings, poetry, etc. At present some of the members are working on two Biblical plays, which will be given at some of these church programs. We feel that going out and giving these programs is one way of witnessing for Christ.

As one of its projects, the Christian Youth Volunteers has sent out members of the group to minister to the sick and aged in Freeman. Some trios and quartets remained from last year, and others were organized at the beginning of the year. A committee consisting of three members was appointed to have charge of sending out the various groups.

Visitations generally take place the last period of the day on Monday during the time the C. Y. Volunteers have their regular meeting. In making a visit the group generally sings a song, which is followed by a scripture passage and prayer by a member of the group. Then another song is sung and the group leaves. Sometimes songs are sung in the German language, which is very much appreciated by the older folk. Appreciation on the part of those visited is often expressed by the gift of an apple or an orange.

We believe that this is a very worthwhile work. Those visited often invite the groups to come back soon. And those going out also feel a blessing in connection with preforming this ministry.

Why a Church School?

by Marian Regier

I had the opportunity of attending Freeman Academy one year of my high school term. This year meant a great deal to me and I shall never regret it.

There are several reasons why I prefer a Christian school.

It isn't easy for a person to attend a high school and really enjoy it if you want to keep your Christian moral standards. Many activities, which take place, are those which you feel are not right for you to take part in. The friends with whom you associate have different interests. To them social and school activities usually come before church activities.

Rev. Toews instructing a Bible class.

Coming to Freeman, I found it quite different from the high school, I had formerly attended. One difference was the chapel period each morning. Here ministers from the surrounding communities and visiting ministers often speak. The faculty and students also have an opportunity to take part.

Those who are Christians and are interested in Christian service may join the Christian Youth Volunteers. Each student is required to take a Bible class. One of the subjects that is very essential, is Mennonite History. Knowing something about our Mennonite heritage helps us to enjoy and appreciate our Mennonites more.

The friends, with whom you associate, are Christians. You have somewhat the same ideas and interests. You can attend and take part in the school activities, for they provide clean and wholesome Christian fellowship.

The choruses give sacred musical programs in different churches and for special occasions as Founders day and Easter Monday.

All this provides for opportunities of Christian service even outside of the school, such as teaching a Sunday School Class, singing in the choir, teaching Bible school and various other activities.

I urge those, who have the opportunity to attend a Christian school, not to let this opportunity pass by for "True Wisdom cometh from the Lord."

Active Musical Program at Freeman

by Marian Graber

Freeman Junior College provides excellent opportunities in music. It has some organizations in almost every phase that a music department can have, either in piano, group and vocal singing or instrumental music. At present our music department is headed by Mr. Ernest Lichti and Mrs. Oscar Gering, who has charge of the piano lessons. I would like to give you the activities of these various music groups that we have at Freeman at the present time.

Music students at work on a piano duet.

Starting with the largest group, we have the choruses. At present we have three mixed choirs, the College Choir and two academy choirs. The academy Juniors and Seniors compose the first chorus and the Freshmen and Sophomores compose the second chorus. The first chorus participates in music festivals and also enters state contests. The second choir does not take part in such events as yet, but by the time these students became upper classmen, they are ready to have a good choir. The first choir has approximately thirty members.

The College Choir is composed of thirty voices, taken from the college department. They meet twice a week for rehearsals. This period is spent in voice training and in learning and memorizing songs that are to be used for concerts and tours. This year the College Choir is planning a short tour to Nebraska and Minnesota. The College Choir with the help of the first academy chorus has practiced Dubois' Cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ." This was given on our Annual Music Day on Easter Monday. The solo parts were sung by students except for the tenor solo, which Mr. Lichti sang. This year was the first presentation of the cantata by the students, and they eagerly anticipated giving it.

In addition to these mixed choirs we have a Boys' and also a Girls' Glee Club. These organizations spend most of their time practicing for the annual spring contest in which they compete with other high schools and academies.

Anyone wishing to do work in quartets and other smaller music groups has just such opportunities at Freeman. We have a male quartet and a girls' trio besides the C.Y.V. music groups. These two groups go out to surrounding churches to represent Freeman College.

Many students also have the opportunity of taking vocal lessons under the able direction of Professor Lichti. This year we have twenty students taking vocal lessons. We also have about fifty students taking piano lessons from Mrs. Gering, who comes to College three day a week. These students present piano recitals during the spring months.

Then, too, anyone who is interested in instrumental music may play in the band or orchestra. These organizations are rather small as yet, but it is hoped that with the enrollement of more students these will also grow. Both, the orchestra and band made their first appearance at the Music Review on Easter Monday.

Besides being able to exercise their music ability in school activities, students have an opportunity to participate in Community Music activities. Each fall the Swiss Choral Society presents Handel's, "Messiah." Students always are asked to take part in this event. The Music Review on Easter Monday in which the surrounding churches and the college take part, offers excellent music opportunities.

M.C.C. Hopes To Help Most of 8,000 Mennonite Refugees in Europe To Find New Homes in Canada, Paraguay, and Argentina

AKRON, PA. May 16.—The M.C.C. hopes that most of the approximately 8,000 Mennonite refugees now in Europe can be brought to Canada, Paraguay, and Argentina. C. F. Klassen, who helped several thousand to migrate to South America this past winter, has returned to Europe to make arrangements for further migrations. Brother Klassen hopes that thousands may still find a new homeland this summer.

Executive-Secretary of M.C.C. Makes World Tour

Orie O. Miller, Executive-Secretary of the M.C.C., arrived safely in the Philippines on May 15, on a fourteen-week survey of relief needs in the Philippines, China, India, Java, Ethiopia, and Europe. He will also review the relief work already being done in these countries by the M.C.C.

Work on Homes for Mentally Ill Going Forward

Architects are now drawing up plans for remodeling former C.P.S. quarters at Leitersburg, Maryland, into a homelike and comfortable haven for the mentally ill. A team of workers particularly interested in this project will do the remodeling. The M.C.C. would like to hear from others, especially carpenters, who would like to join this team on a regular pay or voluntary basis. They should write to Mental Health Service, M.C.C., Akron, Pa. Arthur Jost, former Director of the C.P.S. Mental Hospital Unit at Provo, Utah, and now assistant to the director of M.C.C. relief, is to serve as administrator for the establishment and operation of the Home for the Mentally Ill which is to be located in California. An advisory committee of three will work with him.

Variety of Slides Available To Individuals and Groups

Slide sets on the following subjects may be borrowed from the M.C.C.: Work in Puerto Rico; Health and Community Work at Gulfport, Mississippi; Ypsilanti C.P.S. Unit; Dension C.P.S. Camp; Tiffen C.P.S. Unit; Belton C. P. S. Camp; Fort Collins C.P.S. Camp; General Set on C.P.S. Camps; Crafts in C.P.S.; Mennonite Heritage; M.C.C. Headquarters, and a new one on the Material Aid Program. This set shows M.C.C. food and clothing warehouses, packing and stencilling of food for shipment, relief canneries in operation, transportation of food and clothing; and C.P.S. men working in warehouses, etc. Most of the sixty-nine slides in this set are in natural color. Requests for slides should be sent in several weeks in advance of the date on which they are to be used. There is no charge for the use except return postage. Write the Publicity Office, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron. Pa.

M.C.C. Urges Labeling of Canned Goods for Relief

Labels give a personal touch. They help the recipient to get in touch with the donor. Labels bear a message of Christian concern and friendship. Consequently, donors are urged to estimate their needs early and get their labels either by mail from the Material Aid Section, Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pa., or from a M.C.C. Food Warehouse if one is nearby. There is no charge for the labels. However, be sure to specify the size and type of cans for which they are to be used.

Leaders of Voluntary Service Units To Meet in Chicago

Leaders of the M.C.C. summer service units are to meet in Chicago on May 17 to plan the religious, educational, and recreational programs which are to be developed in connection with each of the units. Leaders are: John Fisher, Ralph Lehman, Orlo Kaufman, Melvin Funk, and Ray Horst.

Jottings

—Sister Lena Mae Smith and Sister Ella Risser of the Bethel Hospital attended the International Congress of Nurses, which convened at Atlantic City, New Jersey, May 11-16. The Sisters flew by plane to Atlantic City.

—A total of nearly half a million dollars has been raised by Mennonites of Canada and the United States during the first quarter of 1947 for the resettlement of the Mennonite refugees of Europe.

—E. Stanley Jones Ashrams this year will be held at Bynden Wood (near Reading, Pa.) June 30-July 10; Green Lake, Wisconsin, July 14-24; Geneva Point Camp, Lake Winnipesaukee, New Hamsphire, July 28-August 9, and Camp Sierra, California, (fifty-five miles from Fresno) August 19-29.

—The Mennonitischen Lehranstalt, Gretna, Manitoba, has put out a yearbook that floods the reader with pages of wonderful German before he comes to the section which covers matter in the usual English.

—The Institute of International Relations, which is to be held at Friends University, Wichita, Kansas, June 6-15, will this year emphasize the following main issues: (1) "Changing Conditions in Asia" — to be led by T. Z. Koo of China and Eddy Asirvatham of India. (2) "Economic and Racial Tensions in America that Affect World Peace" with Rayford Logan of Howard University and Aaron Levenstein of the Research Institute of America as leaders and

(3) "Chaos and Reconstruction in Europe" and (4) "The Hope of World Government." These last two will be led by Martin Hall, formerly of Germany, Philip Jacobs of Pennsylvania University, William Bernard, Executive Secretary of the Committee on Displaced Persons, and Henry Bloch, former professor of Economics at Chicago University and now a Secretary of the United Nations and expert on the work of the Security Council. This Institute is planned for teachers, ministers, church women, housewives, students, and for anyone who is interested in becoming more intelligent regarding the problems that confront a confused world.

—First Church, Nappanee, Indiana: Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker spoke on "Thy Kingdom Come" at a meeting at which our missionary society entertained those of our sister churches near Goshen and Topeka. The pastor's sermon topic for the Festival of the Christian Home was, "God's First Line of Offense."

—First Church, Sugarcreek, Ohio: Dr. Kirby Page, famed lecturer and writer will speak at our morning and evening services on May 25. He will be in the community throughout the following week. Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Richert, students from the Mennonite Biblical Seminary who will spend the summer months with us, will be two of the teachers in our community vacation Bible school. The young people plan to sell wastepaper to help cover retreat expenses. On May 21 Mrs. A. H. Lohrentz of McPherson, Kansas, spoke to our three organized women's groups about the work of the Women's Mission Societies. The ladies recently shipped seven large boxes of relief clothing.

—Lehigh (Kansas) Mennonite Church: On the morning of May 18 Rev. Robert Tully of Bethel College spoke to us on "The Twentieth Century Christian." In the evening our church and the Mennonite Brethren church had a joint service in the high school. The Tabor College Ladies Quartet gave a good program, and Rev. Gerbrandt gave a short message.

—"Ye Are My Friends," is the title of the baccalaureate address to be given by Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman to the graduating class of Bethel College at 8 o'clock, June 1, in Memorial Hall, North Newton, Kansas.

—Deep Run (Pa.) Church: William Snyder, one of the M.C.C. key men in the movement of Mennonite refugees, will speak on this unique work at the Senior C. E. Convention to be held here on Memorial Day. Missionary Elisabeth Goertz is to give her thrilling story of mission work and war internment in China on the evening of June 3. On a recent Sunday, while our pastor was giving communion at Hereford, deacons Charles Wasser and Ely Fretz led us in the morning worship.

—Johannestal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: Rev. Arnold E. Funk gave us a very interesting Ascension Day message this morning. Mrs. G. S. Klassen of Hillsboro will teach our vacation Bible school.

—Meadow Mennonite Church, Colby, Kansas: Blessed services have included: Pictures and a talk on relief work in Europe by Rev. Sam Goering; pictures, songs, and a report by Rev. Waldo Harder and a quartet from the Berean Academy, Elbing, Kansas: pictures of the Mennonite Biblical Seminary and some soul-searching sermons by Rev. Edmund Miller, representative of the Seminary.

—Butterfield (Minnesota) Church: Our congregation very much enjoyed hearing the Freeman Junior College choir on May 12.

A Mother Prays: I have come to Thee again, my Father. There is so very much work to be done, and I don't see how I can do it. Can You help me? I beg your pardon, my Father: Of course, You can help me. I just didn't think. There are so many things to be done; what should I do first? Or should I do any of it right now?. . . . I think I just want to talk with Thee a little bit. Just to rest in Thee. How I love Thee! Yet even my love for Thee is put into my heart by Thyself. Of myself I am not capable of loving Thee. I am too selfish. But by Thy grace Thou hast implanted it into my heart. Oh, increase that love, please. It puts my opinion of myself where it ought to be . . . I came to Thee for help to do my work. I was tired, but now I feel rested. There is still a lot of work to be done. But now, like Paul I can say, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." Which of the many things shall I do first, my Father? Mending? Or some cleaning? Or writing a letter to a missionary in India? Thank You, my Father. I don't see just why You want me to do that now, but if that is what You want, I will do so right away. Amen.

— Bethel Church Fortuna, Missouri: The Methodist minister from nearby Versailles recently talked to the Men's Brotherhood about his experiences as a chaplain in the army. Last week we had a mother-daughter banquet. Rev. Erwin Albrecht and Rev. Elmer Basinger of Summerfield, Illinois, will exchange pulpits next Sunday.

—Calvary

H. A. Fast To Visit European Mennonites during Summer

H. A. FAST

Newton, Kansas, May 22.—By the time this appears in print Dr. H. A. Fast will very likely have sailed for Europe, for the scheduled sailing date is May 27. Dr. Fast has been asked by the Mennonite Central Committe to spend the three summer months in Europe establishing a closer fellowship with European Mennonites, who have indicated a desire for more intimate ties with their brethren in America. He will spend the greater part of his time in Holland, but also hopes to visit Denmark and Switzerland. He will pass through either France or Germany on his way to the latter country. Dr. Fast brings a vast amount of experience to his job for the summer. He is at present vice-president of the M.C.C and as such has an intimate knowledge of Mennonite activities all over the world. Twice he has visited the Mennonites in South America. He was the man who got the Civilian Public Service Camps for Mennonites started during the difficult days of the war. Before that he visited practically every conference church as field secretary of the General Conference. Previous to that he served as pastor of the Bethel College Church. Mountain Lake, Minnesota, is his home community, and so he knows the Low German, which has much in common with the Dutch language. Between M.C.C. committee meetings and assignments like the one of this summer he teaches Bible at Bethel College, whose Bible department he heads. Before sailing he indicated with a chuckle his joyous anticipation of a quiet time on ship in which there would be no committee meetings.

Church, Barlow, Oregon: The women have shipped some more relief clothing, and an aged couple sent two C.A.R.E. packages to Germany. Eighty-six friends honored Rev. and Mrs. Roth upon their wedding anniversary. The pastor and his wife were presented with a wall mirror.

—First Mennonite Church of Christian, Moundridge, Kansas: An extensive program of church building plans has cumulated in the appointment of seven committees: Publicity and Promotion, Worship and Religious Art, Christian Education, Fellowship and Recreation, Women's Work, Furnishing and Equipment, and Landscaping. These committees are busy gathering materials and information which may be helpful in planning our house of worship. The Building Committee operates through these various committees.

—First Church, Reedley, California: A finance committee is to raise money for the enlargment of the auditorium. The building is to begin as soon as 60 per cent of the money is on hand. The Worthwhile Circle entertained guests from other churches at a Lotus luncheon. Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Friesen, our missionaries to the American Indians in Oklahoma, are here visiting at the parental, D. H. Friesen home. The C. E.'s honored the Friesens with a fellowship supper. Later Mr. Friesen spoke to the two older groups about mission work with the Indians, and at the evening service they showed pictures of the work.

—Gospel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: Missionary Anna Quiring is teaching the catechetical class. The Men's Chorus gave a musical program at Luton, Iowa, where Herbert Peters is pastor. Our C. E. and the Emmanuel C. E. of Delft gave a joint Mother's Day program.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: Rev. Homer Leisy brought the message at the youth rally in Albany Saturday night. Sunday School attendance was 325 yesterday. The Barlow women will meet with our Ladies Aid for an all-day sewing and quilting.

—Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio: The past Sunday evenings we have been especially blessed by Miss Elisabeth Goertz' messages on her experiences in China. Also very enjoyable were the talks and the songs by four Bluffton students, three being Dutch, and one French. The missionary societies gave a Mother's Day program entitled, "Mothers of the Bible."

—Immanuel Church, Los Angeles, California: On May 4 Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Friesen of the Oklahoma mission field showed slides and told us of their work. A book on "Heaven" was presented to each of the aged on Mother's Day. We had a farewell for Rev. and Mrs. Aron Jantzen and daughter on May 14. Refreshments were served, and a package was presented to them, to be opened en route to India.

—Woodland Church, Warroad, Minnesota: Last Sunday the congregation agreed not to have the regular Bible study and prayer meeting in order that the members could attend a meeting at Rosevelt. Rev. Henry Classen conducted the meeting. Our choir and young ladies' quartet assisted with two songs. The sewing society will have a short program and a free-will offering for missions on July 4 instead of the usual annual sale.

—Dr. R. C. Kauffman of Bethel College recently gave commencement addresses at Ransom, Beeler, and Walton, Kansas. He also gave a baccalaureate address for the Moundridge High School.

—Rev. Gustav Frey, Route 1, Canton, Kansas, writes "Please, take note that I have resigned as minister of the Hopefield Church, Moundridge, Kansas, and that all material and communications be sent to Mr. P. J. P. Schrag, McPherson, Kansas."

—Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio: The Women's Missionary Society thoroughly enjoyed Miss Helen Moser's accounts of her relief work in India and Egypt at their monthly meeting on May 7. In our pulpit, on May 18, Miss Bertha Fast left no room for doubt to any Christians as to what their responsibility shall be at the last judgement (Matt. 25: 31-46) in relation to the world's crying needs, especially those of the downtrodden in Europe.

—The Salem-Zion Church, of Freeman, South Dakota, presented their pastor, the Rev. J. J. Regier, with a new 1947 Hudson on May 13.

—Topeka Church, Topeka, Indiana: On the evening of May 9 Mrs. John Friesen, returned missionary from India, spoke at the mother-daughter banquet. Mrs. Wilmer Shelly also spoke. A carry-in supper was enjoyed before the program. On Mother's Day the five high school graduates of our congregation led the Sunday school devotional service. The Sunday school presented each graduate with a Bible. In the evening the choir gave a Mother's Day musical program. Rev. Harvey Nunemaker gave the evening message on May 18.

—Rev. John J. Wichert of the Vineland United Mennonite Church, Vineland, Ontario, has been asked by the M.C.C. to serve in Europe for one year. During Rev. Wichert's absence all correspondence for the church should be addressed to, Rev. Nicholas Fransen, Jordan Station, Ontario, Canada.

—Jacob Friesen of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, Edward Henry Burkhalter of Berne, Indiana, and Paul Barkman of Henderson, Nebraska, are among those to receive degrees from Biblical Seminary, New York, this spring. The first two receive a Bachelor of Sacred Theology degree, and the latter a Master of Arts degree. Jacob Friesen's thesis was on "Coordinating and Administering a Rural Parish Program." Edward Burkhalter wrote on "A Survey of and a Suggested Program for the Missionary Education of Youth in the General Conference Mennonite Churches of North America."

Miss Elizabeth Andres
414 East Fourth Street
Newton, Kansas

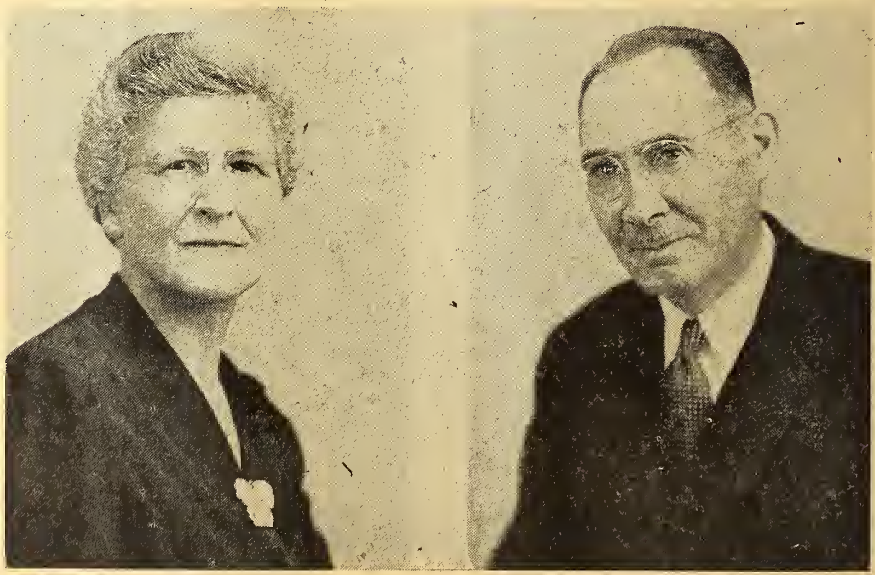
—Boynton Mennonite Church, Hopedale, Illinois: Rev. Willard Wiebe, student at Mennonite Biblical Seminary, has been engaged to serve this church during the summer while the pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Maynard Shelly, are away on the European Educational Tour.

—Elmer Ediger and Arthur Jost of the M.C.C. stopped at General Conference Headquarters, Newton, en route to California, where they are to make pioneer arrangements for the Home for the Mentally Ill, which the M.C.C. plans to establish there. Mr. Jost, who formerly headed the C.P.S. unit at the mental hospital in Provo, Utah, will serve as director of the home to be established. Mr. Ediger, who formerly headed the C.P.S. program for M.C.C., is now in charge of the summer and permanent voluntary service programs of the M.C.C. and of getting the homes for the mentally ill started.

—Rev. Robert Tully of Bethel College gave the commencement address at the Goessel High School, Goessel, Kansas, on the evening of May 21. His subject was, "Simon Says."

—The Nebraska All-Mennonite Sunday School Convention was held in the First Church, Madrid, Nebraska, on May 18. Rev. Paul Kuhlmann of Grace Bible institute was guest speaker and gave the afternoon and evening messages. Themes treated were: "Making Christ Vital to Children," by John G. Unruh and "Vital Christian Growth," by Harry Flaming. The offering was for relief. The Madrid ladies served supper.

DR. HERBERT DESTERS TO TAKE AMBULANCE TO INDIA



Newton, Kansas, May 21.—Dr. Herbert Dester reported today that they hope to take an ambulance along with them when they return to India this fall. The Desters hope that arrangements can be made to drive the ambulance and a trailer full of supplies right onto the ship and off again upon their arrival in India. The Desters plan to spend a week at Deer Creek, Oklahoma, Dr. Dester's home community, and then proceed on June 2 to California, where they hope to attend the Pacific District Conference. After the conference they are to visit churches in Washington and Oregon and to attend a mission meeting in Montana. They plan to attend the General Conference in Berne, Indiana, in August and then do their packing there preparatory to sailing. Berne is Mrs. Dester's home community, her maiden name having been Hilda Ruesser.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 —— June 3, 1947 —— Number 22

Photograph courtesy of Ansco

It's Music to Him

Those discordant notes are pretty to him, although to adults they may be so much noise. It is right and natural that these sounds should not be music to adults. However, it is wrong to insist that these same sounds cannot be natural and pretty to the child. Herein lies the problem, namely, the reconciliation of adult standards with child standards. Neither standard alone is sufficient; both are needed. There was a time when the adults of today enjoyed childhood standards. However, as they grew childhood standards lost their interest and usefulness. Like Paul, they put away childish things. Advanced standards enable adults to exert upon the child that uplifting tension which will draw out the ability in him. However, at the same time this advantage has a disadvantage in it, for it tends to make adults impatient with the achievements of the child, and impatience is not an encouragement to growth. Impatience makes the learner lose confidence and courage. It makes him feel inferior and therefore resentful and unwilling. What is needed is not so much impatience but the provision of opportunity in which the child may be interested. Every immature person, whether child or immature adult, needs to be accepted and appreciated as he is, with the faith that given the right opportunity for growth, he will advance into it. The things which immature persons do are "pretty" or "natural" or "useful" to them in some way. This needs to be understood and remembered right along with the wish for development. Someone has said, "To get along with children you must understand the gradual process of child development." From the child's point-of-view his play is as important as our work is to us and his interests as important as ours. As suggested before it is not desirable that the child remain at a childhood level of interest and achievement. However, it is becoming increasingly clear that growth is best promoted not by anxious tugging and spurning on but by quiet and calm acceptance with adequate provision for such opportunities as the child may naturally be interested in. When confronted with low levels of achievement, a mature person finds that his problem is to become still more mature by being patient with and appreciative of the immature. He must balance impatience with understanding.

(Continued on page 2)

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

From the editor's point - of - view:

SOCIAL EXPERIENCE is something which many young people in rural Mennonite communities are anxious for and need. As one drives through Mennonite rural communities and observes the beautiful landscapes and the hallowed quietness of the country, one feels that those who dwell on the land have some spiritual resources which city people do not. On the other hand there is an atmosphere of loneliness about the isolated farmsteads. This loneliness is chilling to young people regardless of how bright the sunshine and how green field and pasture. Rural young people desire and need social experience. One can understand how parents may fail to pay much attention to this need, for they have outgrown the age when they wanted to mix with a large number of fine young people. Their interests are now different, and unless they put themselves in the place of their sons and daughters, they will let the social experiences of their children go as unprovided for and as unplanned as a field of volunteer wheat. Any commendable results will be inspite of and not because of. Rural young people need planned activities in which they can play, sing, snack, worship, and visit with other young people. They need a place to go to and well-planned activities in which to take part. Homes can be utilized, and so can the great out-of-doors in summer. Some church basements are also good places to meet. Certainly young people ought to have a decent place where they can get together. Not only would such meetings provide social experience and recreation, but they would also be an appropriate time for talks and discussions on subjects of vital interest to youth. A campfire service after a hike, games, and refreshments is one of the best times to picture before youth those conceptions of human relationships which will enable them to see more clearly what makes for the highest welfare of all and the greatest self-realization of the individual. God can be described more accurately and unmistakably in such a setting, thereby giving to modern youth, some of whom know freedom from inhibition, a God-experience which will impel them to live creatively and harmoniously. Social experience is not a luxury; it is a human necessity. Integrative social experience is indispensible to spiritual growth. Mennonite rural youth need it and want it.

A SENSE OF RIVALRY is one of the basic difficulties of life and one of the slyest temptations that the Christian must face. We have been taught not to think ourselves better than others, and we force our minds to comply with this idea. We know that it is a virtue to be humble. When George Buttrick says, "The blunt truth is: we have nothing that we did not first receive," we feel like saying "amen." We say shame to the humanists for having so much pride in themselves. But when it comes to the vexations of daily life our feelings beg to differ with our Christian ideals. Then it is that we are tempted to feel superior to those who do not have the same strong points that we have. Then we tend to feel better than the drunkard, the thief, the hypocrite, the materialist, the dogmatist, the egocentric, the dull, the awkward, the uneducated, the poor, the Communist, the Democrat, or the Republican, whatever may happen to constitute the opposite of our own high virtues. Granted that our virtues are really virtues, we seldom stop to ask whether others have had handicaps where we had advantages either by heredity or environment. Our emotions seem to say that it is we that have achieved. But really no one achieves. God gives. We are what we are because of the good that has come to us in some way. No one has any reason to feel superior. Not excepted by any means is the man who is humble, for only through certain experiences of grace has he come to his humility. There is no such thing as superiority when we view human life in terms of advantages and handicaps. "It is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves." "There but for the grace of God go I" are nice words to repeat. To feel them sincerely in the vexations of daily life is something that sweetens human relationships into heavenly bliss.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST. in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized, Jan. 22. 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Provoke Not Your Children unto Wrath

by Carl Neufeldt

After having been reared in an ideal Mid-Western Mennonite community and then removed from it to become a leader of a large school of children, as well as being a parent, has given me a perspective and appreciation for the beautiful virtues of our forefathers.

Our parents taught us how to work, be thrifty and go to church on Sundays and effectively exemplified their philosophy of life. I would like to express a deep and sincere appreciation for these simple but basic things they handed down to us.

We are, however, living in a sick and insecure civilization all of which constitutes an evil climate for our young people's mind and spirit. In view of these uncertainties and frustrations, the marvel is that our youth are as fine and promising as they are. The young people want to live in a peaceful world and bring up children of their own—yet all around them are death and decay.

There are a few Mennonite characteristics that I feel we as parents should examine and correct and one is the matter of controlling our moods. We are high when we feel elated, enthusiastic, raring to go, and eager to get into a job that needs doing. On the other hand we need to face the example we set when things don't go right. There are plenty of reasons for becoming angry today, and not too many good, safe ways to work off these sore moods. Grandma might have been sore at the way her in-laws talked about her, but she could pound out her frustrations as she churned the butter or beat the carpets. At the same time Grandpa was ploughing under his gripes in the south forty. In these days of labor-saving devices we find few acceptable outlets for hostile feelings. But they are there and must be managed if we are to have peace at home. Back of our feelings of aggression lies some kind of frustration. We aren't getting some of the satisfactions we need. Maybe the father and mother don't show a genuine interest in each other's area of interest and work. This also probably is a European carry-over of father domination. A parent may be physically or mentally tired when the children are still eager for more activity, or a hundred other situations can cause moods that range from mild irritations to first class hate.

The way to manage such moods is to spot them early and get them under control before we release our impatience by throwing a hammer or talk so loud that even the cat in the house starts looking for the door. Managing our moods isn't something that is learned overnight. It takes years of patient effort and training. Every individual will work out this problem in a different way. My mother used to sing or go out to work in the garden. Those of us who got a good start by living with parents who managed their moods constructively have a priceless heritage. We are living with our children and must do everything possible to maintain the proper respect if we are to be effective parents, and this can't be done by losing our tempers.

Sketch by Randy Penner

My second suggestion would be to open the home to our children's friends and thereby avoid frustrations which are caused by parents who selfishly isolate or neglect their children. Parents must not only provide the home in preference to the cheap commercial avenues for the children but must also take part or indirectly supervise the various activities centered around the home. Every boy, for example, should have access to an outdoor basketball goal as well as an indoor den where he and his pals can spend many hours and among other things avoid annoying dad while he is taking his nap. My most happy memories are those I spent around the home and with my parents.

Present-day psychologists are now strongly advocating the living of a simpler family life, very similar to that practiced by our forefathers. It is high time that we cancel some of our so-called necessary outside activities and spend more time living with our children while they are in their most formative stage. Our Mennonite culture can only be transferred to our children by living with them. We must learn how to retain the best of the old and adopt the best of the new in guiding children toward adulthood in a changing world.

Another matter that is consuming an endless amount of the average parent's time is that of instant and exacting obedience, neatness, politeness and the annoying insistence of details in performing an assignment. Isn't there, indeed, danger of emphasizing them at the expense of other qualities that are of life-long importance, such as independence, adaptability and a capacity for understanding all kinds of people? Happy children do not seem to flourish in an atmosphere of severity where great stress is laid on the right form rather than right feeling. And the amazing thing is that in families where the long-term goals are kept in sight, and where warmth and friendliness prevail, the more surface qualities of behavior are likely to come about naturally.

Too often we as parents are more interested in the convenience that a certain kind of obedience brings and thereby either develop a child who never learns to make decisions or in the end turns into open rebellion. "Bossiness" on the part of the parents is the easiest way to provoke our children unto wrath. The mother who insists on too many precise instructions to her daughter in the kitchen, or the father who tells the big boys exactly how to drive the car from the back seat is only asking for disrespect and often open definance from the children. This is not, however, to underrate the importance of discipline and the need for a child to be guided by the wisdom of his elders.

The only insurance against psychological upsets that children can have today is freedom of thought and expression between themselves and their parents. Family conferences at the dinner table have proved very effective. We can help them best not with stern, Victorian admonitions but with outstretched hand of understanding friendship.

We can cure our sick civilization only by giving the home its proper place. Great benefit can spread from this small beginning. For as the home is improved, the community grows in goodness, the nation prospers, and the world finds peace.

About the author: Carl Neufeldt is principal of Lincoln School No. 2, Mount Vernon, New York. He came there last fall after serving as supervising elementary principal in Kansas and Iowa for the past fifteen years. The Daily Argus of Mount Vernon says of him, "Mr. Neufeldt is particularly interested in developing well-rounded personalities . . . . and has proved himself a leader in community activities which promote child welfare." From other sources we learn that Mr. Neufeldt has been recognized "as a person definitely interested in the interdependence of the school and community . . . . (and) as successful in his work with parents and teachers, building a functional and developing school." He is the author of the article, "Teaching Ethics on the Playground," which appears in the 1947 National Elementary Principal's Yearbook. Mr. Neufeldt was reared on a large wheat farm near Buhler, Kansas, and is a member of the Hebron Church.

New York Mennonite Fellowship Has Around Forty Names on Roll

The Mennonite Fellowship of New York was organized February 3, 1943. Its purpose is to bring together the Mennonites of the city for fellowship, inspiration in worship, and discussion of subjects of mutual interest. It meets once a month in the Biblical Seminary. The roll now stands around forty names with an average attendance of twelve to fifteen. This roll includes pastors, bankers, printers, office workers, taxi cab drivers, artists, social workers, home makers, apartment superintendents, students. A nucleus of six to eight constitutes the stable element that attends regularly. Difficulties, such as conflicts in schedule and distance to travel, prevent many from sharing in the monthly fellowship.

Since the founding of this Fellowship, the Home Mission Board of our General Conference has taken a postive interest in this group by contributing thirty dollars a month to pay the officers and defray other traveling expenses to visit scattered Mennonites in New York. The president of this group, who is elected annually, attempts to make personal visits to the various homes in the course of the year. This affords a contact with all members on the roll, including those who are not able to attend the meetings. These visits reveal a postive interest in the Mennonite Church. However, most Mennonite residents have identified themselves with some other church. Students studying in the city have no regular church home. This Fellowship is, therefore, rendering a real service. It desires to minister in the name of Christ, "Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." Ephesians 4:13—Jacob T. Friesen, president for the past year.

Note: The Fellowship meetings are held in the social rooms of Biblical Seminary, 235 East 49th Street, New York, 17, New York. Among the speakers in the past have been: J. J. Plenert, Lansdale, a member of the Board of Home Missions, and Ray Schlichting of the Mennonite Central Committee, Akron. Mr. Schlichting showed pictures of relief work in Europe. This year the Fellowship undertook to raise $100 for missions and relief. Rev. and Mrs. Ernst Harder addressed the group just before flying to South America. Verney Unruh has been elected president for next year. Send names and addresses to him.—A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary of the Home Mission Board.

Swift Current Bible School Holds Closing Conference

We have just completed (April 9) a very blessed Bible school year. We praise God for a fine group of thirty-three young people. Students and teachers have prayed much this winter. Souls were saved, and backsliders were restored.

On April 3 we had our closing conference. Rev. A. Koop from Springridge, Alberta, was our guest speaker. In the forenoon Brother Koop brought the message, and the seven graduates, five boys and two girls, each gave a very inspiring and challenging graduation address. They all expressed their willingness to do whatever the Lord would have them do. One of these young men has dedicated his life to the ministry, and another has yielded to the Lord's persistent call to the mission field in India.

In the afternoon Brother Koop brought a challenging mission message.

In the evening the Bible School gave its closing program. The church was too small for all guests in spite of the fact that roads were impassable, so that people from the country could not come in. If the roads had been good, we could have filled our church, which seats about 300, more than twice over. We just must enlarge the church. After the meeting tears flowed freely when the hour for saying farewell had come, and the bonds of Christian fellowship, which had become so precious during the winter, had to be broken, at least, in a sense.

On Good Friday, Rev. John Nickel from Main Centre baptized twenty-two young people. Many of these had made their decisions during the winter as a result of the many prayers and the active personal work of many of the students and the staff of the Bible School. We all rejoice with them, and we realize that this gives us added responsibilities. Pray for us that we might be able to perform our duty to "Feed my lambs."

(Continued on page 8)

Pensioning Our Ministers

by Mrs. J. E. Entz

The highest possible position in life that can come to anyone is to be called to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ and to lead men into a knowledge of God the Father.

This is a sacred profession and a God-given vocation. The minister's devotion to this vocation is not to be determined by any financial returns; no ministry is to be reckoned on a cash basis, since the minister deals with eternal values.

No other profession is so diversified in the demand it makes upon the time, strength health and spiritual power of one who follows it.

Yet, ministers, not infrequently, are forced to retire, sometimes with a broken heart, even though they could say with Samuel Chadwick, the great Methodist preacher of England, "I have loved my job with a passionate and consuming love. I thank God that of His grace He called me into this ministry." But the physical and mental weariness, the spiritual fatigue and exhaustion which results from the thousand and one interests and demands compel retirement at an age when men in other professions are still active.

What could be better for such than, as Wilbur Chapman says, "to keep himself aglow with the Gospel of God, to keep his heart warm with the grace of God, to keep his soul yearning for others with the Spirit of Christ," and to have much time for prayer and meditation, that a real renewal of physical, mental and spiritual health and growth, might be accomplished and to have the same triumphant climax to his ministry which Paul had when he said, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith."

Too often the alternative has been to go to work at physical labor, because there was no provision for disablement or for widowhood of the wife.

All men entering the ministry realize that the spirit of sacrifice is essential. It is their desire to exalt the office and dignity of their sacred calling by separating all consideration of money as far as possible from the interests of the Kingdom of God.

However, the minister or missionary owes it to his family to make a living for them. No one else can. I sometimes wonder how some ministers find it possible in these days of expensive living to maintain themselves and their families so as to hold the respect of the people in the community, to pay possible school debts and carry on an adequate savings program.

As it now is young men endowed with exceptional vitality often take up work such as teaching, farming, or other activities of various kinds, to supplement their income. Because salaries are low it becomes a necessity to engage in additional remunerative work in order to be able to answer the "wherewithal shall ye be clothed and fed" that comes to him as a father of a family. These activities take time that should be given to study for the deepening of his own spiritual life and concentration upon the real work of a spiritual leader of those that are entrusted to him for spiritual guidance, counsel and care. Often such a minister burns up so much energy that he has to give up prematurely the work to which he was called.

Too often these older men because of economic necessity take up secular work, sometimes to the exclusion of spiritual work, although they yearn for the ministry. They work in mills (it has happened that a one-time pastor had to work seven days a week in order to keep his job in a mill), in print shops, as clerks, in produce houses, on farms, as janitors, as salesmen, etc., etc.

Dr. William Chapman tells how unintentionally he overheard a conversation between a minister and Mr. Converse, President of the Baldwin Locomotive works in Philadelphia. The minister was telling Mr. Converse of a heavy debt which was crushing him. That great Christian financier said, "I can help you bear this burden; that is one of the great privileges which I have in my life." When the minister attempted to thank him Mr. Converse said, "Do not thank me, sir, it is just one of my joys; God has entrusted me with money for just a purpose as this."

Could not, should not the conference feel that in helping to provide for the sunset of life for the servant of God it has a real privilege and then delight in the joy such aid would bring?

The minister represents his own denomination in the public mind. We have not as a conference been entirely neglectful of those of our spiritual leaders, ministers, missionaries and teachers, who were in need; however, we might have done more.

Quoting from a paragraph on a bulletin picked up in a church recently we read, "The honor of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America is pledged to these Servants of Christ for their support in old age and in case of disability. Entering the service of their Church that protection was promised them. The Church has never failed them (since 1717) and, please God, will never let them down."

Is there a stigma on the Mennonite Church when it fails to provide adequately for its own "Servants of Christ"?

It is a peculiarity of the human race to be averse to change or to something new. Pensioning our ministers seems to be something new, and yet, a planned income for the spiritual leaders is found in the Old Testament. We read, "For the Lord, thy God, hath chosen him (the Levite) out of all thy tribes to stand to minister in the name of the Lord." (Deut. 18:5).

"Command the children of Israel that they give unto the Levite." (Num. 35:2) "Take heed to thyself that thou forsake not the Levite as long as thou livest upon the earth." (Deut. 12:19) "And the Levite that is within thy gates; thou shalt not forsake him for he hath no part nor inheritance with thee." (Deut. 14:27)

In the Revised Standard Version Paul says to the Philippians, chapter 4, "I rejoice in the Lord greatly that now at length you have revived your concern for me . . . not that I complain of want, for I have learned in whatever state I am to be content . . . I am filled having received from Epaphrodites the gifts you sent, a fragrant offering, a sacrifice acceptable and pleasing to God." Providing an income for our spiritual leaders is not a duty but a God-given privilege.

Could we call this service also a fruit of the Spirit? Is not the love of the brotherhood one of the foundation principles of living Christianity?

Native and Missionary Pastors Give Picture of the Church in India

(The following is a collection of reports given at an evangelistic retreat by the native and missionary pastors of the churches in Jagdeesphur area of India. Miss Helen E. Nickel edited the collection as of January 21, 1947.)

Hear about the victories and the burdens of the pastors of the churches of the Jagdeesphur area. This is the way they challenged their hearers at the evangelistic retreat just before many small teams were leaving to carry on a teaching program throughout the district.

Pastor Tranonidhi Paul, Antioch Church, speaking: "In my circuit there are thirty-eight villages in which Christians live. A few years ago there were but three. The 234 who were baptized this last year came into the church, mostly in groups. They have not yet grasped completely the meaning of the Christian walk. My helpers are five voluntary workers with three newer ones learning under them. We need self-sacrificing helpers who will not fear nor draw back from discouragements and hardships. I know of only four or five men who can read among these new ones. We are trying to keep in session a small primary school at Nawapara. The greatest victory that I can report is that as far as I know as I move about among these 422 Christians there is no idolatry among them. But the needs weigh heavily on me. Many have not left their heathen customs of burying their dead; liquor causes great trouble, poverty, and havoc among them; the unusual presence of disease and sickness, caused partly because there are not pure sources of water supply, all these conditions bring hardship and weariness. The illiterate and isolated (jungly) nature of these new babes in Christ makes the prospect of progress seem slow. Most of them earning their living by making baskets and other products from bamboo. The beautiful bamboo jungles are thick and no proper roads lead through them. On Wednesdays and Thursdays the people are issued licenses weekly to cut and trade in bamboo; on Tuesday is the bazaar day. This has made it almost imperative to work on Sundays in order to have fresh baskets ready for market. How can we teach that the Lord's day is holy and set apart? These and other conditions make me plead for more and consecrated helpers.

Pastor S. Philip Gardia speaking next: The 511 Christians of my area live in thirty-two villages, and the field is very large. This makes it hard for me to reach them often enough. Eleven new villages have been added last year when 232 were baptized. A few, just a few, were from other castes than garra. In the village Khaijhuri where I live there are eleven families and a little church. Years ago P. W. Penner and Miss Burkhalter knelt on that very spot to pray to God to call out His own. We have two schools and find that teaching is needed so badly because many of the believers have not yet left their old and sinful ways. They have not yet learned obedience, and superstitiuos beliefs connected with sickness prevail throughout my district. Undue concern for bread and daily needs keep the people from growing in their spiritual life as they ought. Two most encouraging conditions in my work is that I have some faithful helpers. New Christians are eager to listen and learn and understand and are interested in bringing their offerings of money and produce. But there are so many urgent calls; at present five villages are asking for instructions. In our own strength we cannot meet all these calls. We need to pray and ask for intercession in behalf of Bethany church.

Bethel Church, whose core and center is Jagdeeshpur station is large in numbers though the smallest in area, said Rev. J. Thiessen as he rose to report. Aside from the 486 church members I feel burdened for the 470 unbaptized children in thirteen villages. One experience gave me great encouragement; recently two young men, who were my school boys in Mauhadih twenty years ago were baptized in Boidhi. In Bethel church these days the prayer bell rings daily at sunset time as a call to all the people to leave their work a minute, bow in silent prayer for revival and deepening of spiritual life. May that bear fruit so that soon in villages very near Jagdeesphur, not only farther away, men and women may turn to Jesus Christ.

Eden Church, next nearest to Jagdeeshpur, was represented by their missionary pastor, Rev. H. Ratzlaff. "I give great credit for work accomplished by my helpers, paid evangelist, deacon and a few other workers. Throughout our field the voluntary workers do a great service in witnessing and winning people.

This year a number, who had slipped back in sin, have been restored to Christian fellowship. With more and more renewal of older Christians the new ones will progress. A total of thirty-nine baptisms last year and an addition of four new villages to my circuit make me plead especially for an Indian pastor to take my place and leave me free for more general work. All of the needs that other pastors mentioned are represented in Eden Church. Encouraging is the fact that a young woman from the village in which lived the first Christian graduated from Bible School and will begin working where there is so much need. There are many inquirers. There is need for better school facilities for the many children.

Pastor Abhaya Das, who speaks Oriya much more fluently than Hindi, spoke in his quiet reserved way about the Church Emmanuel, of which he is pastor. The membership is large, 535, and the central church at Sirko village is well organized and strong. Nine trained or educated helpers make the work possible. Including the homes of the eighty-four newly-baptized ones there are twenty-five villages in the circuit . . . . Chief weaknesses are that many who are older in the faith are still walking in their ways. There have been a few cases of death processions, of great trouble because of liquor, and of lack of interest and attention to the things of God because of increasing riches and very stable economic circumstances from their booming business of weaving hand-loom cloth. I praise God that some who had backslidden have repented and come back.

Hanuk Masih, the stalwart, newly ordained pastor of the Salem church spoke last. My area radiates from the large town of Saraipali. The field is long and narrow, stretching twelve miles to the north and twelve to the south. My large and scattered congregation of 471 souls are largely more stable Christians, the fruitage of former years. They are about 50 per cent literate and we have one progressing school at Dangania. This year we have added eight new villages, and my coworkers all have a group of three or five villages for which they are responsible. The Christians need to be awakened; we must pray earnestly. Is one school enough for 323 children? Are four or five paid helpers and a number of earnest lay, voluntary workers enough to shepherd these many? God has given the increase; we must depend on His Spirit to help us carry on with zeal and courage.

Rev. A. E. Kreider Reports Part of China Mission Field in Communist Hands

(The following letter by Rev. A. E. Kreider, Chairman of the Foreign Mission Board, to Rev. Howard Nyce, Secretary of the Board, was sent from Shanghai, China, on April 23.)

I was to Kaifeng and spent almost a week there and then returned to Shanghai. I am now waiting for boat passage up the river on the way to Kiangsi. I am making this journey with Lawrence Burkholder, who is representing the Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities. The purpose of the journey is to investigate an area which is a prospective field for mission work. We expect to be on our way in a few days. Travel is much improved over what it was a year ago. Yet the boats and trains are all filled to capacity. It is sometimes difficult to get passage. Upon my return from this trip I will again go up to Kaifeng. This trip will require two to three weeks. At the best travel is slow.

While in Kaifeng I went with Wilhelmina Kuyf to inquire of the Free Methodist Mission if their mission might have a place in which the Browns and Boehrs might live temporarily. That is arranged. They will live with a Miss Sayre, who now occupies a large house by herself. She was in internment camp with the Browns. We think this is a very good arrangement for the coming months. Kaifeng as you know is in Honan and is just a short distance south of our own field in Hopeh. From Kaifeng it is quite easy to travel to our field.

At the present time the four northern counties of our field are still in the hands of communists. That means that Taming, Nanlo, Tsingfeng, and Kai Chow are occupied by the communists.

The Yellow river is now back in its old course. Tungming south of the river is free. It is possible now to visit Tungming and Changyuan. After the Browns and the Boehrs are settled in their temporary quarters at Kaifeng, efforts will be made to visit at least these two southern counties, of which Changyuan and Tungming are the county seats. It is impossible to forecast how long the communists will continue to hold the northern counties of our field. No one at this present time can predict just what turn this civil war will take.

I am certainly happy that we have the two families here on the field. They will find plenty to do to occupy their time profitably. Conditions in this great land are unsettled. Yet I have heard reports from various sources emphasizing the opportunities which this present time affords for the presentation of the gospel. It is a day of opportunity here in China again. The work of Christ is going forward. The people are responding. For that reason I am very glad that the Browns and Boehrs are here. And they are happy to be here also, I know.

I spent Monday with the Browns and Boehrs at their apartment. We had a service of prayer together and spent some time discussing plans. This noon Brother Burkholder reported that we will leave tomorrow morning by train for Nanking and from there go on to Kiangsi.

The service of our Lord Jesus Christ is a great joy. It is a privilege to have a part in the great cause of missions. This is a new day again for missions. Our conference must be challenged to a new consecration of its money and its young people for the service of Christ. God bless you. We can always claim Philippians 4:19 as a personal promise.

IN MEMORIAM

Daniel M. Vogt, son of Jacob Vogt and Magdalena Schowalter Vogt, was born at Summerfield, Illinois, on January 4, 1863. In 1876 the family moved to a farm south of Moundridge, Kansas. Here Daniel Vogt lived the remainder of his life with the exception of the last five winters, which he spent with his children at Hesston. He was a charter member of the First Mennonite Church of Christian. In 1886 he married Mary Krehbiel. In 1936 they celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary. On October 15 of last year his beloved wife passed away. Daniel Vogt passed away on May 8, 1947, and leaves to cherish his memory, four daughters and five sons with their families, one sister, and three brothers.

Mrs. Katharina Goering Stucky, daughter of Peter and Maria Ries Goering, was born in the province of Volhynia, Russia, November 20, 1867, and died at Moundridge, Kansas, on April 15, 1947. When very young she migrated with her parents to Harvey County, Kansas. She was baptized in 1883 and received into the Hopefield Church, Moundridge. In 1885 she transferred her membership to the First Church of Christian. Married to Jonathan Stucky in 1885 she shared life with him for over fifty-one years before his death in 1937. In 1928 the family moved to Moundridge. She is mourned by two sons and three daughters and two sisters.

Mrs. Susie Jantz Unruh, daughter of Karl and Mrs. Katherine Koehn Jantz, was born in Polish Russia, February 14, 1874. In the migration of 1874 she came to Moundridge, Kansas. From here she moved to Tampa, Kansas, where she grew to womanhood. In 1893 she was baptized by Elder Johann Ratzlaff. In 1894 she married Peter B. Unruh, with whom she shared joy and sorrow for over fifty-three years. In 1900 they moved to Bridgeport, Oklahoma, and from here they later moved to Meno. She passed away on April 15, 1947, and is mourned by her husband; seven sons; Harry, Los Angeles; William, Jesse, Robert, and Ed, Oklahoma City; Raymond and Cecil, Meno; three daughters: Mrs. Pearl Elliot, St. Marys, West Virginia; Mrs. Mabel Wallis, and Mrs. Betty Morris, Oklahoma City.

Aganetha Hofer, nee Pankratz, was born at Marion, South Dakota, on August 7, 1880, and passed away at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Hofer on April 29. In 1897 she was baptized by Rev. Christian Kaufman and received as a member of the Salem-Zion Church. In 1912 she joined the Bethany Church in Freeman. She was united in marriage to Paul R. M. Hofer on January 23, 1898. She leaves to mourn her departure: her husband, three sons, Edwin of Freeman; Herbert of Portland, Oregon; Melvin of Sioux Falls, South Dakota; and one daughter, Mrs. Ernest Hofer, and three brothers.

Isaac Penner, son of John and Helen Schroeder Penner, was born July 3, 1881, in Harvey County, Kansas, and passed this life at the Bethel Deaconess Hospital, Newton, at the age of sixty-five years, nine months and sixteen days. When seventeen he was baptized and received into the Gnadenberg Church. In 1902 he married Margaret Nickel with whom he shared the joys and sorrows of life for forty-four years. He leaves to mourn: his devoted wife; his son Menno; his daughter, Mrs. Ben Schmidt; two brothers, Abraham J. of Newton, Kansas; and Jacob of Clinton, Oklahoma; two sisters, Mrs. Jacob B. Schmidt and Mrs. Leonard O. Harms of Newton.

Mrs. Anna, nee Voth Reimer, was born February 4, 1866, at Friedensdorf, Russia, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Heinrich Schmidt Voth. In 1874 she migrated with her parents to Marion County Kansas. In 1884 she was baptized by Rev. Jacob Buller and received into the Alexanderwohl Church. She was united in marriage with Henry B. Reimer in 1887. Her husband passed away approximately forty-eight years ago. This impelled her to make her own living and provide for her only child until her health failed. She passed to her heavenly reward on February 17, 1947. She leaves to mourn her departure one son, Henry B. Reimer of Newton, Kansas.

Susanna Koehn, daughter of Frederick and Helena Dirks, was born in Heinrichsdorf, Russia, on April 21, 1869. With her parents she came to the United States in 1874. The family made its permanent home south of Avon, South Dakota. In 1884 she was baptized and accepted into the Friedensburg Church of Avon. In 1886 she was united in marriage to Henry H. Koehn. One of their happy experiences was the observance of their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary in 1945. Mrs. Koehn passed away at her home on March 16, 1947. She is mourned by two sons, Jake and Fred; a daughter, Mrs. Agnes Bach, all of Avon, and two sisters and two brothers. Her husband preceded her in death.

Bernhard H. Friesen, son of Heinrich B. and Helene Friesen, was born in Alexanderthal, South Russia, on April 11, 1862. He migrated with his parents to Kansas in 1879. In 1880 he was baptized and received into the Alexanderwohl Church. Later after becoming one of the charter members of the Hillsboro Church, he reunited with the Alexanderwohl Church, and then still later he became a charter member of the Goessel Church. In 1890 he married Sara Voth, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Peter Voth. In 1915 they celebrated their silver wedding anniversary. They continued their happy sojourn together until 1925 when his wife was taken in death. In 1927 he married Mrs. A. A. Reimer, who after a long and severe illness was taken from him in 1933. For many years he served as deacon in the Alexanderwohl and Goessel churches. He departed this life on March 18, 1947. He is mourned by his son Daniel; his daughter, Mrs. C. F. Funk, four brothers, and three sisters.

SWIFT CURRENT CONFERENCE

(Continued from page 4)

In the afternoon Rev. John Nickel served 143 persons with the Lord's Supper.

And so another special period of work has come to an end. Now we wait for the snow to go away, so that we can get out to those who have had no fellowship during this most unusual winter. Then also we must enlarge our church and move and remodel the Bible School building which we have bought. All of which will take much work and a good deal of money. Should anyone feel led of the Lord to encourage us by sending in a donation for this Bible School, we wish to assure you that we truly believe it would be a very good investment for God, because the Lord is working in Swift Current as we have seen this winter, and if we are willing to follow Him and to be used of Him, a rich harvest is sure to follow. May God help us to lay all on the altar for Him. Please pray for us and the work. The enemy is not sleeping.—Yours in Him for souls, Rev. V. E. Nickel, Wymark, Saskatchewan.

Note: Rev. V. E. Nickel, Pastor of the Emmaus Mennonite Church, Wymark, Saskatchewan, is working under the Board of Home Missions. He substituted as teacher in the Swift Current Bible School during the past winter, because they were one teacher short. The Bible School is not under the direction of the Board of Home Missions, but we will gladly forward gifts to the proper person. It is indeed heartening to read a report like the above. May the Lord continue to bless His work.—A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary of the Board of Home Missions.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Books for Children

by Elva Mae Schrock

Why Do Our Children Read?

All children are eager for something to do. They are ever in search of something interesting, something adventurous, something that will unlock for them the secrets of the past, present, and future, or something that will yield enjoyment. That "something" is as near to them as the nearest bookshelf.

Through books they can form friendships with the great and good of all ages; through books they can think far into the future; through books they can become acquainted with boys and girls of every country in the world, of every race, and of every creed; through books they can share in the knowledge discovered by our great men and women of science; and through books they can learn to know God better. A love of books, and the ability to choose the best, is a great bulwark against many of the evils of life. Prejudice is dispelled, narrowness of spirit gives way to breadth of vision and depth of sympathy. Boredom and loneliness become impossible as we have contact with great souls in a fellowship that enriches and satisfies.

Children should read, and they do read. Never before have all children been taught so well the mechanics of reading. What tragedy if they never learn to become selective of content, if they do not learn to know and appreciate the best!

What Shall Our Children Read?

There are few books all children should read. Their interests and abilities differ widely; their tastes in books differ equally much. A child should read books he enjoys, and to force on him a book he does not enjoy may kill his interest in reading. He should begin reading a book because he is attracted to it; he should read it to the end because it holds his interest and he enjoys reading it.

There are, however, certain guideposts that should point us to the books we introduce to our children; there are certain standards by which we can measure the potential value of a book. A book should be good not only in content, but also in writing, and well illustrated. It should fulfil its purpose; if it is historical it should be accurate; if it is informational, it should be scientifically correct; if it depicts a certain group, it should do so with understanding. There are many good books for children, and those who early learn to love them will never be satisfied with the cheap and trashy reading indulged in by so many adults.

Children should be encouraged to read in many fields, and sometimes this is where guidance must be given with much skill. A reading diet of one kind of book exclusively is as unwholesome for the mind and spirit as a diet of one food would be for the body.

As Christian workers we should introduce to our children the many good books that help to better know God and His word. The small child can early learn to appreciate the beautiful passages from the Bible in illustrated books, such as Small Rain, by Jessie Orton Jones, My Bible Book, by Janie Walker, or Psalms for Children, by Marie Stern. They will love the beauty of the words ere they can comprehend their meaning. There are so many good Bible story books on all reading levels, and they will give a foundational knowledge of Bible narrative that is not likely to be acquired in adult life.

To know the great men and women of God through the reading of biography, is to be inspired. To see how God has worked in the past, through the reading of history, is to understand more clearly how He works today. To read the wonderful story of the Christian Church is to be moved to greater loyalty. Oh, that someone would write a good history of the Mennonites for children!

Children should read about many different people. What better way to know the Chinese than to learn to know Little Pear or Young Fu and Ho Ming? What could give a better understanding of the plight of the people caught on the wrong side in a war, than the reading of Kate Seredy's The Singing Tree! Children who read widely in the field of world friendship will find it hard to entertain views that are narrow and prejudiced.

Children want to know. Informational books that give an understanding knowledge of the world are increasingly plentiful. Children should read some books just for fun, and because they give free rein to the imagination.

Many classified lists of books for children are available to those who wish help.

How Can We Guide Our Children's Reading?

Every home should give books an important place. Every child should own some books. A book that is his very own becomes a friend in a way in which no borrowed book ever can. The expense of owning books isn't so great; the price of a few movie tickets will buy a good book. A child should have a place to keep his books and a comfortable nook in which to read them.

Families who find time to read books together are richly repaid. Hours in which good books are enjoyed together are hours that give children an enduring love for their homes.

Every church should have a library of good children's books. There should be books that help the child understand God and the Bible. There should be books that tell the story of the Christian church. There should be books of illustrated stories of hymns, and books that interpret Christian art. There should be biographies of the great Christians of all ages.

A vacation church school offers an excellent opportunity to encourage and guide reading. There should be a book table; and some recognition should be given for books read. Supplying some under-privileged group with good books for children can be a service project of value to the givers as well as to those who receive.

Books for children,—they offer a marvelous opportunity to influence the development of Christian character. They present to us as parents and Christian teachers a challenge to know both children and books so we can bring them together in a way that will result in growth in Christian living.

Send Play Equipment to Children Overseas

Can you remember the fun you have had playing with your rag dolls, balls, jump ropes, checker sets, and toys?

Many, many children in lands overseas have nothing to play with. They like to have things to play with just as you do. If these boys and girls can find only a few scraps of paper or cloth, they make dolls and other things. They have learned how to use whatever can be found.

Someone in Germany wrote: "Our children have no playground anymore. One day I walked through a destroyed residential section and watched the children play. Out of a pile of rubble they took stones and built themselves a home and played 'Mother and Child.' They did not need a father since most of them do not know their fathers. Most fathers have either died in the war or are prisoners of war. Some of the little girls looked for broken glass and kitchen utensils among the rubble and pretended they were cooking delicious food, things which they had not eaten for several years. They were so absorbed in their playing that one would think they had the best playthings in the world. The children have no toys to play with. Everything has been destroyed by fire."

In France there are four children's homes where 220 boys and girls live because their parents are dead or have been taken away. These children need some things to help them to be happy in play.

From Italy comes the report that none of the children have any toys at all anymore after six years of war. All sorts of playthings are needed badly.

Sunday School Classes, Bible Schools, classes at school, brothers and sisters, clubs, sewing groups, or other groups of children can help these children in lands across the ocean by gathering toys to send to them.

For Information concerning what play equipment to send and to whom and how to send it, write to the Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Pennsylvania. Full information will be given you.

Program of All-Mennonite Summer Camp

The All-Mennonite Summer Youth Camps, sponsored annually by the Middle and Central District conferences jointly, will be held this year June 16-22 at Camp Alexander Mack, Milford, Indiana. Under the set-up as it now exists two camps are run concurrently on the same grounds. The elaborate facilities of Camp Mack make this easily possible. Following are the details of the two camps:

The Junior Camp

The Junior Camp is for boys and girls who will be in grades six through eight when school opens next autumn. The camp is under the guidance of Dean Jacob Enz, pastor of the Nappanee church. Courses and their instructor for this year are as follows:

"The Bible—My Guide Book"—Rev. LaVerne Rutchman
"What The Church Believes"—Rev. Harvey Nunemaker
"The Story Hour"—Mrs. Olin Krehbiel
Crafts—Irvin Richert
Recreation—Rev. Wm. Stauffer

The Senior Camp

The Senior Camp is for those of high school age and above. Dean of this camp is Rev. Robert Hartzler, pastor of the Eighth Street Mennonite church at Goshen. Courses and instructors will be as follows:

"How to Enjoy the Bible"—Rev. Olin Krehbiel
"What Young People Can Do for Christ and the Church"—Elmer Ediger
"Youth Questions"—Mrs. Anna B. Mow.
"How Our Church Came to Be"—Rev. A. S. Rosenberger
Music Appreciation—Rev. Marvin Dirks
Recreation Leader—Rev. Wm. Stauffer
Camp Pastor—Rev. Russell Mast
Camp Nurse—Miss Lola Schertz, R.N.

Many other leaders will assist in the program as counsellors, activity leaders, etc. There will be a staff of more than thirty leaders present.

It is hoped that many young people from the churches of the Middle and Central districts will avail themselves of the opportunity which these camps represent.

Correspond With German Youth

In the present grave hours it has been particularly urged by German Christians that American Christians correspond with and share of their goods with the German people. These are days of great changes, and a very great influence can be made by our active sharing with the war sufferers regardless of on which side they happened to be.

Another group of letters has been received from Germany some of which are available for interested persons desiring to correspond with German young people. If there is any reader interested in this work of love, contact Esko Loewen, 6201 S. Carpenter, Chicago 21, Illinois.

Working for a Peaceful World

(This item is taken from 'THE POWER OF LOVE," a booklet recently published under the sponsorship of the Peace Committee of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America. This study manual of 136 pages is well adapted for Sunday-school use and for group discussions. The four chapters discuss, "The Scriptural Basis of Our Faith," "The Historical Background," "Our Peace Witness During World War II," and "Living the Peace Testimony." The booklet may be obtained from the Mennonite Book Store, Newton, Kansas.)

What kind of world will we be living in for the next twenty-five or thirty years? Will it be as the past thirty years, a continuous cycle of warfare in which we prepare for, fight, and try to get over one war after another? In our study of history we learn that wars are produced by certain causes. The causes of World War I are now written in the pages of history. In a number of years historians will include the causes of World War II. The study of history shows us repeatedly that wars do not just happen. There is no such thing as blind fate which suddenly decrees that we shall have war, and then we proceed to have war. Wars are caused by certain attitudes and policies which men and nations choose to adopt. We live in a universe of cause and effect. Certain causes always produce certain results. It is so in the field of human relations. There are those attitudes and policies which produce wars, and there are other attitudes and policies which make for peace. Again and again, men and nations are in the "valley of decision," in which they are called to choose which way they shall go.

Now in such a decision which involves millions of human lives and determines the kind of moral standards which we shall have for an entire generation, and sends young men out to kill, we cannot think that God could be indifferent to the way men and nations choose to go. He is not indifferent to the policies of the nations. For we believe that God has a "will," a "purpose" for all nations in any period of history, and that it is up to those who have the peace of God within, to help the nations discover what that will is. Therefore, the way of Christ must function in every phase of life, and no part of our collective or private life is outside of the redemptive purpose of God. We believe, then, that the God who is the source of all peace, and who makes that peace, available to us through Jesus Christ, and who impels us to build peace into our personal relations, places His approval on those attitudes and polices which make for peace, and His disapproval upon those attitudes and polices which make for war.

Too often we are guilty of studying history from a purely secular, materialistic or selfish viewpoint. We ask, concerning policies about which we read, "Was it clever politics?" "Was it good business?" "What did we get out of it?" It does not occur to us to consider the more important questions: "Was it in harmony with the teachings of Jesus?" "Did it further the cause of humanity as a whole?" "Was it the will of God?" Until we can learn in our thinking to raise the spiritual and ethical issues involved in national policies, we shall continue to follow after those things which make for war.

We know also that a representative form of government, such as American democracy, rests on the idea that the people of the nation are fit to govern themselves. The people elect "representatives," who are delegated with the responsibility of carrying out the will of the people. However, this system of government breaks down where people are uninformed, uninterested, or will not make their opinions felt either by the vote or by helping to shape public opinion.

The Christian in such a system of government has a double responsibility. First, he is responsible to God to see that His will and purpose is carried out in national policy. That is his first allegiance. The second is like unto it: he is responsible to the society of which he is a part to see that his attitudes and opinions find expression in the affairs of government. That is, the government should know what his Christian opinions are, for minority opinions are also of value in a democracy. In this way the Christians of the world could infuse a new spirit in public life. They could serve as a leavening influence in the whole lump, working silently, and perhaps without notice, nevertheless helping to shape and mold an intelligent and God-conscious public opinion. It is not through boisterous or coercive measures that we are to work; rather by silently infusing a new siprit in the total range of human life and experience, can we slowly transform the policies and attitudes of our world.

Let no one suppose that this is an easy task. It is a gigantic problem to build a peaceful world, and who can know when the realization of that hope may be fulfilled? Nevertheless, it is because we believe that the Christian way must function in the whole of life, that we cannot rest at ease until we have given our entire effort in that direction. When the fulfillment of history shall be, and when the kingdom of God shall be established by the sovereign act of God we cannot know. But until that day, our task is clear: we must work to bring the whole of life under the rule of Christ.

Items of Interest

The Gideons International, organization which places Bibles in hotel rooms, guest rooms, hospitals, penal institutions, is moving into a building of its own in Chicago. The new building at 212 East Superior Street has just been completed, being built by the contributions of Gideon members. The Gideons are in the process at present of placing New Testaments in the hands of school children.

* * * *

"Fascism and Communism have substituted shoddy ideologies for religion, and have found acceptance because there was a vacuum created by the lack of religion," said Arnold J. Toynbee, distinguished British historian and lecturer at Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pa.

* * * *

A Quaker Yearly Meeting of 19,000 members was organized at Kitosh, Kenya Colony, British East Africa on November 18, 1946. The organization will be run by the native Africans themselves all of whom are within the Kenya Colony. It is the largest Yearly Meeting of Quakers in the World. A high standard of spiritual life of those who are members of the church is required by the African Church.

* * * *

Resolutions in support of the United Nations, opposing peacetime conscription and approving the ideal of racial equality were adopted by 2,000 delegates attending the international youth conference of the Augustana Synod Luther League. The delegates represent 32,000 members of the Luther League.

Dr. P. O. Bersell of Minneapolis, Minnesota, president of the Lutheran Augustana Synod of America, told the conference that "atheistic communism and its allies, marching under various names, are a serious threat to world peace."

* * * *

The American Friends Service Committee recently celebrated its thirtieth anniversary. On April 30, 1917, that organization undertook its first mission to rebuild the homes and reorganize the life in the villages of the Marne Valley in France. Since then, the Quaker emblem, the red and black star, has been a pioneer in many ventures over the world. Life magazine, Survey Graphic and Nation's Business are among the journals which have carried stories of Friends work.

* * * *

The nation's educational system is in dire straits at present due to the lack of qualified and trained teachers. According to a NEW YORK TIMES survey, since 1940, 350,000 teachers have withdrawn from the public schools, including 50,000 men; 125,000 are serving under sub-standard or emergency certification; 70,000 positions are unfilled. It is estimated that only 1.5 per cent of the total national income is spent on schools as compared with Great Britain's 3 per cent and the Soviet Union's 7.5 per cent.

At present there is in the national legislature a Taft Bill to place a $40 per child per year floor under spending for education below the college level. The sentiment behind this bill is that in certain areas of the country, national aid is absolutely necessary to raise educational levels.

* * * *

"Contract" is a publication by the inmates of Nebraska Penitentiary. They make the following comment:

"Looking over the Prison World Magazine we note that $36,500,000 is being spent for new prisons and reformatories in Pennsylvania, California, New York, Ohio, and W. Virginia. Wonder how much they are spending on YOUTH."

* * * *

Regarding religion in public school education, Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean of Yale Divinity School stated at an Institute for Religious and Social Studies:

"For more than two centuries the public schools had ample place for religion, but about 100 years ago a process of secularization began which has led to the present almost complete exclusion of religion from public education.

"When it omits faith in God from its teaching, the public school gives a distorted and untrue view of history, and literature and of human society. . . .

"Let the public school exclude sectarianism, but make explicit its belief in God. . . ."

* * * *

Before leaving the U. S. for Germany, Pastor Martin Niemoeller urged in a letter to Dr. Frederick J. Forell, secretary of the Emergency Committee for German Protestantism that Christians in this country "send personal parcels with food and personal letters to everybody you know in Germany." He pointed out that "since the end of hostilities, at least 6,000,000 Germans have disappeared." A complete explanation of what happened to these people was not given, but their disappearance was not due to natural death, but rather present political conditions and policy toward Germany.

* * * *

Three cattle attendants were killed and three others seriously injured when the sightseeing bus in which they were riding plunged over a cliff near Mt. Etna in Italy on March 6. The attendants had accompanied a shipment of 130 goats contributed by the Evangelical and Reformed Church for distribution in Albania. They were en route home.

* * * *

On April 22, 1946, James Louis Gerouard, a Seventh Day Adventist who took the 1-AO position, won a decision from the Supreme Court granting him the right to become an American citizen in spite of his being a conscientous objector. Recently the Mennonite Aid Section of the M.C.C. assisted Andrew Gingerich, who took the equivalent of a IV-E position to complete his application for naturalization. The Philadelphia Immigration and Nationalization Court granted Andrew's citizenship.

M.C.C. Urges Bulk Relief Instead of Parcel Post Packages, etc.

M.C.C. Urges that Requests for Assistance Be Sent to Akron

Akron, Pa. May 23.— There has been an increasing flow of letters from people overseas asking for help from the MCC and the Mennonite constituency here in America. Many of these came direct to this office and others have gone to individuals, telling of the great need that exists there and asking for assistance.

Because we know that Mennonite people here have always been ready and willing to help the needy and suffering throughout the world, we realize too that they will be sympathetic towards these letters of request, and will want to give assistance to these people. However, because parcel post is a very expensive method of doing relief, it is the feeling of those in charge of relief administration that there should be some other method whereby individual requests such as this could be handled more efficiently. Because of this, our workers in Germany especially, have worked out an arrangement with the resident Mennonites there, whereby they can contact all the Mennonites that are scattered in and through Germany itself. Since they have this contact and are acquainted with the needs, as well as the people there, we believe that in the future we should refer all such requests to them for their investigation and assistance wherever they feel it is needed. Since our representatives have contact with Mennonite people there and also are in position to know the circumstances of many of the others, we believe that the most practical and efficient way of administering relief is through the shipment of our food and clothing in bulk lots, permitting our workers on the field to channel it to the most needy cases. Certainly they are in a much better possition than we to determine which are the most critical cases.

We would not encourage the sending of parcel post packages to anyone except relatives or members of your immediate family. It is a very expensive method of doing relief. For example, food can be shipped by freight in large quantities for about one cent per pound, whereas parcel post costs fourteen cents per pound. Your dollar goes farther through your church relief agency.

In the future whenever you receive requests for assistance, we would urge you to send the letters of request directly to the Akron (MCC) Office. We in turn will forward them to our MCC representatives in the different areas of Europe. Our workers, along with the resident Mennonites there, will be able to make firsthand contact with these people who are asking for assistance, and give them this assistance from the food and clothing stocks which they have there, if their circumstances justify it.

We call these facts to your attention because we are interested in giving relief to those people that are suffering the most and are in the most critical need. We have no way of determining what the circumstances of the writers of these letters may be. We feel that we can do much more good to many more people through our regular shipments and distributions.

Dire Need for Shoes in Europe

In a recent letter Robert Kreider states that if you could ask the average German on the street what he needs most the answer might be "fat" or just as probably an answer would be "shoes." The shoe situation is becoming progressively worse in Germany. There is only 1 or 2 per cent replacement of worn out shoes by new shoes. People are trying to make their 1942 and 1943 shoes last just another week and then just another month and then just until next year. The shoe situation is miserable and pitiful especially so for growing children.

Our workers are prepared to set up shoe repair shops in connection with the child feeding programs which are being conducted now at Neustadt, Kiel and Krefeld. Through the schools and welfare agencies the neediest cases could be selected and these would be entitled to have their shoes resoled. Services of a shoe maker and a shop would be put at the disposal of the MCC project by public welfare agencies.

Needed would be composition or leather soling, assorted heels and nails and thread. It would be preferable to send the composition and leather in large sheets so that it could be cut to size in the shops.

We are passing this request on to anyone who would be interested in helping in this manner. It is our feeling here that it would be especially adaptable to small group projects such as those undertaken by C. E. societies, Sunday school classes, or other small organizations that would like to have a definite project of their own. This is an ideal time, too, to collect such materials so that they can be assembled and shipped overseas before cold weather sets in again next winter.

Contributions of shoe repair materials should be sent to any of the MCC clothing centers located throughout the United States and Canada:

MCC Clothing Center, Box 168, Reedley, California
MCC Clothing Center, 225 Main Street, Newton, Kansas
MCC Clothing Center, Ephrata, Pennsylvania
MCC Clothing Center, 223 King Street East, Kitchener, Ont.
MCC Clothing Center, 78 Princess Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba

M.C.C. Needs Personnel To Run Homes for Mentally Ill

There is need for individuals who are interested in helping as employees to initiate and operate the MCC Homes for the Mentally Ill on the east and west coasts. Naturally this is a new avenue of church work, and possibly not many of our people have made previous plans to enter this field. However, through the work of CPS men and Voluntary Service workers in mental institutions, we do have men and women in our constituency who are acquainted with such service, and who have also helped others to become informed and interested. Experience has demonstrated that these Christian workers are, by the grace of God, the type to care for the mentally ill.

There will be need for registered nurses, men and women attendants, men or women for the kitchen, and men as farmers. It is assumed that the attendants will be given a good training course. Arrangements will be made with well recognized clinics for special periods of internship for certain of the workers. There will be some accommodations for married couples and families. More information and application blanks are available from Mental Health Service, MCC, Akron, Pa. Further announcement will be made regarding one-year volunteer possibilities in this service.

Relief Shipments of Clothing, Soap, and Food from April 15 to May 15

The following shipments of clothing, soap, and food were exported to Europe from April 15 to May 15.

Clothing, bedding, shoes and soap: 1 ton (soap only) to Poland; 12 tons to Austria and 25 tons to CRALOG, British Zone of Germany.

Food: 3½ ton powdered whole milk and 30 tons flour to Mennonite Child Feeding, French Zone of Germany; 70 tons assorted foods to CRALOG, American Zone of Germany; 30 tons of flour to Mennonite Child Feeding, British Zone of Germany.

College and Seminary News

BETHEL CHOIR TO SING AT GENERAL CONFERENCE

Summer School, under the direction of Professor D. C. Wedel, will open June 4, the first term ending July 10 and the second running from July 11 to August 1. Course offerings have been made in twelve departments with full accreditment by the Kansas State Board and the NCA. Campus building and plant improvements now in progress will continue throughout the summer. Elm Cottage is to be moved in June from the knoll to the west of Thierstein Home and faced with brick in English Gothic style, to house the renovated Infirmary. Building proceeds on a pay-as-you-go basis for the Farm-Shop, in the hope that the building will be ready by fall. Aluminum sheeting is being put on the lumber shed, and the streets are to be resurfaced. During the month of August the A Cappella Choir will travel to the east coast, singing in Mennonite communities and for the Conference at Berne, as well as in Chicago, Detroit, New York City, and Washington, D. C.

FREEMAN NEWS AND NOTES

Rev. George Dick and family of Bloomfield, Montana, were campus visitors Wednesday. Prof. Orlando Goering delivered the morning message at the Bethany Church Sunday. Mrs. E. P. Graber and Miss Elva Ratzlaff were hostesses at a shower given in honor of Miss Bertha Ewert who will be married to Mr. Arnold Nickel of Chicago, Illinois, on June 10. Dr. Pardee, dean of the State University, was on the campus to inspect the school for further accreditment. The University report resulting from his inspection was very favorable, and further accreditment was granted. Announcement has been made of the wedding of Dr. Harold Gross and Miss Monica Dirks, June 8, at Pawnee, Rock, Kansas. This year's annual, the Lark, has just been distributed. It is a very attractive piece of work, and much credit goes to the staff and to Miss Ewert, the advisor, for putting out such a worthwhile annual.

DR. WARKENTIN MUCH IMPROVED

At their last weekly meeting of fellowship and prayer, the student body and staff gathered under Dr. Warkentin's apartment and sang two old favorite chorales, "Ich Bete an die Macht der Liebe," and "Grosser Gott, Wir Loben Dich" in German, rejoicing upon his return from the hospital much improved. By the end of the school term, the last of May, Dr. Warkentin was able again to spend a few hours each day in the office. The school is thankful to God for his much improved condition.

For the last time the seminary fellowship met together formally on May 20. Since not all would return again next year, those who will follow other paths gave a brief expression of their sentiments and plans. This year's group will see their number going to Holland, South America, China, Canada and various places in the States to their future work and calling. As the group looked forward to their tasks, a prayer for God's guidance and strength was expressed.

Jottings

—First Church, Newton, Kansas: Our church is looking forward to building the Sunday School addition, which has been greatly needed for many years. Several weeks ago the church celebrated the silver wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Unruh. Rev. P. A. Penner and Rev. J. E. Entz brought messages. The congregation presented the Unruhs with a silver gift. We have regular church offerings for relief, and individuals have sent many packages. Nevertheless, the Relief Committee of the church has been very active. Sixty large and sixty small comforters have been made since New Year, more than sixty garments have been made over, many baskets of relief clothing were laundered and mended, more than 160 C.A.R.E packages and many parcel food packages were sent, $931 freight was paid on one of the three carloads of flour sent by the church last year, etc. Three rural vacation Bible schools finished their four-week term last Friday. The city vacation Bible school, June 9-27 will be taught by six teachers.

—First Church, Upland, California: "Universal Military Training" was the subject of the panel discussion featured by the C. E. societies on May 18. The panel included: L. J. Horsch, moderator; Harold W. Cook, Superintendent of Upland Public Schools; C. Ernest Davis, President of La Verne College; and Eugene L. Mueller, Chief of the Upland Police Department. Merill Landis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Landis, was married to Sarah Winkles of Falkville, Alabama on May 2.

—First Church, Halstead, Kansas: Our congregation has repaired and furnished the parsonage for Rev. and Mrs. Loris Habegger, who are moving in June 2. Rev. Habegger is to be our pastor for one year. On June 8 we will have a fellowship dinner for the Habeggers. Rev. Wiebe will conduct meetings June 8-15. Our congregation has sent about eighty C.A.R.E. packages, and it is now collecting one thousand pounds of clothing, which is to be taken to the relief clothing center in Newton. The Men's Sunday school class will give a program in the Bethel Home for the Aged, Newton, on June 1.

—Salem Church, Dalton, Ohio: Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz, president of the Women's Missionary Association of the General Conference, spoke to our Missionary Society on May 22, emphasizing the need of an ever-present consciousness of God in our daily lives. Her challenging talk also included the ten goals for the societies. There is much financial need in many areas, especially for the retired missionaries. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hershberger, newlyweds, were very pleasantly surprised when the Willing Workers Sunday School class social ended in a Maypole with shower gifts for them.

—Scarboro Church, Calgary, Alberta: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Loewen celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on May 18, with all children present except one son and daughter-in-law who are still in Russia and one son and one son-in-law. Rev. J. J. Sawatzky brought the German message, and Rev. J. Neufeld spoke in English.

—Second Church, Paso Robles, California: Missionaries D. M. Osbornes showed pictures and spoke to us of their work in Africa. This was very interesting. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dueck celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on May 18.

—Bethel Church, Langdon, North Dakota: The congregation has purchased new blinds and chairs. We have also redecorated the pulpit and the choir loft. Some evergreen trees were planted on the church yard and by the parsonage.

—Directions for retreaters: Those wishing to attend either the Peace Committee Retreat for Adults or the Conference for Recreation Leaders may find their way to "Camp Fellowship," where the meeting will be held, by going straight west of Wichita on Highway No. 54 (The Cannonball) to one-half mile west of Goddard, then three miles south and two and one-half west. Both retreat and conference begin at 9:30 A. M., June 6 and close with the noon meal on Sunday, June 8.

—First Church, Wadsworth, Ohio: Our congregation will contribute $135 toward the equipment of a picnic area in the new Soldiers' Memorial Park to be completed here this summer. This space in the park will be available to Wadsworth churches at all times for Sunday-school picnics and other outdoor church activities. Miss Bertha Fast, who spent two years in foreign service, presented illustrated addresses here describing her work, on May 18, 19.

—Rev. Ben Rahn has resigned as pastor of the Grace Church, Enid, Oklahoma. He and his family are moving to Paso Robles, California, June 1, to take over the pastorate at the First Mennonite Church. All personal mail for Rev. Rahn should be addressed to him at 736 24th Street, Paso Robles.

—Grace Church, Enid, Oklahoma: Two members were received by baptism and thirteen by letter on May 25. Farewell socials have been held for: Miss Elda Ewert, who went to Reedley, California; Miss Agnes Frey, who is leaving for Flagstaff, Arizona, and for the pastor and family. Rev. A. T. van der Smissen brought the message on May 18. Two O.B.A. graduates this year are from Grace Church.

—Winnipeg, Manitoba: A union choir of about seventy-five voices from Winkler, Altona, and other communities, presented an Easter cantata on Sunday evening, May 18. The cantata had previously been given at several places in southern Manitoba.

—The Kansas Christian Endeavor Convention will be held at Hyde Park Evangelical United Brethren Church of Wichita, on June 13-15.

—Dr. D . D. Eitzen, professor of Pastoral Counselling at the School of Religion, University of Southern California, has been invited by Dr. E. Stanley Jones to be one of the leaders at an ashram in India.

Church Observes Family Week

—Zion Church, Souderton, Pa.: We have just come

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

"A Thousand Mennonite Families in Dispersion and Distress" is the title of a mimeographed list of names (fifty-two pages), representing about 3,000 souls originally from the Danzig and other Prussian areas all of whom are now displaced in other parts of Germany.

Without diverting funds and material aid contributions from the larger general relief program of the MCC, we are anxious that these people, who are hard to reach by official relief channels, because they are so scattered, might be given aid through the sending of either parcel post or CARE packages.

A limited number of copies of this list are available at the General Conference Headquarters, 722 Main Street, Newton, Kansas. We would be willing to send a list to churches or individuals interested in making contacts with relatives or other brethren in the faith.—Walter H. Dyck, Office Manager

710 East Fourth Street
Newton
Kansas

to the close of our "Family Week," which was held a week later than National Family Week. It began on Sunday evening with a program for the entire family. A play, "Family Worship," in three scenes, written by one of our members, was given. It clearly depicted the necessity for a family altar. This was followed by a film strip, "The Christian Family." Monday evening was "Young Peoples Night." All those between the ages of fifteen to thirty were invited to the program and social hour. Tuesday evening was "Church Family Night" in which we had a Reception Dinner for the ninety-six members who joined during the present pastorate. A film strip, "Is Your Home Fun?", was shown. We were also happy to have with us for this occasion the Rev. Howard G. Nyce, the president of the Eastern District Conference, who spoke to the filled auditorium on "Spiritual Growth." On Wednesday evening we had our annual Mother-Daughter Banquet with Mrs. Charles Reinbrecht, a missionary from China, as our speaker. The week of activities came to a close on Thursday evening when all children from five years of age through the seventh grade met in three different groups to observe "Children's Night." It was a busy week with many different committees and individuals sharing in the work of arranging the programs, providing the refreshments and meals which were served each evening and of assuming leadership in recreational activities. However, we were greatly blessed and hope that we can again have a week of special emphasis on "The Christian Family" next year.—Corr.

—Apostolic Mennonite Church, Trenton, Ohio: On Tuesday evening, May 20, Miss Bertha Fast of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, former relief worker in Egypt and European countries, and Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz of McPherson, Kansas, President of the Women's Missionary Societies of the General Conference, gave very interesting messages and Miss Fast showed pictures.

—Arlington Mennonite Church, Arlington, Kansas: The three churches of the community are cooperating in a vacation Bible school in which approximately sixty boys and girls are enrolled. On the evening of May 22 our group held a covered dish supper in honor of the birthday of Ted Linscheid, who has been our church janitor for a number of years. Following the supper we spent several hours doing repair work at the church.

—Fairfield Mennonite Church, Fairfield, Pa., Our church observed Pentecost with a vesper service of communion and feetwashing.

—First Church, McPherson, Kansas: Rev. Sam J. Goering was our guest speaker on May 25. He also showed some pictures that he had taken in war-torn Europe. Rev. Walter Gering, who recently returned from doing relief work in Europe, will be in our church on the evening of May 29. He will also show pictures.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., Rev. Wesley C. Ewert graduated from Hartford Theological Seminary, Hartford, Connecticut, on May 21, receiving his Bachelor of Divinity degree. He will now give his full time to pastoral duties. Installation services will be held on Sunday morning, June 1, A special offering will be taken at this service toward Missionary Wilhelmina Kuyf's support. A reception for Rev. Ewert and family will be held on June 7.—Mrs. H. S. Weiss, Corr.

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: Guest speakers the past week were: Rev. Waldo Flickinger and Dr. R. C. Kauffman. Weddings announced are those of: Naoma Krehbiel to Franklin Epp and Ruby Kaufman to Melvin Graber.

—Herold Church, Bessie, Oklahoma: Rev. C. M. George of the Grace Bible Institute is to bring us the message on the morning of June 1. He is also to speak at the young people's retreat, which is to be held at Spring Lake on June 3. Over one hundred pupils are enrolled in the daily vacation Bible schools which began last week.

—Lehigh Mennonite Church, Lehigh, Kansas: The choir of the Lorraine Avenue Church, Wichita, Kansas, gave us a very fine musical program on the evening of May 25. Aaron Epp of Bethel College filled the pulpit last Sunday morning.

—Salem-Zion Church, Marion, South Dakota: Mrs. Sam T. Moyer and Puran Chandra Bonwar, the assistant of Rev. O. A. Waltner in the Bethesda Leper Home, Champa, India, arrived here recently. They were guest speakers at the close of the Sunday School hour on Pentecost Sunday. The members of the Salem-Zion Church have presented Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Regier with a new 1947 Hudson (Super Six) car.

—The Boynton Mennonite Church, Hopedale, Illinois, is helping raise money for the purchase of trucks and cars to be used by the Congo Inland Mission in Africa.

—Two big week-ends will be emphasized at the Institute of International Relations to be held at Friends University, June 6-15. The first, June 6-7-8, will stress the "Changing Conditions in the Orient and the passing of Empire". For this subject they have secured Dr. T. Z. Koo of China. Dr. Eddy Asirvatham of India, Dr. Rayford Logan of Howard University and Aaron Levenstein of the Research Institute of America. These men will present the basic social, economic, and cultural changes that are taking place all over Asia and the new role that America must play in the Pacific. Throughout the week special attention will be given to social and economic tensions in America that menace the peace of the world. During the second week-end, June 13-14-15, the Institute will deal with the "Problems of Reconstruction or Chaos in Europe and the Potentials for World Organization." In this area the Institute will have Martin Hall, formerly of Germany; Phil Jacob of Pennsylvania University; Dr. Hans Simons of the New School in New York; William S. Bernard, Chairman of the Citizens Committee on Displaced persons, and Dr. Henri Bloch from the staff of the United Nations—who has a special responsibility in the field of disarmament.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 June 10, 1947 Number 23

Cut courtesy "Gospel Messenger"

Darkness Has Fallen

As darkness falls upon the earth, so has darkness fallen upon man.

Errol T. Elliott, Editor of the "American Friend," writes, "One is given the feeling that something revolutionary must be done within a few years. Like the sword of Damocles, a potential, obliterating explosion hangs over the heads of men." Another editor speaks of all humanity being threatened with extinction. Clarence Pickett of the American Friends Service Committee is reported to believe that "acceptance of the necessity of war is much more widespread now than it was after World War I." No one can glibly state the answer as to how man can survive. It is true that some helpful factors towards that end can be made plain; general principles, which sound hopeful, can be stated. However, it is not so easy to define the specific applications which in God-given power will turn the tide of man's destructiveness to constructiveness. Referring to the meetings in which the thirty-year history of the Friends Service Committee was reviewed and previewed, the reporter concluded with these words: "It is too early to try to evaluate these meetings. They opened up question after question. That was their purpose. Not only was the reminiscent mood conspicuous by its absence, but the mood of 'ripe wisdom' was also lacking. It was a refreshing and heartening day." This is a day for questions and meditation upon them. Is mankind so hypnotized by the power of armed might that it will hurl itself into an atomic war with perhaps a remnant surviving here and there and coming to the conclusion that the way of meekness and peace is the better way? Or may atomic war mean total extinction? Since Mennonites believe in aiding the victims of war, should they do more in the way of peacemaking or prevention of war, realizing that possibly after an extensive atomic war there might be little or no opportunity for relief work? If so, what is the most effective thing that they can do, being so few among so many? Can they, through Christ, be like the small boy's lunch which had such far-reaching effects? Can they develop a right state of mind that will be highly contagious? If the "historic peace churches" cannot prove themselves effective in peacemaking, then who will? Have these churches been more peaceful than peacemaking? Could they possibly send forth evangelists who would call to repentance and peace in a way similar to that of Luther, the Wesleys, Moody, etc.? Is all talk and thought of atomic destruction just fearful ranting, or are we in danger of going through our days like dumb driven cattle to the slaughter? Will the time come when men will so see the Light of the World that the darkness, which has fallen upon man, will once again be lifted and man will stand free with his face to The Light?

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

As We See It:

THE TIME has come for someone to prepare and publish a children's "Story of the Mennonites." There is a vast amount of rich material available which should be simply written in story form and, above all, well illustrated. Contents might include some background of our faith, with emphasis on the place of the Bible, the pilgrimages of the forefathers, settlements, testimonies during the years, CPS, and our present world-wide mission and relief work. In times like this such a work is a vital necessity in homes God has blessed with children, likewise in schools and church libraries, particularily for those in the six to twelve year age groups. Marguerite De Angeli has done something like this in her story of the Mennonite school teacher, Christopher Dock, in "Skippack School." I think the scope of such a work should not be limited to our Conference but cover material of interest to all Mennonites as well as other denominations. Why shouldn't we consider this seriously?—John E. Fretz, North Hills, Pa., Editor of "Brotherhood Briefs" of the Eastern District Conference.

ON PENTECOST Sunday morning, May 25, 1947, while administering the Christian rite of baptism to a group of young men and women, I was forcefully reminded of the deeper meaning of the last words of the baptismal formula, "The Lord Jesus baptize thee with the Spirit and with fire from above." John the Baptist had foretold that the Lord Jesus would baptize "with the Holy Ghost and with fire." We understand the word "fire" to refer to spiritual warmth, a contagious witness that spreads like fire. It was this that the leaders of the early Christian Church desired. They prayed, "Grant unto thy servants, that with all boldness they may speak thy word." The writer of the letter to the Hebrews speaks of the Lord, "who maketh.... his ministers a flame of fire." Wesley was once asked how he got the crowds. He replied, "I set myself on fire, and the people come to see me burn." I am convinced that many of our ministers and church leaders, myself included, our missionaries, our individual church members, will do well to pray for a renewed measure of "fire from above."—Walter H. Dyck, Executive-Secretary of the General Conference.

GOD-CONSCIOUSNESS is very much needed by people today. Life today is very complex. Thousands upon thousands of cars and people crowd down the main streets of a city in one day. The pell-mell of modern life is terrific. Noise nearly everywhere, if not on the street, then up in the air, or coming from the radio. Social contacts are ten or a hundred times more numerous than they once were on the pioneer homestead. We live closer together and can vex each other ten or a hundred times more easily than in the horse and buggy days. People are so busy observing so many things and changes that they have very little time left to "make sense of it all." And for too many life just doesn't make sense. There is no integrative purpose; there is no abiding consciousness of God. Meditation and prayer are being crowded out in the complexity of it all. One homemaker shut off the radio so that while she ironed, she could do her "own thinking." It is said of Isaac that he went into the field at eventide to meditate. That's about the time the modern Ike hits out for the movies, etc. We have so many inventions to buzz and whirr and catch our attention that God fades to the background. Poor God? No, poor empty-hearted mortals that we are. So empty of God that we pick a fight with each other until we have killed 22,000,000 and spent over $1,100,000,000,000. We have harnessed the power of the atom, but not the power of human nature. But through the grace of God that too can be harnessed. To harness it we need to make use of the "know-how" of prayer. Man must take time to pray to the Christian God—he is in his way praying to many gods, for example, the god of armed might to whom the United States is devoting over two-thirds of the national budget—to the end that God's will may become clear and then embodied in all human relationships. Man must stop jading and rasping the temple of God with innumberable stimulations and take time to be quiet and search his soul and pray to the God, who is Life.—Reynold Weinbrenner, Editor.

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Helpful Leaflets Available from Evangelism Committee

PASTORS . . . SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS . . . ARE YOUR YOUNG PEOPLE ASKING ABOUT . . . .

What is adequate preparation for marriage? Christian young people always appreciate well-directed help to prepare them for this important occasion in life. A leaflet entitled "Before You Marry. . . ." is probably one of the most helpful brief statements that you can place into the hands of your young people. It does not preach. It sets forth a number of pointed questions regarding religion, self, parents, interests, finances, and wedding, all of which are intended to help the individual think things through.

How they can be sure they are doing the will of of God? You may have told them as best you could how they can be sure, but you wish you could do more. Perhaps you can help them by placing in their hands the classic statement by George Mueller on "How I Ascertain the Will of God." This is a superb statement in 300 words that is bound to speak to the needs of Christians of almost every background of experience.

Either of these leaflets may be secured from Jacob J. Enz, Nappanee, Indiana, as well as leaflets on many subjects pertaining to the Christian life. The leaflets are 25 cents per 100 (free to Conference mission workers). This work is supervised by the Evangelism Committee of the General Conference. Sample packets of leaflets are available.

Before You Marry

ponder well these vital questions:

YOUR RELIGION

- Are you a Christian? Do you know what it means to be "born again"? If you are in doubt, see a reliable minister or Christian friend about this.
- If you are both Christians, have you talked together about your Christian experience, your ideas of God, and your fellowship with Him?
- Do you find reality in prayer? Have you prayed alone and together about the marriage you are planning?
- Have you talked about setting aside a certain time each day for Bible reading and prayer together?
- Are you members of the same church?
- If not, have you counted the cost of a divided loyalty and intelligently faced it? Have you seriously studied each other's denomination to find out if you might unite with the same church and enjoy worship and Holy Communion together?
- Will you pray that God will help you through the remainder of your engagement and honeymoon days as well as through your entire life, to be true to each other as long as you both shall live?

YOUR PERSON

- Have you discussed together your ideals, goals, and life work? Are you united here sufficiently to live harmoniously together?
- Have you secured all the information you feel you should about the various aspects of marriage? Do you understand each other's views about parenthood? Do you entertain any fears about yourself, or about each other, or about any of the physical aspects of marriage? If so, have you frankly talked this over together?
- Do you have any disease, or likelihood of disease, which may affect your future? Have you seen a reliable doctor about this?
- Do you know each other's educational attainments, disposition, temper, and mental level?
- Are you subject to loneliness and homesickness which would frequently take you to your parents' home? If so, does the other realize this?

YOUR PARENTS

- If conditions should arise which would demand that relatives live with you or you with them, do both of you understand this?
- Is there any difficulty between you and your parents or in-laws that could and should be cleared up by a friendly, frank talk before you are married?
- Do either of you feel restraint by the other one in carrying out your lawful and Christian obligation to your own family? If so, have you talked this over together?

YOUR INTERESTS

- Have you considered how you can develop your common interests?
- Have you considered how you can develop your individual hobbies and recreational interests so they will not consume too much of the time and money you might otherwise spend together and use to the development of your home?
- Have you discussed together your ideals of a happy home and your ultimate aim for marriage?

YOUR FINANCES

- Do you understand each other's occupational history?
- Do you know what your combined income will be? Do you expect it to continue as it is or to increase or diminish?
- Do both of you understand how much money is at your disposal with which to start your home?
- Have you organized your income so you will know

(Continued on page 12)

We Don't Have To "Succeed"

by Jacob D. Goering

There are in our culture a number of conflicting tendencies which bid for our loyalties. These conflicting drives are often so powerful that we human beings are unable to see the issues clearly for what they actually are, and consequently fall victim to these lethargic and entangling forces. Paul feeling such a conflict in his day expressed it like this: "The good that I would I do not; but the evil which I would not that I do." (Rom. 7:19) In verse twenty-four of the same chapter he sums up his feelings with these words: "O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" How often we could echo Paul's words as we grope around in the maze of conflicting demands made upon our lives! Many of us could be much happier and live more useful and productive lives if we could but free ourselves from this predicament.

One such conflict is that between our highest Christian motivation and our desire for success. These must not necessarily be contradictory, but they can be so, and often are when one thinks of success as it is commonly used and thought of in our work-a-day world. Karen Horney in her book "Neurotic Personality of our Times," states our problem quite graphically as she lists these conflicting tendencies in our culture.

> "The first contradiction to be mentioned is that between competition and success on the one hand and brotherly love and humility on the other. On the one hand everything is done to spur us toward success which means that we must not only be assertive but aggressive, able to push others out of the way. On the other hand we are deeply imbued with Christian ideals which declare that it is selfish to want anything for ourselves, that we should be humble, turn the other cheek, be yielding. For this contradiction there are only two solutions within the normal range: to take one of these strivings seriously and discard the other, or take both seriously with the result that the individual is seriously inhibited in both directions."

Those of us who are engaged in full time or part time Christian service are probably plagued with this dilemma more than the average person. But whatever our station or calling, there are several things we can do to get ourselves out of this entangled contradiction. First and foremost we must come to a realization that it is not necessary for us to "Succeed," according to the world's standard, in order to do the will of God. This assumes, of course, that as Christians we nominally desire to follow the Christian ideals to which Dr. Horney refers. God's will for us may involve obscurity or even derision by the world. Kierkegaard, the Danish Christian philosopher of a century ago, states that the virtue Purity of Heart is to will one thing, namely the Will of God. He goes on to say that many nominal Christians desire the Will of God, but only if it be done through them. This, Kierkegaard says, is false and not Purity of Heart. It is important that we recognize that God has a place and a job for each one and that he wants and needs each of us to do a particular work. But it is equally as important to know that God can accomplish his purposes eventually even if we fail Him. We are important in God's plan, but not all-important. A business man who spoke to a group of CPS men in relation to their place in society after their release stated it in this manner: "The world needs you, and needs you desperately; but remember the world can get along without you." No one individual is finally indispensible.

Having come to a recognition that God wants us and needs us in His service, and also that our place is but a small part of God's total program, we can take several definite steps to bring our life into closer harmony with His Will and Way!

1. In all honesty and frankness admit to ourselves and to God what our frustrations, our weaknesses, and our temptations are.

2. Re-state our desire to live according to the precepts of the New Testament.

3. Plan our work, keeping in mind short range goals as well as ultimate and long range goals.

4. Work wholeheartedly and sincerely to achieve our previously chosen goals.

5. When we have done the best we can, turn the rest over to God even though we don't see our way out.

6. Balance our work with other activities including the proper amount of sleep, worship, prayer, recreation, and fellowship with family and other like-minded friends.

If we feel torn between the desire for success and that of being a humble servant of God, if we feel compelled to "do good" to our final detriment and ultimate disservice to God, if in our inmost selves we can admit that our deepest motives are not always wholly pure in heart—but if we would genuinely like to get things right, then we need not despair. God can and will help us if we humbly and intelligently enlist His aid and together work through our conflicts and troubles.

Jacob D. Goering, formerly Educational Director at the Lapine, Oregon, C.P.S. Camp and the North Fork, California, C.P.S. Camp, and then Assistant to the Director of M.C.C. Relief for about one year, is now attending the Mennonite Biblical Seminary.

Pensioning Our Ministers

by August Epp

On April 17, 1947, Rev. Walter H. Dyck, Secretary of the General Conference, sent a letter to all ministers of the General Conference. In a certain part of the letter he made a request that each minister send the name of an influential layman in his church to whom the Pension Committee could write and send material on the proposed Pension Plan. The object of sending this material to these laymen is that the members of each church and the delegates to the General Conference become acquainted with the Pension Plan. The Pension Committee finds that a number of ministers have not submitted this layman's name and address. We appeal again that if you have not sent us this information, please do so at once so that we can get this information to your church members.

Since the proposed plan for pensioning is so heartily approved by those ministers and others who have studied it, the Committee feels that whatever information on the Plan can be given to our people should be beneficial.

— ILLUSTRATION OF PROPOSED PLAN —

Age at Entry	Annual Salary	Total Premium (10% Annual Salary)	Employing Organization's Share — 75%	Participant's Share—25%	Monthly Income Age — 65 years
25	$1,240.00	$124.00	$ 93.00	$ 31.00	$50.00
30	1,475.00	147.50	110.62	36.88	50.00
35	1,799.00	179.95	134.96	44.99	50.00
40	1,812.80	181.28	135.96	45.32	40.00
45	1,797.40	179.74	134.80	44.94	30.00
50	2,090.00	209.00	156.75	52.25	25.00

The basic principles embodied in the proposed Retirement Plan are those used by a large number of other churches, colleges and universities. The retirement benefits are provided through annuities and life insurance contracts, issued on the life of the individuals by a legal reserve life insurance company with premiums for these contracts paid jointly by the employee and the employer. As stated before, the insuring company is the Presbyterian Minister's Fund of Philadelphia. With such an arrangement as above stated, there is no element of uncertainty as to the amount of monthly life income which a participant will receive after retirement. Those eligible to participate in the Plan were mentioned in a former article of The Mennonite, dated May 20, 1947.

We realize that there will be many questions regarding the Plan that will have to be clarified. Our committee is endeavoring to give clarity to some of the questions in these articles, but, of course, it is not possible to do so in entirety, and therefore, some of the questions will be cleared up at the General Conference session. Some of the questions often directed to the Committee are as follows: At what early age may a minister enter the Plan? How late in life may he enter the Plan? What does it cost? How much retirement income will he receive? Below is an illustration of the proposed Plan, giving data at different ages between twenty-five and fifty. However, participation in the Plan is permissable between the ages of twenty to sixty. The rates quoted above are for Retirement Income Contracts, including life insurance to the extent of $1000 for each $10 of monthly income to men who qualify physically. Men have this Plan with or without insurance. Women qualify only for the Retirement Annuity Contract which has no life insurance in connection with the Plan. Men may choose either Plan. The rates of the Retirement Annuity Contract would be slightly lower for men and approximately the same for women.

Following are a few of the questions that are quite frequently directed to our Committee. Is the scheduled retirement income guaranteed at retirement? Yes, The monthly retirement income is provided through standard Annuity and Income Endowment life insurance policies. For each participant an individual policy is purchased by the Pension Committee as soon as the participant and his employing organization have submitted agreements to participate in the Plan and have paid the necessary premium. The amount of scheduled retirement income at retirement is, of course, guaranteed only if all premiums are paid as they become due until the scheduled retirement age.

Is the guaranteed amount of monthly income stated in the policy? Yes. The scheduled amount of annuity income will be that shown on the face of the Retirement Annuity policy or the Retirement Income Endowment Life Insurance policy. If, however, an income is later arranged to begin at an earlier age than scheduled, the amount of monthly income will be determined by optional settlement tables which are also shown in the policies.

At what age does a participant retire? Participants who start participation at age fifty, or under, will retire at sixty-five. Those who enter at age fifty-one, up to and including age sixty, will retire fifteen years later. To illustrate: One entering the Plan at age fifty-one would retire at age sixty-six. By starting at age fifty-five, retirement age would be seventy, and if participation starts at sixty, retirement age would be seventy-five.

Does a participant have to retire to receive his retirement income under this plan? No.

Can an employee enter into participation in this Plan without the joint participation of his employing organization? No.

What determines the amount to be paid by the participant and his employing organization? The type of contract desired, the sex of the participant and the age nearest birthday at the date the retirement contract is purchased.

Is the salary of the participant considered in determining the amount payable by him and his employing organization? Yes. The Committee recommends that no less than 10 per cent of the participant's salary should go into premiums for retirement plans. The division of the 10 per cent is rather clearly shown in the foregoing illustration. It should be clearly understood that the employing organization's payment into the Plan shall NOT be considered to be a part of the participant's salary.

How and when are the required payments made by the participant and his employing organization? The first payment by both the participant and the employing organization must be paid at the time of filing application to participate. Each month thereafter the employing organization should send to the Pension Committee a monthly payment sufficient to meet the next payment when it becomes due. The amount payable by the employee, being deducted from his regular pay. It is recommended that all premiums be paid on the yearly basis, but if not possible at the beginning, then not later than the beginning of the third year of participation.

Why was the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund chosen as the Insuring Company? The Presbyterian Ministers' Fund, of Philadelphia, is the oldest Life Insurance Company in the United States. It is a fully mutual, legal reserve life insurance company and has no connection with the Presbyterian Church except through origin. It has a strong financial position and a very enviable reputation among life insurance companies. The Company employs no salesmen and therefore premiums for their life insurance and annuity contracts are lower than those available through most other life insurance companies since no commissions are paid. The Company was chosen to write our contracts in order to obtain the lowest possible premium.

Does the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund pay dividends on its policies? Yes. Dividends are, of course, not guaranteed, but this Company has paid dividends for many years.

Further explanation of the proposed Plan will follow in subsequent issues of The Mennonite. This proposed Retirement Plan has been designated with great care, and we submit it to you with the hope that it will be of substantial help to our ministers throughout the General Conference and provide lasting satisfaction and peace of mind for those who give their life in service for Christ.—General Conference Pension Committee, August Epp, Chairman.

Two Hopi Children Accept the Lord

(The following is an excerpt from a report, dated April 10, by Miss Anna Baerg, mission worker among the Hopis of Arizona, to the Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board.)

Truly Psalm 34:7 is for those who love Him. I experienced that just last Saturday. I had been driving my old car as fast as I thought I dared go on Good Friday and "the Angel of the Lord encamped around about me." Saturday morning I drove on the mesa for my Children's Class. Saturday evening as I was going to the village, just in front of Suderman's house, the rear wheel came off. I praise the Lord that it didn't happen on these mountain grades (where there are no guards, whatsoever) and when I had a carload of people.

The children have very good interest in the different classes and come asking me to tell them Bible stories from the Sunday School charts that various churches send in. Just last night Douglas Sakyayestiwa and Rachel Jenkins accepted the Lord in my Bible class, while the adults were having prayer meeting. It may be that fear had come into their hearts because one of their playmates had passed away so suddenly on Easter Sunday, but just last week a missionary from Korea, who had been interned by the Japanese, said that in a certain large Bible institute 84 per cent of the students had accepted the Lord because of one fear or another. These two children need the prayers of Christian people now, that they will not remain babes in Christ, but that they may grow in the grace and knowledge of our Saviour.

My mesa classes have been much better attended this last quarter, on the whole, than they have been before. There have been no decisions there as far as I know, but the Lord is able to bring the things they have heard to their remembrance and work salvation in their hearts.—Yours for the Salvation of the Hopis, Anna Baerg

Mission in Colombia Takes in Sixteen Children

by Janet Soldner

May I introduce to the readers of The Mennonite some of the lively children who are now living in our new home. I wish you could see their faces and learn to know each one individually. We think they are grand, and I'm certain that you would think so too.

Within the last two months we have taken in sixteen unfortunate children. For the most part we took one or two at a time. By taking them this way we were able to become better acquainted with each child as an individual. One week five came the same day. This was quite a sudden growth in our family.

First of all, I would like to introduce to you the two youngest children in our home, Benigno and Alvaro Aguasaco. Benigno and Alvaro are brothers, ages three and one-half and four and one-half respectively. Little did these two boys realize how difficult it was for us to take them at the time when they arrived. They took us by surprise one forenoon when their father brought them. The mother died two years ago, and the boys were living with their grandmother within the leper colony in Agua de Dios. The father is well and has a permit to go in and out of the colony at liberty. When the grandmother discovered that the father was anticipating bringing his sons to us she wasted no time in reporting that fact to the priest. Since the Catholics claim all rights to such children they were going to take the two boys. Incidentally the father was visiting in the home of his mother when the Catholics came for the children. It was contrary to the father's desire to have his sons in their hands. He held the boys in his arms refusing to have them taken. He hurriedly picked up their meager clothing and left the leper colony the same night with the two little ones. Early the following morning he took the train for Cachipay bringing us his two sons, telling us that bringing them here immediately was the only means of escape. Although we were not ready to receive them it was a matter of taking them or perhaps having them lost for Christ and his kingdom. The father brought us their belongings in a small paper shopping bag which was of adequate size to hold the clothes of his two sons. Their clothes consisted of four cotton suits apiece, faded and patched, a new sweater for each one and a cheap type of cloth sandle for each one. The father went to town and bought in addition to these clothes a comb, a tooth brush, handkerchief and a pair of cheap tennis shoes for each one. Upon arriving their health seemed to be fairly good. Their teeth revealed that they had had no care. It was evident that they had intestinal parasites just like many other poor children in this country.

Janet Soldner

Alvaro and Benigno adjusted themselves to their new environment without much difficulty. This was a great help to us during our busy days of cleaning and making preparations to receive the children. I do not know how we would have managed, had they been naughty a great deal of the time. Their actions revealed to us that they had been living in entirely different surroundings from the ones in which they were living now. I shall never forget their reaction upon receiving their first bath under the shower. They laughed and screamed, thinking it was great fun. The one could hardly wait until his turn came. The bathroom fixtures were a marvel to them. "Oh, look Alvaro," Benigno exclaimed. "The water runs through this pipe. Look, look, Alvaro," he said with beaming eyes, proud of having made the discovery. The first few weeks they ate their food as though they hadn't eaten anything in weeks. They are very affectionate to one another. "Are you going to eat bread?" Alvaro asks his brother, calling from one end of the table to the other. Benigno also becomes concerned that his brother should eat all the food on his plate. I wish I could transfer to you the expression on their faces upon receiving a new pair of shoes or overalls.

I would also like to introduce to you one of the older children in our group, Adela Rojas, age thirteen. Adela is a sweet girl with great possibilities. Adela's father died and her mother, who lives in the leper colony, is ill. Adela lived with another missionary family for about two years before coming to us. She has received her support from the American Mission to Lepers for sometime. We were told that she is coming to us expecting great things. She is ambitious and desires to become a missionary doctor or nurse. She is a good student, has a good art talent, and is developing an interest in music. We hope we can meet the needs of this ambitious young girl.

Some of the children haven't had any evangelical background before coming to us. Such are the three Rivera children. Maximiliano, age thirteen, Marco Antonio, age nine, and their older sister, Herminda, age fifteen. The mother, though Catholic, brought us her three children in spite of the fact that the priest in the leper colony has ex-communicated them from the church for doing it. Now one could hardly believe that Maximiliano is the same boy who on the day of his arrival cried instead of eating his dinner and later ran away after his mother had left. Although Maximiliano is thirteen years old he could neither read nor write. So naturally he is a first-grade pupil.

Then there is also bright, quick but irrepressible and irresponsible Faviola. Faviola is a thin, nervous, black-eyed, ten-year-old girl whose mother is also ill with leprosy. Faviola has real possibilities, but she really keeps us on our toes watching her constantly. If she is given the task of wiping dishes, we will not find her in the kitchen, but she will be outdoors. Yet Faviola has her good qualities. One day she received a sack of candy, and she divided it among the other children. There were only three left for her.—Then there are the two Osorio children who had to be treated for scabies, a skin disease which one generaly finds only among those living in unhygienic conditions.—Then there is conscientious Jorge who has lived with his sister most of his life. His mother, living in the leper colony and being a strong Catholic, is not very happy about his being here.—Then there is Blanca Lopez, age fifteen. We were told that she was a problem child, but she turns out to be a very sweet dependable girl, who is very good with children.—The other children are also a fine group, each one representing his or her own personal difficulties and possibilities. We try to give them both home life and home training; so we keep pegging away bringing up the child in the way he should go. This we know is impossible without the strength and wisdom which the Master alone can supply.

College and Seminary News

BETHEL COLLEGE

Forty-three Seniors received the Bachelor's degree at the fifty-fourth annual commencement on Tuesday morning, June 3, in Memorial Hall, and the honorary degree of Doctor of Music was conferred upon Professor Walter Hohmann, who begins his twenty-fifth year of service at Bethel, for his outstanding work in church music among the Mennonites. A brilliant commencement address was given by Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, pastor of the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church in Cleveland, who spoke on "Masters of Anger." In the graduating class, which included twenty-six women and seventeen men and represented eight states, six students were eligible for the Order of the Golden A — Paul Albrecht, Harvey Goering, Hildegard Peters, Esther Lehrman, Melva Goering, and Arnold Wedel. President Kaufman preached the baccalaureate sermon on June 1 from John 15:14 —"Ye Are My Friends." Featured at the Alumni Banquet on June 2 was the Class of 1937, the first class, in the subsequent tradition, to bury at graduation a vault of letters to be opened at the ten-year reunion. Special recognition was also given to Dr. P. A. Penner, the first Bethel alumnus to be present at his fiftieth anniversary.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE

Commencement activities were well attended. The weather was excellent for the May Day activities on Saturday, but rain fell almost continuously on Sunday and Monday. Dr. Macartney spoke on "The Greatest Thing in Man" at the commencement services. In addition to the regular baccalaureate degree, honorary degrees were granted to Dean N. E. Byers and Dr. C. H. Smith in honor of their many years of service to the Mennonites in educational work. Mr. Byers was granted the degree of Doctor of Humane Letters and Dr. Smith the degree of Doctor of Letters. President Ramseyer gave the commencement address at University High School, Illinois State Normal University, May 30. This is the high school from which he was graduated in 1918. The choir left on its western tour on Tuesday, June 3. The group will return to Bluffton on June 19. Mennonite students included in the European educational tour will leave New York City June 21 for Plymouth, England. President Ramseyer is to accompany the group.

SEMINARY NOTES

The final week of school is always a very busy one. The highlight of the year at Bethany is the Love Feast which is observed by the Church of the Brethren. The Love Feast, which is a meal in memory of the Last Supper in the Upper Room with Jesus and his disciples, was regularly observed by the early church until the fourth century. Today only a few churches observe the Love Feast. Since it is a commemorative meal, it is a meal of special solemnity and spiritual communion. The meal is observed in full detail with the washing of feet, a special expression of the Christian spirit of humility. It puts in their proper place the differences which men too often permit to become a barrier between themselves and others.

TWO PRAYERS

Last night my little boy confessed to me
Some childish wrong,
And kneeling at my knee,
He prayed with tears,
"Dear God, make me a man
Like Daddy, wise and strong.
I know you can."

Then while he slept,
I knelt beside his bed,
Confessed my sins,
And prayed with low-bowed head,
"Oh God, make me a child
Like my child here,
Pure, guileless;
Trusting Thee with faith secure."
—Andrew Gillies.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

The Week-Day Church School

by Arnold J. Regier

One of the great problems which confronts our generation is to give our children a sound and adequate education. We have looked to three agencies to give them this preparation for life, the home, the church and the public school. Each institution has been depended upon to contribute a recognized portion of that training. The public school expected to supply the academic, the church the religious, and the home the background for the development of character and personality. In our Mennonite communities we have placed a great deal of emphasis upon the home training.

Many Catholic and Lutheran communities have not felt that our present system for religious training is adequate and satisfactory. They have established parochial schools. In other communities the Catholics and the Jews have cooperated in the public school system but have made great efforts to reach children in after-school hours. In such localities it is known that religious instruction is given from 200 to 300 hours per year. Protestants have relied mostly on the weekly Sunday morning hour supplemented by a vacation Bible school for two to four weeks.

The question often arises as to the adequacy of the religious training for our children. The spiritual illiteracy of our day has become appalling. In order to meet this need the weekday church school program has come into prominence during the past decade as an effort to provide more time for religious instruction. This plan was first instrumented at Gary, Indiana, through the suggestion of the public school superintendent. It is now operative in forty-six states of our country.

Organization of Church Schools

There are different ways in which these schools have been organized. In some communities the religious instructors go right into the public schools and conduct their classes in the school rooms. This type of a program has been carried out most effectively in the state of Virginia. Other schools are conducted on a released time basis where children whose parents wish this instruction are excused from school one hour each week to go to their preferred churches. In most localities where divergencies of faith exist this probably has been the most satisfactory plan. The Virginia plan could be carried out because of the few Catholic and Jewish people living in that state.

It is of importance that the organization, which sponsors the weekday church school, work in close harmony with the public school officials. The local organization should be a representative body of the community so as not to create suspicion that any church group wishes to dominate or to force its particular creed upon the children. The teachers of the weekday schools should meet certain qualifications and standards, preferably the same as the public school teacher. It is advisable that a curriculum of recognized materials be selected for this work. Though one may develop materials which are more suitable to local needs one should not stress denominational literature too much. One can secure very good materials which are being recognized in many communities.

Legal Aspects Of Week-Day Religious Education

Often we have been hesitant to contemplate such a program for fear of its legal implications. Our public school system has been established on the basis that every child in this country shall have an opportunity to receive an education without being subjected to any specific religious creed. We respect this privilege very highly. Some states even forbid the reading of the Bible in the school room. Illinois is one of the states in which the supreme courts upheld the assertion that reading of the Bible is an imposition of a creed. Yet, recently in the Champaign Case which has gained much prominence, it has given a unanimous decision in favor of voluntary religious classes in public schools. In the latter case the wife of a university professor filed a suit against weekday instruction on the grounds that her boy was being pressured to take this instruction. The court decreed that as long as the religious classes were voluntarily conducted for children who had the consent of the parents they were not contrary to the principles and spirit of the Constitution.

Twelve states have already passed enabling acts favorable to releasing pupils one or two periods per week for instruction in religion. In most instances the local School Board is wholly within its rights and powers in granting released time for such work upon the written request of parents or guardian if the instruc-

---

Arnold J. Regier, who comes from Elbing, Kansas, served as pastor of the mission church in Portland, Oregon, and as principal of the Bethel Academy. He graduated this spring from the Mennonite Biblical Seminary and will serve as instructor next year at a newly established college in Canada.

tion is administered by a board of religious education or some representative group in the community.

Values of Week-Day Church Schools

1. It gives opportunity for more adequate religious training for children, especially in Protestant communities.

2. It aids in coordinating the training program of the public schools, the church, and the home.

3. It presents a real challenge for young people who are interested and preparing for Christian service in the field of teaching.

4. It opens the door for reaching many unchurched children. In one state where a very extensive program is in operation 44 per cent or 18,989 weekday church school pupils did not go to any Sunday School. (The writer has also found that it is equally as effective in reaching such children as the vacation Bible schools.)

Sources Of Helpful Books And Literature

1. Miller, Minor C. Teaching the Multitudes, Beacon Publishers Bridgewater, Virginia, (A guidance manual in weekday religious education).

2. Lotz, Philip Henry Some Legal Aspects of Weekday Religious Education, Bethany Press, St. Louis, Missouri, 35 cents.

3. The Weekday Church Educational Bulletin, No. 601 International Council of Religious Education 203 N. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, 35 cents.

4. Adventures in Christian Living, Issued by the Virginia Council of Religious Education Inc., Planters Bank Building, Bridgewater, Virginia. Single copy $2.00. Complete set of seven $7.00. (Curriculm materials which are regarded very highly by the writer as a basis for study)

THE YPU FUND—What About It?

Every organization which does effective work has expenses. So also does your YPU, and the fund which is set aside to care for these expenses is known as the YPU Fund. This is one of our projects. In the past this fund has been very low and on certain occasions there was no money in it at all. We need to continue our wholehearted and prayerful support of the other YPU projects, but let's remind ourselves that out of this fund is paid the editor of your "Youth Section" in The Mennonite, the postage which send the minutes of the Executive Committee to your district leaders, the traveling expenses of the Executive Committee which must meet to make and work out plans for the YPU, and numerous other items—all essential to the effective work of the YPU. The YPU could not continue its ever enlarging program in a "United Mennonite Youth for Christ" without the YPU Fund. Has your young people's group and district recently contributed anything to this important phase of YPU work? Thank you.

—Myrtle Wasser, Y.P.U. Secretary-Treasurer

Dutch Prisoners for Peace

by Irvin B. Horst

This afternoon—Good Friday—three of us, ex-C.P.S. men, visited a group of fifty-three Dutch draftees who have been imprisoned for refusal to accept military service.

We found this group in a military prison near Utrecht at a place called Nieuwesluis. The place of confinement is an old stone and concrete fort built during the Napoleonic era. One drove with a car across the moat on a lift bridge and entered the fortified area under a portcullis, and wound around among half-submerged "bunkers." In the largest one, entirely underground except one side, we found the group of Dutch C.O.'s.

This group of fifty-three represents only a few of many Dutch young men who have asked for military exemption. The exact figure is not known, but it is estimated to be at least 200. Many cases were excused because of the priority of their occupation; others were given a low psychological rating and excused for unfitness. Still others were induced to accept some form of noncombatant service such as hospital or intendance work. Holland requires military training and service on the part of all males. Its drafting laws, however, provide an alternative for conscientious objectors—but to date this has been interpreted to mean some form of noncombatant service under military control.

On entering the old fortress we found the men housed in three long arched vaults. One room provided a dinning hall and the other two rooms were used for billeting. All furnishings were army equipment. The men themselves wore civilian clothes. The vaults were painted, well lighted, dry, and one of them had a stove. The men said their rations were fair. During our stay there was no guard in the building—only at the outside entrance. While they have prisoner status and no leave privileges, they were allowed considerable freedom in the way of receiving visitors, the organization of their living quarters, and sending and receiving correspondence, books, and food gifts.

The C.O.'s welcomed us. They knew something about conscientious objectors in England and America, but the opportunity to see and speak to some and to be assured that there were thousands of others who had taken their stand gave them status and considerable encouragement. These Dutch C. O.'s ranged in age from eighteen to twenty-three. Two were married. Of the 53, 24 made no religious profession, but had various political and social grounds for their position. Of the remaining, 12 were Reformed, 5 Doopsgezind (Mennonite), 3 Jehovah's Witnesses, 2 Lutheran, 2 Remonstrant, and the others Baptist and Adventist. Most of their time is spent reading, playing table games, and writing letters. There seemed to be little group organization—except for a library.—but the group has been confined at this place only two months. It must be understood, too, all fifty-three persons have been confined temporarily until they can be brought up for trial. But trials have been indefinitely postponed, likely because the government does not know what to do with them after their sincerity has been established.

---

Irvin Horst is an M.C.C. relief worker in Holland. He comes from Ephrata, Pennsylvania.

The occasion for our visit was to share in the Lord's Supper which was conducted by one of the Amsterdam Doopsgezind ministers, Ds. T. O. H. Hylkema especially for the Mennonites in the group. After the service the American C.O.'s were introduced and we had opportunity to say a few words and ask questions. Ds. Hylkema had brought some Frisian bread and some cake and together we had a pleasant time of fellowship. We gave them a copy of the Fort Collins "Service for Peace" for their library.

I have come away from this visit with several deep feelings. First, this group of men has much in common with those of us who spent many days in C.P.S. for similar convictions; and somehow there should be some current bond of support and interest between us. Second, the peace movement is greatly in need of leadership to represent the concerns of these young men to government and to endeavor to negotiate some creative, postive alternative which would be acceptable to both the C.O.'s and the government. Third, more persons should take an interest in providing books, games, and writing material so that these men have something to do. And then, last the general atmosphere of living under the earth inside massive concrete walls is depressing, to say the least. The drafty C.P.S. barracks of the U. S. A. are much preferable to this old fort. Nevertheless in the fortress at Nieuwesluis sit fifty-three men who are opposed to military service and whose convictions are strong enough to be willing to accept the opprobrium of "prisoners for peace!"—M.C.C. Service Bulletin.

Items of Interest

Brazil is one of the most fruitful missionary fields in South America. At present there are 1,075,000 Protestants in a population of over 40,000,000

* * * *

M. T. Rankin, of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, says of China: "I found achievements which convince me the impossible is being made possible. I saw university students and professors going to classes carrying the stools they were to sit on. Buildings are patched up; window-panes replaced with boards; all fixtures are missing; but school goes on."

* * * *

In local option tests, one after another of the counties of the western part of the state of Virginia are voting dry.

* * * *

The Netherlands Reformed Church is moblizing to build new churches and parish houses and repair damaged ones. Around twenty million dollars will be needed and the government will furnish half, the Church to raise the balance in five years. Many congregations now worship in wooden sheds and other temporary quarters.

* * * *

Because during the war the China Christians were put on their own with the missionaries evacuated, Dr. John Stewart of the Church of Scotland believes foreign missionaries must be prepared in the future to work under Chinese leaders in religious and other fields rather than to serve as "bosses."

* * * *

In India a study reveals that there are 222 distinct vernacular languages and seven linguistic families of speech.

* * * *

The number of Christians in the world today is estimated at 592,000,000, 27 per cent of the total population—enough, by being Christian, to alter events profoundly!

* * * *

Ten thousand Sunday School leaders will gather in Des Moines, Iowa, from the United States and Canada on July 23-27. The occasion will be the twenty-first quadrennial Sunday School Convention of the International Council of Religious Education.

* * * *

An Interseminary Conference is scheduled to be held at Oxford, Ohio, from June 11-18 at which 1,200 seminary students from the United States and Canada, representing 120 seminaries, will meet to face together the great problems the Christian Church faces in our day. The theme of the conference is "Man's Disorder, God's Design."

* * * *

Residents of the United States sent to relatives and friends abroad in 1946 more than $296,900,000. This was ten and a half million dollars more than the total personal remittances for 1945. In addition, $125,000,000 worth of gift parcels were sent overseas in 1946. Europe got almost half of the first, the Western Hemisphere received the second largest, and Asia the third.

* * * *

Ninety per cent of the peoples of the world, according to official data, depend upon the output of the people of the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia to maintain a slim diet.

* * * *

That war may come within the next twenty-five years is the belief of seventy-three per cent of those questioned in a recent Gallup Poll. Two years ago the same question was answered yes by only thirty-eight per cent. Fifty per cent of those polled believe that war may come within ten years.—Gospel Messenger how much you can spend for food, rent, clothing, doctors, church, recreation, and the like?

(Continued from page 3)

- Have you planned any savings for future needs, such as children, education, sickness?
- Do you know how much training the other one has received for a trade or profession?
- Are both of you willing to work, sacrifice, and save to make your home an economic success? Do you understand each other on this matter?

YOUR WEDDING

- Have you read the wedding service, so that you know what you are to promise?
- Have you planned your wedding as you yourself wish it, so that it will always be a pleasant memory to you?

—C. Warren Long.

How I Ascertain the Will of God

Surrender Self-Will

I seek at the beginning to get my heart into such a state that it has no will of its own in regard to a given matter. Nine-tenths of the trouble with the people is just here. Nine-tenths of the difficulties are overcome when our hearts are ready to do the Lord's will, whatever it may be. When one is truly in this state, it is usually but a little way to the knowledge of what His will is.

Having done this, I do not leave the results to feeling or simple impression. If I do so I make myself liable to great delusions.

Study the Bible

I seek the will of the Spirit of God through and in connection with the Word of God. The Spirit and the Word must be combined. If I look to the Spirit alone without the Word, I lay myself open to great delusions also. If the Holy Ghost guides us at all, He will do it according to the Scriptures, and never contrary to them.

Consider Circumstances

Next I take into account providential circumstances. These often plainly indicate God's will in connection with His Word and Spirit.

Pray

I ask God in prayer to reveal His will to me aright. Thus, through prayer to God, the study of the Word, and reflection, I come to a deliberate judgment according to the best of my ability and knowledge, and if my mind is thus at peace, and continues so after two or three more petitions, I proceed accordingly.

In trivial matters, and in transactions involving most important issues, I have found this method always effective.

—George Mueller

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

By Cornelius Krahn

From Brazil a report of significant events that have taken place reaches us. It will be remembered that the Mennonites of Brazil belong to the last wave of immigrants leaving Russia in 1929. A considerable number of ministers, teachers, and other intellectuals was among them, including some that had a university training. A number of them have died recently, among them Isaak Martins, David Enns and Isaak Braun.

A very rapid change has taken place among these pioneers. Most of them have moved from their farms in the hills to the city of Curitiba where they are engaging in dairying, business and other occupations. This will probably prove to be one of the quickest urbanizations of any Mennonite settlement on record. Naturally it is accompanied by a rapid adjustment to the civilization of the country. If any small Mennonite group needs contact with older established Mennonite churches and settlements it is this one. It is well that Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Kaufman have gone to serve these people and that C. Rempel is also visiting them.

The Mennonites of Curitiba have just completed the building of a large church within the city and are building another one in the country. A unique feature in connection with this is that they are being build jointly by all Mennonite groups and will be used by all of them in common fellowship every Sunday. This is, very likely, the result of the hardships and suffering which they have experienced together. A fellowship of suffering has been established. Der Bote and Mennonite Life)

From France. The Mennonites of Alsace give a discussion on Church, Catholicism and Ecumenicism in their paper. Speaking about the prospective meeting of the World Council of Churches the paper expresses its attitude toward the World Council. They fear that the World Council may lead to a union of all Protestant Churches which is viewed as a preliminary step to joining eventually the Roman Catholic Church. In other words, the Alsatian Mennonites fear that the principle on which the Mennonite church and others was founded, namely the independence of each local congregation, would gradually be lost. Therefore they fear the union of all Protestant Churches under one visible organization.

They also speak with regret about the use of the term "Mennonite Church" as they say it is being done in America. They state that there is only one Church of God, the Invisible Church, throughout the world. All local congregational organizations including the Mennonite are only weak attempts at approaching the pattern of the Invisible Church. They, therefore, hesitate to use the term "church" for a local congregation or a conference (So do the Mennonites of Holland!) and are even more reluctant to promote

(Continued on page 14)

MCC Sponsors Another Goodwill Christmas Bundle Program

Goodwill Christmas Bundles Should Be Sent by August 15

AKRON, Pa., May 30.—The Mennonite Central Committee is sponsoring another Goodwill Christmas Bundle program. Individual children, summer Bible school classes, etc., are urged to take up this project. Parents, teachers, and other leaders can secure the necessary information by writing for folders to, Goodwill Christmas Bundles, MCC, Akron, Pennsylvania. Since this year's program is different from last year's these new instructions should be secured by all. Bundles should be sent in to the M.C.C. by August 15. Last years bundles were very much appreciated. Some children of Baexem, Holland, wrote, "What a fine surprise it was to receive your Christmas Bundles! They did arrive a bit late, but nevertheless they were just as welcome to be sure. We are in need of so many things, being poor and neglected children . . . it is awfully nice to know that we have friends right across the big ocean, who, although they do not know us, still have not forgotten us!"

Mennonite Colonies Unmolested by Paraguayan Civil War

Indirect reports via Brazil are to the effect that the Mennonite colonies in Paraguay have not been molested by the rebel forces. After the outbreak of the war all communications with the Mennonite colonies were cut off.

Mennonite Refugees Go from Buenos Aires to Ascunsion

All of the refugees, with the exception of a small number who asked to remain in Argentina, have by now gone from Buenos Aires to Ascunsion. The refugees were detained in Buenos Aires because of the unsettled political conditions in Paraguay. C. A. DeFehr is in charge of the refugees at Ascunsion.

Dutch Mennonite Missionaries from Java Are Admitted into the United States

Mrs. Helene Schmitt and six children and Mrs. Martha Stauffer were scheduled to arrive in San Francisco about June 6. These women with their husbands and their father, Johannes Klassen, were serving in the Mennonite mission in Java when the United States went to war with Japan. Because of their German background they were interned. Then in January, 1942, when the Japanese were taking the three men to India, their ship was sunk, and the three men perished. The women and children were interned in Tsingtao, China, where M. C. C. workers found them struggling for survival. The M.C.C. has supplied them financial assistance and has helped make arrangements for their entry into the United States. The group sailed from Shanghai on May 20. The First Mennonite Church and the Mennonite Brethren Church of Reedley, California, are extending financial aid to Mrs. Schmidt and children and Mrs. Stauffer.

A Pastor May Expect of His Congregation:

by Earl Salzman

A pastor may well hesitate to say just what he should expect of his congregation. What he wants and what he needs may be two different things. A minister is human and from a human point of view may expect that which will not stand the earnest searching of the Divine Spirit.

Assuming that the pastor has received a call from God to preach for the congregation, it naturally follows he has a right to expect certain things.

1. He would have a right to expect the congregation to support him with their presence at the services. One of the discouraging things for many a minister is to preach to empty benches. So many church members take their church attendance too lightly. Luke tells us that when Simon Peter stood up to preach on that famous day, the eleven were there to stand with him. There was only one spokesman, but every member of the group was present to hear and support the message. One weakness of our churches is that the present-day Simon when preaching finds that so many members of the church aren't there.

2. He has a right to expect them to come with an open mind, an honest heart, and a spirit that is willing to be led—in other words to worship God. A certain lady at the Sunday dinner table said, "You know, I didn't listen to our minister very long this morning. He didn't preach but a few minutes until he said something that was a definite answer to what I had been praying for for several months. I am sure I wasn't on our pastor's mind, but I know I was on God's mind, and He used our pastor to say just those words which was a definite help to me. After that I was walking in the very light of God." There was a woman who came to hear some definite word from God, and God spoke to her. After that it wasn't necessary to listen to the minister anymore. A word then from any one would have been a serious interruption. That I say was good listening.

3. God has a task for every man. Each member of the church should have something to do. The pastor expects every member to have some responsibility. Every person should have a share in bringing in the Kingdom of God. The world will never be won to Christ through the work of the minister alone. The ancient world was turned toward Christ in large measure through God-filled, loyal, devoted laymen. That same thing holds true today. If the church is going to be a growing congregation then the pew will have a part to play that is as vital and important as the pulpit. Without the layman's support at this point the minister's hands are tied. But with prayerful and loyal co-operation, faultering efforts will bring victory.

4. A word should be said about financial support. Money is a very delicate subject. Some folks think it is too delicate for a minister to talk about. Yet the minister and his family must eat food, wear clothes, live in a house, buy books. "Your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things." In this day when the church is seeking college and seminary trained men, it naturally follows that he must be supported financially by the church he serves. He earns this money in the service he renders just as doctors, lawyers, teachers earn money in their profession. There are many communities where hod carriers, day laborers, receive better wages than some ministers receive. It is safe to say a minister can't do his best if he is restricted too much finanically.

However, the faithful minister may discover that his people will provide quite a substantial salary and a parsonage that is a finer home than they provide for themselves.

Conclusion: A congregation that gladly supports the service for Christ in the church, and supporting the thirst for righteousness, ready to use their talents in the church program as God has prospered them, will surely bring joy to the heart of any pastor and be a blessing to the cause of Christ and the Church.

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

(Continued from page 12)

the establishment of a central organization of world Christendom. (Christ Seul)

From Holland. The Dutch Mennonite young people compare the Mennonites of Holland with those of America. They realize that the Doopsgezinde of Holland of today cannot be compared with the Mennonites of Holland of yesterday. They claim that the ideal "in the world but not of the world" has been changed into "free in the world and free from the world." Re-thinking this ideal the following statement is being made: "Free in the world means that

---

DID YOU SAY "GOODBYE"?

The word "Goodbye" originally meant "God Be With Ye," and we often think of that when post offices return to us copies of THE MENNONITE marked, "Left no address."

Why don't people say "Goodbye" when they leave?

The card below, known in post office lingo as "Form 22-B," handed out free to the mover, is a good way to say "God Be With Ye," to those friends of yours through the printed and written word who would like to say "Howdy" when you arrive at your new location. Before you move, ask your postmaster for a supply of Form 22-B. Don't forget to say "Goodbye"!

Form 22-B (Rev. 4—45)

USE THIS CARD TO NOTIFY YOUR CORRESPONDENTS OR PUBLISHER OF CHANGE OF ADDRESS

DATE____________________

THIS IS TO ADVISE THAT ON____________________ I MOVED (OR WILL MOVE) FROM

____
(No.) (Street or Avenue)

____
(City) (Zone No.) (State)

NEW ADDRESS:

____
(No.) (Street or Avenue)

____
(City) (Zone No.) (State)

GPO 16-44362-1 SIGNATURE ____________________ we are called to a task in this world and that we have to take the questions that the world asks us seriously. Free from the world means that we know of the freedom that comes from the spirit of the Lord (II Cor. 3:17)."

In answer to the question whether the Mennonites of Holland are today real Mennonites they state that this depends on their using the talent given them. (Algemeen Doosgezind Weekblad)

Jottings

—Bethel Church, Hydro, Oklahoma: Wilma Entz and Robert F. McKee were married on May 21, Rev. Waldo Kaufman officiating. The reception was held in the new mess hall recently built east of the city park by men from the Bergthal and Bethel churches. The women did the cooking.

—Brudertal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: The quarterly-offering for relief, held on May 11, totalled $548.70. Rev. J. M. Regier, guest speaker on Ascension Day, spoke on the home mission work of the General Conference. Robert Gene, ten-weeks-old infant of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. J. Bartel, passed away on May 29.

—Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas: Our annual children's day program was held at the Bill Juhnke Grove on May 30. The offering for foreign missions amounted to $1,326.66.

—First Mennonite Church, Caldwell, Idaho: We organized our church on the evening of May 25. Fifteen members were received into the church. Rev. Henry Harder and Brother Marvin Linscheid of Aberdeen were with us. Rev. Arthur Friesen was with us on the evening of May 27 to tell us about the mission work among the Indians of Oklahoma and show pictures of the same.

—First Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota: Rev. L. R. Amstutz of Tiskilwa, Illinois, will come to serve First Church for one year, beginning August 1, 1947.

—Grace Church, Albany, Oregon: We are looking forward to the coming Pacific District Conference to be held at our church June 19-22. Our pastor, Rev. P. A. Kliewer is on an eight-day trip to Omaha, Nebraska, in the interest of the Grace Bible Institute. On May 25, Rev. Neufeldt, chaplain of the Salem Deaconess Hospital, was with us both morning and evening.

—Grace Church, Dallas, Oregon: The theme of the Sunday morning services was "Christian Education," for the Multnomah School of the Bible, Portland, Oregon, brought us a program. The Ambassadors for Christ Quartet gave the music, and the Dean gave us a very inspiring message. Bible study on Wednesday night is very interesting with Rev. Franz teaching the older group and Rev. Leisy the younger and the young folks.

—Inman Mennonite Church, Inman, Kansas: Our congregation is grateful for having secured the services of Aron Epp of Newton, Kansas, as pastor. The church has purchased a parsonage, and Mr. and Mrs. Epp and daughter will occupy it in the near future. On Pentecost Missionary J. R. Duerksen spoke in the morning and Mrs. Duerksen in the evening. Mrs. Duerksen was dressed in Hindi costume and illustrated her talk with slides.

—Lehigh Mennonite Church, Lehigh, Kansas: A large group enjoyed a bazaar and fellowship supper in the church basement on May 26. Later that evening Missionary J. R. Duerksens showed pictures of mission work in India. Rev. J. M. Regier of the Johannestal Church led our Decoration Day services. E. W. Zimmerman, field representative of the Northern Bible Society, spoke to us on June 1.

—Pulaski Mennonite Church, Pulaski, Iowa: Rev. E. A. Sommer, pastor here for the past five years, has resigned. He and Mrs. Sommer expect to establish their residence in Goshen, Indiana, in the near future. Rev. Sommer was ill and bedfast most of the past month, but he is now recovering. Verney Unruh, student at the Mennonite Biblical Seminary, preached his first sermon here on June 1. He will make regular week-end trips from Chicago to Pulaski to fill our pulpit during the summer months.

—Waterloo-Kitchener United Mennonite Church, Waterloo, Ontario: Henry Epp, student at Bethel College, has accepted our invitation to come and assist Rev. J. H. Janzen during the summer months. He will begin his service in June. On May 27 Miss Elisabeth Goertz told the Ladies Aid of her internment during the war and also of the mission work in China.

—Zoar Church, Goltry, Oklahoma: Dr. G. Christian Weis of Kansas City spoke in our church recently and also showed motion pictures of Africa and South America. While he was here a young couple openly confessed the Lord Jesus.

—Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas: Missionaries who have visited our church with inspiring messages and showed pictures of their work are: Eva Duerksen, Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Duerksen, and the Dr. Herbert Desters. Sunday June 8, we had our combined Bible School and Children's Day program in the afternoon with a fellowship supper.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., An impressive service was held on Sunday morning June 1, at which

---

HEADQUARTERS OFFICE CORNER

Some of our churches have already elected their delegates to the General Conference session to be held August 20 to 27, at Berne, Indiana.

At this point we believe it to be in place to remind our churches of resolution number 72 of the 1938 Conference which reads as follows:

"In view of the fact that we as Mennonites of the General Conference emphasize individual responsibility to God in our relations to Him, be it resolved, that we urge our churches and the Conference to provide a wider distribution than hitherto among women, laymen, and especially young people of such duties and opportunities of service as representing congregations at Conferences, serving as officers and members of boards and committees."—Walter H. Dyck, Secretary time Rev. W. C. Ewert was installed as pastor and ordained into the Eldership. Rev. Ellis Graber, Vice President of the Eastern District Conference, officiated and delivered the sermon, "The Church and the Preacher." Rev. and Mrs. Ewert were received into our membership by the deacons.

—First Church, Pretty Prairie, Kansas: About 60 per cent of our members suffered a severe hail loss to the wheat, our major crop. The Vesper Choir of Bluffton College will present a program here June 10. Rev. Tschetter is leaving on a trip to Montana for two weeks. The Lord willing, John B. Graber will serve in his place. The coming marriage of Dr. B. J. Stucky to Rozella Waltner of South Dakota, has been announced.

—August Epp, Chairman of the Ministers' Pension Committee recently flew to Philadelphia to attend a convention of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company and to meet with Walter Temple, Robert Stauffer, and Harry Dettweiler in regard to the proposed pension plan for ministers and others. He also planned to meet Dr. Alexander Mackie of the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund.

—Miss Monica Dirks, formerly secretarial assistant to the President of Bethel College, and Dr. Harold Gross, Dean of Freeman Junior College, were united in marriage in the bride's home church at Pawnee Rock, Kansas, on June 8.

—Ordination: The Lord willing, the ordination of Rev. Jacob T. Friesen as an Elder of the Church will take place in the First Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebraska, on June 22, 1947, at 3 P. M. Rev. Erland Waltner, Rev. David C. Wedel, Rev. W. H. Dyck, and Rev. Elbert Koontz have consented to participate in the ordination service. A cordial invitation is extended to all congregations, far and near, to attend and enjoy with us the blessings of this service.—The Board of Trustees, by John von Riesen, Secretary.

—To Lay Corner Stone of New Church Building: The First Mennonite Church of McPherson, Kansas, will hold a service and ceremony on Sunday, June 15, at 2:30 P. M. for the laying of the corner stone of the new church building now under construction. The service will be held in the new church basement. Everyone is invited to attend this service. Work on the building was begun in May, 1946, when the excavation for the foundation was begun. Since that time the framework has been erected, and the basement has been completed. The congregation has been meeting for worship in the basement since last December. The brick veneer work has not yet been done, but is expected to get under way soon. In preparation for the laying of the brick the congregation is planning the corner stone laying for June 15. The congregation will be happy to have you present at this service.

—Rev. Alvin J. Regier has accepted the superintendency of the Oklahoma Bible Academy for this coming year. He has graduated from the Moody Bible Institute General Music Course, Northern Baptist Seminary, Chicago, with a T.H.B. degree and from Goshen College with an A.B. degree. He has been pastor of the Warren Street Mennonite Church, Middlebury, Indiana, for the past two years. We are happy to announce that we will have a special Bible course for the next year.—J. W. Bergen.

y Ensz
410 East Fourth Street
Newton
Kansas

—Rev. Curt D. Boese writes that his address is Route 2, Fort Cobb, Oklahoma, and that he is now serving there as pastor.

—N. Paul Stucky, instructor in physics at Bethel College, left New York by plane on June 6 for Puerto Rico, where he joins the M.C.C. unit to renew contacts with the native population, thus manifesting to them an abiding interest in them by those who formerly served there; to train assistants in the hospital laboratory and to install electrical wiring in the parsonage. Mr. Stucky plans to work there during the three summer months. He formerly served there as an C.P.S. assignee.

—Mennonites receiving degrees from Hartford Theological Seminary this year are: Rev. Wesley Ewert, B. D. degree, and Rev. Gerhard Peters, Ph. D. degree.

—The Historical Committee of the General Conference met at North Newton, Kansas, on June 3. Those present were Rev. A. J. Dyck, Dr. Cornelius Krahn, and Dr. A. Warkentin. Other members of the Committee are: C. Henry Smith, Paul Shelly, and E. E. Leisy.

SASKATCHEWAN ITINERARY FOR J. R. DUERKSENS

Ladies' Aid Conference, Laird, June 20; Zoar Church, Waldheim, June 21; Eigenheim Church, June 22; Rosenort Church, Tiefengrund, June 23; Zoar Church, Langham, June 24; Rosenort Church, Osler, June 25; Rosenort Church, Aberdeen, June 26; Rosenort Church, Hague, June 27; Rosthern Retreat, June 28; Rosenort Church, Rosthern, June 29; Rosthern Retreat, June 30-July 1; Prince Albert, July 2; Bethany Church, Lost River, July 3; Hoffnungsfeld Church, Carrot River, July 4; Rosenort Church, Capasin, July 6; Rosenort Group, Spiritwood, July 6; Hebron Church, Northvale, July 7; Hoffnungsfeld Church, Rabbit Lake; Emmanuel Church, Meadow Lake, July 9; Evening at First Church, Saskatoon, July 10; Ebenfeld Church, Herschel and Fiske, July 11; Nordheim Church, Dundurn and Hanly, July 12; Mennonite Church, Watrous, July 13; Evening North Star Church, Drake, July 13; Mennonite groups, Foam Lake, Parkerview, Fitzmaurice, July 14; Mennonite group, Eyebrow, July 15; Herbert Church, July 16; Emmaus Church, Swift Current, July 17; Elim Gospel Beach, July 18.

Kindly send three-quarters of your contributions to the Foreign Mission Board and one-quarter to the Board of Home Missions of the General Conference. May the Lord richly bless the Duerksens and the churches. We heartily welcome Rev. and Mrs. Duerksen to Saskatchewan.—G. G. Epp, Rosthern, Saskatechewan, Member of the Home Mission Board.

The Mennonite

Volume 62 — June 17, 1947 — Number 23

The Wheat Field by Volkmann. Courtesy Colonial Art Company

The Harvest Is Plentiful

A great many people may not be very much interested in the Church, but in the words of Jesus they are "as sheep having no shepherd." According to one report, 47.5 per cent of the people of the United States belong to no church. In some cities only about one-fourth of the people attend church fairly regularly; other estimates place the figure lower. According to figures based upon estimates by the United States Department of Commerce, Americans in 1945 gave $1,000,000,000 to religious work while they spent $3,000,000,000 for tobacco and $8,000,000,000 for alcoholic drinks. The masses are outside the Church. Nevertheless, there seems to be evidence of an increasing hunger among the masses for the things of the Spirit. An outstanding Christian journalist, after touring the world, concludes, "Everywhere, among all races, in all cultures, men's searching hands are stretching out to touch the portals of a new world of faith." However, this same man though he finds men turning to God finds that men are not turning to the churches. This situation is not altogether new.

In the days of Jesus, and later, the masses, in a sense, were also outside of the Church. Though the masses remained loyal to the religion of the Torah, many followed from afar. While not denying the validity of the Torah, neither did they observe its requirements with meticulous care. In fact, the rabbis and their associates chose not to mix with the masses for fear of defilement. They saw the masses as ignorant and uneducated in the matters of religion and therefore as irreligious. Snobbed and despised by the devoutly religous people of their day, the masses reacted with resentment and class consciousness. It seems that it was these very masses that Jesus, with compassion, referred to "as sheep having no shepherd." Whereas, the religious leaders of His day saw them as irreligious, Jesus saw them as in need. Whereas, the ardently religious were convinced that there was abundant shepherding, Jesus pointed out a deficiency.

Today the point is not so much to see the masses as irreligious as to see them "as sheep having no shepherd." Ought not the Christian Church of today, including the Mennonite part of it, go out of its way to mix with the publicans and sinners? Ought not the Church question its traditional manner of doing things and learn to talk to the multitudes of today? "And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every disease and every infirmity. When he saw the crowds, he had compassion for them, because they were harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd. Then he said to his disciples, 'The harvest is plentiful, but the laborers are few; pray therefore the Lord of the harvest to send out laborers into his harvest.' "
—Matt. 9:35-38, "Revised Standard Version."

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

As We See It:

"HOW BEAUTIFUL upon the mountains, are the feet of him . . . that bringeth good tidings of good." The mark of a beautiful life is a spirit of unfailing tenderness and kindness to others. A true Christian senses the faults of others as keenly as anyone, but views these blemishes with a spirit of compassion rather than one of faultfinding. Do we as parents, by our example in daily living and conversation, teach our children that it is a much higher aim in life to inspire others than to criticize them? Do we instill within our young people respect for and cooperation with the leaders of our community and church life, so that as they grow older and assume responsibilities they may be a source of encouragement and inspiration to others instead of a hindrance? Nothing is more Christ-like than a kind word. If we have no kind words, let us have no words at all. "He knoweth our frame. He remembereth that we are dust." We can do no less.—Mrs. Herbert Miller, Kingman, Kansas

A DOMINICAN PRIEST learned the truth of I Tim. 2:5,6, and left the priesthood to become a gospel preacher. No men has a right to set himself between God and man as an indispensable mediator of salvation. Christ is our priest and He has constituted believers a kingdom of priests, able to come boldly to God through Christ (I Pet. 2:9; Rev. 1:6). This direct access to the Father is one of our most precious privileges. At the crucifixion of Christ the veil of the temple was rent from top to bottom, forever ending the ritual. Christ as priest had once offered Himself to bear the sins of many, became the perfect sacrifice and author of salvation. That one offering is forever efficacious, John 14:6.—Homer Leisy, Vice-President of the General Conference.

RIGHT RELATIONSHIPS with God and man are of primary importance, and need to be regarded as such by the people of the world who are giving their major attention to making a living. The peoples of the Western World are noted for their use of science. The scientific method has been used for conquering nature, for producing food, clothing, shelter, medical care, etc. There has been a systematic study of nature to the end that man might have more of the material things for his life. In a way all of this has been to the good. God in the very beginning told man to conquer nature. However, today millions are starving, not because of lack of knowledge of how to make fertilizer, grow hybrids, build railroads, etc., but rather because of human relationships that are terribly wrong. With the latter wrong all our scientific knowledge goes to waste. Even where men don't starve but gorge themselves full, life can be dreadfully empty. A tremendous amount of thought has gone into science. Let a similar amount of thought be applied to bringing about harmony between man and God and man and man, and the face of this old earth would gleam with a heavenly light.—Editor

SHARING one's homeland with others who need a home would seem to be a definitely Christian act. A bill (H.R.2910) providing for the admission of 100,000 displaced persons into the United States annually for four years has been introduced in the House of Representatives and was scheduled for a hearing beginning June 4. The Friends Committee on National Legislation points out that if action is to be secured on this bill before the end of the present session of congress, there will have to be "a great intensity of expressed concern on the part of the public at large." The Committee urges letters to congressmen.—Editor

UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING may be a definite step to our nation's downfall. It is now being pushed very hard. The President wants it enacted into law before congress adjourns in July. It seems evident that such a program fits in well with the policing of a world empire which the United States seem to be creating economically if not geographically. But somehow world empires seem to have a way of going to pieces. Evidently some of the people of the world do not like to be exploited by other peoples, and the very process of ruling others seems to have the seeds of decay in it. It would seem that those world powers which once had the upper hand should have been able to keep it, but one by one they fell. Soldiering cannot solve the problems of the world. The creative spirit of Christian goodwill is much more effective.—Editor

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious-journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor __________ Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

Twenty-seven Students To Sail for Europe on June 21

Twenty-seven students from Mennonite and affiliated colleges will sail for Europe from New York City at noon on June 21 on the "Marine Tiger" to participate in an educational tour of Europe. The tour is sponsored by the Council of Mennonite and Affiliated Colleges and will be under the leadership of Dr. L. L. Ramseyer, President of Bluffton College, and Miss Lois Gunden, faculty member of Goshen College.

Students and recent graduates of Bluffton, Bethel, Freeman, and the Mennonite Seminary, who will make the trip are Bluffton—Rev. and Mrs. Maynard Shelly, Hopedale, Illinois; Ronald Rich, Washington, Illinois; Esther Bohn, Pandora, Ohio; Bethel—Margie M. Wiebe, Aberdeen, Idaho; Betty Jane Regier, North Newton, Kansas; Melva Goering, Moundridge, Kansas; Lois H. Lohrentz, McPherson, Kansas; Marilyn Preheim, Hurley, South Dakota; Faire Stucky, Hutchinson, Kansas; Freeman—O'Ray C. Graber, Marion, South Dakota; Helen Tieszen, Marion, South Dakota; Mennonite Biblical Seminary—Burt Russell, Portland, Oregon.

Dr. L. L. Ramseyer has this to say of the trip: "The plan is to gather at Akron on June 20 for instructions and making arrangements concerning the handling of money, etc. Ronald Rich, Washington, Illinois is to act as group treasurer, and will handle all foreign exchange. The group will then go to New York City on the morning of June 21, sailing from there at noon on the "Marine Tiger."

The "Marine Tiger" is one of the two ships set aside by the State Department this summer for student travel. Each of these two ships will make four round trips to Europe. The ships are former troop carriers and apparently have not been too much changed since. They warn that there are but few accommodations. Men will live in a large barrack type of arrangement, 100 in a room. Women will have somewhat better quarters.

DR. L. L. RAMSEYER
Leader of Student Educational Tour

Programs will be given on the way over in charge of the American Friends Service Committee. These will consist of music and lectures. The lectures will attempt to give students some insight concerning what they may expect when they arrive in Europe. For example, one lecture is to be on the black market in Europe, and will caution students against participating in it. Our own group will have daily devotions and will spend some time on board ship studying language and European Mennonite communities.

The ship is due to dock at Plymouth, England, June 30. Our group will then spend about four days in England seeing Oxford, Shakespeare country, and other points of interest. We will then proceed to Paris for a couple of days. Then on to Brussels where two or three days will be spent in an MCC headquarters, not only seeing Brussels but also studying the relief work being done there. From there we will proceed to Holland where the major part of the summer will be spent.

The group will arrive in Leiden July 12. Two weeks will then be spent in summer school at the University of Leiden. This will be in the English language. An additional two weeks will then be spent under the direction of Mennonite leaders in Holland, getting acquainted with the Mennonite church there and the Dutch origins of the American church. Students will likely stay in Dutch Mennonite homes.

From there the group will go through Luxembourg and Alsace Lorraine August 11, 12, 13, 14. If some must return early they will miss this part of the trip, returning on the "Marine Jumper" due back in New York August 20. In Alsace Lorraine MCC relief units will be visited, as well as Mennonite communities. This is also an area of heavy war damage.

The group should arrive in Basel, Switzerland, August 15, and spend a week there and at Zurich and Geneva. There are Mennonite Communities in Switzerland, and the ancestors of some of the group came from this territory.

The group will leave La Harve, France, on "Marine Tiger" August 26, and arrive in New York September 5."

The objectives of the trip have been stated as follows:

1. To increase the understanding between European and American Mennonites, to the end that both groups might become stronger in the faith as a result of this understanding.
2. To study the European foundations and origins of the Mennonite Church.
3. To gain a sympathetic understanding of the problems, customs, and living standards of the countries visited, to the end that we might promote the cause of world peace thereby.

4. To observe the destructiveness of war, physical, moral, and spiritual, and thus gain first hand information on the folly of this method of attempting to settle differences.

5. To be an example of the best in American Christian living and fit representatives of the Mennonite Church to people in Europe, to the end that they might gain a sympathetic attitude toward us and our problems.

6. To gain first-hand information on the work being done by our relief centers in Europe, as well as of relief needs, to the end that this information might be given to others upon return and thus promote the cause of a Christian testimony through administering to human needs.

It is estimated that the cost of the trip will range from $500 to $700. Each person takes care of his own financing. Mrs. C. H. Musselman, a friend of Bluffton College, is paying Dr. Ramseyer's expenses. Dr. Ramseyer, who this year is President of the Council of Mennonite and Affiliated Colleges, has been delegated the responsibility of selecting the foreign students who will come over this fall. The details of the trip have been worked out by Menno Travel Service of the M.C.C.

Anna Liechty Reports from Africa

(Anna V. Liechty, one of the newer missionaries which the General Conference has sent to Africa, reports to the home board after nearly one year of experince in missionary work.)

As it shall soon be a year that I was led from the homeland to this corner of the Lord's harvest field, I thought it well to write to you, the members of our General Conference Foreign Mission Board.

At present Miss Agnes Lutke, Miss Selma Unruh and I are vacationing at our C.I.M. rest home at Lac Madimape. We are enjoying our renewed fellowship, the boating and swimming at this lovely lake, and the lake with its setting. Now we also have time for some of the things we have little time for when we are on our stations, such as reading, sewing and writing letters. Last, but not least, at this quiet retreat, midst the beauties of God's handiwork, we find physical rest and refreshment, and spiritual uplift. We have more time to spend alone with Him and His Book, whose message of salvation from sin through faith in His blood we have come to proclaim. At Charlesville it is difficult for me to have private devotions at any time of the day other than before 6 A. M. chapel. Therefore I must rise fairly early to have sufficient time with Him.

The Lord has kept me in good health. It is true that sores on my legs, itch all over, and jiggers around my toes have been unwelcome visitors much of the time, but such ailments are merely uncomfortable and inconvenient, and have not kept me from my work, nor curbed my naturally good appetite, nor disturbed my ability to sleep well at night. The three mild attacks of malaria were noticed as they were coming, since I am well at other times, so quinine and atabrine were promptly taken to drive out the bugs before they got a chance to work in me in earnest. Becoming acclimated did not seem to be difficult nor even noticeable to me. When I arrived I at once felt at home, and was never even homesick.

Formal language study ended a few days after Christmas. By this time I'm usually able to make myself understood when I speak to the natives, but I cannot understand all they say to me. This is partly due to the fact that they seem to talk so rapidly, and so many words which I do know escape my ears, and they use many words not yet in my vocabulary. My first message was given in a prayer service last January. Perhaps after I've been here many years I shall be able to say that I know Tshiluba, my interesting and expressive adopted language.

On my last day at home last year, on Easter Sunday, I little thought that by the next Easter Sunday I would bring an Easter gospel message in Tshiluba to a heathen Bashalele village near Lac Madimape, but that is what I was privileged to do. My folding organ, which I took to the lake for recreational purposes, was used for the song service. Selma, Agnes, and I went to that village each of our four Sundays here, and the last two Sundays we also went to a Batshoke village a little farther away. Needless to say, we saw anew the need for lengthening our stakes, and for many new missionaries.

This semester I'm trying to teach arithmetic in French, Tshiluba grammar, and Bible memory work in both languages to the sixth grade boys. (There are no girls among the thirty-three boys in the class, for the men think they are too dumb to learn.) I also work in the elementary school office, act as station secretary, play the organ for the third and sixth-grade chapel period every school day morning, have charge of the Sunday School class for village children not yet in grade school, and have charge of the guest house. The other missionaries have just as much or more than I to do. There also I see the need for more new missionaries in our field.

Please join us in praying for the following requests:

That the Lord may soon send many more new laborers into this part of His vineyard.

That those of us who are here may let the Holy Spirit continually have complete control of our lives, working in and through us His own perfect will among the people out here.

That the native leaders, teachers, outstation evangelists and teachers may all seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness.

That the native Christians may obey the Lord in all things, following Him closely all the way, lest they fall back into the ways of sin and of the world.

That those who have backslidden may return again to the Lord, and then serve Him faithfully.

That the fathers will consent to send their daughters to school.

That our Bible school graduates and those now in our Charlesville Bible School may all be willing to go where He would lead them, even though it be to distant villages to preach Christ and Him crucified and risen to some who have never heard the message.

That more prayer warriors may be raised up in the homeland.

No doubt similar requests could be voiced for the other stations, and some are applicable for missionary work throughout the world.

May the Lord richly bless every one of you, and continue to make you all a blessing to many, both in the homeland and in the mission fields.

Two Very Busy Days Each Month

(In the following report Mrs. Harold Ratzlaff gives a vivid picture of what busy days there are in the experience of a missionary in India.)

This morning we finished a two and one-half day session of Palak Meeting. This is the monthly district evangelistic workers meeting composed of the three district pastors, the evangelists in charge in other areas, the deacons, and the missionary. At these meetings plans are made for the work: "Where shall we place Gundhar when he comes home from Bible School? He is needed at seven places; where is the need most urgent?" "What shall be our policy toward volunteer workers?" "What shall we do about this disciplinary problem in Rajpur?" "Shall the Eden Church elect a Palak or shall we try to get a Hindustani pastor immediately?" Then plans must be made for the thanksgiving services which must be held in every village where there are Christians (about 140 villages) in the next six weeks. Also plans must be made for an evangelistic retreat before touring: "Would it be advisable to plan an intensive teaching program among our Christians this year instead of the regular touring work among non-Christians?" "What will we do about housing during the retreat and tour. We do not have nearly enough tents to go around." Then there are always many announcements to be made at Palak Meeting: "Have your church elect conference delegates soon." "Be sure your annual reports are ready by the middle of December." "When you send charity patients to the hospital get full assurance from them that they will obey doctor's orders and accept all treatment." "No bicycle parts will be given out without seeing the bicycle." (Incidentally the district missionary stationed here is almost compelled to run a complete "bicycle supply and repair shop"!) After the announcements and all other business are completed monthly reports are given: How many baptisms in your church in the past month? How many communion services held? How many weddings? How many births? etc. Then the financial reports must be taken for all five district churches. It is a busy time.

The last half day is usually "Pay Day." That always involves a lot more than just handing out money. Of course, they get their salaries, but the pastors also get into their hands the salaries for all the other evangelistic workers in their area. There are at present between fifty and sixty people on the pay roll besides the ten district school teachers. There are always many requests coming in at this time. Today everyone wanted some pants and coat material that we had brought from the hills at their request. It is almost impossible to get cloth here these days. Then we allow our pastors to take simple medicines out into their area because they always have many requests for them. These medicines had to be gotten ready.

A meal also had to be gotten ready for nine of us—six Indians and us three. My cook did this; I just gave out food supplies and looked into the kitchen occasionally. We have fed from eight to thirteen people every meal the last two days. Toward the end of the morning one of the pastors came to me, "Memsahib, my wife is trying to teach a few women to sew but she doesn't have any more needles, do you have any extra?" I gave, as I have previously when such requests came. We missionaries are almost expected to keep a "store" on hand. Needles, thread, stamps paper, pencils, kerosene, cloth, sugar, wheat, tea—these all are not uncommon requests. Incidentally, now after eating, an evangelist begged for sugar, so I sold a pound apiece to five people. They just don't get these things where they live, and we were permitted an extra bag for such purposes.

Finally everyone is off again to their home and work in the district. And tonight as we bow our heads together for evening devotions we will again pray that the work which has been done and the plans which have been made will mean a stronger and a more spirit-filled Christian constituency.

The Need for Something Powerful

(Vernelle S. Waltner gives us a realistic insight into a phase of mission activities which is sometimes not so evident to us and then goes on to suggest a parallel in the realm of the spirit. Rev. and Mrs. Waltner are in charge of the leper home at Champa, India.)

One morning shortly after I arrived at the Leper Home, Miss Pauls came up to me saying, "I have rather unpleasant news for you." The day before she and a helper had sprayed DDT solution in one of the houses in the Girls' Boarding. The reason? Bed bugs! They are common enough here in India, but I was hardly prepared for the number I saw there. All of the rope-strung, wooden cots had been sprayed also and were out in the sun. By lifting one end of a cot and letting it down with a bang we found out just how infested they were! Big, medium and little ones, most of them dead, but some still kicking, fell out onto the ground. Boards on which the girls' clothing boxes had stood were lying in the sun but had not been sprayed. They were still infested. When the underside was turned uppermost they ran for shelter until the DDT struck them. They could be seen on the white-washed walls of the second cottage, high and low, wherever there was a tiny depression in which they could take shelter.

For some time we had noticed that some of the girls looked pale and pep-less. A number of them felt ill frequently and couldn't attend school regularly. Now we realized that one reason could surely be these bed bugs. When asked whether they minded the bed-bugs the girls answered, "Yes, they bite us every night." But what had they done to get rid of the pests? Nothing, for they were beyond their control. Only something as drastic and powerful as DDT could be effective, and that would have to be repeated regularly. If one kills the first there is no chance for them to become as numerous as we found them. But when they become so numerous that no ordinary action will kill them something powerful must be used.

The bed bugs experience seemed to be a parable—one which was readily applicable to India. Are not our sins and evil habits much like them? Bed bugs hide in cracks and folds and do their worst at night when all is dark. "And men loved darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil." John 3:19. Can ordinary measures bring relief when sins have gotten control of our lives? No, many give up without trying to get rid of them. But there is a powerful and sure remedy in Christ Jesus, a remedy which must be applied to one's whole life. If we allow him to reach every corner He will keep it clean and free from evil.

Smith Corner Has Steady Program

(The little Smith Corner Church in Pennsylvania is one of the "outpost" churches of the General Conference. John S. Raugh, home mission worker serving this church, tells of the steady but significant program which this small rural church carries on.)

When the time comes for something interesting to be written for The Mennonite, I wonder what it should be, since we here at Smith Corner share about the same experience as any other small country church. We are for the most part isolated from our brethren in the faith and throughout the year we just go from Sunday to Sunday without anything outstanding taking place. We have our regular services each week during the year. Our program is: Sunday School and morning worship and preaching again Sunday evening; each Wednesday evening we have prayer meeting and Bible study.

There was one outstanding event in our church recently. On Ascension day the Eighth District of the Blair County Sunday School Association held its annual meeting in our church. This was an all-day session with some of the very best speakers being with us. This was the first time since before the war that we were able to hold an all-day session. Folks from many denominations came for the day, and we had two meals together, served in our basement, constructed by the Brotherhood. The theme of the convention was, "The Sunday School in The Home and Community."

At this writing all our boys are home from the armed service and C.P.S. Camps. Some remained faithful while away. Since their return some who had been in the armed service, have told me that they found it hard to be a Christian in the army. These are they who need our constant prayers. Some are seldom found in the House of God. Many are the cursed results of war, and I believe this is one of them.

Anxious for Love and Understanding

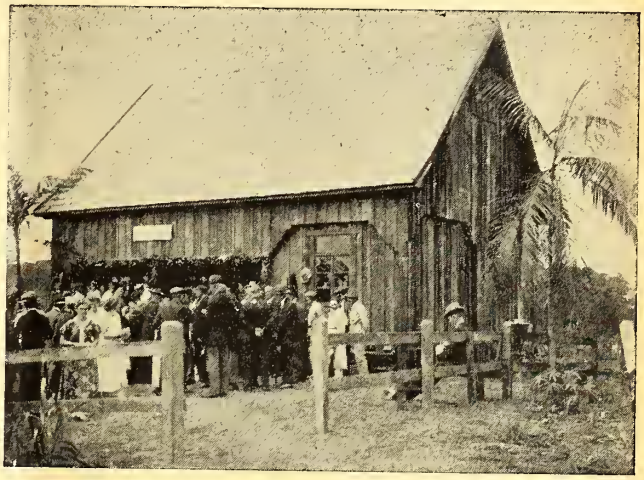
(How children of a big city like Chicago respond to love, understanding, and the opportunity to do constructive things is brought out in the following report by Burt and Lila Russell. While attending Mennonite Biblical Seminary the past year, the Russells carried on a mission to children at the Mennonite Gospel Mission, 62nd and Carpenter, Chicago. Their work may be regarded as home mission work, for the Home Mission Board of the General Conference supports this type of work through the Mennonite Seminary.)

Our work at the mission has been with the children. As our time draws to a close, we are happy that when we walk down just one block here, we find ourselves saying "hello" with practically every step. There are a number of boys and girls in the neighborhood, and we have grown to love each other. They are anxious for love and understanding—two things that few of them get much of at home, and we are happy to bring them the Love of Christ.

Our first religious emphasis was in our Sunday School classes. Burt has a class of boys, and Lila a class of girls.

We found the children almost constantly on the streets or playing on "the prairie," a vacant lot across the street from the church. We played with them, and soon organized craft classes during the week, in order that we might give them a constructive evening pastime, as well as to learn to know and love them. These classes, which at first were just two—one for boys and one for girls—grew by leaps and bounds, and soon we had to have four classes—junior and senior boys, and junior and senior girls. We did a number of crafts: woodcraft, shellcraft, plastic work, blueprinting, making button boxes from old cheese boxes, and sewing.

(Continued on page 14)



Upper left: Mennonites delivering milk in Curitiba. Upper right: Residence and barn of David Toews. Lower right: Dedication of the school erected in the honor of B. H. Unruh.—Cuts courtesy "Mennonite Life."

Brazilian Mennonites Unique

We can say that we know of no other country in which Mennonites have adjusted themselves so rapidly to the surrounding civilization and are being urbanized so quickly as in Curitiba.

Cornelius Krahn

For a number of reasons the Mennonites of North America have less contact with the Mennonites of Mexico and Brazil than with those of Paraguay. The Mennonites of Mexico came from Canada without the help of other Mennonites. The Mennonites of Brazil were helped, but predominantly by the Mennonites of Europe, while the Fernheim Colony project of the Chaco in Paraguay was sponsored to a large degree by Mennonites of the United States. For this reason contacts with this group, information about it, and interest in it has been stronger. A large staff of Mennonite Central Committee workers is stationed in Paraguay, while only casual visits are paid to the settlements in Mexico and Brazil.

The Witmarsum Settlement

There are two chief settlements of Mennonites in Brazil, the older, at Witmarsum, and the newer, at Curitiba. Before we speak of these settlements, we shall briefly summarize where these people came from.

The Mennonites of Brazil are part of the stream of immigrants that moved toward Moscow in the year 1929 when the rigid measures of collectivization, attack on the church, and deportation became imminent. Some five thousand Mennonites succeeded in leaving in Russia and proceeded to Canada, Paraguay, and Brazil. The latter group consisted of approximately 250 families that settled on the Krauel River in the Province of Santa Catharina, naming its settlement "Witmarsum" in honor of Menno Simons and the Dutch Mennonites who assisted them in this project.

The farmers of the steppes found themselves suddenly in a hilly, primeval forest without any experience and means for the new task. Nevertheless, they lost no time felling trees by hand and establishing saw mills to provide lumber for their buildings. Gradually the pioneer shacks were replaced by more permanent buildings, some of which remind one of traditional European patterns and others of prevailing styles of the newly adopted country. The Witmarsum community is predominantly rural, with corn, aipin (manioka), and other tuberous fruits as the main crops. A Mennonite cooperative at Witmarsum operates, among other enterprises, a starch factory. At present there are some 130 families located in this settlement with additional families living scattered in the surrounding communities.

The Curitiba Settlement

Soon after the Mennonites had arrived in the primeval forest, some of them began to move on in search of better earning possibilities and the provisions of modern conveniences which were naturally scarce in their community. These they located in their neighboring province to the north, Parana, in and around Curitiba, a city with a population of 125,000. Here they found employment, started small businesses, engaged in woodworking, etc. Soon, some became specialists in dairying. Today three-fourths of the milk demand of Curitiba is being supplied by the Mennonites. The Mennonites live either in the city or in the suburbs of the city. The young people are rapidly adjusting themselves to the life of the country by learning its language (Portuguese) and adopting its customs. It is naturally a little more difficult for the older folks. After all, they have lived in the country approximately fifteen years only. This community has outflanked the Witmarsum settlement by far, both economically and numerically. Some 253 families are located here. They are, however, also beset by many problems.

The picture on the right shows the front interior of the new church built cooperatively by various Mennonite groups in Curitiba, Brazil. The motto in back of the pulpit frames a Portugese version of I Cor. 3:11. "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." The picture to the left shows the exterior of the new church. Note cross on top.—Photos courtesy "Mennonite Life."

Religious and Educational Life

The Mennonites of Brazil had a large number of intellectuals in their group. Among them were numerous ministers and educators, some with university training. Their traditional cultural life prospered even in the primeval forest. Grade schools and high schools were established in the best Russian tradition and functioned well. But even before the war broke out these schools were nationalized and Brazilian teachers with no understanding and appreciation of the Mennonite culture and background were put in place of the Mennonite teachers. This was a great disappointment for the people who had come all the way from Russia to Brazil mainly for the purpose of teaching their children in their own Christian schools. But there was still the church.

The Mennonites from Russia brought with them a culture predominantly German, speaking German in their daily life and worshipping in the same language. During the war this language was put on the black list. Since they had been in Brazil, a few years only it was impossible for the older people to switch suddenly to the Portuguese in their worship. Being deprived of the possibility of worshipping in the customary way, they again experienced a reminder of the days under Stalin. In 1943 our brethren finally managed to arrange a compromise by which they were permitted to worship God in the Low German language, which must have been passed as Dutch. We see that our Brazilian brethren were handicapped in many ways.

Looking Forward

There are signs that the Mennonite community is gradually rooting in the new soil. The Mennonites of Curitiba have just completed the building of a large church in that city and another one in the country. As we look at the motto on the wall above the pulpit, we discover that it is Menno Simons' own motto from I Cor. 3:11, but it is written neither in the Dutch, nor in the German, nor in the English, but in the Portuguese language. In a new language the Christian message, as practiced by the Mennonites, is being proclaimed. Another thing unique about these churches is that they were built jointly by all the Mennonite groups of the settlement and that they are used jointly by all of them for fellowship every Sunday.

We can say that we know of no other country in which Mennonites have adjusted themselves so rapidly to the surrounding civilization and are being urbanized so quickly, as in Curitiba. At the first glance that may seem to be ideal. Fifteen years ago they arrived in an entirely strange country and today they are more or less at home. But on the other hand, we should like to call attention to the fact that these people came as bearers of a northern culture into a Latin civilization and as a Protestant group into a Catholic country. These are just some of the basic differences which should be considered when we think of our brethren to the South who are at present making rapid adjustments and far-reaching decisions.

In conclusion, let us ask ourselves a few questions.

(Continued on page 14)

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Volunteers for Summer Service

Thirty-six young people will serve in General Conference work in four units this summer. The units will serve at the following places: Chicago Mission; Canadian Youth Farm, Rosthern, Saskatchewan; the Montana Indian Mission, Lame Deer, Montanna; a Youth Team will visit churches in the Illinois-Indiana district.

The volunteers and their home churches are as follows:

The Chicago Mission, Rev. Arnold J. Regier leader. Frieda Claassen and Martha Thimm, First Mennonite Church, Beatrice, Nebraska; Cornelia Franz, Catherine Regier, Anne Marie Regier, Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas; Violet Goering, Arlene Kaufman, Eden Church, Moundridge, Kansas; Phyllis Duerksen, Alexanderwohl Church, Goessel, Kansas; Irene Foth, Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota; Gladys Dester. Deer Creek, Oklahoma, Mennonite Church; Marjorie Unruh, Onecho Mennonite Church, Colfax, Washington. This group will live at the Mennonite Seminary and serve in Bible School teaching at three points in the city.

The Canadian Youth Farm, Rosthern Saskatchewan, Elva Ratzlaff, Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebraska, leader. Lois Jean Riesen, Bruderthal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas; Edith Claassen, Emmaus Church, Whitewater, Kansas; Helen Franz, Emmanuel Church, Delft, Minnesota; Beverly Pahl, Calvary Mennonite Church, Barlow, Oregon; Bernice Preheim and Betty Preheim, Salem Church, Freeman, South Dakota; Ella Wiebe, First Mennonite Church, Paso Robles, California; Anna Friesen, Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebraska; Marie Buller, First Mennonite, Upland, California.

The Montana Indian Mission, Charlene Unruh, Tabor Church, Newton, Kansas, leader. Hilda Warkentin, Alexanderwohl Church, Goessel, Kansas; Sarah Penner, Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota; Ella Voth, Walton Mennonite, Walton, Kansas; Henry Grimm, Evangelical-United Brethren Church, Lima, Ohio; Martha Mierau, Langham Church, Langham, Saskatchewan; Erna Dyck and Ella Heppner, Zoar Church, Waldheim Saskatchewan; Cornelius Driedger, Rosthern Church, Rosthern Saskatchewan; Cornie Dick, Rosemary Church, Rosemary, Alberta.

The Mennonite Youth Team, Erna Fast, Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota, leader. Erna Friesen, Elsie Epp, Bethesda Church, Henderson, Nebraska; Norma Jost, Bruderthal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas; Eloise Faust, Emmanuel Church, Delft, Minnesota.

Great Men on the Bible

Robert A. Millikin, American scientist: "I consider an intimate knowledge of the Bible an indispensable qualification of a well-educated man. Contact with the finest influences which have ever come into human life can be obtained only in this way."

The late King George V: "It is my confident hope that my subjects may never cease to cherish their noble inheritance in the English Bible, which in a secular aspect is the first of national treasures, and in its spiritual significance is the most valuable thing that this world affords."

Immanuel Kant, German philosopher: "The existence of the Bible as a book for the people is the greatest benefit which the human race has ever experienced."

Count Leo Tolstoi, Russian novelist and dramatist: "I do not know a book which gives in such compact poetic form every phase of human ideas as the Bible."

Hon. H. H. King, high in official life of China, and a descendant of Confucius: "Throughout my life I have always regarded the words of the Bible as clear in meaning and significant for life. They lead men to that way of virtue that endures through the ages, by which the heart of man is rectified . . . . I have studied the Bible with constancy, diligence, and awe."

Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese Christian leader: "The New Testament is a wonderful manifesto. It is a proclamation of hope even to those in the depths of despair. When, as at the present time, civilization is sick with moral insanity, and in its delusion has lost its sense of direction, all the more this proclamation promises the hope of regeneration."

Young People to Conference

The C. E. Witness paper, for the Eastern District young people states, "Young Folks! Plan your vacation for August and attend the General Conference at Berne, Indiana." The General Conference is to be held from August 20-27.There will be much going on at the conference to interest young people. The business meeting of the Young People's Union will be held as well as another special meeting of young people. After the Conference, a young people's retreat is planned at Camp Mack, Indiana. Every church should have a representative at the conference and this retreat. It will afford unusual opportunity to learn to know each other and to plan ahead.

Summer Service Leaders Meet

A meeting of the leaders of the Summer Service projects was held at the Mennonite Seminary, Chicago, Illinois, on May 24-25. This meeting was for the purpose of outlining final plans for the summer Service units to be at Rosthern, Saskatchewan; Lame Deer, Montana; and Chicago, Illinois. The meeting of the Mennonite Youth Team, prior to going out to their work, will be held in Chicago over the week-end of July 5.

At the May 24 meeting, the leaders, Rev. Arnold Regier of the Chicago Mission; Miss Elva Ratzlaff, leader of the Rosthern, Saskatchewan unit; and Miss Charlene Unruh, leader of the Lame Deer, Montana, unit met with Bertha Fast, director of the voluntary service units for the General Conference. The group discussed the purpose of the voluntary service, the program of activity for the units, the way voluntary service developed, and its relationship to the conference.

Letter by Student from Italy

(The following is a letter to the C. E. Witness by Paolo Comba, student at Bluffton College from Italy. Paola is one of the exchange students from Europe who has spent the year here.)

It has been a great experience for me to come to America and spent a year at Bluffton College under the sponsorship of the M. C. C.

The people I come from, the Waldensians of northern Italy, have in their history many points of kinship with the Mennonites. For over 650 years they had to endure severe persecutions because of their religious beliefs, and only in 1848 was the freedom of worship granted to them. After that year many of them spread throughout Italy with eager zeal to evangelize the country, and several Waldensian churches were founded in many towns and cities.

After World War II, during which many Waldensians lost their homes and property, a Mennonite relief unit was sent to Italy by the M. C. C. and the workers of that unit got in touch with the Waldensian church and in July, 1946, took care of the execution of student exchange project.

It would be hard for me to tell what impressed me most about America. There are in a sense many differences between the American and the European ways of living and thinking; but after all man is the same all over the world and has the same needs, struggles, ambitions, aspirations, regardless of the place he lives in. What I really found interesting and challenging about the Americans is their unlimited confidence in the power of education. As a prospective educator I learned very much from it.

Paolo Comba, twenty-one, from Turin, Italy, came to Bluffton, September 6, 1946

What Do You Think About in Church

The choir has just completed the morning anthem of praise. A holy reverence pervades the sanctuary. The minister announces his text for the morning message. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee" (Isa. 26:3). Suddenly a door is opened in the rear of the auditorium with a noisy bang and a grating sound. The man at the door whispers to some of the men in the back of the building, and they jump to their feet to assist him, and lo, they carry in a plow! He is a farmer and has brought his plow to church. He sits there in deep thought, studying the plow through the remainder of the service.

Another door opens. A woman has brought her sewing machine to church! She studies her sewing machine while the pastor preaches, and once or twice during the service is even seen to leave her seat and sit at the machine and sew.

The interruptions continue. A man is heard nailing a tin roof. Another is mending shoes. Another seems to be back in his everyday clothes working on a damaged automobile, underneath the balcony. A young woman sits in the choir punching a typewriter. Another bends over a washing machine.

That afternoon the farmer said to his wife who had a big wash to do on the morrow, "I didn't get anything out of that sermon this morning, did you?" His wife answered, "No, I didn't."

Whose fault was it?—Baptist and Reflector

Oregon Churches Announce Retreat

by William M. Zehr

The Oregon Retreat is to be held July 21-28 at Trout Creek Camp, located a few miles from Springdale, Oregon. The camp is situated in the hills surrounded by evergreen trees and all of the western rustic beauty which provides a very appropriate setting for a retreat. The purpose of our retreat is to gather the young people of high school and college age together for a week of instruction and help prepare them for a consecrated Christian life and service.

The instructors are the five Oregon ministers. We plan on building our program around the theme of witnessing.

"The Witness of the Christian Home," Rev. P. Kliewer, Albany, Oregon.

"A United Witness (Church)," Rev. Paul Roth, Canby, Oregon.

"Week Day Witness," Rev. W. A. Regier, Pratum, Oregon.

"Our Heritage (History)," Rev. Clyde Dirks, Portland, Oregon.

"Camp Fire," Rev. Homer Leisy, Dallas, Oregon.

The retreat committee consists of the following officers: President, William Zehr, Portland, Oregon; Vice President, Mrs. Martha Toews, Dallas, Oregon; Treasurer, Miss Alma Stauffer, Salem, Oregon; Secretary, Miss Elaine Widmer, Albany, Oregon.

Items of Interest

Rev. Edward Burkhalter of Berne, Indiana, and student at Biblical Seminary, New York, was the speaker at a joint meeting of the Eastern District Young People's Union and the Sunday School Union. On May 30, the fifty-second Annual Young People's Convention was held by the Eastern District. The theme was, "Christ Calls Us — Will We Answer?"

* * * *

Several carloads of young people are planning to go from the Eastern District churches in Pennsylvania to Kitchener, Ontario, to attend the retreat to be held there August 1-4. The Kitchener church recently became a member of the Eastern District Conference. Up to that time it was unaffiliated with any conference organization.

* * * *

The Eastern District young people own their own retreat grounds, Men-O-Lan. They have built their own cabins and buildings on it and made all other improvements. On May 10, about thirty men came out for "work day" on the camp site, putting the camp in condition for another summer of use.

* * * *

For the year, the Eastern District had a money raising mission project. The budget for this purpose totaled $600. Of this amount $250 was for the development of the new church at Lancaster, Pa.; $250 was for student education to help foreign students get an education in the conference schools; $100 for building a new church at the Lame Deer, Montana, Mission Station. A total of $631.79 was raised for this budget.

* * * *

European Protestantism, struck a body blow by the war and postwar disillusion, will require at least two generations to recover if it can recover at all. This was the statement of Dr. J. Hutchison Cockburn of the World Council of Churches who stated flatly last month in New York that Europe was no longer Christian. At the same time, he declared that "the future of Europe depends on the vitality of the Church more than any other single factor in the situation." Nazism was not yet dead he warned, and Communism was prospering in the resulting confusion. "Throughout Europe the majority of people are definitely non-Christian or indifferently Christian."
—"World"

* * * *

In 119 seminaries in the country, there were 14,001 students enrolled this year. In 1940, there were 9,746 regular students, the gain in students over 1940 being 44 per cent. Of the total, 3,437 are veterans. At the same time, colleges report that candidates for church vocations are appearing in numbers not equaled during the past two decades.
—"The Protestant Voice"

* * * *

An Assembly hall being built by the Church of God in Red Bay, Alabama, is to have a seating capacity of 150,000 and is to be used for national meetings of the denomination. It is said to be "the biggest church in the world."

* * * *

Since the Methodist church added a million members to its church rolls in its evangelistic campaign, the Presbyterian Church USA has decided to launch a similar program of evangelism setting their goal at a million new members in three years. In the Methodist campaign, within sixteen months 1,050,899 persons were gained in 40,264 churches. Of these, 483,655 were transfers from other churches, 567,233 were by profession of faith. In this same period 894 new churches were established or closed churches reopened.

* * * *

"World — an International Newspaper", a new publication published by a group of ex-C. P. S. men, has been receiving wide recognition and interest. Of three occasions, material from the paper has been printed in the Congressional Digest because of pertinent information it contained. Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota, Sen. Glen Taylor of Idaho and Representative Phillips of California used material from the paper in the debate on aid to Greece and

With God

To talk with God, no breath is lost:
Talk on!
To walk with God, no strength is lost;
Walk on!
To toil with God, no time is lost:
Toil on!
Little is much, if God is in it;
Man's busiest day not worth God's minute.
Much is little everywhere
If God the business doth not share.
So, work with God—then nothing's lost;
Who works with Him does best and most.
—Old English Verse

Turkey and on the Yalta agreement. So far four editions of the paper have appeared. Sample copies are obtainable from "World — An International Newspaper," 1236 Eleventh Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

* * * *

Nine hundred counties out of the 3,063 in the United States legally ban distilled spirits. In the dry areas of the U. S. live 25,000,000 people.

* * * *

On June 3, seventeen student nurses graduated from the Bethel Hospital School of Nursing. Dr. P. E. Schellenberg, President of Tabor College, was the speaker. On June 1, the Mennonite Hospital School of Nursing held their graduation exercises at the Grace Church, Bloomington, Illinois.

* * * *

E. Stanley Jones is now in India. He has been holding meetings in cities and colleges throughout the country and reports that never in his forty years of mission work in India have the people shown so much interest in the Christian Gospel.

* * * *

The second issue of WORLD, an international newspaper, has made its appearance. This paper presents international news without a nationalistic flavor in it. Rather than presenting "foreign" and "national" news, it treats all news alike. Dr. Edgar Dale of Ohio State University's Bureau of Educational Research stated regarding the paper, "It is a fine collection of writing, reporting, and organization . . . . Another major point I like very much about this paper is that it has good humor, subtle, intelligent, appropriate—and instructive." Two of the editors, James Stanley, and Robert Fangmeier are former C. P. S. men. Sample copies can be obtained from WORLD, 1236 Eleventh Street, N. W., Washington 1, D. C.

* * * *

Sociologists after a study of two hundred autobiographies have come to the conclusion that guests in the home may have an important role in the development of children. They point out ten ways in which the guest may influence the child; among these are: giving standards for comparing or measuring his parents or the status of his home, exposing the child to new beliefs and customs, teaching better rules and habits of social behavior, stimulating the child intellectually.

* * * *

Seventy-five years of achievement were marked on April 18 by the International Uniform Lessons, used in churches throughout the United States and Canada. The founder of the lessons is Rev. John H. Vincent, a Methodist minister. A Baptist layman championed the cause for the plan and was able to inspire a committee meeting on April 18, 1872, to select a course of Bible lessons for a series of years not exceeding seven.

* * * *

Portions of Roman Catholic church lands in Austria are to be allocated to 10,000 small tenants in an effort to meet their social and economic needs. This action was decided upon at a recent meeting of bishops.

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

Gradually actual statistics of the Mennonites of Russia are coming to this country. The most detailed statistical tables of any Mennonite settlement known to the writer of this column reached him recently. They were sent by a minister who was the last Mennonite to leave the Mennonite settlements of the Ukraine. These four tables give complete information about the population and the economic and cultural life of the Mennonites of the Chortitza settlement between World War I and World War II. Of the 13,965 Mennonites residing in the Chortitza settlement in 1941, 2,287 were exiled at that time. Of the total number of Mennonites of the Ukraine, a great number, especially men, were exiled and evacuated to Siberia before the German army occupied the Ukraine. It is estimated that the total number of Mennonites of the Ukraine that was evacuated to Germany by the retreating German army in 1943 approximates 35,000. Of these, 25,000, it is estimated, were sent back by the Russian occupational authorities in Germany. Thus there is a remainder of some 10,000 Mennonites of the Ukraine scattered in the American and British zones of occupation, who will feel very insecure until the time when they will reach another continent.

Our papers have reported the thrilling escape of some 1000 Mennonites that had gathered in Berlin and had to pass through the Russian zone of occupation. For a long time they had been waiting for this hour. Not only the people who prayed for their own deliverance, but all of us are grateful to God and the human agents who helped in this modern exodus. Let us pause for a moment to look at statistics concerning these people. These statistics were gathered through the U.N.R.R.A. and the Mennonite Central Committee and published by the latter.

From them we learn that of the 2,303 Mennonites that reached South America recently approximately one-fifth were men (16 years and over) two-fifths women (16 years and over), and two-fifth were children (below 16 years). In other words there were 950 women and only 444 men. This is the result of the exiling of men to Siberia before the German army moved in.

From these statistics we can make some other interesting observations. Almost half of the 2,303 passengers came from Berlin. Among them the percentage of men is only about one-tenth, instead of one-fifth like in the total. That raises some questions in our minds. Does it mean that these families remained in the Russian zone because of lack of men who would have rushed them into the western part of Germany ahead of the Red Army? Or does it mean that the Russian occupation army did not care especially to repatriate them since there were so few men among them, meaning that this group had little value for physical labor? Could this also have been a factor in the Russian authorities' official permission for withdrawal into the American and British zones? Afterall the Russians are known for being "realists," Thus they could have figured, "We have the men for labor in Siberia. Let the 'sentimental' Mennonites take care of the women and children."—Cornelius Krahn

M. C. C. Reports Conscription Picture Unfavorable

AKRON, PA., June 6.—A 448-page report on May 29 by President Truman's Universal Training Advisory Commission recommeded adoption of universal military training "as an essential element" of national welfare and foreign policy. The report, obtainable from the superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., for 75 cents, gives twelve supporting reasons for the urgency of immediate action, lists the favorable public opinion polls, suggests the use of local draft boards and says, "For each youth who is physically and mentally qualified . . . . such training should be of a predominantly military character."

Recommended treatment of conscientious objectors: "Training programs for such conscientious objectors should be conducted at training sites which are apart from those employed for military training, and should be under exclusively civilian control."

The present conscription picture stacks up this way: The War Department is enthusiastic about the U.M.T. experimental unit at Knoxville, Kentucky, Congressional mail highly favors it, newspaper editors and the public, reportedly, want it, and, now, the the Advisory Commission demands immediate action. It is not certain whether this session of Congress will vote on the matter.

M. C. C. Favors Flour for Relief Shipments

The question as to whether whole wheat or flour should be shipped for relief was recently raised when the M.C.C. received the following telegram from Hooker, Oklahoma: "Will Again Collect Wheat After Harvest For Relief. Is Whole Wheat Acceptable? . . . . If Wheat or Flour Wanted, Send Instructions For Shipment." Since milling facilities are very scarce overseas, it is advisable to send flour instead of whole wheat. Much of this goes to child-feeding projects, and it should be in a usable form when received. Shipments of flour after the harvest this year will constitute one of the most practical and most needed relief foods. Indications are that relief needs in Europe will not be any less next winter.

Pensioning Our Ministers

by Walter H. Temple

The laymen of the Eastern District Conference reached a conviction that they could serve the cause of Christ and their ministers, who labored faithfully in building the spiritual life or the congregation, if they would provide for the reasonable comfort of those loyal servants of God, when they reached the age where it was necessary for them to be relieved of the responsibilities of the active ministry.

Brother J. D. Moyer, an active layman and business man of Souderton, Pennsylvania was the leader of the idea twenty-five years ago, and the credit for much of the early plans should go to him. He realized that he had been able to provide for his needs after this period of active business effort.

The Brotherhood, a laymen's organization of the Eastern District Conference, discussed the idea at several annual meetings. After considerable study of possible plans in operation in other denominations, consulting with actuaries, surveying the field to develop the need, etc., it was felt that it would be impossible to set up a plan within a district conference which would be equitable and workable.

It was felt that there was a definite need for such a plan, not only in the Eastern District, but no doubt also throughout the General Conference. With this in mind, it was decided to instruct the committee to present the thought to the General Conference for consideration, which was done at the sessions held in Saskatoon in 1938.

The thought in the minds of the originators of the idea was that the ministers were not paid sufficiently to provide for the later period of their life and while they were willing to make the sacrifice because of their desire to serve God and their fellowman, the laymen who were blessed by the service should assume this responsibility willingly.

Several points, which confronted the Eastern District Conference, can be cared for under the present plan with a larger group included and therefore will not act as hindrances. With the plan covering the General Conference area, ministers might be called to congregations in different district conferences and still continue their participation in the plan. This would eliminate the possible hindrance of congregations calling, or ministers accepting a call to other fields.

In some people's minds, the thought arises that the ministers are seeking something for themselves. This is not a fact and should be discarded. The idea originated in the minds of laymen who felt it was an opportunity for service on their part. It is true that such a plan cannot be discussed in a congregation without the cooperation of the minister, and the minister should feel free to express his views, which no doubt would not reflect how it would affect him personally but rather how he feels it would affect the Conference as a whole. His views were solicited by the Eastern District in order to determine if there was a need and how he felt it would help or deter the presenting of the gospel message to the world.

This movement, in the mind of the writer, is an opportunity for the laymen of the Conference to cooperate in a work of service of appreciation for the faithful work of the loyal servants of God who labor so untiringly in the work of the Kingdom.

ANXIOUS FOR LOVE AND UNDERSTANDING

(Continued from page 6)

In the two boys' classes there have been as many as twenty-seven; the girls, about fourteen.

During the year we have used the craft classes also in practicing for Sunday evening worship programs. Most of the boys and girls come for the Sunday evening meetings, which are entirely on a religious basis. However, some of the children are Catholic, some Lutheran. The attendance on Sunday evenings varies greatly. We found that in order to draw the young people, there had to be a challenging program, interesting and different. Slides were used at times to tell Bible stories or to portray hymns. This created a great deal of interest and gave us an opportunity to present the great truth of salvation more vividly to them.

The boys and girls like to take part in the church work, and especially do they like to sing choruses. A group took one Sunday evening to go to the Rockwell Mission to give a program. They enjoyed this very much.

These youngsters need workers who are interested in them, for they have hours of time with nothing to do. We pray that we may have been a blessing to them, and that we may have brought them closer to the Lord.

BRAZILIAN MENNONITES UNIQUE

(Continued from page 8)

How can we Mennonites of North America express our "good neighbor" policy and our missionary endeavors toward these our brethren? They are a small cultural and religious group that needs our special attention. We should help them to get educational and religious books and periodicals. We should establish more personal contacts by visiting them and inviting their representatives to visit us. We should make it possible for some of their young people to attend our schools and visit our churches and homes. Our young people correspond with European young people; why not include the Mennonite young people to the south? The Mennonites of Canada with a similar background are especially well suited for a much livelier contact with our brethren in Brazil than has taken place so far. Are we looking for more mission stations in South America? Certainly here is one, already functioning. Why not support it?

MISSIONS ARE CHEAPER THAN WAR

The cost of making the first two atomic bombs was $2,000,000,000. This amount would have put 10,000 missionaries in the field for a period of 100 years at $2,000 each per year.

The total cost of the war to America was about $300,000,000,000. This amount would put 1,500,000 missionaries in the field for 100 years at $2,000 each per year.

Why will man put his resources to destroying lives and property, when he could use them to do so much? —"Moody Monthly"

Jottings

—Dr. John Warkentin is now head of the psychiatric department of Emory University Hospital, Atlanta, Georgia, and also teaches psychiatry in the university, which is a Methodist school.

—Rev. and Mrs. John T. Neufeldt of the Mennonite Bible Mission, Chicago, recently commemorated twenty-five years of happy married and home life. At this occasion they also reviewed twenty-five years of church work in Chicago.

—A number of Mennonites attended the Institute of of International Relations, held at Friends University, Wichita, Kansas, June 6-15.

—Sister Hillegonda van der Smissen of the Bethel Deaconess Home will be ninety-nine years old on her birthday, June 30.

—Aberdeen Church To Celebrate Fortieth Anniversary: "The Lord willing, we will celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the founding of our church here at Aberdeen, Idaho, on Sunday, June 29 1947 . . . . Brother M. J. Galle of Odessa, Washington, a former pastor, will be our guest speaker. We extend a hearty invitation to any one who might be coming out our way to stop over or to any one who might wish to send a greeting to be read on this occasion.—In the name of the First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, the Board of Deacons, F. L. Wenger, Secretary.

—The Board of Foreign Missions held a special meetin Newton, Kansas, on June 3 and 4. The following board members were present: D. J. Unruh, P. A. Wedel, S. F. Pannabecker, and Howard G. Nyce. Rev. A. E. Kreider is still in China, and Rev. A. P. Waltner could not attend on account of ill health. The officers of the Women's Missionary Association were also present. They are: Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz, Mrs. W. C. Andreas, Mrs. W. C. Voth, Mrs. Frieda Regier Entz.—Howard G. Nyce, Secretary, Foreign Mission Board.

—Mrs. J. R. Duerksen will lead the "missionary conference" to be held June 14 at the Kansas Christian Endeavor Convention, which will convene at the Hyde Park Evangelical United Brethren Church, Wichita, Kansas, June 13-15.

—Mrs. Selma Linscheid of the M. C. C. Relief Clothing Center, Newton, reports that large amounts of "grease for peace" have been received. Fats and oils are used by the M. C. C. to make soap, which is a desperately needed article in Europe. Pork or beef fats, chicken fats, butter, cottonseed oil, peanut oil, and almost any kind of animal or vegetable fats can be used provided they are rendered.

—Boynton Mennonite Church, Hopedale, Illinois: Miss Mabel Sauder, missionary to Africa, was guest speaker on June 8. Anette de Graff, Dutch student, and Paulo Comba, Italian student, of Bluffton College will present a program in our church on Monday evening, June 23.

—Ivan P. Deckert's address now is: Sudan Interior Mission, Zonkwa, Nigeria, West Africa.

—Butterfield (Minnesota) Church: Rev. Paul Tschet-

Walter H. Hohmann Receives Special Recognition

Walter H. Hohmann received special recognition for his outstanding work and contribution in the field of music at the Commencement exercises of Bethel on June 3, and was honored with the presentation of the honorary degree of Doctor of Music.

Dr. Hohmann was born in Halstead, Kansas, October 27, 1892, and was married to Elsbeth Ressler on June 6, 1921. He is the father of three children. He was a student at Bethel College from 1912 to 1915; a student also at Bush Conservatory, Chicago Musical College; and at the Westminster Choir School at Princeton, New Jersey. In 1922 he was awarded the Bachelor of Music degree at Bush Conservatory, and the same institution gave him the Master of Music degree in 1928.

Dr. Hohmann held teaching positions at Freeman Junior College from 1916 to 1918, 1922-23; the State Teachers' College, Peru, Nebraska, 1920-1921; and Bethel College since 1923. He holds membership in the National Music Teachers Association, and National Supervisers Conference.

He is author of a number of published musical compositions, among them are "Autumn Afternoon and Upon a Hill," "O Power of Love," "Po' Good Jesus," and "Christ Walks into the Hills." He is the author, also, of "Outlines in Hymnology with Emphasis on Mennonite Hymnology,' and co-editor of the much lauded and generally used "Mennonite Hymnary."

To him goes much of the credit for the success of the annual Mennonite Song Festival, for the growing appreciation of dignified church music in General Conference churches, and for the outstanding reputation attained by the Bethel College A Cappella Choir. For three full summers he has given himself freely to the development of choral singing in the Mennonite churches in Canada. This fall he will enter his twenty-fifth year of faithful, dependable, and praiseworthy service to Bethel College and its music department.

---

ter and three members of the church attended the Northern District Conference in Doland, South Dakota. We expect to have Missionary Anna Quiring as our main speaker for the mission society program on June 22.

—Newport (Washington) Church: Rev. and Mrs. Rudolph Schmidt have arrived, and we are being blessed by their ministry. June 1 was welcome day for our new pastor and wife. About fifty children enrolled in vacation Bible school. Many of these had never attended Sunday school or church.

—Dr. Ernest E. Leisy, who is Professor at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas, together with Mrs. Leisy stopped at General Conference Headquarters, Newton, on June 11. Mr. Leisy was en route to the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colorado, where he is to teach two English courses until July 18. After that date the Leisys plan to go to Washington, Oregon, and California, before returning home to Dallas.

—Puram Banwar, former business manager of the Leper Asylum at Champa, India, is now in this country and has enrolled in the summer course at Bethel College. Mr. Banwar plans to take at least two years of work at Bethel College before returning to India. After arriving in the United States on May 12, Mr. Banwar visited the following Mennonite churches and communities: Los Angeles, Reedley, California; Marion and Freeman, South Dakota. On June 4 he arrived in Newton, Kansas. He also attended the recent Northern District Conference, which was held at Doland, South Dakota.

—Bethel College Church: Three weddings were announced in our church recently. They were: Elaine Wedel to Oswald Goering, May 25; Orletta Warkentin to Lawrence Templin, June 4; and Dorothy Wedel to Gordon Kaufman, June 11.

—Ebenezer Church, Bluffton Ohio: Rev. Richard Reilly, Director of the Youth for Christ in Elkhart, Indiana, was the guest speaker at the annual young people's rally, May 30-June 1. Freeman Burkhalter of Berne, Indiana, directed the music. Over one hundred young people attended our fellowship meeting Saturday evening. The theme was 'The Shining Life," Matt. 5:16. On May 25 the St. John's C. E. visited our C. E., putting on the program in each department. Later on we return the visit.

—Ebenezer Church, Gotebo, Oklahoma: Ebenezer, Greenfield, Herald and Sichar Churches of Gotebo, Carnegie and Cordell held a youth rally June 3 at Spring Lake under the directorship of Rev. Walter Goossen, Gotebo. Rev. C. M. George of Grace Bible institute was the speaker. His challenging messages were, "Who's Who with God," "The More Abundant Life," and "The Three Great Questions of Life." Special music was furnished by the Go Ye quartet, students of Grace Bible Institute, who will spend the next six weeks in the Go Ye Mission. A banquet supper was served at six with 110 present. Young people present from each church were: Greenfield thirty-four, Herold thirty-three, Sichar seventeen, and Ebenezer fifteen.

—Einsiedel Church, Hanston, Kansas: The Hanston Baptist, Methodist and Mennonite Churches closed a two-weeks daily vacation Bible school Sunday evening, June 1 with a program by the children.

Mrs. Henry Ensz
710 East Fourth Street
Newton
Kansas

Seven of the forty-three children enrolled were from our church. The total offering of $17 by the children will be used for purchasing Bibles and Testaments for Germany. Since we have no regular pastor as yet, Oswald Goering, Bill Unrau, V. Wm. Hinshaw and T. A. van der Smissen served us in the morning worship hour during April and May. On April 27 Edwin Stucky spoke here on the work of the Western District Young People.—Mrs. Agnes E. Schowalter, Corr.

—Salem Mennonite Church, Dalton, Ohio: A full and very appreciative house enjoyed the sacred program given by the Men's Community Chorus of about fifty voices under the able direction of Mr. Victor Gerber on Sunday evening, June 1.

—Emmanuel Church, Moundridge, Kansas: Forty-seven children attended our vacation Bible school, the largest ever held. We had three teachers.

—Tabor Church, Newton, Newton, Holds Youth Retreat: On May 29 the young people of the Tabor Church enjoyed a new experience in inspiration, friendship, and recreation when they went to the Harvey County Park for an all-day retreat. Mr. B. Bargen and Mr. Robert Tully were the speakers at the retreat. Elvera Voth was the music director, and Mr. Tully directed the recreation. The group of about sixty-five met at the church at 6 A. M. and then left for the retreat grounds. After morning devotions in the shelter house of the park they enjoyed a delicious breakfast. Following breakfast Mr. Tully led a recreation period in which everyone enjoyed playing "Rhythm," variations of "Two Deep," "Thread the Needle," and other games. Then there was a free period in which everyone could choose what he wished to do. At 10:45 the group met in the shelter house to hear Mr. Bargen talk on "Thirteen Roads That Have No End." He showed how such roads as fear, jealousy, criticism of others, etc., mislead and deceive the individual and leave him lonely and unhappy. The chill gone, dinner was eaten outside, and the afternoon classes were also held outside. Mr. Bargen finished his topic, and Mr. Tully led the group in a discussion of the place of recreation in our lives, just what it is and what it should do for the individual. The free period in the afternoon was spent in hiking, learning skill games and some rope tricks, and a game of softball. After a wiener roast supper the meeting was closed with group singing.—Arlene Schmidt, reporter.

—Walton (Kansas) Mennonite Church: Fifty-six pupils were enrolled in the vacation Bible school, which was taught by five teachers. The offering for the school amounted to ninety dollars. Mr. and Mrs. Al Zahlout gave us a concert of sacred music on June 4.

—Missionary Arthur Friesen writes, "We are now living in the house near Clinton, Oklahoma, where Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Ediger have lived for forty years during their service among the Cheyenne Indians. Our address now is: Arthur Friesen, Route, 1, Clinton, Oklahoma."

—First Church, Burns, Kansas: Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Goossen and daughter left on June 8 for Nebraska to visit their parents. The wedding of Miss Leta Mae Ott to Paul P. Stucky has been announced for June 15. Mr. and Mrs. Al Zahlout gave us a musical program on June 5. The annual Sunday school picnic was held May 26.

—Goessel Mennonite Church, Goessel, Kansas: On Sunday afternoon, June 8, fifty-three children participated in an excellent Children's Day program. A very enjoyable social hour followed the program. The funeral of Mr. C. A. Reimer was held on May 11. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Boese celebrated their silver wedding anniversary on May 12.

—All official mail for the Inman Mennonite Church, Inman, Kansas, should be sent to Aaron Epp, pastor. Brother Epp began his service as pastor on June 1.

—Johannestal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas: The wedding bells are ringing again: Eldon Schmidt to Helen Thiesen of the Zoar Church, Doris Plenert to Robert Dalke of Hillsboro, and Bertha Ewert to Arnold Nickel of Mountain Lake, Minnesota. Three of our young boys attended the retreat near Goddard, Kansas.

Dr. P. S. Goertz To Spend Year in Europe for M. C. C.

Dr. Peter S. Goertz, who has been granted a leave of absence from his duties as Dean of Bethel College for the 1947-48 school year, will engage in M. C. C. work in Europe from August, 1947, to August, 1948. According to the Bethel College Bulletin Dean and Mrs. Goertz "will spend their first few months in Copenhagen, Denmark, in rehabilitation work among the refugees and displaced persons stranded in that country. It is likely that they will later serve in similar capacities in Germany and Austria, although the exact location has not yet been determined. They will be stationed in Amsterdam, Holland, for a good share of the year, with the likelihood that they will be in charge of the relief center at that point. In general, their function will be to serve as interpreters of the American Mennonites and the M. C. C. to the European Christians and to help them establish their social, moral, and spiritual outlook in life."

The Mennonite

Volume 62 ——— June 24, 1947 ——— Number 2~~4~~5

Cut courtesy "The Voice of Peace"

The Parable of the Granite Mountain

Harold H. Gross

In the beautiful Black Hills of South Dakota there stood a white granite mountain, protruding above the stately blackgreen pines which surrounded it—the manifestation of a solid reality which, over the centuries, had thrust its way upward through the crust of the earth. This gigantic rock, symbolizing in its weather-beaten, time-tested sturdiness the eternal qualities for which men seek, attracted the attention of people of high and low estate as they journeyed through this scenic wonderland.

One of these travelers, a man of prominence with rich imagination, conceived the fantastic idea of carving on the face of this colossal piece of nature a national monument—a "shrine of democracy," a memorial to the aspirations and achievements of a Way of Life in the New World.

To be sure, when this stupendous project was first discussed, scoffers ridiculed the notion of carving human images on such a grand scale. And truly, apart from the factors of creative genius it was an almost ridiculous dream: with bust figures on a scale of men ranging 465 feet tall; with faces measuring sixty feet from chin to crown of head, and facial features dimensionally proportioned. But for Gutzon Borglum the sculptor, who possessed intelligence, genius, and creative faith, plus a knowledge of what might ensue from the combined application

(Continued on page 7)

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Christ Jesus"

As We See It:

Guilt Makes for Fear

After Adam bit the apple in the Garden of Eden, we read that he hid himself—because he was afraid. The sense of guilt has always been a predisposing factor to fear.

Our thinking about Communism today is increasingly colored by fear and suspicion. How much of this fear is genuinely warranted; how much of it is a mere fiction, rising out of our own shortcomings? We know that Communism thrives in areas of deprivation. Could the fact that over half of the world population lives on a starvation diet while we maintain a standard of "conspicuous consumption"—even of "conspicuous waste"—contribute to our sense of insecurity? Communism promises equality. Despite its glaring failures in this regard, it has given evidence of surmounting racial discrimination. Can we perhaps recognize in our treatment of the Negro and of other minority groups the stuff out of which wars are made, only enhanced now by the appearance of Communism?

In light of the material and man-power losses of Russia in this last war, it does not seem likely that, offered a reasonable opportunity for peace, she would refuse to take it. Nor can Communism be seriously regarded as an internal threat to our democracy. Out of the 140,000,000 people of the United States, FBI statistics inform us that only 75,000 are Communists. It appears that we must look elsewhere for the explanation of our anxiety. We must look within.

If fear did nothing more than ruffle the composure of our lives it would be bad enough. But fear is more than discomforting. It is dangerous. Fear tends to produce the thing that is feared. This is true in the life of the individual; it is true in the life of a nation. Reflection tells us that it is not anger but fear that lies at the base of warfare. Anger may be aroused once war has begun, but it is fear—the sense of insecurity—that starts it.

In quiet and confidence shall be your strength—the quiet and confidence that comes from a life, national and individual, that is free from the compunctions of guilt. "His strength was as the strength of ten, because his heart was pure."—Ralph C. Kauffman, Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences and Professor of Psychology at Bethel College, and a member of the Peace Committee of the Western District Conference.

What Is a Conference?

Since many people are looking forward to the coming session of General Conference, we do well to ask ourselves, what is a conference?

It is more than a place to meet and visit friends. It is more than a time to merely watch what is going on and to approve or criticize the same. It is more than merely reporting or planning the work of one church.

Conference is a fellowship, a time for living so close with God that we can rightly understand His will for us and the church, and a time for living in spiritual companionship with each other.

Conference is a spirit, an atmosphere of joy and love and graditude, that puts us in the proper relationship with God and our fellow-men.

Conference is a dynamic, that puts us in contact with spiritual forces and makes possible the release of the power of God through us upon a needy world.

Conference is a witness and a testimony, where we rejoice in the things God has done for us, and plan together with Him for greater things in the future, that we may be faithful witness for our Lord Jesus Christ.

Conference, then, needs careful preparation beyond arranging for the program and the physical conveniences. All should spiritually prepare THEMSELVES and come in the spirit and Name of Christ that He can more fully manifest Himself and His Will to us, and that we can glorify Him through Conference.—J. N. Smucker, President of the General Conference and Pastor of the First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio.

Need For A "Human Nature" Sunday

Nature Sunday is an institutional reminder of how God works in and through nature. Christian education in the past decades has made much of God's manifestation in this way. It is highly important that we recognize this aspect of God's creativity. Recognition of the way He works in nature has made possible the breath-

(Continued on page 6)

THE MENNONITE

Weekly religious journal of the GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA. Devoted to the interest of the MENNONITE CHURCH and THE CAUSE OF CHRIST, in general.

Published every Tuesday, except the weeks of July Fourth and Christmas, by the Board of Publication of the General Conference.

Entered at the post office at Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing at special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22. 1919.

Business Office: Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kans.
Editor ---------- Reynold Weinbrenner, 722 Main St., Newton, Kan.
Subscription in advance, $1.75 Foreign, $2.25

Address all contributions and communications for this paper, and exchange to Editor, THE MENNONITE, 722 Main St., Newton, Kansas.

Mail all subscriptions and payments for this paper to MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS.

German Youth Offer Ray of Hope

by Johannes Harder

(Johannes Harder, Mennonite professor in a teachers' college in Germany and the author of a number of novels dealing with the German Mennonites, describes the spiritual and cultural conditions of present-day Germany.)

The German people find themselves today in a crisis that defies description. It is no small matter to see a political and national collapse as we have witnessed it. In the cities, the shells of the bombed homes yawn toward the bleak skies. As far as the eye can see there is nothing but ruins and rubble; and the hum of industry seems as far from reality as fairy tales. Under these conditions people must change. The German citizen of today peers hopelessly into the meaningless future. Hunger is not a topic for journalists but a stark reality that causes mute suffering which cries far louder than any demoniac roaring. The point at which we have arrived has as its background the demon, despair. The Decalog, which was doubted in past years, is now being negated with annihiliastic passion. Theft is no longer a problem, honesty has been dismissed, and covetousness triumphs. The words of Dostoyevski, "Without God everything is permissable," are being demonstrated in an appalling way. Man, not believing in himself or in man, in no way curbs his urge toward self-preservation. Crowded dance halls and the black market are the symbols of the decay of life. We have forgotten how to live, we merely exist.

There was a time after the collapse when we expected the return of the Prodigal Son. The churches began to be filled and letters from the men in Prisoner of War camps were hopeful. The men who returned seemed to be open to the message of divine mercy even for a collapsed nation. Today no one dares hope for a great return to God. We do not say this without calling attention to the fact that the churches have failed in proclaiming the message of God. Too many ministers engaged in cheap condemnation of those who had passed from the scene, stoning the dead for the thousandth time. Others superficially rejoiced that the "Christian cause" had triumphed after all. Still others merely followed their pious traditions. Few realized that God is a God of mercy. This may account for the fact that once again we are "among ourselves" in the churches while the masses pass by in despair. This is a most depressing factor, and we ask ourselves, "What more can happen to bring us back to God?"

Meanwhile the young people hunger for cultural values. One has to live among these young people in order to experience at least a little human comfort. The young people want to know and therefore they ask. They ask questions as though they wanted to make up for the past fifteen years. There is a ray of hope in observing these young people seeking for truth, and then we are led to believe that this is the beginning that will, in spite of all, lead to a new dawn. May God grant it.

Our Brethren in the Faith

by a former relief worker

(A former M.C.C. relief worker describes some of the Mennonite refugees in Europe. His story has something to say about the strength that comes from faith in God.)

It was Sunday morning at Roverstein, and I found myself strolling leisurely down a pathway through the trees which surround the home. Breakfast was over, the dishes had been cleared away, and soon it would be time for our morning service. Seeking to find a quiet spot for a few moments of meditation and prayer, I wandered along the pathway. For several days I had been living in the home learning to know our brethren in the faith. Roverstein was a place of strange, haunting tales of a people who had endured terror and bitter suffering during their flight. For days they had gone without food; daily they had found their lives endangered and had sought refuge in straw stacks and out-of-the-way places. Many had been separated from loved ones and forced to flee not knowing whither they went. What a strange story as they told of their flight. And even now with what apprehension and uncertainty they looked into the future! I was deep in thought as I strolled through the trees.

Suddenly I found myself awakened out of my meditations. The quietness of the early morning was broken with the sound of children's voices. They were singing—singing as though their hearts were filled to overflowing with the goodness of God. Only a short time ago they had been silenced with fear and trembling. Now their voices rang through the forest in joyous, unrestrained hymns of praise. As I followed the trail I found them. There they were happily running about accompanied by two of the older girls, bursting forth into a continuous song. One could hardly believe that these were the same children.

I wish you could have attended the morning service which followed. I wish you could have been there as the little organ sounded forth the melody of some of the great hymns of faith to hear the halls of Roverstein resound with the singing of our brethren. I wish you could have been with me as I sat in the office room of the home. Dinner was over; soup, bread and coffee was the Sunday dinner menu. I had retired to the office for a few moments of rest when suddenly the air was again filled with song. This time it was the blending of many voices—men, women and children. Hymns of praise—hymns of confident faith—hymns of humble petition—one after another these filled the air. It was as though a great heavenly chorus had burst forth into song. All afternoon the music sounded as I listened in my room. Finally I found myself making my way to the room in which they were gathered. There they were singing out of the fullness of their heart. Not a songbook was theirs—truly they were singing From the Heart. Life's experiences had been bitter, but they had taught many lessons. More than that, they had filled the heart with divine melodies which sought expression on that Sunday afternoon.

These are our brethren in the faith

MENNONITES THE WORLD OVER

By Cornelius Krahn

NEW LIFE AMONG THE RUINS. Recently, for the first time in six years, a baptismal service was held in the Mennonite Church of Berlin. During the early stages of the war, its young pastor, Dr. Horst Quiring, was drafted, and he is still a prisoner of war in Russia. In the disastrous final stage of the war when almost all of Berlin went down in ruins, the members of the Mennonite congregation suffered tremendously. Dr. Crous, one of its outstanding leaders, lost his job, his library, and his home, escaping to Goettingen. Last year he was ordained into the ministry by the aged Dr. Neff, and he is now in charge of the Mennonite refugee congregation at Goettingen. After more than two years of absence from Berlin, Dr. Crous was permitted to return. He gave catechetical instruction to the candidates and baptized them. The Lord's Supper was also observed. This impressive service which lasted more than three hours was attended by 150 members.

There are indications that, inspite of the great loss in lives and property and the present horrible conditions, there is a quest and a hunger for new spiritual life and light. (According to a letter from Robert Kreider.)

FIRST INTERNATIONAL MENNONITE MEETING AFTER WORLD WAR II. It is true that in connection with relief work smaller meetings of an international character have been held. But what can be called the first international Mennonite youth conference after World War II was held in Elspeet, Holland, in the middle of May. Representatives from Holland, Switzerland, Alsace, France and Russia and MCC workers from the United States and Canada were present. The French, Dutch, German and English languages were used at the meetings. The conference was most stimulating and unique. There were the Dutch that have, to a degree, become acquainted with the Mennonites of other countries and especially the relief activities of the Mennonites of the United States and Canada. They presented their views on the religious, economic, and political problems of our day. There were the Swiss and French brethren with their entirely different religious and cultural outlook. There was the problem of the German Mennonites who are now in the greatest need. Robert Kreider gave a discussion of this. It will be hard for us to understand how much forgiving and forgetting will be necessary before the Mennonites of Holland and France will be able to wipe out all bitterness accumulated during the days of occupation. However, already they are beginning to share in relieving the suffering of these brethren.

The representatives from other countries admired the Dutch for their ability to set the stage for a free, open, and frank discussion on all possible problems without doing violence to the spirit of unity. On the other hand they may find that the Dutch do not quite keep pace in putting words into action, while the Dutch may find the American Mennonites a little too much of the activist "Martha" type.

On the whole, it must be said that such a meeting is stimulating, refreshing, and re-vitalizing, not only for those who had the privilege of attending it, but also for the congregations which they represented. May the time be near when they will be as common as our other conferences.

KANSAS DRY FORCES RALLY

Topeka, Kansas, June 18.—The leaders of nineteen Christian denominations of Kansas recently met in Topeka and unanimously voted that the Kansas United Dry Forces employ an additional assistant state superintendent, who would devote his full time to carrying out a coordinated educational program against the repeal of constitutional prohibition in Kansas in the general election of 1948. These same executives voted "to set aside Sunday, July 6, 1947, or a date as near as possible, when every church in Kansas will devote the services to the Dry Cause and request that every congregation take an offering for the support of the Kansas United Dry Forces."

In an appeal to the Christian pastors of Kansas, it is pointed out that converts to the dry cause must be won from that large group which is neither radically wet nor radically dry. A special personal approach towards young voters, who have been exposed to the liquor pressure, is advocated. It is pointed out that "the battle will be won or lost in the thousands of local polling places . . . . Here is the pastor's primary responsibility in his own parish and community. Here is his recognized place of leadership. His church has a position of influence in one or more precincts where the fateful ballots will be cast. If the church influence in every community can be mobilized for the dry position, there can be no doubt of the outcome."

Pensioning Our Ministers

by Clinton Kaufman

Our ministers perform the most important services in the community. Their life is dedicated to keeping us in tune with the Infinite. From Sunday to Sunday they instruct us in the Word. During life's most trying moments when one is confined by illness or when a loved one is called from this life, and also at festive occasions such as reunions and weddings, it is the pastor who directs our thoughts toward God and the loving Savior.

It is with a deep sense of humility that we must admit that these services are often rewarded with one of the lowest salaries in the community. True these men entered the ministry for a much nobler purpose than to gain worldly possessions. Nevertheless, their bills come due at the end of the month just like ours do.

Somehow the ministers, in spite of their modest incomes, manage to rear their children, meet the many obligations that are theirs as heads of churches, and give the tithe. But often there is not enough to permit savings for old age. Adequate pensions must be provided. This is primarily a layman's problem. We need to provide for our worthy servants so that they can retire with dignity and honor and not as one who dreads the time when he can no longer work, for fear he will become a public charge or a burden to his children.

The Pension Committee has been charged with the responsibility of providing a plan whereby the churches can meet their responsibilities to their retired ministers. The Retirement Life Income Plan, prepared by the committee, has been submitted to the churches for their consideration. It has been presented in a leaflet and in a series of articles in The Mennonite.

The inquiries and comments received by the committee show that ministers and laymen are very much interested in the proposed plan. A number of questions have been raised. Some of these have been answered in previous articles in The Mennonite by various members of the committee. A few other questions which are often asked are as follows:

Why does the plan provide that the policies be held by the Pension Committee? Seventy-five per cent of the premium which is paid to provide the retirement income is to be paid by the employing organizations. During the years while premiums are being paid, a participant may serve a number of different employing organizations throughout the General Conference. Since this 75 per cent of the premium is paid only for the purpose of providing retirement income for the participant or protection for his dependents, the participant is not entitled to the full benefits of the policy if he terminates his employment during the first five years of participation. Therefore, it is necessary that the policies be held and controlled by the Pension Committee.

Does the participant name a beneficiary in his policy? Yes. When the participant makes application for a retirement income contract or a retirement annuity contract, he will name a beneficiary or beneficiaries. The participant reserves the right to change the beneficiary from time to time.

What benefits are payable in the event of the death of the participant? If death occurs before retirement, the annuity contract provides for the return of all premiums paid, or the cash value of the policy if the cash value is more than the total of all premiums paid. The income contract would of course pay the face of the policy, but the cash value of the policy would be payable if death occurred after the cash values exceed the amount of insurance.

If death occurred after retirement is begun, the annuity contract, as at present available through the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund, provides that the monthly income checks will continue to be paid until the total of all payments made, including those paid the annuitant while living, equal the cash value of the policy at the time the income payments started. For example, if the cash value of the annuity was $7,000 at age sixty-five when retirement payments started, if the annuitant lives to receive only $1,000 the income payments would be continued until the full remaining $6,000 was paid. If, however, the annuitant lived to receive the full $7,000, or more, there would be nothing payable at death.

The retirement income policy provides that if death occurs after retirement but before the annuitant has received one hundred monthly income payments the payments will be continued until a total of one hundred monthly payments have been made from the time retirement started.

Both types of policies, of course, provide that the income payments will be made as long as the annuitant lives regardless of how long he lives.

What steps are necessary to collect any death benefits which may be payable? The participant will hold during his participation a certificate of participation which should be kept with his other valuable papers. This certificate of participation will show the name of his beneficiary. Such beneficiary should notify the Pension Committee of the death, and the proper papers will be provided for making claim for the benefits payable.

What action does a participant take if his employing organization withdraws from the plan or he moves to an organization that does not wish to participate in the plan? If an employing organization, after agreeing to participate, is unable to continue its share, or if the participant moves and his new employing organization does not desire to participate, the participant shall have two choices:

a. He may assume the payment of the full premium on his policy.

b. He may have the policy reduced. He may then continue with the portion of the policy for which he cares to pay the full premium. The portion discontinued will become a paid-up policy for a proportionate amount of retirement income as provided by the tables in the policy, and will be held for the ultimate benefit of the participant.

What procedure is necessary if a participant who is serving an organization that has withdrawn from the plan, moves to an organization that desires to participate? If the participant has continued the full premium on his policy the new employing organization will assume the 75 per cent of the premium payment. If the original policy was reduced, the new employing organization will pay the same as if the old policy had been continued in full, and a new policy will be purchased for the amount of retirement income such premium payment will provide.

If a participant now has policies in the Presbyterian Ministers' Fund or any other life insurance company, can their policies be brought under this plan? No.

Who pays the expense of operating this plan? The expense of operating this plan will be only that required for postage, printing of necessary forms and information outlines, office help and such other expense as may be necessary for the proper functioning of the Pension Committee. Such expense should be provided by the General Conference Treasury.

Additional articles will be published in The Mennonite explaining the plan. Leaflets outlining the plan have been prepared. Each minister is asked to turn in the name of a leading layman to whom this material can be mailed. If you have neglected to send in a name, will you please do so at once so that we can get this information to your church members.

NEED FOR A "HUMAN NATURE" SUNDAY

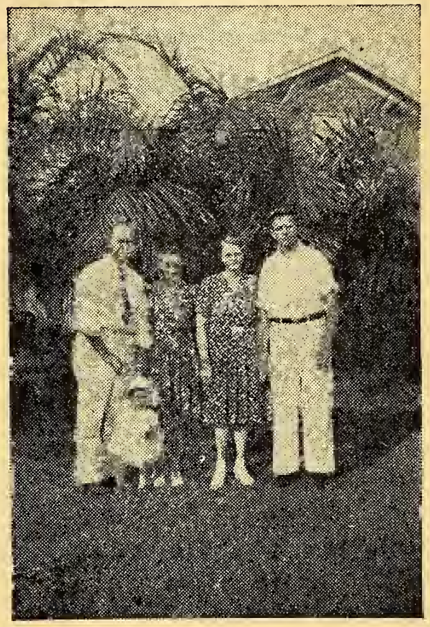
(Continued from page 2)

taking inventions of science. It has helped solve many a problem in the production of food, clothing, and shelter. However, recognition of God's activity in and through nature has not helped mankind to any great extent in solving the problem of how to use the products of scientific research. Another realm of nature needs to be studied to solve that problem, namely, the realm of human nature. We know only a little about it even though it is in each one of us. Man has given but very little systematic study to it. However, it seems reasonable to believe that just as certain laws work in nature and can be definitely ascertained and utilized, just so do certain laws also work in human nature and so also can they be discovered and utilized to the end that God's will may be carried out in human relationships upon earth as in the ideal of heaven. Perhaps, someday we will conclude that it is as important to have a Human Nature Sunday as it is to have a Nature Sunday, such as many churches will again observe on June 29.
—Reynold Weinbrenner, Editor

Elmer Dicks Report From Africa

(The following are excerpts from a letter written on March 5, 1947, by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Dick, Kalamba, via Tshikapa, Kasai District, Congo Belge, Africa, to the Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board.)

The Lord has blessed us as a family in that He has entrusted to our care little Doretta Ann, weight 7½ pounds, on Feb. 23, 1947. At the time of this writing the mother and baby are doing very well. We are expecting to be able to return to our work at Kalamba station about Mar. 12.



Elmer Dicks and George Neufelds

We have called all of our outstation teachers to the main station during this first week of March. They are to bring in the offering boxes from their respective villages and get their pay for the first quarter of this year. We also have some inspirational and instructional meetings with them.

We were privileged to send out six new teacher-evangelists at the end of last quarter but only several of them were able to take up new work. The rest had to replace other workers, who had to be relieved of their responsibilities because of sin. We are praying that they may be convicted of their sins by the Holy Spirit so that they will return to the Lord with a penitent heart and once more be able to resume their work as teacher-evangelists.

We are enjoying our work, conscious of the fact that this is God's appointed place for us. The language is not quite as much a mystery for us anymore. We have been able to do some extra studying while here at Mukedi.

Mennonite Seminary Adds Faculty Members

A school is as strong as her faculty. Last fall we were very fortunate to have Dr. S. F. Pannabecker join our faculty as Dean of the Seminary and Professor of Missions and Church History.

For the coming year we are very happy to announce that Rev. Donovan E. Smucker, Graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, has answered the call of the Seminary Board to teach Biblical Theology. Rev. Smucker is well known as a scholar and speaker. In 1946 he was awarded the Archbald A. Hodge prize in Systematic Theology and recently Princeton honored him with a $1000 Graduate Fellowship in Systematic Theology. Besides his B. D. he has enough credits for a Master of Arts.

Brother Smucker will teach courses in both the Seminary and the Bible School. His scholarly mind and his warm heart for Christ and the Church will inspire our young people. His "Damascus Road Experience" wil lhelp him to teach with the spirit of Christ, to understand our youth, and to give good counsel. We are persuaded that students will find it very advantageous to have him as friend and professor.

The Smucker family expects to move to Chicago by August 1. They will live on the Campus in the Franz Home.

Excellent work was done by Rev. Marvin J. Dirks last year in conducting the Seminary Choir. He also was engaged as instructor of voice in Bethany Biblical Seminary. The Seminary Board has now unanimously asked Brother Dirks to join our Seminary faculty as teacher of music for the coming year. We welcome him most heartily to his new position.

Rev. Dirks has his A. B. from Bethel College and his M. Mus. from Northwestern University. He is an enthusiastic musician who has inspired young people's groups at retreats and church gatherings whereever he acted as choir and music leader. For two years he and his family have been on the China Mission field. Three more years they were detained in a Japanese internment camp on the Philippines. In 1945 they returned to the home land, and since then he has been active in his beloved field of music.

We are also privileged to announce the coming of Miss Katie Andres from Newton, Kansas, as our librarian. Miss Andres graduated as librarian from Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, Kansas. She has done library work at different places. The last few years she has served as librarian of the Western District Conference Loan Library and the combined Mennonite Historical Library at Bethel College. Her friendly Christian character and her eagerness to be helpful will be appreciated by all.

Our other staff members are Rev. John T. Neufeld, Business Manager; Rev. Ed. J. Miller, Field Secretary; Mrs. David Habegger, Secretary; Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker, Hostess; Mrs. J. D. Goering, Dietician.—A Warkentin of skill, hard work and dynamite—for this man a mountain could unquestionably be transformed into a monument for the Ages.

The Parable of the Granite Mountain

(Continued from page 1.)

Nearly fourteen years of combined faith and work (with countless obstacles added for good measure) were required before the busts of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Teddy Roosevelt appeared in near-completion. However, the master artist did not live to see the finished product of his creative efforts. He died too soon, and the mantle of his unfinished task was thrown on the capable shoulders of his son, Lincoln Borglum, who carried on his father's work.

The philosophy of this master sculptor's art is expressed in this paraphrase of a statement of his: "I am not the creator of those figures. It was merely my duty and privilege to dynamite away the granite debris' which covered them, so that they may be seen. For they were already there!"

The Kingdom of God is something like that. Luke reports Jesus as saying to the Pharisees that "the kingdom of God is within you." Whether one translates the Greek as saying "within you" or "in your midst" (as some prefer) the point is well taken: namely, that the Kingdom of God in some sense already is (a reality), and that its manifestation emanates from within the lives of people. Of the three main strands of teaching about the Kingdom in the New Testament, that it is, is now coming, and is to come, the first of these is a bed-rock reality for Christian hope and admonition.

Borglum believed in the fulfilment of his fantastic project, because he knew that the figures were already there as realities. Skilled appliction of dynamite and chisel made their manifestation an actuality.

In Romans Paul calls the gospel the dunamis (the "dynamite," dynamic, the power of God), which, if applied to human lives, is expulsive enough to blast away the debris' which clutters them and limits the manifestation of the salvation of the Kingdom. Skilled Christian discipline—applied as diligently as the sculptor applies his drill and chisel—with ample placement of the charges of Christian dynamic, generated through study, prayer and labor, should go a long way toward blasting from our lives the irrelevancies and sins which hide the divine image which is the Christian's life and character.

The figure of our parable is quite clear, and its implications rather evident. Its application to our lives constitutes our problem and our task. Is our faith in the reality of God in Christ, and of the Kingdom, great enough to surmount the obstacles of our day? On the answer to that depends the manifestation of the Kingdom "on earth as it is in heaven."

H. Albert Claassens Now Serve Toronto Mission

(Rev. and Mrs. Albert Claassen, formerly of Beatrice, Nebraska, are now working in the United Mennonite Mission, Toronto, Ontario. They serve under the Home Mission Board of the General Conference. Their address on June 6 was: 35 Hastings Avenue, Toronto, Canada.)

"Transplanted into another country and sent here for the ministry of the Word of God and the testimony of our Lord Jesus Christ. "These are the sentiments I wrote into my diary on February 1, 1947. A few days earlier we had driven our little Studebaker into this metropolis of Canada. One day a passerby on the sidewalk in downtown Toronto, where I parked my car, looked at the car and then at the license-tag, and then turned back to the car and remarked, "Didn't you come here at the wrong time?"—It was in the midst of winter and in a week of most springlike weather that we arrived here. With a few of the most essential articles in our car and a little trailer, we started out from our home in Beatrice, Nebraska on a Wednesday noon and arrived here two days before a heavy snowstorm set in.

Our ministry, to which we had been called by the General Conference Board of Home Missions, is to a small group of Mennonite people who have labored and who have sought to make a home here for their families. They welcomed the efforts of the Conference to help them gather and establish themselves as a Mennonite congregation in the great Church of the Saviour. To our encouragement they welcomed us into their midst. They have gathered for worship every Sunday and on the great holy-days of the Church, regardless of snow or storm.

The United Mennonite Mission here purchased a residence on 140 Victor Avenue and changed the first floor thereof into a hall for worship. An attractive job of it was done by men, who worked at it after "working hours." Folding chairs were used for seats. Soon after our arrival some of our men found an advertisement of some used church benches. While these did not fit into our narrow hall, they being curved and fifteen feet long, it was decided to purchase them at five dollars a bench. We did, however, have to take all of the fifteen or allow them to go to another buyer. They were taken apart, hauled over and stored in the basement.

Tuesday and Thursday evenings a number of men would come to work these benches over into fourteen seven-foot lengths. It required hard persevering, and faithful labor, plus skill to transform them into church pews which would fit into our little sanctuary. But it was done with much evident appreciation for the cause of the Lord. This was something of fellowship-craft work on part of both the men and the women, who shared in this task, by finishing and cleaning the cushions which are a part of these church benches. We are glad that the work is done, and we thank the Lord for furnishing His sanctuary for us with such attractive and comfortable seats. Now we can use the chairs for the Sunday school classes for the young people in the third story of the house.

The second floor of the Mission is occupied by a veteran and his family who are to vacate as soon as they can find other living quarters. These, however, are very scarce in Toronto. That our people, here in the city, agreed to find and rent an apartment for us, if we would consent to come, is another evidence of the Lord's provision for His own. In less than a month the committee from the Mission was offered the apartment into which we moved upon our arrival. As soon as this was found, the secretary of the Committee notified us, and we hurried to Canada as reported earlier.

Will you, dear reader, pray with us that the Lord may continue to do miracles for our mission task here, to build us into a holy temple, a habitation of God in the Spirit.

Russia on Reading

Twenty years ago, when Communism started in Russia, only 5 per cent of her people could read. Today it is 95 per cent. Russia realized how important it was to get information about the new form of Government to her people. The quickest way to do this was to teach them to read. She would send airplanes up and have them drop leaflets of Communism information so that more of the field might be covered. Printing increased mightily when Communism began, because not everyone could be reached by teachers and speakers. Time was important; not a year must be lost that did not see many people persuaded toward the new Government.

"Reading maketh a full man."

That is what Russia also believed; so with the greatest possible dissemination of literature her principles have taken hold in the hearts of the people, and her end has been attained.

If a Godless Government has seen the necessity of spreading information in this way, how much more should we, the children of God, see it, in these fast-moving times, when it is so important to inform our people of our ever-increasing work that is to be done through our Conference Publications. On the one hand, we face the problem of financing the ever-increasing demand for better printed materials, better Sunday school lesson helps, greater editorial costs, and so forth. On the other hand, we face greater opportunities too. Large groups of people are calling on us and calling more insistently than ever before for better church publications. If Russia can do what she did through the printed word what is our responsibility as a Conference to our young people?

The answer as we see it is this: We must pump considerable financial support into the publications program for a greater variety of printed materials and a more inclusive circulation. It will never be done on the basis of individual subscriptions, but it can be done by Conference-wide subsidization of an over-all publication program.

Y.P.U. OFFICERS
Elmer Ediger
President
Akron, Pa.

Vice President
Verney Unruh

Secretary-Treasurer
Myrtle Wasser
Bluffton, Ohio

Mennonite Youth

"A United Mennonite Youth in Christ"

Sponsored by
the Young People's
Union of the
General Conference

Editor
Esko Loewen
6201 South Carpenter
Chicago 21, Ill.

Universal Military Training

